MINUTES of the Evidence taken at the Trial of WARREN HASTINGS Esquire, late Governor General of Bengal, at the Bar of the House of Lords in Westminster Hall, upon an Impeachment against him for High Crimes and Misdemeanors, by the Knights, Citizens, and Burgesses, in Parliament assembled, in the Name of themselves, and of all the Commons of Great Britain.

THE Managers for the Commons having finished their Opening of the First Article, acquainted the House, that, previous to their entering into Proof of the Facts alledged in the said First Article, they would give Evidence of the general Matter stated in the Preamble; after which, they would proceed to call Evidence in support of the several Allegations of the said First Article, as nearly in the Order of the Facts therein stated, as the Nature of the Circumstances would admit; beginning first with general Evidence of the Situation of the Rajah Bulwant Sing, and of the Rajah Cheyt Sing, at the several Times in the said First Article respectively mentioned:

And thereupon they called

THOMAS MORTON, who being sworn, was examined as follows:

Q. What Situation are you in under the East India Company?

A. I am their Secretary.

Q. What Papers are those which you have in your Hands?

A. The Charter of the East India Company under the Great Seal of England, dated 5th September 1698. Anno 10 Gul. III.

The Managers for the Commons desired, that that Part of the Charter might be read which grants to the East India Company a Power to appoint their own Officers and Governors in the East Indies.

Accordingly, the Charter being delivered in at the Table, the following Extract was read by the Clerk.

“ And Wee doe, of Our most especiall Grace, certain Knowledge, and meere Motion, for Us, <sup>Skin 21.</sup> Our Heires and Successors, give and grant unto the said English Company trading to the East Indies, that the said Company for the Time being shall and may have the Ordering, Rule, and Government of all such Forts, Factories, and Plantations, as shall be att any Time hereafter settled by or under the said English Company, within the East Indies and Parts before mentioned; and shall and may name and appoint Governours and Officers from Time to Time in and for the said Forts, Factories, and Plantations; and them to remove and displace att their Will and Pleasure. And that such Governours and Officers shall and may, according to the Directions of the same Company, raise, train, and muster, such Military Forces as shall or may be necessary for the Defence of the said Forts, Places, and Plantations respectively, (the Sovereigne Right, Power, and Dominion over all the said Forts, Places, and Plantations, to Us, Our Heires, and Successors, being always reserved).”

Then the Witness was directed to produce the Minutes of the Committee of Correspondence of the East India Company of the 9th April 1771.

The Witness produced a Book, marked with the Letter A, and intituled, “ Minute Book 1770;” which being delivered in, an Extract from a Minute of the Court of Directors, held on Tuesday the 9th April 1771, in Page 498 of the said Book, was read by the Clerk, and is as follows *:

* To avoid Repetition, it may be proper to observe in this Place, that where an Extract only is set forth from a Minute, Consultation, Letter, or other Document produced, it is to be understood as including every Thing in such Minute, Consultation, Letter, or other Document, relative to the Subject Matter of the said Extract.

" Minutes of the Committee of Correspondence, dated the 8th instant and this Day, being read,

" Resolved by the Ballot, That Warren Hastings Esquire, Second of Council at Fort Saint George, be appointed to the same Station in the Council at Fort William, and to succeed to the Government in case of the Death or Absence of John Cartier Esquire."

Then the Witness was asked;

Q. Whether that is, or is not, the usual Mode by which the East India Company appoint their Servants abroad without any other Instrument?

A. Yes.

Q. (from a Lord.) Without any other Instrument?

A. An Instrument follows.

Q. Have you got that Instrument here?

A. The usual Instrument is a Commission under the Company's Seal, which is transmitted to the President and Council at Bengal in the Original.

Q. Have you a Copy of it?

A. There was no Instrument accompanying this Appointment. There is a Paragraph appointing Mr. Hastings to the Government of Bengal in a General Letter of the 10th April 1771.

The Managers for the Commons desired, That the 162d Paragraph of the Letter mentioned by the Witness, of the 10th April 1771, which contains the original Appointment of Warren Hastings Esquire, to be Second of Council at Fort William, and to succeed Mr. Cartier as President and Governor of Bengal, might be read.

The Counsel for the Defendant observed, That in point of Regularity, the Receipt of this Letter in Bengal ought to be first proved.

The Managers for the Commons being heard in answer to this Observation, the Paragraph was ordered to be read de bene esse, and not to be considered as Evidence, unless it should appear by some subsequent Letter from Bengal that the Letter of the 10th April 1771, was received there.

Then the Witness produced a Book marked with the Letter B, and intituled, " Bengal Dispatches 23 March 1770, to 10 April 1771;" and the same being delivered in, the 162d Paragraph of a General Letter from the Court of Directors to the President and Council at Fort William in Bengal, dated the 10th of April 1771, beginning in Page 721 of the said Book, was read by the Clerk, and is as follows:

Paragraph 162. The Managers for the Commons being asked, if they were apprised whether there was or was not a Commission upon this Occasion, answered, They were apprised that there was no Commission upon this Occasion, nor even any upon the Appointment of Mr. Hastings to the Presidency of Fort William.

Then the Witness produced a Book, marked (C), intituled, " Bengal Dispatches, from the 25th April 1771, to 10th December 1773;" and the same being delivered in, the 4th Paragraph of an additional General Letter from the Court of Directors to the President and Council at Fort William in Bengal, dated 25th April 1771, from Page 3 in the said Book, was read by the Clerk, and is as follows:

Rumbold and Dacres into our Service, it becomes necessary to make a new Arrangement of our Council; We therefore direct that, upon the Receipt hereof, it be composed of the following Gentlemen, notwithstanding our Orders of the 23d March 1770, for limiting the Number of Council to Nine Members, exclusive of the Commander in Chief.

" John Cartier Esquire, President and Governor.

Then the Witness was directed to withdraw.

To prove that, in consequence of the Extracts read from the above-mentioned Letters, Mr. Hastings took his Seat at the Board of Council at Fort William, and acted in virtue thereof, the Managers for the Commons desired Mr. Robert Hudson might be called.

The Managers for the Commons being asked, if it would not be proper that Mr. Cartier's Commission should be read, in order to shew what the Nature and Description of the Authority of the President of the Council at Fort William was; answered, That, if it was thought material, they would produce it To-morrow.

Then Mr. ROBERT HUDSON was called in; and, being sworn, was examined as follows:

Q. What Book do you hold in your Hand?

A. The Bengal Consultations in the Year 1772, as sent to the Court of Directors.

Q. Is that the Correspondence transmitted to the Court of Directors from Bengal?

A. Yes.

The Managers for the Commons desired the Consultation of the 20th February 1772 might be read.

The Witness produced a Book, marked with the Letter D, intituled, "Fort William Consultations, Public Department, from 3d January to 7th April 1772," and indorsed Vol. I.

Then the Witness was asked,

Q. Is the Consultation you are going to read signed?

A. It is signed, Warren Hastings, Richard Barwell, William Aldersey, Henry Goodwin.
Thomas Lane,

The Managers for the Commons demanded of the Counsel for the Defendant, Whether they would put them upon proving the Defendant's Hand Writing?

To which the Counsel answered, That, in Point of Regularity, the Managers for the Commons ought to prove the Defendant's Hand Writing; but that they would not put them to it.

Then the following Extract was read by the Clerk from the said Book.

" Fort William, 20th Feb. 1772.

III, Cap. 63, Sect. 7, 8, 9, 10, might be read. The same was accordingly read at the Table by the Clerk, as follows :

To prove that certain Provisions in the Stat. 13 Geo. III, c. 63, which were made for a limited Time only, were continued, revived, and further continued, by several subsequent Acts, the Managers for the Commons desired the Stat. 19 Geo. III, c. 61, sect. 5, might be read. The same was read at the Table by the Clerk, as follows :

“ An Act for continuing in the Possession of the United Company of Merchants of England trading to the East Indies, for a limited Time, and under certain Conditions, the Territorial Acquisitions and Revenues lately obtained in the East Indies ; and for continuing, for a limited Time, so much of an Act made in the Thirteenth Year of the Reign of his present Majesty, intituled, ‘ An Act for establishing certain Regulations for the better Management of the Affairs of the East India Company, as well in India as in Europe,’ as will expire in the Course of the present Year.

Sect. 5. “ And whereas by another Act, passed in the same Session of Parliament, intituled, ‘ An Act for establishing certain Regulations for the better Management of the Affairs of the East India Company, as well in India as in Europe,’ it was, among other Things, enacted, That for the Government of the Presidency of Fort William, in Bengal, there should be appointed a Governor General and Four Counsellors ; and that the whole Civil and Military Government of the said Presidency, and also the Ordering, Management, and Government of all the Territorial Acquisitions and Revenues in the Kingdoms of Bengal, Bahar, and Orissa, should, during such Time as the Territorial Acquisitions and Revenues should remain in the Possession of the said United Company, be vested in the said Governor General and Council of the said Presidency of Fort William in Bengal ; and also that the Governor General and Four First Counsellors, appointed by the said Act, should each of them hold and continue in his and their respective Offices for and during the Term of Five Years, from the Time of their Arrival at Fort William in Bengal, and taking upon them the Government of the said Presidency, and should not be removeable in the mean Time, except by his Majesty, his Heirs and Successors, upon Representation made by the Court of Directors for the said United Company for the Time being : And whereas it may be expedient that the said Regulations should be extended to the Person and Persons who, at the Time of passing this Act, shall have and enjoy the respective Offices of Governor General and Counsellors of the said Presidency ; be it therefore enacted by the Authority aforesaid, That the Person and Persons who, at the Time of the passing of this Act, shall have and enjoy the Office and Offices of Governor General and Counsellors of the said Presidency, shall hold and continue in his and their respective Offices, for and during the Continuance of this Act, and shall not be removeable in the mean Time, except by his Majesty, his Heirs and Successors, upon Representation made by the Court of Directors for the said United Company for the Time being ; and shall have and enjoy all and singular the Powers and Authorities vested by the said Act in the First Governor General, and Four First Counsellors, by the said Act appointed, and shall be subject to the said Restrictions and Limitations as by the said Act the First Governor General, and First Four Counsellors, were made subject ; and that in case of the Avoidance of the Offices of such Governor General, or any of the said Counsellors, such Office shall be respectively supplied in the same Manner as the same Office would by the said Act have been supplied during the Remainder of the Term of Five Years, which was computed from the Time that the First Governor General, and Four First Counsellors, took upon them the Government of the said Presidency.”

Also the Stat. 20 Geo. III. Cap. 56. Sect. 5. And the same was read as follows :

“ An Act for continuing in the Possession of the United Company of Merchants of England trading to the East Indies, for a further Time, and under certain Conditions, the Territorial Acquisitions and Revenues lately obtained in the East Indies ; and for reviving, and continuing for a further Time, so much of an Act made in the Thirteenth Year of the Reign of his present Majesty, (intituled, ‘ An Act for establishing certain Regulations for the better Management of the Affairs of the East India Company, as well in India as in Europe),’ as hath expired in the Course of the present Year ; and for indemnifying the said Company for any Money they have paid, or may pay, in or about the building of Three Ships of the Line for the Service of the Publick.

Sect. 5. “ And whereas, by another Act passed in the same Session of Parliament, (intituled, ‘ An Act for establishing certain Regulations, for the better Management of the Affairs of the East India Company, as well in India as in Europe),’ it was, among other Things, enacted, That, for the Government of the Presidency of Fort William in Bengal, there should be appointed a Governor General and Four Counsellors, and that the whole Civil and Military Government of the said Presidency, and also the Ordering, Management, and Government of all the Territorial Acquisitions and Revenues in the Kingdoms of Bengal, Bahar, and Orissa, should, during such Time as the Territorial Acquisitions and Revenues should remain in the Possession of the said United Company, be vested in the said Governor General and Council of the said Presidency of Fort William in Bengal ;

gal; and also that the Governor General and Four first Counsellors appointed by the said Act should each of them hold and continue in his and their respective Offices for and during the Term of Five Years, from the Time of their Arrival at Fort William in Bengal, and taking upon them the Government of the said Presidency, and should not be removeable in the mean Time, except by his Majesty, his Heirs and Successors, upon Representation made by the Court of Directors for the said United Company for the Time being: And whereas it may be expedient that the said Regulation should be revived, and extended to the Person and Persons who, at the Time of passing this Act, should have and enjoy the respective Offices of Governor General and Counsellors of the said Presidency; be it therefore enacted by the Authority aforesaid, That the Person and Persons who, at the Time of the passing of this Act, shall have and enjoy the Office and Offices of Governor General and Counsellors of the said Presidency, shall hold and continue in his and their respective Offices, for and during the Continuance of this Act, and shall not be removeable in the mean Time, except by his Majesty, his Heirs and Successors, upon Representation made by the Court of Directors for the said United Company for the Time being, and shall have and enjoy all and singular the Powers and Authorities vested by the said Act in the First Governor General and Four First Counsellors by the said Act appointed, and shall be subject to the said Restrictions and Limitations, as by the said Act the First Governor General and First Four Counsellors were made subject; and that in case of the Avoidance of the Offices of such Governor General, or any of the said Counsellors, such Office shall be respectively supplied in the same Manner as the same Office would by the said Act have been supplied during the Remainder of the Term of Five Years, which was computed from the Time that the First Governor General and Four First Counsellors took upon them the Government of the said Presidency."

Also the Stat. 21 Geo. III. Cap. 65. Sect. 35. And the same was read as follows :

" An Act for the establishing an Agreement with the United Company of Merchants of England trading to the East Indies, for the Payment of the Sum of Four hundred thousand Pounds, for the Use of the Publick, in full Discharge and Satisfaction of all Claims and Demands of the Publick, from the Time the Bond Debt of the said Company was reduced to One million five hundred thousand Pounds, until the First Day of March One thousand Seven hundred and Eighty-one, in respect of the Territorial Acquisitions and Revenues lately obtained in the East Indies; and also for securing to the Publick, in respect thereof, for a Term therein mentioned, a certain Part or Proportion of the clear Revenues and Profits of the said Company; and for granting to the said Company, for a further Term, the sole and exclusive Trade to and from the East Indies, and Limits therein mentioned; and for establishing certain Regulations for the better Management of the Affairs of the said Company, as well in India as in Europe, and the recruiting the Military Forces of the said Company.

Sect. 35. " And whereas, by another Act passed in the Thirteenth Year of his present Majesty, intituled, An Act for establishing certain Regulations for the better Management of the Affairs of the East India Company, as well in India as in Europe, it was among other Things enacted, That for the Government of the Presidency of Fort William in Bengal there should be appointed a Governor General and Four Councillors, and that the whole Civil and Military Government of the said Presidency, and also the Ordering, Management, and Government of all the Territorial Acquisitions and Revenues in the Kingdom of Bengal, Bahar, and Orissa, should, during such Time as the Territorial Acquisitions and Revenues should remain in the Possession of the said United Company, be vested in the said Governor General and Council of the said Presidency of Fort William in Bengal; and also that the Governor General and Four First Councillors appointed by the said Act should each of them hold and continue in his and their respective Offices for and during the Term of Five Years, from the Time of their Arrival at Fort William in Bengal, and taking upon them the Government of the said Presidency, and should not be removeable in the mean Time, except by his Majesty, his Heirs and Successors, upon Representation made by the Court of Directors for the said United Company for the Time being; and in case of the Avoidance of the Office of such Governor General by Death, Resignation, or Removal, his Place should, during the Remainder of the Term aforesaid, as often as the Case should happen, be supplied by the Person of the Council who should stand next in Rank to such Governor General; and in case of the Death, Removal, Resignation, or Promotion of any of the said Council, the Directors of the said United Company were thereby impowered, for and during the Remainder of the said Term of Five Years, to nominate and appoint, by and with the Consent of his Majesty, his Heirs and Successors, to be signified as therein is mentioned, a Person to succeed to the Office so become vacant in the said Council; and until such Appointment should be made, all the Powers and Authorities vested in the Governor General and Council, should rest and continue in, and be exercised and executed by the Governor General and Council remaining and surviving: And whereas it may be expedient that certain Parts of the said recited Act which are expired should be revived and continued, subject to such Variations as herein-after are mentioned; be it therefore enacted by the Authority aforesaid, That the Person and Persons who at the Time of the passing of this Act shall have and enjoy the Office and Offices of Governor General and Councillors of the said Presidency, shall hold and continue in his and their respective Offices for and during the Continuance of this Act, and shall not be removeable in the mean Time, except by his Majesty, his Heirs and Successors, upon Representation made by the Court of Directors for the said United Company for the Time being; and shall have and enjoy all and singular the Powers and Authorities vested by the said Act in the First Governor General and Four First Councillors by the said Act appointed, and shall be subject to the same Restrictions and Limitations as by the said Act the First Governor General and First Four Councillors were made subject; and that in case of the Avoidance of the Offices of such Governor General, or any of the said Councillors, such Office shall be respectively supplied in the same Manner as the same Office would by the said Act have been supplied during the Remainder of the Term of Five Years, which was computed from the Time that the First Governor General and Four First Councillors took upon them the Government of the said Presidency."

The Managers for the Commons also referred to the Stat. 24 Geo. III. c. 25. and Stat. 26 Geo. III. c. 16. but did not desire the same to be read.

Then the Managers for the Commons stated, that having, for the Sake of Regularity, gone through the several Matters contained in the Preamble of the Charge, although the same are admitted by the Defendant in his Answer, they would next proceed to prove the several Facts alledged in the First Article.

It was suggested to them by the House, whether it would not be better, for the Sake of Clearness, that they should first produce the Instrument by which the President of Fort William was appointed, in order to shew what his Authority as President was, and then apply the Stat. 13 Geo. III. c. 63. to it, that Statute making express * Vide Sect. 7. Reference to such his Authority as President *.

The Managers for the Commons said, they meant to have proceeded in that Manner, but that the Book which contained the Instrument was left by Mistake at the India House, and that they would produce it the first Thing To-morrow Morning.

To prove the Situation of Bulwant Sing in the Year 1764, and that the Object of the then President and Council was to make a Treaty, by which Bulwant Sing was to be made independent, Mr. ROBERT HUDSON was again called; and produced a Book marked No. 37, and intituled, "BENGAL SELECT CONSULT. 8 Dec. 1763, to 31 Dec. 1764;" and the same being delivered in, the following Extract was read by the Clerk, beginning at Page 111.

Major Carnac's Letter,
J. L. R. No. 33.

"Received a Letter from Major Carnac, dated 18th instant, enclosing one he has received from Shitabroy, to which he refers us for Information of Shuja Dowla's Intention against us, and expressing his Concern to find that by the Advices from Calcutta of the 8th, the Reinforcement under the Command of Captain Pemble had not yet begun their March, that their being so late renders it next to impossible for them to join him in Time, and that he must therefore put every Thing to Risk with the Force he has at present, however little to be depended on, after what has passed; further advising us, that he would fain cross the Carumnassa, and give the Enemy a Meeting as far as possible from the Boundary; but that he fears the Distress they are in for Provisions, being only supplied from Day to Day, will not permit his doing so, and that he shall be obliged to keep close by the Ganges to secure a Conveyance by Water, having had Intimation that the Enemy's Design was to hover at a Distance around them, and endeavour to cut off their Supplies—That a Treaty of Alliance has been some Time in Agitation between the Nabob and Bulwant Sing the Rajah of Benares. That the Nabob is now very anxious † for its being brought to a Conclusion, and proposed to him that Evening setting his Seal thereto on the Part of the English, without which the Rajah will not enter into any Engagement. That he shall be very unwilling to take a Step of such a Nature, without first knowing whether it be agreeable to us; but that the present Exigency will not admit the Delay of waiting our Answers.

“ A Translation of Shitabroy's Letter to the Major being here read, “ Ordered it be entered in the Books of Country Correspondence.

Translation of Shitabroy's Letter enclosed, read
and entered.

“ Having duly considered this Letter of Major Carnac's, we are unanimously of Opinion, that as Shuja Dowla has now openly espoused the Cause of Cossim Aly Cawn, and encourages his Design of an Invasion into Bengal, we can entertain no further Thoughts of entering into a Treaty with him. On the contrary, we think it our Duty to form against him all the Enemies we possibly can; that the proposed Alliance with Bulwant Sing will therefore be a very proper Measure, and prove as well now, as in all Time to come, a strong Barrier and Defence to the Bengal Provinces.

The Major's Letter considered, with the Opinion of the Board on the Advices contained therein.

“ Agreed therefore, that we write to Major Carnac, advising him that we shall approve entirely of his entering into the intended Treaty in Concert with the Nabob, and of his engaging to protect and maintain Bulwant Sing independent, both now and hereafter.”

And answered,

“ that the Rajah Bulwant Sing was of signal Service to the Affairs and Interests of Great Britain *;”

The Witness produced a Book marked with the Figure 2, and intituled, “ Bengal Dispatches 17th May 1766, to 16th March 1768.”—Read the following Extracts (p. 65 of the same Book) from “ The Company's Letter to the President and Select Committee at Fort William in Bengal,” dated London, 17th May 1766.

Par. 6. “ From the Sentiments we expressed in every one of our late Letters, you will easily judge the great Pleasure it gave us to see the War with Souja Dowla ended so conformable to our Wishes. We always esteemed the Power of that Soubah the strongest Barrier we could have against the Invasions of the Northern Powers and of the Morattas, which have so long laid desolate the Northern Provinces; and had the impolitical, injudicious Views of our late Governor and Council been followed, and the King or Nudjief Cawn been left in Possession of Souja Dowla's Country, we are convinced they would not have had Weight and Abilities to have supported themselves; and we must either have had their Wars to maintain at that immense Distance, or they would have been drove back on us, and brought the War down to our own Frontiers, or even into our own Provinces. Nothing could so effectually restore that Country to its former State, as putting its natural Prince in the full Possession of his Dominions; and we are equally pleased to see the Care that has been taken of all those who shewed their Attachment to us in the Course of the War; Bulwant Sing's joining us at the Time he did was of signal Service, and the Stipulation in his Favour was what he was justly entitled to.

Per Mercury
and overland.

Par. 7. “ Equally politick and prudent are the Concessions in favour of the King, whose Interest was best considered by the restoring Souja Dowla to his Country, the only Soubah in Indostan who is ever likely to support him in his Pretensions to the Empire. The Revenue agreed to be paid him must be, in the Eyes of the Indian Powers, a Mark of our Respect to the Royal Blood, and an Acknowledgement of his Right. We approve also the being Guarantee for Nudjief Cawn; and finally we hope the Moderation and the Attention paid to all those who have espoused our Interest in this War, will restore our Reputation in Indostan, and that the Indian Powers will be convinced no Breach of Treaty will ever have our Sanction.”

Then the Witness produced a Treaty between the Nabob Shujah ul Dowlah, the Nabob Nudjum ul Dowlah, and the English Company, executed at Illahabad the 16th of August 1765; and the same being delivered in, was read by the Clerk, and is as follows:

Sha L. S. Aalum.

[On this Side is the Persian].

"Whereas the Right Honourable Robert Lord Clive, Baron Clive of Plassey, Knight Companion of the most Honourable Order of the Bath, Major General and Commander in Chief of the Forces, President of the Council, and Governor of Fort William, and of all the Settlements belonging to the United Company of Merchants of England trading to the East Indies, in the Provinces of Bengal, Bahar, and Orissa, and John Carnac Esquire, Brigadier General, Colonel in the Service of the said Company, and Commanding Officer of their Forces upon the Bengal Establishment, are invested with full and ample Powers, on the Behalf of his Excellency the Nabob Nudjum ul Dowla, Subadar of Bengal, Bahar, and Orissa, and likewise on the Behalf of the United Company of Merchants of England trading to the East Indies, to negotiate, settle, and finally to conclude a firm and lasting Peace with his Highness the Nabob Shuja ul Dowla, Vizier of the Empire: Be it known to all those to whom it may or shall in any Manner belong, that the abovenamed Plenipotentiaries have agreed upon the following Articles with his Highness.

I.

A perpetual and universal Peace, sincere Friendship, and firm Union, shall be established between his Highness Shuja ul Dowla and his Heirs on the One Part, and his Excellency Nudjum ul Dowla, and the English East India Company, on the other; so that the said contracting Powers shall give the greatest Attention to maintain between themselves, their Dominions, and their Subjects, this reciprocal Friendship, without permitting on either Side any Kind of Hostilities to be committed from henceforth for any Cause, or under any Pretence whatsoever; and every Thing shall be carefully avoided which might hereafter prejudice the Union now happily established.

II.

In case the Dominions of his Highness Shujah ul Dowla shall at any Time hereafter be attacked, his Excellency Nudjum ul Dowla and the English Company shall assist him with a Part or the Whole of their Forces, according to the Exigency of his Affairs, and so far as may be consistent with their own Security: And if the Dominions of his Excellency Nudjum ul Dowla, or the English Company, should be attacked, his Highness shall in like Manner assist them with a Part or the Whole of his Forces: In the Case of the English Company's Forces being employed in his Highness's Service, the extraordinary Expence of the same is to be defrayed by him.

III.

His Highness solemnly engages never to entertain or receive Cossim Aly Cawn, the late Subadar of Bengal, &c. Sumbroo, the Assassin of the English, nor any of the European Deserters, within his Dominions, nor to give the least least Countenance, Support, or Protection to them: He likewise solemnly engages to deliver up to the English whatever Europeans may in future desert from them into his Country.

IV.

The King Shah Aalum shall remain in full Possession of Cora, and such Part of the Province of Illahabad as he now possesses, which are ceded to his Majesty, as a royal Demesne, for the Support of his Dignity and Expences.

V.

[ His Highness Shujah ul Dowla engages in the most solemn Manner, to continue Bulwund Sing in the Zemindarries of Benares, Gazypore, and all those Districts he possessed at the Time he came over to the late Nabob Jaffier Aly Cawn and the English, on Condition of his paying the same Revenue as heretofore.]

VI.

In consideration of the great Expence incurred by the English Company carrying on the late War, his Highness agrees to pay them Fifty Lacks of Rupees, in the following Manner; viz. Twelve Lacks in Money, and a Deposit of Jewels to the Amount of Eight Lacks, upon the signing of this Treaty; Five Lacks One Month after; and the remaining Twenty-five Lacks by monthly Payments; so as that the Whole may be discharged in Thirteen Months from the Date hereof.

VII.

It being firmly resolved to restore to his Highness the Country of Benares, and the other Districts now rented by Bulwund Sing, notwithstanding the Grant of the same from the King to the English Company, it is therefore agreed, that they shall be ceded to his Highness in the Manner following, viz. They shall remain in the Hands of the English Company, with their Revenues, till the Expiration of the Agreement between Bulwund Sing and the Company, being on the 27th of November next; after which his Highness shall enter into Possession, the Fort of Chunar excepted, which is not to be evacuated until the Sixth Article of this Treaty be fully complied with.

VIII.

His Highness shall allow the English Company to carry on a Trade, Duty-free, throughout the Whole of his Dominions.

IX.

All the Relations and Subjects of his Highness, who in any Manner assisted the English during the Course of the late War, shall be forgiven, and no ways molested for the same.

X.

As soon as this Treaty is executed, the English Forces shall be withdrawn from the Dominions

It may be proper to observe here, that where any Paragraph or Extract in a Consultation, Minute, Letter, or other Document produced, is marked with this Bracket [ , and a Hand pointing to it, it is to denote that such Paragraph or Extract was the particular and only Matter referred to by the Managers for the House of Commons in such Consultation, Minute, Letter, or other Document: And where this Bracket ] appears either in the Middle or End of a Paragraph or Extract, it is to denote that the Matter so particularly referred to by the Managers for the Commons leaves off there.

nions of his Highness, excepting such as may be necessary for the Garrison of Chunar, or for the Defence and Protection of the King, in the City of Illahabad, if his Majesty should require a Force for that Purpose.

XI.

His Highness the Nabob Shujah ul Dowla, his Excellency the Nabob Nudjum ul Dowlah, and the English Company, promise to observe sincerely and strictly all the Articles contained and settled in the present Treaty, and they will not suffer the same to be infringed, directly or indirectly, by their respective Subjects; and the said contracting Powers generally and reciprocally guarantee to each other all the Stipulations of the present Treaty.

The Counsel for the Defendant observed, that in the Fifth Article of the Treaty just read, the Word "Revenue" was used; and desired to draw the Attention of the House to the Word "Malguzary," which would afterwards occur in the Sunnuds granted to the Rajah Bulwant Sing, and which was there used as descriptive of the particular Sort of Revenue paid by the said Rajah to Shujah ul Dowlah. That the Original was in the Persian on one Side of the Instrument, and the Translation on the other.

The Managers for the Commons stated, that the Fifth Article which had been read from the English, was not read as a Translation. That the Treaty was written both in English and in Persian; that both Parts were Originals, both executed at the same Time, and they chose to read the English Original.

Then Mr. JOHN BENSON was called in, and being sworn, was desired to produce the original Petition of Warren Hastings Esquire, presented to the House of Commons on the 26th April 1786; and the same being delivered in, was read by the Clerk, as follows.

" And then he was again directed to withdraw."

Then the Managers for the Commons desired that the Introduction, and so much of the Minutes delivered by Warren Hastings Esquire, to the House of Commons on the 2d May 1786, might be read from the said Journal.

The same was objected to by the Counsel for the Defendant, stating, that, in Point of Form, the original Minutes delivered by the said Warren Hastings, and signed by him, and not the said Journal, which is only a Copy of the same, might be produced.

The Managers for the Commons answered, That the Minutes being a Proceeding in their House, and a Declaration of the said Warren Hastings in the same, they considered their Journal as the best Evidence thereof.

The Counsel for the Defendant replied, That they conceived the Journals were not in this Case the best Evidence that the Nature of the Thing admitted of ; it being in Proof from the Journal itself, that the original Minutes were delivered in by the Defendant in his own Hand Writing, and that it never was held in a Criminal Case that a Party shall be bound by Entries in the Journals of the House of Commons.

To which the Managers for the Commons said, That thinking it their Duty to spend as little Time as possible, they had no Objection to produce the original Paper.

Whereupon Mr. BENSON was again called in ; and was asked,

Q. What Paper is that you have in your Hand ?

A. The original Minutes delivered by Mr. Hastings at the Bar of the House of Commons in the Year 1786.

The Managers for the Commons desired the Paper might be delivered in, and that so much of it as relates to the Charge of Benares might be read.

Q. (from the Counsel.) Who has had the Custody of those Papers since the Time you saw them put in and delivered at the Bar of the House of Commons ?

A. They have been officially in my Custody as Clerk of the Papers, except when they went to the Press.

Q. How long were they out of your Custody ?

A. Four or Five Days.

Q. (from a Lord.) Have you any Doubt of their being the same ?

A. Not in the least.

Q. (from

Q. (from the Counsel.) I understood the Witness to say, he saw them delivered in. He was asked, Whether he saw them delivered in, and I understood him to say so.—He now says, he did not see them delivered in?

A. I did not, I believe.

Q. (from a Lord.) Are they signed?

A. No, they are not.

Q. (from the Managers.) The Managers for the Commons wish the Witness to be asked, Whether Mr. Hastings himself was ever in the Witness's Office?

A. He was.

Q. Did he look at those Minutes in your Office?

A. He did at Part of them, I believe.

Q. Did he say any Thing upon the Subject of them?

A. He, or some other Person for him at the Time, gave Directions, before they went to Press, in what Manner the Printer should print them.

Q. Was that Person, who gave the Directions, present with him at the Time?

A. Yes.

Q. Then the Managers for the Commons wish to know, Who that Person was that came with him?

A. I don't exactly recollect who he was; I believe there might be more than One Person with him.

Q. (from a Lord.) They were in his Presence when he gave that Direction?

A. Yes.

The Managers for the Commons said they would leave it there; and desired, First, that the Introduction to the said Minutes, and then as much of the Matter as relates to the Charge of Benares, might be read.

The same were read by the Clerk, as follows:

“ Introductory Defence.

“ Before I enter upon my General Defence, I humbly solicit the Indulgence of this Honourable House, to be permitted to preface it with a few necessary Observations relative to the Circumstances which have progressively conspired to make me an Object of the present Enquiry. In the First Place, I beg Leave to remark, that I am here by no Obtrusion of my own. I have too humble a Sense of my own Consequence, to consider either my Reputation, Honour, Fortune, or Life, or all these Interests collectively, as having any Claim to the smallest Portion of the valuable Time of this House, on any Ground, however just in itself, which has these only for its Object. I have been brought before the Notice of this Honourable House by the Acts of others, independent of my Will or Desire; and all the Participation which I have in it, is in the Request made by a Member of this House on my Behalf, and at my Suggestion, that since it was determined that my Conduct was to be arraigned before this Honourable House, my Arraignment might be speedy, and that I might have the Time and Means afforded me to provide the Materials for my Defence: For after having been, during a Course of Five Years, the continued Subject of the same Criminations, and from the same Quarter, with the Name of the Almighty solemnly invoked to attest the Pledge given to this House that the most undoubted Proofs should be produced to authenticate them—I allude, Mr. Speaker, to no Declarations made in this House, but to Publications out of it—I may surely be allowed, even with a Consciousness of the purest Integrity, to wish for a speedy Accomplishment of a Menace thus made, and for such professed Purposes; and that it might not hang the Denunciations of Parliamentary Vengeance over my Head for ever.

“ Of the First Effects of this Injury I have a Right to complain; for in these the Injury affected the Public alone, through their Interests committed to my Charge. During a long and desperate Struggle, with an Accumulation of Difficulties, and a Host of natural Enemies combined against our National Possessions in India, when I required all the Support and Confidence of my Superiors in the Parent State to give Effect to my Exertions, all my Actions were reprobated at Home, and my Name linked to the foulest Invective, even in Places of the highest Authority; and every Dispatch from England brought Orders opposing my Measures in their Course, and the Sentences of my Disgrace and Dismission. Yet these caused no Alteration in my Conduct, or Relaxation of my Zeal for a Service in which my Labours had met so ill a Requital, except from my respectable Constituents, in whose Applause alone I receive a Consolation under all my Discouragements. I steadily pursued that Line which my Sense of Duty had prescribed; and sometimes availing myself of the transitory Moments of Power which the Hand of God afforded me, at others using the Resistance which the Influence of Possession or Opinion enabled me to make, or the Caution of Opposition permitted; or endeavouring to temper its Violence by qualified Submission, where the Means of Resistance failed me; never possessing the Allowance of Authority, but always charged with Responsibility; I persisted in the Formation and Prosecution of every Measure, which the Emergency of the Service rendered necessary in my Judgment, and had the conscious Triumph of seeing them all invariably terminate in their designed Objects: Nor did I resign my Charge, until I had fulfilled every Duty which required my Continuation in it; and I resigned it in a State of established Peace and Security, with all the Sources of its Abundance unimpaired, and even improved, notwithstanding the vast Drains which were made of its Treasures, and the multiplied Diversions of its Strength, in the Support of the dependant and remote Possessions of the Company, and in the Maintenance of their Wars, and of Wars in which the Company were involved by the Policy of Great Britain. I parted from the Scene of my public Life with the expressed Regrets of my Fellow Servants and Countrymen; which were followed by a like Declaration from all the Officers of the Army who had served during my Administration; and on my Return to my own Country, I was received by the Court of Directors, my immediate Masters, with their Thanks; and I gratefully remember the Chairman's emphatical Pause on the Epithet which was joined to them, their Unanimous Thanks, for my Services; with a Notification of those which had been some Time before bestowed on me by the Votes of the Proprietors, my honoured Employers, which were not the less acceptable for their Consistency with the uniform Tenor of their Sentiments and Conduct respecting me through the whole Course of my Administration. If this Honourable House is desirous of knowing in what Estimation I stood with the Princes and Rulers of India, and with the Subjects of our own Dominion, the Opinions of both may be easily obtained, by Enquiry of the Witnesses whom my Prosecutor has called to establish his Charges against me: And I will anticipate their Evidence—It will state, that my Political Conduct was invariably regulated by Truth, Justice, and good Faith; that all Persuasions of Men were impressed with a superstitious Belief that a fortunate Influence directed all my Actions to their destined Ends; and that my Departure was scarcely less regretted by the Inhabitants of the Provinces of my late Dependency, than it was by my own Countrymen. I believe this Honourable House is in Possession of One Testimony of the former, in the Letters which Mahdajee Sindia wrote to His Most Gracious Majesty, and to the Company. These were written many Months after my Departure, and contain much more of my Praise than his own Wants or Requisitions, unless the former is inserted as an Implication of his Desire that others may be instructed to govern themselves by my Example:—And who will question such an Authority?

“ With such Testimonies in my Favour, and with the internal Applause of my own Mind superseding all Evidence, what was my Surprise to find, on my Arrival in England, that my Character still continued to be assailed with the bitterest Calumnies and Invectives, and a formal Notice given before the Close of the last Session of Parliament to this Honourable House, that I should be arraigned as a Criminal before it on the Opening of the present?

“ I am since told that no such Intention existed; and that my own Intemperance, and the Zeal of my Friends, has forced my Accuser to verify his own Declaration.

“ I have no Right to credit such an Assertion, nor will I believe, new and unpractised as I am in the Modes of Life in which I am now become a Participator (and I have learnt by it to know more Things than were dreamt of in my Philosophy) that so daring an Imposition could be either practised upon this high and dignified Assembly, or permitted by it. Though I might have thought myself entitled by my Services to a different Reception, and my Body and Mind, worn down by the Labours of Thirty-five Years, to an Interval of Repose; and though I might erroneously imagine that no Power upon Earth had a Right to impeach me for the Exercise of a Trust which those for whom I held it had repeatedly declared, and in the most authentic Terms, that I had discharged to their Benefit and entire Satisfaction; yet I was glad to see some substantial Ground on which I could build my Hopes of a speedy Trial and definite Termination. There too my Expectation failed me. The Prosecution began, not as is the universal Practice of every System of Jurisprudence established either in this or any other civilized Nation, by the Introduction of specific Charges, and the Examination of Witnesses to prove them: For the latter indeed there was little Need, since my Accuser had long before asserted, that he was in the actual Possession of Proofs, and of such Proofs as were to fill the Breasts of this Honourable Assembly with Horror. Why therefore aggravate them with new Proofs? But Witnesses were ordered to attend, and Rheams of Official Documents demanded, produced, and printed; Additions were daily made to these during the Course of many Weeks; and the Eyes of the World were fixed upon me as a Man blackened by the Imputation of some unknown Guilt, which was the blacker for its Concealment. No Grounds were alledged for the Accumulation of such a Mass of Evidence against me; no specific Objects to which it was to be applied; nor was it known to this Honourable House, perhaps not even to that Member of the House who had required these Materials, what the Charges were to be, which he was to establish by them.

“ At length I heard that a Day was fixed for the Production of the Charges; but here too I experienced a fresh Cause of Disappointment and Mortification. Three Weeks were assigned for the Term of their Appearance; and when that Term expired, this Honourable House knows (for I may not perhaps affirm what I have heard) whether even then any of the Charges were presented, and whether, when they were presented, they were Optionally given.

“ In

" In all this long and painful Interval I myself, though the Object of the Enquiry, remained in total Inaction, a mere Spectator of the passing Scene; for I knew not, nor could I know, what Defence to prepare, not knowing what Charges were to require my Defence. And when they were produced, I was told that I could not be admitted to my Defence, because, by the Rules of the House, I could not know the Charges exhibited against me, nor that any had been exhibited; nor indeed were all exhibited at the same Time, but followed tardily, and the Three last (if indeed these are the last) not till last Wednesday. But though it might be informal in me to know the Charges, the Public are certainly in Possession of all but the Three last, for they have been printed and publicly sold, and Purchasers invited, by an Advertisement made in all the public Papers, which stated them " Articles of Charge of High Crimes and Misdemeanors" against me by Name, and the Name of my Accuser inserted by a Construction marking him not as the Presenter of the Charge, but as the Publisher of it. How much my Reputation must have suffered in the Opinion of all Mankind from this Publication; how severely my Feelings must have been wounded by so unfair and iniquitous an Appeal to their Judgment, while the Charge itself, loaded as it was with Crimination against me, yet waited its slow Term of Maturity for the Examination of it before its allotted Judges, I leave to the Decision of every Member of this Honourable House, who will bring the Question home to his own Judgment and his own Passions, by supposing that Case to be his own which I have described as mine.

" Nor is this the only Injury of the Kind that I have suffered. Every Daily Paper has teemed with Reflections upon me; and Pamphlets, filled with the most scandalous and libellous Abuse, have been written on various Subjects of the Charge, to influence the Prejudices of the Public against me; and it has been boasted that they have produced the Effect.

" Pressed by the Load of Slander thus heaped upon me, I resolved to try the only Resource which afforded me a Chance of Redress; and in Opposition to many and weighty Discouragements, I threw myself upon the Justice of this Honourable House, and petitioned to be allowed to make my Defence in Person, and I succeeded. Whether I owe this Indulgence to your Goodness, or your Justice, I accept it with equal Gratitude.

" Of the Discouragements to which I allude, I shall mention but Two Points; and these it is incumbent on me to mention, because they relate to Effects which the Justice of this Honourable House may, and I trust will, avert. The First is an Objection to my being at all Personally committed in my Defence, since in so wide a Field of Discussion it would be impossible not to admit some Things of which an Advantage might be taken to turn them into Evidence against myself: Whereas another might as well use as I could, or better, the same Materials of my Defence, without involving me in the same Consequences. But I am sure that this Honourable House will yield me its Protection against the Cavils of unwarranted Inference; and if the Truth can tend to convict me, I am content to be myself the Channel to convey it.

" The other Objection lay in my own Breast. It was not till Monday last that I formed the Resolution; and I knew not then whether I might not in Consequence be laid under the Obligation of preparing and completing in Five Days, and in Effect so it has proved, the Refutation of Charges which it has been the Labour of my Accuser, armed with all the Powers of Parliament, and at One Time greater, to compile during as many Years of almost undisturbed Leisure. But I knew myself equal to the Undertaking; and I now only revert to my Difficulties, that the Consideration of them may bespeak the candid Allowance of this Honourable House for any Inaccuracies, or for any Thing defective which may appear in my Defence; but I claim no other Indulgence on this Account.

" It might perhaps be expected, that I should object to the Construction of the Articles of which the Charge is composed; for, in Truth, they are not Charges, but Histories and Comments. But they are yet more; they are made up of mutilated Quotations; of Facts which have no mutual Relation, but are forced by false Arrangement into Connection; of Principles of pernicious Policy and false Morality; Assertions of Guilt without Proof, or the Attempt to prove them; Interpretations of secret Motives and Designs which passed within my own Breast, and which none but myself could know; Actions of others imputed to me, in which I had no Concern, or which passed in Opposition to me; and Epithets and Invectives affixed to Acts ascribed to me, equally to those which in the Construction are bad, as to those which are indifferent, or even meritorious.

" These are Artifices by which the most wary Judgment might be surprized, that had nothing before it to repel their Effects, but which on the Touch of Truth disappear, and leave, not merely the Conviction of their own Fallacy, but the strong internal Presumption that the Charges themselves were formed under the Conviction of their Want of Foundation; and as far as my Feelings as a Man will allow me to consider them in that Tendency only, I am glad that they wear the Form which they do wear.

" With respect to the general Subject of the Charge, I must beg Leave to observe to this Honourable House, that it has been composed from a laboured Scrutiny of my whole Official Life, during a most important and weighty Administration of Thirteen Years, comprehending perhaps a greater Variety of interesting Events than have fallen to the Lot of any Man now living: Events not brought to the public View by their Notoriety alone, but all, the Subjects of minute Record;—Measures proposed, with all their Motives and Objects distinctly laid down in Writing, with their Effects displayed played by Letters and Official Reports through every Process of their Operation;—opposed by every Objection, and those too written, that the Judgment or Ingenuity of my Colleagues in Office, among whom I had always Opponents, could devise;—at Times weakened, at others suspended, and again resumed with their Effect enfeebled; but my own Responsibility still attending their Issue. Yet all my Actions have undergone, and even during the actual Progress of them, they underwent, such a Severity of Investigation, as could suit only a Mind possessing in itself an absolute Exemption from Error. In the present Occasion, I am put to a harder Test; for not my Actions alone, but my Words, and even my imputed Thoughts, as at the final Day of Judgment, are wrested into Accusation against me. And from whom is this State of Perfection exacted? From a Man who was separated, while yet but a School Boy, from his native Country, and from every Advantage of that Instruction which might have better qualified him for the high Offices, and arduous Situations, which it became his Lot to fill; and left to form his Rule of Conduct on his own Practice, and the Light of such an Understanding as it had pleased God to bestow on him.

“ I pass over the First Years of my Life.—These no otherwise relate to the present Purpose, than as they recommended me successively to the Succession of the Government of Fort St. George, to the Government of Fort William, and virtually to all the Appointments which have since followed.

“ I received the Government of Bengal with Incumbrances, which might have intimidated a firmer Spirit than mine; and I felt the perilous Situation in which it placed me.

“ I found myself the titular Head of a numerous, and not always accordant, Council, appointed to manage the Affairs of a great State, which yet wore the Marks of recent Acquisition; but had neither a determinate Form nor System, nor any Orders or Instructions which could enable them to give it either.

“ I attempted, and with the Aids of my Colleagues, where I was allowed them, I gave it both Form and System; for every Office into which it was distributed, to the Time of my Departure, received its Institution during the Period of my Administration, and all the Transactions of it have, except the First Two Years of the General Government, in some Part of their Progress, received their Direction from my Guidance.—Yet in every Step I had Difficulties to surmount, which are unknown to the Rulers and Ministers of other Governments. Besides the Conciliation of discordant Opinions, and their more frequently confirmed Opposition, I had my Conduct circumscribed by Orders which would apply to few of the Cases which occurred, and those Orders uncertain in the Construction.

“ I beg Leave to extend this Reflection. During the long Exercise of a Charge so constituted, and with such Exigencies attending it, how, may I ask, was it possible to keep Affairs in one even Line, or to avoid Contradictions both in Measures and Expressions? At some Times Affairs were forced into a Direction diametrically opposite to my Views, by the Power of a Majority; sometimes they received their Bias from my being obliged to submit to the Opinions of those on whom I depended for Support: And whenever the Course of Business was thus diverted from the straight Line, it was often difficult to bring it back, without some Degree of Irregularity, of Violence, or of general Inconsistency.

“ Where I suffered them to proceed in that devious Line, I am charged with pursuing Measures which my own Opinions have condemned; where I attempted to restore them to their proper Channel, I am accused of Innovations. Many Measures, which it would be now difficult to explain from written Documents, were founded on Circumstances of such Notoriety, that no one could doubt their Propriety at the Time, and no one ever thought it necessary to record the Reasons, or to establish the Proofs of Facts and Events, which were then certain, and universally admitted.

“ The Minister of this Empire (if I may compare great Things with small) had, in the various Emergencies of his Administration, the learned Judges of the Land, General Officers of the first Authority and Experience, and the Merchants of the greatest Commercial City in the World, to whom he might apply, and whose Opinions he might command, on every doubtful Question, whether of Law, Military Operation, Trade, or Finance.—He could not err.

“ I possessed no such Professional Aids, but had only my own Mind for my Resources, and Minds as little instructed as my own to assist me, and to be the Instruments of my Measures.

“ That this Description of my Situation may not be imputed to me as the Invention of Difficulties made up for the Occasion, I beg Leave to appeal to the following Extract of a Letter which I wrote to the Court of Directors so early as the 11th November 1773, which was before I knew of the Formation of the new System for the Government of India.

Paragraph 4. “ May I be permitted, in all Deference and Submission to your Commands, to offer it as my Opinion, that whatever may have been the Conduct of Individuals, or even of the collective Members of your former Administrations, the Blame is not so much imputable to them, as to the Want of a Principle of Government adequate to its Substance, and a coercive Power to enforce it. The Extent of Bengal, and its possible Resources, are equal to those of most States in Europe. Its Difficulties are greater than those of any; because it wants both an established Form and Powers of Government; deriving its actual Support from the unremitted Labour and Personal Exertion of Individuals in Power, instead of the vital Influence which flows through the Channels of a regular Constitution, and imperceptibly animates “ every

" every Part of it. Our Constitution is no where to be traced, but in ancient Charters, which " were framed for the Jurisdiction of your Trading Settlements, the Sales of your Exports, and
 " the Provision of your Annual Investment. I need not observe how incompetent these must " prove for the Government of a great Kingdom, and for the Preservation of its Riches from " private Violence and Embezzlement."

" I will content myself with this Quotation in this Place; though I could wish that the whole Letter were attentively perused, as it is strongly expressive of the Difficulties and Embarrassments of my late Situation in India. To what I have said let me add, that in a newly established Government many Occasions will constantly occur, which can be regulated by no Precedent; and even the Uncertainty of the Constitution, and the unknown Limits of the Authority belonging to its various Branches, will often provoke Resistance, and produce Events, which never could happen under a Government long established, and with its Powers clearly defined, and universally understood.

" Under such Circumstances I humbly apprehend, that since it is not, as I have said, the Lot of human Nature to be exempt from Error, some notorious Calamity, affecting the Interests of which I had Charge, or some well-ascertained Ground of Corruption, or other moral Deviation from my Duty, the Loss of National Reputation, or of substantial Property, ought to have appeared, before
 I became the Subject of a Parliamentary Impeachment. But what Losses has the Nation sustained through my Mismanagement? Have Provinces been dismembered from it? Have its Armies been defeated in Operations of my Formation? or War or Famine wasted the Countries of my Jurisdiction?—No: The Reverse has been the Attendant of my Fortune in every Stage of it; and so little Ground have I afforded, from the Notoriety of my Character, for such an Inquisition into it, that I dare affirm that I stand, even at this hour (notwithstanding the Prejudices excited against me) as high in the Estimation of the World, I mean not to confine the Assertion to this Kingdom alone, as any Man of my own Rank and Pretensions in it.

" Yet I mean not to avail myself of this Plea. I assert my general Claim to the Approbation of this Honourable House, and of my Country, for my Services; but I neither desire, nor will admit, of their being placed in Balance against my Faults, if I have Faults to stand in Opposition to them.

" I entreat the House, that each Article of the Charge may be distinctly tried, and that they will be pleased to give their Sentence upon each.

" Answer to the Third Charge. Part Ist.

" B E N A R E S.

" IT has been the Fashion to give Histories of Benares; but as far as I have had Occasion to peruse them, or in the Select Committee, or in anonymous Pamphlets, they are, for the greater Part, false and unsupported. I shall here detail as much as I am warranted by certain Knowledge of the present Situation, adopting, where I possibly can, the very Words of the Third Charge against me.

" The Territory of Benares is a fruitful, and has been "(and is at this Day)" an orderly, well-
 " cultivated, and improved Province. Its Capital City may rather be considered as the Seat of the " Hindû Religion than as the Capital of a Province." I am not certain of the Period at which it was annexed to the Mogul Empire; but it is clear, by the Ayeen-e-Acheree, that it was a Part of the Subah of Allahabad in Acber's Time.—Catrou (Page 119) mentions a Raja Carn to have been subdued by Acber, whom I conceive to have been Raja of Benares. However, the same Ayeen-e- Acheree asserts, that Sultan Mahmood Ghaznavi (the first Mahomedan Invader of India) came to Benares in the 410th Year of the Hejrah, above 750 Years since. After Acber, his Son Jehân Gueer was undoubtedly Master of it; and Daia Shekuh, the eldest Son of Shâh Jehân, Son and Successor of Jehân Gueer, resided a considerable Time at Benares in a Station of Authority, as we learn from his own Preface to a Book he compiled during his Residence there. Aurengzeeb, his youngest Brother, and Successor to the Empire after Shâh Jehân, has effectually displayed to Posterity the Power and Sovereignty which he exercised in Benares, with a savage Bigotry characteristic of his Temper and Policy, by a magnificent Mosque which he erected on the Site (and even admitted into his Plan a considerable Part of the Edifice) of an ancient and most superb Hindû Temple.
 This Mosque continues perfect to this Day, and with its neighbouring Minarets (which he also erected) overlooks the whole City. If Benares, in Acber's Time, was a District of the Subah of Allahabad, it continued annexed to the same Province in the Time of Aurengzeeb, as we learn from Catrou (Page 362): it therefore never was considered a Capital of any considerable Kingdom, nor yet as a Province annexed to the Subah of Oude. Benares is a naked defenceless City, situated so near to the almost-impregnable Forts of Chunar, that the Possessor of the one may at all Times be Master of the other; and this accounts for its having been annexed to the Subah of Oude, some Time since the Invasion of Nadir Shah. Rajah Bulwant Sing, who resided at Benares with some Degree of Authority (but who never had Permission to coin Money, nor even the Administration of criminal Justice in the City itself) when the Incursions of the Shahzâdah, now the King Shah Allum, first drew the Attention of the English to that Quarter; and, far from being a great Lord (or any Lord) of the Empire, he was a mere Dependant on the Nabob of Oude, Shujah ud Dowlah. He was originally Zemindar of a small Pergunneh, called Gungapoor (by Purchase, not by Inheritance, for his Father, Musferam, was not a Zemindar) yielding a Revenue of about £.500 a Year. He had been patronized and employed by Sefdar Jung, the Father of Shujah ud Dowlah, and was gradually promoted to be Aumil or Collector of Benares and Gauzipoor. He continued in that Capacity to the Day of his Death, and never was Zemindar of either District. In the Year 1764, when Shujah ud Dowlah's Affairs were on the Decline, Bulwant Sing made Overtures to the Nabob of Bengal, Meer Jaffier, to join his Army with such Troops as he could muster. General Carnac, who commanded our Army at that Time, warned the Governor and Council of Calcutta of the Rajah's Perfidy; and so well were those Gentlemen convinced of the Truth of those Allegations, that on the Sixth of November of the same Year, they wrote thus to Major Munro: "With respect to Bulwant Sing, the double Part he acted in the Beginning of the War sufficiently warns us to put no Confidence in him; and "therefore, if he has not already been permitted to join you, or you have entered into no Engagements with him, we would have him dispossessed of his Country, and his Person, if possible, secured." —My Predecessors, it may be here observed, both in Language and Conduct, equalled at least, or rather exceeded, every Thing of which I am now accused. I have said that Bulwant Sing never was Zemindar of Benares or Gauzipoor (*); in Proof of this, I appeal to Bulwant Sing's own Proposals to Major Munro, dated the 21st November 1764: "If you, Gentlemen, chuse to possess yourselves of Shujah ud Dowlah's Country, I will agree to hold the Sircars of Benares, Gauzipoor, Joinpore, Bidigur, &c. on the same Terms as I hold them from Shujah ud Dowlah." Of whose Country were the English supposed to intend a Seizure?—Of Shujah ud Dowlah's. Who held the Four Sircars here mentioned?—Bulwant Sing. Of whom did he hold them?—Of Shujah ud Dowlah. By what Denomination are they described?—As Parts of Shujah ud Dowlah's Country. Every Word of the Proposal proves that Shujah ud Dowlah was Sovereign of those Sircars, and that a Seizure of Shujah ud Dowlah's Country necessarily include (°) the Seizure of Benares, Gauzipoor, Joinpore, Bidigur, &c. Had Bulwant Sing possessed a separate Territory, the Conquest of Shujah ud Dowlah's Country would not have been tantamount to a Seizure of Bulwant Sing's. Had he been Prince or Zemindar of those Provinces, he would naturally and of course have named them, in his Proposals, "my Sircars," or "my Zemindary;" and his Arzee, or Proposal, must, according to the universal Custom of the Country, have been signed by him "Zemindar of the Mahals of Benares, &c. &c." Through that whole War, which terminated in the entire Defeat of Shujah ud Dowlah, Bulwant Sing's Conduct was alternately treacherous to his Master and to us. His First Junction with us is acknowledged by the Court of Directors, in the Letter of the 26th of May 1768, to have been "of signal Service to us," and I do not deny it; but the whole Correspondence of the Bengal Government in the Years 1764 and 1765, proves that he never did us any other Service: That he was suspected, a faithless and a dangerous Ally; and that but for the Treaty made with him by the Commander of our Army, the Governor and Council would have "seized his Person, and transferred his Districts to another." (See 2d Report of the Select Committee, Pages 4 and 5, &c.) Bulwant Sing dying in the Year 1770, his Son Cheynt Sing succeeded to his Rights, as Zemindar of Gungapoor. The Appointment of Farmer or Collector of Benares and Gauzipoor reverted of Course to the Vizier his Sovereign: I must observe, that in the Translations of the Persian Papers, both of those and the preceding Times, great Confusion occurs, in the Application of peculiar and definite Terms, with a loose and unguarded Signification; for in Twenty different Documents at least, quoted in the Second Report of the Select Committee, Bulwant Sing's Farm or Collection, is styled his "Zemindary." I need go no farther than the 5th Article of the Treaty of Illiabab: (See 2d Report, 10th Page): "His Highness Shujah ud Dowlah engages in the "most solemn Manner to continue Bulwant Sing in the Zemindaries of Benares, Gauzipoor, &c. &c.;" and in the 7th Article of the same Treaty, it is resolved "to restore to his Highness the Country of Benares, and the other Districts now rented by Bulwant Sing:" Both of these Articles cannot be admitted in their true and literal Sense. If the Zemindary belonged to Bulwant Sing, he could not be said to rent it: he paid Tribute only. If the Country did not belong to Shujah ud Dowlah, it could not be restored to him. In short, the Word "Zemindary" is used by our Translators in a lax Sense, to signify District or Province: This is evident from the Letter of the Bengal Government to the Court of Directors of 11th September 1770 (see 2d Report, 10th Page): "In our former Letter, Gentlemen, we expressed our Sentiments of the Consequence it was to your Affairs, that the Succession to the Zemindary of Benares should continue in the Family, but that it was a delicate Point to accomplish with the Vizier."—Why was this a delicate Point? The Third Paragraph of Mr. Burke's Third Charge, peremptorily states, that on the Death of Bulwant Sing "his Son Cheynt Sing succeeded to his Rights and Pretensions." The Delicacy of the Point consisted precisely in the Want of Right, for had Bulwant Sing been real and hereditary Zemindar, the Succession would have gone to his Son of course, there being in India no such Custom as Disinheritance: This Circumstance proves also, that Bulwant Sing was not the Zemindar; for in that Case it must have devolved to him by Inheritance: Instead of which, he writes to Rajah Shitabroy (see 2d Report, Page 5): "If it is the Intention of the English Gentlemen to take Possession of Shujah ud Dowlah's Dominions,

“ I will agree to hold Benares and Gauzipoor, &c. which have long been under my Jurisdiction, on the same Terms from the Company as I did from Shujah ud Dowlah.” Here was precisely the Place to have pleaded his Right of Possession, and his Title by Inheritance: Instead of which, he only says, those Places had long been under his Jurisdiction, which (if any Meaning be annexed to the Words) must imply that they were not always so. I must quote another Part of this Bengal Letter of 10th September 1770 (2d Report, Page 11): “ A jealous, suspicious Disposition of the old Rajah, assisted by the Distrust of their own Children, inherent in the Minds of the People of this Country, may possibly have been the Reason why the Son was not included in the Treaty of 1765; for bad he expressed a Wish to secure the Zemindary in his own Family, a Doubt can scarcely be formed, &c.—But suspicious, probably, of the Consequences that his Son “should think he had a Right to the Succession,” his whole Aim seemed to center in Self-security, without the least Attention to the Good of his Posterity.”—I answer, every Word of this, if it be really applicable to Bulwant Sing’s State of Mind, proves beyond a Doubt, that he was not the Zemindar; for, as Zemindar, his Son must have succeeded, in the Language of the Charge itself; and it was a Matter perfectly indifferent to the State of the Case, whether Bulwant Sing expressed or did not express his Wishes on that Head: But if he really were “suspicious of the Consequences that his Son should think he had a Right to the Succession,” it is demonstrable that he knew the Son to have no Right; for had he a Right, Bulwant Sing could neither suppress a Knowledge of it from his Son, nor controvert its Effects. It would have been a clear, entailed, hereditary Estate, of which it was mutually indifferent to the Father and to the Son what each might separately think.—When Cheyt Sing, by the Influence of the Company, was confirmed in the Place which his Father had held as Farmer or Collector for the Vizier, he paid, as a Gift or Nuzzeranah, a Sum amounting to nearly 200,000 Pounds, and increased his Rent near 30,000 Pounds per Annum; “by which” (Mr. Burke says) “he became a Purchaser, for valuable Considerations of his Right and Inheritance in the Zemindary aforesaid.” I do not profess to understand how a Man can be said to purchase of another that which the other has not to sell. To the Rights, the Charge expressly declares Cheyt Sing to have succeeded by the Death of his Father: The Inheritance itself is that very Right; so that Cheyt Sing purchased what he had already; and the actual Functions of his Office, the Collection of the Rents, and the Government of the Districts, &c. were obligingly thrown into the Account. But why did the Vizier exact £. 200,000 on the Death of Bulwant Sing?—Assuredly because, as Sovereign of the whole Country, he possessed and exercised the Right of levying Fines, and that to an arbitrary Amount, as appears by the 2d Report of the Select Committee. I know not how we can deny the Existence of many despotic Principles in the Mogul System of Government; but wherever those exist the Powers of the Prince will be every Thing, and the Rights of the Subject nothing. Shujah ud Dowlah fined Cheyt Sing £. 200,000, and £. 30,000 per Annum; which, at only Ten Years Purchase, is £. 300,000; in all, £. 500,000 for the mere Investiture of what in the Charge is stated to be his Right of Inheritance. I, who was vested by my Station with exactly the same Powers as were exercised by Shujah ud Dowlah, never thought of a greater Fine as a Punishment for the most flagrant Offences. Cheyt Sing succeeded of course to his Father’s Treasures (See Lieut. Colonel Harper’s Evidence, Appendix to 2d Report), not by any Testamentary Form, not by any Permission of the Vizier, not by any Intermediation of his Friends, but by Right of Inheritance. Are there Two or more Species of Rights of Inheritance? All that the Father could call his own came to the Son; what he held of his Sovereign reverted to its Owner. The Dignity, the Power, the Profit consequent on the Government, were Matters which the Vizier had a Right to sell, and which Cheyt Sing might have a Preference in purchasing, if the Two Parties could settle their Terms. Bulwant Sing had saved great Sums of Money out of his Government, by Colonel Harper’s Evidence; it was therefore an Object of Cheyt Sing to succeed to his Father’s Lease, even on Terms somewhat less advantageous. The Government, or Lease (or by whatever other Title of Possession Bulwant Sing had exercised Authority in Benares) was, at the Father’s Death, procured for the Son; and as the General Letter from Bengal, dated 31st October 1770 (See 2d Report, Page 11th) expressly states, Cheyt Sing was “considered by the Vizier as holding that Country on the same Terms as his Father.” Bulwant Sing, I have proved above, held only in Capite; the Son therefore, at this Time, held only in Capite also: And Colonel Harper, who acknowledges that Bulwant Sing had but a Life Interest in the Lands, must be mistaken, where, in quoting from Memory, he gives Evidence, that “the Sunnud to Cheyt Sing was granted to him and his Heirs.” It is allowed on all Sides, that the Letter of the Treaty of Allahabad did not extend to Bulwant Sing’s Heirs (see 2d Report, Page 12th). The Vizier therefore was perfectly justifiable in refusing to acknowledge it farther; and in my Deputation to Benares, in 1773, I procured a new Treaty, for the express Purpose of settling this Point to Cheyt Sing’s Satisfaction. It may be remarked, that all the governing Powers of Hindostan are extremely averse to any Treaties or Agreements which are declared to be binding on Posterity; and I have had frequent Difficulties in many Negotiations with the native Princes on this Head; they have always pleaded “that it was against the Custom of their Country.”—It must be admitted, that the Council in 1773 conceived some Doubts to exist somewhere respecting the Validity or the Extent of the First Stipulations in Behalf of Cheyt Sing, or they would not have empowered me to renew them. And I am warranted in having declared in my Narrative, “that Cheyt Sing obtained from our Influence, exerted by myself, the First legal Title that his Family ever possessed of Property in the Land, of which he, till then,

" was only the Aumil, and of which he became the acknowledged Zemindar, by a Sunnud granted " to him by the Nabob Sujah Dowlah, at my Instance, in the Month of September 1773." The Father was no more than Aumil, as I have amply proved; on his Decease the Son precisely succeeded to his Rights and Pretensions, as the Charge states—he therefore became Aumil; and if he ever was Zemindar, it could only be derived from the Sunnud of 1773. In 1774 the Majority of the new Council General adopted, in the Case of Shujah ud Dowlah's Son, the System formerly supported by Shujah ud Dowlah in the Case of the Son of Bulwant Sing. They decided that the Treaty made with the Father did not bind them with respect to the Son. In both Cases my Opinion had been uniform and consistent. In 1770 I thought that the Agreement made between Shujah ud Dowlah and Bulwant Sing was virtually in Force, though one of the contracting Parties were dead, and that Cheyt Sing stood precisely in the Place of his Father. In 1774, I thought that the Treaty we had entered into with Shujah ud Dowlah continued to bind the Company; and that his Son, Asoph ud Dowlah, had in every Respect succeeded to his Father's Engagements, as well as his Dominions. In both Cases my Judgment has been unfortunate; the latter, however, procured the Company a large Addition of Territory and Revenue, on the Appropriation and Management of which, as the Majority of the Council decided against my Opinion, their Sentiments alone, and not mine, are to be considered in whatever relates to the Transaction. I must therefore except to the Use made by Mr. Burke, and to any Use whatever being made, of any Minutes delivered in Council by me on that Occasion, as those Minutes were no Part of the Cause or Motive on which the Majority acted; and therefore, as far as any Good or Evil arose out of the Act itself, I am totally unconnected with it. General Clavering, Colonel Monson, and Mr. Francis, in their Minute of 7th December 1775 (see 2d Report, 23d Page), fully acquit me; " the Measure" (they say) " is strictly and exclusively ours. The original Plan was " opposed in every Step by the Governor General and Mr. Barwell." Upon the same Principle I solemnly disclaim all Connection with, and even all Knowledge of, any " improper and fraudulent " Transactions with regard to the Symbols of Investiture which ought to have been given to the " Rajah; and the Form of the Deeds by which the said Zemindarry ought to have been granted," as stated in the 13th Article of the Charge. I am not responsible for the Acts of the Majority, nor for the Acts of Mr. Fowke their Resident at Benares, who acted wholly under their Authority, and over whom I had not the Shadow of an Influence; I was at that Time but a Spectator of what was doing, a mere Cypher at the Board.

" If there were any Mistakes in the Modes of Investiture, or the Forms of the Deeds, they were without my Concurrence; and as I cannot even now conceive what Purpose so pitiful an Artifice could be supposed to answer, I will positively assert they could not be fraudulent. Mr. Francis, who is the surviving Member of that Majority, " to which the Measure strictly and exclusively belonged," is alone amenable for every Part of it, for its Informalities, as well as for its Merits; for any " complicated, artificial, and fraudulent Management," that might take Place in the Course of its Execution, as well (*) for the Grounds on which it was proposed: For my own Part (after disclaiming all Pretensions to any particular and exclusive Duty on me to attend to the due Insertion of all Transactions on the Company's Records, which Duty I conceive to be that of the Secretary, under the Direction of those who had the Authority; and also after professing most religiously that I did never, either directly or indirectly, procure the Omission of a Syllable of any public Document whatever, which ought to have been transmitted to the Court of Directors) I do most solemnly affirm and declare, that I did not, at the Time specified, meditate to make any evil Use whatever of the Deeds which are stated to have been withholden from the Company;—that I did not (until the very Day when I first read it in the Charge) know that such Deeds had been withholden, and that I should at all Times have loathed and spurned at the mere Idea of grounding any Measure of mine on so shallow and base a Manœuvre; I may be allowed to add, that while the Counterparts of the Deeds existed, all Concealment on our Side was equally ridiculous and ineffectual; it is an invariable Form, that the Cabooliet, on (b) Agreement with the Zemindar, is always Word for Word the same as the Potta or Lease. After all, I have been combating with a Shadow, for what were these Deeds which were suppressed? The only Deed or Instrument of Cheyt Sing's Investiture was the Sunnud or Charter, and the Potta or Lease, which are expressed in the Charge to have been regularly made out, and transmitted; I know of no other. No Sunnuds were ever sent to the Court of Directors, nor any Papers in the original Language.

" I MEAN to prove fully, in its proper Place, that I never gave Permission to any Agent to resign for me the Office of Governor General, I can here only assert it; but when General Clavering attempted to assume the Chair which I had not vacated, I was warranted in supporting my Authority by every Means in my Power: I was warranted in styling him " my Opponent," and warranted in treating every misplaced Mark of Homage to him as a Personal Disrespect to myself:—When, therefore, I affirmed that Cheyt Sing had deputed an Agent, with an express Commission to compliment General Clavering on his Accession to the Government, I affirmed a Fact certainly criminal and offensive to the Company's Government, inasmuch as it was an officious and premature Interference on the Part of the Rajah,—pregnant in itself with very great Disadvantages to the due and orderly Administration of Affairs, and deeply injurious, by the Example it held out to others, for taking Part in the Dissensions which at that Time harassed our Councils. In Cheyt Sing's Case it was particularly obnoxious, because all Correspondence with him (as with other native Powers) was by the Company's Orders conducted through the Medium of the Governor General; the Rajah, therefore, had no Right, no Pretext, for paying such a Compliment to General Clavering, until his Accession to the Chair had been notified in Form; nor can it be urged, in the present Instance, that such Notification was duly made; for, granting (as I believe I may) that General Clavering had issued, in his assumed Character of Governor General, Information to that Purport, Cheyt Sing had a Vakeel in Calcutta, whose express Business it was to set his Master right, and for that Purpose he might have had, and had, at all Times free Access to my House and Apartment; and I also caused immediate Official Dispatches to be sent off to the different Country Powers to assure them of my Continuance in Administration. I urged this Act of the Rajah at the Time it took Place, and I now urge it, as a Proof of the Readiness which he shewed to foment, or even to take Part in any Divisions of our Government; it always appeared to me indecent with respect to my Office, unjustifiable with respect to his Situation, and a Proof of his rooted Disaffection to the English Administration. Whether or not I Personally forgave him, is of no Consequence: I never sought to punish him but on public Grounds. And had he faithfully discharged his Duty to the Company, he would never have heard a Syllable of my Repentment. Implacability to my Inferiors is no Part of my Character. I am accused "That having obtained, in my Casting Vote, a Majority in Council on the Death of Sir John Clavering and Mr. Monson, I did suddenly, and without any previous general Communication with the Members of the Board, by a Minute of Consultation of the 9th of July 1778, make an extraordinary Demand, namely, that the Rajah of Benares should consent to the Establishment of Three regular Battalions of Sepoys, to be raised and maintained at his own Expence." I answer, that on the 6th of July at Night a Packet was received from Mr. Baldwin at Cairo, with an Account (deemed fully authentic by the whole Council) that War had been actually declared and commenced between Great Britain and France. It was my Duty to propose Measures in Consequence of this Intelligence, without Loss of Time. Accordingly, on the 9th of July, after an Interval of only Two Days, I gave in at the Council Board a Plan of General Increase for our Military and Marine Establishments, to meet the Exigencies of the Moment. Every Member of our Government felt the Necessity of the Measure, and we were for Once unanimous. My Propositions, which embraced every Part of the Company's Dependencies on that Side of India, could not, without glaring and very suspicious Partiality, have omitted the Territories of Cheyt Sing. I allotted what I thought (and still think) a very moderate Portion of the newly-incurred Burthen of the War to him: Had my Colleagues been of a different Opinion, they might have proposed a Modification, or a total Exemption. They did neither. While they admitted the Necessity of the actual Demand, they did not object to the Sum: And the Decision of future Right (on which there appeared some Shadow of Hesitation) was, by General Consent, referred to our Superiors (see 2d Report, 26th Page). On this Right our Superiors did never decide while Cheyt Sing continued at Benares, though our Minutes on the Subject arrived in London the 12th of April 1779.—Their Silence had all the Effect of Acquiescence. The Rajah is said to have asserted, that I had promised this Exaction should continue but for One Year, and should not be drawn into Precedent.—I now most solemnly declare, that I never made any such Promise; and that I had effectually precluded myself from making it, the Minutes themselves will testify: for in our First Debate on the Subject, I agreed to add to my original Motion for raising the Troops the following Words, "and to be disbanded at the End of the War," (see 2d Report, 26th Page). After this I must have affected a Spirit of Prophecy, to pretend that the Demand should exist only for One Year. The War continued in 1779, and the Demand was accordingly renewed. It met with Prevarication, Excuse, and Procrastination on the Part of the Rajah. On the Third Year his Delays grew still more perplexing, and indicated the strongest Signs of determined Disobedience. See all the Bengal Consultations of that Period, as exhibited in the 2d Report of the Select Committee. By this Time I considered myself as acting on the surest Grounds. The Letters from our Superiors, in Answer to those of the Two preceding Years from us, contained no One Sentence which could be deemed a Disapproval of our Transactions with the Rajah of Benares. As the Subject had been fully and repeatedly before them, it was impossible to suppose they had overlooked it. With my Hands thus strengthened by the implied Approbation of my Employers, as the Exigencies of the War grew daily more pressing, I moved in Council, "That Cheyt Sing might be required to furnish such Cavalry as he could spare, with an express Declaration to him, that they should be returned at the Close of the War:" and this was done by the Advice and Recommendation of Sir Eyre Coote. The Rajah certainly maintained a considerable Body of Cavalry. He admitted Thirteen hundred, and I know they were many more. In the War with the Rohillas he furnished Five hundred to his then Sovereign, Shujah Ud Dowlah (see Supplement to 2d Report, 12th Page), and General Clavering would have recommended to him to keep up Two Thousand: This was the Number I demanded; but on his repeated Representations, I gradually lowered my Requisition to One thousand. He acknowledged to have Thirteen hundred, and yet offered but Five hundred to the Company. My Patience was exhausted by such repeated Acts of Contumacy, and I determined (I repeat it) to convert them into an Advantage for the Company's Affairs. I considered the Light in which such Behaviour would have been viewed by his native Sovereign, and I resolved he should feel the Power he had so long insulted. Forty or Fifty Lacks of Rupees would have been a moderate Fine for Shujah Ud Dowlah to exact; he who had demanded 25 Lacks for the mere Fine of Succession, and received 20 in Hand, and an increased Rent tantamount to considerably above 30 Lacks more: And therefore I rejected the Offer of Twenty, with which the Rajah would have compromised for his Guilt when it was too late. If I ever talked of selling the Company's Sovereignty over Benares to the Nabob of Oude, it was but in terrorem; and no subsequent Act of mine warrants me to have seriously intended it: If I ever threatened to dispossess the Rajah of his Territories, it is no more than what my Predecessors (without Rebuke from their Superiors, or Notice taken of the Expression) had wished and intended to have done to his Father, even when the Company had no Pretensions to the Sovereignty of the Country; it is no more than such a legal Act of Sovereignty as his Behaviour justified, and as I was justified in by the Intentions of my Predecessors. If I pretended to seize upon his Forts, it was in full Conviction that a Dependant on the Company, guaranteed, maintained, and protected in his Country by the Company's Arms, had no Occasion for Forts, had no Right to them, and could hold them for no other than suspected and rebellious Purposes: None of the Company's other Zemindars are permitted to maintain them; and even our Ally, the Nabob of the Carnatic, has the Company's Troops in all his Garrisons; Policy and Public Safety absolutely require it. What State could exist, that allowed its inferior Members to hold Forts and Garrisons, independent of the superior Administration?—It is a Solecism in Government to suppose it.

“ P A R T III.

“ I REMOVED Mr. Fowke from Benares on Political Grounds, against the Orders of the Court of Directors, because I thought it necessary that the Resident there should be a Man of my own Nomination and Confidence; I avow the Principle, and think no Government can subsist without it. The Punishment of the Rajah made no Part of my Design in Mr. Fowke's Removal, or Mr. Markham's Appointment, nor was his Punishment an Object of my Contemplation at the Time. I removed Mr. Fowke, to appoint Mr. Markham; an Appointment of my own Choice, and a Signal to notify the Restoration of my own Authority, as I had before removed Mr. Fowke, and appointed Mr. Graham, for the same Purpose.

“ The Charge adds, “ It was soon after that I prepared for a Journey to Benares.” This is not true:—The Interval of Time is evidently shortened, for the Purpose of forcing the Inference before drawn from my Appointment of the new Resident. This Appointment was made early in February, and I left Calcutta in July.

“ I deny that the Design of exacting a Penalty from Rajah Cheyt Sing for his contumacious Behaviour, was either “ wicked” or “ perfidious,” as is stated in the Charge. I admit that I did not enter it on the Consultations, because it was not necessary; even this Plan itself of the Fine was not a fixed Plan, but to be regulated by Circumstances, both as to the substantial Execution of it, and the Mode: Nay, I will aver, that I had drawn up a Review of our whole Political Connexions, extended even as far as Guzerat, and given a Copy of it to Mr. Wheeler, containing a Variety of Modes, from which I meant to draw some Relief of Alliance, Power, or Finance, to save them from the Ruin which was accumulating around them; and this Plan of the Fine, as I recollect, made a Part of it. But was it necessary, as an Official Obligation upon me, or would it have been prudent that I should enter upon our Consultations every speculative Resource to which the Exigency of our Affairs might eventually compel me to have Recourse? And was I precluded from availing myself of any such Resources, when the Occasion required them, and the Means were afforded me, because the Design of them had not before been entered on our Consultations? In what Part of the Company's Standing Orders, nay, I may add, in what Code of Common Sense, is such a Rule prescribed to me? In this Charge I am blamed for “ the long Concealment, and “ late Communication” of this Intention (viz. of the Fine), Time not being allowed to my “ Colleague to consider the Nature and Consequences of such a Project, or to advise any Precaution concerning the same.”—The Grounds on which this Charge is founded are, that although I communicated my Intentions to Major Palmer in June, it does not appear that I communicated them to Mr. Wheeler till the Eve of my Departure. It is supposed that the Eve means the preceding Night: Assuredly it will admit of a larger Construction. From my Recollection, at this Distance of Time, I will venture to affirm, that my Intentions were communicated to Mr. Wheeler some Weeks before my Departure; I believe I may say, almost as soon as they were formed, for I was then in the Habit of the most confidential Intercourse with him; nay, I think it probable that they were communicated to him even before they were to Major Palmer, as that Gentleman arrived in Calcutta only a very short Time before my Departure, which was on the 7th of July. I avow my Intention of fining Cheyt Sing Fifty Lacks. This was the “ Improvement of the Interest which “ the Company possessed in the Zemindarry,” alluded to in my Minute on the Occasion. And as I own myself not to have foreseen Cheyt Sing's Flight or Rebellion, I did conceive it possible to have formed an Arrangement of this Kind “ with the Rajah,”—and it was certainly “ fit “ and consonant to the mutual Engagements subsisting between the Company and the Rajah.”

This

This I will prove at large : A Fine was what I meant to exact—and to fine was a Right expressly reserved to the Company (see a Secret Letter from the Governor General and Council of Bengal, dated 15th January 1776—i. e. General Clavering, Colonel Monson, and Mr. Francis) : “ We thought it advisable to fix a proper Weight and Standard, to be invariably observed by the Rajah in all Money which might be coined, on Pain of forfeiting the Mint, and being liable to any Penalty the Board might think fit to impose, on the First Instance of any Deviation.” The same Sovereignty which could dictate so authoritatively on one Occasion, must have had an equal Right in others ; and therefore the Exaction and Payment of a Penalty was consonant to the Engagements between the Company and the Rajah. Shujah ud Dowlah levied a Fine, on the Death of the Father, for investing the Son. Here then we have a Second Right made over, with the other Appendages of Sovereignty, to the Company. Had not our powerful Interposition prevented the Consequences of Bulwant Sing’s Treachery to his Master, in 1764, Shujah ud Dowlah would probably have exerted, with signal Rigour, a Third Right of Fining, and have furnished me with a Precedent full in Point to my Treatment of Cheyt Sing. The Inference therefore is, that the Right of Fining was general—perhaps arbitrary ; but for that I am not responsible : It is a Defect woven into the Texture of the Mogul System—It will no Doubt be most happy for the Inhabitants of Asia, when the despotic Institutes of Jengheez Khawn or Tamerlane shall give Place to the liberal Spirit of a British Legislature ; and I shall be amply satisfied in my present Prosecution, if it shall tend to hasten the Approach of an Event so beneficial to the great Interests of Mankind. In my Narrative of the subsequent Transactions between Cheyt Sing and myself, composed while all the Circumstances were strong in my Recollection, I have detailed every Particular necessary for a complete Comprehension of the painful Part I had to support.—To the Colourings which are put upon many of my Expressions by the Subtilties of Construction, I shall make few or no Objections. Truth is my immediate Aim, and I cannot step out of my Way to glean up every casual Infination ; otherwise I might observe, that I cannot well conceive why, on my Refusal to see the Rajah, it should be pronounced that I “ rudely and insolently forbade his Visit.” Is it rude to be peremptory ? or is Resolution Insolence ? if he were a great Prince, I, as representing his Sovereign, should seem a great King. I gave the Rajah in Writing my Charges respecting his Conduct, “ informal” perhaps, and “ irregular ;” for where should I have acquired the legal Precision requisite for a Special Pleader ? but certainly substantial, and momentous, and just. I have said that his Answer was “ not only unsatisfactory in Substance,—but offensive in Style.” I repeat the Assertion now, that near Five Years since elapsed have cooled my Resentments (if I ever had any) and that my Feelings are no longer interested by concomitant Circumstances. It was filled with shuffling Excuses and palpable Falsehoods. It stated that the Rajah had furnished the additional Five Lacks of Rupees “ with the utmost Readiness ;” and that he had “ taken a Penalty Bond from his Aumils that “ they should keep no Thieves in their Districts.” Was all this true, or satisfactory, or decent ?—I had now Reason to suspect that the Rajah would never come to such “ an Arrangement” as I wished, till he had, at least in some slight Degree, felt the Hand of Authority ; and I accordingly put him under an Arrest. No Insult, no Menace, no Violence of any Kind, was intended or applied : I even wrote to him to calm any Apprehensions for Personal Safety which he might be weak enough to entertain ; and I received his Answer, that “ he was entirely free from Concern and Apprehension.” What followed I need not here particularize. My Conduct was regulated by Events which I could neither foresee nor controul. All my original Measures were broken through, all my Designs annihilated, by the barbarous Massacre of my unarmed Troops, and the unexpected Flight of Cheyt Sing. Every Step which I had taken before that fatal Moment is an incontrovertible Proof, that I had formed no Design “ of seizing upon the Rajah’s Treasures, or of deposing him ;” and certainly, at the Time when I did form the Design of making the Punishment of his former ill Conduct subservient to the Exigencies of the State, by a large Fine, “ I did not believe him guilty of that premeditated Project for driving the English out of India, with which I afterwards charged him.”—Had I been forewarned of this Project in the Extent which I afterwards discovered, I most assuredly would have anticipated his Schemes with more solid Effect, and without Personal Hazard : I would never have proposed to “ settle his Zemindary upon him,” on any Footing at all. Nothing therefore can equal my Surprise at the Tenor of this Part of the Charge, except my Incapacity to answer, without Contradiction, Two Accusations totally contradictory. In the 13th, 14th, and 15th Clauses of this 3d Section of the 3d Charge, I am accused of Implacability to all the Rajah’s humble Submissions ; of Perseverance in rejecting all Accommodation (though several Offers were made) ; and of “ being filled with Insolence and Malice,” in not replying to the Rajah’s Letters, after he had so notoriously drawn the Sword of Rebellion. And in the 27th Clause of the same Section of the same Charge, it is asserted, that if I “ had conceived him (Cheyt Sing) to have entertained traiterous Designs against the Company, from whom he held his tributary Estate, or had been otherwise guilty of such enormous Offences as to make it necessary to take extraordinary Methods for coercing him, it would not have been proper to settle upon such a Traitor and Criminal the Zemindary of Benares, or any other Territory, upon the most eligible, or upon any other Footing whatever.” Thus am I in one and the same Charge accused of being severe, and told it “ would not have been proper” for me to have been lenient ;—Censured for intending to settle the Zemindary upon Cheyt Sing, and Censured for having rejected all all his Offers towards a Settlement.—I can only answer to this formidable Dilemma, that so long as I conceived Cheyt Sing's Misconduct and Contumacy to have me rather than the Company for its Object, at least to be merely the Effect of pernicious Advice or misguided Folly, without any formal Design of openly resisting our Authority, or disclaiming our Sovereignty, I looked upon a considerable Fine as sufficient both for his immediate Punishment, and for binding him to future good Behaviour: I therefore entertained no serious Thoughts of expelling him, or proceeding otherwise to Violence; but when he and his People broke out into the most atrocious Acts of Rebellion and Murder; when the Jus fortioris et Lex ultima Regum were appealed to on his Part (and without any sufficient Plea afforded him on mine) I from that Moment considered him as the Traitor and Criminal described in the Charge; and no Concessions, no Humiliations, no Submissions, could ever after induce me "to settle the Zemindary of Benares, or any other Territory, upon him, on any Footing whatever."

"Minutes delivered by me at the Council Board during the Time that the Cession of the Sovereignty of Benares and Gauzipoor was negotiated with the Vizier, are quoted against me in the 28th Clause of this Part of the Charge. The Minute in Question does undoubtedly contain my Sentiments at that Period, but those Sentiments went for Nothing: General Clavering and his Majority decided against my Opinion; "the Measure is strictly and exclusively their own;" I, therefore, have nothing to do with it. But when, by the Death of Two who composed that Majority, I became somewhat more than a mere Pageant in the Administration, I necessarily resumed the Business where they had left it; I considered Cheyt Sing precisely what they had made him, a tributary Landholder; not what I would have made him (but was over-ruled) an independent Prince, and a powerful Ally, placed as a Barrier between the Vizier and Government of Bengal.—I would have caused the Company's Tribute to be received at Patna within the Company's Provinces: They caused it to be received at Benares.—I would have renounced the Sovereignty of his Country: They assumed it. The Sovereignty which they assumed, it fell to my Lot, very unexpectedly, to exert; and whether or not "such Powers, or Powers of that Nature, were delegated to me by any Provisions of any Act of Parliament," I confess myself too little of a Lawyer to pronounce. I only know, that the Acceptance of the Sovereignty of Benares, &c. is not acknowledged or admitted by any Act of Parliament; and yet, by the particular Interference of the Majority of the Council, the Company is clearly and indisputably seized of that Sovereignty. That it, therefore, the Sovereignty of Benares, as ceded to us by the Vizier, have any Rights whatever annexed to it (and be not a mere empty Word without Meaning) those Rights must be such as are held, countenanced, and established by the Law, Custom, and Usage of the Mogul Empire, and not by the Provisions of any British Act of Parliament hitherto enacted. Those Rights (and none other) I have been the involuntary Instrument of enforcing. And if any future Act of Parliament shall positively, or by Implication, tend to annihilate those very Rights, or their Exertion, as I have exerted them, I much fear, that the boasted Sovereignty of Benares, which was held up as an Acquisition almost obtruded upon the Company, against my Consent and Opinion (for I acknowledge that, even then, I foresaw many Difficulties and Inconveniences in its future Exercise), I fear, I lay, that this Sovereignty will be found a Burthen instead of a Benefit; a heavy Clog rather than a precious Gem to its present Possessors. I mean, unless the Whole of our Territory in that Quarter shall be rounded and made an uniform compact Body, by One grand and systematic Arrangement; such an Arrangement as shall do away all the Michiels, Doubts, and Inconveniences (both to the Governors and the Governed) arising from the Variety of Tenures, Rights, and Claims in all Cases of Landed Property and Feudal Jurisdiction in India; from the Informality, Invalidity, and Instability of all Engagements in so divided and unsettled a State of Society; and from the unavoidable Anarchy and Confusion of different Laws, Religions, and Prejudices, moral, civil, and political, all jumbled together in One unnatural and discordant Mass. Every Part of Hindostan has been constantly exposed to these and similar Disadvantages ever since the Mahomedan Conquests. The Hindoos, who never incorporated with their Conquerors, were kept in Order only by the strong Hand of Power. The constant Necessity of similar Exertions would increase at once their Energy and Extent, so that Rebellion itself is the Parent and Promoter of Despotism.

"Sovereignty in India implies nothing else; for I know not how we can form an Estimate of its Powers but from its visible Effects—and those are every where the same, from Cabool to Affam. The whole History of Asia is nothing more than Precedents to prove the invariable Exercise of arbitrary Power. To all this I strongly alluded in the Minutes I delivered in Council, when the Treaty with the new Vizier was on Foot in 1775; and I wished to make Cheyt Sing independent, because in India Dependance included a Thousand Evils, many of which I enumerated at that Time, and they are entered in the 9th Clause of the First Section of this Charge. I knew the Powers with which an Indian Sovereignty is armed, and the Dangers to which Tributaries are exposed. I knew, that from the History of Asia, and from the very Nature of Mankind, the Subjects of a despotic Empire are always vigilant for the Moment to rebel, and the Sovereign is ever jealous of rebellious Intentions. A Zemindar is an Indian Subject, and as such exposed to the common Lot of his Fellows. "The mean and depraved State of a mere Zemindar" is, therefore, this very Dependence above-mentioned on a despotic Government—this very Proneness to shake off his Allegiance, and this very Exposure to continual Danger from his Sovereign's Jealousy, which are consequent on the Political State of Hindostanic Governments. Bulwant Sing if he had been, and Cheyt Sing as long as he was, a Zemindar, stood exactly in this "mean and depraved State," by the Constitution of his Country. I did not make it for him, but would have secured him from it. Those who made him a Zemindar entailed upon him the Consequences of so mean and depraved a Tenure. Ally Verdy Khaun and Cossim Ally fined all their Zemindars, on the Necessities of War, and on every Pretence, either of Court Necessity, or Court Extravagance.

"I have but few Words to alledge in my own Behalf on the Depositions, Affidavits, and other Testimonies annexed to my Narrative. Every Man will see that in so singular a Situation I could do no otherwise. If the Means I made use of were the best in my Power, I stand acquitted of Neglect or ill Intention. The Persons who have given their several Testimonies on the Occasion were not selected for the Purpose by me, but are such as were on the Spot, and who owed their Knowledge of the Transactions either to actual Inspection, or to sharing a Part of the common Difficulties: How much of the Evidence as was attested upon Oath could be "not fit or decent to be taken by a British Magistrate, or to be transmitted to a British Government," I am still at a Loss to comprehend. I have always thought that an Affidavit might be sworn to before any of His Majesty's Justices of the Peace, whether in or out of the particular and local Jurisdiction of that Magistrate. British Subjects could certainly swear with Propriety before no other Person whatever, while such a Magistrate was on the Spot; and if I had neglected this Precaution, I cannot doubt but it would have been converted into a much more formidable Charge against me, "that, with every Opportunity for completely vindicating all the Steps I had taken in this Affair, I had most shamefully, and fraudulently, and unjustifiably omitted to have the several Circumstances detailed in Writing and upon Oath, "although One of His Majesty's Justices was upon the Spot at the Time." In a Matter of mere Affidavit (no Trial in a Court of Justice then pending) I never have heard that it was usual, or expected or necessary to have a Person present "to object to the Competence or Credibility, or Relevance of the Affidavit." To the Admission of such Objections, a Justice of Peace, out of his local Jurisdiction, is certainly not competent: It alters the very Nature of the Function; and would constitute a Judicial Process between Two Parties, before a Judge who holds no Court, and to whom neither Party is amenable. But these are Sophistries totally unconnected with the main Question. I deemed Cheyt Sing a Rebel and a Traitor; I accordingly rejected his Submissions, and expelled him from his Zemindary. The Affidavits are meant as Proofs of his Rebellion for the Satisfaction of others: My own Conviction wanted no such Assistance; nor would any Objections he could have made ever shake a Tittle of my Opinion. My Superiors, the Court of Directors, in their Letter to Bengal of the 28th January 1784, have said, "After the Resistance which the Rajah had made, no Countenance could be consistently shewn him; nor was any Measure for his Restoration every proposed." To them, therefore, and to their Sense of the Rajah's Guilt, I may appeal for the Propriety of transmitting those Testimonies. It was a Mass of Evidence, which on the Whole proved the Sufficiency of the Grounds on which I have acted.

"I AM here accused of having caused a Second, and then a Third "Revolution in Benares:" That is, the Removal of a Collector or Receiver General of the Province is put on the Footing of a Dispossession of the immediate Landholder and Zemindar; which amounts nearly to asserting, that the Dismission of a Ministry in this Country is as complete a Revolution as the Abdication of James the Second. The Expulsion of Cheyt Sing was indisputably a "Revolution." I have always called it so. The subsequent Arrangements were mere internal Corrections of a System which Experiment proved to be imperfect. When a new System was to be formed with the Successor of Cheyt Sing (who, not being his Heir, had no Claim of Right) I saw no Objection to making the Company's Interests my first Principle of Action. The early Accumulation of too much Wealth had been Cheyt Sing's Ruin; it had buoyed him up with extravagant and ill founded Notions of Independence, which I very much wished to discourage in the future Rajah. Some Part therefore of the superabundant Produce of the Country I turned into the Coffers of the Sovereign, by an Augmentation of the Tribute. To the Mint, and the Exercise of Criminal Justice, we were exclusively entitled by the very Act of Cession from the Vizier; and they were both given up to Cheyt Sing as a Matter of Personal Favour only: That we had not given up to him the Right as well as the Function, is proved by the Paragraph above quoted, where an arbitrary Penalty, and actual Deprivation, are denounced against him for the very first Abasement of Coin, by the Authority of the Council, without my Participation in the Act. These Two, therefore, I resumed, from Conviction of it's being proper and necessary so to do. The One is held by the British Resident, nominated and appointed by the Company, Mr. Fowke, by whom I believe it to have been most honourably conducted; the other I entrusted, with some new and necessary Modifications, to a Mahomedan of the first Abilities in India, and of the most unimpeachable Integrity; under whose Administration Tranquillity, good Order, and Security have taken Place in a Degree never before experienced in Benares. The Inhabitants have greatly increased since that Period, and upwards of 2,500 Houses (as he informs me in a Letter I have lately received from him) have been added to the City. To obviate Misunderstanding, I must observe, that the Administrator of Criminal Justice in Benares has always been of the Mahomedan Religion, and was always appointed by Shujah ud Dowlah himself to the Day of his Death. Of the Events subsequent to Cheyt Sing's Expulsion, I conceive a very slight Account to be sufficient. I settled the Affairs of the Zemindary at that Period with as much Care and Circumspection as the Shortness of the Time, and the Variety of my Employments, would permit. It happened (for which I was by no Means blameable) that the Persons in whom I entrusted the executive Powers of the Zemindary, and whom I chose because they were the nearest Relations to the Rajah, were inadequate to the Duty. I had Reason to doubt their Integrity as well as Capacity, and therefore I caused them to be removed. A Second Experiment proved equally unsatisfactory, and from the same Causes. I was therefore reduced to exert the same Remedy; but during these necessary, and by no Means extraordinary, Changes of Ministry, the Rajah himself and his People were in perfect Security: The very Removal of the effective Administrator, on his oppressive Conduct and Official Peculation, has operated on the Minds of the Inhabitants very greatly in Favour of British Integrity and good Government. It is a Fact, and I can adduce very many Gentlemen now in London to confirm my Assertion, that the Countries of Benares and Gauzipoor were never, within the Memory of Englishmen, so well protected, so peaceably governed, or more industriously cultivated, than at the present Moment: And as for the City of Benares, I appeal to the Letters which have been lately received from Madajee Scindia, by His Majesty and the East India Company, and which were written Months after my Departure, to prove, that my Regulations had not only contributed greatly to the Peace and good Order of that City, but had extended the Credit and Reputation of the English Government to every Part of Indostan and Deccan.

THE Lords being in their Places, the House resumed, the usual Proclamations made, and the Defendant appearing at the Bar, the Lord Chancellor acquainted the Managers for the Commons that they might proceed with their Evidence.

The Managers for the Commons informed the House that they should begin with what they left unfinished Yesterday, and first produce the Form of the Commission to former Presidents of the Council at Bengal. That upon Inquiry they found that Governor Cartier, who immediately preceded Mr. Hastings as President of the Council at Bengal, had no Commission as President, but was appointed to that Office in the same Manner Mr. Hastings himself was: Therefore they would produce the Commission to Mr. Verelst, who was the immediate Predecessor of Mr. Cartier, and also the immediate Successor of Lord Clive, the latter of whom had been appointed by a similar Commission with that now about to be produced.

For this Purpose they called Mr. ROBERT HUDSON, who produced a Book, intituled, "Bengal Dispatches;" which being delivered in, the following Extracts from it were read by the Clerk, viz. Paragraph 7. of the Company's General Letter to Bengal, dated 12th January 1768, Page 388 of the said Book—also the Company's Commission, constituting Harry Verelst Esq. President and Governor of Fort William, Page 394 of the said Book; and the same are as follow:

And to the End the said Harry Verelst may be better enabled to order and manage all the Affairs of the said United Company, we do, by these Presents, constitute and ordain John Cartier Esquire to be Second of our Council of Fort William, next after our said President Harry Verelst; Colonel Richard Smith to be and continue Third of our said Council, and not to rise to a superior Rank therein; Mr. Francis Sykes to be Fourth, Mr. Richard Becher to be Fifth, Mr. James Alexander to be Sixth, Mr. Claud Russell to be Seventh, Mr. Thomas Rumbold to be Eighth, Mr. William Aldersey to be Ninth, Mr. Thomas Kellall to be Tenth, Mr. Charles Floyer to be Eleventh, and Mr. Alexander Campbell to be Twelfth, and last of our said Council of Fort William, for governing and managing all the said Company's Affairs in Bengal, and the Places and Provinces belonging to us as aforesaid; and we do hereby give and grant unto our said President and Governor Harry Verelst, and to our Council aforesaid, or the major Part of them (the Council being duly summoned), full Power and Authority from Time to Time, to rule and govern all and every our Factors and Servants under the said Presidency, and all the Soldiers and Inhabitants of our said Fort William, and all the Towns and Territories thereunto belonging, and of all and singular the Forts, Factories, and Settlements, Lands, Territories, Countries and Jurisdictions belonging to us within the Subahship of Bengal, to administer lawful Oaths as Occasion shall require, and to do and perform all such other Acts and Things, and to use and exercise all such other Powers and Authorities as the said President and Governor, and his Council, in their several and respective Places, where the said United Company have or shall have Factors, or any Places of Trade, are authorised to do, according to such Instructions and Directions as the said Harry Verelst, our President and Governor, and Council aforesaid, shall, from Time to Time, receive, under the Hands of Thirteen or more of the Court of Directors of the said United Company for the Time being. And we the said United Company do hereby order and require all our Factors, Servants, Officers and Soldiers within the Limits of the said Presidency, and all the People and Inhabitants of the said Fort William, and all the Towns and Territories thereunto belonging, to conferm, submit and yield due Obedience unto him the said Harry Verelst, our said President and Governor, and his Council accordingly. And forasmuch as it is altogether necessary, that in case of the Death or Removal of the said Harry Verelst, our Presidency should be provided for the Defence and Government thereof, we do therefore, by these Presents, ordain and appoint, that in such Case the said John Cartier Esquire shall immediately be and succeed in the Place and Charge of President and Governor of Fort William aforesaid; and, in case of his Death or Removal, the next in Degree of Council below the said Colonel Richard Smith shall succeed in the said Presidency and Government, in as full and ample Manner, and with as large and ample Powers, Privileges, and Authorities, as are hereby granted unto the said Harry Verelst, until our further Pleasure be known therein. To prove that the Country of Bulwant Sing was always reckoned a Zemindary, that Bulwant Sing was considered as a Zemindar, and that he held and enjoyed the same through Shujah ul Dowlah, Nabob of Oude, and Vizier of the Mogul Empire*,

The Witness was directed to produce the Bengal Secret Consultations of the 6th December 1764.

The Managers for the Commons acquainted the House, That it might tend to Elucidation, if they stated, that about this Time, namely, the latter End of the Year 1764, a Project was formed for obtaining the Sovereignty over Bulwant Sing for the Company; which Project, however, was given up, and the Sovereignty left with Shujah ul Dowlah, the same not being transferred to the Company till some Years after, viz. in the Year 1775.

Then the following Extract from the Consultation, 6th December 1764, was read by the Clerk, and is as follows:

“ Fort William, 6th December 1764.

At a Consultation; Present,
The Honourable John Spencer Esquire, President;
Charles Stafford Playdell Esquire,
Warren Hastings Esquire,
John Johnstone Esquire,
Samuel Middleton Esquire,
Ralph Leycester Esquire,
John Burdett Esquire.

“ The Book of Standing Orders on the Table.

“ The Consultation of the 26th ultimo, being wrote fair, was now read, and approved.

“ Mr. Vansittart having since our last Meeting embarked for Europe, and Mr. Spencer received from him the Charge of the Government, he now takes his Seat as President of the Council, after having the Oath of Office administered to him.

“ Received the following Letter from the Commander in Chief of the Army.

“ To the Honourable Henry Vansittart Esquire, President and Governor, &c. Council of Fort William.

“ Gentlemen,

“ Before my Arrival here, Bulwant Sing wrote me a Letter, offering his Services, and that he would pay the Revenues of the Country regularly, the same as he did to the Vizier. I desired to see him; but he would not come, unless I sent him Articles signed, which I did; knowing well that if I left him in our Rear with 15 or 20,000 Horse which he has, he would prevent our Grain from coming to us, and every Thing else, did the Army march to Iliabad; notwithstanding he did not come, but put me off from Day to Day, which made me send Munier Dowla from the King to him, and also Captain Stables from myself. And now that he finds the King is under our Protection, and that no Peace is to be made with the Vizier, he has began to cross his Troops to this Side, and has promised to be with me the Day after To-morrow, and proceed, whenever I please, with the Detachment that is to take Chinargur. He has stopped Grain going to that Fort, and has ordered his People to seize such of the Vizier's Troops as they may meet with in the Country. As the King wished so much for this Man's joining us, I shall look upon it a lucky Circumstance if he keeps his Word; for, if I was obliged to drive him out of the Country, it would take up a great deal of Time, having the Ganges to cross again; and I neither could set about taking Chinargur, or march to Iliabad, till that was done, for the Reasons already mentioned; besides this, there are very few People in the Country who had any Appointments, but such as have been turned out formerly by Bulwant Sing, and have no Weight in the Country or Troops at Command; so that the Consequence of putting any of them as Phousdars or Jemadars to collect the Revenues, and assist the King against any of his Enemies, would be keeping the Army here I don't know how long, and would require, at all Times, a stronger Detachment of the Troops remaining in the Country than you would choose, or would, in all Probability, be convenient for the Honourable Company to keep up. Upon my receiving your Letters of the 6th current, I waited on the King, who is very happy at his present Prospect, and will do any Thing we please to prescribe to him. He has wrote you Letters which I now send, and were wrote before he knew of your Intentions towards him, as was also the enclosed Paper, which he desired me to forward to Calcutta, and have been by me for some Days, waiting till I would receive a Letter from the Board, by which you will find his Proposals, in a great Measure, agree with your Inclinations. I moved our Camp Three Cofs Yesterday, so as to be in Front of the King's Encampment, and between him and Iliabad. He is to write immediately to the Chiefs of the Rohillas, and all his Friends, not to join the Vizier; and assures, that if he once got Benibahadre and Bulwand Sing to come in, the Vizier would leave the Country immediately, and never make any Head again; and, at any Rate, if once we got Iliabad, and take Chinargur Fort, he will be answerable soon after to dispossess the Vizier of all the Rest of this Country. I am convinced, from what I have seen and heard, the Vizier will not agree to your Demands, and must be drove out of the Possession of his Country. The Methods you propose for doing of it are undoubtedly the best could be thought of, and what must, I think, succeed. I shall therefore, before my Departure from the Army, which I propose, with your Consent, shall be the Beginning of January, so as to go home with the Detachment of the Eighty-ninth on the February Ship Captain (Maitland), do my utmost to leave Affairs here in the following Situation; how soon a Boat from Patna arrives with Stores, which I expect daily, I will send a proper Detachment from the Army to take Chinargur, and when it is taken, shall put a proper Garrison of the Troops in it. I am to write to Mr. Billers this Night to send Grain up for the Army, which I intend to lodge in that Fort. In a few Days hence, after I have waited on the King, I shall proclaim him Superior and Possessor of all Shuja Dowla's Country, and send Letters jointly with him to all the Rajahs, &c. between this and Delly, acquainting with it, and desiring they will pay due Obedience to the King, and not join Shuja Dowla, but assist in driving him out of the Country. But, before this is done, I shall take care to have it from under the King's Hand, that he holds these Rights from the English; that he will agree to whatever the Governor and Council of Culcutta will prescribe to him ; and pay the Honourable Company yearly such Part of the Revenues of the Country, as the Presidency of Fort William will desire. I will then proceed to Iliabad with the Army, taking care that we shall, on the March, be properly supplied with Provisions ; and that our Boats can proceed up also : And, after being in Possession of that Place, I think the Troops should go no further ; nor do I imagine there will be any Occasion for it. I would recommend leaving a strong Detachment of the Troops at Iliabad, till the Army is properly established, and that Shuja Dowla has no more Power or Country ; and afterwards leave always with the King a small Detachment as he desires, and to be at his Expence, which he also proposed. This, Gentlemen, is the Situation I intend to leave Affairs in when I take my Departure from the Army, if my Time will permit of it ; and wish it may meet with your Concurrence and Approbation.

“ I am, with Esteem,
Gentlemen,
Your most obedient,
Humble Servant,
Hector Munro.”

“ Camp at Banarafs,
the 22d Nov. 1764.

“ Read the Translations of Paper of Proposals from the King, enclosed therein, as follows :

“ If this Country is to be kept, put me in Possession of it, and leave a small Detachment of the Troops with me, to shew that I am protected by the English, and they shall be at my Expence, that if any Enemy come any Time against me, I will make such Connections in the Country, that, with my own Troops and the aforementioned small Detachment, defend the Country without any further Assistance from the English, and I will pay them of the Revenues of the Country what Sum they shall demand yearly. If the English will, contrary to their Interest, make Peace with the Vizier, I will go to Delli, for I cannot think of returning again into the Hands of a Man who has used me so ill. I have no Friends I depend on more than the English ; their former Behaviour to me will make me ever respect and regard them. Now is their Time to be in Possession of a Country abounding with Riches and Treasure. I shall be satisfied with whatever Share they please of it. The Rohillas H. H. were always Enemies to the imperious Vizier ; they are all my Friends.”

“ Read also Translations of the King's Letters enclosed, to the President, the Council, Major Carnac, the Nabob, and Shitabroy, representing in general that Shuja Dowla has met with the just Punishment of his Perfidy and Disobedience of his Commands ; that conformably to our Advice and Letters which he received after the Defeat from Major Munro, he separated himself from him, and remained at Benaris, and urging us to establish ourselves and him in the Possession of Shuja Dowla's Country.

“ Ordered these Letters to be entered on the Books of Country Correspondence.

“ And having now maturely considered the Contents of the Whole ;

“ Agreed we write the following Letter in Answer to the Commander in Chief.

“ To Major Hector Munro, Commander in Chief of the Army.

“ Sir,

“ We have received your Letter of the 22d ultimo, with the several Papers enclosed, and, having maturely considered the Contents of the Whole, we are now to give you our Sentiments and Instructions thereupon.

“ We are extremely glad to find the King has joined you, and approve of the Plan which you have laid down for establishing him in the Possession of Shuja Dowla's Country, to which we are reduced by Shuja Dowla's having again refused a Compliance with our Terms, and the King's having in Consequence received our Protection. We do not however mean to enter into any Connections which would engage us further than fixing the King as aforesaid ; and altho', for the Completion of this Object, we wish not to be carried to a greater Distance than Iliabad, yet we cannot prescribe that Place as the utmost Limit to which the Army shall advance, as Circumstances may possibly intervene to render your proceeding further necessary.

“ As to the King's Request for having a small Detachment of our Forces stationed with him, we shall be better able to judge of the Necessity or Propriety of such a Measure, when he is entirely established in these Possessions, and we know the State of his own Army.

☞ [“ With regard to Bulwant Sing, we shall adhere to the Terms which you may have thought it necessary to make with him ; but it is our View, so far as it can be done consistently with your Engagements, to have the Power and Authority over this Rajah and his Zemindarries, vested in the Company by Sunnuds from the King, holding them under him with the same Rights, and in as full a Manner, as enjoyed by Shuja Dowla ; and that the whole Rents so collected shall be appropriated for the Use of the Company, and wrote off from the Books of the King's Revenues (*).”]

☞ “ This, you will observe, will extend the Limits beyond those mentioned in our last of Benaris and Chinargur : The Tract of Country including those Places was considered as a Cession to

( ) For the Purpose of more distinctly marking the Conclusion of the Matter particularly referred to by the Managers for the Commons, it has been thought proper to add a Hand pointing to the inverted Bracket ], thus ☞.

to be made by Shuja Dowla on our acceding to a Peace with him; but what we now mean to require for the Company, we demand as a Conquest to be secured to them from being obliged to continue the War, and as some Recompence for the Hazard their Property has been and may be exposed to in the Course of it.

" With regard to the other Parts of Shuja Dowla's Country, as the King has been declared Supreme, he will of course take Possession, and collect the Revenues thereof; but as his Authority becomes established, we think it proper to demand, that such Proportions of them as his Necessities will permit, should be applied to assist in defraying the Expences of the War; and when he is in full Possession, we shall expect to have the Whole reimbursed us.

" In the mean Time, as the King, in some of his Letters, expresses great Distress for Money, and as his Collections may not for some Time come in, we permit, should he apply for it, that you advance him such Sums as his Exigencies may absolutely require, taking proper Care not to expose yourself to any want for the Payment of our own Army; by this, however, we only mean to contribute to the Support of his Dignity, by advancing for the necessary Expences of his Household, and not to take upon ourselves the Burthen of maintaining the Troops which he may raise; and we trust to your Discretion, as you know our Resources, for not engaging us in too heavy an Expence.

" As the King intimates, that when we have once put him in Possession, he shall be able to maintain himself with very little Assistance from us; we desire you will inform yourself, as well from the King himself, as from his Officers, what Views he has, in this Respect, and what Prospects of forming Connections, that shall answer such Expectations.

" To avoid giving any Umbrage or Jealousy of our Power to the King, or the Nobles of the Empire, we would have every Thing done under the Sanction of his Authority, and that we may appear as holding our Acquisitions from him, and acting, in the War, under his Authority, in supporting his Rights, and not he as holding those Rights from us.

" The Paper from the King, which you mention to have inclosed, was not received with your Letter, only a Translation of it. We desire, therefore, you will send us the Original, or an exact Persian Copy, and observe this Method in future.

" With respect to the Agreements entered into by the Inhabitants of Benaris for the Ransom of the City, we are glad that such an Opportunity has offered of obtaining a Reward to the Army for the very signal Service which they have rendered the Company, as well as a Compensation for the Loss which they sustained of their Baggage in the Action of the 23d of October; nor can we have any Objection to it in this particular Occasion; but as we would consider the Country, not as a Conquest, but belonging to the King, whom we have engaged to support against the common Enemy, no future Considerations of this kind should be demanded from the Inhabitants, or expected by the Army, but every Care taken to conciliate the Affections of the People.

" We have caused the Articles which we mean the King should accede to, to be drawn up in proper Form, in the Persian Language, and we now enclose them, together with an English Copy, for your Information, desiring you will present them to him for their being executed; in case he should not have already agreed to them on Mr. Marriott's Arrival, we have desired him to co-operate with you in engaging his Majesty to a Compliance with them.

" In Answer to the Intention, which you intimate, of quitting the Army with the Detachment of the 89th Regiment in order to embark for Europe; we can only say, that we must request the Continuance of your Services, as long as the Season, and your Orders from his Majesty, will possibly permit of your remaining with the Army.

" The Delivery up of Meer Cossim Sombre, and the Deserters, has always been a principal Object with us, and we must request that you will make it a Point with the King, that he will jointly with you use his utmost Endeavours for securing their Persons, and bringing them to the just Punishment of their atrocious Behaviour; and that his Majesty will, on no Account, consent to the granting them any Protection throughout his Dominions, but publicly declare them outlawed.

" We have appointed Mr. George Vansittart to proceed up to the Army with all Expedition, and attend you in the Capacity of Persian Interpreter.

" P. S. The President has wrote a Letter to the King, in Answer to those received from him, which you will receive herewith, together with an English Copy for your Information."

" The Articles mentioned in the foregoing Letter to be executed by the King.

☞ [" In consideration of the Assistance and Fidelity of the English Company, which has freed us from the Inconveniencies we laboured under, and strengthened the Foundations of the Empire which God has given us, we have been graciously pleased to grant to the English Company our royal Favours, according to the following Articles, which shall remain firm both at present and in future.

" As the English Company have been put to great Expence, and their Affairs exposed to Danger, by the War which the Nabob Shuja ul Dowlah unjustly, and contrary to our royal Pleasure, waged against them, we have therefore assigned to them the Country of Gazypoor, and the rest of the Zemindarry of Rajah Bulwant Sing belonging to the Nizamut of the Nabob Shuja ul Dowla; and the Regulation and Government thereof, we have given to their Disposal in the same Manner as it was in the Nabob Shuja ul Dowla's. The aforesaid Rajah having settled Terms with the Chiefs of the English Company, is according thereto to pay the Revenues to the Company, and the Amount shall not belong to the Books of the Royal Revenue, but shall be expunged from them. The Army of the English Company having joined our Standard, shall put us in Possession of Iliabad and the rest of the Countries belonging to the Nizamut of Shuja ul Dowlah, and the Revenues, excepting those of Rajah Bulwand's Zemindarry, shall be in our entire Management and Disposal.]

"As the English Company will be at a further Expence in putting us in Possession of Iliabad, and the rest of the Nizamut of the Nabob Shuja ul Dowlah, we will therefore, as we get Possession, grant to them out of our Treasury such a Proportion of the Revenues as the Exigencies of our Affairs will admit of; and when we are put in full Possession, we will reimburse the whole Expences of the Company in this Business, from the Time of their joining the royal Standard."

"Agreed further, that we write to the Chief and Council at Benaris, advising them, for their Information and Government, of our having demanded for the Company all the Rights and Jurisdiction over Bulwant Sing's Country, and enclosing them a Copy of the Articles which we have sent to Major Munro to get executed by the King, desiring, if he should not have already agreed to them when Mr. Marriott arrives, that he will accordingly co-operate with the Major in engaging his Majesty to a compliance with them.

To prove that Rajah Cheit Sing, on the Death of his Father Bulwant Sing, succeeded to the said Territories, and was fully invested with the Government thereof in the Year 1770,

The Witnesses produced Book 4, intituled, "Bengal Letters received 21st April } 1769.
12th April } 1771."

Read, Paragraphs 30, 31, 32, and 33, from a General Letter of the President and Council at Fort William in Bengal, to the Court of Directors, dated the 31st Oct. 1770; and signed, "John Cartier.

Claude Russell.
Charles Floyer."

[Par. 30. "In our Letter of the 11th ultimo we informed you of the Death of Rajah Bulwant Sing, and of the Measures we were taking with the Nabob Sujah ul Dowlah to induce him to settle the Succession of the Zemindarry of Benares on the late Rajah's Son. The Nabob immediately dispatched Allage Cawn as his Agent to Benares, in order to open a Negotiation with the young Rajah, which he in Person had at first seemed desirous of concluding, and accordingly fixed a Day for his Departure from Fayzabad; but being prevented from his Purpose by Indisposition, and wisely judging that the March of his Retinue through the Country might at that Time be prejudicial to the new Crop, he desired Captain Harper, immediately on Receipt of the President's Letter, to proceed as expeditiously as possible with his Battalion of Sepoys to Benares, and to be present at the Conferences held between his Agent and the late Rajah's Son. The Demands made by the Nabob's Agent were Twenty Lacks of Rupees, as a Nazerannah, and Five Lacks per Annum, as an Addition to the Sum stipulated by the Treaty of 1765. The Terms were however finally concluded on the 8th instant, when the Nazerannah was settled at 17 Lacks, and the required Increase was reduced to 2½ Lacks of Rupees. Permit us, Honourable Sirs, to congratulate you on so very happy a Conclusion of an Event we deem highly important to your Interest.

Par. 31. "The Vizier's Readiness in complying with this our earnest Recommendation and Request has afforded us the greatest Satisfaction, and is a Circumstance the more pleasing, as it must give Strength to the Opinions of the several Powers in Hindostan of the strict Friendship subsisting between the English and him, and his having considered Captain Harper as a necessary Witness to the Negotiation carrying on between his Agent Allage Cawn and the young Rajah Chait Sing, will serve as a Proof to the World, that he meant not to take any Measure therein that might give the least Cause for Suspicion on our Part. And here we must express our Belief, that so delicate a Matter being brought to a speedy Issue without those Altercations and Difficulties which generally take place in Treaties of this Nature, has been in great Measure owing to the prudent Conduct of Captain Harper.

Par. 32. "The President was requested to acquaint the Vizier with the proper Sense we entertain of the Attention he has paid to our Recommendation, and that we consider it as an additional Proof of his Friendship.]

Par. 33. "Captain Harper informs us, there were several Competitors for the Zemindary of Benares, amongst whom was a Grandson of the late Rajah Bulwant Sing, who was strongly supported ported by the Bramins, because his Mother is the Wife of a Bramin, and to whom he gives the prior Right of Succession, for this Reason, that Chait Sing is not the Issue of Bulwant Sing's Wife, but of a Raseport Woman, whom the Rajah took into his Family.—This Matter does not seem to be properly understood by Captain Harper; for when it is considered that by the Tenets of the Gentoo Laws, the Right of Inheritance is confined to the Issue of the Male Line, to the utter Exclusion of that of the Female, it is evident, the Pretensions of the Grandson can only be urged by Bramins, who are ever partial to their own Sect."

Par. 18. " With respect to the Son and Successor of Bulwand Sing, the Vizier has, as we before informed you, acted agreeably to our Desire. Chaet Sing is now fully invested with the Government, to the entire Satisfaction of every one, and is considered by the Vizier as holding that Country on the same Terms as his Father, the Difference in the Revenue excepted. The Whole are now settled at Benares Rupees 22,48,449, 2,50,000 more than were paid by his Father. The Vizier expressed a Desire of seeing the young Rajah at the Marriage of his eldest Son Mirza Amany; the Rajah, sensible how much this Mark of Respect was due from him at that Time, promised to attend; but at length excused himself, perhaps by the Advice of his Father's Counsellors, who had kept alive the Family Enmity."

To prove the next Allegation in the first Article, namely, that, in the Year 1773, the Defendant was empowered by the President and Council to renew, on Behalf of the Rajah Cheit Sing, the stipulations formerly made with the Vizier in Favour of his Father Rajah Bulwant Sing *;

The Witness was directed to produce the Bengal Secret Consultations of the 4th of October 1773.

* Vide 1st Article, page 3. par. 4.

The Managers for the Commons being asked, Whether there was any Instrument by which the Rajah Cheit Sing was invested with his Zemindarry, Made answer, That if any Instrument of that Sort did pass, it was probably in the Hands of Shujah ul Dowlah, or of the Rajah Cheit Sing.

Being further asked, If there was any Passage stating such Instrument, They made answer, None that they had been able to find.

Then the Witness produced Book 3, intituled, " Bengal Secret Consultations, 18th January to 30th December 1773."—Read, Extract from a Consultation of the 4th October 1773, Page 521, of the same Book.

The Managers for the Commons proposed next to shew the Proceedings of the Defendant in the Year 1773, when he was at Benares, from his own Report of them at his Return to the Board. For which Purpose,

"To William Aldersey Esquire, &c. Council at Fort William.

"Gentlemen,

"I have already advised you in my Letter of the 7th of September from Benares, of the Issue of my Negotiations, and the Sum of the Treaty concluded with the Vizir. I now lay before you No. 1. the Treaty itself, a Counterpart of which remains in his Possession. The other Papers which accompany this I shall refer to.

"No. 3. is a Persian Copy of a Cowlnama, or Engagement, which I obtained from the Vizir, confirming to the Raja Cheyt Sing, and his Posterity, the Stipulations formerly made in Behalf of his Father Bulwant Sing. No. 4. Is an English Translation of it. No. 5. A Copy of the Vizir's Pottah, or Rentroll, fixed with Raja Cheyt Sing for the Year 1178, and alluded to in the Cowlnama. No. 6. An English Translation of the Pottah. No. 7. The Translation of a Letter which I wrote to Rajah Cheyt Sing, as a further Assurance of the Conditions promised in the Cowlnama.

"The Cowlnama was executed in my Presence, and attested by me. The Vizier desired, that the Stipulations made in favour of the Rajah might be executed in this Mode, rather than by an Article in the Treaty; and it was equally satisfactory to the Rajah. I must remark, that he had already given the Rajah a Cowlnama of this Tenor, soon after the Death of Bulwant Sing, through the Solicitation of Captain Harper, by the Orders of the Select Committee. He could, therefore, have no reasonable Plea to refuse the Confirmation of it. Nevertheless, he seemed to think his former Act of so little Validity, that he pressed me, in very earnest Terms, for my Consent, that he should dispossess the Rajah of the Forts of Luteefgur and Bidgygur, and take from him Ten Lacks of Rupees over and above the stipulated Rents; and he seemed greatly dissatisfied at my Refusal. He argued, that the Treaty of Illahabad related to Bulwant Sing solely, and was never meant to extend to his Posterity. I confess, the Letter of the Treaty expresses no more; yet, I cannot conceive that either the Rajah or Lord Clive, when the Treaty was made, could have intended it in that Sense. It has certainly been differently understood both by the Company, and by this Administration; and the Vizier himself had before put it out of all Dispute, by the solemn Act passed in the Rajah's favour on his Succession to the Zemindarry. I am well convinced, that the Rajah's Inheritance, and perhaps his Life, are no longer safe than while he enjoys the Company's Protection, which is his due by the Ties of Justice, and the Obligations of public Faith, and which Policy enjoins us to afford him ever most effectually.

His

His Country is a strong Barrier to ours, without subjecting us to any Expence, and we may depend upon him as a sure Ally, whenever we may stand in need of his Services."

The Witnesses produced Book 6, intituled, " Bengal Letters received 16th May 1775, 20th January 1776."

Read Paragraphs 7 and 8 of a General Letter, Secret Department at Bengal, to the Court of Directors, dated, Fort William, 16th May 1775. (Received per Northumberland, 4th April 1776).

7. " We must not omit to mention, that the Nabob some Time ago paid in to Colonel Gailliez a second Tunka on Rajah Cheyt Sing for Six Lacks of Rupees on the Company's Account, against which the Raj did not fail to remonstrate in the strong Terms, alledging that he had made great Advances already in the Payment of his Tribute; that if the Nabob continued to do on him in this Manner, it would bring him under the greatest present Distress, and establish a Precedent that would be injurious to him in future, and therefore praying that we would not accept the Tunka, but return it to the Nabob.

8. " As we saw the Force of these Objections on the Part of the Raja, and considered him as under the particular Protection of the Company, we thought fit to order the Tunka to be returned, and consequently directed Mr. Bristow to remonstrate to the Nabob against such Proceedings. The Nabob at first received this Remonstrance with Warmth, and alledged that the Raja was his Zemindar, and that he had a Right to draw his Revenue from him as he pleased; but at last seemed to acquiesce in the Justice of Mr. Bristow's Representation, and said he would avoid giving any Uneasiness on that Account to the Raja in future."

Then the Witnesses produced Book 7, intituled, " Bengal Secret Council, 24th March to 31st May 1775. (Received per Northumberland, 4th June 1776.)"

" The Governor lays before the Board the following Translations of Letters from Rajah Cheit Sing, One of which is addressed to himself, and the other to the Rajah's Vakeel.

" From Rajah Cheit Sing.

Rajah Cheit Sing satisfied with the Tuncaws granted by the Nabob on him.

" I have been honoured by your gracious Letter, informing me that my so ready Compliance with your Desire in the Payment of the Tunka of Five Lacks of Rupees gave you great Pleasure, and also that you would write to the Nabob Asoph ul Dowlah to expel Munneer and Offant Sing, and to put a Stop to the building of the House at Benares. Munneer Sing is still in the Presence, and Offant Sing has left his Highness's Army, and taken up his Residence at Illahabad, and has an Intention of farming Two or Three Mahals of Noroze Ally Cawn, the Naib Soubah.

" With respect to the Letters which you were so kind as to promise to write to the Nabob Asoph ul Dowlah on this Subject, if they are not yet sent, I request that there may be no Delay in forwarding them, that these Two rebellious and ungrateful Servants may be expelled from the Country. My sole Dependence is in your Favour.

" The Decease of the late Nabob has for the present put a Stop to the Building which was carrying on at Benares.

" I have written fully to Ally Nawaz Cawn on several Subjects, who will have the Honour of communicating every Particular to you."

" Extract of a Letter from Rajah Cheit Sing to his Vakeel.

" By a Letter from Mohukkim Sing I learn, that Mahomed Ellich Cawn has received a Tunka on me, to commence on the 7th Kikaft, and that it has been determined to give another Tunka on on me for Six Lacks of Rupees in advance to the English Chiefs. You are well acquainted with the Nabob's Disposition, and that he is continually devising Means to bring me under the Governor's Displeasure. He has concluded in his own Mind that I will not consent to the Payment of Advances, lest it be considered as a Precedent; and that, by refusing to do so, I shall fall under the Governor's Displeasure. I have already paid Five Lacks of Rupees to the Government, and you are to consider that, by the Payment of that, it makes good all that was due from me to the 6th Kist, Mahomed Elliah Cawn's Tunka commences the 7th Kist, and will be paid at the latter End of Suffer.

" The Tunka of Six Lacks in advance, which it has been determined to give the English Chiefs on me, is without any Precedent, except the One of Five Lacks of Rupees, which I lately discharged. I was then fearful of its becoming a Precedent, and was undetermined whether to comply with it or not; but, in consequence of Letters from the Governor and you, pressing me to the immediate Payment of it, I raised the Sum by Loans. I am now again plagued with Demands beyond my Power to comply with. As the Governor has been graciously pleased to honour me with the Appellation of his Son, I have the greatest Confidence that he will exert himself to prevent any Tunkas in advance being given on me. Represent this Affair to him in private, and request from me that he will not give his Consent to this Tunka, but that he will be so kind as to write to the Nabob Afoph ul Dowla, that he may desist from ever troubling me with such kind of Tunkas, which it is not in my Power to comply with, but to take my Kists from me monthly."

Agreed that the following Directions be sent to Mr. Bristow, in consequence of the above Representation from Raja Chite Sing.

" To Mr. John Bristow, Resident at the Court of the Nabob of Oude.

" Sir,

" We have received a Letter from you of the 14th March since our last to you.

" Rajah Cheit Sing having complained to this Government of the Distress which he suffers from the Nabob Afoph ul Dowla granting Tuncaws upon him, particularly in the late Instances of One granted to Ellich Cawn, and another to the Company, for Six Lacks of Rupees, both of which encroach greatly upon the Kists which are not yet due, every Thing being paid up already by him to the 6th Kist, we direct that you remonstrate to the Nabob against such Proceedings, shewing that they are unjust, and contrary to his Engagements with the Raja, of which we are the Guarantees, and that you demand Payment from him for the above-mentioned Tuncaw to the Company which he delivered to Colonel Gailliez, and which the Raja thus declines to accept; and also that you require the Payment of the other Sums due by him without Delay.

" We desire you may transmit with all possible Dispatch the Account of the monthly Subsidy for the Troops received from the Nabob, for which we wrote you some Time ago.

" Honourable Sir, and Sirs,

" My last was on the 11th instant, since when I am favoured with your Letter of the 30th ultimo. I, in consequence, waited upon his Excellency, and intimated your Commands to him. He, at first, expressed great Discontent at the Honourable Board's protecting Rajah Cheyte Sing; called him him his Zemindar, of whom he had a Right to require his Rents in advance; and told me that he did not think I was authorised to make any Representation to him on this Head, or that of the Release of the Rohilla Families; for the Governor General would have wrote to him, as well as to me, on these Matters. I hereupon quoted the Words of my Credentials, and requested his Excellency to consider my Trust was general; that it was intended he should pay Attention to any Representations I should make in the Name of the Honourable Board; and this Mode of Negotiation had been adopted to save Trouble on both Sides.

Deest in Orig. " I likewise quoted the Treaty subsisting between the late Vizier and Rajah Chyete Sing, and their Heirs respectively, of which the Company were the Guara so long as the Raja paid his Gifts, when they and his Excellency, on his Part, could not dema Encrease of Rent or Sums in advance.

" After a long Conversation his confessed he had, on my first mention not recollect the Circumstances I had explained to him; that his Reason for granting the last Tuncaw was, the Rajah having once before paid me in favour of the Company for Five Lacks of Rupees, and thought he would do it again; besides this, he had, at the Time, no other Means of discharging ever so small a Part of the Money due from him to the Company. I, upon this, told his Excellency (what he also pretended not to remember) that the Rajah had been induced to pay the First Tuncaw of Five Lacks with great Difficulty, and did it solely to avoid Altercation; that he would not now, by a Repetition, establish a Precedent so disadvantageous to himself, and contrary to the Letter of the Treaty. I then explained the Orders of the Honourable Board, which I had just received, directing me to solicit for the immediate Payment of the Amount of the said Tuncaw of Six Lacks, and the Balance in full, due to the Company: To which his Excellency replied, that he really had not Money at present; but if I would wait only Eight or Ten Days, agreeable to his Promise, he would liquidate the Balance; and should esteem it an Act of Friendship in the Honourable Board, still to accept the Tuncaw; for although it was not immediately receivable, yet the Money might be esteemed secure, and would be paid out of the Rajah's ensuing Gifts. His Excellency also assured me, that he would not draw in future upon the Rajah in advance.

" After the Instructions I had received from the Honourable Board relative to the new Treaty, I thought it adviseable, in case the ceding of Benaras should take Place, that it ought to be done without Incumbrances; for this Reason I shall write to Mr. Motte to return the Tuncaw to me, receive such Part of it as is become due upon the Rajah's Gifts, which I will get passed in Account with the Nabob, and endeavour to have the Balance paid me here.

" At my Interview this Day there were many People present. I therefore thought it necessary, after the Conversation which had passed, both to support the Honour of the Government, and the Credit of my own Station, to tell his Excellency, that the Honourable Board would never suffer the Rights of their Dependants to be infringed; Rajah Chyete Sing was to be considered in this Light, and he must expect to see him protected; for that he was not to be put upon a Footing with his other Zemindars."

Signed, at the End of the Letter,

" John Bristow,

Resident at the Court of the Nabob of Oude."

Then the Witnesses produced Book VIII. intituled, " Bengal Secret Consultations, 2d January and 14th February 1775."

And the Managers for the Commons desired an Extract from Bengal Secret Consultation of the 13th February 1775, containing a Proposition made by Mr. Hastings relative to Chyete Sing, and his own Observations upon that Proposition, might be read.

The Counsel for the Defendant submitted, that the Sense would be mutilated if the Governor General's Proposition alone were read, without reading the Whole of the Minutes preceding it.

The Managers for the Commons said they thought it immaterial, but did not object to the rest of the Minutes being read.

Accordingly read, the following Extracts of Secret Consultation, 13th February 1775, beginning at Page 793 of the said Book.

Secret Dep.
Monday.

" The Board proceed to consider the Subject of the further Instructions which it may be necessary to give to the Resident at the Court of Asoph ul Dowlah, Nabob of Owde.

" The

" The Governor General,—conceives it to be necessary, before the Board proceed any further on the Business now before them, that One Principle, upon which every other Resolution must depend, should be determined; and therefore desires that the following Question be put.

" Whether this Board considers the Treaties which were made with the late Nabob Sujah Dowlah, as remaining in Force, or as having expired at his Death?"

" Mr. Francis.—I think that the Obligations contained in the several Treaties with the Vizier, to support him in the Possession of his Territories, were confined to his Person, and consequently expired with him.

" Mr. Barwell.—This Question must be decisively determined by the express Letter of the reciprocal Engagements of the contracting Parties. I therefore desire the Treaties may be referred to, the Board will then see how far the Obligations extend.

" Read the Treaties of Illahabad and Benares.

" Mr. Barwell.—I think the Treaties bind to his Heirs.

" Colonel Monson.—I think the Treaties with the Vizir expire in his Person.

" General Clavering.—I desire to know, whether the Governor in the Word " Treaties" comprehends the Engagement with the late Vizir respecting the Rohilla War?

" The Governor General.—I conceive, that my Opinion in this Point can be of no Use in deciding the Question before us, because it has been already decided by the Majority of the Board, that the Engagements with respect to the Rohilla War, formed by the late Administration with the late Vizir, had not the Obligation of Treaty, nor, if I rightly recollect the Declaration made on this Subject, were, in any respect, obligatory upon this Government.

" General Clavering.—I could have wished to have heard the Governor General's Opinion upon the Question I took the Liberty to submit to him, on the Obligations of this Government to defend the Rohilla Country, as clearly given as that which Mr. Barwell gave in his Minute of the 31st October, because I might have formed some Judgment of the Governor General's Ideas on the Force and Extent of the Treaties contracted with the late Vizir. I think the Treaty of Illahabad was broken by the subsequent Treaty of Benares, by which Corah and Illahabad were taken from the King and given to the Vizir; so that, whatever Conception I might entertain of the Validity of the original Treaty, I think it now no longer obligatory on this Government till the Court of Directors have given their Approbation of the Treaty of Benares, which entirely altered the Nature of the other.

" The Governor General.—I am of Opinion, that the Treaties which were made with the late Nabob Sujah Dowlah still continue in Force, and have admitted of no other Change but in that of the Person of his Heir and Successor standing in his Place. The first Clause of the first Article of the Treaty of Illahabad, in my Construction of it, extends the Obligation of that Treaty to the whole Line of the Nabob Sujah Dowlah's Heirs. The Treaty of Benares being but explanatory of the former, in the Article which respects the Part of the extra Charges of the Forces employed in his Defence, must be understood in the same Sense with respect to that Article; and the first Article expressly granting the Possession of Corah and Illahabad to the Vizir for ever, a Term excluding all Limitation;

" Resolved, That the Treaties made with the late Vizier Sujah Dowlah do not remain in Force, but expired at his Death. The Treaties of the late Vizier expired with him.

" The Governor General proposes the following Question.

" Whether a new defensive Treaty shall be executed with the Nabob Asoph ul Dowlah, in case he himself should solicit it?

" Mr. Francis.—Supposing the Nabob to require our Assistance in support of his Succession, I think that a new Defensive Treaty should be formed with him on the most advantageous Terms which can be obtained for the Company.

" Mr. Barwell.—Certainly.

" Col. Monson.—I think a new Defensive Treaty should be executed with the Nabob Asoph ul Dowlah on the most advantageous Terms for the Company.

" The General agrees with Colonel Monson.

" The Governor General.—I am of Opinion there should.

" Agreed, that a new Defensive Treaty be executed with the Nabob Asoph ul Dowlah, in case he solicits it. A new Treaty to be formed with Asoph ul Dowlah.

" The Governor General proposes that each Member of the Board deliver in his Sentiments of the Conditions to be required or acceded to for the new Treaty: Not having himself sufficiently considered this Subject in the Latitude which has been given to it by the foregoing Resolution, he wishes to prepare what he may have to offer himself, unless any immediate Proposition shall be made by any Member of the Board, on which he should be willing to give his Opinion. Each Member to deliver his Sentiment on this.

" Resolved to adjourn to the Evening, that every Member may prepare his Ideas on this Subject. Adjourned.

" Met in the Evening at Six o'Clock, according to Adjournment.

" Resumed the Subject of the new Treaty to be formed with the Nabob of Oude. Met again.

" Agreeable to the Governor General's Proposal in the Morning, the Members of the Board deliver in their separate Opinions in Writing, as follows:

" Fort William, 13th February 1775.

" Mr. Francis.—Supposing it to be the Interest and Desire of the present Nabob of Oude to enter into a new Defensive Treaty with the Company, by which we may oblige ourselves to guarantee to him the Possession of any Part of his present Territories, I think that the following Articles should be proposed and insisted on for the Advantage of the Company.

" 1st. The Pay of our Troops in his Service to be made equal to their real Expence upon a new monthly Estimate, and to commence from the Accession of the present Nabob.

" 2d. The Zemindarry of Benares to be made dependant as a Fief on the united Kingdoms of Bengal and Bahar, and the Tribute lately paid by the Rajah to the Vizier to be paid to this Government.

" 3d. The present Rajah of Benares to be confirmed in the Zemindarry, which may be perpetuated in his Family, under a fixed annual Tribute, and a fixed Fine at each future Investiture. A free Trade to be opened between these Provinces and his Country. The Rajah's Authority in his own Government to be left free and uncontrouled.

" 4th. If the Possession of the Rohilla Country, or any Part of it, be guaranteed by a future Treaty to the Nabob, that some favourable Terms be made for the surviving Chiefs of the Rohilla's, or their Representatives.

" 5th. The Debts from Sujah Dowlah (supposing them not to be liquidated at the Conclusion of the new Treaty) to be considered and acknowledged by the present Nabob as due from himself, or the Representative of the State of Oude for the Time being.

" 6th. Besides the Guarantee to be stipulated in Return for the above Conditions, this Government shall undertake to obtain from the King a regular Confirmation of the Nabob in his Government, according to the Laws and Constitution of the Empire.

" 7th. I conceive that the Attachment of Nudjuff Cawn might be secured with the greatest Advantage to this Government, if, through our Recommendation, the King would appoint him Vizier of the Empire with a Jaghire, which might easily be found for him either in the Donabe or the Rohilla Country. I understand that he is one of the ablest Men and best Soldiers in the Empire; if properly placed in point of local Situation, and his Attachment secured, he might serve as a Barrier to the Subadary of Oude either against the Marattas, or any other Invaders, from the Western or Southern Parts of India.

(Signed) P. Francis."

" Mr. Barwell.—The first Object to be attended to in a new Treaty is the future Strength and Security of our own Possessions. The Company have invariably declared against any further Accession of Territory to themselves, any Conditions of that Tendency are of Course out of the Question.

" 1st. I think the Conditions of the old Treaty (the Article respecting Corah and Illiabab excepted) is a good Foundation for any we may now chuse to form.

" 2d. As it may be possible to encrease the Subsidy for a Brigade employed in Oud, &c. that Increase ought if possible to be effected; but its Extent being arbitrary, and depending entirely on the Pleasure of the Board, we should consider in which Way to make our Aid the least burthenome and most useful to our Ally.

" Our Military Establishment is become an intolerable Burthen, and the Directors have expressly recommended that such Reduction take Place in it as may be done with Safety to Bengal. To effect a Reduction appears here a secondary Object, the Safety of Bengal the First; to answer both, we should engage our Ally to pay a respectable Body of Troops, such as we may at all Times be able absolutely to command, and use as our own on any emergent Occasion; if this can be effected, a proportionable Retrenchment of our own Forces may immediately take Place, and the Burthen be removed from our Shoulders to those of our Ally; this is preferable, in my Opinion, to the hiring out any Part of our own Forces occasionally to defend Oud, &c. and will equally strengthen the Nabob against his foreign Enemies, while it renders him proportionably weak and dependant on us.

" 3d. The Independency of Gauzipore on Oud is a great political Object, and ought to be insisted on; and whatever may be resolved respecting the Revenue paid by the Rajah of that Country, the English Government ought not to stand in the same Relation to it as the late Vizier, because the Country of Benares and Gauzipore is a natural Barrier to these Provinces, and the Rajah should have the strongest Ties of Interest to support our Government in case of any future Rupture with the Subah of Oud. To make this his Interest, he must not be tributary to the English Government, for from the Instant he becomes its Tributary, from that Moment we may expect him to side against us, and by taking Advantage of the Troubles and Commotions that may arise, attempt to disburthen himself of his pecuniary Obligations.

" Mr. Monson.—On the Death of a Suba, the Subdaree escheats to the Crown; before Stipulations are made with Asif ul Dowla, his Right to the Nabobship of Oude should be legally ascertained.

" If the King nominates any other Person to the Nabobship of Oude, our Opposition to that Appointment is a Violation of the Laws of that Government under which we ostensibly hold the Dewannee.

" I think, therefore, in the present Instance, we should act as Mediator between the King and Asif ul Dowla. This Measure will be serviceable to the young Nabob, respectful to the King, and obviate many Circumstances that may hereafter appear inconsistent in our Conduct.

“ Supporting Mirza Amanee in the Succession without the King's Firmaund, will be an Act of Rebellion.

“ The King's Firmaund therefore appears to be indispensably necessary as a Sanction for our Conduct and Honour.

“ For this Service done the Nabob, we should require that Cheit Sing's Zemindaree be annexed to the Soubahship of Bengal or Bahar, or to both.

“ To engage for the young Nabob strictly to adhere to all Treaties made between the King and Soujah Dowlah, and to endeavour to prevail on the Nabob to give the Whole of the Rohilla Country to the King.

“ The King Shaw Allum, for these Advantages, and for the Respect shewn him, should make over the Sovereignty of Bengal and Bahar to the King of Great Britain, and relinquish all Claims to his Tribute.

“ If these Terms are too severe on the Nabob, they may be mitigated, by relinquishing the Sums that remain due from him for the Conquest of the Rohilla Country.

“ If the Nabob Asif ul Dowlah requires the Assistance of a Brigade, he should pay all Charges attending it.

“ I mean by Charges, the Pay, Batta, and contingent Expences.

“ General Clavering.—In considering the important Subject which is now before us, I have two Objects in View; first, the obtaining the greatest possible Advantage to the Company, in Consideration of the defensive Aid proposed to be given to the new Nabob; the Second is, the avoiding the greatest probable Inconveniency to the State by virtue of the Engagements we may enter into with him.

“ As the Basis of all my Reasoning, the following Premises must be granted to me: First, That the Nabob Miza Ammanee possesses such Disqualifications of Character, that he cannot maintain himself in his Musnud without our Assistance.

“ 2d. That there is a political Necessity in this Government not to allow any other Prince to occupy the Subahship of Oude, and the Countries of Corah and Illahabad, without our Concurrence.

“ It is well known that there will be as many Competitors for the Countries left by the late Vizier as there are Powers in that Part of Indostan. The King, the Mahrattas, the Jauts, the Rohillas, Nudjuff Cawn, and even some of the Nabob's own Family, and Commanders of his Armies, will probably all, or most of them, strive to obtain some Share of his Dominions.

“ The Question then is, Will it be for the Interest of the Company to permit any of these Princes to establish themselves in the Provinces bordering on Bengal without our Consent? I am of Opinion there would be great Danger in permitting it. In that Case, what Measure must be pursued to render us the Arbiters of those Countries consistently with those Views which I first stated, the obtaining the greatest possible Advantage to the Company, and avoiding the greatest probable Inconveniency in the Undertaking?

“ The greatest Advantage, in my Conception, that can be obtained for the Company is, First, the total Extinction of the King's Claim to the Tribute on these Provinces.

“ That the Zemindary of Benares and Gauzipore shall be held by Cheit Sing of the Company instead of the Suba of Oude.

“ To obtain the first, it should be proposed to the King that he should renounce his Tribute on these Provinces; that he should acknowledge the Nabob of Oude to be Soubah of that Country, and should appoint him Vizier.

“ In return for this Favour, we should restore to him the Country of Corah and Illahabad.

“ The Nabob, in return to the Favour shewn him, and procured by our Mediation, should relinquish to the Company the Sovereignty of Benares and Gauzipore, to be held as at present by Cheit Sing, on his paying his Tribute to the Company.

“ In order to attach this Rajah to the Company, his Tribute ought to be diminished at least Three Lacks of Rupees. Whatever Assistance shall be afterwards required by either the King or the Nabob for the Defence of their respective Countries of Corah, Illahabad, and the Province of Oude, not less than Three Lacks per Month should be paid to the Company, as less than that will not defray the Expence of a Brigade serving out of the Provinces.

The Governor General.—On the Grounds already resolved on, I propose the following Articles for the new Treaty, premising, that I consider the Debts due from the late Vizir as not appertaining to the Subject of the intended Treaty. These we claim as a Right exempt from any future Negotiation.

“ 1st. That the Treaties of Illahabad and Benares be renewed on the Footing on which they stood at the Vizier's Death.

“ By this Proposition, the monthly Subsidy for our own Army will remain as settled with the late Vizir at 2,10,000 R<sup>l</sup>. I am against augmenting it. The Expence ought not to exceed that Sum. If more be agreed on, it will either discourage the Nabob from employing the Brigade, or he will employ it, and most probably suffer it to run in Arrears.

✍ “ 2d. That the perpetual and independent Possession of the Zemindarry of Benaris, and its Dependencies, be confirmed and guaranteed to Rajah Cheit

“ The Rajah of Benaris, from the Situation of his Country, which is a Frontier both to the Provinces of Oude and Bahar, may be made a serviceable Ally to the Company whenever their Affairs shall require it. He has always Cheit Sing and his Heirs for ever, subject only to the annual Payment of the Revenue hitherto paid to the late Vizir, amounting to B<sup>t</sup>. R<sup>s</sup>. 23,71,656 : 12, to be disposed of, as expressed in the following Article; that no other Demand be made upon him, either by the Nabob of Oude, or this Government, nor any Kind of Authority or Jurisdiction exercised by either within the Dominions assigned him.

" 3. That an equal Partition be made of the Revenue of the Zemindarry of Benaris between the Company and the Nabob of Oude; that is to say, that the Rajah shall pay monthly to each the Sum of 98,823 : 2 : 9, amounting on the whole to R<sup>s</sup>. 23,716,56 : 12 per Annum; and that this Participation be expressly declared to be intended as a Pledge and Acknowledgment of the equal Relation in which the Rajah and his Successors are hereafter to stand to both Governments.

" Agreed, that these several Opinions lie for further Consideration."

The above Extracts being read, the Managers for the Commons submitted to the House, whether it would not be reasonable, that, for the future, when a Paper was produced, such Matter ONLY as they proposed to read should be read, unless the Counsel for the Defendant would state that they wished to read other Parts of the same Paper, as necessary to illustrate and to make intelligible the Matter particularly referred to by the Managers for the Commons.

The House informed the Managers for the Commons and the Counsel, that the Rule stood thus: That if a Paper is produced, it must be read intire, if required by either Party; and that the House for the present must put a Confidence in the Party who shall insist upon its being so read intire, that they will not do it frivolously.

To prove that the 2d Proposition abovementioned was agreed to by the Board,

The Witness produced Book 9, intituled, " Bengal Secret Consultations, 24th February and 20th March 1775."

Philip Francis,

" Read and approved the Consultation held Yesterday.

" Resumed the Consideration of the separate Minutes delivered in by each Member of the Board in Consultation of the 13th ultimo, on the Subject of a new Treaty to be entered into with the Nabob of Oude, and of the Instructions to be given to the Resident at his Court.

" It being resolved that a new Defensive Treaty shall be executed with the Nabob Asoph ul Dowlah, in case he himself shall solicit it; it remains to be determined, what Part of the Nabob's Dominions shall be included in this Defensive Treaty.

" The Governor General remarks, that the Nabob's present Dominions consist of the Subahdary of Oude, the Districts of Corah and Illiabad, the Country lately conquered from the Rohillas, and the late Vizier's Conquests in the Duabe; to these may be added the Zemindarry of Rajah Cheit Sing, which is tributary to the Nabob; and the Government † proposes, That the Question be put which of these Territories shall be included in the proposed Defensive Treaty.

" Mr. Francis.—My Opinion is, That we may with Propriety guarantee to the present Nabob of Oude, for his Life, all the Countries guaranteed to the late Vizier by the Treaty of Illahabad, except the Dominions of Cheyt Sing. I think that this Guarantee may also be conditionally and pro tempore extended to the Countries of Corah and Illahabad, until we shall be informed whether the Treaty of Benares be ratified or disapproved of by the Court of Directors. I do not think it safe or precedent * to enter into any Engagements that may eventually carry the Company's Forces * Sic in Orig. beyond the Limits of the Countries I have mentioned.

" Mr. Barwell.—In the different Resolutions that the Board have come to as a Ground-work for a new Defensive Treaty, it is acknowledged that this Government is bound to support the Rights and Pretensions of the Son of Sujah Dowlah to the Succession of his Father's Dominions, and Orders have, conformably to this Resolution, been sent to Colonel Galliez. Upon what Terms the Nabob of Oude was to have his Pretensions to succeed his Father supported by this Government, is not expressed; I therefore conceived, that the Aid of our Troops was hereafter to be settled by a Subsidy adequate to the Expence, and that the Intention of the Board was expressly declared of opposing any Competitor in Prejudice to the Rights this Government sanctify. And, as I do not suppose there is any Design in the English Government to withdraw the Countenance already shewn the Son of Sujah Dowlah, and by such Means render Commotions probable which may reduce him to that Distress to solicit our Interposition on any Terms, I imagine the Son of Sujah Dowlah is to be maintained in the Soubadarry of his Father, on the equitable Footing of his disburfing the just Charge of the Armament he requires for his Support; and if 2,10,000 Rs. are inadequate to the Expence of the Brigade, it should be rated as high as the real Charge. I premise this before I proceed to answer the Question, because every additional Advantage to be obtained to this Government, both upon Principles of Equity and Policy, must be in Proportion to the Advantages it gives to the other contracting Parties. If, therefore, we propose the Acquisition of Wealth to this Government, that Acquisition can only be in Proportion to the Policy which shall be adopted; and, as I conceive the English Government may be benefited both in its Finances, and its Powers of external Defence, by guaranteeing the Countries already in Possession of the Soubah of Oude, such Guarantee, in my Opinion, should take Place; if it does not, I must propose, equally for the mutual Defence of our Ally and this Government, that every after Persuasion shall be used to influence the Soubah to maintain a Body of 12,000 Sepoys, agreeably to the English Establishment, to be commanded by our Officers, and the Pay to be advanced to the Officers, who shall issue it to the Sepoys. Thus, either by guaranteeing all the Countries now depending on the Soubah of Oude, or the Alternative of furnishing him with the Means of maintaining his Conquests, some Advantage will result to the State; otherwise, I do not see any Means there is to influence a Prince to make such Concessions, as appear from the different Minutes of some of the Members to be expected from him.

" Colonel Monson.—I do not conceive it to have been the Intention of this Government, to support Mirza Amany in the Succession of the late Vizier's intire Dominions. The Intention was to acknowledge the Succession, and to support him under certain Stipulations in the Soubahdarry of Oude. The Defensive Treaty now proposed to be entered into with that Prince for the Guarantee of his Dominions, should not extend beyond those of Oude, Corah, and Illahabad, with the Proviso that the Treaty of Benaris is ratified by the Company. This Guarantee should only be granted on such Terms as may be advantageous for the Company. If the Guarantee is to extend beyond the ancient Dominions of the Soubahdarry of Oude, an Equivalent is to be given to the Company for that extraordinary Service granted to the Nabob. If, in this Defensive Treaty, the Nabob should make a Requisition of any Part of the Company's Military Force, he is to defray the whole Expence attending them.

" General Clavering.—The Opinion of the Majority of the Board, when the Question was agitated, Whether there was an Obligation by Treaty on this Government to interfere in regulating the Succession to the late Vizier, was absolutely, That there was no such Obligation; however, on Occasion of the Successions, it was agreed to acknowledge Mirza Amany to be the Heir and Successor to his Father, Sujah Dowlah. The Question is therefore at present open for any Resolution the Board pleases to take, in regard to the defensive Alliance it was agreed that we would enter into with Mirza Amany, provided he proposed it. On this Footing I am ready to consent to guarantee the Possession of the Province of Oude to the young Nabob; provided he, on his Part, consent to cede to the Company the Sovereignty of Cheyte Sing's Country; and whenever he requires the Assistance of the Company's Forces, to defend the Province of Oude only, and never to the Rohilla Country. I will give my Consent to such a subsidiary Treaty, on his paying Three Lacks of Rupees Monthly for a complete Brigade. With regard to the Province of Corah, I think, in Justice, it ought to be restored to the King, and a Negotiation set on Foot, at the same Time, to obtain from him a Renunciation of his Tribute upon Bengal.

" The Governor General.—My Answer to the Question is short, as it can be of no Use. We ought, in my Judgment, to guarantee to the Nabob of Oude, the Soubadaree of Oude, the Districts of Corah and Illahabad, and the Country lately conquered from the Rohillas, but no more. I do not wish to see the Company's Forces carried within the Line of the Rohilla Country, for its Defence. I believe that an Engagement to defend that Country for him would render it unnecessary. I fear he may lose it; we shall in that Case have a greater Burthen imposed on us in the Defence of the Nabob of Oude, and he be less furnished with Means of discharging his Engagements with us.

" Resolved, That the Board will agree to guarantee to the Nabob Mirza Amany the Province of Oude, and conditionally those of Corah and Illahabad, until the Pleasure of the Court of Directors on the Treaty of Benaris be known."

[ " The

✍ [“ The Governor General proposes the following Question :

“ Whether it shall be made a Condition of the new Treaty, that Rajah Cheyt Sing shall exercise a free and independent Authority in his own Dominions, subject only to the Payment of his Tribute ?

“ Mr. Francis.—Yes.

“ Mr. Barwell.—Yes.

“ Colonel Monson.—No, I think not, as I see no Advantage in it for the Company's Interest.

“ General Clavering.—Provided he pays the Tribute to the Company, I think he should be rendered independent.

“ The Governor General.—Yes.

“ Resolved in the Affirmative.]

“ Whether it shall be made an Article in the Treaty, that, in Consideration of the Engagement to be entered into by this Government to guarantee the Possessions of the Nabob of Oude, as before resolved, he shall cede and make over to the Company the Whole or any Part of the Tribute due from the Zemindar of Gauzapoor.

“ Mr. Francis.—I consider the Cession to the Company of the whole Tribute paid by the Zemindar of Gauzapoor to the late Nabob, as the first and most essential Condition of a Treaty with the present Nabob. The Advantage gained by the Zemindar will be also very considerable, as it has always been my Opinion that his Authority in his own Government should be left free and uncontrouled. As long as this Advantage is preserved to him, he must consider it as his Interest to be the Tributary of the Company, rather than of the Nabob.

“ Mr. Barwell.—The Policy which the Company have laid down to be pursued, orders us to confine our Views to the Territories of which we are already possessed, and of course precludes the pernicious Consequences which another System might influence. The Company, it is obvious, never intended that, upon the Necessities of our Allies, we should grasp at any Part of the Territory they possessed. The Son of a Man with whom we were so lately intimately connected, upon a Supposition of his standing in Need of our Assistance, ought not, in my Opinion, to be stripped of any Part of his paternal Territory. I am therefore against any Separation of Gauzipore, as inconsistent with Equity and the Company's Instructions. If we can secure to the Son of Sujah Dowlah any Advantages as an Equivalent for such a Cession, I think in that Case it ought to be demanded ; otherwise, that we should be content with receiving from him whatever may be the Charge of the Armament that marches to his Assistance.

“ Colonel Monson.—As I consider the Company's Interest as the Rule of my Conduct, I can have no Objection to the Whole or any Part of the Tribute of the Zemindar of Gauzipore being demanded for the Company ; but I would by no Means consider it as an absolute Condition to be made in consequence of the Defensive Treaty, as I know of no Compensation that is proposed to be given to the Nabob for so considerable a Cession.

“ General Clavering.—It is equally repugnant to my Ideas of Justice, and to my Conception of the Company's Intentions of not enlarging their Territories, to strip any Prince of his Possessions to enlarge the Company's Territories. I only wish to obtain the Sovereignty of Gauzipore by a Negotiation for equivalent Services, and for the Protection to be given to the Nabob. If he pleases to cede it to us upon these Terms, it may be held by the Company without extending the Line of Defence which the Court of Directors has prescribed for the Rule of our Conduct, beyond the Bounds of our present Engagements. By this Means the greatest possible Advantage will be obtained for the Company, without either violating the Principles of Justice, or exceeding the Company's Orders, since the Possession will still remain in the Rajah of the Country, though the Sovereignty and Tribute to be drawn from it will devolve to the Company.

“ I am of Opinion that a Demand should be made of a Moiety of the Revenue paid by the Zemindar of Gauzipore ; but I do not think that we ought to insist on this Article, or that his Refusal to consent to it should prove an Impediment to our proceeding on the Treaty. The Zemindary of Benares, whilst the Nabob's Right to the Tribute paid in Acknowledgment of his Sovereignty is admitted, is but Security for the punctual and faithful Discharge of his Engagements with the Company.

“ It is for ever within our immediate Reach, and may be attached at any Time in case of such a Failure on the Part of the Nabob as shall render it necessary and justifiable. A Conviction of this Advantage, and a Dread of incurring so mortifying a Penalty, will at all Times, except in a Case of absolute Insolvency, bind the Nabob of Oude firmly to his Engagements, and eventually prove a greater Benefit to the Company, in his Possession, than if the Revenue was converted entirely to their Use.

“ Resolved, That a Demand be made for the Tribute of Gauzipore, but that it be not considered an absolute and indispensable Article in the Negotiation with the Nabob.

“ The Governor General proposes for the next Question,

“ Whether the Subsidy to be stipulated for the Assistance of our Troops, to the Nabob of Oude, by the proposed Treaty, shall continue on the present Footing of 2,10,000 Rupees per Month, for a Brigade, or what other Sum shall be demanded ?”

" Mr. Francis.—I think, that provided the whole Tribute from the Rajah of Benares be transferred to the Company, we may then be content with the Monthly Subsidy on its present Footing; this however should be our Ultimatum.—The first Demand should be, that the Pay of our Troops, while in the Nabob's Service, be made equal to the real Expence.

" Mr. Barwell is of Opinion, that if the 2,10,000 Rupees are not enough, the Subsidy should be made equal to the real Expence.

" Colonel Monson.—If the present Subsidy is not equal to the Expence, a Demand should be made on the Nabob, to make the Subsidy equal to the Expence of the Troops he may require.

" General Clavering.—As I only consented that he should have the Assistance of our Troops on Condition of the Cession of Gauzipoor to the Company, I am of Opinion, that without that Condition obtained, no Subsidy whatever will be equivalent to the Risque and Expence which the Company may be drawn into, in consequence of our affording Support to a Prince so incapable of governing as the young Nabob is represented to be, and who is surrounded on every Side by Competitors to the several Countries to which he has succeeded. The present Subsidy is thought to be inferior to the Expence of the Troops in the Field by 70,000 Rupees per Month, exclusive of the Cost of bringing Recruits from Europe, and the Price of Military Stores, the Amount and the Value of which cannot be estimated.

" The Governor General.—I am of Opinion, that the present Subsidy is sufficient, and that it ought not to be increased. I doubt whether a larger Sum would in reality prove a Gain to the Company.

" Resolved, That an Increase of the Subsidy be demanded from the Nabob, to make it equal to the Expence of the Troops.

" Ordered, That the Secretary prepare Instructions for the Resident at the Court of Oude, agreeable to the above Resolutions, and those of the 13th Ultimo."

To prove that the before mentioned Resolution particularly referred to by the Managers for the Commons, supra Page 48, relative to the Rajah of Gauzepoor being made independent, was communicated to the Court of Directors;

" To the Honourable the Court of Directors for Affairs of the Honourable the United Company of Merchants of England trading to the East Indies.

" Honourable Sirs,

" 1st. We had the Honour to address you in Duplicate from this Department by the Bute and Secret Dep. Pacifick, under Date 24th of last Month.

" 2d. Soon after the Departure of these Ships, we resumed the Consideration of the Conditions on which it would be expedient to renew our Treaties with the Nabob of Oude, should he require it.

" 3d. The Subject was agitated in Council with every Degree of Attention and circumstantial Discussion which its Consequences demanded. The Opinions and Arguments of the different Members are fully recorded in the Proceedings, to which we beg leave to refer. The Resolutions of the Board upon them were in Substance as follows:

" 1st, That we should agree to guarantee to the Nabob the Possession of his ancient Dominion of Oude, without any Limitation, and of those of Corah and Illahabad conditionally, till your Determination on the Treaty of Benares be known.

" 2dly, That we should not take upon us the Defence of the Conquests of the late Vizier in the Doaub, or in any Shape interfere in its Affairs.

" 3dly, That the Company having fulfilled in their Engagements with respect to the Rohilla Expedition, we should not guarantee the Possession of that Country to him.

" 4thly, That it should be an Article in any new Treaty with him, that the Rajah of Gauzipore should be rendered totally independent, and left to exercise a free Authority in his own Dominions, subject only to the Payment of his Tribute.]

" 5thly, That in Return for the Guarantee and Protection, which we thus agreed to afford the Nabob, we should demand from him the Cession, in Favor of the Company, of the Tribute now paid to him by the said Rajah of Gauzipore.

" 6thly, That it should be stipulated in the new Treaty, That in case of our Troops marching to the Assistance of the Nabob, he should pay a Monthly Subsidy equal to the real Expence.

" 4th. These Resolutions were communicated to the Resident at the Nabob's Court, and he was instructed to regard them as the Ground Work of any Treaty which shall be negotiated between the Nabob and this Government; but that he should listen to no Proposals until all the Claims, in virtue of his late Father's Engagements with the Company, shall have been adjusted, and Payment made, or Security given for the Sums which shall appear due. Conf. 8th March.

" 5th. We also instructed Mr. Bristow, in treating with the Nabob on the different Articles above specified, to assure him of our sincere and steady Attachment to him, and in a respectful and amicable Ditto, cable Manner to expose to him our Reasons for the Limitations we proposed in the Treaty, and for expecting the Equivalent we demand. We even gave him Liberty, in case he should find the Nabob disposed to comply with the Cession of the Tribute of Gauzipore, which we look upon as an essential Article for the Company's Interest, to yield something in the Article of the Subsidy for the Troops; and to intimate, as from himself, that we may content ourselves with the present Stipulation, or some other Sum short of the real Expence.

" 6th. But if the Nabob should positively refuse to treat on the Terms above mentioned, we then directed Mr. Bristow to suspend all further Negotiations with him, informing him at the same time, that it is our Determination, in this Case, to withdraw our Troops from his Country, and to notify to us his precise Answer.

" Copy of a Representation delivered to the Nabob Asoph ud Dowlah, on the 15th of Rubbee-ul-Auwrel (16th May), from Mr. Bristow, enclosed in that Gentleman's Letter to the Board, dated 17th May 1775.

" It occurs to me, that if your Excellency would grant the Company the Revenue and perpetual Jurisdiction of Rajah Chite Sing's Zemindarry, on Condition of their protecting the Countries of Oud, Corah, and Illahabad, as specified above, and encrease the Sum formerly stipulated for the Pay of the English Troops, the English Chiefs would probably consent thereto. The resigning them so small a District, from which your Excellency derives so little Advantage, and where your Authority is so limited, in Comparison of your other Dominions, is a Matter of no Consequence to you.

" I have drawn up the Articles, which now occur to me, in the Form of a Draft of a Treaty, which I now send your Excellency; and such as I do not at present recollect, when they occur to me, I will represent to you, and at the Time of concluding the Treaty betwixt your Excellency and the English Chiefs, I will insert them therein.

" The said Nabob engages to grant the Revenues and perpetual Jurisdiction of Rajah Chite Sing's Zemindary to the English Company, on Condition of their protecting his Country as aforementioned.

" Honourable Sir, and Sirs,

" My last Address was dated the 17th Instant, since when my Attention has been taken up in urging the Proposals for the new Treaty.

" The Nabob did this Day give me a verbal Answer, that he acquiesced in them all, and would To-morrow finally settle every Article to my Satisfaction."

" Having nearly settled the proposed Treaty between the Nabob Asfup-ul-Dowlah and the Honourable Company, I herewith enclose the Copy of it in the Persian Language, and a Translation in English; the Original I did not chuse to trust by the Dawk, for fear of Accidents.

" The Nabob objected to my inserting any Thing concerning the Money Engagements of the Company with the late Vizier in the Treaty, upon the Pretence, That it (the Treaty) related only to what was to be perpetual. Such Matters as were only temporary and personal ought to be confirmed in separate Papers of Agreement. In this Light too he was pleased to consider the delivering over Benares without Incumbrances of Tuncaws, &c. The Copies of the Agreements in Persian, and the Translations in English, I herewith enclose. That relative to the Money will be returned on his Excellency's performing it. The other, relative to Benares, shall be sent along with the Treaty, by any Mode of Conveyance which the Honourable Board may be pleased to point out.

" Together with the Treaty, I received Perwannahs from the Nabob to Rajah Chyte Sing, the Cutwal, and the Daroga of the Mint at Benares, directing them to deliver over their separate Trusts to the Company at the stipulated Time. I have enclosed the original Perwannas by this Night's Dawk to Mr. Motte, desiring him and the other Parties to acknowledge the Receipt of them.

" The Nabob Asfuf-ul-Dowlah, Ictayaa Cawn, Behadre Hozebbur Jung, on the one Part, and the Honourable Warren Hastings Esquire, Governor General, and the Members of the Supreme Council of Fort William, for and in the Name of the English East India Company, on the other Part, agree to the following Articles.

[" Fifth. The said Nabob, for the Defence of his Country, as above specified; declares, that he has given up, of his own free Will and Accord, unto the English Company, all the Districts dependent on Rajah Cheyt Sing; together with the Land and Water Duties, and the Sovereignty of the said Districts, in Perpetuity. That the English Company shall, after One Month and a Half from the Date of this Treaty, take upon them the Sovereignty and Possession of the Districts under Rajah Cheyt Sing, as here-under specified; viz.

Sirkar Chumar — Bijchpore Bahdow.

Suktesquari — Mullbosi Kawsa.

The Sirkah Gawzypore.

The Pergunnah of Seckunderpore Jeride Shaa'y, Abad, Toppa Surchehur, &c. as formerly, the Mint and Cutwally of Benares.

" To Mr. John Bristow, Resident at the Court of the Nabob of Owde.

" Sir,

" We have received your Letter, inclosing Copies of the Treaty proposed to be entered into by the Company with the Nabob Asoph ul Dowlah, and of the separate Engagements executed by him. We entirely approve of every Article in the Treaty, and the Negotiation of it. We have ordered Two fair Copies to be immediately engrossed in Form, which we shall transmit to you as soon as possible, with our Signature and the Seal of the Company affixed to each, that you may obtain the Seal and Signature of the Nabob in like Manner, to return them to us.

" 2d. It is now with the greatest Satisfaction we can inform you, that the Nabob Asoph ul Dowlah has contented fully and totally to the Terms we proposed for a new Treaty with him, as advised you in our Letter of the 24th of March last. The Treaty was finally adjusted between the Nabob and the Resident, at his Court, on the 21st of May last, and the Ratification executed by us immediately after the Receipt of the Treaty.

6th June.

" 3d. In the Consultation referred to in the Margin, is inserted an exact Copy of the Treaty as signed by us. The Articles differ in nothing essential from those agreed upon to be offered to the Nabob, when we first determined to renew our Alliance with him. The Cession of Benares, and the other Territories of the Rajah Cheit Sing, to the Company, we flatter ourselves will prove perfectly agreeable to your Ideas, as it conveys a valuable Acquisition to the Company, without incumbering them with any new Engagements, or loading them with additional Expences; nor, indeed, is it liable to the Objection of involving them in the Trouble of new Collections, and new Establishments, with all the Disorders which attend them. The Revenue which accrues from this Acquisition amounts to Rupees 23,72,656 : 12, and will be paid by the Rajah in monthly Payments as a neat Tribute, without rendering any Accounts of his Collections, or being allowed to enter any Claim for Deductions. You will observe, that the Cession of the whole Zemindary of Chitling, with all the Powers and Rights annexed to it, is made immediately to the Honourable East India Company, without any Participation with the Subah of these Provinces, or any formal Union of Title or Possession between this and the Company's former territorial Acquisitions. In the Treaties entered into with the late Vizier Suja Dowla, in the Years 1765 and 1770, the Company's Representatives acted as Plenipotentiaries from the Nabob Nugum ul Dowlah, and his Successor Syeful Dowla. We hope that our securing to the Company the exclusive Right to the rich Zemindary of Benares, independent of the Sovereignty of Bengal, will be deemed a Service of Importance to their Interests, and favoured with their Approbation. It is not yet finally settled with the Rajah, whether the Tribute shall be paid at Patna or Calcutta. We wait his Answer to our Proposal on this Head, as well as to some others regarding the Cutwally and Mint at Benares, and to our Recommendation of his keeping up a Body of Cavalry to be ready for our Assistance when called upon. When these Matters are adjusted, we shall duly advise you; in the mean Time, the Governor General's Proposals respecting them, and our Deliberations upon them, will be seen in the Consultations."

5th July.

Then the Managers for the Commons stated, That having traced the Business as far as the Transfer of the Sovereignty of Benares to the East India Company, and all the Rights of the different Parties, at the different Periods at which they held them, they would now proceed to shew what Acts of Confirmation and Extension of the various Rights of Cheyt Sing, were granted to him by the East India Company; and as the next Paper they proposed to read would go to several of the Allegations in this Article, they thought it proper to apprise the House, that it related not only to the general Settlement proposed with the Rajah Cheyt Sing, but to the Grants of the Cutwally and Mint, and to the Proposal of his maintaining a certain Body of Cavalry.

The Witness was desired to produce the Bengal Secret Consultation of the 5th July 1775, in Book XI.

The Managers for the Commons stated, That the Minute of the Defendant, which they were about to read from this Consultation, consisted of Five Propositions, with the Defendant's own Observations and Comments on each of the said Propositions; it might, perhaps, therefore tend to Elucidation, if, instead of reading them successively in the Order in which they appear to be entered in the Consultation, each Proposition, and the Observations on it, were read separately and distinctly, one after the other, beginning with the First Proposition, then the Observation on that Proposition, and so on. The same was agreed to.

" The Treaties with the Nabob Asoph ul Dowla being written fair in English and Persian, Treaty executed. agreed that they be signed and sealed with the Company's Seal, and transmitted to Mr. Bristow, with the following Letter.

" To Mr. John Bristow, Resident at the Court of the Nabob of Owd.

" We are, &c.

" The Governor General lays before the Board the following Minute and Observations for their Consideration.

" The Sovereignty of the Zemindarry of Benaris, and its Dependencies, having been ceded in Perpetuity to the Honourable Company, by the Fifth Article of the Treaty lately formed with the Nabob Asoph ul Dowla, it becomes immediately necessary to determine in what Manner this Right shall be exercised, and the regular Payment of the Revenue due from the Rajah secured.

" The Governor General moves, That this Subject be taken into the Consideration of the Board, and submits to their Correction and Approval the following Plan of Settlement with Rajah Cheit Sing, to be observed until the Pleasure of the Company respecting it shall be known, declaring his Readiness to acquiesce in any other which may be proposed on Terms by which more effectual Provision may be made for the Interest of the Company, without an Encroachment on the just Rights of the Rajah, or the Engagements actually subsisting with him.

" Prop. 1. That Rajah Cheyt Sing shall pay into the Treasury of the Honourable Company at Patna, in equal monthly Payments, the yearly Revenue of 22,48,449, Senewant R<sup>r</sup>. being the Sum settled with the late Nabob Sheja Dowla, and confirmed by an Agreement executed by the said Nabob, in Presence of the President of the late Council of Fort William, at Benaris, under Date the 6th September 1773.

" Observ. 1. There is no Question that the Rajah can well afford to pay this Proportion of the Rents of his Zemindarry, which consists of as rich and well cultivated a Territory as any District perhaps of the same Extent in India.

" The Company have a clear and indisputable Right to this Sum, nor is it likely that he will either contest it, or desire any Remission of it. Besides, the other Conditions proposed in this Plan will virtually prove both an Augmentation of his Means and a Diminution of his real Payments to Government, as will be shewn in the Remarks on the last Article.

" It is proposed to receive the Payment of his Rents at Patna, because that is the nearest Provincial Station, and because it would not frustrate the Intention of rendering the Rajah independent. If a Resident was appointed to receive the Money as it became due at Benaris, such a Resident would unavoidably acquire an Influence over the Rajah and over his Country, which would in Effect render him the Master of both. This Consequence might not perhaps be brought completely to pass without a Struggle, and many Appeals to the Council, which, in a Government constituted like this, cannot fail to terminate against the Rajah; and, by the Construction to which his Opposition to the Agent would be liable, might eventually draw on him severer Restrictions, and end in reducing him to the mean and depraved State of a mere Zemindar.

" Prop. 2. That the Rajah shall be empowered to exercise a complete and uncontrouled Authority over his Zemindarry, under the acknowledged Sovereignty of the Honourable Company, in the Government of the Country dependent on him, in the Collection of the Revenues, and in the Administration of Justice.

" Observ. 2. The Advantages which the Rajah will receive from these Concessions, exclusive of the Gratifications which his Pride would obtain from the Possession of a State of Power and Dignity, unknown to any of his Ancestors, and the Security of his Person and Possessions from the Company's Protection, may be rated equal to many Lacks of Rupees, which, though saved to him, are no Loss to the Government on which he depends, being all Articles of visible Expence in Fees to the Ministers and Officers of the Nabob, in the Charges of a double Establishment of Vackeels to both Governments, in Presents and Charges of Accommodation to the Nabob during his Residence at any Place within the Boundaries of his Zemindarry, darry, in the Frauds, Embezzlements, and Oppressions, exercised in the Mint and Cutwally, besides the allowed Profits of those Officers, and the Advantages which every Man in occasional Power, or in the Credit of it, might make of the Rajah's known Weakness, and the Dread he stood in, both of the Displeasure of the Nabob, and the Ill-will of Individuals among the English, who were all considered either in their present Stations or Connections, or the Right of Succession, as Members of the State of Bengal. It would be scarce possible to enumerate all the Inconveniencies to which the Rajah was liable in his former Situation, or to estimate the precise Effect which they produced on his Revenue, and on the gross Amount of his Expences; but it may be easily conceived that both were enormous, and of a Nature the most likely to lessen the Profits of Government, instead of adding to them.

“ Prop. 3. That Sunnuds be granted to the Rajah, specially conferring upon him the Power of appointing Officers to the Charge of the Cutwally and the Mint of Benaris; the latter to be subject to such Orders and Regulations as the Governor General and Council shall at any Time think proper to decree.

“ Observ. 3. These Offices have been considered as Marks of Sovereignty; at least, this has served for the Pretext to withhold them from the Possession of the Rajah, to whom they have been a heavy Grievance, the Cutwally especially, which, being held in Farm, and exercised under the Authority of a Prince who had no Interest in the Welfare or Ease of his People, has always been represented, as in its obvious Tendency it could scarce fail to prove, a Source of the worst Corruption and Oppression, from which there was no Appeal. If there be any Weight in the Plea for referring these Prerogatives to the Company, the Grant of them to the Rajah himself, by special Sunnuds, will be a sufficient Expression of their Sovereignty, although the solemn Renunciation of it already made by the Nabob of Owde, is the best and most valid Charter under which it can be claimed; and while they have Three Brigades and a full Treasury to assert it, there is no Fear that their Right to it will be opposed by Reasonings drawn from implied Symbols of Dominion.

“ Some Regulations will be immediately necessary for the Mint, and others may occasionally become so. No Alterations should be made in the Weight or Alloy of the Coin to be debased, and the Rajah himself hold his Right to the Mint on Condition of his faithful Observance of these Rules.

“ By the Custom of Benares, all Rupees struck in the Mint are called Siccas, and pass as the current Coin of the Country for One Year; after which they are charged with a Batta, varying from 2 to 3  $\frac{1}{2}$  per Cent. according to their Dates, and pass under the Denomination of Sunwants or Gowher Shakees. It is in these Species that the Rents are payable to Government; and while they continue of equal and proper Qualities, they may be introduced into Circulation in the Province of Bahar without Loss to the Company, and with an Advantage to the Collections.

“ But the greatest Care ought therefore to be taken that the Rupees be not debased; for if they are, they will occasion a double Loss on the Company, by the immediate Discount on them in the Treasury, and by a false Currency introduced into the Revenue.

“ Prop. 4. That in Return for these Concessions, and for the Performance of his Duty as a Vassal to the Company, the Rajah shall engage to maintain in constant Pay, and ready at all Times for immediate Service, a Body of Two thousand Horse, on such a fixed Establishment as shall be prescribed by the Governor General and Council; and that whenever the Service of this Corps shall be required by the Governor General and Council, it shall be consigned to the Command of such Officer or Officers as they shall appoint, and be allowed from the Company an additional Pay or Gratuity of Fifteen Rupees per Month for each private Man, and in Proportion for the Officers of the said Corps, during the Time of such Service.

“ Observ. 4. I rather propose this for Consideration, than recommend it. Such a Body of well-disciplined and well-appointed Cavalry will give Credit to the Rajah, and may prove serviceable to this Government, though the Occasions will rarely happen in which we shall want it. The additional Pay will make them our own, when we do want them, and will be no great Expence.

“ Prop. 5. That while the Rajah shall continue faithful to these Engagements, and punctual in his Payments, and shall pay due Obedience to the Authority of this Government, no more Demands shall be made upon him by the Honourable Company, of any Kind, nor on any Pretence whatever shall any Person be allowed to interfere with his Authority, or to disturb the Peace of his Country.

“ Observ. 5. The voluntary Restraint laid by the Government on its own Actions, will afford the Rajah the greatest Confidence, and naturally inspire him with Sentiments of Fidelity and Attachment, both from the Principles of Gratitude and Self-Interest. Without some such Appearance, he will expect with every Change of Government additional Demands to be made upon him, and will of course descend to all the Arts of Intrigue and Concealment practised by other dependant Rajahs, which will keep him indigent and weak, and eventually prove hurtful to the Company. By proper Encouragement and Protection he may prove a profitable Dependant, a useful Barrier, and even a powerful Ally to the Company; but he will will be neither, if the Conditions of his Connection with the Company are left open to future Variations.

Philip Francis,

“ Reconsidered the Governor General's Minute and Plan proposed for a Settlement with Raja Cheit Sing, for the Countries lately ceded by the Nabob, which Minute, &c. are recorded in Consultation the 12th June.

“ Read the First Article of the proposed Plan.

“ The Governor General.—When I proposed the Sum of 22,48,449, Rupees, as the Sum to be fixed for the Raja's annual Payments, I meant the Sum which the Raja actually paid to the late Vizier, being the Amount of the Agreement made with the Vizier on the Accession of this Raja to the Zemindary of Benares, and confirmed by the Vizier in my Presence ; but I have since received from the Vackeel sundry Accounts, by which it appears that the Sum annually paid was 23,72,656 : 12.

Settlement proposed with Cheit Sing.

“ Ordered, That the Accounts be entered after the Consultation. The Vackeel of Raja Cheit Sing attending the Board in Consequence of the Desire of the Governor General to him, he is called in, and the following Questions put to him : attends.

“ Q. In what Manner were the Payments of the Revenue made to the late Nabob, and how was the Money remitted to him ?

“ A. A Kistbundee was formed at the Commencement of every Year, for the Payment of the Revenue by Monthly Kists, or Installments, into the Houses of Cushman Mull, and Latta Bucharaje, Two principal Shroofs at Benares, who were appointed the Nabob's Receivers ; they paid this Money to the Nabob partly by Tuncaws or Assignments, and partly by Remittances in Specie, through the Nabob's Agents who were deputed to Benares for that Purpose.

“ Q. Whose was the Expence of the Shroffage and the Charges of the Receivers ?

“ A. The Nabob's.

“ Q. Do you know whether it would be agreeable to the Raja, or will you undertake on his Behalf to answer for his Consent, to pay into the Company's Treasury at Calcutta, without Deduction, and punctually, in equal Monthly Payments, the same annual Sum which has been hitherto paid to the late Nabob Vizier, and to the present Nabob Asoph ull Dowlah ?

“ A. No. The Raja could not agree to it ; the Risk, the Expence, and the Length of the Way, are insuperable Obstacles.

“ Q. Do you know if the Raja would consent to pay his Rent at Patna ?

“ A. There are Two Objections ; the Length of the Way, which would occasion a great Expence, and the Risk.

“ Q. What Authority do you hold from the Raja, and under what Commission do you act ?

“ A. I have no other Authority than the Letter which I have delivered to you from my Master.

“ The Vackeel now takes his leave and withdraws.

“ Read again the First Article of the Governor General's Plan, and his Observations on it.

“ Mr. Francis.—I agree to the Sum, upon the Supposition that it is equal to the Whole of what was paid by the Raja to the late Nabob, but I think it ought to be paid into the Company's Treasury at Calcutta, at the Raja's Risk and Expence.

“ Mr. Barwell.—I agree to the Question, but prefer Calcutta ; and if the Raja cannot be persuaded to make the Payments there, the Company might subscribe to the Difference of Exchange and Remittance.

“ Colonel Monson.—I agree to the Question, but think the Raja should be asked to make his Payment at Calcutta.

“ General Clavering is of the same Opinion.

“ The

" The Governor General.—I agree with the Board that it would be more expedient, but as it will be attended with a great Expence, the Raja will no Doubt require an Allowance for the Difference. It may be proposed to him.

" Agreed to the First Article of the Plan, but that it be proposed to the Raja to pay his Tribute at Calcutta instead of Patna.

" Read the Second Article of the Plan.

" Mr. Francis approves of this Article, reserving only our Claim to a reasonable Compensation for the Surrender of the Cutwally and Management of the Mint to him, if the latter should be left entirely to him.

" Mr. Barwell is of Mr. Francis's Opinion.

" Colonel Monson.—No Concession should be made to the Raja; he should remain exactly in the same State of Dependence and Subordination to the Company as he was in to the Nabob.

" General Clavering.—I am of Opinion that the Raja should hold his Zemindary of the Company, on the same Footing precisely that he held it of the late Nabob; and that, if the Administration of Justice be given to him, a suitable Equivalent may be obtained, equal to the Advantages that may accrue to him from it.

" The Governor General observes that his Opinion is included in the Question.

" Agreed to the Second Article of the Plan, but that a Compensation be demanded of the Raja for the Cutwally.

" Read the Third Article of the Plan.

" Mr. Francis.—The Grant of Sunnuds for the Cutwally should be in Consequence of a pecuniary Compensation to be agreed upon between us and the Raja.—If it be thought fit to leave him in Possession of the Mint, it may be necessary that the Company should appoint a Mint Master to take Care that the Standard of the Rupees, to be coined there, shall not be altered, or that some other sufficient Precaution be taken for that Purpose. He should also, I think, pay some Compensation for so great a Privilege as that of a Mint.

" Mr. Barwell.—I think the Raja should be made the Officer of this Government, to exercise the Sovereignty in the Two Instances noticed in this Article, in preference to any other Person; he should pay to the Government the Sum at which the Cutwally and Mint were leased for this last Year, or upon a Medium for these Three last Years, by the Nabob Vizier. It should be particularly specified in the Article for the Mint, the Standard at which the Coin is to be kept up; and that, in consequence of any Abuse proved upon the Officers entrusted with the Management, it shall be deemed a Breach of this Article, and render it void.

" Colonel Monson.—Sunnuds may be granted to the Raja for appointing Officers to the Cutwally and Mint, on his paying an annual Compensation for them. The Raja to be responsible that the Coin be not debased; if it should, his Right to the Zemindarry to be forfeited, and to be disposed of as the Company shall think proper.

" General Clavering.—I have no Objection to giving the Cutwally both of Benares and Juanpore to the Raja, upon his making a just Compensation for all the Advantages which he will receive from it; and I am of the same Opinion with regard to the Mint, provided it should be thought proper to establish it at Benares, but in that Case there should be either an Officer from this Government to superintend it; or the Raja should be subject to a very severe Penalty if the Superintendancy of it is left with him, and that he should debase the Coin; but I think it is impossible to determine these Points till we know the Raja's Sentiments upon them.

" The Governor General's Opinion is comprehended in the Question.

" Agreed to the Terms of the Third Article, on the Raja's paying an annual Compensation to the Company for the Cutwally and the Mint, and obliging himself to coin Money of the precise Standard only, which shall be fixed by the Board.

" Read the Fourth Article.

" Mr. Francis.—I object to our compelling the Raja to keep up an extraordinary Force for our Service, considering it in Effect as an Encrease of the Tribute, which is contrary to the Principles which have guided my Judgement from the first Outset of this Negotiation: I have no Objection however, to its being made an Article of Agreement with him, that he shall either put the Troops, which he now keeps, upon a better Footing in point of Discipline, or disband them, and raise an equal Number in their Stead. What will be the best Method of making such Troops useful, or whether Cavalry should be preferred to Infantry, are Military Points of which I do not pretend to judge. I understand that there are local Objections to the Utility of Cavalry in the Raja's Country.

" Mr. Barwell.—I am of Opinion, that the Raja should keep up such a Body of Forces, but entertain the same Sentiments with Mr. Francis respecting its being an Enhancement of his Tribute, and of any Degree of Compulsion to induce him to it.

" Colonel Monson.—I am of Opinion, the Company should receive the Raja's Assistance on the same Terms he gave it to the Vizier, or the present Nabob. Cavalry, I understand, is an improper Force for this Country, which is bounded on the North by the Gogra, on the South by the Mountains, on the West by Asoph ul Dowla's Territories, and on the East by Bahar. The Extent Westward from North to South is not above Fifty or Sixty Cos, which is watered by Four Rivers, the Gogra, the Gumpy, the Say, and the Ganges; intersected by many very considerable Nullas, and and otherwise strengthened by Woods, Enclosures, and Villages. That Part to the West of the Frontier from the Gumptry to the Ganges, is almost an entire Jungle, inhabited by Robbers. There is no Ground in the Country, or its Environs, North, West, and South, for some Distance, free from Mountains, Nullas, Tosses, Brushwood, or Jungle Enclosures and Villages; I therefore think Infantry a more proper Force for this Country; but if the Raja should be required to keep Cavalry, more for the Defence of these Provinces than his own, they should be officered and disciplined in the European Manner.

" General Clavering.—I understand that the Raja does keep up a large Body of Cavalry, and that 500 of these, which assisted under the Command of the Captain of the Governor's Guards in the Conquest of the Rohilla Country, were absolutely useless by their total Want of Discipline when they took the Field, but improved during the Campaign. I would not compel the Raja to keep up any Troops, but I would recommend it to him to maintain the Number which the Governor General has proposed for his and our Assistance; and as the Country of Bahar is open, where Cavalry may always act with great Advantage, and as the Company does not maintain any, I think it should be recommended to the Raja to appoint some English Officers to discipline and command his Troops, by the Means of which great Benefit may be derived from them in case of a War with the Mahrattas.

" The Governor General.—The Accounts which have been given to me of the Zemindarry of Benares, differ very much from Colonel Monson's Description of it, and represent it as open, perfectly well cultivated, and but little intersected with Rivers; the Gogra forms the Boundary of one Part of it, and the other Rivers are very inconsiderable; all these lie to the North of the Ganges; on the South Side, I do not remember one: It is on this Side that Provision should be made for its Defence, as it is liable to Invasion on the other from no Quarter but the Province of Oude. It was far from my Intention to propose this or any other Article to be imposed on the Raja by Compulsion: I do not conceive he would object to this, but am willing to yield my Opinion of the Propriety of such an Establishment to the General and Colonel Monson, who, from their Experience, must be the most competent Judges; I only proposed it as an Article of Speculation.

" Resolved, That it be recommended to Rajah Cheyt Sing, to keep up a Body of 2000 Cavalry, to be disciplined after the European Manner, but that there be no Obligation on him to do it.

" Read the Fifth Article.

" Approved the Proposal in this Article."

Notice being taken, that, as the Clerk read, the Fifth Article appeared to be approved by the Board without Comment—The Managers for the Commons informed the House it was.

The Managers for the Commons then stated, that they would next proceed to shew, that the Plan so approved of by the Board, was communicated to the Rajah Cheyt Sing, under the Orders and Authority of Mr. Hastings, contained in certain Instructions to Mr. Fowke; which Instructions they should also produce for the further Purpose of shewing the Sense which the Council themselves put upon the Words which have given rise to so much Dispute, viz. " The Sovereignty of the Company."

The Witness produced Book XII. intituled, " Bengal Secret Consultations, 10th August to 2d October 1775."

" At a Council, Present,

The Honourable Warren Hastings, Governor General, President.

Lieutenant General John Clavering.

The Honourable George Monson.

Richard Barwell, } Esquires.
Philip Francis, }

[" The Secretary having prepared the Draft of Instructions to Mr. Francis Fowke, and not having specified the Amount of the Sum of the Nuzzerana to be paid by the Rajah;

" Agreed, That it be fixt at 10,000 Rupees, as the Board consider this Sum to be about equal to the Value of the Khelaat with which it will be necessary to invest the Rajah.

" The Instructions are amended and agreed to as follows:

" Instructions to Mr. Francis Fowke.

" 1. Having thought proper to appoint you to proceed to Benares to deliver to Raja Cheyt Sing his Sunnuds of Investiture from this Government, of the Zemindarry lately ceded by the Nabob of Owde to the Company, and to make, fundry local Enquiries to enable us, from your Reports of the same, to form a final Settlement with the Raja of the Terms on which

Rajah Cheyt
Sing's Nuzze-rana to be 10,000 Rupees.

Instructions to

which he is to hold the Zemindarry, we now furnish you with full Instructions to accomplish these Ends.

" 2. On your Arrival at Benares you will wait on Raja Cheyt Sing, and present him with the Sunnuds which will be entrusted to you for that Purpose, having first notified to him the Sovereignty of the Company over all the Territories of his Zemindarry, and received from him, on account of the Company, and in their Name, a Nuzzerrance, or Acknowledgment of his Vassallage, which we fix at 10,000 Rupees; you will then require him to publish this Act by Proclamation through his Country, and invest him with a Khelaat in his Palace, with all the usual Formalities.

" 3. You will next inform the Raja that he is not to enter into any Alliance or Engagement with any Foreign Prince, on pain of forfeiting his Zemindarry.

" 4. It will be proper to assure the Rajah, that we do not mean to increase his Tribute, but to require from him the exact Sum, and in the same Species of Rupees, to be paid at Benares, as he paid to the late Vizier Suja ul Dowlah, besides whatever Equivalent may be fixed for the Grant of the Mint and Cutwally to him, the Whole to be discharged by equal monthly Kists, and if we should find it expedient hereafter to receive the Amount at the Presidency, a suitable Deduction or Commission shall be allowed to him for the Expence and Risk of transporting or remitting it.

" 5. That under the acknowledged Sovereignty of the Company, we are determined to leave him the free and uncontrouled Management of the internal Government of his Country, and the Collection and Regulation of the Revenues, so long as he adheres to the Terms of his Engagements, and will never demand any Augmentation of the Annual Tribute which may be fixed.]

" 6. As we deem it very essential that the Raja, for the Protection of his Zemindary, should maintain a Body of regular Troops, we would strongly recommend to him the keeping in constant Pay, and ready at all Times for Service, Two thousand Horse, disciplined and clothed after the European Manner; we cannot authorize you to insist upon this Article; however, as it appears so obvious for his own Interest, we doubt not but he will readily agree to it; and it must be left to his Option to keep up or reduce his present military Establishment: In Consequence, and as an Inducement, we will agree, that whenever we may find Occasion to call for the Assistance of this Corps, or any Part of it, we will pay a Gratuity of 15 Rupees per Month for each private Man, and in proportion for the Officers, during the Time that they may be in our Employ.

" 7. The Raja of Benares being very desirous that the Mint should be continued in that City, and that the Management of it should be intrusted to him, and having offered to pay the Company a fixed annual Compensation for that Privilege, we have thought fit to decline entering into any Agreement with him on the Subject of his Proposal, until we should receive some certain Information of the present State and Management of the Mint, and of the probable Value of the Privilege proposed to be granted to the Raja.

" 8. We therefore direct you to make a strict Enquiry into the following Points, and report to us the most exact Information you may be able to obtain thereon.

" 1st. What Sum the present Farmer of the Mint paid directly to the late or present Nabob of Oude, or in Presents to his Ministers, for that Farm.

" 2dly. What is the exact Standard and Weight of the Rupees coined in that Mint in the Course of the last Twelve Months.

" 3dly. What was the exact Standard and Weight of the best Rupees that have been coined there at any Time since the Year 1765 inclusive.

" 4thly. What Quantity of Bullion has been coined since the Year 1765 inclusive, specifying the Number of Rupees coined in each Year.

" 9. In the mean Time you may observe to the Rajah, that it is to be made a necessary Condition, on our giving up the Mint to him, that the Weight and Standard of the Coins, which shall be struck in it, be fixed by us; and that on Proof of any Deviation from them, or of his coining any other Specie in the Mint, the Grant of it shall immediately become void.

" 10. We also direct you to enquire, and report to us, what Sums were paid to the late or present Nabob by the several Cutwals in the Zemindarry of Raja Cheyt Sing, for the Privilege of holding those Courts, in order that we may know what Compensation the Company may reasonably expect for making over the Cutwally to the Rajah.

" 11. It may be of Service also, that we should be thoroughly informed of the Nature of the Weights and Measures in general Use in the Districts of Gauzipore and Benares; we therefore desire you will make yourself acquainted with these as early as you may have an Opportunity, and report a State of them to us.

" 12. We further think it necessary to direct, that you make such Enquiry as you may be able into the State of the Trade of this Zemindarry for some Years past, but particularly into its commercial Intercourse with the Company's Provinces, the Restrictions it lies under, whether it has been in the Increase or Decrease of late, and the Condition of it at this Time: You will endeavour to obtain a comparative Account of the Exports made to those Parts by the different European Nations settled in Bengal, and report the Whole for our Information, with such Proposals as you may think fit to offer for its Relief or Improvement.

" 13. As it will be impossible for you to obtain a competent Knowledge of this Branch immediately, you may refer it for a future Report; first transmitting us the Information required respecting the Mint of Cutwally, in which we beg that no Time may be lost; as we must wait the Receipt of it before we can fix the Annual Tribute to be paid by the Raja for the Cession of those Articles, of Course our Engagements with him will remain suspended till that Time.

" 14. But the other Articles from which the Nabob of Owde used to draw a Revenue, as will appear from the enclosed List, which is as accurate as our Information would enable us to form it, we empower you to make a Grant of to the Raja, upon such Terms as you may deem equitable; and you will settle for these with him accordingly.

" 15. We have ordered the Commanding Officer at Chunar to stop all the Europeans who may be found within the Limits of his Command, if they are not furnished with proper Passports; and we enjoin you to give him Notice of any such, of whom you may receive Information; and you will endeavour to engage the Rajah to use every Means in his Power for preventing Europeans, but particularly Foreigners, from travelling through his Districts, without such Passports from this Government.

" We are, &c.

" Postscript.

" We have acquainted the Rajah, that it is necessary he should take an Oath of Fealty or Allegiance to the Company, upon his being invested with the Grant of the Zemindarry; you will therefore require him to make the same on that Occasion."

" Ordered, That the necessary Sunnuds for granting the Zemindarry of Benares and Gauzipore to Raja Cheyt Sing be immediately prepared and delivered to Mr. Fowke, with the foregoing Instructions."

Sunnuds to be prepared for Raja Cheyt Sing.

The Managers for the Commons stated, that they would next produce a Letter from the Board to the Rajah Cheyt Sing, which accompanied Mr. Fowke's Instructions. Same Book, Page 90.

" Fort William, the 24th August 1775.

" Same Consultation.

" Resolved, That the following Letter be written by the Governor General to Raja Cheyt Sing, to be delivered to Mr. Fowke with his Credentials.

" To Raja Cheyt Sing.

" By the Treaty concluded with the Nabob Asoph ul Dowlah on the 21st of May last, of which you are already apprized, the Districts which you held as a Zemindarry from him, and from his late Father, the Vizier Suja ul Dowlah, have been ceded to the English Company.

" The Board have therefore thought proper to depute Mr. Francis Fowke, on their Behalf, to take Possession of these Territories; but being willing to continue the Grant of the Zemindarry to you in as full and ample a Manner as you possessed it from the former Sovereigns, and upon the same Terms, that is to say, on your paying to the Order of the said Company at Benares the annual Tribute of Rupees 23,72,656 : 12, by regular monthly Gifts, or Payments of Rupees 1,97,721 : 6 : 4, in each Month, I have delivered to the Charge of Mr. F. Fowke a Sunnud in the Name of the Company, with a Kelaat, with which he is empowered to invest you in due Form, reserving however to the Company, the Sovereignty of the Country to the full Extent that it was or might have been held by the late or present Soubah of Oude. Upon Occasion of this Investiture, after paying a Nuzzerranna for the Company, which I have fixed at 10,000 Rupees, it is necessary that you take an Oath of Fealty or Allegiance to the Company, by which you are to understand, that on forming any Alliance with a foreign Prince, or acting in any Manner contrary to the Fidelity which you have thus sworn to maintain to the Company, your Zemindarry, with all the Rights and Privileges granted to you by the Company, will become forfeited; and it will be proper that a public Proclamation should be made of these Transactions, that the Natives as well as Europeans may be fully informed of the Grant made to you, with the Reservation of the Rights of Sovereignty to the Company.

" I mean, as soon as it is in my Power, to fix a proper annual Compensation to be made by you for the Grants of the Mint and Cutwalky, to transmit you Sunnuds for them, to continue in Force during your Life; but I must wait for Information from Mr. Fowke to enable me to settle these Matters.

" The other Sources from which the Nabob of Oude drew a Revenue will also be granted you, that you may possess an uncontrouled and free Authority in the Regulation and Government of your own Zemindarry; and Mr. Fowke is authorized to treat with you, to settle the most equitable Terms upon which you may obtain these Articles.

" With respect to the Country of Benares, &c. I think it should be left entirely to the Management of Rajah Cheyt Sing, and that we should no otherwise interfere with him than to receive the established Tribute. This I deem to be the best Policy, at the same time that it is most conformable to your abovementioned Orders, and to the Engagements already subsisting with him."

Then the Managers for the Commons stated, That as there had been some Dispute whether the Instruments granted to the Rajah Cheyt Sing were in the Nature of the common Zemindarry Sunnuds, or in the Nature of a Treaty, they would next produce the Defendant's own Opinion upon that Subject.

Read, from Book XII. (before delivered in) the following Extract of Secret Consultation on 4th September 1775, beginning at Page 123.

" The Secretary informs the Board that the Sunnuds for Raja Cheyt Sing being prepared, he circulated the following Proposal of the Governor General for their Opinion.

Secretary.

" The Governor General directs me to request the Opinion of the Board, Whether the Patta, Sunnud, and Coulnama, for the Zemindarry granted to Raja Cheyt Sing, should be signed by him only, or by the Board, remarking at the same time that it has been customary for Dewanny Sunnuds to receive only the Signature of the Governor; but he thinks, that as the Nature of the present Grant is different, and may be considered more in the Light of a Treaty, they should be signed by the Board.

" Saturday Morning.

Signed, J. P. A. Secretary.

" I think it should be signed by the Board, for the Reasons which the Governor General has given.

Signed, J. C.
Agreed, G. M. and P. F.

" Agreed that the Sunnud, Potta, and Coulnama, be now signed, and transmitted to Mr. Francis Fowke."

Then the Managers for the Commons stated, that they had now gone through that Part of the Charge which relates to the Rights of the Rajah Cheyt Sing, and also the several subsequent Acts of Confirmation and of Extension of those Rights by the Company.

Being asked, if there was any Copy of the Sunnud, Potta, and Coulnama, mentioned in the Extract just read;

The Managers for the Commons made Answer, that they thought it proper to observe that the Sunnud, Potta, and Coulnama there mentioned appear no where, as they could find, upon the Consultations: That there was a Sunnud, Potta, and Coulnama, which were to be found in a Book which they should have Occasion in the Course of the Proceedings to give in Evidence, and which have been supposed to be the Sunnud, Potta, and Coulnama granted to Rajah Cheyt Sing: but they should prove it impossible for them to be the same; and that in Truth the real Sunnud, Potta, and Coulnama granted to the Rajah Cheyt Sing did not appear.

Being asked if the Proof then of the Fact did not appear?

The Managers for the Commons answered, That they should prove negatively that the Sunnud, Potta, and Coulnama, in the Book alluded to, were not the Sunnud, Potta, and Coulnama granted to the Rajah Cheyt Sing.

They then stated, that it having been argued that the Appointment of a Resident at Benares had changed the Nature of the Rajah Cheyt Sing's Tenure, they should next proceed to shew who appointed the Resident.

" At a Council; Present,
The Hon. Warren Hastings Esq. Governor General, President;
General Clavering,

Philip Francis,

" Governor General.—That I may not furnish Occasion to the Board for the unnecessary Waste of Time in the further Motions which I have to lay before the Board, I now deliver them in Writing to the Secretary; and I hope that the Board will consent to bring their Opinions written thereon at our next Meeting. The Motions are as follow:

[" The Governor General also * moves, That Mr. Francis Fowke be recalled from Benares, and his Commission annulled, the express Purposes thereof having been accomplished.

" Mr. Francis.—I need not bring my Opinion in Writing upon either of these Motions. To the First I make no Objection; but as to the Recall of Mr. Francis Fowke, I know no Motive for it; on the contrary, I am satisfied that his Presence at Benares has been of signal Use in preventing the Delays of the Remittance of the Tribute, and to my Knowledge he has done nothing to incur the Displeasure of the Board. I cannot therefore assent to his Recall.

" Mr. Barwell.—The express Purposes to which Mr. Fowke was first appointed, were the Investiture of the Raja, and the settling a Mode for the Remittance of his Tribute. His Commission ceased the Instant the Object of it was accomplished, and Mr. Fowke ought then to have been remanded to Calcutta. He holds no Appointment, and therefore it cannot properly be styled a Removal. I assent therefore to Mr. Fowke's being called to the Presidency.

" General Clavering.—In regard to the Recall of Mr. Fowke, and the annulling of his Office, I cannot help considering it as a vindictive Measure, couched under the Appearance of Public Service, and therefore dissent to the Motion.

" Governor General.—I agree to both Motions.

" Resolved, That both the Motions proposed by the Governor General be carried in the Affirmative."]

Notice being taken that the Motion was resolved in the Affirmative, though the Voices were equal; the Managers for the Commons were asked, Whether Colonel Monson was dead at that Time?

They informed the House he was.

Then the following Letter, written by the Board to Mr. Fowke, was read by the Clerk, from the same Book, p. 647.

" To Mr. Francis Fowke.

" Sir,

" The Objects proposed by your Appointment to proceed to Benares being now accomplished, we have thought it necessary to annul the Commission which was given you for that Purpose. We therefore direct, that you return to this Presidency immediately on Receipt hereof.

" Mr. Francis.—If a Civil Servant was necessary for the Purpose described in the Motion, I conceive that Mr. Francis Fowke was perfectly well qualified for that Office. I have no Objection, however, to either of the Gentlemen recommended by the Governor General.

" Resolved, That a Civil Servant of the Company be appointed to reside at Benares, on the Part of this Government, for the Purpose of transacting any occasional Business which may arise between this Government and the Rajah of Benares.

" Agreed, That Mr. Thomas Graham be nominated to this Office, and that Mr. Daniel Barwell be appointed his Assistant."

To shew what the Opinion of the Court of Directors was upon this Proceeding, the Witness was directed to produce a Letter from the Court of Directors of the 30th of January 1778.

The Witness produced Book 41, intituled, " Bengal Dispatches, 30th January to 28th December 1778."

Read, Paragraphs 65, 66, and 67, of a Draught of a General Letter from the Court of Directors to Bengal, No. 4, dated " London, 30th January 1778."

" Our Governor General and Council at Fort William, in Bengal.

Per Grosvenor,

Godfrey,
Mount Stuart.

Par. 65. " In your Secret Letter of the 19th of December 1776, you inform us, that the Purposes for which Mr. Francis Fowke was appointed to proceed to Benaris being fully accomplished, you had annulled his Commission, and ordered him to the Presidency. But it appears by your Letter of the 6th of January 1777, that in less than Twenty Days you thought proper to appoint Mr. Thomas Graham to reside at Benaris, and Mr. Daniel Octavius Barwell to be his Assistant.

66. " If it were possible to suppose that a Saving to the Company had been your Motive for annulling Mr. Fowke's Commission, we should approve your Proceedings; but when we find Two Persons appointed immediately afterwards, with Two Salaries, to execute an Office which had been filled with Reputation by Mr. Fowke alone, and that Mr. Graham enjoys all the Emoluments annexed to the Office of Mr. Fowke, we must be of Opinion, that Mr. Fowke was removed without just Cause, to make Room for Mr. Graham; and that the Addition of Mr. Barwell's Salary is a clear Loss of Three hundred Rupees per Month to the Company.

67. " As it was not pretended that Mr. Fowke's Conduct had been exceptionable; as he had executed with the greatest Punctuality and Exactness the like Office to which you have now appointed Mr. Graham; and as the Dissent of Mr. Francis, and the Protest of General Clavering, on the Occasion, had no Effect; we think it proper to interfere, and therefore direct, that Mr. Francis Fowke be immediately reinstated in his Office of Resident and Postmaster at Benaris. We however think proper to declare, that though we mean by this Order to do an Act of Public Justice, we by no Means intend it as a Mark of Disapprobation of the Conduct of Mr. Graham, whom we believe to be a very deserving Servant of the Company.

To shew what the Proceedings of the Governor General and Council in Bengal, were, in consequence of the Receipt of the abovementioned Letter, the Witnesses produced Book 53, intituled, "Bengal Council, 17th Jan. to 9th March 1780."

Read, the following Extract from the Bengal Public Consultation of the 17th February 1780, beginning at P. 275 of the said Book.

"Fort William, 17th February 1780.

"At a Council; Present,
The Honourable Warren Hastings, Governor General, President;
Philip Francis, } Esquires.

Mr. Barwell indisposed.

"The Proceedings of the 14th instant read and approved.

"Read the 40th Paragraph of the General Letter from the Honourable the Court of Directors, dated 27th May 1779.

"Agreed, that Mr. Francis Fowke be appointed Resident at Benares, in Conformity to the Intention of the Court of Directors, and that Mr. Thomas Graham be directed to deliver over the Charge of that Office to him on his Arrival there."

Then the Managers for the Commons stated, that in Point of Order and Regularity they ought next to proceed and shew that the above-mentioned Appointment of Mr. Fowke was annulled by Mr. Hastings, and the Reason of its being so annulled; but, as that did not happen till the Year 1781, a very short Time previous to Mr. Hastings's going up the Country to Benares, it would be better to produce that Evidence in the Chain of Time when it would more regularly and properly come in; that they should now therefore proceed to shew what was stated in the Charge, as the first Breach

Breach of the Engagements entered into with the Rajah Cheyt Sing, namely, the first Demand of Five Lacks of Rupees, made upon him in the Year 1778*: That they should prove the Demand, the Compliance of the Rajah Cheyt Sing with that Demand, and the Debates of the Council in Consequence of it.

Then the Witness was directed to produce Book 13, intituled, "Bengal Secret Council, 1 June to 10 August, 1778."

The Managers for the Commons informed the House, that on the Day of the Consultation they were now about to refer to, viz. the Bengal Secret Consultation of the 9th July 1778, Mr. Hastings laid before the Board a Variety of Propositions; but as they did not seem connected with each other, they should only read that Part which related to the Rajah Cheyt Sing, namely, the Second Proposition, with the Observations and Resolution of the Council thereupon.

Accordingly the Second Proposition, and the Opinions of the Board thereupon, were read by the Clerk; which done, the Counsel for the Defendant desired that the First Proposition might be read.

They were informed by the House, that by the Rule which had been laid down, they might call for any Part to be read which they thought material, essential, or giving a Colour; that that was the Rule, and the House had great Confidence that nothing improper would be called for; but it was impossible for the House to say what was or was not relevant in this Stage of the Business.

The First Proposition was read; after which the Counsel for the Defendant being asked, if there was any other Part of this Consultation that they desired to have read, made Answer, "if they might express a Wish it was, that the Whole of the Governor General's Minute might be read."

Read, the following Extracts of Bengal Secret Consultation, 9th July 1778, beginning Page 1, of Book 13.

"The Governor General having sent the following Note to the Secretary on the Evening of the 7th Instant, it was immediately sent round to the other Members of the Board, and the Meeting of the Council postponed accordingly till this Morning:

"Sir,

The Gov. Gen.

Governor General's Minute.

"The Governor General delivers in the following Minute:

"I state the War with France as a Fact of undoubted Certainty. It is the Part of this Government to consider in what Manner it is likely to affect the British Possessions in India, and to provide accordingly for their Security. This must comprise and limit all our Operations. In the View of the opening Scene, the relative Conditions of the Parties engaged in it will merit our first Attention, and cannot fail to engage it by the striking Contrast which appears between them; and I mention it because I think it an essential Point in the Consideration of our first, and perhaps our future Measures.

"Great as the Power is which the British Nation has acquired in India, compared with that of its Rival, its general Line of Action is and must be purely defensive. It can gain, the French lose nothing. Even the Capture of Pondicherry, and of the other Possessions of the French, will yield no positive Advantage to the English, although it will deprive the French of their Instruments of Attack, and thereby affect our own Safety.

"From this Point, therefore, all our Conclusions must originate, and all our Measures be so laid as to obviate or to oppose the probable Designs of our Enemies. Their first Attempts will be against Bombay or Fort St. George. Bengal will be their last, at least their distant Object.

"The Presidency of Fort St. George possesses in itself the complete Means of Defence. We can add nothing to them, but in the Effects of our political Arrangements. We have always yielded it a large Supply of Treasure. It requires no other present Aid.

“ Bombay requires every Thing. Weak in itself, and entangled rather than strengthened by its dissipated Possessions on the Continent, it can only defend itself against a direct Invasion; and to that it is perhaps equal, if it has to contend with the French alone; but this is unlikely. The last Advices from Poona contain such Evidence as the Event itself must soon refute or realize, of an Engagement actually made by the French Minister there to bring a large Military Force to Poona, professedly designed to act with that Government against Ragoba, who at that Time resided at Bombay, under the English Protection.

“ In Effect, this is the obvious Policy which the French ought to adopt, if they seek to regain their Influence in India, and it is no longer to be doubted that they have adopted it. They have besides an ancient Claim to the Alliance of Nizam Ally, which is insured by their accidental Union in a common Cause, the Defence of the ruling Administration at Poona, of which his Letters to Mr. Rumbold and the Nabob of Arcot afford an undoubted Proof.

“ It is then certain that the French mean to establish a firm Interest at Poona. It is probable that they will effect it. The Consequences may be the Attack of Bombay, or, without it, the Re-union of the vast Powers of the Maratta State under its present Government, strengthened by so formidable an Alliance; and a predatory War brought by their united Force into the Dominions of our Ally the Nabob of Owd, or even into the Heart of our own.

“ To guard against such Consequences ought, in my Opinion, to be our first Object, both for the immediate Defence of Bombay, and the further Security of Bengal. We cannot send Succours directly to Bombay. If Bombay should be attacked by the French unsupported by a Maratta Alliance, I have already said that I hope its present Force is equal to its Defence: But if it should be attacked, or in certain Danger of being attacked, by the French and Marattas in Alliance, an offensive War must be undertaken in Defence of Bombay.

“ The Detachment under Colonel Leslie may be employed in this Service. It can be spared without Danger to Bengal, which is secure from a present Invasion, and can soon be replaced. But it consists of a Force too inconsiderable to engage singly in such a Contest. Unless it can be assisted by an Ally equal in Power, or so nearly equal to that of the Peshwa, as to give our united Strength a Degree of Superiority over the Combination to which it would be opposed, the Undertaking would be too hazardous. Moodajee Boosla, the Chief of Berar, answers to this Description. His Family has always borne a considerable Rank among the Powers of India. His Father, Ragoojee, subjected the Provinces of Bengal to the Chout, under the Government of the most able Chief that ever ruled them. His elder Brother, Jannoagee, attacked and burnt the City of Poona at a Time when the Power of the Peshwa far exceeded its present State, and the Maratta Constitution respecting Berar was undivided. His Dominions extend from the Sea Coast of Orissa, and from the Western Borders of Bengal, to the Neighbourhood of Aurengabad. His Revenues, though not proportionate to their Magnitude, is * considerable, and his standing Forces are numerous, exclusive of the Militia; which, in all the Maratta States, is always ready to join the regular Armies when they take the Field. While the Contest prevailed between Ragonaut Row and the Ministerial Party, Moodajee sided with the former, his Brother with the latter. This Conduct drew on him the Resentment of the Ministers, who, as soon as they were freed, by the Interposition of this Government, from the Dread of their great Competitor, encouraged and supported the Nabob Nizam Ally Cawn, in an Invasion of his Country, which at that Time had not yet recovered from the Distractions occasioned by the Contention between the Two Brothers. On this Occasion he was glad to purchase a Peace of Nizam Ally Cawn, with the Loss of some Forts of Consequence, the Remembrance of which he still retains, with a Determination to avail himself of the First Opportunity to reclaim them. * Sic in Orig.

“ As the Provinces which are now united under the Government of Berar are a constitutional Part of the Maratta Empire, a natural Enmity must ever subsist between them who possess the Sovereign Authority, and the Rulers of Berar; the former looking to the Recovery of their unalienable Rights, the latter jealous of their Independency. Thus Moodajee may be considered as the certain Enemy of the Peshwa, into whatever Hands the fluctuating State of the Parties at Poona may throw his Administration. But a late Event has given Moodajee Pretensions to a Rank even more elevated than that of the Peshwa. I need not inform the Board, that the Power which the Peshwa possessed for about Forty Years past; is an Usurpation on the Sovereign Authority vested by the Constitution in the Raja. Raja Sâboo, the last who retained it, having no Children, adopted Moodajee Boosla, and, as I am informed, designed him for his Successor. But Ballajee, the Peshwa or Prime Minister, had the Art to deprive Moodajee of the Benefit of this Intention, and to transfer the Inheritance to Ram Raja, who was also an adopted Son of Rajo Sâboo, and an Infant at his Death. Ragoojee, the Father of Moodajee, instantly marched to Poona with a formidable Army, and by a Negotiation of a Day, obtained, for the Surrender of his Son's actual Pretensions, a large Accession of Territory and other Advantages, still reserving a future Claim to the Rajaship, and refusing to commit himself by any formal Deed in an Acknowledgement of the Title of Ram Raja. From that Time the Grandeur of his Family may be dated. Ragoojee continued to authenticate all his public Acts by the Name of Sâboo Raja; and on the Seals which have been affixed to all the Letters which I have received from Shabajee Boosla, and even since his Death from his Brother Moodajee, they are stiled the Vassals of Sahoo Raja. I know not with Certainty what are Moodajee's present Views. Ram Raja died in December last, and the Succession is either still vacant or but lately filled. Moodajee's Rights are still in force, and unquestionably superior to any other.

“ I must suspend the Thread of this Narrative to relate a Transaction which brings it nearer to the Concerns of this Government. An Alliance with the Boosla Family has been long its Object, and and considerable Advances were made to the Attainment of it in the Administration of Lord Clive. In the latter End of the Year 1773, Shabajee Boosla sent a Vakeel to me with Letters containing general Professions of Attachment, but expressed with such Warmth as induced me to aim at a formal Connection with him. Finding the Vakeel an intelligent Man, I sent him back with a Plan for that Purpose. Unfortunately Shabajee fell by the Hands of his Brother. But Moodajee himself soon after adopting his Brother's Line, again deputed the same Vakeel to Calcutta; but many Causes, which it is unnecessary to enumerate, prevented me from improving the Disposition of this Chief. A constant Intercourse of Letters, and in some Degree confidential, has been kept up between us. On a false Rumour of the Death of Ram Raja, foreseeing the Use which might be made of this new Diversion in the Maratta Policy, I employed the Agency of the Vakeel to excite the Ambition of Moodajee to aspire to the Sovereign Authority, which such an Event, then probable at least from the infirm State of the Raja, and the Distractions at Poona, seemed to present to him; and I intimated the same Advice in a Letter which I wrote at the same Time to Dewargur Pundit, the Minister of Moodajee Boosla, and the Man whose Counsels have long guided the Affairs of that Government. While these Letters were on their Way, the Raja died: No Answers were given, for the Purport required none, but every Letter since received from Moodajee and his Dewan has repeatedly and urgently pressed the Dismission of the Vaqueel, for the Purpose, as expressed, of communicating with him on Affairs of the greatest Importance. The Vaqueel is at this Time with Colonel Leslie.

"From these Facts it will appear, that Moodajee Boosla is by Interest and Inclination likely to join in an Alliance with this Government, and that Two Advantages may be offered to him as the Inducements to it. The First is the Support of his Pretensions to the Sovereign Power; the Second, the Recovery of the Captures made on his Dominions by Nizam Ally. On our Parts we shall possess a powerful Barrier on our Frontier; an Alliance which may counterbalance, and if properly managed, may totally overthrow the present Power of the Maratta State, and give us a lasting Ascendant in its Operations, and for ever dissipate all the Designs which the French have at this Time so wisely, and hitherto successfully, concerted for their Aggrandizement and our Destruction. A more fortunate Concurrence of Events could scarcely have been conceived, than those which appear of themselves to draw the Two States of Berar and Bengal into a decided and lasting Union by the powerful Bonds of common Interest and common Danger. The Poona Government is the natural Enemy of Moodajee. It is ours by their Connection with our natural and declared Enemy, the French. Nizam Ally is the declared Enemy of both, and the Contiguity of our respective Territories, in the wildest and least valuable Parts of both, and of Course the least subject to Competition and Incroachment, renders them important and essential to the Strength of both.

"On these Grounds I recommend that a Company's civil Servant be deputed to Moodajee Boosla, with full Power to form a Treaty of Alliance between that Chief and the Company, on the Terms herein above stated. These may be hereafter detailed in his Instructions.

§ (The Governor General*.—"It was my Intention, had the Time permitted it, to have extended the above Minute into other Details, immediately required for the internal Defence of these Provinces. I can now only state those which are most urgent in short Propositions. The Reasons, if necessary, may be given separately.

"1st. I propose that three additional Battalions of Sepoys be immediately formed upon the Plan recommended by General Stibbert.") § ("3dly. That the Militia Corps be re-established for the Defence of the City of Calcutta; and for this Purpose, if it shall be found necessary hereafter, I would further recommend, that the Commissioner of Law Suits, with the Assistance of the Company's Attorney and Standing Council, be instructed to prepare a Bill for its legal Incorporation.

☞ ["2dly. That Rajah Cheit Sing be required in Form to contribute his Share of the Burthen of the present War, by consenting to the Establishment of Three regular Battalions of Sepoys, to be raised and maintained at his Expence."] §

"4thly. That the Master Attendant be directed to consult some of the most able Seamen of this Port, upon the Means of forming such an Addition to our Marine Establishment, as may be most effectual for the Communication of immediate Intelligence of the Approach of an Enemy's Fleet, or single Ships of War, and for cutting away the Buoys, and using such other Precautions as may be necessary for guarding this Port and its Commerce against the Effects of a Surprise.

"5thly. That the Opinion of the Chief Engineer be also taken with respect to the other Means which may be necessary to prevent or impede the Progress of an Enemy by the Entrance of the River.

"6thly. That the Commander in Chief be requested to furnish the Board with such a general Plan of Defence as he shall judge necessary, in Addition to the present Disposition of our Army, and in the Supposition that the Detachment now employed under Colonel Leslie may not return for a Length of Time into the Provinces, and to attend the Board with it when prepared.

* The Parts inclosed thus § ( ) § and marked with inverted Commas at the Beginning of each Line, are the Extracts particularly referred to in this Consultation by the Counsel for the Defendant, and the same Mark will be made use of, for the same Purpose in future.

" 7thly. The Proposition with which I shall now conclude, I offer with much Diffidence and Hesitation. It has been the constant Subject of my Thoughts since our last Meeting, and; though I now incline to recommend it, I see the Objections to it in so strong a Light, as added perhaps to those which may be suggested by other Members of the Board, may induce me to change it; but I will briefly state it. The War having been notified to us, though not by Authority, yet confirmed by Evidence of such Strength as to amount to a Degree of Certainty next to absolute, shall we proceed upon it as upon the Grounds of a War declared and notified in all its Forms? Or shall we wait the Confirmation of it, which it is probable we may not receive for this Month or Six Weeks yet to come? The Consequence of our Determination on this Question, if in the Affirmative, will be instantly to detach a Military Force to guard the Approaches of Chandernagore, to demand the Surrender of that Town, and to appoint Commissaries to take Possession of the public Stores, Shipping, and private Effects of the Inhabitants. This combined Question I propose for the Determination of the Board.

" The First Question being considered, is agreed to.")

" Ordered, That the Secretary to the Military Department do prepare and lay before the Board an Estimate of the Expence of the above Augmentation, and of that which will arise from the Increase of Men to the present Establishment lately ordered in the Military Department.

" The Second Question considered.

" Mr. Francis.—On the Supposition that the Detachment now employed under Colonel Leslie will not return for a Length of Time into the Provinces, I acquiesce in the Proposal relative to Raja Cheit Sing; but I think he should be informed that this additional Charge will not be imposed on him beyond the Continuance of the present War.

" The Governor General.—The Qualification proposed by Mr. Francis is consonant to my Intention in the Question, and is implied in it. I should have no Objection to it's being expressed in an additional Clause.

" That our Resolution upon this Subject may be unanimous, I agreed to add to the Question the following Words, "and to be disbanded at the End of the War;" but perceiving that the Difference in our Opinion upon the Subject arises not from a Disagreement respecting the Requisition simply considered by itself, but from a different Understanding of the Right of the Company to exact, under any Pressure of Affairs, more than the Sum stipulated by the Sunnud granted to Cheyt Sing, and the Cubbooleat given by him in return, I must adhere to the Question as it stands, wishing to avoid the Question of Right. If, however, we cannot agree upon the Point, still I would wish to have the Requisition made in the Words of the Question, and leave the Decision of future Right to our Superiors.

" Mr. Wheler.—Wishing to avoid the Question of Right, I acquiesce in the Motion; but I think it should be qualified in the Manner proposed by Mr. Francis.

" Mr. Barwell.—An Acquisition of Revenue and Military Force I suppose to have been annexed to the Grant of the Zemindarry of Benares and Gauzipore to the Company. Any military Establishment, independent of the English Administration, in the Heart of the Company's Dominions, may in the Time of Danger be turned against those Interests which, under another Policy, it would protect. I have long regarded the Military Establishment of Benares under the Rajah's native Officers, and not subject to the Discipline, Command, and Regulation of our own Battalions, as a Defect; I therefore most heartily agree to the present Proposal, for Three disciplined Battalions to be kept up, and paid by the Rajah, and sincerely hope the Company will direct, that the whole Force of Benares and Gauzipoor, under the Zemindar, be placed upon the same Footing as the regular Military Force of the Presidency.

" The Governor General.—I agree to the Question in the original Form of it, deeming it a Right inherent in every Government to impose such Assessments as it judges expedient for the common Service and Protection of all its Subjects, and we are not precluded from it by any Agreement subsisting between the Raja and this Government.

" Resolved, That Raja Cheit Sing be required in Form to contribute his Share of the Burthen of the present War, by the Establishment of Three regular Battalions of Sepoys, to be raised and maintained at his Expence, and the Governor General is to write to him to that Effect.]

" The Board agree to the Third Question.

" To the Fourth Agreed.

" Agreed to the Fifth.

" To the Sixth agreed. The following Letter is accordingly written to the Commander in Chief.

" To Brigadier General Stibbert, Commander in Chief, &c. &c. &c.

" Sir,

" Having received Intelligence, which we deem certain, that War has been declared between France and England, we think it proper to take the earliest Means to provide for the Safety and Defence of these Provinces. We have already agreed to raise and form Three additional Battalions of Sepoys upon the Plan recommended by you. We propose that Raja Cheit Sing should be required to entertain Three regular Battalions at his Expence, for his Part of the Burthen of the War,

Three additional Battalions.

Rajah Cheit Sing to raise Three Battalions.

Militia established.
Marine additional.
Engineer to be consulted.

To the Commander in Chief.

War, and we shall immediately give Orders for re-establishing the Militia Corps for the Defence of the City of Calcutta.

" We have thought it necessary to acquaint you with the Preliminaries, and we now request that you will furnish us with such a general Plan of Defence as you shall judge adviseable, in Addition to the present Disposition of our Army, and on the Supposition that the Detachment now employed under Colonel Leslie will not return for a Length of Time into the Provinces. When the same shall be compleated, you will be pleased to notify it to us, that we may appoint a Day for your Attendance with it in Council.

" Fort William, 9th July 1778.

Chandernagore to be seized.

" The Seventh Question is resolved in the Affirmative : And " Agreed, That Lieutenant Colonel Dow the Commanding Officer at Burruchpoor, be immediately ordered to station Guards or Detachments of Sepoys on the Road leading to Chandernagore, with Orders to prevent the Transportation of any Goods or Effects from thence, and that he demand of Mr. Chevalier, the Commandant of Chandernagore, the Surrender of the Town, Shipping, Stores, and all other Effects, both public and private, into his Hands.

" Resolved, That the Quarter Master General be directed to furnish Lieutenant Colonel Dow immediately such Boats as he may require by Indent for this Service.

Mr. Leonard Collings to be appointed Commissary.

" Resolved also, That Mr. Leonard Collings be appointed Commissary to receive all such Goods and Effects belonging to the French at Chandernagore as Lieutenant Colonel Dow shall consign to his Charge, and that he be directed to form an Inventory of the Whole, as soon as possible, and transmit a Copy thereof to the Board.

" Agreed, That Mr. Collings be permitted to take with him any Writer in the Company's Service, who may, at this Time, be unemployed, if he should require a Person to assist him.

" Resolved, That the following Instructions be immediately issued to Lieutenant Colonel Dow.

" To Lieutenant Colonel Alexander Dow, commanding the Troops at Burruckpore.

" Sir,

" In consequence of a Declaration of War, which has been made between France and England, in London on the 18th March, and in Paris on the 30th March 1777, We do hereby order and command you immediately to station Guards or Detachments of Sepoys on the Roads leading to Chandernagore, with Orders to prevent the Transportation of any Goods or Effects from thence, and to demand from Mr. Chevalier, the Commandant at Chandernagore, the Surrender of the Town, Shipping, Stores, and all other Effects, both public and private, into your Hands. You will permit the Commandant, and such of the Inhabitants as will pass their Parole, to remain in quiet Possession of their Houses, and make Prisoners of them who shall refuse or evade it.

" In case of a Refusal to surrender the Town, Shipping, and Effects, as demanded, you will take Possession immediately by Force.

" You will be furnished with an Order to the Quarter Master General to supply you immediately with such Boats as you may require from him by Indent, for crossing the Troops over the River, for taking Possession of the Ships, and such other Services as may demand the Employment of Boats for the Execution of these Orders.

" As it is not likely, from the defenceless State of Chandernagore, that any Opposition should be attempted, we recommend it to you to shew all possible Lenity and Tendernefs to the Inhabitants in the Execution of these Orders, which however must be executed without any Delay or Reservation for further Instructions.

" We have appointed Mr. Leonard Collings, a Commissary, to take Charge of the Stores and Effects which may be delivered up to you. We therefore desire that you will cause them to be made over to him.

" Fort William, 9th July 1778.

We are, &c."

" Agreed, That Captain Robinson of the Star Armed Vessel do immediately proceed down the River, to seize all the French Vessels and Pilots which he may be able to find, and bring them to Calcutta.

" The following Letter is therefore written to him by the Secretary.

" To Captain Robinson, Commander of the Morning Star.

Order to Captain Robinson to seize the French Pilots.

" Sir,

" You are hereby directed to proceed down the River with this Tide, to seize all the French Pilot Vessels and Pilots which you may be able to find, and bring them up to Calcutta. A Pilot will be immediately sent on board you by the Master Attendant, who will furnish you with Orders to him, to point out to you such Pilot Vessels as may be in the Service of the French Nation.

" In the Execution of this Service the utmost Secrecy is to be observed.

" Council Chamber, 9th July 1778.

I am, &c."

" Ordered, That the Master Attendant do immediately send a Pilot on board the Morning Star; that he deliver sealed Instructions into the Hands of Captain Robinson, to convey the Ship down down the River, and to point out all the Pilot Sloops or Vessels belonging to the French, that he may see or be able to get Intelligence of in the River.

" Resolved, That Orders be immediately dispatched to the Provincial Councils of Patna, Moorshedabad and Dacca, to take Possession of the French Factories at those Places, with all the Property belonging to that Nation, and to attach the Persons of all the Subjects of the French Nation who shall refuse to pass their Parole.

" The following Circular Letter is accordingly written to Patna.

" Gentlemen,

" In consequence of a Declaration of War which was made by the Court of Great Britain against France, on the 18th March last, and by France against England, on the 30th of the same Month, we do hereby order and command you to send a Military Force to the French Factory, to demand of the Chief the Surrender thereof, with all Stores and other Effects, both public and private, into your Hands. Such of the Inhabitants as will pass their Parole may be permitted to remain in quiet Possession of their Houses; but all the Subjects of France, either within the French Factory, or in other Places within the Limits of your Authority, who shall refuse or evade to give their Parole, are to be seized and made Prisoners.

" In case of a Refusal to deliver up the Factory, &c. as demanded, you will immediately take Possession by Force.

" You will cause an Inventory to be made of all the Effects which shall be delivered up, and transmit a Copy of the same to us, taking proper Care to preserve them untouched.

" Fort William, 9th July, 1778.

We are, &c."

" The same to Dacca and Cossimbuzar.

" Resolved, That the following Orders be immediately issued to the Commanding Officers of Berhampore and Dinapore:

" To the Commanding Officer at Burhampore.

" Sir,

" You are hereby commanded to pay immediate Obedience to such Orders as you shall herewith receive from the Chief and Council at Moorshedabad.

" Fort William, 9th July, 1778.

We are, &c."

" The same to the Commanding Officer at Dinapore, to obey the Orders received from Patna.

" There being no Brigade Sepoys at Dacca, an Order to the Commanding Officer of the Militia Corps stationed there, similar to the above, as that Corps is immediately under the Direction of the Provincial Council.

" Resolved, That the following Letter be written to the Dutch and Danish Settlements, and that they be transmitted to Lieutenant Colonel Dow, to be forwarded by him whenever he shall think proper:

" To the Director and Council at Houghly.

" Gentlemen,

" We have received Intelligence too well authenticated to doubt its Veracity, that War was declared by the Court of Great Britain against France on the 18th of March last, and by the Court of France against Great Britain on the 30th of the same Month. We have therefore thought it incumbent on us to take Possession of the Town of Chandernagore, and to attach all the French Property which shall be found in these Provinces; but as we think it probable that Endeavours will be used by the French to cover their Property under the Marks of Dutch or Danish Colours, to remove with it into the Limits of the Territories of those Nations, we expect, from the Friendship subsisting between your Nation and our's, that you will take effectual Means to discourage and prevent the Success of any Attempts of that Nature.

" Fort William, 7th July, 1778.

We are, &c.

" The same to Fredricknagore.

The Managers for the Commons being asked, if they could produce the Instruments which passed on the Occasion referred to in the Evidence given Yesterday*; viz. the Sunnud, Potta, Coulnama, and Caboolat, acquainted the House that they could not; but wished the House to observe, that when the Governor General moved the Propositions read Yesterday, they were declared to be without Encroachment of the Rights of the Rajah, Rajah, and that they had read the Deeds and Instruments which passed between Shujah ul Dowlah and the Rajah, from the Consultation of the 4th of October 1773, given in Evidence on Tuesday †. However, with respect to the Sunnud, they believed they could make it out thus: That upon the 15th of April 1776, a Sunnud was prepared to be given to the Rajah Cheyt Sing: That that Sunnud was signed by the Board, but the Rajah refused to accept it on Account of a Clause contained in it, declaring all former Sunnuds to be null and void: That in consequence of this Refusal, the Board ordered a new Sunnud to be prepared, omitting the Clause to which the Rajah objected: That this new Sunnud did not appear; but that it seemed to be a fair Inference, that the Sunnud sent up the second Time, was the same as the former Sunnud rejected by the Rajah, omitting the objectionable Clauses; and therefore they would now read that Sunnud.

The Witness produced Book 50, intituled, "Bengal Secret Council, 4th March to 16th May 1776."

Read, the following Extracts from Bengal Secret Consultations, 15th April 1776.

He is not to be, in the smallest Particular, remiss in the Observation and Execution of the several Duties incumbent on him; he is to behave with Moderation and Kindness to the Riotts and People, to promote the Cultivation and Increase of Inhabitants, and Produce of the Lands, expelling Thieves, nightly Assaulters and Robbers, and so effectually punishing the Disturbers of the Peace, that no Trace of them may be seen; and he is to pay a Tribute of 23,40,249 Benares Mucklidar Rupees, or 22,66,180 Calcutta Siccas, annually to the Company's Treasury. Should he receive Orders to pay the above Revenue at Benares, he shall, in that Case, pay the Sum of 23,40,249 Benares Mucklidar Rupees, each Rupee to weigh 10 Massa, and to contain two Ruttie, and two Chowl of Alloy, and no more. Should the Weight be less, or Alloy more, he shall make up the Deficiency. Whenever the Money shall not be wanted at Benares, he is to remit the annual Amount of 23,66,180 Sicca Rupees punctually, agreeably to his Kists, and Muchulka*, by Monthly Payments at Calcutta. In Consideration of which, he shall be allowed a Deduction of Two per Cent. amounting in all to Sicca Rupees 44,434 : 14 : 5 Account Hindowany, or Exchange, which being deducted, the net Amount is 22,21,745 : 5 : 7 Sicca Rupees of Calcutta, which he is to pay at that Place. After the Settlements of Accounts at the End of the Year, he shall, in the customary Manner, receive Credit for his Payments; and he is by no means to collect the prohibited Abwaub of the Durgah of his Majesty. This Sunnud being granted, is to remain in Force, and all former Sunnuds to become null and void. You the Mutluddies, and Persons above-mentioned, are to regard the said Rajah as truly and lawfully possessed of the Zemindarry, Aumeeny, and Fonjedarry of the above Sircars; and to acknowledge his Authority in the several Acts appertaining thereunto. The Managers for the Commons stated, that they would next proceed to shew the Objections made to this Sunnud and Potta, by the Rajah Cheit Sing, as contained in a Letter from Mr. Fowke, the Resident at Benares, dated 17th July 1776, and the Proceedings of the Council thereupon.

The Honourable George Monson, indisposed.

" Honourable Sir, and Sirs,

" I am honoured with the Receipt of your Commands, dated 24th June, directing the Erasure of the Word "Muchulka," in the Sunnud and Potta which accompanied Mr. Auriol's Letter of the 26th April. I have, in Consequence, acquainted the Rajah with your Orders upon this Subject, and have called upon him to receive the new Sunnud and Potta, and to execute his Caboleat. He has declined the Acceptance of the Sunnud and Potta, for which he assigns these Reasons; that any Erasure in a Sunnud or Public Deed is totally unprecedented in the Usages of this Country; that the Clause in the Sunnud by which the former Sunnuds are declared to be null, is likewise contrary to Custom and Practice; and further, that in the above Clause, the Word "Sunnud" being used in the plural Number, the Coulnama, which he received with the former Sunnud and Pottah, is thereby likewise rendered void and of no Effect. The Rajah objects to the Execution of the Caboleat on Account of the Clause it contains, by which the former Sunnuds are annulled. He declares himself ready to return the old Sunnud and Pottah upon Receipt of the new ones; and has requested that a Representation of the above Circumstances may be made to your Honourable Board.

" Benares,
17th July 1776.

" Ordered, That the Secretary prepare a new Sunnud and Pottah, omitting the Word "Muchulka," and the Sentence declaring the former Sunnuds to be null, and that these be transmitted to Mr. Fowke, with Directions to receive back the temporary Pottah and Grant which were first allowed him."

" Resolved, That the following Letter be written to Mr. Fowke.

" Sir,

" We have received your Letters of the 15th and 17th inst.

" In Compliance with the Request of Rajah Cheit Sing, we have ordered the Sunnud and Pottah for his Zemindarry to be made out anew, with the Omissions which he has solicited, and we shall retain these Grants to be exchanged for the Caboleat to be executed on his Part, which his Vackeel has promised to obtain from him.

" You will receive back from the Rajah the temporary Grants which you delivered to him on your Arrival at Benares, and return them to us, or let him do it through his Vackeel; the Sunnud and Pottah, formerly sent you by the Secretary, you will also transmit to us.

[At the End of the Letter]

" We are, &c. &c."

The Managers for the Commons being asked, if they had any Evidence to shew whether the First Sunnud was returned, according to the Order of the 29th July 1776, just read; and also, whether the Second Sunnud was ever executed, acquainted the House that they had laid before them all they knew, or could find upon the Subject. That they would now return to the Evidence they were about to give when the above Enquiry after the Sunnuds, &c. was made, namely, to shew that the Demand of Three Battalions from the Rajah Cheyt Sing, proposed by Mr. Hastings in the Consultation of the 9th July 1778*, was converted into a Demand of Five Lacks of Rupees.

"The Governor General delivers in the following Minute.

"The Governor General lays before the Board the following Letter from Rajah Cheit Sing, and informs the Board, that having called upon Ally Nucky, the Rajah's Vackeel, for an Explanation of his Master's further Sentiments upon the Subject of it: he received the following Answer from the Vackeel, being the Substance of a long Conversation, viz. That his Master was, at all Times, ready to pay Obedience to the Commands of the Board, and to afford every Proof of his Attachment to the Company; and that the Rajah had authorized him to declare his Acquiescence in the Requisition of a Subsidy, equal to the Expence of Three Battalions of Sepoys for the Service of the War.

The Governor General's Minute on Rajah Cheyt Sing's Acquiescence to defray the Expence of Three Battalions of Sepoys.

"The Vackeel contended much for fixing the Sum of the Subsidy at Three Lacks of Rupees. The Governor told him, it could not be less than Five, and received his Consent, in his Master's Name, and in virtue of the Authority which he derived from the Rajah, to the Payment of that Sum for one Year; his Authority extending no further.

"The Governor General is of Opinion, that as the Rajah's Consent has been expressed with such a Limitation, and eluded in his written Answers, the Payment of the Subsidy ought not to be left subject to the Contingencies which the Course of the Year may produce, but immediately demanded. He computes, that the Amount of Three Battalions of Sepoys on double Batta, exclusive of Tents, Arms, and contingent Charges, will amount to Rupees 4,76,000.

"On these Grounds he moves, that the Subsidy to be paid by Rajah Cheit Sing, for the Maintenance of Three Battalions of Sepoys during the Course of the War, be fixed at the annual Sum of Five Lacks of Muchledar Rupees; and that he be immediately required to pay that Sum into the Hands of the Resident Mr. Thomas Graham.

"(Signed) Warren Hastings."

"Mr. Francis.—I acquiesce, tho', in my own Opinion, it would answer as well to us, and be less distressing to the Rajah, if the Subsidy were added, in equal Proportions, to the Monthly Gifts of the Tribute.

"(Signed) Philip Francis.

"I agree. (Signed) Richard Barwell.

"Agreed. (Signed) Edward Wheler."

"From Maha Rajah Cheit Sing, received 30th July.

"I have been honoured by the Receipt of your gracious Letter, communicating the Intelligence of a War having broke out between the Courts of Great Britain and France, and desiring me to take on myself a Share of the Burden of Expence. My Patron, I am the Servant of the Sircar. I will write you more fully hereafter. On all Occasions, I am hopeful of your Highness's Favour and Support.

"Resolved, That the following Letter be written to Mr. Graham, and that Notice of the Board's Resolution be given to the Persian Translator, that a Letter be accordingly prepared to be sent to Rajah Cheit Sing."

"Sir,

"Thinking it necessary that Rajah Cheit Sing should be required to contribute his Share to support the Burthen of the present War with France; we resolved that Three Battalions of Sepoys should be raised and maintained at his Expence; and the Rajah, in Answer to a Letter which the

To Mr. Graham.

Governor General wrote to him on the Occasion, having, by Means of his Vackeel, agreed to pay a Subsidy of Five Lacks of Muchlidar Rupees for one Year, but not authorized his Vackeel to extend his Acquiescence further. We deem it necessary, and have accordingly ordered that the Rajah shall immediately pay this Sum into your Hands; you will therefore receive the same from him, and remit the Amount of it to the Presidency.

" We are, &c."

Notice being taken that the Evidence, as to the Change of the Demand from Troops to a Sum of Five Lacks of Rupees, was, as far as appeared at present, incomplete, in as much as it was not distinctly shewn from whom, or how that Change originated; the Managers for the Commons were asked, " Whether they had any Evidence of the Change of the Proposition made for a Supply of Three Battalions of Troops to that of a Sum of Money, beyond what appears in the Minute delivered in by the Governor General on the 17th of August 1778?"

The Managers for the Commons made Answer, That no other Evidence appeared. But as it was a Matter sufficiently notorious that the Governor General is the Person who officially communicates, on the Part of the Company, with the Vackeels of all the foreign Princes, they conceived it to originate from the Conversation which the Governor General, in the abovementioned Minute of the 17th of August 1778, states to have passed with the Vackeel of the Rajah.

To prove the Demand of the Five Lacks made upon the Rajah; the Request of the Rajah to pay them by Instalments, and that upon the Proceedings in consequence of that Request, one of the Council dissented materially upon the Question of Right;

The Witness was directed to produce Book 21, intituled, " Bengal Council, 2d September to 22d October 1778."

" I think it necessary to inform you, that notwithstanding Seventeen Days are elapsed since your Orders arrived here, directing the Rajah to pay into my Hands the Subsidy he had agreed to pay of Five Lacks of Muchlidar Rupees, he has not yet paid me One Rupee, and offers as a Reason his Inability to discharge the Whole at once, and requests me to receive it by monthly Payments. Your Honourable Board's Orders authorizing nothing of the Kind, I have acquainted him that it is impossible for me to come into his Request, and have repeated my Requisition, which I have indeed been urging every Day since the Receipt of your Orders, to pay me the whole Amount as speedily as possible.

✍️ [" The Governor General lays before the Board the following Letter from Rajah Cheyte Sing :

" From Raja Cheyte Sing, 28th Sept.

Rajah Cheyte
Sing.

" I have been honoured with your gracious Letter, desiring that I will, as a Subject of the Company, take on myself the Payment of Five Lacks of Muchledar Rupees, as my Proportion of the Expences of the present War, and pay them to Mr. Graham. Although I have no Ability left, and the great Burthen of Expence I laboured under from the Time of the Decease of the late Raja, till the Expiration of the Nabob Vizier's Authority over me, is well known to God and your Excellency, yet, solely with a View to Compliance with your Orders, and to prove my Fidelity, having sold and pledged every Thing belonging to me, I will make good the aforesaid in Instalments in Six or Seven Months, although by parting with my Effects, which are clearly necessary, I am left in a State of Inability for the future; yet you will shew me much Favour that I shall again recover myself.

"As a Time is required for the Sale of my Effects, and raising the Money, I hope, from your Kindness, that the Officers of Government may take from me, in different Payments, the said Sum in Sonant Specie, as I shall not be able to procure this Sum in Muchledar Rupees; and that you will be graciously pleased to affix your Signature to my Requests, that I may apply myself with Satisfaction and Affiduity to the Business of the Sirkar."

"Governor General.—The Substance of this Letter, and the Requisition made by the Rajah to Mr. Graham, differ so much from the cheerful and ready Acquiescence with * the Rajah's Vakeel, Shaick Ally Nucky, made in his Master's Name to the Demand made on him for this Subsidy, that I think it necessary, for my own Justification, to call upon the Secretary to certify the Accuracy of my Minute delivered on the 17th August, containing the Assent expressed by the Vakeel, in his Master's Name, to the Payment of the Subsidy.

* See in Orig.

"The Secretary acquaints the Board, that the Governor General delivered to him the Minute above mentioned, previous to his laying it before the Board, with Orders to explain the Contents of it to the Rajah's Vakeel, that it might correspond with the Acquiescence which he had delivered; he accordingly communicated the Minute to the Vakeel, and received from him a Confirmation of the Terms therein expressed.

"The Governor General moves, That Orders be written immediately to Mr. Graham, that he do, on Receipt of them, demand of the Rajah in Person, the Payment of the entire Sum of Five Lacks of Rupees in the Space of Five Days, and declare to him in the Name of this Board, that his Refusal or Neglect to complete the Payment within that Time, shall be deemed equivalent to an absolute Refusal, and that he be forbidden, in that Case, to hold any farther Intercourse with the Rajah until he shall have advised us of the Particulars of the Raja's Conduct in this Instance; and receive our Orders in Consequence.

"Mr. Francis.—I beg leave to ask, Whether there be any Letter from the Raja himself to the Governor, in which his Consent to pay the Five Lacks, in the Manner agreed to by the Vakeel, is expressed, or the Vakeel's Engagement to that Effect confirmed.

"Governor General.—All the Rajah's Letters will be found in the Book of Persian Correspondence, to which I refer; but I well recollect that the Assent given by the Vakeel was expressed in Terms the most peremptory that could be conceived, either confirmed by an Oath, or his own Life pledged for the Performance of it. My Minute was drawn up from Heads of what passed in Conversation with the Vakeel, and when it was explained to him by Mr. Auriol, he was very desirous of correcting a Part of it, which made the Acquiescence of the Rajah appear too general, and that it might be specifically limited to One Year; his Powers, he added, extended no further. The Correction was accordingly made upon the Spot in the Room adjoining to this, and the Minute immediately recorded. I desire the Secretary to mention whether this agrees with his Recollection of the Matter.

"The Secretary very well recollects the particular Circumstances alluded to by the Governor General, and therefore offers his Testimony, that the Vakeel declared he was authorised to acquiesce in the Subsidy for One Year, but no longer, and desired that the Requisition might be limited to that Time.

"The Minute was before indefinite.

"Mr. Francis.—I have no Sort of Doubt of the Reality of the Engagements made by the Vakeel; the Question is whether they are Acts of the Rajah, or made by sufficient Authority from him. If the Vakeel had even a Letter of Credence relative to the Point in Question, it would be sufficient. If he had, it must appear on the Persian Correspondence, and I desire the Secretary will read it.

"Governor General.—I have looked over the Book of Correspondence. There are but Two Letters upon the Subject. The First, a Letter recorded in Consultation the 17th of August, acknowledging the Receipt of mine, which contained the first Requisition of the Five Lacks, and promising an Answer. The Letter recorded on this Day appears to be that Answer, as it begins with an Acknowledgment of the first Letter, and a short Recapitulation of its Substance. My first Letter was written on the 11th July, Two Months and Seventeen Days from this Date. If an Answer from the Vakeel, during so long an Interval, was not to be deemed authentic, the Rajah's Silence was more disrespectful than a direct Refusal; but if it be admitted as an Exculpation, his surest Remedy against any Act of Government will be a Refusal to make any Reply to its Demands. I will not conceal from the Board, that I have expected this evasive Conduct in the Rajah, having been some Time past well informed, that he had been advised in this Manner to procrastinate the Payments of the Five Lacks, to afford Time for the Arrival of Dispatches from England, which were to bring Orders for a total Change in this Government; and this, he was given to expect, would produce a Repeal of the Demand made upon him by the present Government. On intimating my Suspicions of such a Design to the Vakeel, he promised he would write in so effectual a Manner to his Master, as should, without Fail, induce him to make an immediate Payment of the Subsidy. He, this Morning, informed me, that his Letter was dispatched on the 12th of this Month; its Effect ought by this Time to have shewn itself. Sufficient Time will have been given to the Rajah to obey the Authority of the Board by the Arrival of the Orders which I have now proposed; proposed; and whether, in that Interval, he shall ratify the Act of his Vakeel or not, I shall consider of little Consequence. If the Board will support their own Authority, he shall be made to yield to it.

“ Mr. Francis.—There is no Question, but the Rajah must yield to the Power of this Government; and I shall be as ready as any Member of this Board, to support its Authority, as long as its Power is directed by Justice. I did from the first express a Doubt, whether we had strictly a Right to encrease our Demands upon the Rajah beyond the Terms which we originally agreed to give him, which he consented to, and which, as I have constantly understood it, were made the fundamental Tenure, by which he held his Zemindary. If such Demands can be encreased upon him at the Discretion of the superior Power, he has no Rights; he has no Property; or, at least, he has no Security for either. Instead of Five Lacks, let us demand Fifty; and whether he refuses, or is unable to pay the Money, the Forfeiture of his Zemindary may be the immediate Consequence of it, unless he can find Means to redeem himself by a new Treaty. Having this Opinion of the Demand itself, as it originally stood, it cannot be deemed extraordinary in me, that I should proceed with very great Caution in enforcing any Penalties, which may be proposed to attend his not instantly complying with it. It appears that the Engagements made by the Vakeel have not been confirmed by the Rajah; and that the Vakeel had not even a Letter of Credence from his Master. I know the Temper of black Servants too well to punish their Principals for any Acts done by them, or even to hold them bound by such Acts, if not expressly or virtually confirmed by themselves. I do not mean by what I have said, that the Board should give up the Demand, which they have already thought fit to make of the Rajah. That Resolution being passed, it only remains for us to take Care that it should be carried into Execution without Harshness or Violence. The Rajah must pay the Money if he has it; but I cannot conceive, why we should insist on his paying it all at once. We do not instantly want it; and it may distress him in the greatest Degree to part with such a Sum at a single Payment. My Opinion is therefore, that the Liquidation of the present extraordinary Demand upon him should be settled by Kistbundy; and that he should be assured at the same Time, that this Board will not make any further Demands upon him. Under such a Settlement, unanimously agreed to, it is not likely that the Rajah will delay or evade a due and regular Execution of it, from any Hopes he may conceive of future Relief by a Change in this Government.

“ The Governor General.—The very Demand is itself a Proof that the Rajah expects such Relief; and with Respect to his Ability to pay the Sum so long demanded from him, or even Ten Times that Amount, I speak within Compass, no Man can doubt of it. The Acts of the Majority of the Board are the Acts of the Board. When the Person who is the immediate Object of them stands so high in the Public Estimation, and holds Pretensions, as it appears this Rajah does, to a Sovereign and Independant Authority, such Acts once past ought never to be revoked: The Demand made upon the Rajah was for immediate Payment, the Demand ought to be supported rigidly; but I will so far yield to the Necessity of the Times, weakening as it may prove to the Powers of this Government, at a Crisis, which of all others demand their most vigorous Exertion, as to consent to a Compromise. The Rajah has requested, that he may be allowed to pay the Sum required of him by Instalments, within the Space of Six or Seven Months; I will consent to pardon his past Contumacy and Disobedience, on Condition of his consenting to pay the entire Sum within Three Months, which Time will have elapsed before the Orders now sent to Mr. Graham can take Effect, although not a Rupee shall have been received, to that Period, of the Payments which, by his own Proposal, ought to be half completed. I desire that what I have said may not be misunderstood. I mean only to shew, that instead of the Harshness and Rigour which have been imputed to this Government in its present Conduct to the Rajah, he has been treated with a Lenity almost equal to the Substance of his own Demands. I think it unnecessary to reply farther to Mr. Francis's Minute, as I desire only to obtain his Consent to a Measure upon his own Principles, which I understand to be, that a public Measure, nay, even an Opinion of Government once passed, ought to be invariably supported, even by those who opposed it in the first Instance.

“ Mr. Francis.—It is generally true that a Resolution of Government once passed should be supported; but, where the Rights of others are concerned, it is only true with this Proviso, that such Resolutions are not directly contradictory to the Principles of Justice, or to the voluntary and fundamental Engagements of the Government itself. This Board was already bound to the Rajah by certain Acts of their own, not carried by a Majority, but unanimously agreed to. I desire that they may be recorded in this Place, as I find them stated in our Instructions to Mr. Fowke.

“ Mr. Fowke, of the 24th August 1775:

4. “ It will be proper to assure the Rajah, that we do not mean to increase his Tribute, but
 “ to require from him the exact Sum, and in the same Species of Rupees, to be paid at Benares,
 “ as he paid to the late Vizier Sujah Dowlah, besides whatever Equivalent may be fixed for the “ Grant of the Mint and Cutwally to him; the Whole to be discharged by equal monthly Kists;
 “ and if we should find it expedient hereafter to receive the Amount at the Presidency, a suitable

" able Deduction, or Commission; shall be allowed to him for the Expence and Risk of transporting or remitting it.

" 5th. That under the acknowledged Sovereignty of the Company, we are determined to leave him the free and uncontrouled Management of the internal Government of his Country, and the Collection and Regulation of the Revenues, so long as he adheres to the Terms of his Engagements, and will never demand any Augmentation of the annual Tribute which may be fixed."

" If the Opinions of the individual Members, who then composed the Board, should be looked back to, I believe it will appear that the Amount of the Tribute was fixed at a higher Sum than the Governor General then thought the Rajah ought to pay. This, however, is immaterial; I only mean to shew that I adhere to my Principles, and that the Doubts which I have constantly expressed of the Justice of encreasing our Demands upon the Rajah, which, if done at all, may be done ad libitum, were not ill founded.

" Governor General.—I must object to the Term "unanimous," applied to any Resolution passed at the Period to which Mr. Francis alludes, merely because my Dissent was not expressed to it. The Quotation from Mr. Fowke's Instructions related only to the fixed and annual Revenue, but could never be understood to preclude that Right which every Government inherently possesses to compel all its Dependencies to contribute, by extraordinary Supplies, to the Relief of extraordinary Emergencies; but though it were granted that this Injunction given to Mr. Fowke did extend to every Mode of Supply, still the Argument will not apply to the present Question. The present Demand for the Subsidy, just or unjust, was made unanimously, and therefore, even on that Ground alone, ought to be unanimously supported.

" Mr. Francis.—Understanding that the instant Payment of the Five Lacks is still to be demanded in the Terms of the First Proposition, and that no Relaxation from these Terms was intended, I am against the Motion.

" Mr. Wheler.—I am for the Question; but am further of Opinion, that it should be left to Mr. Graham to determine whether to enforce Payment of the Sum required of the Rajah for the present Exigencies of Government by one Payment, or whether to receive it by different Installments, not exceeding Three Months from the First Payment to the Completion of the Whole.

" Mr. Barwell.—The Facts that have been related to the Board by the Governor General, speak the absolute Necessity of the Motion that has been agitated. In these Sentiments it is incumbent on me to support it; and I think, that, in Order to its full Efficacy, the Governor General should be empowered to pursue such Means as may secure the Government from a Possibility of a further Disappointment.

" Governor General.—I cannot consent to the Qualification of the present Motion, recommended by Mr. Wheler, for the Reasons I have already assigned. With respect to the Proposition implied in Mr. Barwell's Minute, I shall take an early Occasion to offer my Sentiments upon it, desiring the Subject to rest here for the present.

" Mr. Francis.—If Mr. Barwell, in his Minute, means to give the Governor General, by his Voice, any Powers whatsoever, independent or exclusive of the Board, I must request he will be pleased to explain himself. I am sure that no such Powers can be wanted on the present Occasion.

" Governor General.—I beg that the Debate; which is now unnecessary, may end. The Morning has already been lost in Words. As nothing more is proposed to be done, I hope it is unnecessary that more of our Time should be consumed in ineffectual Debates, even without a professed Object.

" Agreed that the following Letter be written to Mr. Graham:

" Sir,

" We have received your Letters of the 15th July, 9th August, and 14th instant.

" We cannot consent to the Request of Rajah Cheyte Sing, to be allowed to pay the Amount of his Subsidy, for the Expence of the present War for one Year, by monthly Kists. Our Orders communicated to him by the Governor General for the immediate Payment were positive; we therefore confirm those Orders, and direct that on Receipt hereof you wait on the Rajah forthwith, and demand of him, in Person and by Writing, the Payment of the full Sum of Five Lacks of Muchlidar Rupees, the Sum at which the Subsidy is fixed, in Specie to that Amount, to be made to you within Five Days of such Demand; and declare to him in the Name of this Government, that his evading or neglecting to accomplish the Payment thereof within that Space, shall be deemed equivalent to an absolute Refusal; and in Case of his Noncompliance with your Demand, we peremptorily enjoin you to refrain from all further Intercourse with him, until you shall have advised us of the Particulars of his Conduct in this Instance, and received our further Orders on the Subject.

Bengal.

" Mr. Barwell.—In considering the present State of the Treasury, a comprehensive View is doubtless proposed of the actual existing Riches of the State to be commanded to any immediate Exigency of Government, and not depending on Events, or a Revenue, the Receipt of which may be rendered precarious by the Approach of a foreign Enemy.—To effect this, it will be necessary to state in Account the real unappropriated Treasure, this Instant in our Possession: By unappropriated Treasure, I mean all Sums of Money, whether in the Treasury of Calcutta, or elsewhere, not subject to the current Disbursements of Government, and totally distinct from the Annual Revenue, which I shall regard as appropriated to Civil and Military Purposes, and to Remittances to Bombay and China: And to obviate Doubts as to the Sufficiency of this Allotment, I have annexed official Estimates of the Receipts at the Presidency for the Four ensuing Months of August, September, October, and November. " The Governor General having also sent in the following Minute, it was circulated.

" Mr. Francis has assigned Two distinct Motives for his Proposal of opening the Company's Treasury for a Loan of 50 Lacks of Current Rupees, at an Interest of 5 per Cent. First, to secure a Provision against a Deficiency in our ordinary Supplies. Secondly, to afford a Relief to the wealthy Inhabitants, who, for the Want of such a Security for their Specie, might be induced to secrete it.

" The other Reasons enumerated by Mr. Francis depending on these, I shall not separately examine them.

" In the first Place, it appears to me that Mr. Francis has been misled in his Computation of our actual Means, by forming it entirely in the Amount in our Treasuries at the Presidency, without taking any Notice of the Balances in the Provincial Treasuries, and in the other Departments, in which they constitute, or at least ought to constitute, as much a Part of our present Assets, as if they were all deposited in the principal Treasuries. But this Error has been so ably rectified by Mr. Barwell, that it is unnecessary for me to add any Thing to his Observations. I shall take up the Subject in another Point of Light, and in that in which alone it can, according to my Conception of it, be regularly viewed, or indeed without involving it in infinite Intricacy, as the Debate upon the Means of the actual Hour must be continually varying, and the Conclusions upon it, even while they are forming, falsified by the Difference between the real and estimated Amount of each Day's Receipts and Disbursements.

" I shall therefore consider the Subject in its Relation not to a partial Period, but to the whole Year, and shew that instead of the Deficiency which Mr. Francis apprehends, we shall have a large Supply of Cash at the End of it, and that therefore any Addition made to it by a Loan, will not only subject the Company to an unnecessary Loss of 2½ Lacks of Rupees, but lock up the greater Part of the Amount from Circulation, into which it would probably be thrown by the usual Means employed by Individuals of employing their Money to Advantage.

✍️ [" I have annexed to this Minute, a Copy of the Estimate formed by our Accomptant of the probable Receipts and Disbursements for the whole Year. Having carefully examined the several Articles on each Side of the Account, I see no Cause to doubt the Accuracy of any of them. But as several Orders have lately been passed which will produce a considerable Addition to the Expences of the Year, exclusive of those stated in the Estimate, I shall state those in gross Sums, estimated beyond my Belief of their probable Amount, which, deducted from the Balance of the Estimate, will shew the probable Sum in advance at the End of the Year.

" I shall first insert the Balance of the annexed Estimate, being the supposed Sum which will remain after deducting all the probable Disbursements from } 2,35,60,000

" It

" It is my Belief that the real Expences will not exceed One Half of the Sum at which I have estimated them, for the Period of Time for which they are calculated: but even if they be taken much higher the expected Balance will be at least Two Crores of Rupees, a Sum excluding every Idea of Distress, and of the consequent Necessity of borrowing Money to relieve it.]

" I now come to the last Argument, namely, the Relief which it will afford to wealthy Individuals, who might otherwise be induced to secrete their Wealth. To this I reply, that the Company's Treasury is always open for Deposits, and there is no Doubt that those who would wish to avail themselves of such a Security for their Property, would not wait for the Profit of 5 per Cent. as an Inducement, if their only Alternative was to entrust it to the Faith and Custody of Government, without Interest, or to secrete it, and conceal it with equal Loss of Interest; for if they have other Means of employing their Money with an Interest or any other Advantage on it, this, as I have before observed, would be an Objection to the Receipt of it in the Company's Treasury, as it would then be dead, instead of being profitably given to Circulation.

" But in discussing this last Motive, it may be proper to attend to a Point on which I am not sufficiently well informed. It should first be known, whether the Native Merchants are desirous themselves of lending Money to the Company on the Conditions proposed by Mr. Francis. In my Opinion, the Proposition should come from them; if precipitately from us, it would probably, at this Time, occasion an Alarm, or convey an Impression unfavourable to our Credit.

“ Mr. Francis.—The Considerations which led me to think, that, in our present Circumstances, a Loan of Forty or Fifty Lack might be an advisable Measure, and to recommend it to the Board as a Question worthy at least of their Deliberation, were founded on Two Data, which I conceived were not disputed.

“ The first is a matter of Fact, capable of immediate Proof ;—the second is a Supposition, so far admitted by the Board, that it has already been the Ground of several important Resolutions.

“ It is a Fact, for which I appeal to the State of the Treasury, signed by Mr. Crofts, that we have this Day no more than Current Rupees 37,15,131, applicable to the Company's Service, in which Sum is included 2,99,199 in Bullion uncoined, and 4,84,726 in Paper Security.

“ The whole Balance in the Treasury is	—	—	—	—	50,09,314 : 2
“ Deduct the Deposits	—	—	—	—	12,94,183
“ Remains	—	—	—	—	37,15,131 : 2

“ Instead of this Sum, the Balance is stated by Mr. Barwell to be 54,00,000. He also states the Balances in the Hands of the Paymasters at 16,00,000, calculated, as I presume, from the Balance which was in their Hands at the End of April. By a Computation, with which the Paymaster General has this Day furnished me, it appears that the Balances, which they will have at the End of this Month, will not exceed Current Rupees 5,37,702.

“ When Mr. Middleton's Remittance shall arrive, Credit may be taken for it in the State of the Treasury. In the mean time it is so much Bullion uncoined, the Produce of which cannot be ascertained, nor do I suppose that any Part of it will be coined these Six Months. The Supposition to which I have alluded is, that Bengal will be invaded. On this Principle we have augmented our Army; on this Principle we ought to provide such Resources for supporting a War as cannot be affected by the Events of the War itself. I was not unacquainted with the general State of our Revenues, or the Resources which we might reasonably depend on in a Time of Peace and Tranquility, though my Reliance on Estimates is by no Means implicit. But the Case of an Invasion of this Country supposes a very different State of Things; and for my own Part, I have no Doubt it would be followed by a general Failure in the Collections.—I would not trust the Defence of Bengal, on which the Existence of the East India Company, and I fear, the public Credit of the Nation, may, at this Time depend, to any Resources which we absolutely have not in our Possession, especially when Security may be purchased at an Expence so very trifling, that, in my Judgment, it does not deserve a Moment's Consideration.—The Money to be borrowed would not be taken out of Circulation, though it should lie untouched in our Treasury; because, in the Case supposed, it would assuredly be buried, or otherwise secreted by the Owners. Neither do I admit that in any Case Money borrowed by Government is a Loss to Circulation, since their Bonds represent and perform the Office of Specie, to the Amount of the Sum borrowed, and even with greater Convenience than the Specie itself. I do not know what the Governor alludes to, when he denies that a Loan would be any Relief to the Natives, as if I had recommended it on that Ground, or for that Purpose. My Object is directly the Security of the Government, and collaterally to insure to us, in all Events, the Attachment of so many wealthy Individuals. They will not offer their Money to us for nothing. For a moderate Interest they probably will. If not, it is a Sign our Credit is not very good at present. In Time of actual Distress the Measure will be impracticable.

“ Mr. Barwell and the Governor General enter their Replies to the foregoing Minute, as follows :

“ Mr. Barwell.—In considering Mr. Francis's Question, Whether, in our present Circumstances, a Loan of Forty or Fifty Lack might be an advisable Measure, I confine myself to Facts, which, in my Judgment, appear ample and conclusive. I did not think it necessary to state, with the Correctness of an Accomptant, the actual Wealth existing, independent of the current Revenue and Balance of the Provincial Treasuries; my Argument did not require it; all I aimed to prove, and to insist upon, was, 1st. That the Rupees locked up, and which might be applied to the Exigencies of the Government without encroaching on the current Revenue, amounted to a Sum not short of a Million Sterling. The 2d Fact I insisted upon was, that the current Revenue was more than sufficient to answer the Appropriation of it to the Investment, to the Civil and Military Charges of our Government, and to the Annual Remittances to Bombay and China.

“ The 2d Fact is not denied by Mr. Francis; for he has suggested, that the Receipts of the Revenue may be rendered precarious, whenever these Provinces shall be invaded by a foreign Enemy. He does not express a Doubt of our Receipts being regular and uninterrupted, until so improbable an Event shall take place. This is all I ask; and if this is granted, it follows, that the 1st Fact on which I ground my Objection to the Loan, is established beyond the Possibility of Contradiction; nor is it sufficient to oppose to it, that the Balance of the Calcutta Treasury from 54,32,808, at which it stood the 21st ultimo, as stated by Mr. Francis the 23d, has, to the 10th instant, been reduced to 50,09,314 : 2; or that by the End of this Month, or 1st September, the Balance of Sixteen Lacks, which I state against the Paymasters, &c. Military, will be reduced to 5,37,702, because it will instantly be replied to so partial a Representation, that the current Revenue being admitted more than sufficient for every Disbursement of Government, an equal Sum must necessarily accumulate and exist, though not immediately in Calcutta, in our other Treasuries, totally distinct from the Appropriations of the Revenue, and applicable only to extraordinary Occasions. I shall not question the Computation of the Military Paymaster General, which Mr. Francis intimates he is possessed of, because I do not know the Grounds on which it is made; and I do not conceive it of any Consequence whether the Computation is carried on, only One Month, or extended to Twelve Months, beyond the 1st instant; because, if the Members of the Board will be pleased to look into the Book lying on the Table, containing the Statements of the Provincial Treasuries, it will instantly strike their Observation, that an equal Sum for Military Charges having been regularly estimated in the probable Disbursements of each Month, from the 1st February to the 1st July, such Sums must either have been issued Account Military, or remain in the Treasuries unissued. In the First Case, it will increase the Balance in the Hands of the Paymasters; in the Second, add to the Balance in the Treasuries. The Nature of the Fact cannot be altered; and it is of little Moment to insist whether the existing Wealth is in the Hands of the Paymasters, or in our Treasuries.

The Remittances from Mr. Middleton being stated only as so much Bullion, may possibly lead the Gentlemen in the Direction to suppose it cannot be immediately applied: To obviate such an Error, it is proper they should be informed, that this Bullion is so much foreign Coin, Coin that no Individual will refuse at the Assay Valuation, with an adequate Allowance for Charges of Re-coinage. The Regulation of Government to reduce every Specie of Rupees to One Standard, it is true, carries all the foreign Coin from our Treasury to the Mint; but the Re-coinage is rather a political than an indispensable Operation; for it may be deviated from at any Time, and on any Occasion, without the least Distress or real Loss to Government. The whole Reasoning on the pictured Poverty of Government being confined to the Wealth lodged in the Treasury of Calcutta, would seem to deny the real Existence of One Half of the Amount we actually possess. The last Letter from Mr. Middleton of the 13th July, informs us, that on the 10th June the Balance of our Treasury was 46,35,497.17 : 3 Oude, or Calcutta Currency 40,35,402 : 2 : 9, that he had remitted Twenty Lacks to the Presidency.

" Though I must insist that we possess the Wealth I stated in my Minute of the 8th instant, yet it is not necessary to my Argument against the Loan.

" Our Treasury in the lower Station at the Presidency, Mr. Francis states now at —————

" Our Treasury in the upper Station at Oude —————

The Aggregate is

A Sum beyond any Call that can be made on our Government, and sufficient to convince the most prepossessed, that under the present Circumstances of our Government a Loan of Forty or Fifty Lack is not an advisable Measure.

" That my Silence to the proposed Invasion of the Provinces by the French may not be construed into a tacit Acquiescence in the Probability of such a Measure, I declare I do not believe such an Invasion will be attempted; yet however improbable the Attempt, it is not impossible; and upon this Principle alone that we should be guarded against all possible Events, I have concurred in the late Military Arrangements.

" The Governor General—I agree entirely in the Opinions expressed in the preceding Minute, and think it necessary to add my particular Concurrence to the concluding Paragraph, as consonant to my repeated Declaration on Record."

" Honourable Sir and Sirs,

" Immediately on the Receipt of your Honourable Board's Letter of the 19th ultimo, directing me to demand of Rajah Cheyt Sing Payment of the Sum of Five Lacks of Muchlidar Rupees, as his annual Proportion of the Burthen of the present War with France, I waited upon him, and at the same time that I communicated the Orders of your Honourable Board to myself, I delivered to him the Honourable the Governor General's Letter to him in Confirmation thereof. He then gave me for Answer, that he had not the Ability to discharge the Demand. As this was similar to the Answer he gave me when I demanded Payment of his Subsidy for the last Year, I did not consider it as a definitive one, and therefore continued in renewing my Demand every Second Day; finding, however, that he holds to the Terms of his first Reply, and seeing no Probability of a speedy Change in his Sentiments, I am unavoidably reduced to the Necessity of applying for your Honourable Board's further Instructions on this Head. Until they arrive, I shall follow the Orders already sent me, by repeating my Request for Payment every Second or Third Day.

✍ “ Read a Letter from Rajah Cheyt Sing as follows :

“ From Rajah Cheyt Sing, received 27th August 1779.

“ I have been honoured with your Letter, calling on me for the Payment of Five Lacks of Rupees on Account of the Expençe of the War for the present Year, and understand its Contents. Rajah Cheyt Sing.

“ My Situation is well known to you, and I assure you, without Reserve, that I have no Ability left, nor is there any Mode of Relief for me but in the Exertion of your Favour. I am fully convinced, that it is your Desire, who are my Master, to support me your Servant ; and last Year, you directed Sheik Ally Neecky, that I should by any Means, by disposing of my Effects, or by borrowing, make this one Payment, and I should not be called on in future, and that you would take every Means for my Advantage and Support.

“ I accordingly put in Practice every Method in my Power, and by Loans made good the Requisition. It is now absolutely out of my Power to raise the Sum required, and I am therefore hopeful that you will be kindly pleased to excuse me the Five Lacks now demanded, and that nothing may be demanded of me beyond the Amount expressed in the Pottah, which, through your Favour, I obtained from the Honourable English Company.

“ This Raje and Zemindary, and my Dignity, are the Gifts of your Highness. I have judged it necessary to represent to you my Inability and helpless State.”

“ Governor General.—I move that the Commander in Chief be desired to issue an Order for the March of Two Battalions of Sepoys from the nearest Station of the Army, excepting the first and temporary Brigades, to Benares, on the Requisition of Mr. Graham, and there to remain for the further Orders of the Board. That the whole Expençe of this Detachment, from the Day of its March, be exacted from the Rajah of Benares. That this Resolution be communicated to him by the Governor General, and that the Resident be ordered to inform the Rajah of it, repeating his Demand for the Sum required ; and, in case of his Refusal, or Non-compliance with his Demand, to give immediate Notice to the Officer in Command of the Detachment, that he may march accordingly.

“ Sir Eyre Coote,—Agrees to the Motion.

“ Mr. Wheler.—I am against it.

“ Mr. Francis.—I never approved of the additional Demand beyond his stipulated Tribute. I cannot therefore concur in the Measure proposed: I firmly believe it to be unnecessary, even for its avowed Purpose ; and I am very much afraid, that it will be attended with Consequences ruinous to the Rajah, and to his Country. That Country is now one of the richest Jewels we possess. The great Revenue we draw from that Country may be permanently secured under mild and equitable Treatment. Measures of a different Nature may extort more for a Moment, but they will ruin the future Resource.

“ Mr. Barwell.—It rests with the Rajah himself to discharge his Quota of the Expençe of the War voluntarily, or to be compelled to it. I agree to the Motion.

“ Governor General.—Benares is not a Jewel in our Possession, if we leave the Rajah an Option to obey or disobey the Orders of his superior Government, and to maintain himself in the Independency of a tributary Prince. As to the Ruin pretended from this Order, the Terms of the Question itself put it in his Power to prevent even the Execution of the Order ; and more I shall not at this Time say upon the Subject ; I may hereafter.

" Agreed to the Governor General's Motion, and Resolved, That the Commander in Chief be requested to give Orders to Major Carnac, or the Officer in Command of his Detachment, for the March of Two Battalions of Sepoys to Benares, on the Requisition of Mr. Thomas Graham, the Resident there, and to remain at that Place for further Orders.

" Resolved, That the following Letter be written to Mr. Graham.

" Sir,

" We have received your Letter of the 16th instant, acquainting us that Rajah Cheit Sing had declined to pay the Five Lacks of Rupees, which we required of him, as his Proportion of the Expences of the War for the current Year.

" Having judged it necessary to make this Claim, which was suggested to us by the Exigency of the Case, we cannot admit of any Plea which the Rajah may urge to exempt him from it; Orders have, therefore, been sent to Major Carnac, or the Officer in Command of his Detachment, to march to Benares immediately, on your Requisition, with Two Battalions of Sepoys, and to wait our further Orders at that Place. We have thought this Step necessary, for the Purpose of compelling the Rajah to pay the Quota required of him in case of Necessity, and we direct that you repeat your Demand, and insist on his Compliance. If the Rajah should still continue to object to your Claim, and refuse Payment, you are to require the Officer in Command of the Detachment, to march immediately, in Conformity to our Orders, and advise us of your Proceedings.

" We hope, however, that you will not be reduced to proceed to this Extreme, as it would oblige us to increase our Demands on the Rajah, by exacting from him the whole Expence of the Detachment from the Day of its March, in Addition to our original Claim.

The Managers for the Commons observed, that there appeared to be a Mistake in the Day on which the Letter from the Rajah Cheyt Sing is stated to be received, namely the 27th Aug. 1779, the Date of the Consultation in which it is entered being 26th Aug. 1779;—that possibly it ought to be 17th Aug. 1779.

Then they acquainted the House, that they had proposed in the next Place to shew the Dates of the different Payments of the last-mentioned Demand of Five Lacks of Rupees by the Rajah Cheyt Sing; but understanding the Accounts were not at Hand, they would proceed to shew the Acknowledgement of the Council that they had received this Sum.

The Witnesses produced Book 25, intituled, " Bengal Letters received from 1st Feb. 1779 to 3d March 1780."

Read, the 41st and 42d Paragraphs of a Secret General Letter from the Governor General and Council in Bengal, to the Court of Directors, dated Fort William, 14th January 1780, and received on the 28th of July 1780; beginning Page 95 of the said Book.

Then the Witness produced Book 24, intituled, " No. 4, Persian Public Correspondence, Letters received from the 1st January to the 31st December 1779."

Read, Two Letters, one from the Rajah Chite Sing to Mr. Graham, received on 20th September 1779; the other, from the Rajah to the Governor General, inclosed in the foregoing.

" From Rajah Chite Sing to Mr. Graham, 20th September 79.

" I received your Letter about the Five Lacks of Rupees, and understand the Contents. I have before made known to you my distressed Situation that I have not Power to comply, and I have also sent an Arzie in Answer to the Letter from the Prefence which you delivered to me. I have no Power to comply; I discharge the Revenue according to the Pottah granted by the Sirkar. I am hopeful that this Order may be revoked, for which Purpose I have also written an Arzie to the Prefence, and request that you will oblige me by dispatching it without Delay."

" Enclosure in the foregoing.

" From Rajah Chite Sing to the Governor General.

" Every Two or Three Days am I called upon to pay Five Lacks of Rupees. Your gracious Letter, on this Subject, honoured me by its Arrival. I have dispatched an Arzie in Answer, which will have been presented to you. In Obedience to your Order, I last Year, by every Means, and borrowing from all Quarters, raised the Sum, and at that Time you promised that it should not happen again. I have it not in my Power at present. You have before honoured me with the Title of Son, and regarding me as your Son you have protected me. I am therefore hopeful that I may be excused from this Requisition."

The Managers for the Commons being asked, What was the Date of the Letter from the Rajah Cheyt Sing to the Governor General, acquainted the House, That the Persian Letters have no Date.

The Managers for the Commons stated, they would next proceed to read the Answers to the foregoing Letters.

The Witness produced Book 23, intituled, " Secret Department, Persian Correspondence, Letters written from the 1st January to the 31st December 1779."

Read, a Letter from the Governor General to Rajah Chite Sing, dated September 25, 1779, beginning at Page 42, of the said Book.

" To Rajah Chite Sing.

" Written 25th September 1779.

" I have received your Letter, from the Contents of which, as well as from the Letters of Mr. Graham, and the Copy of a Letter which you wrote to that Gentleman, and which he transmitted for my Inspection, it appears but too clearly, that instead of a chearful Compliance with the Requisition of this Government, in the immediate Payment of the Sum of Five Lacks of Rupees as your Share of the Expence of the War for the present Year, a Requisition which the great Burden of Expence under which the Company labour for the Defence of the Country renders necessary, and to which you, as a Subject of theirs, are bound to contribute, have thought proper, under the Plea of Inability, which is well known to be futile, to endeavour to amuse the Resident with vague and distant Promises, meaning probably to protract, if not entirely evade, Payment of the Sum required of you. In a Letter which I lately wrote you, I informed you, in express Terms, that this Government neither could or would recede from so reasonable a Demand, and added, that in case of no Compliance on your Part, Mr. Graham was authorized to summon a Detachment of our Forces to enforce our Orders if it should be found necessary. This, I hoped, would have opened * Eyes, and induced you to relinquish a Conduct which must, if pursued, bring the greatest Disadvantages on you; but since even this Intimation of our Determination has proved ineffectual, I now think it necessary to inform you, that we have desired the Commander in Chief to dispatch Major Carnac with the Detachment under his Command to Benares, there to wait our further Orders; he will accordingly begin his March immediately, unless the Resident, in the mean Time, from the actual Receipt of the Subsidy, shall inform him that it is unnecessary for him to proceed further; and you will be pleased to observe, that should you force us to a Measure so contrary to our Wishes, the whole Expence of the Detachment, from the Time of its March, will be required from you, exclusive of the Subsidy for the War."

* Sic in Orig.

Notice being taken by the House, that the Answer just read from the Governor General to the Letter of the Rajah Cheyt Sing, referred to a Letter from Mr. Graham, the Resident at Benares, inclosing the said Letter of the Rajah to the Governor General; and the House being desirous to know what was the Date of Mr. Graham's Letter so referred to, the Managers for the Commons acquainted the House, that they they had not Mr. Graham's Letter at Hand, and hoped the House would not be surprised, if, in so voluminous a Correspondence, they were not immediately prepared with every Thing required.

Then the Managers for the Commons were proceeding to shew the Demand made upon the Rajah in the Year 1780; when they were asked by the House, if they were prepared to give an Account of the Dates of Payment by the Rajah in each Year, of the Sum demanded, as they had proposed.

The Managers for the Commons made Answer, That the Letter from the Governor General to the Court of Directors, dated 14th January 1780, admitted the Payment of the Five Lacks, and of the additional Sum of 20,000 Rupees, charged upon the Rajah for the Expence incurred by the March of the Military Force against him.

To prove, that the Demand of Five Lacks of Rupees was again repeated in the Year 1780, the Witnesses produced Book 26, intituled, "Bengal Secret Council from 29th February to 24th July 1780."

Read, the following Extract from Bengal Secret Consultation of the 22d June 1780, beginning Page 503, of the said Book.

Then the Witnesses produced Book 27, intituled, "Bengal Secret Consultations from 13th July to 7th September 1780."

And the Managers for the Commons informed the House, That the Paper they were now about to produce was to prove two Things: The one, an Acknowledgement of the Receipt of One Lack of Rupees, remitted to the Council at Calcutta by Mr. Fowke the Resident at Benares; the other, an Order of the Board, directing the Resident, when he received the Remainder, to send it to Colonel Camac, who, the Managers for the Commons stated, in Answer to a Question put to them by the House, was at that Time either in the Province of Malwa, or going to it.

" I have been honoured by your Orders directing me to pay Five Lacks of Sicca Mahydar Rupees to Mr. Fowke for the War, which still continues. And although my distressed Situation must be known to you from other Quarters, notwithstanding I have been afraid to represent it to you myself, that I have sold my House, and borrowed Sums of Money, from which I am not yet released, yet in obedience to your Orders, I have paid One Lack of Rupees out of the Five Lacks, to Mr. Fowke, and shall pay the other Four in Three Months. " We desire therefore that on Receipt of the Remittances made you by the Resident at Benares, you will appropriate them to their Service for which they are intended.

The Managers for the Commons requested the House to observe, that the Order to remit the Money to Major Camac was on the 7th of September 1780; and stated, in answer to a Question from the House, that the Notice to Major Camac was on the same day.

Then the Witness was directed to produce Book 28, intituled " Bengal Council from 11th September to 13th November 1780."

Read, the following Extracts from Bengal Secret Consultation of the 9th October 1780.

This Conduct of the Rajah seems to us without Excuse. We direct therefore, that you demand instant Payment of the Balance due of his Subsidy; and if he shall not have discharged it at the Time of your Receipt of this Letter, that you exact from him, in the Name of the Board, the further Sum of One Lack of Rupees, as a Fine for his past Disobedience. The Managers for the Commons observed they had already shewn, by Mr. Fowke's Letter, dated 10th August 1780, recorded in the Consultation of 7th of September 1780, (supra P. 93.) that One Lack of the Subsidy was actually remitted to Calcutta; and, by his Letter dated 27th September 1780, in the Consultation of the 9th October 1780, (supra P. 94.) that the Balance was at that Time reduced to 2,53,000 Rupees, Remainder

Remainder of the 5,00,000 Rupees originally demanded; from whence it was apparent that 1,37,000 Rupees must have been paid to the Resident in the Interim, which it also appeared, by the last mentioned Letter,* Mr. Fowke proposed remitting to Major Camac; but the Managers informed the House, they should immediately proceed to prove by another Letter from Mr. Fowke, dated October 18, 1780, that not One Farthing of this 1,37,000 Rupees had been actually remitted.

For this Purpose the following Extract from Bengal Secret Consultation of the 2d November 1780, was read from the same Book.

The Managers for the Commons stated, That the Demand of the Five Lacks of Rupees in 1780, was described in the Article to be made under particular Circumstances, namely, that Mr. Hastings had just before received the Sum of Two Lacks from Sutanund, the Treasurer of the Rajah *. They should next proceed therefore to prove the Receipt of those Two Lacks by the Defendant, without stating whether it was criminal or not; for which Purpose they desired, that Part of the Paper delivered in at the Table on Tuesday, called “ Mr. Hastings' Defence at the Bar of the House of Commons,” might be read.

Read, Extract of Answer to the 8th Charge, beginning at Page 357 of the said Paper.

“ I beg it may be observed, that the First of these Presents was received in the Year 1780. at a Time when, as I have truly said to the Directors, “ the Exigencies of the Government were my own, and every Pressure upon it rested with its full Weight upon my Mind: Wherever I could find allowable Means of relieving them, I eagerly seized them.” It was in this Year, and at one of these distressful Periods I allude to, that I formed the Plan for drawing Mhadajee Scindia from Guzerat to the Defence of his own Dominions, in Hopes of laying the Foundation of that Peace with the Marattas, to which this Measure did afterwards so greatly contribute. This Plan was opposed by Mr. Francis, then a Member of the Council, on the Plea, amongst others of little Importance, of the additional Expence we should incur by its Adoption. About this Time Buxey Sadanund, the confidential Servant of Cheyt Sing, had been deputed to me in Calcutta by his Master, to acknowledge his former Ill Conduct, and to assure me of his implicit Obedience and Submission in future: He was also entrusted by his Master, to endeavour to procure a Remission of the Payment of the Annual Sum of Five Lacks of Rupees, which the Board had fixed as his Proportion of the Expences of the War.—I peremptorily refused his Request, but assured him, that on the Restoration of Peace, this additional Subsidy should cease; and that this was all he must expect.—Sadanund wrote to his Master, and received a Commission from him, to give me the strongest Assurances of his future Obedience, and Submission to the Orders of Government; and he was further directed to request my Acceptance of Two Lacks of Rupees as a Present to myself. My Reply was, that I cordially received his Submission and Assurances of Obedience, but that I must absolutely refuse his Present, which I did.

Having been disappointed in the Execution of my Plan for attacking Scindia's Dominions, which I deemed, and which proved to be of the most material Consequence, and being thwarted in it by my Colleagues on the Plea of Expence, which was the only material Objection made to it, I determined to accept of the Offer which I before refused; and on my Return from the Council the Day, I believe, that my Plan was rejected, I sent to Sadanund, and told him I had re-considered his Master's Offer, and would accept the Two Lacks of Rupees, which I desired him to pay to the Sub-treasurer, Mr. Croftes, meaning to apply this Money to defray the Expence of the Expedition against Scindia, and thereby hoping to obviate the only Objection which had been made to this important Undertaking. Unfortunately I did not succeed in obtaining the Consent of Mr. Francis and Mr. Wheler, and was therefore concerned at having accepted this Sum from Sadanund, since the only Use to which I meant to appropriate it was frustrated; and I expressed my Vexation to Mr. Markham, my Secretary, as he (who fortunately for me is now in England) can attest. Upon mature Reflection, I determined neither to inform the Council of the Transaction, nor to return the Money to Sadanund, having once consented to accept it; I therefore suffered it to remain in the Company's Cash, as a Deposit for their Use, and by the next Dispatch to Europe I informed the Court of Directors of the Transaction, though I did not state to them from whom I received the Money—a Neglect which I should have studiously avoided, could I have foreseen the Consequences of it. I thought at the Time that I did all that was necessary, by declaring that it was not my own, and that I neither could nor would have received it, but for their Use.

The Managers for the Commons stated, that they should next proceed to shew that Mr. Hastings did, contrary to the Engagement subsisting with the Rajah Cheyt Sing, make a Demand upon him of a Number of Cavalry in the Year 1780.

The Witness produced Book 30, intituled, "Bengal Secret Consultations, from 10th August to 23d November 1780."

Read, Extracts of a Consultation held on the 2d November 1780, beginning at Page 641 of the said Book.

"Deeming it just and proper that the Rajah should be desired to afford every Assistance in his Power to this Government, to whose Protection and Support he owes all that he possesses, the Governor General has been requested to write to him to furnish such Part of the Cavalry entertained in his Employ as he can spare for the Service of the Company. But as some Jealousy and Apprehension may arise in the Rajah's Mind, that his * Aid may be converted to a permanent Imposition on him, we think it necessary that such Fears should be obviated, and direct you therefore to assure him, that we shall require the Services of this Force no longer than during the Continuance of the present War, after which it will certainly be returned.

The Managers for the Commons being asked, Whether any Deliberation was had upon the Subject, or any Objection made to the proposed Demand of Cavalry, answered, they did not believe there was any Dispute, or that any Minutes passed upon the Subject. And being also asked, Whether this Resolution turned in any Manner upon the Letter of General Stibbert referred to at the Beginning of the Consultation from whence the Extract had been read; they replied, that they did not know it did.

The Witness produced Book 29, intituled, "Bengal Letters, received from 13th May 1780 to 8th April 1782."

Read, the 36th Paragraph of a General Letter to the Court of Directors from the Secret Department of the Board, dated Fort William, 29th November 1780, beginning at Page 158 of the said Book.

“ Fort William, 29 November 1780.

“ We have thought it necessary to require from the Rajah of Benares the same Subsidy for the ensuing Year that he paid in the last, as his Proportion in the Expence of the War. He for some Time hesitated to comply with the Demand, and we were obliged to resolve on Measures of Compulsion; but he has since paid the Amount, and we have stopped the Execution of those Measures. The Support which he receives from this Government, to whom he owes all that he possesses, the known Affluence of his Circumstances, notwithstanding his Pretext to the contrary, and the Interest which he possesses in Chief over all other Persons subject to us in the Company's Prosperity and Success, have induced us to require of him the Assistance of such a Body of Cavalry as he can spare for the Company's Employ, under a Promise made to him that their Services will not be required beyond the Continuance of the War. We have also strongly recommended to the Nabob Vizier to require from Fyzoola Cawn, the Quota of Troops, consisting of 5000 Horse, stipulated by Treaty to be furnished by the latter, and we do not doubt of his ready Obedience to the Requisition.

“ Fort William, the 29th November 1780.

Signed, Warren Hastings,
Edward Wheler.”

Then the Managers for the Commons stated, That having now proved all the Transactions respecting the Three Demands of Subsidies in 1778, 1779, and 1780, and the Demand of Cavalry also in the Year 1780, they ought next, in the Order of the Charge, to proceed to the Statement of some Transactions between Mr. Hastings and the Nabob of Oude, relative to the Rajah of Benares, contained in a very long Paper; but as it would be necessary to read the Whole of that Paper afterwards, they proposed passing over this Paragraph of the Charge at present, and referring to it, when they came to the Paper at Length. They further stated, that for the same Reason, they should now break off their Evidence respecting the Cavalry at the Period of the Demand being made; as on this Subject they should likewise have Occasion to call the Attention of the House to the Paper alluded to, and they wished to avoid reading by Piecemeal what would be more intelligible when taken all together. On these Accounts they should next proceed to state, that Mr. Hastings did write a Letter to the Rajah of Benares, charging him with Irregularity in the Payment of his Annual Stipend; this, they informed the House, they should have proved, but the Defendant had rendered it unnecessary, by setting it forth verbatim in his Answer, already before the House: It only remained therefore for them to prove, that these Payments were, in Fact, made with Regularity; for which Purpose they called,

MR. WRIGHT, who being sworn, was examined as follows.

Q. Are you in the Office of Accountant to the East India Company?

A. I am Auditor of the Indian Accounts to the East India Company.

Then the Managers for the Commons desired the Witness might be directed to produce from the Benares Journal for the Year 1780, the Account and Dates of the several Payments of the Rajah Cheyt Sing's Tribute.

The Witness accordingly produced a Book, intituled, “ Bengal Journal 1780-1.”

Q. What is that Book?

A. This Book is the Journal containing the Account and State of Affairs of the Honourable United Company of Merchants of England trading to the East Indies, their General Joint Stock in Bengal, under the Management and Direction of their Governor General and Council of Fort William, commencing the 1st Day of May 1780, and ending the 30th of April 1781.”

Q. (from a Lord.) Is that the Account from Bengal?

A. From Bengal. The Journal is signed by the Council, viz. Warren Hastings, Edward Wheler, John Macpherson, Esquires. In Page 734 is the Entry of the Resident of Benares, in the Accounts of the Year.

The Book was delivered in at the Table, and the following Extract was read by the Clerk, beginning at Page 734 of the said Book:

The Managers for the Commons stated, that they should next proceed to prove the Payments on Account of the Stipend of Mirza Sawdit Ally Khân; it being a Part of Mr. Hastings's Defence, that the Rajah Cheit Sing's Delay was the Cause of the Nonpayment of that Stipend: The same was accordingly read from P. 735 of the same Journal.

Then the Managers for the Commons, stated, they conceived it would tend to elucidate the Matter, if they informed the House that Mirza Sawdit Ally Khân was the Brother of the Nabob of Oude, who resided at or near Benares, and was paid a Stipend by the East India Company, which Stipend was afterwards repaid by the Nabob of Oude: But for the Purpose of first paying it, there was an Order from the East India Company to the Resident at Benares, that it should be provided for out of the Sum of Money payable from the Rajah of Benares, and that it should be allowed him in the Account.

Then they stated, that they should next produce Two Letters, the one written in December 1780, the other in January 1781, from the Resident at Benares, informing the Board of the Payment of the Monthly Gifts, in order to shew that it was impossible Mr. Hastings could have merely been under a Mistake when he wrote the Letter to Rajah Cheit Sing.

The Counsel for the Defendant desired that the Witness might be asked, Whether he knew by whom the Accounts produced, and signed by the Governor General and Council at the End of the Book, and which appear to be examined, &c. and closed by William Larkins, are made up.

The Witness was asked,

Q. What is the Office of Mr. Larkins?

A. Accountant General to Bengal.

Q. Are those Accounts prepared in his Office?

A. Those Accounts are prepared in his Office. This Book is one general Account and Compilation of the various Accounts of the Presidency of Fort William.

Q. Those various Accounts are transmitted in the Course of the Business to the Accountant General's Office, whose Business it is to make up the General Accounts of all the various Branches of the Accounts that come to his Office?

A. It is so.

Q. And it is sent over here by whose Authority?

A. By the Governor General and Council, and signed by them.

Q. Signed by whom?

A. Signed by the Governor General and Council.

Q. Do you happen to know whether the Course of the Business in Bengal is not only to send over the Accounts made up by their Officers from the Accountant General, but also to send over the Original Documents, and how they are made up?

A. From some of the Departments.—For Instance, the Paymaster General of the Forces sends home his.

Q. Are the Originals, or only Copies sent Home?

A. Only Copies.

Q. From the Paymasters?

A. From the Paymasters.

Q. I understand you to say then, that they keep the Originals there in the Course of their Proceedings?

A. So I understand.

Q. But they send over Copies of particular Branches, when those are wanted for the Information of the Company?

A. Yes.

Q. Are those from Benares One?

A. I believe not: The Account of this Year from Benares is not received.

Q. According to the usual Custom, do they send over the Account of the Benares Revenue, in the same Manner as they do the Army Accounts?

A. Not for this particular Year.

Q. Do they generally?

A. No, not from Benares, otherwise than with this general View.

Q. From your Observations on these Accounts, do the Payments always appear to be ascribed to the Day upon which the same become due, or to the Days upon which the Payments are actually made?

A. To the Days on which the Payments were actually made.

Q. That is as far as you know?

A. As far as I understand.

Q. With regard to the Payments made, what is the Language of the Entry?

A. The Entry begins "Received."—

Q. Is there any Date of the Day of the Payments; as yet we have only heard of Months?

A. There are no Dates of the Days of Payment, only of the Months.

Q. Do you know where the Kistbundy, to which those Payments relate, is lodged; is there any Copy of it transmitted Home?

A. I don't recollect that there is; but I think there is; I am not certain.

Q. Does it fall under your Observation that the Kistbundy, for the Payment of the Stipend to Mirza Sawdit Ali Cawn, is or is not in the East India Company's Books?

A. I don't recollect.

Then the Witness was directed to withdraw.

Then the Managers for the Commons observed, that perhaps they might have thought it sufficient to have produced the Accounts sent over by Mr. Hastings, as against Mr. Hastings, but that they would go One Step further, and produce his Letter accusing the Rajah of the Nonpayment of his Tribute; for which Purpose they desired Mr. Hudson might be again called; who, appearing, produced Book 32, intituled, "Persian Correspondence, Letters written in the Public Department from the 1st of January to the 31st December 1781."

Read, a Letter from the Governor General to Rajah Chite Sing, dated 17th January 1781, beginning at Page 1, in the said Book.

" To Rajah Chite Sing.

" Written 17th January 1781.

" Frequent Representations having been made to me of the Want of Punctuality in the Payment of your Malguzary, that Part more particularly which is assigned for the Disbursement of Seidnt Ally Khan's Salary; and it having, at this Time, more than any other, a bad and suspicious Appearance; I do peremptorily order, that all Arrears, of whatsoever Kind, be paid up within 24 Hours after the Receipt of this Perwanna, or you must expect that bad Consequences will follow.

" (Authenticated at the End of the Book, as follows):

" D. P. Tr.

It appearing that there was no Signature to the Letter, the Managers for the Commons were asked, What Account they gave of the Letter?—They made answer, That the Persian Correspondence is kept in a Book by itself; that it does not appear in the Book at what Consultation this particular Letter was sent, otherwise than by the Date put by the Governor; or that it was signed: That the Address is put; that the Persian Correspondence can only be carried on by the Governor General alone, and that the Book, containing the Letter in question, was authenticated by Mr. Colebrook, the Persian Translator.

Then the Managers for the Commons said, they should next proceed to prove the Payments in December 1780, and in January 1781, of what became due in November and December 1780, by producing the Letters from the Resident above alluded to; and therefore desired the Witness might be directed to deliver in Book 33, and Book 34.

Accordingly Book 33, intituled, "Bengal Public Consultations from 23d November to the 28th December 1780," was first delivered in.

" At a Council; Present,

The Honourable Warren Hastings, Governor General, President;
and

Lieutenant General Sir Eyre Coote absent on Command at the Presidency of Fort St. George.

Extract of a Letter, signed " F. Fowke, Resident at Benares," to the Governor and Council; dated Benares, 13th January 1781.

Par. 2. " In obedience to your Orders of the 19th ultimo, I have this Day remitted to Major Camac the Balance of the Kist due the 4th ultimo, after Deduction of the Allowance to the Nabob Saadut Ally Khan; and shall continue the same Remittance monthly."

The Managers for the Commons requested the House to observe, that the Kist said to be due upon the 4th of November 1780, was paid to the Resident by the 7th of December 1780; and that the Instalment due upon the 4th of December 1780 was paid by the 13th of January following; and that they made the Observation in this Place, because they intended afterwards to prove, by oral Testimony, that the Course of Payment in that Country is to pay one Month under another.

The Managers for the Commons then informed the House, that the next Point to which they wished to direct the Attention of the House, was the Delegation of certain Powers with which Mr. Hastings invested himself prior to his going to Benares, in the Year 1781; for which Purpose they would produce Mr. Hastings's own Reasons why he thought such a Delegation was necessary; the Object of it as stated by himself; and the Delegation which he accepted, and took upon himself: Introductory to which it would be proper to state, that at that Period the Council consisted, of the Defendant himself and Mr. Wheler only. But before they proceeded to that Point, it might be as well, once for all, to state the Variations that happened in that Council; viz.

That, In September 1776, Colonel Monson, died.

In August 1777, General Clavering, died.

In November 1780, Mr. Francis, left Calcutta.

The Managers for the Commons being asked, Whether it did not appear that Sir Eyre Coote was of the Council antecedent to the last mentioned Period, made Answer, That in the Years 1780 and 1781, Sir Eyre Coote was upon the Coast of Coromandel with the Army, but though absent, was a Member of the Council during the Whole of the Time he was so absent.

That, on the 11th of December 1777,

— on the 24th of February 1779,

— From the 16th of September 1779,
to the 28th of August 1780,

— Upon the 29th of February 1780,

— From the 13th of October 1780,
to the 3d of November 1782,

— In July 1781,

— on the 5th February 1782,

— About 13th or 14th September 1781,

Mr. Wheler, took his Seat at the Board.

Sir Eyre Coote, took his Seat at the Board.

Sir Eyre Coote, was absent on Service.

Mr. Barwell, resigned his Seat at the Board.

Sir Eyre Coote, was absent at Madras.

Mr. Hastings, went to Benares, and returned and took his Seat.

About 13th or 14th September 1781, Sir John (then Mr.) M'Pherson, arrived at Calcutta.

That

That from these Dates it was apparent, that from the Time Mr. Francis left the Board to the Arrival of Mr. M'Pherson, the Board consisted of Mr. Hastings and Mr. Wheeler only.

That, on the 11th of November 1782, Mr. Stables, arrived at Calcutta.

— on the 3d of October 1782, Sir Eyre Coote, came back to Calcutta; and remained there; to the 20th of March 1783;

on the 27th of April 1783,

when he returned to Madras, where, he died.

Then, to shew the Defendant's own Account of his Reasons for wishing the Delegation of Authority before stated to be made to himself, the Witness produced Book 35, intituled, "Bengal Secret Council, 2d April to 14th June, 1781."

Read, the following Extract of a Secret Consultation of the 21st May 1781; beginning at Page 1298 of the said Book.

Secret Dep.
Monday.

Lieutenant General Sir Eyre Coote, K. B. absent on Command at the Presidency of Fort St. George.

" The Governor General delivers in the following Minute.

" Governor General.—The Province of Oud having fallen into a State of great Disorder and Confusion, its Resources being in an extraordinary Degree diminished, and the Nabob Asop ul Dowlah having earnestly intreated the Presence of the Governor General, and declared, that unless some effectual Measures are taken for his Relief, he must be under the Necessity of leaving his Country and coming down to Calcutta to represent his Situation to this Government, the Governor General therefore proposes, with the Concurrence of Mr Wheeler, to visit the Province of Owde as speedily as the Affairs of the Presidency will admit, in Hopes that from a minute and personal Observation of the Circumstances of that Country, the System of Management which has been adopted, and the Characters and Conduct of the Persons employed, he may possibly be able to concert and establish some Plan by which the Province of Owde may in Time be restored to its former State of Affluence, good Order, and Propriety. Governor General.

" In remedying Evils which have grown to so great a Height, Exertions will be required more powerful and immediate in their Application than can be made through the delegated Authority of the Servants of the Company now in that Province. The Undertaking is arduous and difficult, and the Governor General is far from being sanguine in his Expectations that even his Endeavours will be attended with much Success, as the Time which he can spare will, he fears, be too short for accomplishing the Ends proposed. The Object, however, is of Importance, and the Attempt at least deserves to be made.

" The present Time affords the most favourable Opportunity for the Governor General's Visit. The Ships of the Season for Europe are all dispatched; the Business of the Revenues is put into an easy Channel, and will not require much of the Board's Attention; and nothing of any Consequence can happen, after the setting in of the Rains, that can materially affect the Tranquillity of the Country, or the general System of Politicks. But what chiefly renders the present Opportunity favourable is, the mutual Confidence which, after a Period of so many Years, is at length happily restored between the Members of this Administration, which enables the Governor General to leave Calcutta with the fullest Reliance that the Affairs of the Presidency, under the Charge of Mr. Wheeler, will suffer no Detriment from his Absence; and he is thoroughly convinced that such a confidential Communication will subsist between them, that the Business in which he and Mr. Wheeler may be respectively engaged, will meet with the Concurrence and Approbation of both.

" It is hoped that the Governor General's Visit to Owde will also afford him an Opportunity of negotiating effectually with the Berar Government, and fixing Modagee Bhoselah to act decidedly and openly in our Favour. Dewagur Pundit, his Minister, who has long dictated the Politicks of the Court of Nagpore, has often professed an Intention of meeting the Governor General, to concert Measures with him for the mutual Benefit and Safety of the Governments of Bengal and Berar; but whilst nothing is done to fix his Intentions to a particular Period and Peace*, they might be postponed from Time to Time, and never carried into Execution. When he is informed of the Governor General's Design of proceeding to Owde, and that One of the Objects of this Journey { Hurry † is to give him a Meeting at Benares, it is probable that he will surmount those Obstacles and Difficulties which have hitherto retarded, and might otherwise still continue to retard him from carrying his Intentions into Execution. † sic in Orig.

" The Governor General thinks that about the 15th of July he will be ready to leave the Presidency.

" Mr.

Mr. Wheler.

" Mr. Wheler.—The Governor General's Representation of the present State of the Province of Owde I believe to be but too well founded, and am convinced that it will require his utmost Abilities and Powers, applied and exercised on the Spot, to restore it to its former good Order and Affluence.

" I admit the Force of the Governor General's Arguments, proving the present Season to be the most favourable for his leaving the Presidency, and the more readily agree to them, from the Opportunity it will afford of negotiating effectually with the Berar Government; but notwithstanding the Greatness of the Objects, which may, and I trust will be attained by the proposed Expedition, I am persuaded that nothing but the Harmony and good Understanding which at this Time prevails in the Council could induce the Governor General to withdraw his Attention from the Affairs of the Presidency at a Crisis like the present; and unless convinced that I was so fortunate as to possess his entire Confidence, and that I might rely upon receiving his Support and Sanction to the Measures I might deem proper to pursue in his Absence, I should at this Time accept with Reluctance so weighty a Charge; for although it may not be difficult to provide for the usual Occurrences of this Government, yet such others may, during his Absence, intervene, and demand immediate Decision, as are not within the Reach of human Foresight, and in such Instances I should not be able to exert myself, under the Influence of Distrust or Restraint."

Then the Managers for the Commons requested the House to take notice, that the first Proposal of the Journey to Oude was made by the Defendant on the 21st May; and observed, that in the Minute of the 3d July 1781, which they should next produce, the Defendant states himself ready to set out.

The Witness produced Book 36, intituled, " Bengal Secret Consultations, from 2d July to 10th December 1781."

Read, the following Extract, from a Secret Consultation of the 3d July 1781, beginning at Page 43 of the said Book.

" At a Council; Present,

The Honourable Warren Hastings Esquire, Governor General, President;
and

Edward Wheler Esquire,

Lieutenant General Sir Eyre Coote absent on Service at Fort St. George.

" The Governor General delivers in the following Minute :

" In my Minute, which I laid before the Board on 21st May, I expressed the Satisfaction with which I could at this Juncture leave the Presidency, from the mutual Confidence which was happily established between Mr. Wheler and me. I now readily repeat that Sentiment, and observe with Pleasure, that Mr. Wheler confirms it. Before my Departure, it is probable that we shall in Concert have provided at the Board for almost every important Circumstance that can eventually happen during my Absence. But if any should occur, for which no previous Provision shall have been made in the Resolution of the Board, Mr. Wheler may act with immediate Decision, and with the fullest Confidence of my Support, in all such Emergencies, as well as in conducting the ordinary Business of the Presidency, and in general, in all Matters of this Government, excepting those which may specially or generally be entrusted to me : Mr. Wheler during my Absence may consider himself as possessed of the full Powers of the Governor General and Council of this Government, as in Effect he is by the Constitution; and he may be assured, that so far as my Sanction and Concurrence shall be, or be deemed necessary to the Confirmation of his Measures, he shall receive them.

(Signed) W. H.

" Resolved, That the following Credentials be given to the Governor General.

" Whereas it has been resolved, That the Governor General shall proceed to Benares and Lucknow, for the Purpose of obtaining an Interview with the Nabob Vizier and Duwager Pundit, the Duwan of the Rajah of Berar, and for the other consequent Purposes, which are expressed in the Minute of the Board passed to this Effect on 21st May last * : And whereas, besides the said Purposes, others may occur which may require the immediate Presence of the Governor General, with an effective and complete Authority for their Execution; it is hereby resolved, That the Governor General shall be, and is invested with full Powers and Authority to form such Arrangements with the Rajah of Benares, for the better Government and Management of his Zemindarry, and to perform such Acts for the Improvement of the Interest which the Honourable Company possesses in it, as he shall think fit and consonant to the mutual and actual Engagements subsisting between the Company and the Rajah; to assist the Nabob Vizier in forming such Regulations as may be necessary for the Peace and Order of his Government, the Improvement of his Revenue, and the Adjustment of the mutual Concerns subsisting between him and the Company, with such Authority to enforce the same, as the Governor General and Council might or could exercise in Occasions in which they would be warranted to exercise the same, by the Claims which the Honourable Company hold or may have on the Revenues of the Dominions of the said Nabob, and to form and conclude such several Engagements or Treaties with the Nabob Vizier, the Government of Berar, and with any other of the Chiefs or Powers of Hindostan, as he shall judge expedient and necessary, whether for the Termination or more effectual Prosecution of the War with the Marratta State, or for the Advancement of the Interests of the Honourable Company, or for the strict and permanent Establishment and Confirmation of the Alliances which do at present subsist, or which he shall judge it necessary to form with the said Chiefs and Powers respectively; and it is hereby declared, that all such Acts, and all such Engagements or Treaties, made as aforesaid, shall be binding on the Governor General and Council, in the same Manner, and as effectually, as if they had been passed and done by the special and immediate Concurrence and actual Sanction of the Governor General and Council, in Council assembled.

" Given in Fort William under the Seal of the Honourable Company, and under the Hands of the Governor General and Council, this 3d Day of July, in the Year of our Lord 1781.

" The Time approaching for the Governor General's Departure, the Board think it necessary to communicate the following Resolutions to the Commander in Chief, to be published in general Orders.

The Governor General intending to visit the Dominions of the Nabob Vizier, it is therefore ordered, That all such Orders as he shall, from this Time, think it proper to issue to the Troops stationed beyond the Provinces, as well in the Dominions of the Nabob Vizier as those which are situated beyond them, shall be obeyed, and that his single Authority shall be considered and received as of the same Force as that of the Governor General and Council collectively, until this Order shall be revoked.

" Agreed and ordered, That the Military Power vested in the Honourable Warren Hastings, as Governor and Commander in Chief of the Garrison and Forts of Fort William, and Town of Calcutta, be exercised by Edward Wheeler Esquire, during the Absence of the Honourable the Governor General.

Circular Letter to Col. James Morgan.

" Resolved, That the following circular Letter be written to Colonel James Morgan, &c.

" Sir,

" The Governor General intending to visit the Dominions of the Nabob Vizier, we therefore direct you to obey all such Orders and Instructions as he may from this Time think proper to issue to you, and to the Troops under your Command, in his own Name, and in all Respects to consider his single Authority as of the same Force, until this Order shall be revoked, as that of the Governor General and Council collectively.

We are, &c.

" Ordered, That the Secretary do immediately prepare the above Papers; but that they be not issued, until the Governor General shall have taken Leave of the Board.

" The Governor General reports to the Board, That he has made every Preparation for his Departure, and has no Impediment to his setting off immediately but the Necessity of waiting for the Swallow's Dispatches."

Then the Managers for the Commons stated, that having shewn the Delegation of the Authority taken and accepted by Mr. Hastings, and having laid before the House the Reasons which he gave to the Board for accepting that Delegation, they should proceed to put in the Orders of the Court of Directors respecting the Mode and Manner in which they enjoined the Proceedings of their Government to be conducted. For this Purpose the Witness was directed to produce the Standing Orders of the Court of Directors, dated the 26th of February, in the Year 1702. Accordingly the Witness produced a Paper, indorsed, " The Bay Letter, per the Dutchees, 26th February, entered and examined," dated (at the End) London, 26 February 1702.

Read, the following Extracts, beginning at Page 1 of the said Paper.

" Commission and Instructions given by the Court of Managers for the United Trade to the East Indies, to Mr. Nathaniel Halley, Mr. Robert Hedges, Mr. Jonathan White, Mr. Jonathan Winder, Mr. Ralph Sheldon, Mr. Robert Nightingale, Mr. John Russell, and Mr. Benjamin Bowcher.

Par. 4. " Having heard Complaints of some Irregularities in some of the Factoreries of either Comp<sup>y</sup>. we do strictly enjoin, that all our Affairs be transacted in Council, and ordered and managed as the Majority in Council shall determine, and not otherwise, upon any Pretence whatsoever; and to that End, that all of the Council do reside upon the Place: And though we hope you will all be unanimous in the Pursuit of our common Interest, yet if on any Occasion it happens that your Votes are equally divided, the same must be determined by Lot; as we, by our new Charter, are directed in such Case to do."

The Counsel for the Defendant objected, that the House was hitherto unapprised who the Court of Managers were; that the Paper had been put in without Proof of the Custody in which it had been kept, or of the Authority by which it was originally made.

The Managers for the Commons being heard in Answer to the said Objection, the Witness was asked,

Q. Where does that Paper come from? Was it amongst the other Dispatches?

A. Yes; it was taken out of the Dispatches.

Then the Witness produced another Paper, indorsed as follows: " 9th February 1736. Draught, Company's General Letter to Bengal, sent per Devonshire and Nottingham 58. Entered," addressed to the President and Council at Fort William in Bengal, dated (at the End) " London, the 9th February 1736."

Read, the following Extract, Part of Paragraph 67 of the said Draught.

" Our Orders are, that all our Affairs should be regularly transacted in Council, and every Member duly summoned to attend."

The Counsel for the Defendant objected, that it did not appear that the Orders already put in, as Standing Orders, were Orders of which the President and Council had any Notice at Calcutta, nor that they were ever transmitted to Calcutta so as to be any Rule of Conduct to the Defendant, or so as to be considered as a Commission to the then subsisting Governor. They said, it appeared to be an Order from Persons who went under the Name of Managers; that the Title was only a Commission and Instructions given by the Court of Managers to Nathaniel Halsey, Robert Hedges, and others by Name; that the Style run, " We the Managers, &c.;" and that therefore it did not at all import to be the Standing Orders of the Company.

Then the Witness was asked,

Q. Whether he had taken the Papers produced from the Records of the East India Company?

A. From a Bundle of Dispatches of the Year 1702; it is common to tie up the original Dispatches and Letters from Bengal.

Q. The Difficulty that has occurred is this; it is required to know, whether those which purport to be the Standing Orders for the Government of the Presidency and Council at Bengal, were in fact transmitted to that Presidency and Council at Calcutta as the Rule for their Direction. You have already explained that they were taken out of the Bundle that is docketed and called Dispatches in the Year 1702; now, at that Time, in 1702, were there no Books kept of the Transactions of the East India Company here?

A. Certainly.

Q. Are those Books preserved?

A. They are.

Q. Have you looked into them to see, whether there were any Orders in them approving the transmitting of those Standing Orders?

A. It is not usual to enter the Dispatches to Bengal on the Minutes of the Court's Proceedings.

Q. Have

Q. Have you consulted the Proceedings of that Date, to see whether there were any Resolutions for sending the Standing Orders to Bengal?

A. Of that Date I have not.

Q. Does not the Bundle of Dispatches you took this Paper from, contain other Dispatches of the same Period that were sent to Bengal at that Time?

A. There are many other Papers in the Bundle which may have been sent to Bengal.

Q. Do they purport to be Copies of Papers sent to Bengal?

A. These are original Drafts.

Q. How does it appear that they were preserved as original Drafts?

A. It was the Custom of the House.

Q. Is it still the Custom of the House, at this Time?

A. It is still.

Q. As it appears from what has hitherto been read to be the Custom of the Court of Directors now to preserve all the Orders they make and the Letters sent to Bengal, have you not a Book of the Correspondence?

A. No. There are Books of Court Minutes, in which they enter their Proceedings; but they do not enter any of their Dispatches there.

Q. Have you not all the Dispatches that came from Bengal at that Period?

A. Certainly.

Q. Are they all preserved?

A. They are all preserved.

Q. Have you looked into them to see whether they take Notice of the Standing Orders so directed to the President and Council at Bengal?

A. I have not, but I believe the Book of Standing Orders, which was sent from Bengal at the Requisition of the Court of Directors, contains this very Paragraph now read.

Q. The Book of the Standing Orders sent from Bengal is at the India House?

A. Yes.

It being suggested by the House, that a little further Enquiry would probably make it clear; the Managers for the Commons stated, that, if there was the least Hesitation about it, they would produce the Book To-morrow.

The Counsel for the Defendant declared they were not apprised of any such Standing Orders. If they had been so apprised, they would not have troubled the House with any Objection; and proposed, to save Time, that they should be considered as read now, the Managers for the Commons undertaking to produce the Book the next Day.

Whereupon it was ordered, that the Extract should be taken de bene esse; and if the Managers for the Commons should not give a satisfactory Account of it the next Day, it must not be considered as Evidence.

Then the Managers for the Commons stated, that the Part of the Proof they were then upon, was to trace the Orders before mentioned down to the present Period; but as the Book was to be produced To-morrow, they would defer that Head of Proof till then, and bring the Whole forward together, it being all within the Compass of a few Lines.

They then proceeded to state, that Mr. Hastings's Reasons for going to Oude, and the Credentials which he took with him for his Authority, having been read to the House, it appeared they had now traced the Matter down to the Eve of his Departure for Benares: They should next give in Evidence therefore, the Transactions which happened at Benares, contained in a Paper called "A Narrative of the Transactions of the Governor General at Benares;" introductory to which they desired the Witnesses to produce Book 29, intituled, "Bengal Letters received" from 13th March 1780, to 8th April 1782.

Read, the 1st, 2d, 3d, and 21st Paragraphs of a Letter from the Secret Committee at Bengal to the Court of Directors, dated Fort William, the 11th of February, 1782.

Then the Witness produced Book 31, intituled, " Governor General's Narrative at Benaris," received per Nancy 24th July 1782.

A NARRATIVE of the INSURRECTION which happened in the Zemedyary of BANARIS in the Month of August 1781; and of the Transactions of the Governor General in that District: With an Appendix of authentic Papers and Affidavits.

THE following Sheets were written to guard the Minds of my Superiors against the Suspicions to which all great political Movements are liable, especially such as pass at a Distance from Observation, and are attended with violent Convulsions, or Revolutions, in any of the great Dependencies or Relations of Government, and to which, from their Conformity to that Description, my late Transactions in Banaris were particularly exposed. On the same Grounds they are now made public, for the Purpose of effacing the like unfavourable Impressions from the Breasts of my Countrymen, if I, or my Actions, shall have been deemed of so much Consequence as to have drawn on me that Effect of their Attention. Had I been prompted by the vain Ambition of displaying my own Importance, a Levity of which I have never betrayed any Symptoms, I should certainly have selected other Passages of my publick Life, for the Gratification of such a Disposition. I claim no Merit in having surmounted, by the successful Zeal and Exertions of others, the Troubles, of which though long before conceived, my own Acts had accelerated the Birth; unless I may be allowed a small Portion of Applause, that I never suffered them to embarrass the Hands in which I had left the Care of the superior Government, nor myself to despair of the publick Safety.

WARREN HASTINGS.

“ Gentlemen,

“ I have now the Honour to send you the Narrative, which I promised in my Letter of the 18th October, of the Transactions and Events which passed during the Course of the late Insurrection of this Province. I had begun it at the Time of the Date which is prefixt to it; but the busy Scenes which followed, both while I was at Chunar, and after my Return to Banaris, hindered me from prosecuting it till a few Days before the Date which I have subjoined to it. I did not chuse to alter the Introduction, although written at such a Distance of Time from that in which the Body of the Work was executed, and even from the Existence of the Events which are recorded in the latter, because I found it not easy to give it a new Form, without a total Omission of what had been already produced, while my Mind was animated by the recent and actual Scenes in which it was engaged, to an anxious and most feeling Solicitude, not more for the Issue of the impending Contest, than for its Consequences on my own Reputation. In the Consciousness of the Rectitude of my Intentions, I had allowed myself to use an Appeal, the most solemn and most sacred that could bind my Relation to Truth, or impress the Conviction of it on the Hearts of others; nor could I, consistently with my own Sense of its Obligation, withdraw it, or coldly place it after the Narrative already written, and written under the Check which I had imposed upon it. I know not whether I shall be clearly understood: If I am not, yet let this Endeavour to explain a seeming Impropriety in the Construction of this Performance be accepted for its Apology.

“ I have only to add my Hope, that as I have received the most cordial Support in the past Events from you, my respectable and most respected Associates in the Administration, and as it has been my unvaried Study to prevent your suffering any Embarrassment from them, my Conduct in them may also receive its first Reward in the Testimony of your Approbation.

Banaris,

31st December 1781.

I have the Honour to be,

Gentlemen,

Your most obedient, and most faithful Servant,
WARREN HASTINGS.”

A Narrative, &c.

Chunar, 1st September 1781.

IN whatever Manner the Scene may close in which I am now engaged, the Calamities with which it opened will not fail, in their first Impression, to influence in some Degree the Minds of all Men in forming their Judgment of it. In the following Narrative, if I can trust to my own Sentiments, or if those who shall read it will credit this Declaration of them, I shall less study to efface that Impression, than seek to divest my Mind of all partial Bias, and to deliver all the past Transactions and Occurrences with the strictest and most faithful Regard to Truth; in which if I fail, I fail unknowingly: And may the God of Truth so judge me, as my own Conscience shall condemn or acquit me of intentional Deception.

The Motives and Objects of my Journey were various. With these the Design of my Transactions at Banaris had but a remote and secondary Connection. I left Calcutta on the 7th of July. At Buxar Rajah Cheit Sing paid me the customary Duty of Respect, by advancing to that Place, which lay the nearest to the Boundary Line of his Zemedyary. He brought with him a great Fleet of Boats, which, as I afterwards learned, were crowded with Two thousand armed and chosen Men. This Circumstance was noticed by many of the Gentlemen who accompanied me, and was certainly a Deviation from the established Rules of Decorum, not only such as are observed from Vassals to their Superiors, but even such as pass between Equals. An Instance of this will be remembered by many to have happened at Banaris in the Year 1773, in the Meeting which took place there between the late Vizeer Shujah ud Dowlah and myself. He had left his Capital with a large Retinue, but hearing that I came unattended, he dismissed his Followers, and met me with a State as humble as mine.

I received the Rajah with Civility, and without any Expression of Displeasure. I left Buxar the next Morning, and received a second Visit from the Rajah in my Boat. After a short Space he desired to speak to me in private. The Particulars of our Conversation I do not exactly remember: I can only relate the Substance of it. He professed much Concern to hear that I was displeased with him, and Contrition for having given Cause for it, assuring me that his Zemedyary, and all that he possessed, were at my Devotion; he expressed his Fears for Owfan Sing, who had been some Days in my Suite, and of the Intrigues of his Relations; and he accompanied his Words by an Action either strongly expressive of the Agitation of his Mind, or his Desire to impress on mine a Conviction of his Sincerity, by laying his Turban on my Lap. I replied, that I had not seen Owfan Sing, nor concerned myself about him, nor should I descend to be a Party in his Family Disagreements; that my Business was with him, and with him only; that what he had heard, or might have conjectured, of my Displeasure was true: And I entered into a full Discussion of the Causes of it; that I had been already once deceived by his Oaths and Protestations, and should not suffer my Purpose to be changed, or my Duty to be overruled, by any verbal Concessions or Declarations, which were made with little Cost, and for the Observance of which I had no Pledge nor Warrant to credit them. He pleaded his Inability to answer my Charges against him, admitted that he was in every respect faulty, but desired that I would forget the past, and form my Opinion of him on his future Behaviour. I declined any further Conversation upon the Subject, and he took his Leave.

As the preceding Conversation was accidental, and made no Part of the Plan which I had concerted in my own Mind for my Conduct with the Rajah, I kept no Minutes of it, nor should have thought it deserving of a Place in this Narrative, but for the Weight which he has since given to it, and that it might not be imputed to me as a designed Suppression, if I made no mention of it. I shall proceed to relate the Subjects to which it alluded, and add the Purposes which I had in Contemplation concerning them.

On the first Intelligence of the War with France in July 1778, it was resolved in Council, that Rajah Cheit Sing should be required to contribute an extraordinary Subsidy for the Expence which this new Exigency had imposed on our Government; and the Sum was limited to Five Lacks of Rupees for the current Year. After many Excuses and Protestations of Inability, he at length consented, with a very ill Grace, to the Payment, and with a much worse discharged it. The next Year the same Demand was repeated, and he attempted in like Manner to elude it, affecting to borrow Money in small Sums, and to sell his Plate and Jewels, to raise it; nor was it paid at last, till he had reduced the Board to the Extremity of ordering Two Battalions of Seepoys to the Neighbourhood of Ramnagur, and quartering them upon him, with their Pay charged to his Account, until the whole Payment was completed.

Early in the following Year, about the Month of May, he deputed Lalla Suddanund, who was his Buxey, and the confidential Manager of his Affairs, on a private Commission to me, to solicit my Forgiveness of his past Conduct, and to give me Assurances, confirmed by Oath, of his future Submission to the Orders of my Government, and Compliance with my Advice. I accepted his Excuses, and promised him an Oblivion of all that had passed of exceptionable in his Conduct, and my future Protection, and every good Office in my Power, so long as he adhered to his Professions; requiring only, as the Pledge of their Sincerity, that he would immediately notify his ready and unreluctant Consent to the Demand which would be made upon him, this being the Period for it, of the Subsidy for the current Year, and that he would use no Delay in discharging it. I at the same Time explained to Suddanund, the Nature of the Demand; its Conformity to the Customs of all States in Times of extraordinary Emergency; and assured him, that though he must expect a Repetition of it every Year so long as the War lasted, yet it could not be justly drawn into a Precedent for exacting an Increase on his regular and stipulated Rent; and, so far as it could depend upon me, I gave him the strongest Assurances, and I believe very solemn Assurances, that it should not. Suddanund vowed the fullest Obedience on the Part of his Master; the Demand was accordingly made; and the Rajah answered it with a liberal and unreluctant Declaration of his Acquiescence. I expected the immediate Payment of the whole Sum, according to his Promise, and I placed a Reliance upon it so far as to destine the Appropriation of it to the Support of the Detachment which was then acting in the Province of Malva, under the Command of Lieutenant Colonel Camac, not apprehending any Policy which could warp him from the strong Obligation of such an Engagement, and from the evident Interest which he had in fulfilling it. I was mistaken. The First Payment was made in different Periods in the Course of a Month, amounting to about a Lack of Rupees; and there, as I recollect, he stopped, and even descended to the Meanness of writing to solicit the Forbearance of the Remainder, that it might be included in the regular Payments of the ensuing Year which was then approaching. I am not possessed at this Time of the Materials for ascertaining the Dates of the Demand, and of his Letter written in Acquiescence of it, nor the Dates and correspondent Sums of the subsequent Payments; but I desire that these may be inserted by the Secretary, as a Note to this Page of the Narrative *. It is sufficient to say that the Demand was made, and the whole Payment consequently due, in July; that it was not until the Month of October, nor until the same Constraint was practised to compel his Obedience as had been used in the preceeding Year, by an Order for the Advance of Two Battalions of Sepoys for that Purpose, that the Balance of the Subsidy, which was Two Lacks and a Half of Rupees, was discharged. In the mean Time, the Resident received an Order from the Board to remit the Money as he received it, by Bills, to the Paymaster of Lieutenant Colonel Camac's Detachment; but these, from the Lateness of the Receipts, were not sent until the Detachment had suffered the Extremity of Distress from the Want of Money, and very great Dejections; all which Calamities I charge to Rajah Cheyt Sing's Account, as it is certain that my Reliance on his Faith, and his Breach of it, were the principal Causes that no other Provision had been made for the Detachment, and that it suffered such Want in Consequence.

It is with the greatest Tenderness that I recur to the past Dissentions in our Government; but I am compelled to it on this Occasion, for the Elucidation of the Conduct of this Man; which had the Appearance of being invariably guided by the Reports which were made to him of the State of my Influence. When he deputed his Buxey Suddanund to me, in the Manner which I have mentioned, an apparent Harmony had taken place in our Councils, with the general Expectation of its being permanent. The Powers of our Government whenever united, and, if I may use the Term, consolidated, by such an Event, will ever recover the Respect which is due to them, especially from those who have rendered themselves obnoxious to its Terrors. The Subject which produced the subsequent Contest between Mr. Francis and myself, originated a little before the Departure of Suddanund from the Presidency, but was not perhaps either generally known, or known to have grown into a decided Breach, till the latter End of July. A Reference to the Proceedings of that Period will prove the Grounds of this Supposition. It was the prescribed Duty of Cheyt Sing's Vackeels in Calcutta, to furnish him with every little Anecdote which bore any relation to the State of our Government. I believe, that the deliberate Manner in which he made the First Payment of the Subsidy of that Year, was dictated by the Doubts suggested of the Firmness of my Authority; and I am morally certain, that his subsequent Excuses and Delays in the Payment of the Residue of the Subsidy, were caused by the Belief that I was no longer able to enforce it; and possibly, for such was the Report, that a few Months would close the Period of my Administration altogether. That I had his solemn Promise, in the Manner which I have recited, to pay the Subsidy, I as solemnly affirm; and his Letter, assenting to the Payment, which is recorded on our Consultations, is a strong presumptive Evidence of it: And that he evaded the Performance of his Promise; that he attempted to the utmost of his Power, to elude it altogether, is also proved by the Record of the Dates of the different Payments; the Minutes of the Board relating to them; and the Order of the Board for the March of a Detachment for the Purpose of compelling him to perform it. That this Order had a principal Effect in bringing him to a Compliance, I believe; but I also attribute a Share of it to the approaching Departure of Mr. Francis, which was published and generally expected.

I owe it in Candor to the Gentleman whose Name I have reluctantly repeated in this Digression, to obviate an Interference which might otherwise be unwarily drawn from it, by declaring, that I mean not, by the most distant Hint, to impute any Part of this Policy to him, and in my Heart do totally and deliberately acquit him of any Concern in it, however, in the Resentment of instant Disappointment, I may have suffered my Mind to catch such a Suspicion; although I believe that, if I have, it has been sacredly confined to my own Breast.

This was the First direct Charge which I had to prefer against the Rajah. The Second was similar in its Quality and Principle. On the 2d of the Month of November 1780, a Resolution passed the Board, That a Letter should be written to the Nabob Vizeer, advising him to require from the Nabob Fyz-Oolla Khan, the Number of Troops stipulated by Treaty, expressed, as it was then understood to be, 5,000 Horse; and that the like Demand should be made on Rajah Cheit Sing, for all the Cavalry in his Pay which he could spare for our Service. At that Time we stood in need of every Aid that could be devised, to repel the multiplied Dangers which surrounded us. The Rajah was supposed to maintain a very large and expensive Standing Force, and the Strength of his Cavalry alone was estimated at Two thousand. I had formerly experienced their Utility in the War with the Senassees, in which they were successfully employed, and liberally rewarded. The Demand was formally made, both in a Letter from myself, and in Person by the Resident, Mr. Fowke, in the easy and indefinite Terms mentioned above. His Answers were evasive, pleading (as I recollect, for I am not in Possession of them) the Scantiness of the Establishment, its Employment in enforcing the Collections, and the Danger of these failing if the Detachment were withdrawn. At length a more peremptory Order was sent to him, and repeated by the present Resident Mr. Markham. The Number required was 2,000, and afterwards reduced to the Demand of 1,500, and lastly to 1,000, but with no more Success. He offered 250, but furnished none.

These Instances of Contumacy and Disobedience, criminal as they were in themselves, and aggravated by the extreme and known Distresses and Dangers of the superior State, to which he owed not only personal Fealty, but every voluntary Aid which all the Resources of his Zemeedary could contribute, appeared to me of less Consideration as such, than as they were Evidences of a deliberate and systematic Conduct, aiming at the total Subversion of the Authority of the Company, and the Erection of his own Independency on its Ruins. This had been long and generally imputed to him. It was reported that he had inherited a vast Mass of Wealth from his Father Bulwant Sing, which he had secured in the Two strong Fortresses of Bidjeygur and Lutteefpoor, and made yearly Additions to it; that he kept up a large Military Establishment both of Cavalry, of disciplined and irregular Infantry, and of Artillery; that he had the above and many other Fortresses, of strong Construction, and in good Repair, and constantly well stored and garrisoned; that his Aumils and Tenants were encouraged and habituated to treat English Passengers with Inhospitallity and with Enmity; that he maintained a Correspondence with the Marattahs, and other Powers who either were or might eventually become the Enemies of our State; and if the disaffected Zemeedars of Fyzabad and Behar were not included in the Report, which I do not recollect, we have had woeful Proof, that there was equal Room to have suspected the like Intercourse between them; and lastly, that he was collecting, or had prepared, every Provision for open Revolt, waiting only for a proper Season to declare it, which was supposed to depend either on the Arrival of a French Armament, or on a Marattah Invasion.

This Design had been greatly favoured by the unhappy Divisions of our Government, in which he presumed to take an open Part. It is a Fact, that when these had proceeded to an Extremity bordering on civil Violence, by the Attempt to wrest from me my Authority, in the Month of June 1777, he had deputed a Man named Sumboonaut, with an express Commission to my Opponent, and the Man had proceeded as far as Moorshedabad, when hearing of the Change of Affairs which had taken place at the Presidency, he stopped, and the Rajah recalled him.

It may perhaps be urged in favour of Rajah Cheit Sing, that he was justifiable by the Principle of good Policy, in seeking a State of Independency; that we had no natural Right to his Vassalage, having acquired it, with all our other Rights of Dominion, by no other Charter than the successful Spirit of Enterprize. Were this truly the Case, it would reduce the Relation between us to the primitive Law of Nature, and it would be equally incumbent on us, on that Ground alone, to use every Means to confirm and perpetuate his Subjection, as it would be allowable in him to emancipate himself from it. But something more, I apprehend, was due, both as a political and even moral Obligation, from him.—His Father, Bulwant Sing, derived the Degree of Independency, which he possessed during the latter Period of his Life, from the Protection and Intervention of our Government. His Son, Cheit Sing, obtained, from our Influence exerted by myself, the First legal Title that his Family ever possessed of Property in the Land of which he till then was only the Aumil, and of which he became the acknowledged Zemeedar by a Sunnud granted to him by the Nabob Shujah ud Dowlah, at my Instance, in the Month of September 1773. On the Succession of the Nabob Assof ud Dowlah, the Rights of Sovereignty which were held by him over the Zemeedary were transferred by Treaty to the Company. Those Rights were indisputably his, and became, by his Alienation of them, as indisputably the Company's; and every Obligation of Fidelity and Obedience which is due from a Zemeedar to the superior Magistrate, by the Constitution of Hindostan, became as much the Right of the Company from Cheit Sing, as it had been due to his former Sovereign, with the additional Ties of Gratitude for the superior Advantages which he was allowed to possess with his new Relation. The unexampled Lenity of our Government, in relinquishing to him the free and uncontrouled Rule of his Zemeedary, subject to a limited annual Fine, and the Royalties of the Mint, Administration of Justice, and Police, ought to have operated as an additional Claim on his Fidelity, but evidently served to stimulate his Ambition, and perhaps to excite in his Mind an Opinion that he possessed an inherent Right of Self-dependency.

I considered Cheit Sing as culpable in a very high Degree towards our State; and his Punishment, of which I had given him frequent Warnings, if he did not amend his Conduct, as an Example which Justice and Policy required, equally for the Reparation of the Wrongs which its Dignity had sustained, and for the future Preservation of its Authority. I was resolved to draw from his Guilt the Means of Relief to the Company's Distresses, and to exact a Penalty, which I was convinced he was able to bear, from a Fund which I was also convinced he had destined for Purposes of the most dangerous Tendency to the Company's Dominion. In a Word, I had determined to make him pay largely for his Pardon, or to exact a severe Vengeance for his past Delinquency.

Those who have been accustomed to regard Cheit Sing as a Vassal or tributary Prince, may revolt at the Idea of treating him with such Indignity, and call it an Oppression. They will suppose nothing due from him to the Company, but the Payment of his stipulated Tribute, and that the Pledge of his Exemption from every other Claim: I suspect too, that the Deeds which passed between him and the Board, on the Transfer of the Zemedyary to the Company in 1775, are by many understood to bear the Quality and Force of a Treaty of optional Conditions between equal States. To such I reply, That such an Opinion is itself criminal to the State of which he was a Subject, and that he was himself amenable to its Justice, if he gave Countenance to the Belief. He paid no Tribute to the Company, but a fixed annual Rent. The Deeds by which he held his Zemedyary, and the Company their Claim to their Portion of its Revenue, were a Sunnud or Grant, and a Potta or Lease, executed on the Part of the Company; and a Cobooleeat or Agreement, and Kistbundy or Account of Payments to be made by Instalments, on his Part. These, excepting the special Privileges allowed to the Rajah, of the Mint, the Cutwallies of Banaris and Jowanpoor, the Powlidary and Aumeeny; that is so far as they relate to the Zemedyary alone, are drawn precisely in the same Forms as Instruments of the same Denominations interchanged with the Zemedyars of Bengal. I refer to the Instruments themselves, which will make a Number in the Appendix to this Narrative; in which it will be seen on how different a Tenure, and how infinitely below Independency, he really held his Zemedyary. The Sunnud and Cobooleeat are Counterparts of each other; the former prescribes the Revenue which was to be paid, and the Duties which were to be performed, as the Conditions on which the Rajah was confirmed in the Possession of his Zemedyary; and of these Conditions the Cobooleeat is a Pledge or Engagement for the Performance. In the first, the Government and Sovereignty of the Zemedyary transferred by the Nabob Assof ud Dowlah to the Company, are stated as the Basis of it: The Zemedyary is confirmed to him: A strict Observation and Execution of the Duties incumbent on him; to behave with Moderation and Kindness to the Rayots and People: to promote the Cultivation and Encrease of the Inhabitants and Produce of the Lands; to preserve the Peace, and punish the Disturbers of it; and to pay a yearly Rent of Twenty-three Lacks, Forty thousand, Two hundred and Forty-nine Mahidar Rupees in monthly Payments, agreeable to the Kistbundy; are most strictly and positively commanded and enjoined; and the Officers of the Zemedyary are commanded to regard him as the Zemedyar, and to acknowledge his Authority in the several Acts appertaining thereunto. I must observe, that in the Translation of the Sunnud, the yearly Revenue is in one Place, through the Negligence of the Translator, expressed by the Word Tribute; but it is not on the Translation, nor on the Will of a Translator, that the Rights of the Company depend. I affirm the Word to be false, as it is inconsistent with the proper Term Revenue, immediately following in the same Translation, and with the same Term Revenue occurring in the Translation of the Cobooleeat or Agreement.

The Cobooleeat also sets off with stating the Company's Sovereignty as the Basis of the Agreement, and acknowledges the Grant made by the Company to Rajah Cheit Sing of the Zemedyary, and other Privileges recited in the Sunnud: And it proceeds to express, that it shall be his Duty to do every Thing that may be needful and usual for the Interest of the Country, to provide for the Welfare of the Inhabitants, to be attentive to the Encrease and Security of Cultivation and Improvement of the Revenues, to use his Endeavours to expel Robbers, &c. and pay the annual Revenue of Government, in the Manner prescribed by the Sunnud.

To obviate Misapprehensions, I think it proper to remark, that in the above Recitals I have abridged the Text, where it was too prolix and involved for literal Quotation, and given the Substance in the closest Sense of it; but where I have used the original Words of the Translations, I have distinguished them by Italic Letters as such. The Copies in the Appendix will shew with what Fidelity I have conformed to the Text in both Instances.

I have dwelt with a greater Stress and with a more minute Exactness, on the foregoing Subject, because it is on this Point that the Justice and Propriety of my Conduct must wholly turn. If Rajah Cheit Sing possessed the Zemedyary of Banaris in his own Right, and with an inherent and exclusive Authority; if he owed no Allegiance to the Company, nor Obedience beyond the Payments of a stipulated Tribute; I am liable to Condemnation for exacting other Duties from him, and for all the Consequences of that Exaction; and he is guiltless: but if the Company, possessing the acknowledged Rights of his former Sovereign, held an absolute Authority over him; if in the known Relation of Zemedyar to the sovereign Authority, or the Power delegated by it, he owed a personal Allegiance and an implicit and unreserved Obedience to that Authority, at the Forfeiture of his Zemedyary, and even of his Life and Property, at the Discretion of those who held or fully represented the sovereign Authority; if in Corroboration of the general and implied Obligation, he was bound to it by written Engagements and specific Conditions; I am warranted in my Assertion of the Rights of Government, which were fully and wholly delegated to me; and he alone is responsible for his Opposition to them, and for all the Consequences which have attended that Opposition.

Whether I have exercised the Power vested in me with Justice and with Moderation, will appear from the preceding Relation, and the following Parts of this Narrative.

Before I quit this Digression, I must further trespass on the Patience of the Board, and of those for whose Judgment it is ultimately written, by a more pointed Application of the above to my own personal Conduct and Character.

I will suppose for a Moment that I have erred, that I have acted with an unwarranted Rigour towards Cheit Sing, and even with Injustice. Let my Motive be consulted. I left Calcutta impressed with the Belief, that extraordinary Means were necessary, and those exerted with a strong Hand, to preserve the Company's Interests from sinking under the accumulated Weight which oppressed them. I saw a political Necessity for curbing the overgrown Power of a great Member of their Dominion, and making it contribute to the Relief of their pressing Exigencies. If I erred, my Error was prompted by an Excess of Zeal for their Interests, operating with too strong a Bias on my Judgment. But rare are the Instances in which the Judgment suffers the Bias of such an Operation; and much stronger is the Presumption, that Acts, prompted by an unmixed Attention to the Public Interests, are founded on just Principles, than that they are the Result of a misguided Judgment.

Possibly it may be suspected,—and may God forgive those who know me, and countenance the Suspicion; I have no Title to an Exemption from it with others;—that I was influenced by a secret and mercenary Interest. I have heard of the Practice of holding out the Terrors of Authority, and the Denunciations of Disgrace, Dismission, and War, as the Instruments of private Rapacity. Though the Charge, if true, is capable of positive Conviction, yet I know of no direct Evidence which could refute it, where it were false; for no one can be conscious of the Recesses of another's Mind. I can therefore only offer such presumptive Proofs of my Intention, as the Nature of it will admit, and Accident has provided. These are my early and confidential Declarations, and the Attestations of those to whom they were made. In a Point of such public Moment, independently of the near Interest which I have in establishing the Truth of it, Mr. Wheeler will pardon my Appeal to him, although in one Light it may tend to involve him in a Participation of the Reproach of those who may regard every Severity shewn to Cheit Sing as criminal, however founded. He will doubtless recollect the Conversation which I had with him on the Subject, on the Eve of my Departure from Calcutta; our mutual Opinion of Cheit Sing's past Conduct; mine of the Justice and Policy of exacting an exemplary Punishment for it, by a large pecuniary Mulct; the Sum to which I then declared my Resolution to extend it; my Conviction of his Ability to pay it; and the Two Alternatives on which I had resolved, if he refused to submit to it. He will also remember, that I bespoke his Confidence in the Means which I should use for this End, and his Support in the Issue of them. I entreat him to give me his formal and circumstantial Attestation of these Facts, and that he will permit it to be inserted in this Part of my Narrative*. After such an Appeal, it would be as superfluous as indelicate to call in the Aid of other Testimonies, if all that were required were no more than to ascertain that I did hold such a Conversation as that which I allude to with him. The Conclusion will be much strengthened by its Agreement with Declarations made by me on the same Subject, and nearly at the same Point of Time, to others. I shall therefore require similar Attestations† from Major Palmer, my Military Secretary, and from Mr. Anderson, my appointed Assistant on this Deputation. With these References, and their Result, I shall make my last and solemn Appeal to the Breast of every Man who shall read this, Whether it is likely, or morally possible, that I should have tied down my own future Conduct to so decided a Process and Series of Acts, if I had secretly intended to threaten, or to use a Degree of Violence, for no other Purpose than to draw from the Object of it a mercenary Atonement for my own private Emolument, and suffer all this Tumult to terminate in an ostensible and unsubstantial Submission to the Authority which I represented? Whether it is likely, or morally possible, that I should have chosen to irritate the Feelings of my Colleague in Office, and expose myself to all the Effects of his Indignation, by so wanton and unnecessary a Deception; or lower my own Dignity and Character, and afford so base an Example to my Inferiors, by pretending to make them privy to Acts which I never meant to * Mr. Wheeler.—I have the Pleasure to comply with the Governor General's Request, and will cheerfully record, in this Place, what I at present recollect to have passed between us, at the Time and on the Circumstances which he mentions.

I well remember, that on the Eve of the Governor General's Departure from Calcutta, the Conduct of Cheit Sing, late Rajah of Banaris, was a principal Subject of a confidential Discourse between us, and that he bespoke my Support of the Measures which he intended to pursue towards him.—I recollect that the Governor General thought the Rajah's Offences were such as to require early Punishment, and as his Wealth was great, and the Company's Exigencies pressing, it was thought a Measure of Policy and Justice to exact from him a large pecuniary Mulct for their Relief; the Sum to which the Governor declared his Resolution to extend the Fine, was Forty or Fifty Lacks; his Ability to pay it was stated as a Fact that could not admit of a Doubt; and the Two Alternatives on which the Governor declared himself to have resolved, if Cheit Sing refused to comply with the Requisition, were, to the best of my Recollection, either a Removal from his Zemedyary entirely; or, by taking immediate Possession of all his Forts, to obtain, out of the Treasure deposited in them, the above Sum for the Company.

perform, and from which I could not depart with any possible Shew of Reason, but the manifest Sacrifice of my Integrity. A Man actuated by such a Motive, and possessing the Trust which I held, would have used a Cover to his Venality; he would not have compromised himself by positive Declarations of what he would do, much less by detailing his Intentions in a Series of Trials, as they might successively fail; but would have been contented with distant and indefinite Intimations and Suggestions, which obviously left his Actions open to Enquiry and Variation, which could not subject him to the Imputation of Inconsistency, if they were productive of no Effect, and which he might use as Justifications, if his Artifices should chance to operate with the Effect ostensibly portended by them.

I now return to my Narrative.

I arrived at Banaris on the Morning of the 14th of August; the Rajah some Hours later: I forbade his coming that Evening to my Quarters, as he had intended, and required him to defer his future Visits until he should receive my Permission, as I had some previous Matters to settle with him, of which he would be informed by the Resident, whom I should depute to him the next Morning for that Purpose.

My Narrative will be best continued, nor will the Thread of it be broken, by the following Copy of my Report of my Proceedings, and of the Consequences which attended them, to Mr. Wheler, then the only effective Member of the Board.

To Edward Wheler, Esquire.

" Sir,

" I arrived at Banaris on the 14th Instant. My Transactions with the Rajah being of a most important Nature to the present and future Interests of the Company, I have determined to inform you of them without Delay, in the Order in which they have occurred.

" The First Step which I judged it necessary to take, as the Ground on which my future Proceedings with the Rajah were to be conducted, was to recapitulate in Writing the several Instances of his Conduct, which for some Time past have repeatedly drawn upon him the severe Reprehensions of the Board, and to demand a clear and satisfactory Explanation.

" This Paper I sent to the Rajah, by the Hands of Mr. Markham, who was directed to require an immediately Answer. Late in the Evening his Answer arrived. The following are Copies of both."

" No. 1. To Raja Cheit Sing.

" It is about Sixteen Months since Lallah Suddnuand, your Buxey and confidential Servant, came to Calcutta, charged with an express Commission and Authority to make Excuses for your past Conduct, and to give me Assurances, confirmed by Oath, of your future Submission to my Advice and the Orders of my Government. As a Test of your Sincerity, I required an immediate and unreserved Acquiescence in the Demand, which at the same Time was made to you in the Name of the Governor General and Council, of a Subsidy of Five Lacks of Rupees, for the Expences of the War. With this Demand you ostensibly complied in your Answer to my Letter; and the Buxey promised me verbally, in your Name, and in Terms so strong as amounted to the fullest Assurance, that there should be no Delay in the Payment. Relying on this Agreement and Promise, I gave Orders to Mr. Fowke, who was then Resident at this Place, to receive the Money, and remit it to Colonel Camac, for the Pay of the Army which had been ordered to march towards the Province of Malva; and I made no other Provision for it, such was my Confidence in your Faith. But you deceived me; and, after having made the First Payment of a few Rupees, either consulting the Temper of the Times, or conforming to a premeditated Design, you, by Shifts and Pretexes, withheld the Remainder, until the Army, for whose Use it was intended, was reduced to the last State of Distress. Many Hundreds deserted, and, had an Enemy at that Time appeared against them, their total Destruction had been inevitable. In all this Time daily Application was made to you by the Resident, and I wrote repeated Letters to you; but you paid no Regard to either. Besides this, I required, in the Name of the Governor General and Council, by Letter, and ordered Mr. Fowke to repeat the Requisition in Person, that you should furnish a Body of Horse to assist and act with the Armies of the Company; and when Mr. Markham succeeded Mr. Fowke, I gave him an Order to repeat the Demand, which he did accordingly, with frequent and almost daily Importunity, limiting the Number to 1,500, and afterwards to 1,000. To this Demand you returned evasive Answers, nor to this Hour have you contributed a single Horseman.

" I pass over other Instances of your Conduct, in which, through the Means of your secret Agents, you have endeavoured to excite Disorders in the Government on which you depend; and your Neglect of the Duty which you owe to it, and to the Subjects of this Zemeedary, by suffering the daily Perpetration of Robberies and Murders, even in the Streets of the City of Banaris itself, to the great and public Scandal of the English Name, and in Violation of one of the Conditions on which you received the Confirmation of this Zemeedary. But as the Two foregoing Instances amount to a direct Charge of Disaffection and Infidelity to the Government on which you depend, and happened at a Time in which it was your Duty more especially to have exerted yourself in the Support of its Interests, I have therefore judged it proper to state them to you thus fully in Writing, and to require your Answer to them; and thus I expect immediately."

" No. 2. From Rajah Cheit Sing to the Honourable the Governor General.

" I received your Letter delivered to me by Mr. Markham, and I have understood every Particular of its Contents. Sir, after the Arrival of Sheakh Ally Nucky, I observed all the Orders which you sent me; and I received the Letter which the deceased Sheakh brought me, informing me that every Suspicion was now completely removed from your Mind, and that I must consider you, as formerly, attentive to me. But I have not experienced from you the same Generosities as formerly. I sent you repeatedly Letters representing to your Consideration my unhappy Circumstances; but you never honoured me with any Reply. For this Reason I sent my Buxey Suddanund to your Presence, enjoining him to represent to you the Firmness of my Obedience and Attachment, to lay before you the Particulars of my Situation, and to learn the Disposition of your Mind towards me. He arrived accordingly in your Presence, and represented every Thing in a proper Manner. I have never deviated in the smallest Degree from these Professions; and the Benefits and Civilities with which you have honoured me, have given me the greatest Satisfaction; and I have considered you as the Source from which I derived the Fulfilment of all my Wishes and Desires. It is my firm Hope that I may be always favoured with your Directions. In this Manner I complied, with the utmost Readiness, with the Order you sent me for the Payment of Five Lacks of Rupees on account of the Expences of the War. I sent first One Lack of Rupees, with an Answer to your Letter; afterwards, having paid to Mr. Fowke the Sum of One Lack and Seventy thousand Rupees, I sent a Letter, requesting a further Allowance of Time to enable me to make some Preparations. To this I received no Reply, it being no Time for Delay. Notwithstanding this, I was not a Moment inattentive to this Concern; and as soon as my Buxey arrived, I paid immediately the remaining Part of the Sum. The remitting of this to the Army did not depend on me; if any Delay happened on this Head, I could not help it. If besides the Payment of the Money, the Remittance of it also to the Army had rested with me, a Delay of this Kind should not have happened. I have enclosed in this Letter a Paper, specifying the particular Sums which have been advanced, with their Dates.

" With respect to the Horse, you desired me in your Letter to inform you of what Number I could afford to station with you, and I sent you a particular Account of all that were in my Service, amounting to One thousand Three hundred Horse, of which several were stationed at distant Places; but I received no Answer to this. Mr. Markham delivered me an Order to prepare a Thousand Horse. In compliance with your Wishes, I collected 500 Horse, and as a Substitute for the Remainder, 500 Burkandazes, of which I sent you Information; and I told Mr. Markham they were ready to go to whatever Place they should be sent. No Answer however came from you on this Head, and I remained astonished at the Cause of it. Repeatedly I asked Mr. Markham about an Answer to my Letter about the Horse; but he told me he did not know the Reasons of no Answer having been sent. I remained astonished. With respect to the Sepoys, I received first an Order to station two of my Companies, which I did; I was then desired to give a Tunkaw for the Payment of the Sepoys, and likewise to pay the Captain; which has been done every Month.

" Excepting Abdullah Beg and his Attendants, none of my People, either Dependants or Servants, or others in any Shape connected with me, have ever gone to Calcutta. My Enemies, with a View to my Ruin, have made false Representations to you. Now that, happily for me, you have yourself arrived at this Place, you will be able to ascertain all the Circumstances relative to the Horse; to my People going to Calcutta; and the Dates of the Receipts of the particular Sums above-mentioned. You will then know whether I have amused you with a false Representation, or made a just Report to you. I have given my Aumils most particular Injunctions, and have taken a Penalty Bond from them, that they shall keep no Thieves in their District. What Power have they to act otherwise? But if ever a Murder or Robbery is committed in the Country, I have been careful to impale or otherwise punish the Culprit. If a Person having committed a Delinquency should escape to some other Place, so as to elude all Discovery, in that Case I am helpless; but to the utmost of my Power I endeavour to fulfil your Orders. I have never swerved in the smallest Degree from my Duty to you. It remains with you to decide on all these Matters. I am in every Case your Slave. What is just I have represented to you. May your Prosperity increase.

" This Answer you will perceive to be not only unsatisfactory in Substance, but offensive in Style; and less a Vindication of himself, than a Recrimination on me. It expresses no Concern for the Causes of Complaint contained in my Letter, or Desire to atone for them; nor the smallest Intention to pursue a different Line of Conduct. An Answer, couched nearly in Terms of Defiance, to Requisitions of so serious a Nature, I could not but consider as a strong Indication of that Spirit of Independency which the Rajah has for some Years past assumed; and of which indeed I had early observed other manifest Symptoms, both before and from the Instant of my Arrival.

" Under these alarming Appearances of the Rajah's Conduct and Disposition, I conceived myself indispensably obliged to form some immediate and decisive Plan for obviating their Consequences, and for the Preservation of the Company's Rights and Interests in this Zemecdary. To have left him in the full Exercise of Powers he had notoriously abused, and which it was to be apprehended he would employ to the most dangerous Purposes, was totally inconsistent with the Maxims of Justice and Prudence. To divest him entirely of the Zemecdary, though justifiable on the Grounds stated above, would have been attended with an Appearance of Severity, and might have furnished Ground for Constructions unfavourable to the Credit of our Government, and to my own Reputation, from the natural Influence which every Act of Rigour exercised on the Persons of Men who stand in elevated Stations, is apt to impress on the Minds of those who are too remote from the Scene of Action to judge, by any Evidence but of the direct Facts themselves, of their Motives or Propriety.

" Thus circumstanced, and attentive to these opposite Considerations, I laid down the following Plan for my future Proceedings.

" I first directed the Resident to repair to the Rajah, who resided at his House situated on this Side of the River, at the Distance of about Two Miles; and gave him the following Instructions.

" No. 3. Mr. William Markham, Resident at Banaris.

" Sir;

" It is my Order, that you proceed early To-morrow Morning to the House of Rajah Cheit Sing, with your usual Guard, and put him in Arrest. You will require his immediate Submission, informing him that you act under Orders given you by me; and in case of his Refusal, you will wait the Arrival of Two Companies of Sepoys belonging to Major Popham's Detachment, who are directed to follow and assist you in the Execution of this Service. Having secured the Rajah, you will keep him in your Custody until further Orders.

" Banaris, 15th August 1781.

I am, &c."

10 at Night.

" On the next Morning, Mr. Markham went, according to his foregoing Instructions, and was followed by Two Companies of Grenadier Sepoys, belonging to Major Popham's Detachment. The Rajah quietly submitted to the Arrest, and Mr. Markham returned to me with the following Letter from the Rajah, leaving him under the Charge of Lieutenants Stalker, Scott, and Simes. For the Particulars which passed at this Interview, I refer you to the following Report, which Mr. Markham delivered to me on his Return.

" N<sup>o</sup> 4. Letter from Rajah Cheit Sing.

" At this Time Mr. William Markham being come to me, has informed me that your Highness's Orders are, that I should remain under a Guard. My Protector. I before represented to you on board your Pinnace, that I was the Servant of the Honourable Company, and was ready from my Heart and Soul. Whatever may be your Pleasure, do it with your own Hands. I am your Slave. What Occasion can there be for a Guard?"

" N<sup>o</sup> 5. Report of Mr. Markham.

" To the Honourable Warren Hastings Esquire, Governot General, &c. &c.

" Honourable Sir,

" I this Morning, in obedience to your Orders of last Night, proceeded with a few of my Orderlies, accompanied by Lieutenant Stalker, to Shewallah Ghaut, the present Residence of Rajah Cheit Sing; and acquainted him, it was your Pleasure he should consider himself in Arrest; that he should order his People to behave in a quiet, orderly Manner, for that any Attempt to rescue him would be attended with his own Destruction. The Rajah submitted quietly to the Arrest, and assured me, that whatever were your Orders, he was ready implicitly to obey; he hoped, that you would allow him a Subsistence; but as for his Zemecdary, his Forts, and his Treasure, he was ready to lay them at your Feet, and his Life if required. He expressed himself much hurt at the Ignominy which he affirmed must be the Consequence of his Confinement, and intreated me to return to you with the foregoing Submission, hoping that you would make Allowances for his Youth and Inexperience; and, in consideration of his Father's Name, release him from his Confinement, as soon as he should prove the Sincerity of his Offers, and himself deserving of your Compassion and Forgiveness.

" Nearly a Quarter of an Hour after this Conversation, Lieutenant Scott arrived with the Two Grenadier Companies of Major Popham's Detachment; to whose and Lieutenant Stalker's Care I left the Rajah, having given them the following Instructions: That they should disarm every Servant of the Rajah's; that they should allow him any such Eight or Ten Kismutgars for the Attendance of his Person, as he should approve of; that these Men should be shewn to the Sepoys, lest any Deceit should be practised; but that they might indulge him in any Request consistent with the Security of his Person.

" I am now returned to acquaint you with my Proceedings, and to receive any further Instructions which you may think necessary.

" Banaris,
16th August 1781.

" I have the Honour to be,
Honourable Sir,
Your most obedient humble Servant,
(Signed) W<sup>m</sup> Markham."

" As the Rajah in the above Letter had desired that Mr. Markham might be sent back to him, I was preparing Instructions for that Purpose, when I received another Letter from the Rajah, of which the following is a Translation.

" N<sup>o</sup> 6. Letter from the Rajah.

" I am the Servant of the Sirkar, and am ready, from my Heart and Soul, in the Performance of your Orders. My Honour was bestowed on me by your Highness: It depends on you alone to take away, or not to take away, the Country out of my Hands. In case my Honour is not left me, how shall I be equal to the Business of the Sirkar? Whoever, with his Hands in a supplicating Posture, is ready with his Life and Property, what Necessity can there be for him to be dealt with in this Way?"

" From the apparent Despondency in which these Letters were written, I thought it necessary to give the Rajah some Encouragement, and accordingly wrote him the following Answer:

" N<sup>o</sup> 7. Letter from the Governor General.

" I have received your Two Araies, from the Hands of Mr. Markham, and understand their Contents. That Gentleman will wait on you in the Afternoon, and explain Particulars. Set your Mind at rest, and do not conceive any Terror or Apprehension."

" To this I received the following Reply:

" N<sup>o</sup> 8. Letter from the Rajah.

" Your gracious Letter has been received, and has made me acquainted with your Commands. You order, that in the Afternoon Mr. William Markham will come to me; that I must not suffer any Apprehension to disturb me, but remain at Ease in my Mind. My Protector! wherever you spread your Shadow over my Head, I am entirely free from Concern and Apprehension; and whatever you, who are my Master, shall as such determine, will be right."

" At this Time I had prepared Mr. Markham's Second Instructions; but before he could set out with them, Intelligence came, that large Bodies of armed Men had crossed the River from Ramnagur, and had proceeded to the Rajah's House. What follows is a Scene of such Horror, that it is with the greatest Reluctance I submit to the painful Duty of relating it.—The Guard placed over the Rajah consisted of Two Companies of Grenadier Sepoys, as above-mentioned, from Major Popham's Detachment, commanded by the Officers already named, who were stationed in an enclosed Square, which surrounded the Apartment where the Rajah was. The Resident's Guard had returned with him. It now appeared that these Troops had taken no Ammunition with them. Major Popham sent another Company of Sepoys, under an Officer, with Ammunition, to reinforce and support the First Party. When the latter arrived at the Rajah's House, they found it surrounded, and all the Avenues blockaded, by a Multitude of armed Men, who opposed their Passage. The Minds of this tumultuous Assembly becoming soon inflamed, some of them began to fire upon the Sepoys within the Square; and immediately, as if this had been the concerted Signal, made an instantaneous and fierce Attack on the Sepoys; who, wanting their accustomed Means of Defence, were capable of making but a feeble Resistance, and fell an easy Sacrifice to the superior Numbers of their Assailants, who cut almost every Man of this unfortunate Party to Pieces. The Officers, it is supposed, were the first Victims to their Fury; but not until they had, by astonishing Efforts of Bravery, and undismayed amidst the imminent Dangers which surrounded them, involved a much superior Number of their Enemies in their Fate. In this general Report of them, all Accounts concur, though varying in Circumstances. I yield to my own Feelings, in bestowing this just but unavailing Tribute to these unhappy Gentlemen.

" In the Midst of this Confusion, the Rajah found Means to escape through a Wicket, which opened to the River, and the Banks being exceedingly steep in that Place, he let himself down, by Turbans

Turbands tied together, into a Boat which was waiting for him, and conveyed him to the opposite Shore. Those who had effected his Escape followed him across the River in the same tumultuous Manner in which they had assembled, leaving the Party of our Sepoys who had last arrived, in Possession of the House. On the first Intelligence of this Commotion, I had directed Major Popham to repair immediately to his Camp, which was about Two Miles from the Resident's, and at the same Distance from the Rajah's House, and to march instantly with the Remainder of his Detachment to the Support of the Party.

" This Order was executed with all possible Expedition; but Major Popham arrived too late, and had the Mortification to be a Spectator of the Effects of a Massacre, which he could neither prevent nor revenge. He returned to me immediately, and made the following Report:

" N<sup>o</sup> 9. Major Popham's Report.

" Consequent to an Order for the Detachment under my Command to proceed to the Support of the Grenadier Companies under the Order of Lieutenant Stalker, I carried it with as much Expedition as possible to Cheit Sing's Palace, which I found to be entirely evacuated by the Rajah's People, who were already landed on the opposite Side of the River.

" Of the Two Companies commanded by Lieutenant Stalker, very few remained alive, and the Majority of those appeared to be severely wounded. The Bodies of Lieutenants Stalker, Scott, and Simes, were lying within a small Distance of each other, shockingly mangled, and without any Signs of Life.

" It may be necessary to observe, that Lieutenant Birrell was dispatched with One Company of Sepoys upon the first Rumour of the Rajah's coercive Intentions; but the Fate of the Companies which preceded him was decided prior to his being able to enter the Palace. There were, however, some of the Rajah's People, whom he effectually cleared it of. In his Attack he met with some Loss. My utmost Endeavours have hitherto proved insufficient to procure an exact Detail of the Killed and Wounded in this unfortunate Transaction. I thought it necessary to leave a Company with a Subaltern in the Palace.

" Banaris,

" 16th August 1781.

(Signed)

Wm. Popham,

" Major."

" I cannot learn with Certainty what is become of the Rajah; but the prevailing Report is, that he fled from Ramnagar, his usual Residence on the other Side of the River, in the Middle of the Night, and proceeded with his Zenanna and Effects to Lutteespoor, a strong Fort of his, situated about Ten Miles from Chunar. He was accompanied by Sujan Sing, his Brother, and Munnihar Sing, a Relation and Son by Adoption of Rajah Bulwant Sing. He has also had the Precaution to take with him Ranny Goolaub Koor, the Widow of Rajah Bulwant Sing his Father, her Son-in-law Doorgbijey Sing, and his Two Sons, her Grandsons. In them he possesses every Member of his Family, who can have any Plea to dispute with him the Right of Inheritance from his Father, Rajah Bulwant Sing, if that were ever a Question; his Right to the Zemeedary being derived exclusively from Sunnuds, which his Father never possessed, but which were first granted to Cheit Sing by the late Vizeer Shujah ud Dowlah through the Influence of our Government in 1773, and since repeated by similar Grants from our Government, when the Sovereignty was ceded to the Company by the present Nabob Assof ud Dowlah.

" I have made Choice of Bauboo Owsan Sing, who held the Office of Dewan during several Years of the Life of Rajah Bulwant Sing, and for a considerable Period since the Accession of the present Rajah, to administer the Revenues and Government of this Country, in the Quality of Naib, until it can be determined to whom the Zemeedary may legally belong, and who may be in a Capacity to receive it.

" To this Effect I have caused a Proclamation to be made through the City of Banaris, and have notified it by circular Perwannahs to all the Zemeedars and Aumils of the Zemeedary.

" To enforce the Execution of these Acts, to maintain Tranquillity and Order in the Country, and protect the Inhabitants, I have ordered One Battalion of Sepoys from Chunar, the Remainder of Major Popham's Detachment from Mirzapoor, and One Regiment of Sepoys from Dinapore, to march immediately to Banaris.

" The Detail of these Proceedings shall be transmitted to you in a subsequent Letter.—I do not expect they will detain me here much beyond the Time I had prescribed to myself, which was about 7 or 8 Days.

" I have the Honour to be, with the greatest Esteem,

Sir,

Your most obedient, humble Servant,

(Signed)

Warren Hastings.

" P. S. The Delay occasioned in copying this Letter, from its great Length, has afforded me an Opportunity of contradicting the latter Part of it; and I have now the Satisfaction to add, that Ranny Goolaub Koor, together with her Son-in-law Doorgbijey Sing, and his Two Sons, are safe at Banaris.—I have this Morning received a Visit from Doorgbijey Sing and his eldest Son, Mehipnarain."

I HAVE

I HAVE read over the preceding Letter with great Attention, but can find nothing in it, with the Advantage of recent and better Means of Information, to correct; nor do I know that it requires a Comment. That which I am now about to make, may appear trivial, but I make it, as it impels me by its present Impression. The Rajah in his Reply to the Charges which I had preferred against him, insists much on the many Letters which he wrote to me, praying to be dispensed from his Obedience to the Orders of Government, and my Neglect to answer them; and this Charge against me he repeats in a Manner not the most respectful. I do not know but it may be true. He had received positive Orders, and those had been repeated. It was his Duty to obey them, not to waste my Time with Letters of Excuse, to cavil with my Answers for Evasions, or with my Silence for Delays. His Vakeel was in daily Attendance on me, and knew my Mind sufficiently upon these Subjects; and what he knew, I am sure he wrote to his Master. As to his Plea of Inability to pay the Residue of the Subsidy without Preparation, that is, without contriving the Means to raise the Money, after having sacredly promised the full and instant Discharge of it, it was as insolent as we now know too surely that it was most egregiously false.

It was truly reported that Cheit Sing, after his Escape from Shewallah Ghaut, immediately fled to Lutteefpoor, taking his Family and his whole Force with him, except the ordinary Guard, which had been early appropriated in the Time of his Father, Bulwant Sing, under the Command of Gudge-rage Sing, who had the Title of Kelladar, to the Charge of Ramnagur. This was a vast Pile of irregular but massy Buildings, constructed of Stone, on the River Side, and within the Bed of the River. To its original Strength, Cheit Sing had added Two or Three small Bastions of Stone and Earth: A large Town had grown round it, which rendered the Approach to it suspicious; and the Intricacy of the Apartments and Passages of the Palace was such, that a cautious Officer would hesitate, under almost any Encouragement, to enter it. I had early Information, that it was in effect evacuated; and I believed it; but not being certain, I did not chuse to hazard a Repulse, nor had I a Force equal to any Operation of doubtful Success, much less of Enterprize. My whole Strength had consisted originally of Six Companies of Major Popham's Regiment, about Sixty Sepoys, which I had taken from the Garrison of Buxar, for the Protection of my Boats, and a few Men, who had been newly recruited, for the Resident's Guard; who had yet neither Arms nor Discipline. Of Major Popham's Regiment 82 Men had fallen in the Massacre of Shewallah Ghaut, and 92 were wounded. The whole Number of killed and wounded of every Corps and Denomination was 205.

Every Circumstance of an Event and Time so critical to the present Existence and to the Permanency of the British Interests in India, will merit Notice in a Relation of this Kind. If Cheit Sing's People, after they had effected his Rescue, had proceeded to my Quarters at Mahadew Dais's Garden, instead of crowding after him in a tumultuous Manner, as they did, in his Passage over the River, it is most probable that my Blood, and that of about Thirty English Gentlemen of my Party, would have been added to the recent Carnage; for they were above 2,000 in Number, furious and daring from the easy Success of their last Attempt; nor could I assemble more than 50 regular and armed Sepoys for my whole Defence. Let it not be thought, that I attribute too much Consequence to my own Person, when I suppose the Fate of the British Empire in India connected with it. Mean as its Substance may be, its accidental Properties were equivalent to those which, like the magical Characters of a Talisman in the Arabian Mythology, formed the Essence of the State itself; Representation, Title, and the Estimate of public Opinion. Such a Stroke as that which I have supposed, would have been universally considered as decisive of the National Fate; every State around it would have started into Arms against it; and every Subject of its own Dominion would, according to their several Abilities, have become its Enemy. What really passed approaching to such an Effect, from the sole Apprehension of such a Cause, more than warrants the Conclusion of what would have followed the Cause itself, had it existed.]

The Effects of the first Consternation having subsided, a Number of Men, reputed 2,000, returned to Ramnagur on the 18th, under the Command of Ramjeeawun, a confidential and domestic Chief of the Family.

The Remainder of Major Popham's Detachment, consisting of Four Companies of Sepoys, One Company of Artillery, and the Company of French Rangers, lay at Mirzapoor.

These were ordered to march immediately to Ramnagur. Lieutenant Colonel Blair was ordered to detach a Battalion of Sepoys from the Garrison of Chunar on the same Destination. It was intended, that as soon as these Corps had joined, and were properly equipped for Service, Major Popham should take the Command, and proceed against the Forces quartered in Ramnagur. I wrote an Order Express to Captain Blair, who commanded the Battalion from Chunar, commanding him to halt at a secure Distance from Ramnagur, and wait for further Orders; and Major Popham, whom I had afterwards vested with the Command in Form, wrote a similar Order to Captain Mayaffie, the Officer commanding the Residue of his Detachment, with an additional Caution to avoid Hostilities, and attend to the Safety of the whole Party, of which, being the senior Officer, he would have the Command till Major Popham assumed it. To ensure the Success of his Operations on that Side, he had chosen a convenient and open Plain on the Shore opposite to Ramnagur, for a Battery of Two Mortars, which were expected from Chunar; nor can there be a Doubt that a Place so peculiarly ill formed for such a Mode of Attack, and in no State of Defence against a wary Assailant, would have proved an an easy Conquest. Unhappily the ill-timed Ambition of a rash Individual defeated this Plan, and had nearly caused the Destruction of the whole Party. Captain Mayaffre, unwilling, as it appears, for no other possible Motive can be ascribed to so precipitate and irregular a Conduct, to lose the Opportunity which his present and casual Command afforded him, of acquiring a military Reputation, without Plan, without Enquiry, against the Advice of his Officers, and against Order, ordered the Detachment to march into the narrow Lanes of the Town, where they were opposed by the Fire of an Enemy surrounding them unseen, and the Party which entered was in an Instant annihilated, rather than defeated. Twenty-three Men of the Corps of Rangers, with their Commander Captain Doxat, who led the Attack, were killed, and Ten wounded; the 1st Battalion of the 6th Regiment of Sepoys, commanded by Captain Blair, which followed, lost 57 killed and 41 wounded. The whole Loss sustained in all the Corps was 107 killed, and 72 wounded. Captain Mayaffre was killed. The Detachment instantly retreated. The Retreat appears to have been conducted by Captain Blair, and in a Manner that did him much Credit. The Enemy pursued with little Effect, their Numbers gradually lessening till the Detachment arrived within Four Miles of Chunar, which it regained the same Evening.

This unfortunate Affair happened on the Morning of the 20th of August.

I considered myself now as plunged in a decided War, and made every Provision both for its speedy Termination, and for its Confinement to the Scene in which it had opened.

Orders were written, and dispatched in multiplied Copies, to the different military Stations, for Assistance; to the Resident of the Vizeer's Court, for a Supply of Treasure; and to Lieutenant Colonel Blair for an instant Reinforcement. The Detail of these Orders will be found in the Appendix. Very few reached their Destination, the Communication with every Quarter being intercepted, and all the Country in Arms against us; and our Emisaries, unused to this dangerous Service, either made Prisoners, or not daring to execute it, and secreting their Dispatches. Two of my Letters reached Colonel Blair, who ordered Captain M'Dougal, with the 2d Battalion of the 6th Regiment, to march on the next Day, which was the 21st, to Banaris. I now passed an Interval, like that of a dead Calm preceding a violent Storm, and fraught with all the Symptoms of its certain Approach. Successive Notices were brought to me, by various Channels, of Preparations making at Ramnagar for an Assault on my Quarters, which stood in the Midst of the Suburbs of Banaris, and consisted of many detached Buildings within One large Enclosure, surrounded by Houses and Trees, which intercepted every other Prospect. The whole Force which I had left amounted to about 450 Men. The Reports of an intended Assault, which was fixed for that Night, grew stronger as the Day advanced; the Boats on the other Side of the River were seen to be in Motion; and, besides the moral Certainty of the real Existence of such a Design, the obvious Advantages which it presented to the Enemy, who had nothing left to fear, and nothing else to do, precluded all Hesitation but on the Choice of Expedients for defeating it: There were but Two; which were, to wait the Danger and try the Chance of repelling it, or to retreat to a Place of greater Security or of equal Advantage for the Encounter. The confined State of the Place, of which any Description will be insufficient to convey an adequate Idea, rendered the First Plan impracticable: We had not a Force sufficient to guard all the Defences of that Place, nor a Store for the Provisions of a Day, even for that small Number: The only Arguments for it were, the Disgrace of a Flight, and the Consideration of our wounded Sepoys, whom it might leave at the Discretion of a merciless Enemy. The former Consideration yielded to the superior Weight of Necessity; the latter, to the Impossibility of protecting the wounded Men in either Case, as they were quartered at the Distance of near a Mile from Mahadew Das's Garden; nor would it have been possible, in their Condition, and in the Multiplicity of pressing Exigencies which the Resolution to remain would have created, to remove them. Yet these Considerations held me suspended during the whole Course of the Day. In the Evening it became necessary to come to a final Determination, as the Delay of a few Hours might now preclude every Option. I consulted Major Popham; he declared the Defence of that Place impossible, and advised a Retreat to Chunar. There were other Field Officers with me: I asked for their Opinions separately; they clearly and unhesitatingly agreed in the same Advice. My Opinion had been determined from the Instant that I had received the certain Information of Captain Mayaffre's Defeat. I had not yet received the News of Captain M'Dougal's March, nor any Answer to the Letters which I had written to Lieutenant Colonel Blair for a Reinforcement; nor could I know whether these had reached him. I yielded to the Reluctance of a few Minutes. My Resolution was taken, and declared, and Orders given to form our little Corps, that we might have Time to gain the open Country, before the Enemy, having Notice of the Design, could cross and attack us at the Disadvantage of the Streets, Lanes, and broken Ground, which we had to pass before we could reach it. These Orders were issued between Seven and Eight o'Clock, and by Eight the Line was in Motion, having been much retarded and impeded by an incredible Tumult of Servants, Palankeens, and Baggage of every Denomination, which for a Time threatened a total Obstruction to our March; fortunately, this enormous Mass took the wrong Road, which left the right with a free and undisturbed Passage for the Sepoys. On the Way we passed Captain M'Dougal's Battalion, about Nine o'Clock. We sent him timely Notice of our Movement: He turned and joined us. Early the next Morning we arrived at Chunar.

It is proper to mention that as soon as I had formed my Resolution to leave Banaris, I sent my Moonshy to the Nabob Saadut Ally Khan, to inform him of it, and to recommend the wounded Sepoys to his Care; believing that the Rajah, from a Consideration of Policy, would not chuse to molest them, especially as he could have no Motive or Object to it but Revenge, if he would shew a determined Resolution to protect them. The same Request I made to him in Writing after my Arrival at Chunar. I owe him the Justice to attest, that he faithfully and liberally complied with my Request. He visited them himself, and furnished them with Provisions and with Money, and appointed native Surgeons to attend them; and as they were able to bear it he caused them all to be removed to his own Quarters.

Many Reports and Suspicions have prevailed of his being concerned in some of the Designs which were formed against us. I can neither credit nor refute them. The Evil imputed to him is at best doubtful: The Good which he did is certain, and he is entitled to the entire Merit of it.

I avail myself of this Repose in my Narrative to relate another Instance of private Merit in Beneram Pundit, the Vakeel or Minister of the Rajah of Berar, and his Brother Bissumber Pundit. These Persons had come to pay their customary Attendance at my Quarters, about the Time that the Line was already on the March. They immediately joined it. Some Time after I saw and spoke to them, expressing some Concern to find them in that Situation. They were on Foot, without a single Servant or Attendant. I suffered them to accompany me till we came to the Plain and halted. I then thanked them for the Proof which they had shewn of their Attachment, with which I was satisfied, and desired them to return, as they had a large Family in Banaris, which would be exposed by their Continuance with me to the Resentment of Cheit Sing, and perhaps to the worst Effects of it, nor could by their Presence afford me any Service, which could repay what I myself should feel of Compunction for suffering them to be exposed to such Hazards. They refused me in a peremptory Manner, without Compliment, or the Ostentation of performing meritorious Service; and persisted, although I as peremptorily insisted on their Return. I then desired that the elder Brother, who was corpulent, and of a Constitution less equal to Fatigue, would return, and the younger only remain; but could not prevail. A few Days after my Arrival at Chunar, I casually mentioned to them my Distress for Provisions, which was occasioned principally by the Want of Money; for such was our total Loss of Credit, that we could not raise a Sufficiency even for the ordinary Wants of our small Detachment; and it was with great Difficulty, and a Degree of Violence, that Lieutenant Colonel Blair extorted from the Shroffs of Chunar, who had lived and grown opulent under the Protection of the Garrison, the small Sum of 2,500 Rupees, which was distributed among all the Sepoys, and afforded a satisfactory Relief. Beneram Pundit immediately, and with an Eagerness which belonged to his Character, told me that he had a Lack of Rupees in ready Money, lying in his House at Banaris, which I might take, if I could find any Means to receive and convey it to Chunar; and the younger Brother advised, as the simplest Expedient, to send a Battalion of Sepoys for that Purpose, which could easily go and return without Interruption, as there were no Troops stationed near the Town on that Side of the River, offering to accompany it himself, and to bring away the Money. I rejected this Proposal for an obvious Reason, and preferred the Trial of the Means which the Shroffs are supposed to practise for the Conveyance of Money on such Occasions. I accepted a Draft on their Family for the Sum, payable to Contoo Bauboo, my Dewan, who had been left in Banaris, and sent it inclosed in a Letter to him, with Directions to concert with Gopaul Dafs the Means of conveying it to Chunar. This proved ineffectual. Contoo Bauboo could not be found. Gopaul Dafs was seized, I forget at what exact Period of Time, and sent a Prisoner to Lutteespoor, and in a short Time after, Contoo Bauboo was also taken, and conveyed to the same Place of Confinement; I was obliged therefore to wait for a more favourable Opportunity, which never happened while I remained at Chunar. After my Return to Banaris, Beneram again repeated the Offer; I accepted it, and received the whole Amount on the Instant, giving him a Note in the Company's Name, and in the usual Form, for the same.

Examples of Fidelity and national Attachment merit the first Reward of being recorded. In me it is a Duty both of public and private Obligation to relate what I have related. Their Merit is national; for, under whatever Impressions their Assistance was offered, its Object was the national Service; nor can my Person in such an Instance be separated from my public Character.

[On the 20th or 21st, I forget which, I received a Letter from Rajah Cheit Sing, filled with Expressions of slight Concern for what had passed; and Professions, but indefinite and unapplied, of Fidelity. I did not think it becoming to make any Reply to it; and I think I ordered the Bearer of the Letter to be told that it required none.

On the Morning of the 21st, a Person came to Mr. R. Johnson, who was one of my Party, and desired his Interposition with me to receive a Letter and Messenger from the Rajah in the Evening, with Proposals for an Accommodation. The like Application was made by Mirza Abdullah Beg, the Rajah's Vakeel, to my Dewan Contoo Bauboo; and with my Permission, Contoo Bauboo returned to his own House in the Evening, to meet the Vakeel by Appointment for that Purpose; by which Means he missed the Opportunity of going off with me; the Intelligence of my Intention reaching him too late for him to join me, or his infirm State of Body not admitting of his his taking so hasty a Resolution. The Substance of the Message, as it has been since delivered to me by Abdullah Beg in Writing, was to exculpate himself from any Concern in what had passed, which he charged to the insolent Behaviour of a Servant of the Resident who was present, and the Resentment of his own People; and to profess his Obedience and Submission to my Will in whatever Way I should dictate.]

I regarded this as an Artifice to gain Time, since the Message, whatever were the Substance of it, might as easily have been delivered in the Morning as in the Evening, and the Messenger might have obtained an easy Access to me, without the Intrigue and Mystery of secret and indirect Applications.

I have been since confirmed in this Opinion by the Two following Anecdotes, and their exact Coincidence with the Design to which I attribute that just recited.

On the Morning of the 21st, while Preparations were making to cross Captain M'Dougal's Battalion, Three Men, Two Strangers, and all Volunteers, went successively to Colonel Blair, with Intelligence that a Design was formed to escalate the Fort of Chunar with a numerous Force on that Night; and an earnest Caution, that he should not diminish the Strength of his Garrison.

The Intelligence and Advice delivered by each were expressed nearly in the same Words. When M'Dougal's Battalion was on the Road, Three Men, Strangers and Volunteers, like the former, came to him successively with Intelligence, that a large Body of armed Men lay wait to intercept him at a Village called Beeteeburr, and warned him not to proceed. He proceeded, but did not meet a Man. Lieutenant Colonel Blair caused a more than ordinary Watch to be kept on that Night in the Fort, but not a Man appeared to attack it. Not one of these Emisseries has ever been seen since.

As it had been my original Intention to make but a short Stay at Banaris, the Nabob Vizeer, in the Expectation of my Visit, had already left his Capital, and advanced to a short Distance to meet me. I considered that his Presence would prove of much Service, by its Influence on our Credit; and his Troops, Rabble as they were, might serve to keep the Country in Awe, and to divide the Attention of the Enemy. But these Advantages would invert the Relation of our Alliance, and give him a Superiority in our Meeting, which would defeat the Purposes of it; besides, that I did not think it consistent with the Dignity of our Government to employ a foreign Aid for the Suppression of a Rebellion of its own Subjects: I therefore wrote a Letter to the Nabob, requesting him to return to Lucknow, and remain there until I should have Leisure from the actual Disturbances to prosecute my original Journey. The Nabob refused to comply with this Injunction, and on the first Intimation of my Difficulties resolved to join me; and he executed this Purpose with such apparent Earnestness, that he made his first Stages with no other Attendance than about 100 Horse, and about Four Companies of his Body Guard, with his usual domestic Attendants. As soon as I was informed of this, to remove any unfavourable Impression of my former Letter under the Construction of Distrust, I wrote another to the Nabob, expressing the warmest Sense of such a Testimony of his Attention, apologizing for what I had before written, from an Unwillingness to involve him in a Scene of Trouble, and expressing my Desire to see him at Chunar according to his own Wishes.

In the mean Time I had received several Intimations imputing evil Designs to the Nabob, and warning me to guard myself against them; and especially to be careful that I did not expose myself to the Effects of concealed Treachery, by visiting him without a strong Guard. Many Circumstances favoured this Suspicion. No sooner had the Rebellion of this Zemeedary manifested itself, than its Contagion instantly flew to Fyzabad and the extensive Territory lying on the North of the River Dewa, and known by the Names of Gooruckpoor and Bareech. In the City of Fyzabad, Nawaub Allea and Jenaub Allea, the Mother and Grandmother of the Nabob, openly espoused the Party of Cheit Sing, encouraging and inviting People to enlist for his Service; and their Servants took up Arms against the English. Two Battalions of regular Sepoys in the Vizeer's Service, under the Command of Lieutenant Colonel Hannay, who had been entrusted with the Charge of that District, were attacked and surrounded in various Places, many of them cut to Pieces, and Colonel Hannay himself, encompassed by Multitudes, narrowly escaped the same Fate. The Nabob Vizeer was charged with being privy to the Intrigues which had produced and fomented these Disturbances; and the little Account that he seemed to make of them, served to countenance the Suspicion. I can truly say for myself, that I never afforded it the slightest Degree of Credit; neither his Character, the Tenor of his past Conduct, the Expectations which I knew he entertained of Assistance and Relief from myself, nor his Inability to support himself without the Protection of our Government, allowing me for a Moment to entertain a Thought so injurious to his Fidelity, and so contrary to Probability. Yet I was not perfectly free from Apprehensions similar to such a Suggestion. The Nabob was surrounded by Men base in their Characters, and improvident in their Understandings, his Favourites, and the Companions of his looser Hours. These had every Cause to dread the Effect of my Influence on theirs; and both these, and the Relations of the Family, whose Views of Consequence and Power were intercepted by our Participation in the Administration of his Affairs, entertained a mortal Hatred to our Nation, and openly avowed it. These all joined in prescribing the most pernicious and fatal Counsels to the Nabob, representing this as the Time to deliver himself from what they described as the Yoke of Servitude. Although he firmly rejected all their Persuasions, and I was assured of it, yet he himself was at their Mercy, and it was in their Power

Power to use both his Authority and his Person for the Perpetration of their own Designs; nor could I use any Precaution to avoid them, which would not appear to proceed from a Distrust of the Nabob himself: I never communicated my Apprehensions, nor acted from them, and had the Satisfaction of receiving the Nabob, of maintaining an Intercourse with him, with every Mark of the most secure and mutual Confidence, and of parting with him with every Demonstration of mutual Satisfaction.

I had before written to Colonel Morgan for Assistance. I now repeated the Order; and, as the Issue of a War, begun with such Disadvantages on our Side, and with the total Loss of the Country, was doubtful, I added an Order to follow with his whole Force, with another to Colonel Sir John Cumming, who commanded at Futtehgur, to supply his Place at Khaunpoor. I considered, that if we were successful with a less Exertion, it would be easy to countermand these Orders before the Troops could have advanced far in the Execution of them; but if we failed of Success, and such Orders were not sent, it might be too late to issue them with any Hope of Effect from them, or even of their being received, since the Communication, which was now very difficult and uncertain, might then be absolutely precluded. None of my Letters reached Colonel Morgan till he had taken his Resolution. Reports were conveyed to him of my Situation and past Misadventures. The sudden Failure of Intelligence convinced him of the Truth of what he heard; and, justly concluding that Orders had been sent which had been stopped in their way to him, he at once resolved to execute their supposed and obvious Purport, and detached a Force superior to that which I had required, to my Assistance. It consisted of Two Regiments of Sepoys, Thirty European Artillery Men, and two Companies of the European Regiment, with Four Six Pounders, One Howitz, Tumbrils, Ammunition, Draft and Carriage Cattle. For the greater Expedition he ordered this Detachment to proceed by Water. The Zeal of the Officers so well seconded that of their Commander, that although it appears that the Resolution was taken on the 29th, the Whole were embarked and in Movement on the 31st of the Month. Major Crabb commanded the Detachment.

A long Interval of Time, which acquired its full Measure from the Magnitude of the Events which were expected to grow out of it, and their uncertain Production, passed in total Ignorance of the Success of the various Orders which had been dispatched, and of the Succours which might be preparing for us. One Half of the Province of Oud was in a State of as complete Rebellion as that of Banaris. Futteh Shah had invaded Sirkar Saurun in our own Province; Bahar supported by Supplies of Money, and encouraged with Promises of more from Cheit Sing; many of the Zemedeers of Bahar had discovered Symptoms of Disaffection; and Reports were made to me of Levies of Men openly entertained for the Enemy from our own Subjects in that Province; even the wretched Subjects of Napaul dared to seize by Force some Villages to which they had a Claim, and had some Time before supplicated the Attention of our Government to it. In my Impatience for Advices I dreaded that every Packet would bring a fresh Accumulation to our Distresses, and the News of Commotions in every Quarter. At this Period a Letter found its Way to me from Colonel Muir, who commanded the Army employed against Mahdajee Sindia, informing me of Overtures made by that Chief for a separate Peace. This had been one of the Objects of my Journey to this Quarter; but eagerly as I had sought such an Event, I was proportionably mortified to learn with what Facility it might have been accomplished, and how unseasonably our domestic Misfortunes had happened to defeat so fair a Prospect of it. I had no Money, nor Credit equal to the Supply of 3,000 Rupees, and, by an unfortunate Train of official Perplexities, which had happened some Time preceding this, both Major Popham's Regiment, the Rangers, and all the Corps of the Garrison of Chunar, were Four Months in Arrears. This was our Situation.

What Force could be spared from the Garrison of Chunar, added to Major Popham's Regiment, was formed into a Detachment under his Command, and encamped on a Plain about a Mile to the Eastward of Chunar. The greatest Strength of the Enemy was collected at Pateeta, about Seven Miles from Chunar, in the same Direction.

On the 27th of August, Lieutenant Polhill arrived with Six Companies of Sepoys belonging to the Nabob Vizeer's Body Guard stationed at Illahabad. He was ordered to encamp on the opposite Bank of the River, for the Purpose of keeping our Communication open with that Shore. On the 29th he attacked and defeated a considerable Body of Troops under the Command of a principal Chief, named Shebaub Khan, who was stationed at a small Fort and Town called Seeker, within Sight of Chunar. The Advantages gained by this Success were the Removal of that Part of the Enemy, and the Acquisition of a considerable Booty in Grain, which had been the Object of the Enterprize.

On the 3d of September, Major Popham detached Captain Blair, with his Battalion, and Two Companies of his own Grenadiers, to surprize the Camp at Pateeta. They marched at Three in the Morning, and arrived at the Ground by Day-light, but found it abandoned, and the Enemy waiting for them in complete Order at about a Mile beyond it. A bloody Action ensued, in which the Enemy, as might be expected from Men flushed with recent Successes, fought with a desperate Intrepidity. Our Sepoys began to break into Disorder, when, by a well-timed and successful Attack of the Enemy's Guns by Two Companies of Grenadiers, headed by Lieutenants Fallon and Birrell, the Fortune of the Day turned in our Favour, and the Field was left to our Possession, with Four Guns and Four Tumbrils. One of the Guns, its Carriage being broken, was spiked and left. The other Three, with one of the Tumbrils loaded with as much Ammunition as it could carry, were brought away. The other three Tumbrils, with Two hundred Maunds of loose Powder, were blown up. About 1,500 round Shot of different Weights, and mostly hammered, were found and left in a Village adjacent.

Our Loss in this Action was very great; we had 48 Men killed, and 85 wounded: That of the Enemy was unknown, but must have been considerable. Their Guns were well served, and it was from their Execution that we principally suffered. It was remarkable, that they had all the Apparatus of our Artillery, such as Port Fires, Tubes, Chain and Quilted Grape Shot, &c. equal, or nearly equal, to the Production of an European Laboratory; Samples of each Kind will be sent to the Board. Their Artillery did not answer to the Quality of the Stores. One Gun was of Modern Cast, and with its Carriage, which was not bad, said to have been made at Ramnagur. The others were of a very old Cast and Construction, and their Carriages bad and much worn: This was the general Character of all the Ordnance taken in the Course of the War.

Dearly as this Victory was purchased, with the Expenditure of One Fourth of the Party, it was yet a Victory, ascertained and acknowledged; and had its due Effect of impressing the Enemy with Discouragement, and our own Men with Confidence; and it was an Earnest of our future Success in the public Opinion, which, at all Times of high Importance to our political Influence, was especially so at this, in which the Minds of all Men were suspended for the Decision of the Part which they were to take, either in the immediate Contest, or in their own Conduct as dependant on it.

I must not omit in this Place an Instance of Vengeance which marks the sanguinary Character of Cheit Sing, and too strongly proves, that if the other Excesses committed by his People were not authorised by his express Order, they were perpetrated under the Influence of his Example, and the Knowledge of his Inclination.

Fourteen Men of the Corps of Rangers had been left sick at Mirzapoor, when the Remainder of Major Popham's Detachment marched under the Command of Captain Mayasire, to Ramnagur. They were made Prisoners, and sent to Lutteefpoor. They arrived there on the 3d of September, about the same Time that News was received of Captain Blair's Action at Pateeta, which happened on that Morning. What Provocation they gave, or whether any, is not known: It is surmised but I know not the Authority, that One of these unhappy Men expressed a Joy on hearing that our Arms had been successful. They were all butchered on the Spot, and almost in the immediate Presence of the Rajah, except one Man, who made a Shift to crawl with a mangled Body to the neighbouring Woods, where he subsisted for a few Days, returned to the Fort, received Mercy, and is still living, and in our Camp*.

On the 10th of September, about Seven in the Morning, Major Crabb's Detachment appeared on the opposite Shore. It consisted of the Corps already related. It had proceeded as far as Illahabad by Water, but much retarded in its Course by strong and adverse Winds; on which Account, the Course of the River also winding very much between Illahabad and Chunar, Major Crabb had prudently disembarked the Men and Stores, and marched them by the High Road, remanding the Boats to Khaunpoor, whither indeed their Return would have been impracticable, had they passed the Boundary of this Zemeedary.

Major Roberts with his Regiment, and a Lack of Rupees in Silver, arrived on the 13th of September from Lucknow, to which Place, as I have before related, he had been ordered to repair for the Guard of my Person, in my intended Visit to that Capital. A further Supply of Fifty thousand Rupees was a few Days after received from the Nabob's Aumil of Illahabad.

The Money was immediately distributed among all the Troops in equal Proportions; and by satisfying their Wants, facilitated Major Popham's Preparatives for the Commencement of active Operations.

I have a Pleasure in testifying, that, distressed as the Sepoys had been for the Want of Money, they had never manifested the least Symptom of Discontent. I had frequently visited the Camp, and passed the Lines each Time in Review; once, and only once, I heard One or Two Voices of Complaint, but neither clamorous nor disrespectful.

On the 11th, the Nabob Vizeer arrived at his Encampment, which had been formed on the opposite Shore. I chose to make him the first Visit, which was performed on the same Morning, and was returned by him on the next.

Hyder Beg, the Nabob's Second Minister, arrived at the same Time. He had been deputed early to meet me at Banaris, and had arrived there about Two Days after my Departure from it. Instead of following me to Chunar, he had suffered himself to be detained by Lalla Bucherauge, the Shroff, who had promised to accompany him with a Supply of Money. In the mean Time, a sudden and great Swell of the River rendered the Burna Nulla, behind which he was encamped, impassable. The Rajah's People at the same Time carried away all the Boats; and after a long and fruitless Negotiation with them for an unmolested Passage, which he did not think it prudent to attempt at the Hazard of an Opposition, he at Length did attempt it, and met none. His

* The Particulars of this Massacre have been since verified, with some unessential Variations from my Relation of it, in an Affidavit of the Survivor, which will be annexed.

Indecision on this Occasion furnished Ground for various Suspensions; but I know, and had Assurances from a Person in my Suite, who had taken Refuge with him, and acquired his Confidence, and on whose Authority I could implicitly rely, that they were wholly devoid of Foundation. I had a pleasing and incontrovertible Evidence of his Fidelity soon after the Conclusion of our Troubles, in a Letter which Captain Blair picked up at Lutteefpoor, and which I shall add to the Appendix, not merely as a Justification of the Minister, but as a Relief to the dry and unentertaining Materials with which it is associated, if it shall convey the same Opinion of the good Sense of the Writer to other Minds, as it has done to mine.

On the 15th Lieutenant Polhill crossed and joined Major Popham's Camp. The whole Detachment now consisted of the following Strength; viz.

One Company of European Grenadiers, commanded by	Captain Grant.
One D <sup>o</sup> D <sup>o</sup> Light Infantry, D <sup>o</sup> —	Captain Harrison.
One D <sup>o</sup> French Rangers, D <sup>o</sup> —	Lieutenant Wade.
Thirty European Artillery Men, D <sup>o</sup> —	Captain Hill.
One Regiment of Sepoys, the 7th D <sup>o</sup> —	Major Crabb.
One D <sup>o</sup> D <sup>o</sup> the 19th D <sup>o</sup> —	Major Balfour.
One D <sup>o</sup> D <sup>o</sup> the 35th D <sup>o</sup> —	Major Popham.
One Battalion, the 1st of 6th Regiment, D <sup>o</sup> —	Captain Blair.
Six Companies of the Nabob's Body Guard, D <sup>o</sup> —	Lieutenant Polhill.

The following is a Catalogue of Cheit Sing's whole Force, which has been since delivered to me by One of his principal Officers; and as it made a Part of a sworn Affidavit, I admit and credit it as genuine. It is certainly not exaggerated.

These Forces were divided between Lutteefpoor, Pateeta, and Ramnagur. The best reputed of them were at Pateeta, and the great Mafs, composing the last Corps, with a Part of the others, at Lutteefpoor with the Rajah, who had fixed his Residence at that Place since his Flight from Shewallah Ghaut.

Before I proceed, it may not be improper to state the other Resources on which he, not very unreasonably, depended for lengthening the War, if not for Success in the Course of it.

First, his Fortresses, of which there are many, and some of considerable Extent and Strength, erected in various Parts of the Zemcedary. Of these the Two Principal are Bidjeygur and Lutteefpoor. Ramnagar scarcely deserves to be named with them; and Pateeta has been rendered considerable only by its having been a capital Scene of his Opposition, and of our Victories.

Bidjeygur is a Fort erected on the solid Rock of a Hill, rising to the Height of 745 perpendicular Feet from the level Ground. It lies about Fifty Miles in a South-east Direction from Chunar. It was the Depository of all his and his Father's Treasures.

Lutteefpoor is a large Fort, built with Stone, and surrounded by Hills, and, either from Neglect or Design, obstructed from distant View by Trees and thick Shrubs surrounding it. It lies about 14 Miles Eastward from Chunar.

Pateeta is a very large Town, surrounded by a Rampart of Earth, extending to a great Distance beyond it to the Hills adjoining. The Fort itself is a small square Houle of Stone, itself fortified with Four round Towers, and inclosed with a high Rampart, and a Ditch which is in most Parts broad and deep. Its greatest Advantage against an Enemy, to whom Delay was Defeat, was that it was invisible to its Assailants.

Ramnagar has been described already. The other Forts, whatever their Consequence under a different Train of Successes might have been, are of none to the Events of this Narrative.

His next great Resource was his Wealth; on which he looked, and thought himself invincible; an Expression which I borrow from one of the meanest of his Dependants. It is credibly affirmed, that he inherited from his Father, Bulwant Sing, a complete Crore of Rupees, to which it is believed that he made considerable Additions.

The Distresses of our Government, and the Power and Number of its Enemies, may also be reckoned, though negative, yet amongst his Resources. The rest were delutory, which the false and violent Counsels of his Brother Soojaun Sing, and his Buxey Suddanund, imposed on his Inexperience, and the Pliancy and Aptitude of his Disposition.

[It would break the Attention, and perplex the Thread of the Narrative, to relate every distinct Event in its exact Order of Time. I have therefore, in the minuter Points, endeavoured rather to arrange them according to their Relation to the greater, or to find a Place for them in the vacant Intervals and Pauses of it. It may be proper in this Place to mention, that during the Time of Inaction which succeeded to my Arrival at Chunar, I received several Letters from Cheit Sing, besides Letters from Mr. Barnet, and one from Contoo Bauboo, who were both his Prisoners at Lutteefpoor, which were written by his Order. These were all alike in Substance, containing Acknowledgements and Professions of Submission to my Authority; Assertions of his own Innocence, charging the Massacre at Shewallah to the Chubdar, whose Insults provoked the Resentment of his Servants, whom he could not restrain, and claiming a Merit from his having in the Three past Actions been the suffering Party, though successful, and in none the Aggressor; adding general Offers of Accommodation; and in the Letters written by his Order, a pompous Display of his inexhaustible Wealth, the Multitude and Bravery of his Forces, and the devoted Affection and Fidelity of all his Subjects. I refused to answer them, letting him know that they were written with too much Presumption, in the Style of Equality, and with inapplicable Professions, which were no better than none. Some of these Letters will appear in the Appendix; the rest were lost.]

It had been intended to begin our Operations with the Attack of Ramnagar, partly because it had been the Scene of our first Disgrace, and principally because the Repossession of the Capital, which would follow the Capture of Ramnagar, would, it was thought, redeem our Credit with the Public, and be deemed equivalent, in the distant Reports of it, to the complete Recovery of our Authority over the Country; as the Existence of a fugitive Chief in the Wilds and Mountains would be little regarded, when he was expelled from the Capital of his Government and the Seat of his Collections. For this Purpose battering Cannon and Mortars were ordered to Major Popham's Camp, and every other Preparative made for a Siege. This caused the Delay of some Days. In the mean Time a Man, named Bundoo Khan, a Native and Inhabitant of the Town of Chunar, gave Information, that as the Rajah's Force was principally collected at Lutteefpoor and Pateeta, and was daily accumulating, it would become exceedingly difficult to dislodge him, if he was allowed to gain too great Strength there by a Process of detailed and consecutive Operations; that the Approaches both to Pateeta and Lutteefpoor were strongly guarded, and especially those of Lutteefpoor, which he described as unassailable, but with a great and certain Loss, on this Side, the only Road to it lying through Pateeta; and even if carried, untenable from the Strength of the Pass behind it, of which the Enemy would keep Possession in Defiance of all our Efforts, and against any Superiority of Numbers. This Pass takes its Name from the adjacent Village of Suckroot. He advised a divided Plan of Attack, to be executed at the same Point of Time; one on the Fort of Pateeta, the other on the Pass of Suckroot; of which our Forces, coming on it by Surprise, it being unguarded and easier of Access from above, might easily obtain Possession, and by that Means gain the same Advantage over the Garrison of Lutteefpoor, as that would have over us, if we first took Possession of the Fort, with the Command of every Road of Communication, if, which he did not doubt, we succeeded against Pateeta. He offered to conduct the Party which should be destined on the Service against the Pass of Suckroot, by a Road unfrequented and unknown, which he described with a minute, and, as it has since appeared, correct Detail. The Confidence with which he spoke, and the Consistency of his Assertions and Reasonings upon them, acquired a great additional Strength from his former recent Conduct. He had accompanied Captain Blair in both Actions of Ramnagur and Pateeta, and had been very serviceable to that Officer by his Knowledge of the Ground, and by his Advice in the Application of it. His Service on both Occasions had been gratuitous; nor did he profess any Motive for that which he now offered, but the Interest and Safety of a large Family, which depended on our Success.

Major Popham at once saw the Propriety of his Advice, and adopted it. The Evening of the 15th was appointed for the first Execution of the Plan; in the mean Time it was concealed with the most profound Secrecy. As a Security for the Fidelity and Steadiness of Bundoo Khan, he had a Promise of a Jagheer in Perpetuity for himself and his Family, if the Enterprize succeeded. This Engagement has been since amply performed. Major Popham formed his Army into Two Divisions, one destined for the more distant Enterprize, and commanded by Major Crabb. It consisted of the 7th Regiment, Major Crabb's, the First Battalion of the 6th Regiment, Lieutenant Polhill's Six Companies of the Nabob's Body Guard, Four Six-Pounders, and a 5  $\frac{1}{2}$  Inch Howitz. These Corps were told off, and began their March about Eleven that Night. Major Popham began his March with the other Division at about Three o'Clock in the Morning to Pateeta.

On his Arrival there, he found the Works much stronger, and the Approach more hazardous, than he had expected from the Description which had been given of the Place. He applied for the Two Battering Cannon and the Mortars, which had been originally intended for the Attack of Ramnagur, and remanded on the Change of Plan. They were sent, but made no Impression, and he resolved, on the Encouragement of a Five Days Experience, and from the Fear of a Delay operating against the other Part of his Plan, to attempt a Storm. This was ordered, and executed on the Morning of the 20th, with an instant and compleat Success. Major Roberts commanded the Storming Party. The Enemy made a slight Stand at the outer Intrenchment, and fled through the Fort, our Men following without Opposition. A slight Attack was made at this Time on our Camp, but repelled with some Loss on the Part of the Enemy, and none on ours. We lost during the Siege Eleven Men killed, besides Ten wounded.

On the same Morning, Major Crabb having conducted his Division through almost impracticable Ways, arrived at a Village called Lora, which lies about Two Miles from the Pass. Here he found a Body of Men, with Three Guns, posted to oppose him: They made a firm Stand, but were defeated with a considerable Loss; ours was Twelve Men of every Denomination killed, and Twenty-two wounded. The Enemy fled through the Pass to Lutteefpoor; our Detachment followed to the Head of the Pass, and there encamped for the Remainder of the Day.

[The News of these concurrent Successes being conveyed to the Rajah at the same Instant of Time, alarmed him exceedingly for his own personal Safety. His Fears were excited with a more forcible Impression, by the Surprise of the Advance of so great a Force from a Quarter where he had not expected any. With his Face turned towards Chunar, and his whole Attention and that of his People directed to the Movements which were made on that Side, they had no Suspicion of any Design being formed behind them. The first Intelligence which was received of Major Crabb's Party, described it as consisting of the Followers of Owlan Sing, and only Three Companies of our Sepoys; the Hircarrahs who conveyed the News possibly mistaking the advanced Guard for the whole Force, and reporting it accordingly; nor was the real Strength of the Party known, even by that which was detached to oppose it, until the Instant of the Action. This Circumstance was related at the Time, and has been since confirmed to me by an Officer, named Myher, who commanded a small Body of the Rajah's Sepoys and the Guns in the Action. No Design could be more judiciously planned, or more happily executed; even the Impediments and Disappointments which attended it, served but to promote the Coincidence of the final Movements of its Operation with so well-timed an Effect, that the Difference of Time which passed between the Engagement at Lora and the Conquest of Pateeta, was little more than that which would be required by the Difference of the Distances of each from Lutteefpoor, for the News of each Success to reach Lutteefpoor at the same Instant.

Cheit Sing instantly prepared for Flight: His Road to Bidjeygur, which was his last Refuge, lay through the Pass, which he durst not attempt. He left Lutteefpoor about Three or Four in the Afternoon, and making a Circuit over the Hills, gained the High Road at the Distance of some Miles beyond the Pass, and proceeded with a few Followers to the Neighbourhood of Bidjeygur. Some others followed and rejoined him; the rest, left without Orders, staid but to plunder the Place, and evacuated it. The Gaung-wallahs, or Militia, composed of the Husbandmen who had been summoned to attend him, all fled to their own Homes. So rapid was the Report of this Event in its Communication, and so decisive in its Effect, that the Fort of Lutteefgur, which lies about Seven or Eight Miles to the Northward of Lutteefpoor, and the Palace of Ramnagur, were evacuated on the same Evening; and the Allegiance of the whole Country restored as completely plenty in the Course of a few Hours, from a State of universal Revolt to its proper Channel, as if it had never departed from it.]

On the next Morning, the 21st, Major Crabb marched through the Pass to Lutteefpoor, and found it abandoned.

On the same Day Major Morda Crawford, with the 28th Regiment of Sepoys, arrived from Diarpoor, and joined the Detachment.

Major Balfour was detached on the Morning of the 22d to Ramnagur, of which he took quiet Possession; no one remained to oppose him.

Being desirous of returning, without Loss of Time, to Banaris, and the Presence of the Nabob Vizeer being more urgently required for the Obol of his Country, we parted on the 25th with every Expression of mutual and real Satisfaction. The annexed Copy of my Letter to the Board, dated the 29th of November, contains the Detail of my Transactions with him*.

On the next Morning I arrived at Ramnagur, and on the 28th returned to my old Quarters at Mahadew Dais's Garden at Banaris.

To quiet the Minds of the People, Proclamations were issued, offering Pardon to all who should peaceably return to their Obedience, excepting the Persons of Cheit Sing and his Brother Soojaun Sing, whom their late rebellious Conduct, and their Rancour manifested to our Nation in the deliberate Murder of our Soldiers, and even defenceless Passengers, who had the Misfortune to fall into their Hands, had precluded from every Title to Lenity. Among the unhappy Sufferers to whom the above Exception alluded, was a Person of the Name of Hooker, who had followed the Occupation of a Dealer in European Wares to our Camps, and had ventured to pass in his Badgerow, a little after the unhappy Affair of Shewallah, near Ramnagur, where he was seized, and, unarmed as he was, and pleading the Innocence of his Profession, murdered in cold Blood. Soojaun Sing had the Command at that Time in Ramnagur. Two Soldiers also of Major Crabb's Detachment having wandered from the Line were taken and murdered at Gopee Gunge. For this Reason that Town was excepted in the Proclamation, and has since been destroyed.

[My first Care, after my Return to Banaris, was to determine the Succession to the Zemeedary and Raue, vacated by the Forfeiture of Cheit Sing. The Right of the Company to the Disposal of it, certainly had not suffered by the past Events. The Territory had been wholly lost to their Dominion, and wholly conquered by their Arms: Yet the rest of the Family who formerly possessed it had not merited, by any Act of theirs, to be involved in the Punishment of a Man who had been equally their Enemy, and whom they had regarded as the Usurper of their more legal Rights; nor perhaps would it have been prudent to have put the Submission of the People to the Test of a new Species of Dominion. I therefore resolved, in virtue of the full Powers which I possessed from the Board for that Purpose, to bestow it on the next lineal Heir. This was Bauboo Mehipnarain. He was the Grandson of Rajah Bulwant Sing, by a Daughter married to Bauboo Doorgbijey Sing. The Widow of Bulwant Sing, named Ranny Goolaub Kooer, was still living, and in an extreme old Age. By the Hindoo Law she might claim the Inheritance. Her Daughter also, the Wife of Doorgbijey Sing, might assert the like Pretension. Had it become a Matter of Contest, I had resolved to leave it to the Decision of the whole Body of the Pundits of Banaris; but this Reference was unnecessary, Doorgbijey Sing yielded up the Pretension of his Wife, and the old Ranny her own, by a Writing sealed with her Name, and acknowledged in the Presence of a confidential Person whom I deputed to her for that Purpose, declaring it to be her Wish and Request, that the Raue might be conferred on her Grandson Mehipnarain. He was accordingly invested, and proclaimed on the 30th of September. His Father Bauboo Doorgbijey Sing was at the same Time invested with the Office of Naib, and is in effect the sole acting Manager. He is about Thirty-five Years of Age, his Son Nineteen.]

I have thought it proper to establish a distinct and independent Magistracy for the Town of Banaris. The Reasons for this Act, the Description of the Office, and of the Officers subordinate to it, are detailed in the subjoined Letter to the Board, dated the 1st of November†. Allee Ibrahim Khan, the Person chosen for this Charge, was duly invested with it on the 20th of October.

On the 5th of November I concluded the Settlement of the Revenue, which was to be paid by Rajah Mehipnarain, being Rs. 33,33,333. 5. 8. for the Current Year, and a perpetual Rent of 40,00,000 Rs. for the future.

The Particulars of this Transaction are contained in my Letter to the Board, dated the 21st November‡.

It has been already mentioned, that soon after my Flight to Chunar, Colonel Muir advised me of Overtures made by Mahdagee Sindia for a separate Peace. I sent to Colonel Muir Credentials and Instructions; and on the 13th of October a Treaty was concluded with Mahdagee Sindia. To confirm and improve the Advantages obtained by it, I deputed Mr. Anderson to Mahdagee Sindia, and at the same Time sent Mr. Chapman, with Bishamber Pundit, on a similar Commission to Moodajee Boofish, the Rajah of Berar. The Particulars of these Transactions, and of my Views relating to them, are contained in the annexed Copies of my Instructions to Colonel Muir, and of my Letter to the Board adjoined, dated the 25th November ||.

The annexed Letter to the Board, dated 22d November, contains also the Circumstances of some new Arrangements made in the Customs †.

On the 8th October, Major Naylor, with the 23d Regiment, having been detached to the Relief of Lieutenant Colonel Hannay, arrived on the Northern Banks of the Dewa, defeated a large Force which had assembled round Colonel Hannay, and entirely dispersed them. The Return of the Nabob soon after effectually restored the Quiet of the Country.

About the same Time a Regiment of Sepoys, under the Command of Major Lucas, defeated and drove Futteh Shah from the District of Sirkar Saurun.

[After having gained Possession of Lutteespoor, Major Popham lost no Time in prosecuting his March to Bidjeygur. Cheit Sing did not wait his Approach, but fled, taking with him as much Treasure as his Elephants and Camels could carry, which has been reported to me to have consisted of One Lack of Mohrs, and Fifteen or Sixteen of Silver *, besides Jewels to an unknown Amount. His Wife, a Woman of an amiable Character, his Mother Pauna, and all the other Women of his Family, and the Survivors of the Family of his Father Bulwant Sing, who were connected with him, were left in the Fort of Bidjeygur. He took the Route of Rewa, and from thence proceeded to Panna, the Capital of Boondelcund, paying and plundered as he passed. He was, by the last Advices, in that Country, the Rajah professing in his Letters to me a Resolution to withdraw his Protection from him, and secretly favouring him.]

The Fortrefs of Bidjeygur surrendered by Capitulation on the 10th of November, yielding to Major Popham the peculiar Credit of having surmounted all the Obstacles which Nature and Art had opposed to the Conquest of Two of the Fortresses of Hindostan, which had been before universally deemed impregnable.

I have now brought my Narrative to its proper Conclusion, at that Point in which all the Movements which form the Subject of it, and all their Objects, appear to have attained their full and complete Termination. I regret the Length to which it has been drawn, and fear that it will appear unreasonable to those who may consider it a Point of Duty to give it a thorough Perusal, and who will scarce fail to reflect, that it contains in Effect the History of but One Month. To myself the Reflection affords a different Sensation, when applied to the Multitude of Events and their Magnitude, comprised within so short an Interval of my publick Life. I have aimed at Brevity, both in the Selection of Facts and in the Narration of them, having omitted every Circumstance, which, though engaging a Portion of my Attention at the Time, had no Connection with the general Train of Events, or Influence on the Character by which they are discriminated from the ordinary Course of Affairs. For the Satisfaction of such as shall have more Patience or Leisure to look into them, I have added as an Appendix, Copies of all the material Papers which have Relation to the Narrative, but which would have increased the Bulk of it, and disturbed the Attention, if inserted in the Body of it.

I have also added Attestations of all the principal Facts and Events, sworn before the Chief Justice, to whose Advice I am obliged for having suggested it. It did not strike my Mind, that Matters of such Notoriety here would require some more authentic Verification of them at Home, than the Recital of the Man whose Reputation is so immediately concerned as mine is in the Judgment which my Superiors, and which the Public at large, will have a Right to form upon it. I am sensible of the Wisdom of the Precaution, and sorry that it was not earlier intimated, that I might have had Time to have collected a larger Fund of Evidence, although I have Reason to be satisfied with the Weight of that which I have obtained. Let it be also remembered, that this Relation itself has been written under the Force of an Obligation as binding as that of an Oath administered and taken in all its legal Forms.

Whatever Judgement may be passed on my particular Conduct, I am yet happy that it has proved the Means of calling forth the inherent Virtue of my Countrymen, and displaying to all the Powers and People of India, both the National Character and the National Constitution, by such Effects as have been unrecorded in their Histories, and are scarce conceivable by their Habits of thinking.

The Suddenness of our Calamities, the Distance of Assistance, the Privation of every present Resource, the manifest Interest which animated and impelled every Corps and every Individual to the Support of the common Cause, and the Rapidity with which they rushed to repel the common Danger, are Facts of universal Observation, and will contribute more effectually to the Permanency of the British Influence and Dominion, than the most splendid Victories obtained over Adversaries of the highest Reputation; because they shew the Harmony which unites all the Parts of our Government, and their augmented Strength under the Compression of external Violence; and will be remembered as a most striking Example, which every Man concerned in its Operations will apply to his own Interests and Feelings, that its greatest and most successful Exertions have arisen out of the most desperate Emergencies, and have fallen, in every such Instance, with the most dreadful Vengeance on the Heads of its Aggressors.

For the Sense which I have entertained of the particular Conduct of the Officers who have distinguished themselves in the late Service, I cannot express myself in stronger Terms than those of the following Extract of my Letter to the Board, dated the 29th of September, and Copy of one dated the 7th of October.

Extract of a Letter from the Governor General to the Board, dated the 29th of September 1781.

" I have forbore any particular Comments in this Place, reserving them, where they will be more properly introduced, for my detailed Narrative. Yet I cannot suppress, without a Violence to my own Feelings, the Testimony which is due, especially from me, to the unexampled Zeal and public Spirit of all our Officers, and the wonderful Activity with which these Qualities were displayed on the late Occasion. I have already acknowledged the early Exertions, which were made by Colonel Blair, during my former short and calamitous Residence at Banaris. Of Major Popham I cannot say sufficient to express my Sense of his Services. Though my Letters were every where intercepted, Colonel Morgan, with a Decision and Solicitude that reflect equal Credit upon his Character, detached Major Crabb with his Party to my Assistance, on the first and instant Rumour of my Situation. Colonel Sir John Cumming, with the like Alacrity obeyed the Order for his March to Khaunpoor; as did Colonel Ahmuty, in the immediate Dispatch of Major Crawford and the Troop of Cavalry. The same Spirit animated every Officer of every Corps, and infused itself into the Men under their Command, with an Effect so far exceeding the common Occurrences of human Affairs, that in the complete Space of One Month, this great and valuable Province, which had been suddenly and wholly lost, was in Substance wholly recovered to the British Empire.

I am,
Sir, &c."

Copy of a Letter from the Governor General to the Board, dated the 7th of October.

" I have had frequent Occasion to express, in public Orders, the highest Approbation of the Zeal, Spirit, and good Conduct exerted by all the Officers and Troops, in all the late Operations for reducing this rebellious Zemedyary to Obedience. Several of the Officers have merited and received particular Thanks by Name; and it would give the greatest Satisfaction to distinguish and reward each Individual in Proportion to his Station and Services. But as no Government is possessed of the Means of such diffusive Recompence, it must be unavoidably confined to those whose elevated Rank or peculiar Situation affords them Opportunities of laying immediate Claim to the more honorary or beneficial Testimonies of public Gratitude. But such Testimonies, whilst they are in Possession of Persons in superior Rank, give Hopes to, and excite the Emulation of, those also who are in the inferior: And thus, by well-timed and judicious Rewards, the Prosperity of the State and the Interests of its Servants are united.

" It is on this Principle that I request Permission to solicit the Consideration of the Board, for an honourable Recompence to the Two Officers who have been first in Rank, and most conspicuous in Services, during the Commotions in this District.

" Lieutenant Colonel Blair, who commanded at Chunargur from the Day of the fatal Catastrophe in this Town, manifested a general Zeal for the public Interests, and for my Safety, above all Considerations for his own. Every Requisition which I made to him was instantly complied with; and he sent me a Reinforcement of a Battalion of Sepoys at a Time when he had the strongest Grounds to believe that an Attack would be made on his own Garrison, which it was incapable of sustaining.

" It is perhaps scarce less meritorious in Colonel Blair, to have not only submitted without repining to the Preference of an inferior Officer to a Command of such Importance within the Limits of his own, but to have assisted and co-operated with that Officer, with as much Alacrity as if the Success was to have redounded to his own Honour.

" This is not the first Occasion on which the Attention of the Board has been called to the distinguished Merit and Services of Major Popham. They have been again most happily exerted in his present Command, for the Safety and Interests of the Company, in a very perilous Situation: I have been, in a Manner, an Eye Witness of them. I wish to express, and to shew, my Sense of them, but I want Language for the first, and Means for the latter.

" As, from the Knowledge which I have of the Characters of Lieutenant Colonel Blair and Major Popham, I am certain that the most honourable Reward will be to them the most acceptable, I beg Leave to propose, that they be promoted by Brevet to the Ranks immediately above those which they at present respectively hold; that is, Lieutenant Colonel Blair to the Rank of Colonel, and Major Popham to the Rank of Lieutenant Colonel.

" This Preferment, whilst it is an honourable Distinction to these Officers, cannot be deemed an Injury to their Seniors, as their Promotion will not be thereby retarded: They may be always employed on separate Service, and their Rank will not be affected, when they rise in the regular Course of Succession.

" The Company owe so much to the eminent Services of Major Popham, that I may think it incumbent upon me, at a future Period, to recommend him to their further Consideration.

" Whilst I bestow the just Tribute of Praise due to those Officers who acted upon the Spot, I should be guilty of an unpardonable Neglect, and even Injustice, if I omitted to express my Sense of equal Approbation of the Conduct of others more remote.

" Colonel Morgan, on the first Intelligence which reached him of my Situation, and without waiting for official Information or Authority, in the true Spirit of an able and zealous Officer, detached a very considerable Portion of his Brigade, and all the Supplies of Provisions which he could procure.

" Colonel Sir John Cumming likewise moved with the utmost Diligence and Alacrity, on receiving an Order to occupy the Station of Khaunpoor, in the Room of the Second Brigade. He marched with his whole Force in Fifteen Hours after receiving the Orders, and reached Khaunpoor in Four Days; himself, Officers, and Troops, cheerfully making their utmost Efforts in the common Cause.

" Such have been the spirited and judicious Exertions of your Officers and Troops in Support of the Company's most valuable Rights and Possessions, of the Dignity of their Government, and of the Honour and Safety of their Chief Magistrate: A Conduct which manifests the strongest Attachment and Affection on their Parts, and implies an Observance of Justice and Regard to the Prosperity and Happiness of those who are placed under our Authority, on ours. These are Circumstances which will always afford me the most pleasing Reflections, notwithstanding the Calamities which have produced them.

" Chunar,
1st December 1781.

I have the Honour to be, &c.

P O S T S C R I P T.

I have divided the Appendix into Two Parts; the First consists of Papers which contain my Transactions on Points which are foreign from the immediate Subject of the Narrative, and which having been already separately detailed in Letters addressed to the Board, I have preferred this Method of annexing them to it, having referred to them in the proper Order of their Dates in the Narrative. To these I have added a Letter from the Resident at the Court of the Nabob Vizeer, comprising a distinct Narrative of the Rebellion in the Pergunnahs of Goorukpoor and Bareech, and in the City of Fyzabad, in the Dominions of the Nabob of Owd.

The Second Part contains official Letters and other Papers, which form a connected Series of the Events and Proceedings recorded in the Narrative.

In this printed Copy I have, for the Sake of Method, entitled the Series of Affidavits the Third Part of the Appendix.

Letter to the Governor General and Council, dated the 29th of November 1781, respecting the Governor General's Agreement with the Vizeer.

To Edward Wheler and John Macpherson, Esquires, Members of the Council of Fort William.

Gentlemen,

I must have Recourse to your Indulgence, on the Occasion of every Report of Importance, for the Delay in transmitting it. Many are the Causes of these Delays, which I need not enumerate, as I am myself the principal Sufferer by them: Indeed I am almost tempted to say, that I find a Sufficiency for the Occupation of each Day in the Evil thereof, and in a Thousand little Occurrences, less known in a regular Process of Business, which exact their Share of Attention, and pass without any substantial Effect. It was for this principal Reason, that I have again shifted my Residence from Banaris to this Place, where I shall hope for more Leisure to bring up a long Arrears of Business, than it would have been possible for me to have cleared if I had continued there.

I have now to inform you of my Transactions with the Nabob Vizeer, during his short Stay at Chunar: These are comprised in the enclosed Papers, viz *.

N<sup>o</sup> 1. Articles of Agreement concluded with the Nabob Vizeer.

1. A and B. Explanation of the above Articles.
2. Agreement of the Nabob Vizeer.
3. Reasons for the above Agreement.
4. My Instructions to the Resident.
5. Orders issued in consequence of the Agreement.

The following are added as explanatory of the foregoing.

6. Estimate of the temporary Brigade.
7. Establishment and Estimate of the Charges of the Nabob Vizeer's Arsenal.
8. Establishment and Estimate of the Expences of Three Battalions of Sepoys, under the Command of Lieutenant Colonel Hannay.
9. Establishment and Estimate of the Expences of the Nabob Vizeer's Body Guard.
10. Establishment and Estimate of Two Battalions of Sepoys, under the Command of Captain Osborne, now of Major Clark.
11. Estimate of the general Disbursements made by Mr. Wombwell, Paymaster and Auditor of British Troops in the Service of the Nabob Vizeer.

I have alluded to the general Reasons which have prevented me from transmitting the Reports of my Proceedings to the Board with Punctuality. I am obliged to add a special Cause for the present Instance; which is, that the Resident having carried with him all the authentic Papers relating to this Business to Lucknow, I have since waited both for them and for the preceding Estimates, which are yet incomplete, though sufficient for general Elucidation.

To the Copy of the Articles of Agreement, N<sup>o</sup> 1. I have added the Papers N<sup>o</sup> 1. A, B, C. which will fully explain my Reasons for the several Articles; and to these I beg Leave to refer you. Upon the Whole, generally, I have only to observe further, that the Agreement was drawn up from a Series of Requisitions presented to me by the Nabob, to whom I was happy in the Occasion of making such a Return for the uncommon Instance of Fidelity and Attachment which he had recently shewn to our Government, by an instant and unqualified Assent to each Article. This was done verbally in his Presence. And in like Manner I requested and obtained his Acquiescence in the short Condition which followed mine. I considered the Subjects of his Requests as essential to the Reputation of our Government, and no less to our Interest than his; and if the Resident performs his Duty in the Execution of my Instructions, the Nabob's Part of the Engagement, by a singular Inversion of their Purposes, in both Instances will prove of still greater Benefit to him than to our Government, on whose Behalf it was exacted.

Chunar,
29th November 1781.

I have the Honour to be,
with the greatest Esteem,
Gentlemen,
Your most obedient Servant,
Warren Hastings.

* These Enclosures were originally distinguished by the above Marks; only the Four First are here inserted and immediately follow this Letter, with Marks corresponding to the Catalogue. The Rest are of little Consequence, and are omitted.

Copy of the Agreement concluded by the Governor General with the Vizeer, on the 19th of September 1781.

The Nabob Vizeer ul Mummalick Affof ud Dowlah Affof Jah Yeheyah Khan Behader, having repeatedly and urgently represented, that he is unable to support the Expences of the temporary Brigade, Cavalry, and English Officers, with their Battalions, as well as other Gentlemen, who are now paid by him under the Denomination of Sebundy, &c. &c. and having made sundry Requests to that and other Purposes; and as the Constancy and Firmness of his Alliance with the Company entitle him to every Consideration and Relief that may depend upon us; I Warren Hastings Governor General, Imaud ud Dowlah Jelladit Jung Behader, &c. &c. on Behalf of the Governor General and Council, have agreed to the under-mentioned Articles, this 19th Day of September, in the Year of our Lord 1781, corresponding to the last Day of Ramzan 1195 of the Hidjeree.

1st. That the temporary Brigade and Three Regiments of Cavalry, be no longer charged to the Nabob's Account for the Year Fussilee 1189, excepting a Term of Two and an Half Months, which is required for their passing the Nabob's Boundaries; and for which, together with all former Arrears, their usual Pay and Allowances are to be made good: Also the English Officers, with their Sebundy Battalions, and other Gentlemen, excepting the Resident's Office, now upon the Nabob's List, be no longer at his Charge for the Year 1189; the Arrears being paid up with the Addition of Two Months Allowances. The true Meaning of this being, that no more Troops be paid for by the Nabob than the Number of European Infantry, Artillery, and Sepoys agreed for, under the Title of One Brigade, with the late Nabob Shujah ud Dowlah, now paid for at the Rate of 2,60,000 Rupees per Month; to which is now to be added, One Regiment of Sepoys of the present Establishment, expressly allowed for the Purpose of protecting the Office, Treasury, and Person of the Resident at Lucknow; the Pay and Allowances of which are to commence from the 1st of Aughun next, at the Rate of Rupees 25,000 per Month. The Regiment to be relieved every Three Months. The Brigade to be stationed or moved wherever the Nabob shall direct, in the Mode prescribed in the former Treaty with the Nabob Vizeer deceased. And finally, That whenever the Nabob Vizeer shall require a further Aid of Troops from the Company, the Pay and Allowances shall commence from the Day of their passing the Carumnassa. Also, should the Assistance of the Nabob's Troops be required by the Company, their Pay and Allowances, as may then be agreed upon, be allowed during the Time they may serve.

2d. That as great Distress has arisen to the Nabob's Government from the Military Power and Dominion assumed by the Jagheerdars, he be permitted to resume such as he may find necessary, with a Reserve, that all such for the Amount of whose Jagheers the Company are Guarantees, shall, in case of the Resumption of their Lands, be paid the Amount of their net Collections, through the Resident, in ready Money.

3d. That as Fyz-Ooalla Khan has, by his Breach of Treaty, forfeited the Protection of the English Government, and causes, by his Continuance in his present independent State, great Alarm and Detriment to the Nabob, he be permitted, when Time shall suit, to resume his Lands, and pay him in Money, through the Resident, the Amount stipulated by Treaty, after deducting the Amount and Charges of the Troops he stands engaged to furnish by Treaty; which Amount shall be passed to the Account of the Company during the Continuance of the present War.

4th. That no English Resident be appointed to Furruckabad, and the present one recalled.

5th. That the Treaties made between the English and the Nabob Shujah ud Dowlah be ratified between the present Parties, as far as may be consistent with the above-written Articles; and that no Officers, Troops, or others, be put upon the Nabob's Establishment, exclusive of those herein stipulated.

WARREN HASTINGS.

Minute of the Governor General explanatory of his Agreement with the Vizeer.

Art. 1. That the temporary Brigade and the Regiments of Cavalry be no longer charged to the Nabob's Account for the Year Fussilee 1189, excepting a Term of Two and an Half Months, which is required for their passing the Nabob's Boundaries,

1. The Introduction to the Agreement contains Reasons in Support of this Article, which are incontrovertible. The Vizeer declares, That he is absolutely unable to defray the Expence of these Troops. This Plea alone, if the Fact be admitted, will be allowed to be conclusive. But the Vizeer urges an additional Claim daries, and for which, together with all former Arrears, their usual Pay and Allowances are to be made good. Also the English Officers with their Sebundy Battalions, and other Gentlemen, excepting the Resident's Office, now upon the Nabob's List, be no longer at his Charge for the Year 1183, the Arrears being paid up with the Addition of Two Months Allowances: The true Meaning of this being, that no more Troops be paid for by the Nabob than the Number of European Infantry, Artillery, and Sepoys agreed for, under the Title of One Brigade, with the late Nabob Shujah ud Dowlah, now paid for at the Rate of 2,60,000 Rupees per Month, to which is now to be added One Regiment of Sepoys of the present Establishment, expressly allowed for the Purpose of protecting the Office, Treasury, and Person of the Resident at Lucknow; the Pay and Allowances of which are to commence from the 1st of Aughun next, at the Rate of Rupees 25,000 per Month. The Regiment to be relieved every Three Months. The Brigade to be stationed or moved wheresoever the Nabob shall direct, in the Mode prescribed in the former Treaty with the Nabob Vizeer deceased. And finally, That whenever the Nabob Vizeer shall require a further Aid of Troops from the Company, the Pay and Allowances shall commence from the Day of their passing the Carumnassa. Also, should the Assistance of the Nabob's Troops be required by the Company, their Pay and Allowances, as may then be agreed upon, be allowed during the Time they may serve.

Claim to this Indulgence, and to every other in the Power of our Government to shew him, from the Fidelity and Attachment which he has invariably manifested to the Company, and which was remarkably exemplified in the late alarming Conjunction, when every Art was employed to shake his Constancy, and to engage him in Measures which would have been productive of the most fatal Consequences.

These Arguments, though confined to the Rights and Interests of the Nabob, will be allowed a complete Justification of this Engagement: But I have others to offer in Support of it, affecting with equal Force the Interests and Security of the Company. To whatever Causes it may be attributed, it is certain that we do not at present reap those Advantages which we promised ourselves, and which we at first derived, from the Institution of the temporary Brigade. The actual Disbursements of it have fallen upon our own Funds; and we support a Body of Troops, established solely for the Defence of the Nabob's Possessions, at our own Expence. It is true, that we charge the Nabob with this Expence; but the large Balance already due from him, shews too justly the little Prospect there was of disengaging ourselves from a Burthen which was daily adding to our Distresses, and must soon become insupportable, although it were granted that the Nabob's Debt thus suffered to accumulate might at some future Period be liquidated. Our immediate Wants are too pressing, and our Means of supplying them too limited, to admit of such a Drain from our Funds, as is caused by the current Disbursements of the temporary Brigade; and their Recall, on that Ground alone, would be indispensable. In short, the Existence of this Corps added considerably to a Debt which might never be realized, and intolerably to our current Expences. The Dissolution of it, in an economical Light, will advance one great Object of my Journey, which was to obtain instant Relief to our pecuniary Distresses, which this Measure will substantially effect as soon as the Reduction of the Corps withdrawn from the Stations of Futtehgur and Daranagur takes place.

Should the Nabob find his own Strength unequal to the Defence of his remote Dominions, and again require our Aid for that Purpose, we shall have a Right to prescribe our own Terms, and may secure the certain and regular Payment of the Troops, instead of receiving a fallacious Credit, and making the actual Expenditure our own.

Norwithstanding the great Benefit which the Company would have derived from such an Augmentation of their Military Force as these Troops constituted, ready to act on any Emergency, prepared and disciplined without any Charge on the Company, as the Institution professed, until their actual Services should be required, I have observed some Evils growing out of the System, which in my Opinion more than counterbalanced those Advantages, had they been realized in their fullest Effect: The remote Stations of those Troops placing the Commanding Officers beyond the Notice and Controul of the Board, afforded too much Opportunity and Temptation for unwarrantable Emoluments, and excited the Contagion of Peculation and Rapacity throughout the whole Army. A most remarkable and incontrovertible Proof of the Prevalence of this Spirit, has been seen in the Court Martial upon Captain Erskine; where the Court, composed of Officers of Rank and respectable Characters, unanimously and and honorably, most honorably, acquitted him, upon an acknowledged Fact, which, in Times of stricter Discipline, would have been deemed a Crime deserving the severest Punishment.

In a political View, the Removal of these Stations will be of important Advantage, by contracting our Frontier, and adding to our interior Security and Defence.

I request that the Board will take these Arguments into their serious Consideration, and, if they are pleased to allow them that Weight which they have had in actuating my Conduct, that they will consult the Commander in Chief upon the Reduction and Distribution to be made of the Corps in question, that they may not remain an unnecessary Burthen upon our Funds; and upon such a Disposition of the Army in general as may be suitable to our present and future Situation in every probable Variation of it, both foreign and domestic.

With respect to the Removal of the Company's Servants, Civil and Military, from the Court and Service of the Vizeer, I was actuated solely by Motives of Justice to him, and a Regard to the Honour of our national Character. In removing those Gentlemen, I diminish my own Influence, as well as that of my Colleagues, by narrowing the Line of Patronage; and I expose myself to Obloquy and Resentment from those who are immediately affected by the Arrangement, and the long Train of their Friends and powerful Patrons. But their Numbers, their Influence, and the enormous Amount of their Salaries, Pensions, and Emoluments, were an intolerable Burthen on the Revenues and Authority of the Vizeer, and exposed us to the Envy and Resentment of the whole Country, by excluding the native Servants and Adherents of the Vizeer from the Rewards of their Services and Attachment.

Art. 2. That, as great Distress has arisen to the Nabob's Government from the military Power and Dominion assumed by the Jagheerdars, he be permitted to resume such as he may find necessary; with a Reserve, that all such for the Amount of whose Jagheers the Company are Guarantees, shall, in case of the Resumption of their Lands, be paid the Amount of their net Collections, through the Resident, in ready Money:

2. The Mischiefs to which the Nabob is exposed, from permitting a Number of rich independent Estates, supporting a Body of military Tenants, to be maintained in the Heart of the Country, are of the same Nature which we have recently experienced from the enormous Wealth and Influence of Rajah Cheit Sing; and in fact, the Nabob did experience them also, and at the same Time, and from the same Causes.

The Jagheers possessed by the Begums have enabled them to give frequent Disturbance to the Nabob's Government; and it can be well attested that they principally excited and supported the late Commotions in Gooruckpoor, &c. in Concert with Cheit Sing, and that they carried their Inveteracy to the Nabob and the English Nation so far, as to aim at our utter Extirpation. By a Despotism so malignant, and a Conduct so offensive, and even dangerous to our Existence, as have been manifested by the Begums, without the smallest Injury or Provocation on our Parts, they have forfeited all Claim to that Protection which we afforded them, in exacting from the Nabob, at the Time that Mr. Bristow assisted him in obtaining 30 Lacks of Rupees from them, a Promise to our Government that those Ladies should enjoy full Possession of their Jagheers unmolested. We have a Right to withdraw this Protection when they are no longer worthy of it, and to provide against their Machinations by a Concession of that Pledge which afforded them the Means of injuring and distressing us.

The Begums will suffer no actual Loss by the Resumptions of the Jagheers, except of an Influence which which they have invariably employed to the most pernicious Purposes against one State which had conferred, and another which secured and protected them, since it is stipulated that they shall receive the Amount of the net Collections of them in Money by the Hands of our Resident.

These Arguments will apply to the Situation of all the other Jagheerdars, though they may not to their actual Conduct, or Dispositions; but as we are neither engaged for their Possessions, nor have any immediate Connection with them, the Nabob should be left to the Exercise of his own Authority and Pleasure respecting them.

Art. 3. That as Fyz-Oolla Khan has, by his Breach of Treaty, forfeited the Protection of the English Government, and causes, by his Continuance in his present independant State, great Alarm and Detriment to the Nabob, he be permitted, when Time shall suit, to resume his Lands, and pay him in Money, through the Resident, the Amount stipulated by Treaty, after deducting the Amount and Charges of the Troops he stands engaged to furnish by Treaty; which Amount shall be passed to the Account of the Company during the Continuance of the present War.

3. The Conduct of Fyz-Oolla Khan, in refusing the Aid demanded, though not an absolute Breach of Treaty, was evasive and uncandid. The Demand was made for 5,000 Cavalry. The Engagement in the Treaty is literally for 5,000 Horse and Foot. Fyz-Oolla Khan could not be ignorant that we had no Occasion for any Succours of Infantry from him, and that Cavalry could be of the most essential Service: So scrupulous an Attention to literal Expression, when a more liberal Interpretation would have been highly useful and acceptable to us, strongly marks his unfriendly Disposition, though it may not impeach his Fidelity, and leaves him little Claim to any Exertions from us for the Continuance of his Jagheers. But I am of Opinion, that neither the Vizeer's nor the Company's Interests would be promoted by depriving Fyz-Oolla Khan of his Independency; and I have therefore reserved the Execution of this Agreement to an indefinite Term, and our Government may always interpose to prevent any ill Effects from it.

Art. 4. That no English Resident be appointed to Furruckabad, and the present one recalled.

4. I was glad to acquiesce in this Article, as it met my own Wishes of freeing the Nabob Muzuffer Jung from that unwarrantable and oppressive Restraint which he has so long endured from the Usurpations of the Court of Lucknow, and from which he has long and unsuccessfully solicited Relief of our Government. It was a Subject of Difficulty and Delicacy for us to interpose in Favour of Muzuffer Jung's Rights, invaded by the Vizeer; but in permitting a Resident at Furruckabad, for the express Purpose of receiving the Assignments on that Country, transferred to us by the Vizeer, we publicly avowed and gave Sanction to all the Injustice and Injury complained of against the Servants of the Nabob, and opened a Door for new ones against our own.

The Removal of Mr. Shee is an Example which I have recommended to the Nabob to imitate; to leave Muzuffer Jung in the uncontrolled Exercise of his Authority over the small Remains of his Country; and, if that little must be still subject to a Tribute, that he may collect and pay that Tribute himself.

Copy of the Agreement made by the Vizeer with the Governor General.

I having on my Behalf agreed to the Requisitions of the Nabob Vizeer, without Diminution or Reserve, I must now repeat the Request, which I before verbally made to him, that he will be pleased to attend to such Proposals as I shall have to make to him; and to these I expect his Assent the more readily, as they have for their ultimate Object his Interest alone, that of the Company being no further concerned than in the Influence which they will eventually have in the Payment of the Debt due from the Nabob to the Company. I therefore recommend to him to reduce the great Number of his Sebundy and other Troops to regular and complete Establishments; not to be paid by Assignments of Revenue, but in Money from the Treasury; and their Number not to exceed the certain Means of paying them. But as this may be difficult, without making a Separation of the Nabob's public and private Funds, I further recommend, that he receive into his private Purse no more than a fixed Monthly Sum for the Expences of his Person and Household; and that the Remainder of the net Collections be left in a public Treasury, under the Management of his public Ministers, and the Inspection of the Resident, for the Discharge of his Military and Civil Disbursements.

This Advice is not meant to affect the Assignments actually made, and which must be annually renewed for the Payment of the past Debt, and the current Demands of the Company.

Signed and Sealed by the Nabob, accepting and promising to conform to the above Advice.

Minute explanatory of the Agreement made by the Vizeer with the Governor General.

Having on my Behalf agreed to the Requisitions of the Nabob Vizeer, without Diminution or Reserve, I must now repeat the Request which I before verbally made to him, that he will be pleased to attend to such Proposals as I shall have to make to him; and to these I expect his Assent the more readily, as they have for their ultimate Object his Interest alone, that of the Company being no further concerned than in the Influence which they will eventually have in the Payment of the Debt due from the Nabob to the Company. I therefore recommend to him to reduce the great Number of his Sebundy and other Troops to regular and complete Establishments; not to be paid by Assignments of Revenue, but in Money from the Treasury, and their Number not to exceed the certain Means of paying them. But as this may be difficult, without making a Separation of the Nabob's public and private Funds, I further recommend, that he receive into his private Purse no more than a fixed Monthly Sum for the Expences of his Person and Household; and that the Remainder of the net Collections be left in a public Treasury, under the Management of his public Ministers, and the Inspection of the Resident, for the Discharge of his Military and Civil Disbursements.

This Advice is not meant to affect the Assignments actually made, and which must be annually renewed, for the Payment of the past Debt, and the current Demands of the Company.

In this single Requisition, which I have made to the Nabob, I have consulted his Ease, Dignity, and Advantage, as much as the Security of the Company's Property, which is at present, or may be hereafter, in his Hands.

The Numbers and licentious Spirit of the Vizeer's Sebundy and other Troops, without Discipline or Obedience to Command, irregularly paid, and that by the worst Mode, Assignments on the Collections, were disgraceful to the Authority, and dangerous to the Security of the Vizeer, and an intolerable Grievance to the Country.

By reducing this disorderly and useless Rabble, and forming a new Establishment, to be well appointed and commanded, and punctually paid in Money, he will have an Army creditable in Appearance, effectual in Service, protecting instead of distressing his Country, and at a great Saving of Expence.

The latter Part of this Requisition is equally calculated for the Honour and Interest of the Vizeer: To discriminate his Disbursements; to make a separate Provision for each Branch of Expenditure, and limit those for his Household and private Expences to a specific Sum, will introduce Order and Regularity into the Accounts, and enable the Ministers to ascertain and make an early Provision for Deficiencies; and the Participation which is allowed our Resident, in the Inspection of the public Treasure, will secure the Receipts of the Company's Demands; whilst the Influence which our Government will always possess over the public Ministers of the Nabob, and the Authority over their own, will be an effectual Means of securing an attentive and faithful Discharge of their several Trusts, both towards the Company and the Vizeer.

Second Minute of the Governor General, containing his Answers to possible Objections to be made against the several Parts of his Agreement with the Vizeer.

In a great public Measure, constituted on a large and established System, and destructive in its instant Effect of the Interests and Fortunes of many patronized Individuals, I have no Claim to an Exemption from the common Lot of all Innovators; but must expect that Share of Reproach which the Disappointment of some, the Malevolence of others, the general Proneness to Suspicion which prevails in the Bulk of Mankind, and a Difference of Opinion even in the most candid, may lay in Store for me. I think it therefore not sufficient to have displayed the Motives of my Conduct, and the Good which may result from it; but shall proceed to state all the Objections which may be made to it, with my Answer to each. Even this Precaution is liable to its peculiar Objection; to the Charge of a Consciousness of Error, too readily anticipating the Imputation of it, and implying its Existence; and it will be said on this, as it has been said on a thousand and similar Occasions, that the Defects which I have thus supposed, must have had some Ground for them, or they would not have occurred as such to myself, against an Act of my own, nor excited so uncommon an Eagerness to refute them. To this I reply, That there is no Proposition, which the Wit of Man can devise, which the Wit of Man cannot find plausible, and perhaps even just, Cause to censure, by a false or partial Review of it; and I of all Men may be allowed to dread this Treatment, after having invariably experienced it in every Instance of my public Life.

I shall proceed as above to state the Objections in one Column, and the Answers to them in the opposite.

To the first Article it may be objected; 1st, That while Troubles were gathered and collecting all round us, it was unsafe and imprudent to lessen our Force in the distant Provinces. 2dly, That the internal Safety of the Nabob Vizeer's Dominions will not admit of our immediately withdrawing our Officers from his Service. 3dly, That the temporary Brigade was an Addition to our military Strength, and, if reformed, we should become proportionably weaker. 4thly, That if drawn into our own Provinces, we shall continue indeed equal in Strength, and perhaps stronger; but we incur an additional Expence; and from what Funds is this Expence to be defrayed, our Revenues in Bengal being unequal to the Expences already chargeable upon them?

The Injury sustained by Individuals withdrawn from the Nabob Vizeer's Service, is not likely to be made a public or avowed Objection; but as a private one, it will operate with more Force against the Author of it, than any that can affect the State alone.

To these Objections I shall reply, with a Reference to their numerical Order.

1st. This Argument was much stronger when it was first suggested against the Measure actually depending; when we were engaged in a War with Mahdajee Sindia near our own Borders; when the War in the Carnatic wore so unfavourable an Appearance as to portend the Union of the whole Marattah State and other Powers against us; when a sudden Rebellion had deprived us of every Foot of Land in this Province, and the Contagion had involved the whole Province of Oud in a similar Defection, and was spreading to the Douab and Rohilcund; and when even our own Province of Behar was ready for an Insurrection, without any present Means of Defence.

These Objections I saw and felt in their fullest Force; but I knew, or believed I knew, that with the Suppression of the Rebellion in this Province, every other Evil would be instantly dissipated; that if this was not instantly suppressed, the Disorders would so multiply and gather Strength around us, that neither our Military Strength, nor Resources of Wealth, would suffice to oppose them; and in that desperate State we should require the Exertion of our whole Force in our own Defence, which we had no Right, without a Violation of publick Faith, and even of common Honesty, to withdraw from the Nabob Vizeer's equally pressing Wants, while he paid for it. With respect to the War with Mahdajee Sindia, the same Troops that were then opposed to him would continue of course opposed to him if the War continued; nor could we spare more for other Diversions, if the Nabob Vizeer's Claim to the exclusive Use of the temporary Brigade continued. Thus it will appear, that by withdrawing the temporary Brigade, our Force was not lessened, but in Effect augmented, in the distant Provinces; which is a clear Answer to the Objection.

2dly. This is not our Concern, if the Nabob, whose it is, affirms the contrary: and though it may eventually affect us, we should be less liable to suffer by a remote Contingency, than by the immediate Privation or Dissipation of our own Troops, employed in Anticipation of possible Evils affecting us through him, while our own Exigencies immediately demanded their Exertions. But in Truth, I much suspect the Position; having been too much accustomed to the Tales of hostile Preparations and impending Invasions, against all the Evidence of political Probability, to regard them as other than Phantoms raised for the Purpose of perpetuating or multiplying Commands. Who are the Invaders of the Doab and Rohilcund? Not the Marattahs; they are fully occupied in the Defence of their own Territories: Not the Sicks; they are engaged with Nudjiff Khan in an unequal War: And Nudjiff Khan, with foreign Concerns, with domestic Intrigues, and the Habits of late-acquired Sloth, and an unwieldy, unpaid, and licentious Army, can have little Leisure or Inclination to embroil himself in new Difficulties

PART I.

Difficulties by a War with the Vizeer and the English.

The 3d Objection I have answered in my Reply to the First.

The 4th I have anticipated in my Enumeration of the Reasons for withdrawing the temporary Brigade; and have shewn, that in respect to the present Time, our certain Means and current Wants, we gain nothing by a Credit in Account for a Charge which is unavoidably our own while the Corps subsists, and which we can only lessen by a Reduction of the Corps itself.

To the 5th I answer, from the Discharge of the Vizeer's Debt to the Company, which the Reduction of his Expences, the Resumption of the Jagheers, and the Improvements recommended in his Administration, ought, and I have no Doubt will, afford him ample Means of discharging.

The last Objection is independent of Reason, which few Men are pleased to admit against their own Interests, their Connections, or the Pride of Patronage. I have acted with the strictest Impartiality. I have spared no Friend of my own, or of my Friends, but have dealt with equal Rigour to all; the Times would not suffer me to dissipate the Benefits of my public Influence to Individuals, and at the same Time provide for the public Wants. I was compelled to make my Choice, and in preferring the latter I have made a light Sacrifice of my own personal Ease to the Safety of the Public, and to my own involved in it. This was the sole Motive that I had, or could have, in it.

Few Objections can be made to the Second Article. It may be suggested, 1st, that it will excite Clamour and Discontent, which in the present Time may be dangerous; and 2dly, that it will be, in a principal Instance, a Breach of our Faith, which is pledged to guarantee a Treaty concluded, through the Means of Mr. Bristow, between the Nabob Vizeer and the Nabob Allea Begum, his Mother; in which it is stipulated, that no subsequent Claim should be made on her Property, or Invasion of her Rights.

To the Third Article I have already stated, answered, and obviated, the only Objection that can be made to it.

Objection to the Fourth Article: That this Condition might more properly have been exacted by Mozuffer Jung than Assof-ud-Dowlah; and that by proceeding from the latter, who is already supposed to have oppressed the former, it may appear as if he was desirous of removing all Check to his Oppressions.

2d. No Effects of any additional Clamour and Discontent, excited by the Resumption of the Jagheers, could exceed those of their actual Defection; and the Begum herself had forfeited all Pretension to the Benefit of the Treaty executed for her Behalf, by having been the first Mover and most busy Actor of the Sedition.

4th. If the Nabob Mozuffer Jung must endure Oppression, and I dare not at this Time propose his total Relief, it concerns the Reputation of our Government to remove our Participation in it. It is a Fact, that Mr. Shee's Authority over the Territory of Furruckabad is in itself as much subversive of that of its lawful Ruler as that of the Vizeer's. Aumils ever was; and is the more oppressive, as the Power from which it is derived is greater. It is a Fact, that the Nabob Mozuffer Jung is equally urgent with the Nabob Vizeer for the Removal of our Resident; and it is my Care, that his Servitude shall not be transferred, if I can help it. The Imbecility of Mozuffer Jung, and the distracted State of his Affairs, will not admit of his being left in the uncontrouled Management of them. He must be in a State of Pupilage to some one; and it is my Desire that a proper Guardian may be selected for him, from the ancient Dependants of his Family. This was too delicate a Matter to be made the positive Article of a Convention, and may be better converted to its professed Purposes, by the mutual good Understanding which subsists between the Nabob Vizeer and myself, than by a formal Obligation, which it would have been difficult to apply to any precise and determined Point.

The great Objection to the Fifth Article has been answered in the Answer to the last Objection on the First: It may indeed be asked as a further Objection, why we are so scrupulous about Appointments made by our Recommendation, when the Nabob himself is, by the same Agreement, precluded from appointing his own Military Commanders without the Concurrence of the English Resident?

5th. The Difference is infinitely wide between a positive and a negative Recommendation; and the Right of the latter is confined to the Resident alone as a Point of official Duty. If he abuses it, it is at his Peril, and the Nabob has a ready Appeal, and the Encouragement of Experience to expect Redress from such Appeal, on a just Occasion. The Truth is, that the Necessity of the Reservation arose from a too well known Defect in the Nabob's Character. If he shall make Choice of Men of Character and Rank for the Command of Posts in his Army, the Resident has no Right to exercise the Privilege which the Nabob has yielded to him, on the Plea that there are other Men better qualified. If this Check be withdrawn, and the Choice left absolutely to the Nabob, the first Commands in his Army will be filled by the most worthless and abandoned of his Subjects. His late Commander in Chief is a signal and scandalous Instance of this.

Letter of Instructions from the Governor General to the Resident at the Vizeer's Court.

To Mr. Nathaniel Middleton, Resident at the Court of the Nabob Vizeer.

Sir,

Having on the 19th instant entered into certain Engagements with the Nabob Vizeer, tending to relieve his Finances of a Burthen they were no longer able to sustain, with sundry other Clauses, the Execution of which is intrusted to you, I herewith inclose an authentic Copy of the same, for your Guidance. The Nabob, on his Behalf, has subscribed and sealed an Agreement in your Presence, and in the Presence of Mr. Richard Johnson and Hyder Beg Khan, respecting the better Administration of his Affairs; of which I also transmit you an authentic Copy.

To these Papers, and to the Points consequently and necessarily dependent on them, I think it necessary to add the following Instructions, to which I require your most implicit Obedience.

I need scarcely inform you, that my chief Object in my Negotiations with the Nabob has been to induce and assist him to bring his Government and Finances into such Regularity, as to prevent his Alliance from being a Clog instead of an Aid to the Company, and to enable him to discharge his Debt in the shortest Time possible. To this End, the most essential Point is to limit and separate his personal Disbursements from the public Accounts. They must not, in their total annual Amount, exceed what he has received in any of the last Three Years. This Amount, in Twelve equal Parts, should be paid him Monthly out of the First Receipts, and the Remainder of the net Collections placed separately in a public Treasury, from whence his Public Military and Civil Establishment must be paid, under the sole Management and Controul of the Ministers, with your Concurrence. It is of course to be understood that this has no Connection, and is in no Shape to interfere with the Company's Assignments, and the Collections upon them, which are to be conducted as usual: And as by the Addition of the Jagheer Lands, with their Revenues, to the Nabob's regular Collections, his Income will, or ought to be, considerably increased, I shall expect that the Whole of the Excess be appropriated to the Discharge of the Nabob's Debt to the Company.

After settling the Amount of the personal Disbursements of the Nabob Vizeer and his Household, the next Point that will require your Exertions towards the general Arrangement of the public Charges, is to reform the established Muttaiena Troops, reducing them into One established Corps for the whole Service. If this Corps should be brought to consist solely of Cavalry, it would best answer mutual Benefit: leaving no Infantry in the Nabob's Service but what may be necessary for his Body Guard; and to supply the Deficiency, should any occur from such Arrangement, our Infantry may be employed where Infantry are wanted.

The Corps reformed and established, their Pay must be issued from the public Treasury. No Assignments to be in future granted them, and those already issued to be recalled. To complete this, all Numbers above what the real Service may require, or the actual net Receipts may be adequate to the full Payment of, must be disbanded as fast as their Arrears can be paid off.

The

PART I.

The Nabob will select and appoint his own Commanders; but if he should nominate improper Persons, such as Men commonly known by the Name of Orderlies, or others deriving their Influence from them, or of known Disaffection to our Government, you are in such Case to remonstrate against it; and if the Vizeer shall persist in his Choice, you are peremptorily, and in my Name, to oppose it, as a Breach of his Agreement.

For the Management of the Collections, the Ministers, with your Concurrence, are to choose all Aumils and Collectors, and in their Choice to be guided by the Responsibility, good Reputation, and known Ability of the Persons they elect, that Charges may, as far as possible, be avoided.

Much is to be said, though little may now suit, upon the Subject of the Distribution of Justice in the Nabob's Dominions. For the present, I limit myself to direct you to urge the Nabob to endeavour gradually, if it cannot be done at once, to establish Courts of Adaulut throughout his Districts; the Darogahs, Mowlavies, and other Officers of which must be selected, as in the Case of the Aumils, by the Ministers, with your Concurrence. The Want of these Courts is equally hurtful to the Revenue, Government, and Reputation of the Nabob.

In consequence of the Disturbances which the rebellious Example of Rajah Cheit Sing has caused in the Nabob Vizeer's Country, I have instructed Colonel Morgan to assist you on the Requisition of the Vizeer, communicated by you to him, or at your own single Application, if any Case of Emergency should make it needful, with such Detachments as may be necessary, exclusive of the Regiment of Sepoys which is stipulated to remain with you at Lucknow. This Power you are not to exercise but in Cases of the most urgent and manifest Necessity. It is directed, that the Regiment ordered for the immediate Protection of your Office and Person at Lucknow, shall be relieved every Three Months, and during its Stay there shall act solely and exclusively under your Orders.

It is finally my positive Order, that you do not permit any British Subject, or others claiming the Name and Protection of the Company, to reside at Lucknow, or within any Part of the Dominions of the Nabob Vizeer, except the Officers and Soldiers of the Army acting in their Duty, and such Persons as are officially appointed to remain there. And that to such as are now at Lucknow, or in any other Part of his Dominions, not falling within the Description of the above Exception, you give due Notice in Writing, that they quit the Country, allowing them a reasonable Time, not exceeding Three Months, to settle their Affairs; and in case of their Refusal, you are to inform the Nabob thereof, that he may use his own Authority to compel them to depart.

I am, Sir,

Chunar,
23d September 1781.

Your most obedient humble Servant,
Warren Hastings.

Letter to the Governor General and Council, dated the 1st of November 1781, respecting the Establishment of Police and Courts of Judicature in the Town of Banaris.

To Edward Wheler and John Macpherson, Esquires, Members of the Council of Fort William.

Gentlemen,

Having thought it necessary to establish Courts of Judicature for the Protection of the Persons and Property of the Inhabitants of the Town of Banaris, I now do myself the Honour to lay before you a Copy of the Plan on which these Courts are formed. I shall proceed to submit to you the Reasons which have given rise to this Plan, and flatter myself that they will induce you to honour it with your Concurrence and Approbation.

The Town of Banaris has long been deficient in all those Regulations which in populous Places are necessary for the Preservation of Peace and good Order, and the Protection of the Property and Persons of the Inhabitants. Whilst, however, the Sovereignty over it was retained by the Nabob of Owd, some Appearance of public Justice was still preserved, and the Awe of a despotic Prince produced Restraints on the Minds and Actions of Individuals, which bore a Resemblance, however faint, to the Effects of more regular and perfect Institutions. But these Restraints ceased with the Cause which produced them. By the Treaty made with the Nabob Assof-ud-Dowlah, on the 21st of May 1775, the Sovereignty of Banaris was ceded to the Company, and soon after the Cutwallee, or Superintendence of Police, was formally made over by us to the late Rajah. From this Period the Appearance of public Justice was gradually effaced, until at last, without any System of Police, any Courts of Judicature, or any Awe of the sovereign Power, the Inhabitants of Banaris were guilty of Enormities and Crimes which reflected the greatest Disgrace on the Government to which they were subject. The Relations and Dependants of the Rajah, or the Merchants whose Credit was useful in the Payment of the Revenue, might violate the Rights of their Fellow Citizens with Impunity; and the sacred Character of a Bramin, or the high Rank of the Offender, were Considerations which stamped a Pardon on the most flagitious Crimes.

Such was the State in which I found the civil Government of the Town when I arrived at Banaris. All Ranks of People joined in their Representations of the Necessity of a Reformation; and this appeared the more necessary from a Consideration of the Circumstances which are peculiar to Banaris. Its Temples are held in particular Veneration by the Professors of the Hindoo Religion, who flock to them on occasional Pilgrimages from the most remote Parts of Hindostan; and many who have acquired independent Fortunes retire to close their Days in a Place so eminently esteemed for its Sanctity. It may therefore rather be considered as the Seat of the Hindoo Religion, than the Capital of a Province. But its Inhabitants are not composed of Hindoos only; the former Wealth which flowed into it from the Offerings of Pilgrims, as well as from the Transactions of Exchange, for which its central Situation is peculiarly adapted, has also attracted Numbers of Mahomedans, who still continue to reside in it with their Families. Amongst such a Mixture of Persons, mostly without Employment, of different Countries, and of different Sects and Religions, it is obvious that every Defect of Civil Government must be productive of more than ordinary Evils; and these Evils are propagated in all Quarters of India, to the Discredit of our Government, and to the Hindrance and Discouragement of those who, under more favourable Circumstances, might wish to repair with their Wealth to Banaris.

For these Reasons, after my Return from Chunar, when I began to settle the Affairs of this Province, the Reformation of the Civil Government of the Town of Banaris was one of the first Objects to which I thought it necessary to turn my Attention. The Plan which I have formed is now submitted to your Consideration. You will observe, that I have established Three distinct Departments for the Police and the Civil and Criminal Jurisdiction; and I have put the Whole under the Regulation and Controul of One Chief Magistrate, who is to be subject to the immediate Orders of the Board. It was at first my Intention to have included also under his Authority the Collection of the Revenues and Customs of the Town; but I found that this would give great Discontent to the new Rajah, and might perhaps hurt his Influence in the Management of the Revenues of the rest of the Province; I have therefore left it out; at the same Time I am sensible that it is a Defect which may occasion some Inconveniencies, from the clashing of the Authorities of the Rajah and the Chief Magistrate.

The Person whom I have chosen to fill the important Station of the Chief Magistrate, is Allee Ibrahim Khan, a Man who has long been personally known to myself, and I believe to many Individuals of our Government, and whose Character for Moderation, Disinterestedness, and good Sense, will bear the Test of the strictest Enquiry. On his good Conduct must doubtless, in a great Measure, depend the Success of a Plan which is to take Effect at so remote a Distance from the Seat of our Government; and it is chiefly from the Reliance which I have in him personally, that I have ventured to delegate a Degree of Authority to him, which it would perhaps be unsafe to vest in a Person of a less established Character.

In forming the Establishment, I have calculated the Allowances of the Chief Magistrate and his Officers in Proportion to the Importance and Degree of Trust annexed to their several Employments; and I have fixed them at such Rates, as will set them above the Necessity, and I hope the Temptation, of having Recourse for a Subsistence to the Practices of Corruption.

I have the Honour to be,

Banaris, 1st November 1781.

Gentlemen,

Your most obedient Servant,

Warren Hastings.

NUM. 2. B.

Copy of the Plan for the Establishment of Police and Courts of Judicature in the Town of Banaris.

Whereas the Town of Banaris is, and has been for many Years past, totally deficient in every essential Regulation, usually established in all large and populous Places, for the Maintenance of Peace, and the Security of the Persons and Property of the Inhabitants: And whereas the said Place is the fixed Residence, or occasional Resort, of Persons of all Religions, from every Part of Hindostan and Deccan, and in Effect rather the capital Seat of the Religion of the Hindoos than of the Territory to which it immediately appertains; and from that Consideration alone, demands a more immediate Protection and Attention from the Powers of Government: For these Reasons, the Governor General, in virtue of the Powers vested in him by the Governor General and Council, and in the Name of the East India Company, doth hereby ordain and proclaim:

That a Person shall be invested with the Chief Magistracy of the said Town, with full and complete Authority over every Person Inhabitant or Resident therein, for the Preservation of the Peace and Administration of Justice, with the Title of Chief Magistrate of the said Town of Banaris.

And it is further ordained and proclaimed, That to enable him duly to execute the said Duties so assigned him, Three Offices, as herein-after described, shall be established, in the Manner and with the Powers herein-after mentioned.

First. A Cutwall; whose Duty it shall be to apprehend Persons who shall be guilty or accused of Murder, Robbery, Burglary, Theft, or any other Acts of Violence committed in the Town of Banaris against the Peace, Persons, or Property of the People, and to deliver over the said Persons to the Court of Criminal Justice, herein-after appointed and described; and to suppress and prevent all Riots and Disturbances in the said Town, with the Power of inflicting immediate Punishment, with Stripes of a Rattan, not exceeding Twenty, on any Offender: For which Purposes as aforesaid, a certain Number of Pykes or Peons in Monthly Pay, and distinguished by certain known Badges, shall be put under his Charge and Authority by the Chief Magistrate, to patrol the the Streets at such Times as he shall appoint, and to be occasionally employed in executing the other Services of his Office. And the said Cutwall shall receive his Appointment from the Chief Magistrate, who shall also have the Power of dismissing him and appointing another, and of dismissing any of the Officers employed under him. And the said Cutwall is required to obey all Orders, relative to the Duties aforesaid, which he shall receive from the Chief Magistrate.

Secondly. One criminal Court or Fougedary Adaulut; which shall be composed of One Darogah and Three Mowlavies, Men of approved Integrity, and Skill in the Knowledge of the Mahomedan Laws, for the Trial of all Persons who shall be brought before them, and accused of Murder, Highway Robbery, Burglary, Theft, or any other Acts of Violence against the Peace, Persons, or Property of the People, committed in the said Town. And the Sooruthall and Futwah, or Proceedings and Sentence of the said Court, shall, on the Close of every Trial, be laid before the Chief Magistrate; who, after a due Examination thereof, shall return the same to the Darogah and Mowlavies of the said Court, with his Warrant for carrying the same into Execution; and the Darogah and Mowlavies of the said Court are required and commanded to carry the same into Execution. And the said Darogah and Mowlavies shall receive their Appointments from the Chief Magistrate, who shall also have the Power of dismissing them, and appointing others in their Room; and the Chief Magistrate shall have Power to establish Rules of Process for the said Court, which Rules the said Darogah and Mowlavies are hereby required to obey.

Thirdly. One Civil Court, or Dewanny Adaulut; which shall be composed of One President or Darogah, and Three inferior Judges, being Men of known Integrity and Understanding, who shall be chosen from among the Inhabitants of the said Town; for the Trial and Decision of all Debts, Pledges, Mortgages, disputed Accounts, Transfers of Property, Rights of Neighbourhood, contested Boundaries, Rights of Marriage and Claims of Inheritance, and of all other Claims of Property, whether real or personal, according to the Principles of natural Justice, in all Cases not depending on the particular and prescribed Laws and Institutes of the Parties; and in all Cases which shall depend on the particular Laws and Institutes of the Parties, the said President and Judges shall first determine on the Facts, as ascertained by the Evidence before them, and shall adjudge the Right as established by those Facts, according to the respective Laws and Institutes of the Parties, whether they be Mussulmen or Hindoos; and for this Purpose they shall be assisted by Two Mussulmen versed in the Sherrah or Mahomedan Law, and Two Pundits versed in the Pootee or Code of Justice instituted for the Professors of the Hindoo Religion, whose Opinions shall be consulted and taken in all Cases referable to them, as aforesaid. And it is further ordained, That in all Cases wherein the Judges shall not agree in One Judgment, their Opinions shall be severally delivered and recorded, and the greater Number of Opinions on One Point shall be taken and considered as the complete Judgment of the Court thereon; and if the Number of Opinions shall be equal, that of the President shall be taken and deemed as equivalent to Two Opinions, and the Judgment of the Court shall be passed accordingly; and their Judgment shall be final in all Causes of which the original Amount or Matter in Suit shall not exceed One thousand Rupees: And in all Causes of which the original Amount or Matter in Suit shall exceed One thousand Rupees, it shall be allowable to appeal from the Judgment of the said Court, within the limited Time of One Month from the Date of the Judgment, to the Chief Magistrate, who shall have Power to revise the same, or, if he shall think fit, to try the Causes again, with such further Evidence as the Parties shall bring before him, sufficient Reasons, to his Satisfaction, being given for their not having been before produced; and either to confirm or reverse the former Judgment, or to pass a new Judgment on the Cause; and his Judgment shall be final and conclusive. And it is hereby required and commanded, That the Chief Magistrate, and the President and Judges of the said Court of Dewanny Adaulut, shall keep Records of their respective Proceedings, which Records shall be admitted as Evidence in all future Causes. And the President and Judges of the said Dewanny Adaulut shall receive their Appointments from the Chief Magistrate, who shall also have the Power of dismissing them and appointing others in their Room; and the Chief Magistrate shall have the Power to establish Rules of Process for the said Court, which Rules the President and Judges of the said Court are hereby required to obey.

And it is further required and commanded, That the Chief Magistrate do transmit to the Governor General and Council, Monthly, Copies of his Proceedings, and Reports of all Persons appointed or dismissed in the superior Offices; and of all new Regulations established by him as aforesaid; and of all Rules of Process instituted for the Two Courts of Fougedary and Dewanny Adaulut, and in general of all other Matters of Consequence, which shall relate either to the general State of the Town, or to the several Branches of his Department; and shall obey all such Orders as he shall receive from the Governor General and Council. Although the Authority of the Chief Magistrate is, for the Purposes of this Institution, restricted to the Limits of Banaris; yet, that the Ends of it may not be defeated by Offenders flying from his Jurisdiction beyond those Limits, it is hereby explained and declared, That if any Person shall be guilty of Offences within the Town of Banaris, and shall escape beyond the Limits of the said Town, the Chief Magistrate, or his Officers, shall have Power to apprehend, with a written Warrant, and bring them to Justice; and it is required and commanded, That the Zemeedars, Aumils, or other Officers of the District into which such Offenders shall be so pursued, do assist the Officers of the Chief Magistrate in apprehending prehending the said Offenders; and that it shall be also lawful for the Officers of the Judges of the Two Courts of Justice, to require and compel the Attendance of Witnesses living beyond the said Districts, Reason being first shewn, to the Satisfaction of the Judges of the said Court, that the Evidence of the said Witnesses is necessary.

And it is hereby further ordained and proclaimed by the Governor General, That Ally Ibrahim Khan be appointed, and that he is accordingly from this Date appointed the First Chief Magistrate of the Town of Banaris.

Letter to the Governor General and Council, dated the 21st of November 1781, respecting the Settlement of the Zemeedary of Banaris, &c.

To Edward Wheler and John McPherson, Esquires, Members of the Council of Fort William.

Gentlemen,

In a short Letter, dated the 5th of this Month, I informed you, that I had on that Day concluded the Settlement of this Zemeedary, for the fixt and perpetual yearly Jummah of Forty Lacks of Rupees, with a Deduction of Rupees 6,66,666 - 10 - 10, being the Amount of Two Months Collections, estimated in equal Divisions for the current Year. I have now the Honour to send you the following Papers, which comprehend all the Accounts and Deeds appertaining to this Transaction.]

- Num. 3. Q. Paper of Requests presented to the Governor General by Rajah Mehpnarain, with the Governor General's Answers annexed.

I shall now proceed to the Explanation of the preceding Accounts.

You will obviously perceive, that the Six first Numbers served as the Materials on which the Settlement was formed. The first is an Estimate of the Collections received by Rajah Cheit Sing, and was delivered to me by the Resident. It corresponds in its total Amount with my Recollection of a similar Account, which was formerly in my Possession, and sufficiently with the Account, N° 3. G, for the Presumption of its Authenticity. As it was the best Account that I was able to obtain, and the Accounts delivered by the Naib were confessedly made up of imperfect Materials; all the Accounts having been either carried away by Cheit Sing, or destroyed, and all the principal Officers of the Revenue, who could give any Information on the Subject, having accompanied him in his Flight;

I made this the Ground for forming the new Settlement.

[Although I am convinced that with proper Management the Zemeedary might yield an Amount considerably exceeding that which I have taken as the Estimate of its Value; yet I must express my Apprehension, that unless the Naib can find Means to avail himself of better official Assistance than he at present possesses, his real Profits will fall below their allowed Amount; and on that Account I have encouraged him to hope, that if he shall prove himself diligent in his Office, and punctual in the Discharge of his Kists to the Company, he may hereafter obtain, from the Indulgence of the Board, some Remission from the stipulated Jummah, whenever the actual Demands of the Company shall be lessened, and the State of their Treasury will admit of it; and this I shall recommend as an Act of Generosity becoming their former Relation to this Province, and equally warranted by the Principles of good Policy: For there are certain Lines, beyond which the Exaction of a Public Revenue will not only defeat its own Purpose, but operate as effectually to a Reduction as an intentional Act of Bounty could do. But it is not my Wish to engage the present Attention of the Board in a Discussion upon this Subject; my Desire being only to premise what I may hereafter find necessary to introduce to their further Consideration, so that any future Proposition may not appear to arise wholly from the instant Occasion of it.

I now proceed to the Explanation of the Particulars of the Settlement, as contained in the Account N° 3. H. The first Deduction made from the gross estimated Jummah of Rupees 53,06,002. 12. is the Sum of Rupees 61,496, granted in Jagheers and other Alienations. The First is a Jagheer granted to Beneram Pundit, of the yearly Amount of Rupees 25,000. I have already acquainted the Board with the faithful Services of this Man and his Family, during the late Troubles, which I can take upon me to assure the Board, whatever was our Opinion of them at the Time, and however repugnant it may be to our national Character to regard any Situation of Affairs with the Eye of Despondency, were considered universally by all but ourselves, equally by Friend and by Foe, as utterly desperate. To the Merits of Beneram Pundit and his Brother on this Occasion, I must add a long Series of Attachment and effectual Service, from the Year 1773 to the present Time.] Though the immediate Servants and confidential Ministers of a foreign State, to the constitutional Members of which they have always professed an almost enthusiastic Devotion, they have zealously adopted all my Views for the Promotion of a Connection between their Government and ours. For this Purpose, Beneram Pundit, at my Requisition, made One Journey to Naugpoor, and attended Colonel Leslie and Colonel Goddard in the first Operations of their Detachment. Another of the Brothers still attends General Goddard in the same Capacity, and has been of great Use, by his Letters, in refuting the false Representations which were made from Poona to the Government of Berar of the Events of the War. Beneram Pundit proceeded to Naugpoor, and, chiefly at my Requisition, returned with a Constitution much impaired by the customary Effects of the malignant Climate of the Route lying between Calcutta and Naugpoor. To his Influence I entirely ascribe the generous Conduct of that Government to ours in many signal Instances, which stand recorded on our Consultations, and will be universally acknowledged as such, when Time shall have effaced the Prejudices with which they have been, and perhaps still are, represented by some; and to him I owe the Influence which I myself possessed with the late Dewan Demaugur Pundit, and its Effects while he was living. In the same Spirit of common Attachment, Bissumber Pundit, the younger Brother, went, instructed by me, to Chinnajee Bauboo, the Commander of the Army employed last Year in the Province of Orissa, and assisted Mr. Anderson in his Negotiations. In all these Instances I have considered and treated them equally as the Friends of our Government, and the faithful Servants of their own; and wherever I have been, one or both have been my constant Attendants.

If these Services shall be admitted as meritorious, although they should be ascribed to Motives of personal Respect to myself, still let it be considered, that it was in my Character of the first and executive Member of our State that I received such Instances of it, or could have the Means of inspiring inspiring it; and that I doubt whether a national Attachment, in an alien Breast, can either grow or subsist on any other Principle.

PART I.

For all these united Reasons I have thought it incumbent upon me to recompense the Merits of this Family, by the seasonable Grant of a public Income derived from the Settlement of the Province in which they resided, and in the Recovery of which to our Authority they have made to themselves so near an Interest.

The Board have been pleased to repose so generous a Confidence in me, that I persuade myself that I shall not need their Excuse for having determined this Act by my own Authority. It was necessary to include it in the Settlement, as it would have been the Source of much Embarrassment, and given Rise to unreasonable Claims, had it been ordered after the Settlement had been concluded. I might indeed have applied to the Board, and received their Answer in sufficient Time for the Conclusion of the Settlement, had I known that the latter would have been so long delayed; but it had been from the Beginning my Intention to form it immediately on my Return to Banaris, and I was only prevented from finishing it sooner by the Delays and Procrastinations of others, which I could not conquer.

Upon this Subject I have only to add, that the Bounty of our Government has been rarely exercised on such Occasions; that no Occasion ever did more justly demand the Exertion of that Principle; and that it is one of the Duties of Government, as it is one of its best Instruments, to exercise it for the Reward of past, and for the Encouragement of future Deserts.

✍ [The next Article will require little Explanation and no Apology. Bundoo Khan, whose Name is affixed to a Jagheer of 2,000 Rupees annual Rent, is an Inhabitant of the Town of Chunar. He attended Captain Blair in the unfortunate Attempt on Ramnagar, and in the Battle fought at Pateeta, and was of much Service to that Officer on both Occasions, by his Knowledge of the Ground, and by a natural good Understanding, which enabled him to apply that Knowledge to the Incidents before him. This Man suggested the Expedition, which was afterwards formed, to take Possession of the Passes lying behind Lutteefpoor, by an unknown and secret Route, and was himself the Guide of the Detachment. Although his former Services, and that which he offered upon this Occasion, were gratuitous, yet as the Success of the Enterprize appeared to me, from his Description of it, likely to prove the Crisis of the War, I thought it advisable to secure his Fidelity, and animate his Exertions, by such Incitements as were likely to operate with the greatest Power on a Man of his Rank and Situation in Life: I promised him a Jagheer in any Part of the Company's Dominions of which he should make Choice, to the Amount of One thousand Rupees clear yearly Rent, if the Enterprize succeeded. The Event proved the Justice of his Advice, and the Truth of his Representations, and his Conduct in the Course of it obtained the most favourable Testimony of Major Crabb, the Officer who commanded the Party. On his Return to Chunar, I instantly granted him a Perwannah for the Village of Jalaulpoor, of which I had allowed him to make Choice, situated in the Pergunnah of Pateeta; he himself told me that it yielded a Revenue exceeding 1,500 Rupees, and to prevent future Disputes if it were more, I have inserted it at the round Sum of Two thousand.]

Jaggernaut Sing, late Commandant in the 3d Regiment of Sepoys, having been strongly recommended to me by Colonels Muir, Auchmuty, and other Officers of Rank, whose Recommendation at this Time had particular Weight with me, for a Provision in his declining Years, after having passed Thirty of his Life in faithful and meritorious Service, I procured for him a Jagheer in the Zemeedary to the yearly Value of 1,200 Rupees. I am persuaded that the Board will admit the Expediency, as well as the Justice and Humanity, of making a more comfortable Provision than our ordinary invalid Establishment allows, for such native Soldiers as have merited the particular Attention of their Superiors; and I flatter myself that the present Instance, as well as the Principle on which it is founded, will meet with their Approval.]

The last Article will be explained in the separate Paper, N° 3. I. It is a simple Act of Justice; and I was pleased that our Government should have the Credit of passing it. On the same Principle I issued a Sunnud for the Restoration of certain Villages, which are a Part of the original Endowment of Two Durgahs, in the Precincts of Chunar. The Particulars of this Claim are set forth in the accompanying Paper, N° 3. K. These form no Part of the Diminution of the Revenues.

With respect to the other Deductions, they stand exactly as they were stated by the Naib himself, except the last Article, which I myself inserted merely for Adjustment, that it might make the remaining Sum of the net Jummah clear 40 Lacks, at which Amount I had predetermined to fix it.

The Accounts of the Settlement, N° 3. L, M, N, O, require no Explanation. The Deduction allowed for the present Year from the fixed Jummah for Devastations, is accounted for in the Term itself. In the unequal Sums of the Kistbundee I was compelled to yield to the pertinacious Instances of the Family. I should have been better pleased that so large a Sum had not been thrown upon the last Month of the Year; but this Advantage may and ought to be derived from it, that as it has enabled them to make their Payments with greater Facility, it will leave them without Excuse if they fail in any Part of them.

The Agreement, N° 3. P. passed against my Inclination, as well as my Advice. A substantial Revenue having been obtained to the Company, I wished to pay more Regard to their Credit than to the Prosecution of any immediate Interests which were not of essential Importance. I knew that an Enquiry might serve for an Instrument of Gratification to private Influence, and wished to prevent the Temptation. Having already allowed the Sum of Rupees 6,66,666 10 10 as a Deduction from the First Year's Jummah, I wished to bring the Rajah to agree to the Payment of the Arrears due from his Predecessor for the last Year, amounting to the Sum of Rupees 4,63,006 5 8 in lieu of the Agreement since made; but this he would not consent to. What he is to pay upon this Account therefore remains open for future Enquiry.

The Paper of Requests, N<sup>o</sup> 3. Q, as it preceded the Settlement, ought regularly to have been inserted before it, but as the Settlement itself was not affected by it, it may stand in its present Place.

Respecting the First Request, I had very early apprized the Rajah, through his Naib, that I should not allow him the Exercise of any Privilege or Authority, on which an Opinion of Independency could be founded: That the Mint, the Cutwally, or Police of the Town of Banaris, and the Administration of Justice to its Inhabitants; the Power of levying Forces, and maintaining Fortresses, were commonly understood as Kinds of Royalties or Appurtenances of the Sovereign State; which therefore could not be allowed to him, consistently with his Relation to the Company, nor with the Expectations which they would naturally form on the Experience of the past Troubles, in the Arrangement which I might make for the future Administration of this Province.

I have directed him to deliver over Charge of the Mint to the Resident; whom I have also ordered to receive it, and to conduct the Business of it until he shall have your final Orders respecting it; to ascertain the Amount of the Annual Revenue paid from it to Rajah Cheit Sing during the last Five Years, that the Average thereof may be carried to the Credit of the present Rajah in the Payment of his Revenue to Government; to erect proper Offices for the Services of the Mint, which, to my great Surprise, I find have been performed to this Time in the private House of the Darogah; and to form and report to me a proper Establishment for the Mint on the most frugal Valuation.

I beg Leave to recommend the actual Resident as well qualified to conduct this Business, and to request that you will be pleased to continue him in the Charge of it.

I have already advised you very fully of the Appointments which I have vested in the Person of Ally Ibrahim Khan, respecting the Police and Administration of Justice in the Town of Banaris; the Insertion of the other Articles comprized in this Request arose from my having directed them to be abolished, because they appeared to me to be discreditable and impolitic.—The following is a List of the Particulars.

- |                                      |  |
|--------------------------------------|--|
| 1. Nekaus.                    | Duties on the Sale of Horses; an oppressive Tax, and inconsiderable in its Amount. It was not my Intention to make this an express Prohibition; but having marked it, with other Articles which I thought improper, in the List of Revenues collected by the Aumeen of Banaris, it was considered as an express Prohibition, and I chose to let it stand with that Construction. |
| 2. Taxes levied on Strangers. | Consisting of the following Heads.1st. Dustoor Perdaffy , or Duties levied on Pilgrims.2d. Dullaulee Perdaffy , or Sums paid by the Brokers to buy and sell for the Pilgrims.  |
| 3. Talashee.                  | Duties taken on the Examination of Persons travelling from Banaris.  |
| 4. Khummaur Khanab.           | Revenue paid by the Keepers of Gaming Houses.  |
| 5. Dustoor upon Rings.        | A Revenue paid by the Sellers of the Rings usually bought by Pilgrims.   |

The 2d, 3d, and 5th Articles have been often represented to me as grievous Impositions, no less in their Amount, than in the Mode of levying them, and a great Discouragement to Strangers, whom the Spirit of Devotion might induce to come to Banaris. The Abolition, in itself a popular Act, and extending its Influence to every Part of India, is likely to pay the Loss arising from it, by the Inducement which it will afford to greater Numbers to resort to Banaris, in the Proportion of the Immunity which it presents to them.

and Request. The Zemeedars, to whom this Article alludes, are as follows.

Buggut Sing,	Zemeedar of Chowfa.
Eedel Sing,	of Agoree.
Govindjeet,	of Kunteet.
Bikram Majeet,	of sundry Villages in Zemineeah.
Ally Azeem Khan,	of Ghauzipoor.
Duljeet Sing,	of Bidjeygur.

PART I.

As these Persons shewed a Zeal for the Service of our Government, and a Desire of being useful to us during the late Troubles, I have thought it proper that their Conduct should not pass without the Retribution due to it; and for that Purpose have directed, that they be restored to the Possession of the Lands to which they have hereditary Claims. I shall also give Orders to the Resident to pay them annually, whilst they continue out of the Management of their respective Districts, an Allowance proportionate to the Jummah of each, as soon as that can be ascertained.

The remaining Requests require no Explanation or Comment.

I will not engage the Time of the Board longer than to express my Hope, that the Explanations which I have given of my Proceedings in forming the Settlement will be satisfactory. The Process of the Business I left to Mr. Anderson, to whom I am much indebted for the Pains and Diligence with which he assisted me in bringing it to a Conclusion. Much remained to be done in Detail at the Time of his Departure on another Service, which of course fell upon my Hands with other Business. To this Cause I must beg the Board to attribute my Delay in making the Report of my Proceedings, and any Deficiencies that may appear in it.

I have the Honour to be, with the greatest Esteem,

Gentlemen,

Chunar,
21st November 1781.

Your most obedient Servant,

WARREN HASTINGS.

A These Allowances were continued until the Year 1183 Fussullee, when the Rajah made his Settlement with the Company, after which they were resumed. Some of them might now be struck out, the Persons being dead, or the Purposes for which they were granted having ceased. The Cauzee has engaged to draw out a List of such as may be struck out, or left for Enquiry. Under these Allowances are comprehended 323 Names or Families.

B These Grants were after Mr. Marriot's Time, None of the Persons obtained Lands, but the Rajah paid them an Equivalent in Money. Some of the Grants never took Place, and many of the Persons are dead.

C These are similar to the Articles under B. only that the Jagheers were temporary, and in Consideration of Services; whereas the Maafy Dehat were hereditary, and granted to poor People, like the Milk or Ahema of Bahar.

Num. 3. K.

Paper relative to a Grant of certain Villages to the Fackeers of the Mackbarrah of Shah Cossim Soolimany, and Shah Wasseel, at Chunar.

Former Lands belonging to the Tomb at Chunar :

The Village of Begpoor.

D° Biggerah.

D° Behry.

D° Bibtee.

The Fackeer represents that all these Villages were resumed in the Time of Munfaram, and afterwards the Nabob Sufdar-Jung restored the Two Villages of Behry and Begpoor, valued at 1000 R' per Annum. These are still in Possession of the Fackeers, but they are now subject to a Revenue of 500 R' per Annum, which was imposed about 18 Years ago, when Shumsheer Khan, the Naib of Shujah ud Dowlah, made a general Resumption of One Half of all the Charity Allowances of Banaris. The remaining 500 R' was confirmed afterwards by Mr. Marriott, and in Exception to all other Allowances has been continued by the Rajah. The Fackeer now requests to have the whole Four Villages restored, or if this cannot be granted, to have the Revenue of 500 R' taken off. He does not know the Amount of the Villages of Behry and Begpoor.

The Cauzee of Banaris being examined, confirms this Representation.

On the 8th of October, a Sunnud was issued to Mahommed Ismael the Khaleefa, granting the Villages of Begpoor and Behry to be held free of Revenue, for keeping the Tombs and Mosque at Chunar in proper Repair, and for the Maintenance of the Fackeers.

I have agreed to it of my own free and entire Will, and of that Amount the Sum of (6,66,666. 10. 10.) Copy of a Letter from the Governor General to Colonel Muir, dated the 29th of August 1781.

To Colonel Muir,

The Treachery of Rajah Cheit Sing has compelled me to retreat to this Place, where I wait to reduce this Zemeedary; a Work (I trust) of no great Difficulty or Time. I have received a Letter from you, mentioning that Sindia has offered Terms of Peace; I hereby give you full Powers, in the Name of the Governor General and Council, to conclude a Treaty with him on the following Instructions: I have sent you Credentials in Form*: I do not repeat them in this, on account of the Dangers of the Road; but in case of their Miscarriage, this Letter must serve in their Stead. Act accordingly, and I will ratify it. Agree with him, either for an Alliance of mutual Defence, or Neutrality. If he desires to include the Peashwa, you may agree to a Treaty of Peace with the Peashwa, and an Alliance against Hyder Ally Khan, and all common Enemies; or of Peace simply, on the Conditions of restoring all that we have acquired during the War, except Ahmedabad, and the Territory conquered for Rajah Futteh Sing Gaycwar, and the Forts of Gwalliar, and Fort and Territory of Lahar; that we will never assist Ragonaut Row, nor interfere in his Concerns, nor admit him into our Forts or Factories; but we will not deliver him into the Hands of any one; let a Time be allowed him to repair to a Place of Security. We will yield what is ours, and what we can in Honour grant; but we will never suffer our Treaties to be infringed, nor our Faith to be violated. Reserve for us Basseen if you can, even if it should be necessary to yield in exchange for it, all the Lands obtained by the Treaty with Colonel Upton, except Salsett, and the other ceded Islands, and the ceded Moiety of Baroach; but do not insist on the Reservation of Basseen to the Hindrance of Peace. We want nothing from them but their Alliance against Hyder Ally Khan, and that we dispense with. Be careful that the Agreement do not contain any Thing hostile to the Government of Berar, or hurtful to our Connection with it. Obtain the Restoration of the Chundery Rajah, and secure, as far as you may have the Means, the Interests of the Rajah of Nurwar, and any other Chiefs who have been active in our Cause. Include the Ranah of Ghode, and Futteh Sing Gaycwar in the Peace. To prevent future Provocations of Hostility, let it be agreed to exclude the French and all other European Nations from the Ports and Dominions of the Marattahs. If a Treaty has already taken place between General Goddard and the Marattah State, the present Treaty must in such Case be void; but you may assure Sindia that no Peace can or shall be made to his Prejudice. Send, if you think proper, a confidential Person to Mahdajee Sindia. If he will engage on the above Terms, he must conclude them now: I am making my final Arrangements, and if the Time is lost, a Treaty with him may be for ever precluded by them. Obviate any Conclusions which he may draw from the present Scene: It regards myself personally, and myself at this Time but little. Cheit Sing, by the sudden Massacre of some of the Sepoys of my Guard, which diminished it to the small Number of 400 Men, shut up with me in the close Suburbs of Banaris, might have effected my Destruction. I escaped the Danger, and Troops are assembling daily, to which he can afford no Opposition. While the Effect of these Instructions is passing to Sindia, the Rajah's total Exclusion ought to be accomplished. I hope it will.

* The Reader is desired to make Allowances for this and similar Expressions not suitable to our Idiom, but literally translated from the Persian Original.

Warren Hastings.

NUM. 4. B.

Copy of a Letter from the Governor General to Colonel Muir; dated Chunar the 10th of September 1781.

To Colonel Muir.

Sir,

I have lately sent you Dispatches in Duplicate, containing Instructions and full Powers for negotiating and concluding a Treaty of Peace with Mahdajee Sindia, either for himself separately, or with a Reservation in favour of the Peashwa, in case it should be agreed to include him as a Party in the Treaty. I have since received Intelligence that one of my Dispatches has been intercepted, and it is not unlikely that the other may meet with the same Fate. I have also sent a second Letter, of the same Substance with the first, but without Credentials. As the present Opportunity promises a more safe Conveyance, I now send you a Duplicate of my last Letter of Instructions, together with a more full and regular Commission than it was before in my Power to forward to you.

I had Yesterday the Pleasure to receive your Letter of the 17th ultimo. The one which you mention to have written on the 13th has not reached me; I imagine it has fallen into the Hands of Cheit Sing's People. It is with great Satisfaction I observe, from the Deputation of Chimnaje Row, that Mahdajee Sindia has in some Degree anticipated the Overtures of this Government, and that the general Expressions of a Desire of Peace, used at his first Interview with Mr. Ford, indicate a Disposition so consonant with our own. If Sindia should urge the Return of your Detachment beyond the Boundaries of his Dominions, I see no Objection to this Condition being granted; on the contrary, I desire it. There can be no Use for the Continuance of the Detachment after Peace is concluded, nor will there be any Thing in the smallest Degree dishonourable in agreeing to its Return.

The Objects of its Equipment were, to divert Mahdajee Sindia from the Operations on the other Side of India, or to withdraw him from the Alliance of the Ministers of the Peashwa; and these Objects having been effected, its Return becomes a natural Consequence.

We are under no Engagements to protect the present Dominions of the King, nor those of Nudjiff Khan and the Rajah of Jaynagar; and if Peace is settled betwixt Mahdajee Sindia and us, I do not desire that he should be restrained in carrying into Execution any Plans which he may have formed against them ; at the same Time, I think it necessary to caution you against inserting any Thing in the Treaty which may expressly mark either our Knowledge of his Views or Concurrence in them. It will be sufficient for us (and Sindia ought to be satisfied with the Latitude implied in it), if he is only restricted in the Treaty from making Encroachments on our own Territories and those of our Allies, the Nabob Vizeer, the Ranah of Ghode, and Futteh Sing Guycwar : For these, an express Provision must be made. He must in direct Terms engage, that he will never invade, or in any respect molest them, as we will in the same Manner stipulate with respect to his Territories. In my Letter of the 29th ultimo, I instructed you to obtain the Restoration of the Chundery Rajah, and to secure the Interests of the Rajah of Nurwar, and any other Chiefs who have been active in our Cause. This Subject I must now leave to your Discretion, as it is not in my Power to send you such explicit Instructions as I could have wished, not having Access at present to your and Colonel Camac's Letters, which point out the Nature and Extent of our Connections with each of these Rajahs, and the Claims which their past Services may have given them to our Protection. In discussing their Interests, we must make a Distinction betwixt actual and implied Engagements. No actual Engagements whatever exist between us and any of these Rajahs: Such of them however as have taken an active Part in our Cause, are entitled to some Degree of Consideration. You who are on the Spot can best judge of their several Merits, and will attend to them as far as you may be able, without hindering the more important Objects of your Negotiations.

* See No. 4. B.

PART I.

It seems probable, that few Difficulties will arise in settling a separate Treaty with Mahdajee Sindia ; and this is the Object which I have principally at heart. Let it not be impeded or retarded by the Obstacles which may occur in adjusting the more complicated Matters remaining in Dispute betwixt us and the Peashwa. A Peace with the one must soon produce a Peace with the other. Let an Opening be left for it in the Treaty with Sindia, on the Terms I have mentioned ; and though these Terms comprehend in our Favour every Object which we could desire, yet they are, on the whole, so advantageous to the Peashwa, that I think his Ministers will acquiesce in them, rather than continue a precarious and expensive War, deprived of the Support and Assistance of Mahdajee Sindia.

It will be necessary to stipulate, that in case they shall not accede to the proposed Terms of Peace, Mahdajee Sindia shall not, directly or indirectly, assist them, or suffer any of his Tributaries or Subjects to assist them, with Men, or Money, or Arms, or any other Means of carrying on the War against us.

This must either be expressly stipulated, or so clearly and strongly implied, that no Doubt shall remain regarding it.

In the Event of a Peace being settled with the Peashwa, it will perhaps be thought proper to recal General Goddard's Detachment, and their best Route lies through Mahdajee Sindia's Territories. With a View to such an Event, you will stipulate with Mahdajee Sindia, that he shall allow them a free Passage, and assist them in procuring Provisions and other Necessaries on the Road.

I enclose a Letter which I have written to Sindia, informing him of the Powers which I have delegated to you, and desire that you will urge him to an immediate Decision on the Propositions which you have to make to him. Inform him, that any Delay or Evasion on his Part may preclude an Accommodation for ever ; and that by your Answers I shall be regulated in entering into another Plan of Connections, which will not only prove an insuperable Bar to the Views he has at present formed on the Northern Provinces, but draw such a powerful Attack on his own Territories as must infallibly end in his Expulsion and Ruin.

If after the Conclusion and Execution of the separate Treaty with Mahdajee Sindia, he should desire to promote a Peace between us and the Peashwa, I will appoint a Person with full Powers to negotiate the same, through the Channel of his Introduction and Mediation.

I am, &c.

Warren Hastings.

NUM. 4. C.

Extract of a Letter from the Governor General to the Governor General and Council ; dated Banaris the 22d of October 1781.

I have already expressed my Approval of the Orders sent to Bombay, and to Brigadier General Goddard, on the 24th September, against a Plan of offensive Operations, and an Augmentation of the Military Establishment on that Coast. The Reasoning in favour of an Increase of their Army is doubtless overset by their own Confession of an Inability to maintain what they have already ; and we are unable to supply them. I have not yet seen the Plan of offensive Operations recommended, but I am generally against it, not being able to discover to what useful Object it can tend. Be it what it may, this Government has no Object but a Peace ; we have acquired all that we sought for when we were forced into the War, and we have offered to part with a large Share of that All, to effect a Peace. But I am influenced by still further Reasons for approving of the Orders sent to Brigadier General Goddard ; and these I shall now recite, first making an Apology to the Board for not having before given them public Information of the Facts on which they were grounded. I alluded to them distantly in an official Letter which I wrote to Mr. Wheler from

Y y

Chunar ;

Chunar; but from a Fear of its being intercepted, it was expressed with so much Caution, that I fear my Meaning may not have been exactly understood. In a private Letter, which I have since written to Mr. Wheler, I have been more explicit, and shall be obliged to him, if he will be pleased to lay before the Board, and record on their Proceedings, such Part of it as relates to the Subject.

I was made to understand, by a Letter which I received from Colonel Muir, and by distant Advances made to me after my first Arrival at this Place, that Mahdajee Sindia was very desirous of a Peace. His Wishes coinciding with those of our Government, I sent Orders to Colonel Muir to negotiate, and full Powers to conclude, a separate Peace with him; accompanied by Instructions for the Colonel's Guidance, in fixing the Conditions of it. As these appear to be the Orders on which a Treaty has since been prepared, I transmit a Copy of them enclosed for the Information of the Board, together with a Copy of my Credentials to Colonel Muir. They were both drawn up to go in the smallest Compass possible, on account of the Danger to which our Letters were exposed at that Period. Soon after I had dispatched these Orders, and before they could reach Colonel Muir, I received from him a Communication of his Correspondence with Sindia with respect to the Conditions of a Peace; and was happy to find by it, that the Conditions to which Sindia would agree, were, except in very trivial Instances, the same as those which I had empowered Colonel Muir to yield.

I have the Honour to transmit inclosed, for the Information of the Board, a Translation of the Proposals made to Colonel Muir by Sindia's Dewan, on the Part of his Master; a Copy of my Replies, and of a Letter which I wrote with them to Colonel Muir on the 11th ultimo. A Truce had been respectively agreed on between the Two Commanders, and my Instructions to Colonel Muir fortunately reached him before the limited Period of it was expired. I have been for some Time in hourly Expectation of hearing that the Treaty was concluded, having had the Satisfaction to learn from Colonel Muir, that neither the Acts of Cheit Sing, nor the worst State of our Affairs in this Country, even in the most exaggerated Accounts of them, appear to have affected the amicable Disposition of the Marattah Chief; but as it will afford the Board some Pleasure to know what Progress Colonel Muir has made, I have the Honour to subjoin an Extract of the last Letter which I received from him, under Date the 6th Instant.—“The Treaty is at last fairly made out, and is this Day transmitted to Sindia for his Approbation. Tomorrow it will be returned, and if approved, Captain Ford will be dispatched to his Camp to see his Signature and Seal affixed; after which Interim, I shall be able to write you fully on every Part of the important Charge intrusted to my Management.”—To this Information I beg the Board's Permission to add an Extract of a private Letter received from Colonel Muir's Camp, of a still later Date.—“Leffai, 11th of October 1781. The Treaty is ready, and Ford is to set out this Morning for the Marattah Camp to have it executed by the Pateel*, as he has already approved of the Articles in it.”

The Board will observe in Sindia's Proposals for a separate Peace, that he promises his Interposition at Poona, for effecting a general Peace with the Marattah State; and as in such Event it will be necessary to take some further Steps for securing Success to so desirable an Object, I shall soon have occasion to address the Board again on this important Subject.

Copy of a Letter to the Governor General and Council, dated the 25th of November 1781, respecting the Appointment of Messrs. Anderson and Chapman.

To Edward Wheler, and John M'Pherson, Esqrs. Members of the Council of Fort William.

Gentlemen,

I have the Honour to transmit to you Copies of my Instructions severally delivered to Mr. Anderson and Mr. Chapman; the former deputed to Mahdajee Sindia, and the latter to Naugpoo. Both are so consonant to your Wishes, and to the Command of our Honourable Superiors, that they will need no Comment or Explanation; unless it shall appear, that the Mission of Mr. Chapman is rather ostensible than real, little being given him in Charge, but to preserve the Friendship unimpaired between the Government to which he is deputed and ours. In effect, the Advantages proposed by it are rather contingent, than such as could be prescribed as determined Objects; an Attention was necessary to an ancient and approved Friend of our Government, on the Occasion of our availing ourselves of a different Influence. I have judged it necessary to provide for a new Channel of Correspondence with that Government itself, having lost that on which I had hitherto placed a confident and effectual Reliance, in the Dewan Dewaugur Pundit. But my principal Hope from this Deputation is, that it may prove the Means of quickening the Conclusion of the Peace with the Marattah State, by making it an Object of Competition to the Two most powerful Members of it. It is not the professed Object of Mr. Chapman's public Credentials, and therefore not liable to any just Grounds of Jealousy in Mahdajee Sindia; but from my Experience of the general Tenor of the Policy of the late Dewan, which the Veneration paid to his Judgment, especially by the Rajah himself, will continue to make the Rule of the present Administration, or whatever may decidedly succeed to his, I have no Doubt that either the Rajah will endeavour to counteract our Endeavours to obtain a Peace, that we may ultimately have Recourse to him for effecting it; or that he will himself precipitate it, if he sees it likely to be accomplished by another, that he may have the sole Merit of it, and preserve his Consequence with both Parties, by having been the successful Mediator between us. You will observe, that I have sufficiently guarded Mr. Chapman's Instructions against the Possibility of their clashing with Mr. Anderson's.

I am certain that Mr. Chapman will think it no Degradation to act under the Controul of Mr. Anderson, for whose Abilities he entertains a very high and deserved Respect.

Mr. Anderson left Banaris, to proceed on his Deputation, on the 5th of this Month, and Mr. Chapman on the 17th: The former accompanied by his Brother, Lieutenant Anderson, whom I appointed his Assistant, granting him the Allowance usually annexed to such Office; and by Tuffuzul Hooftain Khan, a Native of the first Abilities in Indostan, who had been employed by me under Major Palmer, during his Deputation to the Ranah of Ghode, and had rendered material Services to our Government, and who I knew would be very useful to Mr. Anderson in his Negotiations, from the Character which he bears throughout the County for his Integrity and Knowledge: His Salary I fixed at a Thousand Rupees per Month. Mr. Chapman is accompanied by Mr. John White, whom I have appointed his Assistant, with the same Allowance that is given to Lieutenant Anderson; and as the Service on which he is employed is merely temporary, I should hope that the Offices which he holds in Calcutta will not be considered as vacated by this Appointment. Mr. Anderson is authorized by me to draw the same Allowances that were given Colonel Upton, when appointed to the Court of Poona; and Mr. Chapman the same that are given to Mr. Anderson.

I request the Board will be pleased to communicate to Mr. Anderson any Orders which they have lately sent, or may hereafter send, to Brigadier General Goddard, that may be necessary for his Information, or any Instructions given to our Resident at the Court of Hyderabad, respecting the Nazim's Mediation of Peace between us and the Marattahs, that the whole Subject may be completely before him.

Colonel Muir having been unable yet to furnish me with the Particulars of the late Negotiation with Mahdajee Sindia, by reason, as his last Letters mention, of the dangerous and continued Sickness of Captain Ford, to whom he had committed the Execution of that Business; and having transmitted to me the Persian Copy of the Treaty, I have the Honour to forward the same for your present Information.

Translation of the Treaty concluded by Colonel Muir with Mahdajee Sindia on the 13th October 1781

Treaty concluded by Colonel Muir on the Part of the English Company, and Maha Rajah Subadar Madho Row, on his own Part.

MR. WARREN HASTINGS, Governor General of Bengal, in virtue of the Powers vested in him by the Governor General and Council of Bengal, having fully empowered Colonel Muir to settle a Treaty of Peace between the Maha Rajah and the Company in this Manner, That whatever he may conclude on the Part of the Company, shall be binding on the said Governor General and Council; and the Maha Rajah and the Colonel being both desirous of a Peace, have concluded one on the following Terms:

ARTICLE 1. Peace and Friendship being solidly established between both Parties, each will remain to their Agreement.

ARTICLE 2. Within the Space of Eight Days from the sealing of the Treaty by both Parties, both Armies shall at one Time begin their March. Colonel Muir with his Camp shall return to the Territory of the Nabob Vizeer, and the Maha Rajah with his Army to his own Country.

ARTICLE 3. If it should be approved, the Maha Rajah will mediate a Peace with Hyder Ally Khan and the Company, and also a Peace between the Peashwa and the Company: If Peace should take place in consequence, it is well; if not, the English Gentlemen are left at Liberty to act as they please, and the Maha Rajah will give no Interruption.

ARTICLE 4. Colonel Muir restores to the Maha Rajah the Territories belonging to him on this Side of the Jumnah, of which the Company have possessed themselves; and the Maha Rajah agrees not to invade the Country of Loke-inder Ranah Chetter Sing Behadre, or Gwalliar, which is now in his Possession, or the Territory of Mehij Rajah Ram Sing Jug-inder Behadre, now also subject to him, provided he (the said Ranah) shall not behave improperly.

ARTICLE 5. The Maha Rajah will restore Ram Chunder, Rajah of Chundery, now under the Protection of Colonel Muir, to his Government, and will make no Demand on him whatever; the Maha Rajah will take the Whole of the said Rajah's Country from his treacherous Dewan, Radjyo

Radjyo Dehir, who rebelled against him, and he will restore it all to him, except what has for a Length of Time been subject to the Peashwa; and the Maha Rajah will expel the said Radjyo Dehir.

The above Articles are ratified by the Seals and Signature of Col. Muir on the Part of the Company, and the Maha Rajah on his own Part, on the 13th of October 1781, answering to the 24th of Showal 1195 Higerah.

Copy of the Instructions given to Mr. Anderson on the 4th of November 1781.

Mr. David Anderson.

Sir,

I having already delegated to you by a formal Commission the full Powers and Authority vested in me by the Governor General and Council, for the Purpose of negotiating and finally concluding a Treaty of Peace and Alliance between the Company and the Marattah State, and reposing the firmest Reliance on your Abilities and Integrity, I recommend to your attentive Consideration and Observance the following Instructions, for the easier and more effectual Attainment of the great Object of your Deputation, and other Purposes dependant upon or connected with it.

The Peace lately concluded between our Government and Mahdajee Sindia opens a fair Prospect for the Success of your Mission, by the Offer which that Chief has made to interpose his friendly Offices at Poona for an equitable Accommodation. The great Credit and Influence which Sindia possesses in the Marattah State, leaves no Room for Apprehension that his Endeavours will prove ineffectual, if he exerts them sincerely and heartily.

It is therefore with a View to dispose him more strongly to our Interests, that I desire you to repair to him, to give him the strongest Assurances of my personal Esteem and Friendship, and of my Desire to cultivate and improve the Connection which has lately been formed between us. The most effectual Means of accomplishing these Purposes, would be a personal Interview between Sindia and myself; and I desire that you will endeavour to draw from him his Sentiments concerning it, and advise it, if you find him disposed to it, but do not abruptly or formally demand it. Should he be equally inclined to meet me, you may propose Allahabad or Khanpoor as the Rendezvous; but if neither of those Places should suit his Convenience, I will go to Etawa, or any other Place on the Banks of the Jumnah, that you may judge my Time will admit of. If Sindia should either decline an Interview altogether, or not afford you a proper Encouragement to recommend it, it must then rest entirely with you to effect my Views, which are as follows; first, obtain, through the Mediation of Sindia, and in Concert with his Agent, if he shall think proper to depute one for that Purpose, a Treaty of Peace and Alliance, offensive and defensive, with the Peashwa, against all common Enemies, but especially against Hyder Ally Khan; or of Peace simply on the Condition of restoring all that we have acquired during the War, except Ahmedabad, and the Territory conquered for Futteh Sing Guicwar.

We cannot totally abandon the Interests of Ragonaut Row; endeavour to obtain for him an adequate Provision on the Conditions prescribed in General Goddard's Instructions.

You may consent to yield what is ours, and what we can in Honour grant; but we will never suffer our Treaties to be infringed, nor our Faith to be violated. You will of course be attentive to any Engagements subsisting between us and other Powers, in settling the Terms of Peace and Alliance with the Marattahs. I except from this Precaution the Ranah of Ghode, who has been guilty of the most flagrant Breach of Faith towards us in every Instance, after a most faithful and scrupulous Performance of every Stipulation in his Favour by us, and after we have saved him and his Country from certain Destruction. Leave him to settle his own Affairs with the Marattahs: Colonel Muir will give you complete Intelligence concerning the Ranah's Conduct, and from this you will judge whether he is worthy of being any longer considered as our Ally.

Reserve Basseen if you can, even though it should be with the Concession of restoring all the Lands obtained by the Treaty with Colonel Upton, except Salsett, and the ceded Islands, and the ceded Moiety of Baroach; but do not insist on the Reservation of Basseen, to the Hindrance of Peace. We want nothing from the Marattahs but their Alliance against Hyder Ally Khan, and that we dispense with, as the Effect of a positive Engagement to which they cannot perhaps in Decency agree, although they may be desirous of availing themselves of any Pretext which may lead to it without a direct Breach of their public Faith.

Be careful that your Engagements do not contain any Thing hostile to the Government of Berar, or hurtful to our Connection with it.

Include Futteh Sing Guicwar in the Peace, according to the Treaty concluded with him, of which you have a Copy.

Obtain the Exclusion of the French, and all other European Nations, from the Alliance, and from the Ports and Dominions of the Marattahs.

It must be a principal Object of your Attention to prevail upon the Marattah Government to invade the Dominions of Hyder Ally Khan. They will not enter into public Engagements for that Purpose,

PART I.

Purpose, as they are at present in Alliance with him; but Pretexts will not be wanting, when they shall perceive the Facility of making Conquests upon him. •

Endeavour to interest Sindia in all these Views with the Administration at Poona, and to engage him separately, or with Tuckoojee Hoolcar, into closer Connections with our Government by the Prospects of mutual Advantage. I leave a large Latitude in this Instruction to your Discretion. You know my Views, which are for present Peace and future Security. Pursue and agree to whatever may promote these Views. Reject and shun whatever may obstruct them, and especially such as may draw us into a new Scene of Hostilities.

Wait upon Colonel Muir in his Camp at Etawa, before you proceed to Sindia, and obtain from him every Information and Advice which can be useful in your Negotiations with that Chief.

Since your Departure, Rajah Moodajee Boolla has requested, that a Gentleman in my Confidence might attend him, as the Agent of our Government, at his Court; and I have given this Commission to Mr. Chapman. I lend you a Copy of his Instructions. You will furnish him with such Communications and Orders from Time to Time, as you may judge will tend to promote the Success of your Negotiations.

the 4th of November 1781.

Copy of the Instructions given to Mr. Chapman on the 12th of November 1781.

To Charles Chapman, Esquire.

Sir,

The Rajah of Berar having expressed a Desire, that an English Gentleman in my Confidence may be sent to his Court, I have thought proper to comply with his Request; and depute you thereto accordingly. Your Credentials are inclosed.

You are to consider the first Object of your Commission to be, to strengthen and encrease the Friendship and Alliance virtually subsisting between the Company and the Berar Government. You will be furnished by the Secretary at the Presidency with Copies of all the Papers that are material to your Information respecting the Relation in which the two Governments stand to one another; and the Persian Translator has Orders to give you Copies of such Part of the Correspondence between them as you may require.

Should any Circumstances occur that may present a favourable Opportunity to the Rajah to act offensively against Hyder Ally, and he or his Ministers should shew a Disposition to employ the Berar Forces in doing so, you will encourage it, and acquaint the Board with any reasonable Conditions on which such Aid may be proffered.

The indecisive Conduct of the Berar Government, subsequent to its Offer of Mediation and Guarantee of a Peace between the Company and Marattah State, having thrown the Credit and Honour of such Interference into other Channels, you can now only accept of the Assistance which the Rajah's Influence, as a Member of the Marattah State, may enable him to afford, for effecting a speedy Termination of the War, unless the other Members of the Marattah State should require or approve his Guarantee, of which you will be advised by Mr. Anderson: And on this, and on every other Occasion which may result from his Negotiations, you will act conformably to his Advice and Requisition.

Should the Rajah, as he declares his Intention to be, pay a Visit to Poona, and invite you to accompany him, you will comply with his Desire; but as Mr. Anderson has been deputed by this Government with full Powers to conclude a Treaty of Peace with the Marattah State, you are on no Account to enter upon any Negotiation but at his express Requisition; and you are, in every Respect to consider yourself as subordinate to him, and to promote the Object which he has been appointed to accomplish.

In this Qualification of your Powers, I know that I conform to your own Wishes; but should any unforeseen Accident happen to Mr. Anderson, that will prevent him from being present at an Assembly of the efficient Members of the Marattah State, or otherwise acting on the Orders given him, and he shall write to you to that Effect, and you yourself be on the Spot, and find them disposed to accommodate their Disputes with the Company, the Powers entrusted to Mr. Anderson are in such Cases to devolve on you, and you will act in conformity to his Instructions, a Copy of which is given to you inclosed, and to such further Instructions as he shall give you.

Mr. John White is appointed your Assistant in this Deputation, and he and yourself are authorized to draw the fixed Allowances usually given to Persons employed in your respective Capacities.

12th November 1781.

I am, &c.
Warren Hastings. ✱

To Edward Wheler and John MthPherson Esquires, Members of the Council of Fort William.

Gentlemen,

The Mode of collecting the Customs on Merchandize passing through this Province, being attended with much Abuse, and the Rates unequal, being proportioned to the Load, not to the Value of the Goods; I have issued Orders that the Customs shall be hereafter collected only at Three Stations; namely, Mirzapoor, Banaris, and Ghauzipoor, by appointed Officers instead of Farmers, and according to a new Table of Rates formed on the ordinary Prices of the Goods; the Duty to be levied thereon at the Rate of 5 per Cent. and in one single Payment.

Inclosed are Copies of my Orders to the Rajah, and to the Resident, and of the Table of Rates.

Letter from the Resident at the Court of the Nabob Vizeer, containing a Relation of the Rebellion in Gooruckpoor, &c.

To the Honourable Warren Hastings Esquire, Governor General, &c. &c.

Sir,

When I had last the Honour of seeing you, I more than once urged my Reasons for thinking that the Rebellion of Rajah Cheit Sing was but a Part of a larger and more extensive Plan, which was, by the good Fortune of your Arrival, prematurely brought forward before all the Parties to it were united and properly prepared for Action. In support of this Belief, and to prove that I am far from being single in the Espousal of it, I beg leave to trouble you with some Extracts from the Letters I received from Colonel Hannay, written from the Time of the first breaking out of the Rebellion to my Return to Lucknow. His Situation for obtaining the Knowledge he imparts, his Experience, and his Judgment to guide what he advances, must make his Sentiments of Weight and Authority.

In his Letter of the 8th of September from Fyzabad, scarcely Ten Days after he had set about obeying the Nabob Vizeer's Orders to march with his Force to your Assistance, he writes, " That the whole Country on the East Side of the Gogra was in Arms and Rebellion; his own Troops deserting, and the single Companies scarcely able to join other Detachments; the Forts of Gooruckpoor, Bilma, and Dumreeagunge, taken from the Aumils by the Zemedyars; and that even Hircarrahs cannot pass; so that all Communication of Intelligence from his other Detachments under Major MthDonald, Captain Williams, and Lieutenant Gordon, was cut off, and at an End." He adds, " This Town (Fyzabad) has more the Appearance of belonging to Cheit Sing than the Vizeer. The Begums have placed Guards to prevent any of my People going to the Bazar in it. Within these few Days Sheakh Chaan, with near 1000 Horse and Foot, has marched from hence to Banaris (they were raised here); and I must confess, that for my own Part I have no Doubt but Jewar Ally Khan and Behar Ally Khan, through their Agents, have stirred up all the Disturbances which extend from hence to Powey and Azeemgur. I have sent Hoolaus Roy to the Begum, to enquire into the Reason of my People being prevented from going into the Town, Cheit Sing's being suffered to raise Troops here, and why her Servants attempted to prevent my getting Boats to transport the Company's Guns and Horse from Amora. I have also desired she will give Orders for seizing the Family of Sheakh Chaan (above mentioned); and when Hoolaus Roy returns, I will write you her Answer. In Kheirabad, Sylack, and all the Country on the (West) Side of the Gogra, between Fyzabad and Kheirabad Bud-amly * in Perfection; the Aumils flying before the Gong-wars, and Cannon firing at all Hours. Cheit Sing has sent Money to Futteh Shah, Ghinoo Roy, Ajeetmull, Zalim Sing, and all the refractory Rajahs, to enable them to raise Men.—I this Moment received Gordon's Account of the Loss of his Detachment, which puts my March to join you out of the Question. It happened by the Villany of the Fougedar of Tanda, Shum-sheer Khan, a Cheelah of Behar Ally Khan, who turned his Guns upon the Detachment; and an unfordable Nullah in Front, and many Thousands of Rajepoots, who had fought them all the Way from Chowra Ghaut, made the Sepoys despair. Zalim Sing and Puttypaul Sing mean to attack MthDonald To-morrow, with 2100 Men. Behar Ally Khan deserves Death, as the Loss of Gordon's Detachment can only be imputed to him. His Cheelah would never have acted * Disorder.

PART I.

“ so damning a Part without Orders from him. Jewar Ally Khan, in the Choke of Fyzabad, asks every Man who bears the Appearance of a Soldier, why he goes not to Cheit Sing for Service. I mention these Circumstances, that you may mention them to Mr. Hastings and the Nabob, and the necessary Steps be immediately taken to prevent what Delay will render a very serious Matter. A few Days more will lead the Ferment which is here to Lucknow. If the Nabob insists upon my proceeding, I must bring every body with me, for whoever is left behind will be sacrificed.”

On the 7th of September Captain Williams writes, “ Upon my Arrival here I found that Part of Futteh Shah’s, Ghino Roy’s, and Ajeetmull’s People, had crossed to Manjowlay. They have been urged to this Step by Cheit Sing, who has supplied them with a considerable Sum of Money, and promised them great Sums, if they will put the whole Country into Confusion; 5000 Men are on the opposite Side of the River ready to cross; Futteh Shah has written to all his Adherents to be in Arms; Saadut Ally and the Begums are concerned deeply in the late Business.” In a subsequent Letter, received immediately after the above, but without Date, Colonel Hannay says: “ I have before told you how violently the Begum’s People inflame the present Disturbances; and, in Addition to this, the principal Zemeedars and Rajahs have all Certificates, under the Seal of Cheit Sing, that he will supply them with whatever Money they may require for subsisting all the Troops they can raise. In a very short Time I apprehend the greatest Part of the Nabob’s Dominions will be in the State we are in here; and it is the general Belief of every Man in this Part of the Country, that the Conduct I have related is a concerted Plan for the Extirpation of the English. What may be the Situation of the rest of the Nabob’s Dominions I know not; but it is most certain, that from Goonda to Manjee, and from Fyzabad to the Banaris District, and across from the Gogra to the Ganges, the Country is in the utmost Ferment. Should the present Disturbances proceed from a Plan of Policy, it will be concealed from you as much as possible, and therefore I take all possible Means of communicating to you what I really know to be fact. I know not whether the Dawks pass freely from you to Lucknow; but if they do not, and no Measure is immediately taken to bring about Order, and draw the Troops together, we may be deprived of all possible Means of assisting one another, and the Army lost by detached Regiments. We have no Communication with Bengal, and the Troops on this Side Banaris are at present too much separated to yield one another timely Assistance. I hope to God a sufficient Force is ordered for the Reduction of Cheit Sing; for the People who are daily sent to him, Horse and Foot, from Fyzabad, and the Seat of Rebellion I have before named, is very great.”

In his next of the 13th he says, “ It is impossible, in the general Insurrection which now reigns almost universally, for me to get the Force together the Nabob demanded, or to force my Way to you with a less. The greatest Anarchy prevails. The present Insurrection is said, and believed, to be with an Intention to expel the English. I am compelled to give up all the Country below Goonda. Be upon your guard against the Vizeer, for there are many Circumstances to make me believe he means to espouse the Cause of Cheit Sing; the Begums have almost themselves recruited for him.”

In his next Letter of the 18th he says, “ If you meet but with a Check at Banaris, every Man in the Country is ready to fall upon your scattered Parties.”—“ The State of the Vizeer’s Dominions is in general beyond Description; the Insurrection is not partial, but generally spread throughout the whole, though it rages most violently in the Mehals of Sultanpoor, the Mehals from Fyzabad to the Banaris Country, the Mehals on this (East) Side of the Gogra, and in Koonry, Kheirabad, and Sylack; and if I may trust to the Information I receive, it is already begun, and will soon rage as violently, in Shajehanpoor, Rohilcund, Kora, and the Doaub. I have already and repeatedly informed you of the Dispositions of those in Power in Fyzabad, which has in fact been one of the great Sources of the Insurrection, and the Place of all others in the Vizeer’s Dominions which has supplied Cheit Sing with the greatest Number of Troops. The old Begum does, in the most open and violent Manner, support Cheit Sing’s Rebellion and the Insurrection; and the Nabob’s Mother’s accursed Eunuchs are not less industrious than those of the Burra Begum. Capital Examples made of Jewaur Ally Khan and Behar Ally Khan would, I am persuaded, have the very best Effect.”—On the 20th he says, after re-stating his own imminent Danger, “ I have already written you so fully my Reasons of being convinced of the Treachery practised at Fyzabad, and which, I am afraid, extends to your Camp, that I need say no more on the Subject;” and again mentions the general Insurrection.

The Truth of these Positions I found most fully proved upon my Return, but observed in particular, that the most vigorous Efforts were limited to the Jagheerdars, among whom the Begums, Fyzullah Khan, and Luttafut Ally Khan, distinguished themselves. However, the Nabob’s Return, the Victories gained by the Troops with you in the total Reduction of Cheit Sing’s Country, and the March of the Two Regiments from Khaunpoor to our Assistance here, have unitedly contributed to restore Matters nearly to their usual Tranquillity. The Example most necessary to be made of the Two active and turbulent Eunuchs, mentioned by Colonel Hannay, remains yet to be done, as well as of a Villain now in Confinement, who had assembled 5000 Gongwars* for the avowed Purpose of rescuing Two principal State Prisoners from their Confinement.

ment with the Nabob, and, as it is universally believed, to make an Attempt upon the Treasury, for which he had fixed the Day of the Duffarah; but was most happily detected, seized only a Day before by the Vigilance of the Cutwal, and the Fact proved by Papers found in his House. Unless Spirits of this Sort be controuled, the worst of Consequences may be expected from the Neglect, should (which God avert!) any fresh Opportunities occur.

I have the Honour to be, with Respect, &c. &c.

I have been honoured by the Receipt of your gracious Letter, communicating the Intelligence of a War having broke out between the Courts of Great Britain and France, and desiring me to take on myself a Share of the Burthen of Expence. My Patron, I am the Servant of the Sirkar. I will write you more fully hereafter; on all Occasions I am hopeful of your Highness's Favour and Support.

Extract from the Secret Proceedings of the Honourable Governor General and Council on the 26th of August 1779.

Resolved, That the Commander in Chief be requested to give Orders to Major Camac, or the Officer in Command of his Detachment, for the March of Two Battalions of Sepoys to Banaris, on the Requisition of Mr. Thomas Graham, the Resident there, and to remain at that Place for further Orders.

Resolved, That the following Letter be written to Mr. Graham.

PART II.

To Mr. Thomas Graham, Resident at Banaris.

Sir,

We have received your Letters of the 16th Instant, acquainting us that Rajah Cheit Sing had declined to pay the Five Lacks of Rupees which we required of him, as his Proportion of the Expences of the War for the current Year.

Having judged it necessary to make this Claim, which was suggested to us by the Urgency of the Case, we cannot admit of any Plea which the Rajah may urge to exempt him from it: Orders have therefore been sent to Major Camac, or the Officer in Command of his Detachment, to march to Banaris, immediately on your Requisition, with Two Battalions of Sepoys, and to wait our further Orders at that Place. We have thought this Step necessary for the Purpose of compelling the Rajah to pay the Quota required of him, in case of Necessity; and we desire that you repeat your Demand, and insist on his Compliance. If the Rajah should still continue to object to your Claim, and refuse Payment, you are to require the Officer in Command of the Detachment to march immediately, in conformity to our Orders, and advise us of your Proceedings. We hope, however, that you will not be reduced to proceed to this Extremity, as it would oblige us to encrease our Demands on the Rajah, by exacting from him the whole Expence of the Detachment from the Day of its March in Addition to our original Claim.

We are, &c.

Copy of an Arzee from Rajah Cheit Sing; received 27th of August 1779.

I have been honoured with your Letter, calling on me for Payment of 5 Lacks of Rupees on account of the Expences of the War for the present Year, and understand its Contents.

My Situation is well known to you; and I assure you, without Reserve, that I have no Ability left, nor is there any Mode of Relief for me but in the Exertion of your Favour. I am fully convinced that it is your Desire, who are my Master, to support me, who am your Servant; and last Year you informed Sheakh Ally Nucky, that I should, by any Means, by disposing of my Effects, or by borrowing, make this One Payment, and I should not be called on in future; and that you would take every Means for my Advantage and Support.

I accordingly put in Practice every Method in my Power, and by Loans made good the Requisition. It is now absolutely out of my Power to raise the Sum required; and I am therefore hopeful you will be kindly pleased to excuse me the Five Lacks now demanded of me beyond the Amount expressed in the Pottah, which, through your Favour, I obtained from the Honourable English Company.

This Raje and Zemecetary, and my Dignity, are the Gifts of your Highness; I have judged it necessary to represent to you my Inability and helpless State.

Copy of an Arzee from Rajah Cheit Sing; received 21st August 1780.

I have been honoured by your Orders, directing me to pay Five Lacks of Sicca Muchlidar Rupees to Mr. Fowke for the War, which still continues; and although my distressed Situation must be known to you from other Quarters, notwithstanding I have been afraid to represent it to you myself, that I have sold my House, and borrowed Sums of Money, from which I am not yet released; yet in Obedience to your Orders I have paid One Lack of Rupees out of the Five Lacks to Mr. Fowke, and shall pay the other Four in Three Months. I request you will send Directions to that Gentleman to allow me that Time, and it shall be punctually paid at the End of that Term. You yourself must be convinced that I have no Abilities or Resources left.

On Receipt of this it is my Order that you do immediately move your Detachment towards Ramnagur; and if you shall receive Intelligence from Bauboo Owsan Sing, which you will know to be authentic by comparing the Impression of his Seal which I send you herewith, or if he shall in Person give you Intelligence, that you may enter the Town in Safety, and proceed to take Possession of the Palace, you will advance and take Possession, using every Precaution to avoid a Surprise. But unless you shall receive such Intelligence from him, or if you shall at the same Time have any Grounds to expect an Opposition, you will in either Case halt and encamp in some open and secure Place without the Town; but on no Account enter it, unless you have every such Assurance as your own Judgment can rely upon, added to the Information of Bauboo Owsan Sing as above-mentioned, that you may proceed without Hazard of Hostilities, which it is my particular Desire to avoid, as the Rancee and her Family are situated in the Neighbourhood and must be exposed to the Consequences of it.

My Hircarrahs acquaint me, the Elephants were loaded with the most valuable Things the Rajah left behind him at Ramnagur. “ To take the Command of a Detachment to be immediately formed, and of which his own Regiment was to compose a Part, and was on the Spot, for the Purposes of reducing the Zemeedary of Banaris, which was in a State of general Revolt under the Rajah Cheit Sing, to Obedience; for restoring Peace, Order, and Security in the Country; and for granting Pardons to such Persons as should return to their Duty and make Submission to Government, with the Exception of Rajah Cheit Sing and his Brother Soojaun Sing.”

These Orders, or rather Instructions, also enumerated the Corps of which the Detachment was to consist, and authorized Major Popham to raise and form a Corps of Goolaundauze for the Duty of the Train.

Major Popham was left at full Discretion in the Conduct of his Military Operations for obtaining the Objects above expressed.

I wrote you of my Arrival on the 17th Instant in the Evening, and Yesterday Morning I enclosed you a Return of my Battalion. As the Hircarrahs have not since returned, I am doubtful of their having been able to reach you. Ram Jewan, a Servant of the Rajah Cheit Sing, is about Three Co's from me, with something more than 2000 Men and 4 Guns. I was informed of his intending me a Visit last Night: I was perfectly ready, and in Hopes of being able to have given a good Account of him and his Guns. A Party of his Horse came to a Village distant about Two Miles, and went off. This Morning One Howda Elephant, and less than 200 Horsemen, tolerably well mounted and armed, marched past in Front, distant about One and a Half Miles. I understand the Town of Ramnagur is without Troops, and not more than 250 or 300 Men in the Rajah's House. Troops from the different Pergunnahs are joining Cheit Sing at Lutteefpoor; he has formed a Camp on this Side of it, about five Co's from me. I shall be glad to receive your further Orders.

Sir,

Your Letter of the 18th Instant at 8 P. M. was delivered to me about 12 o'Clock this Morning. I am much concerned that my Orders were so positive against proceeding to Ramnagur, as I have no Doubt but I should have been able to take Possession of it with very little Loss, if the Information I had was good, which I have Reason to think was to be depended on. About 10 o'Clock this Morning I was under Arms, and continued so till One, my Hircarrahs having brought me Information of the March of the Rajah's Troops from Addilkauhaut: They were in Sight soon after. Some Horsemen advanced very near my most distant Centries, and went off; the whole of the Enemy moved more to the Right, and passed my Front within a Mile. I at first expected his whole Force; but from my own Observation I think they may be 600 Cavalry, not very good, 2 Guns, 200 Sepoys, Matchlock Men, and some Peons. They would arrive at Ramnagur before 12 o'Clock.

I have since been informed that the Rajah would march from Lutteefpoor about 12 o'Clock for Ramnagur: If he does, I expect him to pass me about 6 o'Clock this Evening, before which Time I shall be under Arms.

To Lieutenant Colonel Blair, commanding at Chunar.

Sir,

I request that you will use your best Endeavours to obtain Intelligence of any Parties of the Rajah's Troops at Pateeta, or other Places at no greater Distance from Chunar; and if you should judge it practicable and safe, attempt to surprise and defeat them by a Party from your Garrison. A successful Attack, though trifling in itself, might produce favourable Consequences; but I would not have it made at any Risk of Miscarriage, and still less if there was the smallest Probability of Misfortune. I would be understood only to recommend the Matter to your Consideration. The Decision must be left to your own Judgment, formed upon an intimate Knowledge of all Circumstances.

A Budgerow having been stopped and plundered, and an European and several Dandies belonging to it murdered, by the Rajah's People at Ramnagar, you will be pleased to give Orders for preventing all Boats whatever passing the Limits of your Garrison, either up or down the River.

Sir,

I desire you will order the Battalion of Sepoys now at Chunar to cross the River there, and march directly to this Place: You will please to furnish them with as much Ammunition as the Men's Pouches will contain.

I conclude that Captain Mayaffre's and Captain Blair's Corps have retreated to Chunar, as I have certain Intelligence of that Detachment being worsted in an Action with the Rajah's Troops. In this Case you will be able to spare me the whole Battalion, without leaving the Fort in any Danger; but at any rate send me as many Troops as you possibly can spare.

To the Honourable Warren Hastings Esquire.

Sir,

I have just received your Letter with Owsan Sing's Seal. Captain Mayaffre joined me last Night. This Morning he marched to the Attack of Ramnagur, was opposed at his Entrance, and obliged to retreat after a considerable Loss. Captains Mayaffre and Doxat are killed; several Europeans; the Number of Sepoys killed and wounded is very considerable. After some Time we were with Difficulty able to reach the River, where we are surrounded; at present I cannot say what will be the Fate of the rest. Captain Sparks commands.

NUM. 34.

To the Honourable Warren Hastings Esquire.

Sir,

As you seem to be unacquainted with the Misfortune that has happened to Captain Mayaffre's Detachment as late as 9 o'Clock last Night, by the Two Letters which I have received of that Date, I am sorry to inform you, that they were beat out of the Town of Ramnagur with a very considerable Loss; Two Officers killed, Three wounded, Two Field Pieces and a Howitz lost. The Enemy pursued the Detachment as far as Chuta Mirzapoor, and they arrived within Two Miles of this Fort last Night about 9 o'Clock. It has been a most unfortunate Business, and more rash and intemperate than any Thing I ever heard. Captain Blair, whom I have seen, says he foretold Captain Mayaffre every Thing that happened. If an Opportunity should offer of attacking any Parties of the Rajah's Force about the Distance of Pateeta, I will endeavour to surprise and defeat them; but I must proceed with great Caution, as the Enemy is at present flushed with Success, and the Battalion in Garrison is mostly composed of raw, undisciplined Men, who never fired a Shot. They have not less at this Time than 4000 fighting Men at and about Pateeta. I have this Moment received your Letter at Half past Nine o'Clock, and shall dispatch the Battalion immediately agreeable to your Orders.

Purport of a Letter written by Rajah Cheit Sing to the Governor General at Banaris, and intended to have been delivered on the Evening of the 21st of August, but not delivered.—This Draft of it was since made by Abdullah Beg, the Rajah's Vakeel, from his own Recollection of it, and delivered under his Seal to the Governor General.

I am with Heart and Soul the devoted Servant of the Sirkar; nor have I, within my own Knowledge, committed any Fault: For Example, the Guard which came from the Sirkar, to that too I yielded, nor deviated in the Breadth of an Hair from Obedience and Submission to Authority. In the mean time, Cheitram Chobdar came, and uttering improper Language, for that Cause the Men who attended me, who wanted Understanding, committed War and Bloodshed. At that Time I, through Fear of my Life and Honour, withdrew myself aside. Now also I have the Hope in your Favour and Mercy, that the Fault of your Servant may be pardoned, and that he may be honoured from the Presence, and all that I represented in the Pinnace, I am ready to act conformably thereto.

NUM. 37.

To the Nabob Vizeer.

Your Excellency will have heard from Report the rebellious and treacherous Conduct of Cheit Sing, which has delayed for a few Days my Departure towards Lucknow; and I am now arrived at Chunargur, where I shall remain some Time, to punish this Treachery and Rebellion, which has originated from his own wicked Disposition. Your Excellency will therefore be pleased to return to Lucknow; and as the sole Object of my Journey from Calcutta to this Quarter was to have an Interview with your Excellency, by the Blessing of God having shortly punished in an exemplary Manner this Rebel, I shall be made happy by meeting your Excellency, who in the mean while must not suffer any Apprehensions or Doubts to exist respecting this Business.

As in this Time of Necessity Troops are wanted here, and our Concerns are the same, I have therefore written to Lieutenant Polhill, who is with some Companies of your Excellency's Sepoys at Illahabad, to come to this Place, and have promised to acquaint you with it; assuring him, that your Excellency will approve of his coming here.

Having ordered Lieutenant Colonel Ahmuty to send the Regiment of Sepoys directly to Banaris, from the respective Stations of the Two Battalions, I now direct, if the Two Divisions should have marched separately, that on Receipt hereof you take Measures for effecting their Junction, whether they may be on the same or opposite Sides of the River, and proceed together the Remainder of your Route, which you will direct to this Place, instead of Banaris, as at first directed. You will pursue your March on whichever Side of the River you may judge most safe and expeditious for reaching this Destination; and will be careful to guard against a Surprise, and not suffer your March to be delayed by any Object but your own Security and Defence.

He is directed to escort the Treasure with his whole Force to this Place.

You will further be pleased, immediately on Receipt of this, to send an Agent to Illahabad, with Directions to purchase Grain to such Amount as he may be able to dispatch by Water from thence to this Fortrefs, for the Use of the Troops encamped near it.

You will also, as soon as possible, acquaint the Nabob Vizeer, that instead of meeting him upon the Road from Lucknow to Banaris, I now intend meeting him at Lucknow; and that I consequently request he will immediately return to that Place, and there wait my Arrival.

On the 19th I was acquainted by the Dawk Hircarrah, that Cheit Sing's Country was in Arms, that the Dawks are obstructed; and a Rumour also prevails here, that an Action had happened at Banaris between our Troops and Cheit Sing's; and as no Dawk has arrived here from Banaris the last Three Days, I am led to believe there is some Foundation for such Report: But as I have no further Advices that can be relied on, I am at a Loss how to conduct myself. I know not whether I should interfere to prevent his Subjects in my Neighbourhood assembling, for fear of offending against your Inclination, and being considered as the first Aggressor. GENERAL ORDERS, 26th August 1781.

The Governor General having this Day received the Returns of all the Killed and Wounded in the late Attack upon the Town of Ramnagur, and circumstantial Reports from the proper Officers, finds the greatest Alleviation to his Sorrow for the unhappy Issue of that Event, in the Testimonies which those Reports exhibit of the Bravery and Firmness displayed by the Officers and Troops, both Europeans and Natives, after they were compelled to retire from the Town with so considerable a Loss. The Governor General remarks with particular Satisfaction, the spirited and judicious Conduct of Captain Spark and Captain Blair in effecting a Retreat; and to the latter Gentleman especially, without derogating in the least from the approved and acknowledged Merit of Captain Spark, the highest Acknowledgments are due for the Skill and Resolution with which he extricated the Troops from their dangerous Situation in the Streets of Ramnagur, until their Junction with Captain Spark's Battalion. The Governor General considers the Officers engaged in this unfortunate Action entitled to his warmest Thanks and Applause for their gallant Behaviour, and requests they will please to convey to the Troops under their Command, his entire Approbation of their Courage and Discipline; particularly to the Corps of Rangers, who so eminently distinguished themselves throughout the whole Attack and Retreat, and whose Loss, with his own, on the Death of their unfortunate Companions, he justly laments.

To the Honourable Warren Hastings Esquire.

Honourable Sir,

I have the Pleasure to inform you, that I arrived at this Place Yesterday Morning, and only wait for a Company, which I expect to join me every Moment, and shall march this Afternoon. I hope to reach Chunargur the 27th in the Forenoon, where I hope I shall find Boats ready for my crossing. My Reason for taking this Route rather than that you were pleased to direct is, that Reports are circulated here, that you, the Gentlemen, and Troops, have left Banaris and gone to Chunargur. I did myself the Pleasure of writing to you at Banaris, but do not know whether you have received my Letter. I do not hear of any Bodies of the Rajah's Troops within 20 Cofs of this Place. There is in the Villages a Number of the Zemeeendars and Reyots assembled. I have no Intelligence so far as Chunar, but if there should be any large Parties in the Roads I hope you will honour me with the Information. My Detachment, when this Company joins me, will be about 420 Men, but we have nothing but bad Country-made Arms, One out of Ten of which is the utmost that will go off. I have Three Days Dawks with me. It is reported here, that there are Troops near Illahabad from Khaunpoor marching this Way.

To Edward Wheeler Esquire.

Sir,

I have written to you many Letters; all probably intercepted. I arrived the 14th at Banaris. On the 16th, the Rajah having been put under an Arrest, a numerous Body of armed Men suddenly crossed, attacked, and massacred the whole Party which had him in Custody, consisting of Lieutenants Stalker, Scott, and Symes, and Two Companies of Major Popham's Grenadier Sepoys; these having no Ammunition, fell without Resistance: The Rajah escaped, and fled to Lutteefpoor. On the 19th, a large Force returned to Ramnagur. Captain Blair with his Battalion, and Captain Mayaffre with the Remainder of Major Popham's Detachment, were ordered to assemble for the Attack of that Place, and Major Popham to join and conduct the Operations, according to a concerted Plan. The Two Corps having joined, Captain Mayaffre, the Senior Officer, without waiting for Major Popham, and against Orders, on the Morning of the 20th marched precipitately into the narrow Streets of the Town, where in an Instant he fell, with Captain Doxat and 33 Rangers, and almost all the Sepoys of Captain Blair's Battalion that had entered with him. The rest of the Detachment returned to Chunar, with the Loss of 2 Guns, 1 Howitz, and 103 Men of all Denominations killed. I was in Banaris with the broken Remains of Major Popham's first Party, consisting of about 400 Men, in a Place incapable of Defence, even with equal Numbers. Preparations were making to attack me. I waited until the Evening for a Battalion ordered from Chunar to reinforce our Party. At Seven, repeated Intelligence arrived that the Rajah's Boats were in Motion. No News had arrived of the Battalion from Chunar. It was resolved to meet it, and march with it to Chunar. The Resolution was instantly carried into Execution. We passed the Battalion, which returned and overtook us, and on the 22d at Day Break we gained the Banks of the River opposite to Chunar, having met no Opposition. The Detachment crossed on the Morning of the 23d. The Rajah's Forces are divided between Ramnagur and Lutteefpoor; his Family is at Bidjeygur; his fixed Establishment exceeds 10,000 Men, and all his Reyots bear Arms. Major Popham is encamped on the Plain East of the Fort. I expect to be joined by a Regiment from Khaunpoor, one ordered for my Guard at Lucknow. Lieutenant Polhill, with Six Companies of the Nabob's Guard, now at Hand, and Major Moses Crawford's Regiment. My only Distress is the Want of Money, and is great. Bauboos Owssan Sing, Doorgbijey Sing, and his Son Mehinarain, are with me.

Sir,

I have been favoured with your Letter of the 23d Instant, and have the Pleasure to inform you of my Arrival at this Place on the Morning of the 26th, with the 2d Battalion of my Regiment. The Information I received on my Arrival here, of a large Force being assembled at Zammaneeah, Ghauzipoor, &c. to obstruct my March, determined me, with the Advice of Major Eaton, to proceed no further, till joined by the 1st Battalion of my Regiment, which I am happy in informing you joined me here at 2 o'Clock P. M. this Day, after a March of 14 Cos. As a Number of the Men, and most of the Cattle of the Battalion, are To-day much fatigued and lame with forced Marches, I shall be under the Necessity of halting them To-morrow; but next Day I will assuredly march, and lose no Time in joining at Chunargur. You may rely, Sir, on my informing you as frequently as possible of my Progress and Situation. Sir,

About the Month of November last I communicated to Mr. Markham the Substance of a Conversation said to have passed between Rajah Cheit Sing and Saadut Ally, and which was reported to me by a Person in whom I had some Confidence; the Mode of communicating this Intelligence to you I left entirely to Mr. Markham.

In this Conversation, which was private, the Rajah and Saadut Ally were said to have talked of Hyder Ally's Victory over Colonel Bailie's Detachment, to have agreed, that they ought to seize this Opportunity of consulting their own Interest, and to have determined to watch the Success of Hyder's Arms. Some Days after this Conversation was said to have happened, I was informed by the same Person, that the Rajah had received a Message from one of the Begums at Fyzabad (I think it was from Shujah-ud-Dowlah's Widow), advising him not to comply with the Demands of Government, and encouraging him to expect Support in case of his resisting. This also I believe I communicated to Mr. Markham; but not being perfectly certain, I now think it my Duty to remove the Possibility of your remaining unacquainted with a Circumstance which may not be unconnected with the present Conduct of the Rajah.

Num. 60.

To Edward Wheler Esquire.

Sir,

Enclosed are Copies of Two Letters which I have had the Honour to write to you; the first in Duplicate from Banaris, and the last from this Place. I doubt the Possibility of the first having escaped the Vigilance of the People who are stationed in every Part of this Zemedyary to intercept my Letters. For the Conveyance of this Packet I shall trust to a light Boat, which, with a strong West Wind aiding the Rapidity of the Stream, will certainly pass without Interruption, if the Fears of the Dandies do not urge them to quit the Boat. In the enclosed Letters you will will receive a connected Relation of the Events which had befallen me to the 27th Instant, though purposely abbreviated in the last, for the safer Means of Conveyance.

The Arrival of Lieutenant Polhill, whose Activity cannot be too much applauded, has proved of very great Service in freeing our Communication with the opposite Shore. Our greatest Distress has been in the Want of Money and Provisions; the latter has been effectually removed, and with it the former in a Degree, by the Seizure of a large Store of Grain made by Lieutenant Polhill Yesterday Morning, in a Village about Three Miles distant, Information having been given me of it the preceding Evening. He was opposed by a considerable Body of the Enemy, reported to consist of about 150 Horse, Two Companies of Sepoys, and more than 2000 Matchlock Men, and Gongwars or armed Villagers, but were repulsed and dispersed with some Loss on their Side: On ours none. The Quantity of Grain secured is estimated at 5000 Mds. which in our Situation is a most important Acquisition, as we have every Reason to apprehend a total Failure of our Supplies when the Troops of this Place are reduced, as they soon must be, to the Complement of the Garrison. Numbers are yet assembling to reinforce the defeated Party of the Enemy, and they have been strengthened by Four Guns from Ramnagur, with the professed Determination of making one more Effort.

I have received no Answers to the Letters which I have diversly and repeatedly written to Colonel Morgan, to Mr. Middleton, to Lieutenant Colonel Ahmury, and to Major James Crawford, to whom it escaped me in my last to inform you that I had sent Orders to march to the Borders of Bidjeygur; but I have received a Letter from Colonel Morgan, written with a Knowledge of the late Events, and cannot doubt that his Prudence will dictate to him the obvious Necessity, on an Occasion of such Emergency, of sending a Party to my Relief, without waiting for the Formality of Orders, which he will know can with Difficulty reach him. I have Accounts, which I trust to as authentic, that Major Moses Crawford with his Regiment is on the Way; and my latter Letters to Mr. Middleton have been safely passed beyond the Borders of this Zemeedary. Upon the whole I can venture to assure you, that my Situation is actually such as, with the Reservation of that Influence which under every Circumstance must be allowed to Fortune in the Events attendant on a State of Warfare, will warrant the Expectation of an easy and complete Success.

Major Popham continues encamped on the Plain lying to the Eastward of the Fort, where he will be strengthened by all the Men that can be spared from this Garrison; and as soon as the Preparations are completed for that Service, he will march to the Attack of Ramnagur.

In the mean time I have not been inattentive to our more remote Concerns, which I shall reserve for a future Detail, and more secure Conveyance.

The Rajah's Situation, and the Disposition of his Forces, except the Detachment which is opposed to Lieutenant Polhill, is much the same as they have been described in my last.

Hyder Beg Khan has been some Time arrived at Banaris, but prevented from joining me by the Destruction of the Bridges laid over the Burna Nulla, on the lower Bank of which he is encamped, and by the sudden great Swell of the Water, which has rendered it unfordable. Yet I expect him soon, and his Presence will afford me material Service.

I have ordered to be enclosed Copies of Major Popham's Return of the Loss sustained in the Massacre of the 16th; of a Letter which has been written to me by Captain Sparks, and the Returns accompanying it, of the Killed and Wounded in the Attack of Ramnagur on the 20th August; and of a Letter from Captain Blair, containing the Particulars of that ill-fated Enterprize; also a List of the Gentlemen who were with me in Banaris on the 21st, and who accompanied me to Chunar.

I cannot close this Letter without testifying my Satisfaction with Lieutenant Colonel Blair, for his Zeal and Attention, and the Alacrity with which he executed the Orders sent to him for the different Movements of the Detachments from his small Garrison; and my entire Reliance on the steady Conduct and approved Experience of Major Popham. My Regrets for the past are personal. I shall ever retain a painful Remembrance of that Scene of Blood, of which I have been too near a Spectator, and which no future Return of Prosperity can ever efface from my Mind; but in the Prospect before me, I think I have every Reason to expect the happiest Termination of it, in the Extension of the Powers and Influence of the Company; and that the past Example may contribute to the Permanency of both, by prompting us to guard against the secret Growth of the like Evil which has produced it.

Sir,

I repeat—Send immediately a Regiment of Sepoys to this Place, with 30 Artillery Men, Officers in Proportion, and One of Experience to command them. Follow with your whole Force. You will not have occasion for Artillery, if you can dispose of it in Safety. Here is Abundance.

N. B. With this Letter were sent Colonel Muir's Credentials, and his Instructions in Duplicate 1st September. On the same Day Duplicate of Colonel Morgan's Letters, and Triplicate of Colonel Muir's; and on the same Day Triplicate of Colonel Morgan's last Letter; and another Letter to Colonel Muir, with Instructions copied from the First Part, with an additional Paragraph, authorising him to treat without Credentials. Each of these Three Dispatches was inclosed in a Quill.

To the Honourable Warren Hastings Esquire, Governor General, &amp;c.

Sir,

I have the Honour to congratulate you on the Success which Captain Blair has this Morning met with. I shall do myself the Pleasure of waiting on you, as soon as the Detachment returns to Camp, which I expect in Half an Hour or so.

What I gather of this Business is, that our People advanced under a severe Fire at first, but the Enemy soon gave way, and left us Three of their Guns; One of those is the Gun Captain Mayaire lost. Mr. Murray and Four Europeans are scorched by the Explosion of a Gun Cartridge, and several Sepoys killed and wounded.

I have the Honour to be, &amp;c.

P. S. The inclosed is just come to Hand. (It was a short Account from Captain Blair of the Success of the Day.)

NUM. 63.

To the Honourable Warren Hastings Esquire, Governor General, &amp;c.

Sir,

The 3d Instant at Night, Major Popham did me the Honour to mention his Wish of surprizing the Enemy, then encamped near Pateeta, with an Offer to me of commanding the Party which was to perform that Service. I most gladly accepted it; and at One o'Clock in the Morning marched off with the greater Part of my own Battalion, the Grenadiers of the 35th Regiment, in all about Five hundred and Fifty Men, and Two Six Pounders. I took my Route by the Left of our present Encampment, to avoid their Out Posts, which I was so fortunate to pass unobserved, and expected to have arrived by the first Appearance of Day Light, but was retarded in my March by the Badness of the Gun-Bullocks and Drivers. The Enemy were first alarmed by some Firing on the West Side of Chunar; nearly at the same Time they must have received Information of my March and Intentions, for I found them regularly drawn up on an extensive Plain, more than a Mile to the Eastward of their former Station, in Numbers about Four thousand, including Four hundred Cavalry tolerably well mounted, and Six Pieces of Ordnance. They commenced the Cannonade about Five o'Clock in the Morning, distant about Three Quarters of a Mile. I continued to advance, and so soon as our Round Shot would take effect, I fired upon their Line, and continued doing both; their Infantry and Artillery firing very smartly, and their Cavalry having surrounded us, which was deterred from charging our Line by a Shot from our Guns now and then. The Fire of our Artillery and Sepoys, which was very quick, obliged their Infantry to fall back. To get Possession of their Guns, was immediately necessary at this critical Moment. Convinced of it, I ordered the whole of the Grenadiers to advance for that Purpose; which they did with such Impetuosity as overcame all Opposition; and seized Two Guns, which were immediately turned upon the Enemy. The Grenadiers were led on by Lieutenants Fallen, Birrell, and Murray: I must beg leave to mention them in the warmest Manner for their gallant, steady Conduct. The Enemy began to give way in every Part: Immediately after a very smart Fire from all the Guns and Line completed our Success. About Six, or a little after, the Enemy observed no Regularity, every Man appeared to be guided by his own Fears, and ran away to the Town and Fort of Pateeta, which was in the Rear of their left Flank. Another Gun was about this Time taken, by a Party which I detached for that Purpose. In another Part One of the Enemy's Standards was taken, and soon after a Fourth Gun. Our Guns were well pointed and served by Lieutenant Baillie, the Officer of Artillery, to whom I am much obliged for his Activity and Conduct during the whole of the Action.

Taken from the Enemy: Four Brass Guns, with Limbers and Tumbrils, with a very large Quantity of Ammunition of every Kind, and of the very best Materials; One of each Sort I have taken the Liberty of sending for your Inspection.—It appears evident to me, from the Quantity and Quality, to have been all prepared long before your Arrival at Banaris, and at a very considerable Expence, Part of it being European Materials. I was under the Necessity of blowing up a Tumbril, and Two Limber Boxes full of Ammunition, a large Quantity of Powder, and leaving upwards of 1500 Round Shots, and One Gun shotted and spiked, for want of any Means to bring them off.

Three Brass Guns, One Tumbril, and One Limber Box of Ammunition, I brought with me. The Sepoys offered their Services to draw them, which I thankfully accepted, and made them a small Recompense for their Readiness.

I now collected my wounded Men, which were very considerable, and much dispersed, occasioned by the Distance I had advanced. I provided them with Painkeens, Officers Horses, Doolies, and every Thing which could be collected. Mr. Laird, the Surgeon, was very diligent and active in giving his Assistance on this Occasion, as well as during the Action. About Eight o'Clock I was joined by Lieutenants Wade and Malcolm, with One Gun, the Rangers, and One hundred Sepoys; the Rangers made an Offer of dragging the Enemy's Guns, which I accepted, and employed them with the Sepoys, who had before made the like Application, and were much fatigued.

Having accomplished the Service, and I believe the Intention of my being detached, though I could not surprize the Enemy's Camp, owing to their early Intelligence, I judged it most proper to return to our present Station; which I did, the Enemy not chusing to give me any further Trouble. I take the Liberty to mention Lieutenant Birrell's Conduct, during the whole of the Action, as deserving the highest Praise from me; also every Officer and Soldier I had the Honour of commanding.

I have the Honour to be, &c.

Dear Sir,

I wrote to you by a Hircarrah sent this Morning. I am most happy to inform you, that the Troops I expect To-morrow, and I will take care to have Provisions ready for the Europeans, that no Delay may be occasioned. The first Information that Colonel Morgan had of your Want of Troops, was from a Letter I sent, which I am happy to find hastened Matters. The Bearer has a Letter from Colonel Morgan to the Governor. As every Endeavour on my Part has been exerted, so shall it be continued; and I shall be most happy if my Situation can be rendered in the smallest Degree serviceable.—All quiet.

I am this Instant favoured with your's of the 24th, and I Yesterday received your public Letter of the 23d. The Khaunpoor Regiment is arrived at Lucknow, and by To-morrow will, I have no Doubt, be on its March, with a Lack of Rupees, to join you. Provisions will also be sent you daily from Illahabad. The Nabob will move towards you immediately. No Persuasions will induce him to return to Lucknow. On this Subject I have written fully to Johnson. I have received no Letters from you but the Two above mentioned. We shall be near you in Eight Days.

NUM. 68.

To Edward Wheler Esquire.

Sir,

Yesterday Morning Major Popham detached Captain Blair with his Battalion, and Two Companies of his own Grenadiers, and Two Guns (6 Pounders), to attack the Enemy collected at Pateeta. They were prepared to receive him, and made a very spirited Resistance. After a very severe Action, the Fortune of the Day was happily turned in our Favour, by a bold but well-judged Manœuvre. Captain Blair detached his Grenadier Companies to attack Two Guns which were posted on the Flank, and galled his Troops exceedingly. The Attack succeeded, and the Two Guns were turned upon the Enemy, who were soon after totally routed. Captain Blair brought off Three of their Guns, and spiked the Fourth, the Carriage of which was disabled. He brought away also One of their Tumbrils, and all his own loaded with their Ammunition. Three more of their Tumbrils, with much loose Powder, were blown up on the Field. Captain Blair having no Means of bringing them away, he was also obliged to leave about 1500 of their Shot piled in a Village. The Enemy's Numbers are reputed 8 or 9000 Men; though Captain Blair judges them from Appearance to be only 3 or 4000. They were their prime Men; our Loss, which I add with Regret, is 105 Men killed and wounded; theirs must be proportionably more, though unknown. It is remarkable, that the Enemy's Artillery and Cartridges made at Ramnagar are almost equal to ours; their Cartridges and Portfires compounded with equal Skill, and their Powder much better. This is the second Instance in which the Service is signally indebted to the collected and intrepid Gallantry of Captain Blair. Other Praises are due, which cannot be noticed in this.

To the Honourable Warren Hastings Esquire, Governor General, &c.

Honourable Sir,

The unusual Failure of Intelligence from you, and the Reports which are brought to me by the Natives being fraught with alarming Accounts of your Situation, have determined me to detach immediately Two Regiments of Sepoys, 40 European Artillery-Men, with Four Guns and One Howitz, with Orders to proceed with all Expedition to join you; and the Officer commanding the Detachment has Orders to pursue such Measures, and make such Movements, as he shall deem expedient, according to his Intelligence, for effecting that Service. They will set off on Saturday next, September the 1st. The Artillery, for the sake of Expedition, is to go down by Water to Illahabad, where it is to wait for the Arrival of the Sepoys. I shall immediately order Three Battalions from the Detachment at Calpee to march to this Station, and One Battalion under Major Gilpin will be left for the Protection of that Place. A fresh Supply of Ammunition has been dispatched to Lucknow for Major Roberts's Regiment.—Though I cannot but imagine, that were your Situation anyways critical or dangerous, and you stood in need of Military Force to assist you, I should not have remained so long without receiving Orders from you to send Troops down; yet I doubt not but the Step I have taken will receive your Approbation, as there is a Possibility of your Orders having miscarried, and the Consequence of a Delay, in such a Case, might prove serious and dangerous.—I shall order the Regiment of my Brigade that is now at Futtehgur, to march down to this Station as soon as possible.—As the quick Arrival of this Letter to your Hands is promised to be rewarded by you, or the Officer who receives it, I beg leave to request that you may be pleased to order the Sepoys and Boatmen such Rewards, honorary or pecuniary, as you may think equal to the Merit of their Service.

Honourable Sir,

Since I inclosed the accompanying Duplicate, I have received a Letter from Lieutenant Pigott at Illahabad, covering a Note from Colonel Blair, to communicate your Orders to an Officer commanding a Detachment proceeding from Khaunpoor to Banaris by Water; and Lieutenant Pigott has sent Three Copies of it that have since arrived. His Care and Attention I must beg leave to recommend here, as from these I received the first authentic Intelligence of your being in want of Troops to assist you; and as by the Words of Colonel Blair's Note, it appears that you had dispatched Orders to me for sending a Detachment of Troops down to Banaris; but these Orders never reached me, and I am now at a Loss to know what Strength you wished the Detachment. To-day, Part of the Detachment I send down to you under Command of Major Crabb will embark, and To-morrow the whole will set off: It consists of a Party of Artillery under Captain Hill, the Two Flank Companies of the European Regiment, and Two Regiments of Sepoys, with Four 6 Pounders and One Howitz; Tumbrils, Ammunition, Draft and Carriage Cattle. All will proceed by Water, but no more Boats can be procured here.

To the Honourable Warren Hastings Esquire, Governor General, &amp;c.

Honourable Sir,

I have forwarded you Six Letters by different Dispatches; but as I have not yet been honoured with your Instructions, and am daily receiving Reports of the Situation of Affairs towards Chunar, I am fearful of their having miscarried, and more so from the Disaffection which seems to prevail in this Part of the Country, and particularly in the Pergunnah of Serinjah, where the Inhabitants are assembling in a small Fort, and rendering themselves as formidable as the Situation will admit. Aware of the Consequences which might attend their Measures, I wrote a Letter to the Aumils, Amur Sing and Ooden Sing, to require their Reason for this Appearance of Hostility; but their Answer was evasive from the Subject I addressed them on, and tinged with Insolence. Such Steps therefore as I deemed necessary for the Defence and Protection of this Place I have been studiously attentive to, and am now providing a Magazine of Provisions for the Expence of the Garrison in case of an Attack, which, from the Information of my Hircarrahs, I find myself threatened with. For Assistance in this Particular I applied to Beecramajeet, Fougedar of Boudgepoor; but though his Professions are tendered with all the Warmth of Sincerity, his Conduct, and Connection with Bucket Sing, induce me to think him but little attached to the Interests of our Government, and I have been therefore necessitated to make further Application to Mr. Graeme at Chupra.—The Number of Troops detached on Command from this Station, reduces my Force to 368 Rank and File, including the contiguous Out Guards and Sick; and I am further deficient in an Establishment to work the Ordnance of the Garrison.—The several Dawks arrived at this Station shall be forwarded under Charge of Major Crawford.

I have the Honour to be, &amp;c.

Translation of an Arzee from Rajah Cheit Sing to the Honourable Governor General.

When I waited upon your Highness in your Pinnace, I represented to you every Thing which was proper to be represented; that my Life, my Country, and Property belonged to your Highness; requesting that you would order whatever was your Pleasure, and I was ready to obey it with Pleasure. I besides performed all the Duties of Obedience and Humility, and represented all the Particulars with a View to the present Time; for I well knew, that as soon as Owssan Sing should be introduced to your Highness, Mr. Markham and the Moulavies, &c. having settled this Plan, would make you conceive Displeasure against me. At that Time your Highness answered, that you had no Business with my Life or Property; that you had not given Admission to Owssan Sing, or any of his People; that you had no Connection with any of my Relations: What Crime did I afterwards commit, that, by the Advice of my Enemies, you should resolve to confine me with such Disgrace? However I remained until Evening in Confinement, and behaved in no Instance otherwise than with the greatest Humility and Obedience.—I addressed several ral Arzees, expressing my Readiness to obey your Orders; and that I was your Slave, and was ready with my Life and Property —Observe, that Cheit Ram Chubdar came to me, and reviled me, and with a loud Voice gave both me and my People the vilest Abuse. The People of the Sirkar first fired Balls from their Guns, and discharged their Muskets; immediately the Tumult arose, and, notwithstanding my most earnest Request for them to desist, no one would hear me. Myself, after being wounded by a Sword in the Hand of the Captain, escaped with Life from that imminent Danger, and withdrew myself. If you will examine with an Eye of Justice, and without listening to Tale-bearers and Informers, you will find no Crime in me; and your Mind, which is the Mirror of the World, will I am certain approve of it.—I have before addressed Arzees to you, but have not yet been honoured with an Answer.—Owian Sing has not yet ceased from ruining the Affairs.—Should now my Life and Honour be left to me, I am your Slave.—Beneram Pundit will have represented my Situation to you, and will continue to do so.]

Translation of a Letter from Rajah Cheit Sing to Beneram Pundit.

I formerly wrote all Particulars of my State to you at Calcutta, that you might explain them fully to his Highness the Nabob. When his Highness came towards this Quarter, I repeated every Thing to him on board his Pinnace: That I was in every Instance ready, that my Life, Country, and Property belonged to him, and that he should do whatever he wished. To this he replied, that he had nothing to do with my Country, Property, or Life. A Day or two after he sent a Battalion to Shewallah, with Mr. Markham and Three other Gentlemen, and put me into Confinement; he likewise sent Guns. Notwithstanding this I made no Opposition, and remained confined till Evening. I addressed an Arzee to the Governor, that I should make no Opposition, and that he might do with me whatever he liked. This however did not meet with his Approbation. Cheit Ram Chubdar came to me, and gave the vilest Abuse to me and my People; they then fired the Guns and discharged their Muskets. In this Instant I most earnestly requested them to desist; but upon the Captain's striking me with his Sword, the Tumult commenced; I myself having escaped with Life, remained at a Distance, when Battalions and Guns, sent from the Fort of Chunar, arrived at the Town of Ramnagur. My People, for the Protection of their Honour and Credit, defended themselves.—As my Honour is bestowed on me by the Nabob, I have therefore addressed an Arzee to his Presence, which you will present, and procure a speedy Answer. Whatever may be proper, do you represent, and send me an Answer.

Honourable Sir,

The Relation of the unlucky Accident which prevented my going to Chunar, and the Distresses I have suffered since, I shall forbear mentioning till I have the Honour and Happiness of seeing you; I will only briefly acquaint you, that the Rajah having discovered the Place of my Concealment at the House of Gopaul Dofs, he sent a Number of his People Yesterday to take charge of me, and I am now with him at Lutteefpoor.

Pardon me, Sir, and do not impute it to any presumptuous Liberty, if, at the Rajah's humble and earnest Entreaty, I propose, on his Part, Terms of Conciliation and Submission: He solemnly declares that the Misfortunes resulting from the late Event were contrary to his Wish and Intent, his Disposition ever leading him to live in Peace and Friendship with the English Nation, and to pay implicit Obedience to your Commands. The Rajah desires me to say, that he is disposed to pay the Honourable Company the customary Tribute, and any other Demands you may in Reason make upon him. To this you will please to reply, as the Exigency of our Situation and your superior Wisdom may suggest.

I assure you, Sir, that though I am now in the Rajah's Power, and cannot avoid repeating to you what he has requested, I have taken up my Pen with Fear and Trembling, lest any Thing I have said should give you Displeasure; for I am conscious of my Inferiority, and scarce dare entertain a Hope that any Thing that comes conveyed through me will be attended to; but I confide in the Goodness of your Heart; and the bare Possibility of being instrumental to the putting an End to our present Troubles mitigates all my Fears.

You will perceive my present distressed Situation, and pardon every Impropriety and Inaccuracy in this Letter; and believe me to be with the sincerest Attachment and Respect, Honourable Sir, &c.

I was made happy by the Receipt of your Excellency's Two Letters, accompanied by Mr. Middleton's, acquainting me that you have advanced some Days Journey from Lucknow, and arrived at Peepulpoor, and that you would proceed from thence towards this Place, where you would soon arrive. Before this I wrote to your Excellency, requesting that you would lay aside your Intention of coming here, and return to Lucknow, that you might not suffer any Inconvenience on the Road, from the rebellious Disposition of Cheit Sing's People; and that I, having settled these Matters, would proceed to an Interview with your Excellency; and that you ought by no means to think of coming to this Quarter. But as I learn that notwithstanding this your Excellency is resolved on coming to my Assistance, I am filled with the highest Gratitude for so noble a Proof of your Friendship. It is now incumbent on your Prudence and Circumspection that you advance with the greatest Caution, to prevent any Inconvenience from the Treachery of Cheit Sing's People. As soon as I am informed of your Excellency's Approach to Chunar, I will cross the River with as many Troops as I have with me, and will proceed to meet you. Three Days ago Major Popham, with a small Part of his Detachment, attacked a large Force of Cheit Sing's entrenched near the Fort of Pateeta, defeated them completely, and took Four Guns, several Tumbrils of Ammunition, and a considerable Quantity of all Sorts of Military Stores. I beg leave to congratulate your Excellency on this signal Success.

Before this the Arzees which I have repeatedly addressed to your Presence will have been perused by you, but to this Time I have not been honoured with an Answer to any one of them. I am in every way ready in my Allegiance and Duty, and have obeyed all your Highness's Orders, and never have I been negligent in any one Point; and your Highness, from your Goodness and Justice, has always been pleased to protect and support your own Slave, and to shew him Favour. All this Time, when from the unfortunate State of the Times the Reports of self-interested Persons have met with Reception at the Presence, I humbly represent that the Words of evil-minded, self-interested Persons be not attended to; but that your Highness, looking upon me as a Slave raised by yourself, will be favourable towards me, because I am your Slave, and am ready in my Duty and Allegiance. Although I have been guilty of no Fault, yet the Slave is by all means criminal, and the Business of the Master is Pardon. By the Blessing of God, your Highness is the Master, and is just; let him consider that in all the Three Battles the Army of the Sirkar was the Aggressor. Now Matters have passed the Extremities. Should you even now bestow Life upon me, it would not be foreign from the Duty of a Master.

Your Order of the 25th ult. I received the 1st, and that of the 26th on the 2d. I sent by Express your Order to Colonel Cumming immediately. I have given Major Crabb particular Orders to carry down Grain and Provisions with him, and gave him 25,000 Rupees to purchase it with, which was all the Cash in the Treasury here. GENERAL ORDERS issued at Chunar 8th September 1781.

The Governor General desires to express publicly the Sense which he entertains of the gallant Behaviour of the Officers and Troops in the Attack made upon the Enemy's Camp near Pateeta on the 4th Instant. The Governor General considers Captain Blair as entitled to his warmest Approbation, for the Resolution and Conduct which he evinced in defeating a Force so much superior in Number, nor wanting, as it has appeared, in personal Bravery.

PART II.

The Spirit exerted by Lieutenants Fallon, Birrell, and Murray, who led the Grenadiers; the Service performed by the Artillery, under Charge of Lieutenant Baillie; and in general the Steadiness and Attention of every Officer in his Station, materially contributed to the Success of the Action, and give them a Claim to the highest Commendations.

The Governor General also highly commends the Care and Activity of Mr. Laird, in his Attention to the Wounded during the Action.

It is with great Satisfaction that the Governor General gives the Praise, which has been represented to him as due, to the distinguished Behaviour of the Grenadiers of the Detachment.

You have acted nobly, and with a Decision that does you Honour. I most heartily thank you. I have had a Letter from Major Crabb, dated the 2d, from Illahabad: He proposed to march by Land from thence, and I expect him hourly; though I have not heard from him since. The Nabob is near; Major Moses Crawford is also on the Way from Dynapoor, and is reported to be at Sukkerdeea, which is but 4 Cos from Ramnagar. I have written to you the News of the 3d. On that Morning Captain Blair, with 5 Battalion Companies and 2 Companies of Major Popham's Grenadiers, with Two Six Pounders, attacked the Enemy, encamped in a Body of more than 4000 Men, at Pateeta; and after a very severe and doubtful Conflict, in which we lost 105 Men, killed and wounded, he obtained a most decisive Victory, taking all their Guns and Ammunition, viz. 4 Guns, 4 Tumbrils, and of Ammunition an incredible Quantity, most of which he destroyed, spiked One Gun, and brought away the rest. I hope that it will be unnecessary for you yourself to proceed this Way; yet march, and use your own Discretion in advancing. If your Presence shall be required, you will receive the surest Proof of it by the Failure of my Letters. I less fear the actual Enemy than the Contagion of the Example. I am much pleased with the Nabob.

Dear Sir,

Futteh Shah, Genoo Roy, and Ajeet Mull, with a large Body of armed Men, are come into Huseepoor. The Two last have, I understand, joined Futteh Shah, on a Promise of his Assistance in obtaining Possession for them of their Zemeedaries in Gooruckpoor, which is to be the second Object of this Confederacy. I have no Force to defend any Part of my Districts, and have therefore been under the Necessity of calling on the Zemeedars of Sirkar Sarun for their Assistance on this Occasion, and some of the principal Men amongst them are gone with their Dependants to Huseepoor; but I confess I have no great Confidence in them. Several of them are intimately connected with Cheit Sing; there are also some allied by Marriage to Doorgbijey Sing and to Owfan Sing: The Names of these last are Gopaul Narain, Serib Narain, Govind Narain, Hir-Govindsaw, Bonisser Saw, and Ragonaut Saw. Letters to them from Doorgbijey Sing and Owfan Sing would be of infinite Service, and might, in some Degree, counteract the infamous Attempts of Cheit Sing. One Letter of his (and I have Reason to believe there are many in Circulation) addressed to Durjoo Sing, a Zemeedar of the District, at present employed in Huseepoor, was by him carried to the Aumil of that Place, who immediately sent it to me*. It is signed by Cheit Sing's own Hand, and has the large Seal of his Government affixed to it. He therein desires Durjoo Sing to kill every European and Sepoy he can, and join him with all his People.

In my Letter of the 25th ultimo I acquainted you with the Application I had made to Colonel Ahmuty, for a Battalion of Sepoys, and with his Refusal. He wrote me, that the whole Force at Dinapoor was Nine Companies, that they were lately incorporated, and the Arms they had unserviceable.

To Edward Wheeler Esquire.

Sir,

I have advised you in Triplicate of the Success gained by Captain Blair on the 3d. It was dear, but decisive. With 550 Men opposed to more than 4000, he completely routed them, took all their Guns (4), Tumbrils (4), and Ammunition immeasurable. Major Moses Crawford is at Dildarnagur, about the Midway between this and Buxar; there he will remain till Major Popham moves. Yesterday Morning Major Crabb with his Detachment, consisting of 100 European Infantry, 30 Artillery with Captain Hill, and Two Regiments of Sepoys, arrived, and these were all transported to this Side before the Evening. Major Roberts with his Regiment, and One Lack of Rupees, has passed Illahabad, and is hourly expected. The Nabob Vizeer, whose Conduct I must in Justice applaud, arrived this Morning at his Camp on the opposite Side of the River. There I met him. He proposes to cross and encamp on this Side with a small Guard. His Army would starve us. I hope that Major Popham will be able to begin his Operations on the 14th at the latest. Doubt not of the speedy Success. The Rajah has made repeated Overtures for Peace, less humble in Terms than in the Mode; but I have declined to answer him, or even to temporize: The Example is dangerous, and ought, even with Hazard, to be checked in this first Instance. You will have heard, and you will hear, many false and alarming Reports; for the Enemy invent, and our own Hircarrahs exaggerate. Colonel Morgan has acted with a Promptness and Decision which merit public Thanks; and I with Pleasure learn, that all the Officers of the Detachment shewed an Eagerness equal to his. Colonel Morgan appears to have formed the Resolution on the 29th; the Troops were embarked on the 31st, and they arrived in less than Ten Days from Khaunpoor. I avail myself of this vacant Space to assure you, that all will terminate happily.

Considered the Circumstances under which you wrote—Country not to be left without the Appearance of Troops—disposed to Disturbance—left Landeg with 5 bad Guns—18 Companies that could be of little Use with me—will keep all quiet—save Cantonments—durst not recal Daranagur Troops; would be abandoning the whole Upper Country—sent Express to be ready at a Moment's Notice—sent Morgan most of the Boats, pressing all on the River—shall send them off the Moment they arrive—wrote to him, if he will stay at Khaunpoor I will go to Chunar—if not marched, believe can be there before him by Land or Water—think there is no Force can prevent me—shall be at Khaunpoor the 10th.—No Answer from Morgan.—Cavalry cannot get on faster than the Sepoys.—If I go on, I hope for Ammunition at Khaunpoor.—If Morgan has marched I must stay at Khaunpoor; or, if he will go, I have your Orders to stay—he to march.—With I had been at Khaunpoor—did not think you would been obliged to go to Chunar Fort.—Have done every Thing for the best, am satisfied of this; but with your Approbation, if Morgan is marched, and I have bad Accounts, will leave the broken Regiment at Khaunpoor, and push down by forced Marches.—Beg, if possible, to hear from you.—Send Duplicate of this.

You will receive into your Charge and Command the following Corps of the Army now assembled at this place; viz. The Grenadiers and Light Infantry of the 2d Regiment of European Infantry; a Detachment of Artillery from the 2d Brigade; the Foreign Rangers; 1st Battalion of the 6th Regiment; 19th, 30th, and 35th Regiments of Sepoys, and a Detachment of Sepoys commanded by Lieutenant Polhill, and a Body of Cavalry furnished by the Nabob Vizeer.—Major Moses Crawford, commanding the 28th Regiment of Sepoys and a Detachment of Cavalry, and Major James Crawford, commanding the Independent Companies of Sepoys stationed at Chitra, have been directed to put themselves under your Command, and their Corps are to be considered as Part of your Detachment.

These Troops you are to employ, without Loss of Time, in subduing and dispersing the rebellious Forces of Rajah Cheit Sing, and in reducing the Zemcedary of Banaris and its Dependencies to the Obedience of the Company.

I hereby give you full and absolute Authority, independent of all other whatsoever, except that of the Governor General and Council and my own, to prosecute this Service in whatever Manner you shall judge most expedient for bringing it to a speedy and successful Termination.

When the Service will admit of a Reduction in the Strength of your Detachment, you will please to return to me the 30th Regiment of Sepoys; and as soon as a further Reduction can be admitted, the 1st Battalion of the 6th Regiment of Sepoys and Lieutenant Polhill's Corps are to return to this Place.

Honourable Sir,

It is with the greatest Concern I send you the enclosed for Mr. Middleton, intercepted by the Rajah's People. There is another Letter from Major Hannay, dated Fyzabad, 10th Instant; the Purport of which is nearly the same as that inclosed, to caution you against the secret Designs of the Nabob, and that he (Major Hannay) is much distressed and ill. The Rajah will not suffer me to send the Major's Letter to you, from some capricious Whim: I dare not now ask him; but the Major says nothing more than I tell you. I was obliged from sad Necessity to tell the Rajah some Part of the Contents of the Enclosed; but I took care it should be merely plausible: I omitted such Particulars as he might take the least Advantage of. For Heaven's Sake, Sir, condescend to listen to some Terms of Conciliation, while we can do it without lessening our Dignity. Pardon me the Presumption of advising you. I am, it is true, wanting in Wisdom and the Knowledge of Politics, but I see the Rajah is very (I fear too) formidable. I am greatly distressed at the Contents of the inclosed Letter. Heaven avert the impending Storm, and protect you ever!

NUM. 95.

To Nathaniel Middleton Esquire (enclosed in the above).

My dear Nat.

In such critical Times as these every Man has a Right to relate what he hears. A Friend should and may do it without Impropriety; therefore, before Hannay leaves the Neighbourhood of Fyzabad, I write you my News and Opinion, lest hereafter our Communication be cut off. There is certainly Villainy abroad. The Nabob, it is said, set out well inclined to our Interest; but since, he and Saadut Ally have come to a proper Understanding: The latter wrote him, he was wrong to give us any Assistance; that such another Opportunity might never offer of striking off the Yoke; as yet he need only stand neuter himself, and, under Pretence of assembling his Zemeeendars to attack Cheit Sing, privately direct them to obstruct the Junction of our Forces by every possible Means. The Begums gave the same Advice, and Promise of Money. This Cheit Sing has already disbursed to a great Amount. This Plan was the Cause of Gordon's Disaster, being attacked in the Nabob's Country while he thought himself amongst Friends. My Information is from some Zemeeendars, who I have had it in my Power to be kind to. Also, it is the public Talk of Fyzabad, where my People are daily insulted. Likewise Zalim, who is with 2,000 Men on the other Side, and means to cross in the Morning, boasts that he will soon do for us, as the Nabob will send Hannay no Assistance, that he is sure of; nor will any of the Collectors pay more Money. We shall therefore shortly have none to pay our Troops with, while they have Plenty. Hannay is now about Two Cofs below Ry Ghaut, on the Oud Side, with only Two Companies, Two Guns, and (I believe) some disaffected Horse. I have written him pressing to cross to this Place; for should Zalim be over before him, I shall be hemmed up in a small Fort with 150 Sepoys, when Zalim will take care Hannay does not get over to relieve me; perhaps, while attempting to pass the Gogra, be attacked by the People of the Begums, with the Zemeeendars set on by her. In such an Event he could not possibly escape Destruction: My Waufelaut would soon be settled after such an Accident. I am apt to think this Marattah Treaty is only a Fetch to gain Time, until the Rains are over for certain, as their Horse could not act during that Season. Look to yourself, Nat; you may be in the Nabob's Power. Mr. Hastings should not leave Chunar until there be Force very sufficient at Hand, both to check his Excellency and do for Cheit Sing, lest he get into a worse Scrape. A very few Days will determine it one way or other with regard to us Rulers over these. You may think me humming; but it is more than Odds we never, never meet again. God prosper you! and pray take care, &c.

To Edward Wheler Esquire.

Sir,

I most heartily congratulate you on the Success of our Arms in the Conquest of Pateeta, for the Particulars of which I refer you to the inclosed Letter from Major Popham. I understand that large Reinforcements, both from Lutteefpoor and Ramnagur, opposed him in the Field. It was intended to attack both Pateeta and Lutteefpoor at the same Time, and the former by an instant Assault. Major Crabb, with a strong Detachment appointed for the latter Service, marched on the Night of the 15th by a large, and, as it has since appeared, scarce practicable Circuit, towards a Pass which lies behind, or to the South of Lutteefpoor. A Letter received this Morning mentions his Arrival on the Plain which adjoins to the Pass, after a March of Three Days, instead of One, as was expected. It is the Road to Bidjeygur, and said to be the Repository of all the Rajah's Ammunition. Major Popham marched at Two of the same Night, nor did he reach his Ground with his whole Line until Ten, and then found the Place too strong to attempt it, without a regular Approach and battering Cannon. It fell at Six this Morning. I regard this Victory as a decisive Turn of our public Influence; but the greatest Proportion of my Joy is derived from the Consideration that it was gained with little Bloodshed, an Advantage which I attribute, as I expected it, to the superior Skill and known Composure, nor less Humanity, of Major Popham. Major Crawford arrived here Yesterday Morning, much harassed, but without Loss or Impediment on his Way.

Honourable Sir,

As my Answer to your Favour of the 16th, which I did not receive until the 23d, the Day I wrote the Reply, and also my Answer to Major Palmer's Letter, dated the 17th, which I received the 21st in the Morning, and answered it directly, are stopped at Buxar with the other Letters, I have engaged two People, to whom I am to give One thousand Rupees, to deliver this, and bring an Answer from Chunargur. Should they get safe, you may, Sir, intrust them with any Letters, and I will forward them. Major Crawford's 2d Battalion, together with the Major, marched from hence the 22d in the Morning. I immediately sent Orders to Captain Maxwell to cross over from Manjee, and join Major Crawford at Buxar, which he accomplished. I have acquainted General Stibbert with what I have done, and the Necessity of ordering up immediately another Regiment and Four Six Pounders as soon as possible. I have acquainted him with the melancholy Accounts I have heard of your Situation, losing your Boats, and Major Popham's Regiment being almost destroyed. You may rest assured, Sir, there shall not be any Thing left undone by me for your Service, that I will not do. I have ordered Captain Salt's Troop to march to join Major Crawford as soon as possible, Mrs. Hastings having signified to me that she would send the Fifty Body Guard to join them. I hope you will approve of this, as it cannot be attended with any bad Consequence, whatever good so small a Body of Cavalry may do. I have got out One Six Pounder from the Magazine, the only one serviceable there, and am training up some of the Sepoys to work it, Two from each Company, not having any other People here. Our Arms are very bad, but I am in Hopes the Boats will arrive with the new Arms in a few Days. Every Thing at present is quiet in these Parts. Mr. Græme made a Requisition the 24th Instant for a Battalion, but I was obliged to refuse him on account of this Regiment having unserviceable Arms and Accoutrements, and also as it has been so short a Time incorporated. This I flatter myself you will approve of.

Dear Sir,

as a Corps de Reserve, moved towards and totally routed them. Their Cavalry at the same Time made a Motion, with some Infantry, towards the Right of our Camp, on which a Gun was sent through some high Grabs to an Out Post, and by firing Two or Three Rounds, obliged them to fly. Could I have afforded a few Sepoys from the Camp, or had the Cavalry done any Thing, Numbers of the Runaways must have been destroyed. I just hear very few of our Sepoys have been killed, and not an Officer hurt. The Enemy has sustained great Loss. Had you not better, Sir, dispatch Major Crawford's Corps to relieve Major Roberts's?

NUM. 101.

Journal of a March over the Binde Hills from Chunargur to Lutteefpoor; delivered to the Governor General by Major Crabb, who conducted it.

Saturday, 15th September 1781. The following Extract of Orders, issued by Major Popham, received from the Brigade Major's Office at Half past Five in the Afternoon.

"The 1st Battalion of the 6th Regiment, the 7th Regiment with 4 Guns and 1 Howitzer, Lieutenant Polhill's Corps and his Two Guns, to march this Evening at 7 o'Clock; the Ammunition for the Guns to be carried on Bullocks. This Detachment to be commanded by Major Crabb, who will receive his Orders from the Commanding Officer at 6 o'Clock."

The Ammunition and Stores being ready at Ten, the Detachment marched by the Right, over broken Ground, to the Bank of a Nullah; the Water too deep to admit of the Guns crossing without taking off the Limber Boxes, which were carried on the Lascars Heads: this occasioned a Delay of Two Hours.

Sunday 16th. The Rear Guard being crossed, I moved on over a Plain with low Jungle about one Cofs, with a Hill on the Right, to the Foot of a very steep and rugged Pass, with deep Gullies and thick Jungle on each Side: Near the Top were two sharp Turnings, which increased the Difficulty, and added so much to the Delay, that the Sun was rising by the Time the Guns had gained the Top; the Jungle continuing very thick, but low, for near a Cofs, which opened an extensive Plain, tolerably well cultivated, and Two inconsiderable Villages in it. About a Cofs from the Entrance on this Plain, a very narrow but deep Nullah delayed us for Two Hours. About 4ths of a Cofs further on, met with a River, the Bed and Banks of it exceedingly rocky; upwards of an Hour and Half was employed in crossing it; moved along the Bank under a steep Hill about a Mile, the Road full of Rock and large Stones; re-crossed the River, which was more difficult than before, the Bed of it full of very large Rocks, and the Bank very high, through which it was necessary to cut a Road for the Guns. About 2 o'Clock, every Thing being crossed, the Detachment moved forward through a thick Jungle, with broken Ground and Hills on each Side, to the Bed of a small River full of Rocks; on the opposite Side a steep Pass, which with much Labour we got through. The Cattle being much fatigued, the Sepoys were put to the Drag Ropes, to get on the Guns, which delayed us until near 4 o'Clock. A great Scarcity of Water prevailed; Hircarrahs were sent out in Search, but none was to be found nearer than Three Miles in our Front, where they discovered a Lake; a thick Jungle between Two high Hills all the Way to the Water, where it became more open. The Cattle being so much spent with getting up the Hills, it was Sun-set before we got near enough the Lake to halt, which I did, with it on my left, and a very high Hill on my right Flank, having been upwards of 20 Hours on the March; and the Distance from Chunar I judged to be about Six Cofs.

Monday 17th. The Detachment got under Arms at 4 o'Clock, and marched through a thick Jungle; crossed the Bed of a small River, the Banks somewhat steep, the Road narrow, but tolerably good, to the Foot of a long and steep Pass, with a very deep Gully close on the Right; the Ascent very difficult, from the Number of large, flat, smooth Stones, where the Cattle could not hold with their Feet. With the Assistance of the Sepoys, about Ten o'Clock we gained the Top, and moved on over a Plain with large Trees, the Ground in many Places rocky, but level. About a Mile from the Top of the Hill came to a River, the Bed of it full of very large Rocks, over which, with much Labour, we got the Guns. At 1 o'Clock moved on over rocky Ground, the Country opening. About One Cofs from the River entered an extensive Plain, near the Village of Koradee. Several Villages appeared on the Plain, the Inhabitants whereof fled on our Approach. The Country appeared to be well cultivated; the Road over the Plain led through Rice Fields. At Sun-set encamped. The Distance this Day about Six Cofs.

Tuesday 18th. At Three o'Clock put the Detachment in Motion, and marched for the first Part over a Plain full of small deep Holes, which rendered it difficult and dangerous for the Cattle until Day-light, when we entered a thick Jungle, with many deep dry Nullahs, which retarded us very much, being obliged to cut Roads for the Guns, there not appearing the least Trace of a Road. About 2 o'Clock entered a very large Plain, with several small Villages on it; the Inhabitants fled to the Jungle on our Approach. About 3 o'Clock encamped near a large Lake, and employed the Smiths and Carpenters in repairing the Bullock Yokes, and the Pintles of Two Guns. This Day's March about Five Cofs.

Wednesday 19th. Got under Arms at 4 o'Clock, and marched over a Plain, the Road leading through Swamps and Rice Fields, with high Banks, which retarded us much. Passed through the Village of Muddoopoor, a large Village, which seemed to have been a Place of some Note, but deserted. Here the Hircarrahs brought Intelligence, that a large Body of the Rajah's Troops were encamped about 3 Cofs in our Front, near the Village of Lora, with some Guns. The Road between us for a Cofs was a very thick Jungle. I moved on and took post near the Jungle, with a large Lake on my right Flank, and a rising Ground and Village on the Left; from hence I saw the Fortrets of Bidjeygur, which appeared very high, and above 8 Cofs distant. The Day's March above Five Cofs.

Thursday 20th. At Daylight the Detachment marched, entered the Jungle, which continued for a Cofs in some Parts very thick, where I expected to be annoyed by the Enemy. At Sunrise the Advance Guard got clear of the Jungle, when I discovered the Enemy, about 2,000, drawn up in a good Situation, with their Guns on the Right (immediately opposite the Road out of the Jungle) on a rising Ground, and a small Bank thrown up in their Front; a Tope, and the Village of Lora, on their Left; a deep Morass in their Front. They began to cannonade on the Approach of the Troops on the Plain, and continued it briskly, until the whole had cleared the Jungle, and formed the Advance Guard. Returning in with One Gun as soon as the Line was formed, I advanced as briskly as the Ground would admit, firing the Six Pounders, until I had got near enough for the small Arms to do Execution; at the same Time I directed Lieutenant Polhill from the Right to advance Two Companies, and secure the Guns of the Enemy; but before he could execute the Order, they retreated, leaving their Guns, Ammunition, and about 150 dead, and about 20 wounded, through a Jungle, to Lutteefpoor, about Four Cofs. Having no Means of carrying away the Guns and Ammunition, I destroyed it, rendering the Guns useless, and burying them. The Road to Lutteefpoor led through a Jungle, and over a very steep and rugged Hill, where no Water could be got, prevented me from pursuing further than Suckroor, an inconsiderable Village, about a Cofs from Lora, on a small Plain, where I encamped to bury the Dead, and collect the Wounded, amounting to 34, of every Denomination. This Day's Distance about Two and Half Cofs.

Friday 21st. At 4 o'Clock the Detachment marched over a good Road, but jungly for about 2 Cofs, when we got to a dry Nullah, the Descent very rugged, the Ascent still more so; the Road very narrow and winding, and full of very large Stones and Rocks, over which the Guns were lifted; with much Labour and Time we gained the Summit, from whence we saw the Fort, distant about Three Miles. The Side of the Hill leading to the Town was yet worse than what we had passed; the Road from the Foot of the Hill to the Fort was very narrow, with a thick Jungle on each Side, but pretty level. At Noon I entered the Town of Lutteefpoor, which had been evacuated while the Troops were getting down the Hill; about 800 of the Rajah's People having been all the preceding Night plundering it. They left behind them Six Pieces of Cannon, and a great Quantity of Ammunition and Stores; Three Pieces of Cannon were found on the Hills, intended to defend the Entrance from Pateeta. The Fort stands in a Bottom, with high steep Hills on Three Sides, with thick Jungle all round close to the Ditch, which is deep on the Pateeta Side, where the Wall is of Stone: the other Sides of the Wall are composed of Part Stone and Part Mud, with Loop Holes. The Guns were mounted on wooden Swivels in the Centre of the Bastions. The Citadel has a deep Ditch and a high Stone Wall (with Loop Holes) in many Places much cracked almost from Top to Bottom, and very wide.

Sir,

On the 20th Major Crabb defeated and routed a Body of the Enemy on the Plain above the Pass of Suckroot; their Loss was 150 Men and 3 Guns, and much Ammunition: Ours small. The Rajah that Evening fled from Lutteefpoor: His Men followed his Example; and Yesterday at Noon Major Crabb took Possession, the Place being totally deserted. I was Yesterday in Major Popham's Camp, and visited the Fort of Pateeta and its Intrenchment. They are both contemptible, but in their actual State absolutely impregnable against an Attack, had they made any Resistance. The Fort, though small, is of Stone, with 4 Towers, a parallel Rampart, and Towers, and a Ditch of great Depth surrounding these, and the Town itself guarded by an Intrenchment extending far beyond it; and the Space between, Hills, Rocks, and Jungle almost impenetrable. At One o'Clock we had the Satisfaction to receive, by a regular Salute of 21 Guns, the instant Information of the Possession of Lutteefpoor by Major Crabb. I have taken upon me to grant a Brevet Commission of Major to Captain Lane, who commanded the Grenadiers of the Army, and performed distinguished Service. I this Instant receive an authentic Confirmation of the above Intelligence from Major Crabb.

To Lieutenant Colonel Blair.

My dear Colonel,

It is with much Satisfaction that I now give you an Account of our Arrival at Lutteefpoor, after a most fatiguing March as ever Troops experienced, over Hills, Rocks, Rivers, and through Jungles. It does much Credit to the Abilities and Knowledge of Bundoo Khan, his being able to conduct us by such a Road without losing our Way. The only Circumstance is, that he has been deceived in the Length of the Cofes, each of which are at least 4 Miles. We yesterday were opposed at Lora Suckroot by a Body of the Rajah's Troops, something less than 2000 Men in Number, and Three Pieces of Ordnance, which we dispersed and took. Their Guns, Tumbrils, and Ammunition, for want of Means to bring with us, were destroyed. One small Gun and Limber we have now with us. The Quantity of Ammunition found in Lutteefpoor is considerable. The Place, in consequence of our Success Yesterday, was evacuated by the Rajah in the Evening. The People who did not attend him remained only to plunder his House, which they have done, and destroyed what was valuable, and of no Use to them. I do not believe there was one Man in the Fort when Major Crabb marched in. The Intention of our March, in the main Point, has, I hope, answered the Governor's Expectation—the expelling the Rajah from a Place of Strength, and preventing his taking Possession of the Ghauts leading to Bidjeygur. Under his present Alarm, it appears to me, that if Measures are speedily taken to invest that Place, little Resistance will be made. I was, during the whole March, under much Concern for the Success of the Expedition, as I considered myself partly answerable for the Consequences, though I had not the Command; and I shall be much pleased to find it has met with the Approbation of the Governor, who, I hope, will do me the Justice to believe I have done all in my Power to forward the Expedition. I have to request you will mention Bundoo Khan to the Governor. I am much fatigued, and have hurt my Foot a good deal by walking, otherwise in perfect Health. I will refer you to Bundoo Khan for the Particulars of our Expedition, till I have the Pleasure of seeing you.

Dear Colonel, &c.

To Major James Crawford.

Sir,

If you have not already detached any Part of your Battalion to Patna, I desire that you will not, but keep your Corps entire, and station it near the Frontier of Bidjeygur; obeying such Orders as you shall receive from Major Popham, who will soon be in that Quarter. If you weaken your Corps, you will be exposed to an unequal Contest with Cheit Sing's whole Force, which will now be assembled there. I will be accountable to the General and to the Board for the Deviation from their Orders.

To Lieutenant Colonel Ahmuty.

Sir,

I have received your Three Letters. I have the highest Sense of the Zeal which you have shewn for the Service, in the Orders given for the Reinforcement of Major Crawford's Regiment, and of the Cavalry, and for their speedy Dispatch; and I beg you will accept my particular and most hearty Thanks for your personal Attention to myself. The Hircarrah to whom you promised a Reward of 1000 Rupees deserves as many Lashes; he accompanied Major Crawford, and was exactly Three Weeks on the Way. Major Popham took the Field on the 16th. The Forts of Pateeta and Lutteespoor are in our Possession, the Enemy routed, and the Rajah fled to Bidjeygur. I request that you will instantly remand the Detachment from Major James Crawford's Battalion, as he will be else in Danger from the Rajah's whole Force assembled in his Neighbourhood, and his Corps united will be essentially necessary for co-operating with Major Popham in the Reduction of Bidjeygur.

NUM. 108.

To the Honourable Warren Hastings Esquire, Governor General, &amp;c.

Sir,

The following Troops, Major Crabb's Regiment of Sepoys, Captain Thomas Blair's Battalion, Lieutenant Polhill's Corps, being Part of the Vizeer's Body Guard, in all about Seventeen Hundred Sepoys, Six Guns, Two Tumbrils, and One Howitz, being ordered on Detachment under the Command of Major Crabb, to attack the Fort of Lutteespoor from the Hills and Pass to the Eastward of it, we began our March from the Encampment in the Neighbourhood of Chunar about 10 o'Clock in the Evening of the 15th Instant, crossed the Jurgar Nullah, in which there was Three Feet Water; the Banks of that Part steep, which detained the Troops till past Eleven before the whole crossed. From thence the Detachment proceeded to Fool-wauree Ghaut, which is over the Hill. The Ascent over the Hill is not very steep, but the large Stones in the Way, and the Want of a sufficient Number of Bildars, retarded the Guns exceedingly. With the Assistance of the Officers and Sepoys, the whole of the Ordnance and Tumbrils were got to the Top of the Hill by Daylight. The Descent to the Plain is very little; for some Distance the Road level, small Villages at a Distance from each other, the Inhabitants of which fled, on our Approach, to the Hills. Passed the Village of Dowau on our left, which is about Two Cos from Chunar; some small Jungles and broken Ground. Proceeded on to Byrah, about One Cos. It is a small Village, with a little round Brick Tower on the Bank of the Goordowr River, where the Troops should have crossed; but on Examination finding it unfordable at that Part, turned to the Left through a Tope, and marched to Putpur Ghaut, the Road Part of the Way very bad; the Passage might be defended by a few Men against the whole Detachment. The Guns were obliged to be unlimbered, and the Tumbrils unloaded, to bring them over the River; the Rocks at the Bottom of it very large; from the East Side of it, thick Jungles for Two Miles. When the Troops came opposite to Byrah Village, the Distance round to cross at Putpur-Ghaut about Two Cos out of the direct Road. Encamped about Five o'Clock in the Afternoon at Bulleeah-Ghaut, below Sutteesgur Hills, on a Spot pretty clear of Jungle, distant from Chunar about Fourteen Miles.

17th September. At Daylight marched by the right; tolerable Road; a small Nullah now and then; no Villages to be seen for Two Cos—Ponillah-Ghaut; the Hill neither high nor difficult to ascend; a small Village to the right, named Nicarcaw; all the Way Jungle, not very thick; Distance Three Cos: Came upon the Plains, passed Koradee, which is Two Cos; marched to Cersee Village, which is about Two Cos, and encamped at 6 o'Clock in the Evening. Left Simraw, a large Village, on the right; the Country flat and well cultivated. From Bulleeah-Ghaut to Cersee is about Eight Cos.

PART II.

18th September. At Day-light crossed the Field, and entered the Borriah Jungle; several Nullahs and broken Ground; some small Villages; the Road bad till out of the Jungles; near to Borriah, where the Country is open and cultivated: At the Edge of the Jungle surprised Sobau Sing, a Relation to Cheit Sing; encamped for the Day: Distance from Cerfee Two Cois.

19th September. Marched at Daylight; to avoid some Water and bad Ground went out of the direct Road Two Cois; encamped in the Afternoon in a clear Spot of Ground, at a small Village named Butt, Distance in a direct Road from Borriah about Three Cois. The Troops marched about Six Cois this Day. In the Evening saw several of the Enemy's Horsemen mounted as our Troopers; from my Hircarrahs received Intelligence of the Enemy being at Lora, with Three Guns and about 2000 Men.

20th September. Marched by the right; Two Guns in Front of the Body Guard, One in Front of the 7th Regiment, One Gun and One Howitz in the Center, One Gun in the Rear of it, One Gun in the Rear of the 1st Battalion 6th Regiment. The Enemy were drawn up on a Piece of Ground free from Jungle, but divided by some Ditches. The Cannonade commenced on their Side. The Detachment formed in their Front in the same Order as they marched: the Guns as they came up returned the Fire. Soon after the whole was formed, we advanced on the Enemy, who fired smartly from their Guns and small Arms, till the Line was within Twenty or Thirty Paces of their Guns, when they ran away. Their Guns were immediately taken. Three Companies of the Rajah's Sepoys, and some Matchlock Men, retreated behind a Tank opposite the Center of Captain Blair's Battalion, who opened and marched round Two Sides of it, and gave their Fire, which did great Execution, and totally dispersed the Enemy, who no longer made any Stand, but ran as fast as possible; the Troops pursued the Enemy some Way. Halted to collect the Dead and Wounded; the latter were provided with Pallankeens, Dooleys, &c. when we marched on to Suckroot, about One and Half Miles from the Field of Battle, and encamped for the Day. The Rajah's Troops were commanded by Myher, the Commandant of his Sepoys, and Sewpurfaud Sing. The former rode to Lutteefpoor in great Haste, threw himself at his Master's Feet, and entreated him to make his Escape immediately; that a very large Force, with Artillery, was close in his Rear, and would inevitably take him alive. He at the same Time accused the Rajah of having deceived him, or being so himself, respecting the English Force which he went against. It appears the Rajah's People had no certain Information of the Destination of the Detachment prior to its Arrival at Koradee, or of its Strength till the Engagement commenced. Their Hircarrahs seeing the advanced Guard followed by Two Guns, concluded it was the whole Force, and the Followers of the Camp were taken for some of Owsan Sing's People, whose Head the Rajah had ordered to be brought to him, and the others to be killed and left, as if of no Consequence. The Rajah received the melancholy Account of the Defeat of his Troops before Noon, and evacuated the Fort before Three. He was followed by Numbers; some continued all Night to plunder, and left the Place the next Morning.

21st September. Major Crabb marched with his Regiment, Three Guns, and the Howitz, at Four o'Clock; at Six o'Clock Captain Blair's Battalion, Lieutenant Polhill's Corps, with the remaining Guns, Tumbrils, &c. followed; the Road good till we came to Tarrapatill, where there are large Stones and broken Ground, from thence the Road very good through Trees, till we come to Supdur-Ghaut, which, from the Slope and large Stones, is exceedingly difficult for Guns to pass. Came to a small Village of about Ten Huts; crossed the Gurriah Nullah; no Water in it. The Road to the Fort through Bamboos and other thick Jungles. Arrived at Lutteefpoor. The Gate being open, and the Place evacuated, Major Crabb took Possession of it about Ten o'Clock. The Remainder of the Detachment arrived soon after, when Two of our Guns were brought into the Fort, and light Cartridges taken out of the Rajah's Magazine, a royal Salute was fired, and the Union Flag hoisted on the highest Part of the Works. Three Guns were fired on the Hill which overlooks the Fort, and had been placed there to prevent an Enemy from possessing themselves of a Spot which gives them every Advantage over the Fort, which is commanded from it. Several Pieces of Ordnance, and a very considerable Quantity of Powder and Ammunition ready made up, were found in the Place.

I shall be glad if the foregoing Account of our March is sufficiently correct to convey a general Idea of the Roads, Rivers, and Passes. The Distances are right, so far as I am able to judge without having measured them. Troops marching by that Route without Guns would find the Distances probably less than I have made them, as we were frequently obliged to leave the direct Road to avoid Stones, broken Ground, and other Impediments to Artillery.

Lutteefpoor,
29th September 1781.

I have the Honour to be, &c.
Thomas Blair.

GENERAL ORDERS.

The Governor General having himself had an Opportunity of surveying the Fort and Intrenchments of Pateeta, desires to publish to the Army the Sense which he entertains of the great Zeal and Abilities of Major Popham, in planning so difficult an Attack; and of the great good Conduct of Majors Roberts and Gardiner, and of the Officers of the Detachment, for their Assistance in the Execution of it. The Governor General expresses his particular Satisfaction at the firm and intrepid Behaviour of the Grenadiers under the Command of Captain Lane; to whose gallant Example, followed and supported by the steady Courage and Discipline of the rest of the Troops, it may principally be attributed that a Place of such great Strength has been reduced, and almost without Loss.

The Governor General, in Testimony of the Merit and Conduct of Captain Lane, promotes him to the Rank of Major by Brevet.

NUM. 110.

To the Honourable Warren Hastings Esquire.

Honourable Sir,

It is with reflective Satisfaction I acquaint you that our Endeavours to reduce this Place, and disperse the Army of the Rajah Cheit Sing, have been attended with complete Success.

My Intention was to have assaulted the Town on my Arrival before it the 16th Instant; but I had certain Intelligence that a considerable Body of the Enemy, with some Cannon, were within the Place, strongly intrenched. I judged it proper to encamp till I could gain proper Information of the Strength of the Works, more especially as great Part of the Artillery and one Regiment were far in the Rear, and not likely to reach me till late in the Day. About two Hours after the Camp was pitched, the Enemy began a Cannonade from the Town, which obliged us to file off to the left, out of the Range of their Shot. This done, we received no further Molestation during the Day. In the Course of the Night I meditated an Attack with the whole Line on their Works; but my Hircarrahs brought Accounts that the Town was defended by a deep Trench and high Parapet, flanked with Towers, on which there were Guns mounted, and the Jungle behind very thick, with a Number of Troops; which obliged me to lay aside hazarding such an Undertaking till better acquainted with the Place. I now gave Orders for a Battery, and Major Gardiner fixed on a Spot about a thousand Yards from the Works; but soon after, on a nearer Observation, he judged proper to take Possession of a Tank, the Banks of which would prove an excellent Shelter for the Troops, and effectually command the S. E. Face of the Town, distant between Eight and Nine hundred Yards. This Post being gained with little Opposition, a Battery was formed, and the Eighteen pounders carried down. On the 19th a short Cannonade was begun, which continued at Intervals during the Day; some Shells were also thrown; however, it was impossible we could know what Execution was done, as the Thickness of the Jungles obstructed the View; yet it being observed that our Fire obliged the Enemy for the most part to quit their Intrenchments and retire further into the Woods, it was judged by Major Gardiner and myself, that an early Assault next Morning, just before the Dawn of Day, might be attended with immediate Success, and though not complete, would gain us a Lodgement within the Works, from whence the Fort might with Ease be battered.

This being determined, and Captain Lane's Corps of Grenadiers already at the Battery, at Ten o'Clock at Night the following Orders were issued:

“ The native Grenadiers of the Line, with the 1st Battalion of the 19th, 2d Battalions of the 30th and 35th Regiments, to assemble at the Southermost Battery at Twelve o'Clock To-night:
 “ Major Roberts to command this Detachment, and regulate it as he shall judge necessary for the “ Attack of the Town a little before Break of Day To-morrow Morning: The remaining Corps “ of the Line to close the Center (leaving their Quarter and Rear Guards standing) as soon as
 “ the above Detachment marches off, and there lay on their Arms. The Piquetts of the Battalion “ ordered for the Attack, to be relieved immediately by the remaining Battalions. Major Balfour
 “ to relieve Major Roberts immediately, and Major Roberts to wait on the Commanding Officer
 “ for his further Instructions.”

Major Roberts, agreeable to Orders, began the Attack just before the first Dawn; at the same Time a heavy Fire was kept up by Captain Hill, from Major Gardiner's Southermost Battery, which secured the Jungles to the left of the Attack, and added to that Panic which seized the Enemy immediately on the Entrance of the Grenadiers, who, with the rest of the Troops, rushed on, and soon made the Victory complete.

While those successful Approaches were making on the Town, a Party of the Enemy sallied from behind the Hill in the Rear of the Battery with Two small Guns, in Hopes that by employing our Attention that Way, the Assault on the Town would be disturbed; but they were soon routed by the cool Intrepidity of a Serjeant and One Company of Sepoys. Foiled here, they moved moved round the Hills till they came round the left of our Encampment, where they seemed to meditate an Attack. On their Motions being observed, the European Grenadiers and Light Infantry were ordered, if possible, to throw themselves in the Rear and cut them off. This Measure was too soon noticed by the Enemy, who immediately run away in great Confusion.

By this Time Major Roberts had driven the Enemy from the Town and every Post, so that they had now nothing left but to move with their Baggage and Cannon without the Place towards Ramnagur; which they effected as to the first Object; but the only Piece of Ordnance they had saved from the Town, was taken by Lieutenant Hamilton, who had Advice, and was long in Pursuit of it; for they had the Folly to fire it from a Distance at the Line as they were gaining the Ramnagur Road, which led Lieutenant Hamilton to it.

Had Almaus's Cavalry obeyed Orders, the Enemy's Baggage must have also been taken; but not a Man of them would move 500 Yards from the Camp.

The Returns of the Killed and Wounded on our Side, with those of the Cannon, &c. taken, will shew how fortunate we were on this Service; during which the Behaviour of both Officers and Men was such as merits the most sincere Acknowledgments.

Majors Roberts and Gardiner, Captains Lane and Hill, were particularly active, and I feel a real Pleasure in doing them the Justice to recommend them to your particular Attention.

NUM. III.

To the Honourable Warren Hastings Esquire, Governor General, &c.

Honourable Sir,

Enclosed I have the Pleasure to transmit a Copy of a Letter I have received from Captain Maxwell, commanding the Battalion at Burragong, with which he has sent me Copies of the Letters written by Baun Sing Roy and Shew Pershaud Roy, to Futteh Saw. These contain ample Proofs of their Guilt; one of them is a direct Information to him of the March of the Troops from Burragong, and an Invitation to avail himself of the defenceless State of Hussypoor, by coming to that District.

I have, in consequence of these undoubted Testimonies, written Captain Maxwell to seize the Persons of Baun Sing Roy and Shew Pershaud Roy, and keep them in close Confinement.

I have not complied with Captain Maxwell's Proposal for disarming the Country People, as such a Measure could not be put in Execution without causing a general Alarm throughout the District, and greatly obstructing the Cultivation; besides which, as no Crime is alledged against any other Person, I conceive there is no Necessity for acting with so much Rigour which would involve the Innocent with the Guilty, and still leave it doubtful on whom Punishment ought to be inflicted. Though I have deemed it improper to authorise Captain Maxwell to disarm the People, in which I hope for your Approval, I have recommended to him to use every Endeavour to discover if any other Persons, and who, were concerned with Baun Sing Roy and Shew Pershaud Roy, in their villainous Attempts.

The Punishment of Futteh Saw's Abettors, within the District of Hussypoor, will doubtless be productive of good Consequences, by awing those who are secretly attached to him; but it is in vain to expect his Apprehension whilst he receives Protection in a neighbouring Country. I am well informed, that he is now in the Dominions of Rajah Cheit Sing, and that he has been there ever since he was driven out of Hussypoor by Lieutenant Hutchinson, in the Month of February last.

Chuprah,
19th August 1781.

I have the Honour to be, &c.

Charles Græme.

To Charles Græme Esquire.

Sir,

In consequence of your polite Attention to my Representation, respecting the Treachery and traitorous Correspondence of Baun Sing Roy and Shew Pershaud Roy with our declared Enemy Rajah Futteh Saw; of their having given him the most perfect Intelligence of every Movement or Step taken to entrap him from this Station; of their having supplied him with Money, and your turning them out of every Employment, I was further induced to attempt the obtaining the clearest Proof of their Guilt, as I could not deem the Punishment already inflicted on them (although the most in your Power) by any means adequate to their Crimes.

Some Time ago, when I had the Honour of mentioning this Subject, and acquainted you with the Hopes I had of obtaining the original Letters from those Men to Rajah Futteh Saw, you was pleased to express your Satisfaction thereat, and offered your Assistance, if this could be effected, of laying the whole before the Honourable the Governor General and Council for their Decision. I have now the Pleasure to acquaint you, that the Enclosed are exact Copies of the original Letters, attested upon Oath, at this Time in my Possession. Should further Proof of their Guilt be deemed necessary, I can take upon me to promise, that the Man employed in carrying Money from Baun Sing Roy to Rajah Futteh Saw shall be produced.

I must

I must further beg Leave to lay before you, that while the Country People, so entirely attached to the Interests of Rajah Futteh Saw, are permitted to keep Possession of Quantities of Arms, which I have the most certain Information is the Case, he can never be at any Loss for an armed Force to enter and plunder the Country with. For this Reason I would humbly propose my being authorised to disarm every Man in the Country, as the only Destruction to his Hopes, and Means of fulfilling the Intentions of the Honourable Board, in his present Situation, protected and countenanced as he is by Rajah Chett Sing in his Country, where he now watches for the first favourable Opportunity of returning to his old Practices.

I have to request you will be so obliging as to lay these Circumstances before the Board, accompanied by this Letter; but should that prove inconvenient, that you will be pleased to acquaint me so, and I will then do it myself through the Commander in Chief.

Honourable Sir,

I had the Honour to address you Yesterday from Lora, and I now advise you of my having this Morning taken Possession of the Fort of Lutteeppoor, the Rajah having evacuated it Yesterday Afternoon, and pushed across the Hills to Bidjeygur with most Part of his Followers; those remaining, amounting to about Seven or Eight hundred, followed his Example. At my Approach I found one of the French Soldiers, who informs me, the rest were inhumanly massacred about the 4th Instant; that he received a Wound and pretended to be dead, until the barbarous Rascals had quitted the Place, and then he crawled out to the Hills, where he lay concealed for several Days. It was unfortunate for me the Rajah escaped; but the many Difficulties I had to encounter rendered it impossible to reach this earlier. The Roads, from their Badness, have shaken all my Gun Carriages so much, that it is necessary for them to be taken to Pieces, and have a thorough Repair, before they can leave this. I have given the necessary Orders respecting it. I found here Four Guns of different Calibres. There appear to be a good many Stores; Particulars of them shall be taken, and forwarded with all Expedition. I have also found a Cohorn here, which was I believe taken from Mirzapoor; it seems in good Order. Your Letter of the 17th is just arrived, brought by the Bearer. Bundoo Khan has behaved much to my Satisfaction in conducting the Detachment. He was mistaken respecting the Distance, as also the Situation of this Place from the Pals mentioned; but I beg leave to recommend him to your Notice. I hope the Roads will be opened between this and Chunargur.

Honourable Sir,

I had the Honour to inform you of the Evacuation of this Place, and my taking Possession the Morning of the 21st. At that Time I could only find four Guns, but since have discovered Five more, together with a large Quantity of Stores and Ammunition; every House almost produces Stores, or Materials for making them. I have the Honour to present you enclosed a Return of the Killed and Wounded of my Detachment, on the Morning of the 20th, near Lora, in an Action with a Party of the Rajah's Troops, to the Number of about 2000 of all Sorts, with their Guns. Their Loss amounted in Killed and Wounded to near 200. The Guns fell into my Hands, together with the Stores attached to them, which for want of Carriage I was necessitated to destroy, having rendered useless and buried them.

Yesterday Morning I received Orders from Major Popham to send the 1st Battalion of the 6th Regiment and the Vizeer's Body Guard to join him at Pateeta, and remain here with my Regiment, the Four Guns and Howitz, till further Orders.

Honourable Sir,

At the Desire of the Rannee, who represented Cheit Sing's People having entirely deserted Banaris, and which was confirmed by my own Intelligence, I have sent an Officer with a Company of Sepoys along with some People of hers to proclaim the Restoration of her Authority, and give Confidence to those who are well inclined to our Government; as also to take charge of the Gentlemen's Effects, the greatest Part of which I understand to be still there. The Officer is also particularly instructed to assist the Rannee's People in apprehending the Aumeen Dyaram, who it is said is still lurking in the Town. Though this Step exceeds my Orders, I flatter myself it will meet with your Approbation, as the delaying it till I could have received your Orders might have proved fatal to the Tranquillity of the Town, which seemed to require the immediate Appearance of some Person on the Part of Government. The Inhabitants of this Place are returning fast, and the Rannee acquaints me, that the People whose Names I trouble you with in the enclosed List, have all sent Offers to her of coming in immediately; and she requests me to beg you will be pleased to let her know whom you would chuse her to receive, as she will not venture to give any of them Assurances of her Protection without your previous Approbation. I request to be favoured with your Commands on this Head, and will now only take the Liberty of adding, that I think the People in general seem to be sensible of their Error, and that the Tranquillity of the Country may soon be restored.

Be it known to the Zemeedars, Aumils, Reyots, and all the Inhabitants of the Zemeedary of Banaris, &c. That whereas Rajah Cheit Sing, by many Acts of Rebellion and Perfidy, and the Murder of a Number of English Officers, Sepoys, and other Dependants of the Government of the Company, who were unarmed, has totally forfeited his Right to the Zemeedary of Banaris, &c. and become amenable to the Justice of the Company; it is therefore made known and proclaimed, that Cheit Sing, and his Brother Soojaun Sing, and their Dependants, have, from this Period, no further Right or Interest in the Zemeedary of the said Province; and all the Zemeedars and Reyots are required to withhold their Obedience and Submission from him, otherwise they will be punished accordingly.—And whereas, by the Sedition of Cheit Sing, the Country has fallen into Confusion and Alarms, Assurances of Protection are hereby given to the Zemeedars, and other Inhabitants of this Country; and they are hereby invited to repair to their former Places of Residence, and resume their usual Occupations in perfect Security: And, lest any should entertain Apprehensions on account of their Misdemeanors, it is declared, that the past Offences of all the Inhabitants of this Country who shall conform to this Order, are pardoned: And further, every Zemeedar and Aumil who shall, within the Space of One Month, repair to the Presence of the Governor General, or to Major William Popham, Commander of the Forces in the Field, and make their Submission, shall be pardoned; and such as, on account of the Distance of the Road, or any other valid Reason, cannot attend in Person, must send their Vakeels for this Purpose with proper Credentials. But be it known that the Persons of Cheit Sing and his Brother Soojaun Sing are excepted from this Pardon; and the Town of Gopeegunge, the Inhabitants of which have been particularly active in this Rebellion, and have committed many Acts of Sedition and even Bloodshed on many of the Dependants of this Government, shall be destroyed, and the Inhabitants thereof punished, on a due Enquiry into their Crimes—Such Persons as, availing themselves of these Troubles, shall have plundered and oppressed the Inhabitants of the City of Banaris, and such as shall have committed Murder on peaceable Passengers, shall be rendered accountable for the same in the due Course of Justice.]

To Major Crabb:

Sir,

I duly received your Letter, informing me of the Success of your Expedition; and return you my warmest Thanks for the Spirit and Judgment which you exerted in the Conduct of it.

Captain Blair and Bundoo Khan have given me a minute Detail of the Difficulties and Fatigues which you encountered in your March; and I am truly sensible of the Zeal and Perseverance which you have shewn in surmounting them.

The Defeat of the Rajah's Troops at Lora, besides the immediate Consequence of the Evacuation of Lutteefpoor, is likely to be productive of the good Effect of speedily terminating the Disturbances occasioned by the Defection of the Rajah Cheit Sing.

Be assured that I shall always retain a proper Sense of, and desire to acknowledge, the Service you have performed.

To Colonel Morgan.

Sir,

In my Letter to you, dated the 24th Instant, I acquainted you, that as the Nabob expected his Return to his Capital would put a Stop to the Disturbances which have lately arisen in his Country, it was unnecessary for you to proceed to Lucknow with your Brigade, as I at first directed. From a subsequent Conversation with the Minister, I find there is a Probability that the Nabob may be deceived in his Expectations, and still require your Assistance; I have therefore directed Mr. Middleton, on the Nabob's Application to him in Writing for that Purpose, to apply to you for the Aid of such a Force as the Nabob may require; which I request you will be pleased to furnish on Mr. Middleton's Requisition.

To the Honourable Warren Hastings Esquire.

Honourable Sir,

I was honoured last Night with your Letters of the 24th Instant; and beg leave to assure you, it is the Summit of my Ambition to merit your Approbation of my Conduct; and the Compliment you paid the Troops which I sent you heightened my Satisfaction with additional Pleasure. In consequence of your Letter of the 19th, desiring me to halt at this Place, I immediately ordered that Part of my Brigade that had crossed over the Joosy, to recross; but in order to lose no Time, I shall directly march towards Lucknow, and agreeable to your Directions shall direct Colonel Sir John Cumming to cross immediately at Khaunpoor, and proceed to Lucknow with Two Regiments and Four Guns, and to comply with such Requisitions as the Nabob or the Resident make to him for Assistance to establish Tranquillity in his Excellency's Dominions. But I have the Pleasure to inform you, that I learn, both by Letters written by Gentlemen at Lucknow, and from my Intelligence Writer there, that the Commotions have subsided, and they entertained no Alarm but from the Situation of Chunar; and I am ready to conclude, that the Brigade's halting here operated in some measure to produce that good Effect; and I am now concerned I sent to you that Extract from Mr. Blane's Letter, as I apprehend it was written without a right Consideration of Circumstances, and caused you some unnecessary Alarm. Captain Law will cross the River To-morrow Morning with all the Cavalry fit to serve on active Service, and I have given him Instructions to use all Expedition on his Way down to Chunar. I shall march on this Side the Water up to Khaunpoor. I will write to Mr. Middleton to let me know if the Assistance of my Troops is wanted, and shall be prepared to afford him any Aid, either with my whole Force or any Part of it, should the Detachment with Colonel Sir John Cumming not prove sufficient for quelling any Disturbances in the Nabob's Country; but in the present State of the Country I make no doubt of Colonel Cumming's Force being enough. As the Exigence of Affairs does not seem now to be pressing, I have left it to Colonel Cumming's Option, either to proceed with the Detachment, or to go and command at the Station of Futteh Ghur with the Two Regiments he has left there, till further Orders from me.

To the Honourable Warren Hastings Esquire.

Honourable Sir,

I have the Honour to enclose a Copy of a Second Letter received from Major Lucas, since the Action of the 17th with Futteh Saw; by which you will see that he narrowly escaped being taken Prisoner. Wishing to reduce as soon as possible the increased Expence attending the keeping in Pay the Body of Burkandazes raised for the Defence of these Districts, I had written to Govindram Misser to send them in here to receive the Arrears that were due to them; but previous to the Receipt of my Letter, a Plan for attacking Futteh Saw's Intrenchments had been formed. They accompanied the Battalion, and did not disappoint the general Expectation of their being serviceable on the Occasion; for they distinguished themselves greatly. I received this Morning another Letter from Major Lucas, wherein he says, "Don't determine any Thing about the Peons till you hear from me again; there is something in Agitation that may require their further Services." In consequence of this I have resolved not to recal them immediately, and hope you will approve of it.

NUM. 123.

To Mr. Charles Græme.

Dear Sir,

I have been favoured with your's of the 16th. By this, Chuprah must be relieved from their Fears of Futteh Saw, who I now find has got a most complete Drubbing, and had a very narrow Escape himself; for, contrary to Custom, he was in his Trenches, but walked off on seeing us advance so firmly. When he arrived on the Banks of the Jerry, he mounted a favourite Horse, who was alarmed at the Fire, and had nearly thrown his Master into the River, who was obliged to dismount, and get upon an Elephant, and had just got clear, with about Twenty or Thirty Favourites, when my Grenadiers and some of Durjoo Sing's People arrived at the River, whose Depth or Rapidity did not prevent their following immediately; and had they known the short Distance the Rajah had got in proper Time, it is more than probable he would have fallen into our Hands. His Loss in killed and wounded, from every Account, seems to be nearly 300. Most of his principal Men fell in the Trenches; Sittabarie, and a Commandant formerly in the Nedjeeb Battalion, said to be sent here by Cheit Sing, and his Colours taken, besides several others whose Names I do not recollect. From the Number of Matchlocks, Tulwars, &c. &c. picked up by our Followers in the Jungles about and in the River (which is confirmed by some Fakeers who stood on the Banks), many of them must have perished therein, as it was barely fordable in a particular Spot, and very rapid. It is supposed he had 3000 Men in the Trenches, and that he has not been able yet to collect 300; so that his Overthrow must, I hope, be now completed. The Lines we attacked must not be deemed common temporary Intrenchments; the Rampart at the Bastion was about 14 Feet high from the Outside; and it is very evident the whole was intended as a Fort, which in a little Time would have proved very troublesome. His Headmen often urged a Night Attack, which we expected for some Time, and have not been able to strip since we left Suvar, so that it became absolutely necessary to disturb this troublesome Neighbour, which I had determined should take place on the Arrival of the Gun. Enclosed is a small Sketch; I had proceeded with my Battalion to d. d. where we received a severe Fire, which neither the Gun nor Platoons could slacken. Here I was joined by the Aumil, who pointed out the Ford j., on which I formed the Plan of attacking the Bastion with the Gun and Durjoo Sing, while Captain Bruce advanced with his Battalion through the Jungle; so that the Trenches were stormed at each End with equal Success, and at the same Instant. Poverty seemed to reign among them, for I saw nothing but a few temporary Huts; and nothing worth mentioning has been picked up.

To-morrow I march about 5 Cofs N. E. to a suspected Place, and hope to be enabled to return to Burragong in a few Days. The Aumil has behaved very well on every Occasion.

I hope you are truly sensible of the essential Service performed by the Burkandazes, who have suffered exceedingly, and hope they may receive some Mark of Favour.

Hircarrahs are sent to all Quarters; no Intelligence of the Enemy as yet, nor do I suppose they will be easily found.

I find our Sepoys have not suffered as much as I expected; only Twenty wounded, One since dead, and Two or Three in Danger.

Translation of a Letter found in Lutteefpoor the 6th of October, and forwarded to the Governor General by Captain Thomas Blair.

On Thursday, after my Arrival at Banaris from Buxar, I went to Shewallah-Ghaut with a View of representing to you several Circumstances which I had learned concerning the opposite Party; but as they had got in before me, I was deprived of an Opportunity of seeing you. I was present at the Place where your Friends and People were sitting, and where they assembled together; and when you went into the Boat, notwithstanding it was my earnest Desire to have accompanied you, yet I had no Opportunity of doing it. The ensuing Day, the Passage of Boats to and fro was entirely obstructed, and I was afraid to send you Intelligence from this Place, lest the Letter should have fallen into the Hands of the Enemy. They remained afterwards Four Days at this Place with a few Men, and if you had then attempted to retaliate on them, you would certainly have taken Two Pigeons in One Trap; but as all your Actions are accompanied with good Fortune, there is no Doubt but the Enemy will be soon overcome. For Two Days the Hircarrahs of the opposite Party came to my House to make Enquiries; but, by the Blessing of God, no ill Consequence ensued. Now that you have taken this heavy Burthen upon yourself, you must trust entirely in God, and shew, on all Occasions, the utmost Fortitude. The Alliance of several Chiefs, at a Time like this, is very necessary, and may be easily accomplished; yet you must avoid forming any Connection with a Chief of such Consequence as may afterwards himself attempt an Interference in your Affairs. Whatever Orders you give, must proceed from your own Deliberation. I am at present perfectly idle here, and I am very solicitous of an Interview with you, that I may in Person communicate to you my Opinions on several Points which have occurred to me. By a Letter from Bulwunt Row, I understand that you wish me to inform myself concerning the Arrival of Hyder Beg, and to write you on the Subject.

I will assuredly make every necessary Enquiry, both about Hyder Beg and the Nabob Asfod-dowlah, and communicate to you the Result. I have already sent confidential Persons to both, and whatever I may in consequence learn, shall be communicated to you hereafter. Meanwhile the Matter is briefly this: You must never entertain Hopes of the Attachment of Hyder Beg; his whole Strength and Power depend on the opposite Party; yet it is proper you should attempt to conciliate the Favour of the Vizeer, by telling him, that you are desirous of representing several Circumstances to him; that you wish to persuade him to detach himself from the opposite Party, and to resume his former Authority over you. Without knowing your Sentiments on this Subject, it is not in my Power to act so of myself.

It is however at all Events advisable, that if the Vizeer should entirely embrace the other Party, you should nevertheless wait upon him personally, and represent to him whatever you may deem advisable. I beg you will believe me to be in every Respect firmly attached to you. Major Hannay with One Battalion has left Gooruckpoor, and Letters have been sent to Khaunpoor for Troops from thence; you should therefore retaliate on them as soon as possible. If Hyder Beg, without your Consent, should attempt to join the opposite Party, it is proper you should station a suitable Force on this Side of the Fort of Chunar, to prevent his crossing the River. Yesterday Rajah Gobind Ram and Lalla Bucheraje went and had an Interview with Hyder Beg. What more shall I say? The Object of Hyder Beg is certainly to manifest his Attachment to the opposite Party.

NUM. 125.

To Edward Wheler, Esquire.

Sir,

My Continuance in this Quarter, and the Events which have happened, have given me an Opportunity of becoming acquainted with the Situation of the Troops beyond the Provinces; and I am concerned to say, that in their Equipment they are extremely defective, particularly in small Arms and Accoutrements; the last Supplies sent from Fort William to Chunar are entirely expended; the Indents from the Board upon the Magazine there having exceeded the whole Quantity originally supplied. Major Popham's Detachment is indeed amply furnished; but those under Colonels Cumming and Muir are very deficient. I have not been informed of the Condition of Colonel Morgan's Brigade, but am afraid it is not much superior to that of the others.

I cannot ascertain the precise Quantity of Arms and Artillery which may be required, nor is it material; but the Necessity of having in Store at Chunar such a Supply as may be equal to the Demands of any probable Service on this Side of the Caramassia is evident, and the immediate Want of them is pressing: I therefore earnestly intreat your immediate Orders for transporting such a Proportion of small Arms and Accoutrements, and of Field Artillery, 12 and 6 Pounders, as may be adapted to this Service, and can be spared from Fort William and the Provinces, by Water, before the Swelling of the River subsides.

To the Honourable Warren Hastings Esquire, Governor General, &amp;c.

Sir,

I was only Yesterday favoured by the Receipt of your Letter of the 3d Instant. I have for some Days past been collecting the Papers which have been thrown out in the Streets and Houses in this Place.

I have the Pleasure to assure you, that the Trouble I have taken to collect the Reyots of the Pergunnahs of Lutteefpoor and Pateeta has been attended with Success. In most of the Villages I have distributed small Flags, and given them Beetle and a Hircarra, and to some a Sepoy to protect and encourage them. The Reyots are again employed in their Fields; but few or none of the Zemeeendars or Aumils have yet come in. I expect the late Rain which we have had will, with the favourable Report of the Reyots, induce them to return to their former Habitations. You may be assured, that nothing shall be wanting on my Part to protect and encourage them. The Aumils of Lutteefpoor and Pateeta shall have every Assistance which I can possibly give them. In the Jungles a little Distance from this, I have discovered a small fortified Place, in which, it appears to me, the Europeans were put to Death: Some of their Hats, Shoe-brushes, and Pieces of their Coats, were found in it. I have not been able to discover any Remains of their Bodies.

I send you Shujah ud Dowlah's Agreement with the Rajah, which was found Yesterday. I am collecting all the Papers into One Room. Two Moonshees, who take Bauboo Owfan Sing's Name, came to take all the Papers with them. As they had no Letter with them, I desired they would get a proper Authority for taking Possession of them, before I could deliver them: I shall be glad to be favoured with your Directions respecting them.

Num. 127.

To Edward Wheler, Esquire.

Sir,

I beg Leave to introduce, through you, to the Notice of the Board, an Instance of Zeal and Attachment to our Government, which, from the peculiar Circumstances under which it was exhibited, merits both a Place in our Records, and a public and warm Acknowledgement.

It will be remembered, that a principal Object of my Journey to these Provinces was to obtain and facilitate an Interview at Banaris with Dewaugur Pundit, the Minister of Rajah Moodajee Booslah, for the Purpose of effecting a final Adjustment of the political Concerns of our Government, and that of Berar. The Death of Dewaugur Pundit, the News of which reached me Two Days before my Arrival at Banaris, and which I regret with the most sensible Concern, disappointed all the Hopes which I had conceived of forming by his Means a solid and lasting Alliance with the Court of Berar.

I was attended in my Journey from Calcutta by Beneram Pundit, the Vakeel of Moodajee Booslah, with his Brother Bissumber Pundit. The Vakeel, during his long Residence with me in that Capacity, had given me constant Proofs of a sincere Disposition to promote the Interests of our Government, whilst he exerted himself to advance those of his Master.

When I retreated from Banaris, Beneram Pundit and his Brother, on the first Intelligence of my Departure, followed, and, unattended by a single Servant, joined me in the March, resisting all my Intreaties, and even Injunctions, to return to Banaris, where their whole Family resided, and where they might have remained in perfect Ease and Security.

On my Arrival at Chunar I found myself in great and irremediable Distress for want of Money. The Troops were some Four, and others Five Months in Arrears, and as Cheit Sing had the Country on all Sides at his Devotion, I had not the smallest Prospect of obtaining Supplies, until the Motion of our Troops from different Quarters should open a Communication. It was with Difficulty that I found Means to raise so small a Sum as 2500 Rupees, to distribute among the Sepoys for their pressing Necessities. I must add, though foreign from my immediate Subject, that the Sepoys bore their Distresses without expressing the least Impatience under them.

Being accustomed, from my Experience of the Interest which Beneram Pundit had always taken in the Success of our Affairs, and as a kind of Acknowledgment of it, to treat him with a greater Freedom of Communication than other Persons in his Situation, I occasionally mentioned to him, without any Expectation or Thought of obtaining any Relief from him, the Difficulties under which I laboured for the Want of present Subsistence. He instantly, and with some Eagerness, replied, That his Family at Banaris were in Possession of a Lack of Rupees, collected in Specie, of which he made me the instant Offer, proposing that a Battalion of Sepoys should be sent to bring it away; his Brother at the same Time offering to accompany the Escort, and to deliver the Money. I thankfully accepted the Offer, and should have adopted the Mode they recommended for bringing away the Money, had I not been fearful of exposing their Family

PART II.

Family to the Vengeance of Cheit Sing; and as my Dewan had been left at Banaris, I hoped by his Means to procure the Treasure to be transported to Chunar, and I received their Orders for the Delivery of it to him. But in this Expedient I was disappointed, for the Dewan was so concealed, that my Letter could not reach him, and Gopaul Dois, the Banker, through whose Agency the intended Plan was to be effected, was about the same Time apprehended and carried a Prisoner to Lutteespoor, where the Rajah resided; neither could I at that Time devise any other Contrivance to avail myself of the Assistance which had been thus generously pressed upon me. When I returned to Banaris, Beneram Pundit renewed the same Tender; and although my Distress for Money was not then equal in any Degree to that which had before prompted him to make it, I agreed to accept it, willing to furnish an incontrovertible Proof of his Sincerity in the First Offer, and strengthen the Testimony which I have herein given of his steady Attachment to our Government. The whole Sum, amounting to One Lack of Banaris Sicca Rupees, was received between the 30th of September and 1st of October: I have granted to Beneram Pundit a Bond for the same, at the usual Rate of Interest, and in the usual Form, except that it has only my Signature to it. I hope and request that the Board will be pleased to confirm it.

Num. 128.

To the Honourable Warren Hastings Esquire.

Honourable Sir,

I do myself the Pleasure to acquaint you with my Progress since I left Khaunpoor.

You no doubt heard of my sudden March from thence for the Safety of Lucknow, and a few Days afterwards of my hasty unexpected March for the Relief of Lieutenant Colonel Hannay, whose Situation, from his Letters to me and Mr. Middleton, was beyond Description, and which authorized the March immediately necessary. He was stationed at Sakrora, about 30 Cois from Lucknow; and to get to him I had Four unfordable Rivers or Nullahs to cross, and all the Country almost between the Goompty and Gogra had mostly revolted, and were assembled in a very considerable Body, headed by many of the disaffected Rajahs, which I had to remove before I could possibly attempt to cross the Gogra; in all which I was very successful, and relieved Lieutenant Colonel Hannay the 6th in the Morning. The Rebels who had occasioned such Commotion in that Country, and had occasioned him calling for Assistance, were then assembled at Bopaul Ghaut, on the Banks of the Teerah Nullah, which I was informed was fordable; and that they were determined to maintain their Ground. I halted a Day, and got an Addition of Two 6 Pounders and Two hundred of the disaffected Horse. I marched, and found them posted as described, across the Nullah, with Two Guns well stationed for their Defence, which they had taken somewhere or other. In this Situation, I advanced the Grenadier Companies with the Four Guns immediately to the Banks of the Nullah, with an Intention to have ordered the Grenadiers and Two Guns over; but I found the Intelligence which I had received, of its being fordable, premature, and it might have been attended with that Consequence that I might have suffered exceedingly. This was an Accident I could not foresee, and which took me nearly Half an Hour to correct in finding out a Place where there was the least Probability of fording, and at this Place the tallest Men could only get through. I then ordered the Grenadiers with Two Guns down to the Ford (having previously provided long and thick Ropes to enable me to drag the Guns through any Nullah where I might not meet with Boats), while the other Two Guns were covering their Crossing. This obliged the whole to give way, leaving their Guns and Two Tumbrils, with near 100 shotted Cartridges, &c. &c. From the first of my Arrival at the Ghaut, until they gave way, was near an Hour. I had only Two Men killed and Four wounded; of the Enemy, I found on the Spot between 60 and 70 killed, and many more lay scattered about at a Distance, which they had endeavoured to carry off; the greater Part of their Wounded were likewise moved away, owing to the Difficulty and Delay that I met with in getting across the Nullah. They are a Set of the most obstinate People I ever met with; for such of the Wounded as were not taken away refused the Assistance which I offered them. Could I have possibly got across sooner, and the Horsemen had recovered from their Panic, there must have been very great Carnage.

It is impossible to ascertain their Numbers; it was supposed they consisted of Ten thousand and upwards, Horse and Foot; but the irregular Manner in which they were drawn up, prevents my forming any Judgment.

This Circumstance of the Intelligence respecting the Ford was unfortunate; however, I have taken care in providing such People as will inevitably prevent the like happening again. They were Natives of this Country; and I am almost certain it was done on Purpose, for the Hircarrahs that carried me to the Ghaut I have not seen since.

To describe to you the Situation of Colonel Hannay's own Sepoys, and which called me to his Relief and Assistance, I suppose you will be acquainted with, either by himself, or from Mr. Middleton; and as I have entered upon the restoring this Country, and a Regiment will be necessary, I beg the Favour I may not be relieved.

General Orders issued by the Governor General at Banaris the 19th October 1781.

The Governor General having received a minute Detail from Major Crabb, of the March and Occurrences of the Detachment lately under his Command, in an Enterprize against Lutteeepoor, (which Detail has been hitherto delayed by the Indisposition of Major Crabb) repeats, in a particular Manner, the general Thanks which he gave to the Detachment on the first imperfect Account of their Success.

It is with extreme Satisfaction that the Governor General observes the Spirit and Perseverance with which the Troops surmounted the many and great Obstacles which opposed their Progress through the Mountains, and the Gallantry with which they attacked and defeated a strong Detachment of the Enemy after a most fatiguing March.

The Governor General entertains the highest Sense of the Zeal and Abilities with which Major Crabb has conducted successfully an Expedition attended with uncommon Difficulties from Nul-lahs, Jungles, and other Impediments.

The greatest Commendations are also due to the Officers of the Detachment, for their able and active Assistance in this arduous Expedition.

The strong Recommendations which Major Crabb has given of Lieutenant Fireworker Baillie, for his distinguished Attention and Activity in the Management of the Artillery under his Charge, affords the Governor General the Pleasure of a Second Occasion of acknowledging the Services of that Officer in the same Campaign, and publishing his Thanks for them.

All Recruiting for any of the Corps beyond the Provinces, to be immediately suspended.

A Regiment of Sepoys from the Station of Khaunpoor to be stationed at Lucknow, under the Orders of the Resident, and relieved every Three Months.

All British Officers holding Commands, or employed in the Service of his Excellency the Nabob Vizeer, are hereby recalled to their Duty in the Company's Troops; they are first to repair with their Corps to Lucknow, where they are to discharge all Arrears due to the Troops under their respective Commands, and settle their Accounts with the Paymaster General of the Vizeer's Establishment under British Officers, after which they are immediately to proceed to the nearest Station of the Company's Forces, and wait there until they receive the Orders of the Commander in Chief respecting their future Destination in the Corps of the Army.

B, C, D, E, and F, are, as they purport to be, Copies of Letters respectively written and received by this Deponent; and that he did believe, from the best Information which he had received at the Time of writing the Letters purporting to be written by him this Deponent, that the Subject Matter thereof was true, and still believes the same to be true. And this Deponent further saith, That he hath at diverse Times written several Persian Letters to the Rajah Cheit Sing, containing Complaints of a like Nature; and that he hath not to this Hour been able to procure Redress from the said Rajah, either on account of the Complaints contained in the annexed Letters, or in the said Persian Letters; that the said Rajah had at different Times inveigled the Sepoys under the Command of this Deponent to desert and enter into his Service; and that, from the general Conduct of the said Rajah and his People, this Deponent verily believes the said Rajah was disaffected to the English Government, and wished the Subversion of the same. And further this Deponent saith, that he hath commanded the Fort or Garrison of Buxar, on the Frontiers of the Company's Possessions, and next adjoining to those of the Zemedyary of the said Rajah Cheit Sing, for the Space of Three Years and Half, and, from his Office and Situation, had frequent Experience of the Disposition of the said Rajah, and of his People.

To Thomas Graham Esq; Company's Resident at Banaris.

Sir,

From the many contemptuous and disrespectful Letters and Messages received in answer to the different Applications made by me to the Fougedars, Aumils, Zemeedars, &c. of Cheit Sing's Country, on various Subjects, I find myself obliged to address you in this public Manner, in Hopes of Redress from your Representation to the Rajah; and in order to shew you their Disinclination to assist the Company, or oblige me, I shall here mention the Heads of two or three Circumstances as I have had occasion to write to them upon. About Sixteen or Eighteen Months ago, a Boat with Two Twenty-four Pounders, belonging to the Honourable Company going to Chunar, was sunk a little above Beerpoor on the Ground belonging to the Village of Seerpoor: In consequence I applied to the Zemeedar of Beerpoor to assist me in endeavouring to weigh the Boat, at the same Time promising a Reward to such People as he could let me have. Instead of complying with my Request, he returned me an insolent Answer, saying, He had seen many Fringees; who was he? (meaning me); that he was Rajah Babadre's Servant, not mine, and would therefore give me no Assistance without his Orders.

I then wrote to the Fougedar of Imaumabad; who made a Shew of Assistance, by sending Thirty or Forty Men. As they could be of little or no Use, I collected together, from Buxar and Bowjpoor, as many as I possibly could, with whom I went and examined the Spot, and found it impracticable, from the Rapidity of the River, at that Time to weigh the Guns, had I been supplied with the Number of People required. On my making known to the Board the Impossibility of their then being got at, I was ordered to fix a Buoy to the Boat, and post a Guard on the Banks nearest to the Place, in order to prevent its being cut away, in Hopes the Course of the River might alter sufficiently this Season to admit of their being taken up. I gave the Command of the Guard to a Naick, who formerly resided at the Village of Seerpoor, as I thought him the likeliest Person to get the Assistance of the Country People when I might want them. The Naick came to me about a Month or Six Weeks ago, and informed me the Buoy and Mast were cut away in the Night by some of the Mullahs either of Seerpoor, Beerpoor, or Barrow; that if I would permit him to go and reside amongst those People for a Week or a Fortnight, he would find out who cut it away, and by what Authority, as he had Reason to suspect the different Zemeedars, having previously heard that such a Thing was in Agitation. I permitted him to go; and in Ten Days he returned, and informed me, Two Mullahs belonging to one of the Villages told him, they knew the People, but it was as much as their own and their Families Lives were worth to divulge it, as the Zemeedars had threatened the Life of any Person who should inform the Fringeers, adding, the Guns would be useful to themselves, as the English would not possess the Country long. I wrote to the Fougedar Buckt Sing Toukaury, of Serinja Pergunnah, and Meer Aussen Ally of Imaumabad Pergunnah, to deliver up the Mullahs of the different Villages, at least those who had cut away the Buoys. In consequence I obtained an Order on the Zemeedars and Cutwalls for their being delivered up; but the Cutwall of Imaumabad refused, saying, He did not know me; that if I wanted them, or any Thing else, I should fight him for it before I should have it; at the same Time collecting a Mob, he drew his Sword, and made a Cut at one of my People, which he defended with his Firelock, or would most probably have been killed. Upon this being reported to me, I sent a Party of Sepoys, with Orders not to make any Disturbance, but if any Resistance was made, to bring the Cutwall a Prisoner to me. Before the Sepoys could get there, the Mullahs were sent; but those who gave the Information to the Naick, and which were the People I wanted, were not among the Number; upon my inquiring where they were, I was told that one was dead, and the other gone to Calcutta.

The Practice of drawing their Swords upon my People is very frequent. Whenever I have occasion to send them into the Country, either for Provisions, Bamboos, Straw, or any other Article I may want for my Garrison, or the Troops under my Command, although I write to them in the most polite and civil Manner for the smallest Article, and never suffer any Person under me to take the Value of a Straw without paying for it; notwithstanding which, they will not supply me with any Thing by Consent, but, on the contrary, abuse my People in the most gross Manner; and frequently, when the Gentlemen belonging to this Station have sent their Servants to purchase Things, they have been beat in a most cruel Manner.

The Zemeedars of Narainpoor, Beerpoor, and Chousah, make a common Practice of stopping Boats, although they have regular Rowannahs and Passports from Government. On my sending to know the Reasons for their detaining them, they make use of the most disrespectful Invectives against the Company and me; particularly the Zemeedar of Narainpoor, who not long ago confined one of the Chowdries of Buxar for Nineteen Days in Irons, and made him pay for another Man Fifty-three Rupees. Upon my writing him on the Subject, to know why he confined him, he drew his Sword on the Sepoy I sent, and returned a verbal Answer, that if the Chowdry came on his Side the River, he would cut his Nose and Ears off, and make him pay as much more.

Indeed, from the many Instances I have experienced of the Insolence of the several Zemeedars, and the many Complaints I have made to their different Fougedars of them, I have every Reason to believe they are encouraged by them. I shall therefore consider myself obliged by your procuring for me from the Rajah, an Order for such Articles as I may have occasion for, on my paying the customary Price, as by that means it will prevent any further Trouble.

I have the Honour to be, &c.

To Francis Fowke Esq; Company's Resident at Banaris.

Sir,

On the 27th August I did myself the Pleasure of addressing you on a Subject, which I conceived of great Moment to the Company, or at least to me, as it struck at their Authority as well as mine; but it not being taken notice of by you, I should suppose it had not come to hand, and therefore I enclose a Copy, and beg you will on Receipt hereof interest yourself with the Rajah, to give me ample Satisfaction for such Behaviour, otherwise, in Support of my own Consequence, I shall be obliged to apply to the Board for Redress, or for Leave to do myself Justice; for at present the Inhabitants of this Country are in such a rebellious State, that within a Mile of me they refuse to sell the smallest Article wanting either for myself or for the Troops under my Command, notwithstanding I address them in the most polite Manner, by Letter, for the most trifling Thing. It is but Yesterday the Zemeedar of Narainpoor treated me with the greatest Contempt, by throwing a Letter I sent him on the Ground, and treading on it. The Contents were to request he would send Two or Three Dookaundars with Grain, &c. &c. for the Use of Captain Crawford's Detachment. The Zemeedar at the same Time made use of the grossest Abuse against me and the People I sent, telling them he could raise Four hundred men; that if the Fringeers wanted any Thing, they should fight for it. This Kind of Conduct, if not soon put an End to, will be productive of Bloodshed; for it is impossible in my Situation, let what will be the Consequence, to suffer it, or the People under my Command will be spit at as they pass through the Country, and myself insulted at my Fort Gates. Your speedy Reply will much oblige,

To Captain I. Eaton, commanding the Fort of Buxar.

Sir,

I have but this Moment received your Favour of the 3d Instant. I am ashamed to say, that the Original of the Copy which you inclosed, came to hand in due Time. All I can say in Excuse for my Inattention, is a bilious Fever, from which I am now only recovering, and which, during its Continuance, totally incapacitated me for any Kind of Business.

I will immediately apply to the Rajah in the Manner you desire, and represent to him the Propriety of punishing and repressing the Insolence of his Servants, and the Necessity of their assisting the Commander in obtaining Supplies for his Garrison: However, I think I can venture to predict, that a Recrimination is all the Redress I shall be able to procure; and I am convinced that the Interference of the Supreme Council is become absolutely necessary to put a Stop to these Enormities. The Moment I receive the Rajah's Answer, I will give you the Substance of it.

The Inclosed will inform you of what has already passed upon this Subject.

As I have heard nothing from the Board upon this Subject, I conclude that my Letter has been passed over amidst the Multiplicity of Business in which the General must have found himself involved on his Arrival at the Presidency. I remain,

NUM. 1. E.

To Francis Fowke Esq;

Sir,

I have received your different Favours, and have seen the Perwannah, which I am afraid will have little or no Effect, as the whole Country seems to be in a State of Ferment. So lately ago as the 14th Instant, Three Gentlemen, who were proceeding to join the Army, were insulted by the Zemcedar of Beerpoor, who not only beat and bruised their Servants, and afterwards robbed them, but cut one of the Gentlemen with a Tulwar across the Forehead, and other Parts of the Body, in so dangerous a Manner, that he was sent off from Buxar Yesterday Morning, to have the Assistance of the Medical Gentlemen at Patna; but as there is every Appearance of a Fracture, I am much afraid he will not recover. The other Two Gentlemen, after this shocking Accident, returned here, and propose remaining with me until they hear of Mr. Basset (the Gentleman wounded) whether he recovers.

Both the Gentlemen say, the Stroke was made by the Zemcedar himself; upon which I immediately dispatched a Serjeant and Thirty Sepoys, who are just now returned, having brought along with them a Parcel of Black Fellows from Beerpoor; but as I have not as yet had Time to enquire into the Particulars, I am uncertain whether the Scrutiny will be attended with the desired Success: I am however resolved to keep the People I already have in Confinement, Prisoners, until I am able to get to the Bottom of this infamous Affair. I request you will inform the Rajah of my Resolution, that he may take the proper Steps to have it cleared up; as this is not the only Instance of the daring and rebellious Spirit of the Natives in Cheit Sing's Districts. The Inclosed will shew you a new Species of Fraud and Extortion, committed by Myup Sing, the Paranparaha Zemcedar, who takes upon himself the Collection of Duties on Boats passing his Station. The Serang, from whom he squeezed Money, has given me the inclosed Account of the Matter, drawn up by himself, and to which I refer you; and am,

NUM. 1. F.

To the Honourable Warren Hastings Esquire, Governor General, &amp;c. Council.

Gentlemen,

As I have ever considered it as an essential Duty incumbent on me, as commanding at this Station, to give every Information in my Power, respecting the proper and regular Manner of distributing Justice, and preventing oppressive Acts and Irregularities, to the Honourable Board; I have embraced this Opportunity of communicating a Piece of Intelligence, which, from the flagrant Circumstances and daring Spirit of the Natives in this Part of the World, requires the most serious Attention of the Honourable Board.

So very lately as the 14th of the current Month, Three Gentlemen, viz. Ensigns Irvine, Horne, and Basset, being on their Way to join the Army, were stopped by these Freebooters at Beerpoor, a Village distant from Buxar only Three Cois. The Zemcedar, at the Head of a numerous Gang, endeavoured and was very assiduous in picking a Quarrel with the Gentlemen's

Servants,

Servants, Two or Three of whom they cut down with Tulwars, and afterwards robbed a Baggage Boat. Not yet satisfied with such cruel and barbarous Treatment, the Zemcedar (as Two of the Gentlemen inform me) made a Stroke at Mr. Basset with a Tulwar, and cut him so desperately across the Forehead and other Parts of the Body, that he was brought back to Buxar, and immediately sent away to Patna to have the Assistance of the Medical Gentlemen at the Station, though with very little Hopes of Recovery. The other Gentlemen are at present with me waiting the Issue. Immediately on receiving the above shocking Account, I dispatched a Serjeant and Thirty Sepoys in Quest of the Offenders; and Yesterday the Detachment returned, and brought a Number of People Prisoners along with them, which I will lose no Time in examining, and taking every other Step necessary to get to the Bottom of so daring an Insult. So soon as I am able to investigate the Matter thoroughly, I will take the earliest Opportunity of addressing the Honourable Board with the Result of my Enquiry.

As this is not the only Instance of the daring and insolent, I may almost say, rebellious Spirit of the Natives in almost every District of Cheit Sing's Country, I have officially made repeated Applications to Mr. Fowke, the Resident at Banaris, to represent those Grievances to the Rajah, but hitherto without Effect.

General Coote likewise addressed Mr. Fowke, in consequence of my Complaint, a Copy of which I send inclosed; also Mr. Fowke's Answer to the General. Some short Time afterwards, I had a Second Occasion to address Mr. Fowke on a Second Insult; a Copy of which I likewise inclose you, with his Reply.

Since writing the above, I have just had a Third Complaint preferred to me against these People, by a Serang that was stopped by Myup Sing, the Paranpara Zemcedar, who threatened to murder him, if he did not immediately pay 100 Rupees Duty on a Boat belonging to Major Duff, which he at that Time had charge of, and was conducting to the Presidency. The Account, as wrote by the Serang himself, and delivered by him to me, I have inclosed for your Perusal.

All these Circumstances, properly considered, will evidently shew the great Necessity there is of speedily falling upon some Means to put a Stop to such outrageous Conduct, as at present there is no Safety for the Traveller either by Land or Water.

I have the Honour to remain, &c.

Isaac Eaton.

Affidavit of Major Palmer.

William Palmer, Major in the Service of the Honourable the East India Company in Bengal, maketh Oath, and saith, That about the latter End of the Month of June last, the Honourable Warren Hastings Esquire, Governor General of Bengal, discoursing with this Deponent on the Subject of his intended Journey to Banaria and Lucknow, declared one of the principal Objects of it to be to exact from Rajah Cheit Sing a Fine or Contribution of Fifty Lacks of Rupees, as a Punishment for Breach of Engagements with the Government of Bengal, and for Acts of Misconduct in his Zemcedary. The Governor General further declared to this Deponent, That he knew the Ability of the Rajah to contribute such a Sum to the Exigencies of Government, and that he the Governor General was determined to convert the Faults committed by the Rajah into a public Benefit. The Governor General further declared to this Deponent, in the same Conversation, That an Offer from the Rajah, but indirectly, had been made to him of Twenty Lacks of Rupees for the public Service, as a Retribution for his Failure of Engagements; but that he the Governor General was resolved to insist upon the first-mentioned Sum of Fifty Lacks of Rupees; and if the Rajah should absolutely refuse the Demand, that he the Governor General would deprive him of his Zemcedary, or transfer the Sovereignty thereof to the Nabob Vizeer.

Attestation of David Anderson Esquire.

To the Honourable Warren Hastings Esquire.

Honourable Sir,

In obedience to your Commands, conveyed to me through Major Palmer, I shall endeavour to repeat, as well as I can remember, the Purport of what you were pleased to inform me before your Departure from Calcutta, of your Intentions regarding Cheit Sing; but as so long an Interval has since elapsed, my Recollection, which has never been strengthened by a Communication, must necessarily be somewhat imperfect.

After enumerating some of the Resources which you expected to find up the Country for the Relief of the Company's Exigencies, you mentioned to me the Conduct of Cheit Sing.

You

PART III.

You observed, that he owed his Elevation to the Company; that he was allowed to enjoy a very considerable Income, the Revenue exacted from him being much inferior to the Produce of his Districts, and that his Territories were maintained and defended by the English Army: That on those Considerations, it had been reckoned equitable that he should contribute on an Emergency to the Support of Wars carried on by that Government under which he held his Zemeedary, and to which he was indebted for its Protection. Accordingly you mentioned, that a Sum had been demanded from him; that, after some Difficulties, he had agreed to pay it at a certain Period; that, trusting to his Promises, you had made an Assignment on him for the Use of Colonel Camac's Detachment; and that Colonel Camac, relying on his Punctuality, had returned a Bill for a less Sum, which had been sent to him by Mr. Middleton; but that this Confidence had nearly proved fatal to the Detachment, and actually did prove the Cause of retarding the Expedition: That Cheit Sing, in spite of all the Representations which were made to him, delayed so long the promised Payment, that the Officers of the Detachment were reduced to the Necessity of selling their Plate: That you therefore determined to call him to an Account, and oblige him to make an Atonement for his Conduct in this Instance, and the Want of Attachment he had in general shewn to our Government, by paying a considerable Sum of Money to the Relief of the Company's Exigencies; that if he consented, you were desirous of establishing his Possession on the most permanent and eligible Footing; but if he refused, you had in your Power to raise a large Sum for the Company, by accepting of an Offer which had been made for his District by the Vizeer. You minuted the Particulars of Cheit Sing's Conduct in an Account which you drew up in Calcutta, of the State of the different Powers of Hindostan; though I do not believe that in that Paper you expressed the Intentions you had formed; and I remember you told me, that you had communicated to Mr. Wheler your Intentions regarding Cheit Sing; and I believe (though I cannot positively recollect) you said he had concurred in them.

I am, with the greatest Respect, &c.

Translation of the Declaration of Hyder Beg Khan, attested before Chief Justice Sir Elijah Impey, November 26th 1781.

When I arrived at the Seray of Saumee, the Gov. General, Mr. Hastings, was in the Fort of Chunar. I was detained at the Seray by the Swelling of the River Burnau. The Vakeel of the Rajah Cheit Sing came to me, and delivered to me thus the Message of the said Rajah.—“I [Cheit Sing] have not been in any Manner deficient in my Obedience to the Gentlemen of high Rank [the English].—The Governor General arrived at Banaris.—At the Instigation of Owfan Sing, Mr. Markham brought Two Companies, and put me in Arrest.

About Twelve o'Clock my People, stretching forth their Hands, brought me out from thence—For the Safety of my Life I came to Ramnagur, and from thence to Lutteefpoor.—After that, a Force came from Chunar to Ramnagur.—Owfan Sing wanted to seize upon Ramnagur. My People stood upon their Defence; an Engagement followed, and the Troops of the Governor General were cut off. I am now determined not to pass by aught which may be in my Power to execute. Do you (i. e. this Deponent) write thus to the Vizeer of the Empire, “That if Support is given to me, I will collect together an Hundred thousand Men, I will go even to Calcutta, and I will totally annihilate the English Government.” I replied to the Vakeel, “that this Conduct, and these Declarations, would be productive of Evil to the Rajah.—When the Companies came to confine the Rajah, he should have gone that Moment to the Governor General.—People say that he hesitated whether he should, or not, attend the Governor. If the Governor General had had any ill Intentions towards him, he would have called together the Company's Forces, who were stationed in different Parts—To what Purpose was it to come alone to Banaris? Or he would would have seized him upon the Road. Such Intentions on the Part of the Governor General, from this Retrospection, are not to be conceived. If a Master and a Ruler exerts his Authority, still there is no Cause for Fear and Apprehension. On these Subjects, with which you are unacquainted, I will communicate Circumstances as they are. His Highness is, in his Life and in his Fortune, joined and united with the Company, and the English Gentlemen. The whole of his Dominions is from them (or is theirs), nor does he wish that there should be any Distinction between his and theirs. Such Regard more especially does he pay to the firm and perfect Friendship which always subsisted between the Governor General and his Highness the late Nabob, that he never will be led to deviate, even the Point of a Hair, from the Sentiments and Wishes of the Governor. As soon as his Highness hears these Things, he will march immediately with his Forces to meet Mr. Hastings. Notwithstanding the Governor General has repeatedly written to the Vizeer to forbid him, yet his Highness will now come on his own Determination. The English Forces too are near at hand, they will speedily arrive, and the Punishment will be severe. It is not well for the Rajah; he will be torn up by the very Roots.—To threaten also that which is out of his Power to execute, is improper; the Rank of the Rajah is nothing more than that of a Zemeeदार; no one will pay regard to his Attempts, and a small Force will be sufficient to chastise him. Far better will it be for him to lay aside such Thoughts as these, to implore Pardon of the Governor General, to give up his Forts, and send back to him the Boats and the whole of the Baggage; or rather, it would be better that he himself should go alone, and with his Hands bound, into the Presence of the Governor.'

Again he brought this Message from the Rajah: "I can no longer rely with Safety on the English. If you say thus, do you interpose, obtain Pardon for my Faults, and take upon yourself to settle the Subsidy." I said in Reply, 'Your Crimes have been too great; you have attacked the Troops of the Company. I cannot presume to take upon myself to settle your Affairs, and to obtain Pardon for your Crimes. If you have actually resolved on a Change of Conduct, return the Boats and the Baggage, and give up Ramnagur, Lutteefpoor, and Pateeta. Supported by such Proofs, I will once endeavour to obtain a Pardon for you; to grant or to refuse will rest with the Governor General.' The Person who brought the Message said in Answer, 'The Intentions of the Rajah are to seize upon the Fort of Chunar, and to extend his Government as far as Calcutta, and you tell him to deliver up Ramnagur, Lutteefpoor, and Pateeta!' I said, 'Then the Rajah, it appears, aspires to the Empire, yet his Rank is only that of a Zemeeदार! these Attempts will draw down Destruction upon him; he will be extirpated in a Moment.' After this Conversation, he promised to return the Boats, but he never performed his Promise. An Animosity to all the English, plainly and evidently appeared from the Language of the Rajah's Vakeel; he repeatedly said, that he would go even to Calcutta, and that he would expel the English, nor would he be deficient in aught which he had the Power to execute. When he found that he had nothing to hope from my Interposition, he began to act hostilely towards me also. He denied me Boats to cross the Burna, and he directed the Tribe of Gurkbunsee to attack me in the Night. During the few Days that I continued there, we were obliged to keep ourselves ready for Action, and be upon our guard Day and Night. In the Neighbourhood of Jounpoor, the People of the Rajah wounded several of the Stragglers belonging to the Cavalry in his Highness's Service, who were coming to join me, and carried off some Horses. And the People stationed at Azumgur, who came in to me, set forth, That Nadir Shah, the Son of Azum Shah, Zemeeदार of Azumgur, which was formerly under the Government of Cheit Sing, had, by Directions from the Rajah, gone to Azumgur and raised Disturbances. And the Vakeel of Cheit Sing, in the Course of his Conversation, said, that the Rajah had sent Forces towards the Carramnassa, and even to the Walls of Patna; and that Letters were gone to the King, to Nujjuf Khan, and to Sindiah. Zaulim Sing, formerly expelled from Amurdeh, was at Budlapoor, in the Government of Cheit Sing: He also went to Amurdeh, in the Territories of the Nabob, and raised Disturbances. It appears that the People of Budlapoor accompanied Zaulim Sing. Such were the Reports communicated to me by the People of that Place. Finding it impracticable to cross the Burna, where I was, without Boats, I marched from thence, and crossing higher up, where the River was fordable, I proceeded to join the Governor General.

This Account of what I heard, and of what I saw, I have truly and faithfully related. There may be a Difference between the Idioms of the Hindostan and Persian Languages, but there is none in the Sense. I swear by the Almighty, that I have truly wrote, without Diminution or Addition, all that I heard and all that I saw, and nothing but the Truth.

Hyder Beg. That which is written is true.
Sealed with his Seal.

PART III.

Eight Days. At length a Fakeer, for the sake of the Reward, went to Girdhauree Laul, the Brother of Diaram, Aumeen of Banaris, and said, that for a Recompense he would seize and deliver me up. The said Girdhauree Laul gave Five Rupees to the Fakeer, and sent Five-and-twenty Peadahs along with him, who took me from the Temple, and confined me for twenty-two Days in the Aumeen's Kutcherree. My Pen is unable to describe the Ignominy, and the Severities which they inflicted upon me. After that, I was confined for Four Days at Ramnagur, and at length, on the 27th of Ramzan, in the Twenty-third Year of the Reign, I was tied Hand and Foot and thrown upon a Dooly, and sent away from Ramnagur to Lutteefpoor. On the Road, near to the House of the Chowdry Sewan, I saw a Number of Ladders made of Wood and Bamboos (about Forty or Fifty) lying on the Ground. I enquired of the Peadahs who guarded me, what those Ladders were intended for. They replied, that they had been intended for the Garden of Mehadow Dofs, but it was ordained, that the English Gentlemen should live: They made their Escape, otherwise Bauboo Soojaun Sing would not have left one of them alive. Having heard this Reply, I remained silent.

Translation of the Deposition of Hurry Ram Pundit.—The Deponent sworn before Chief Justice Sir Elijah Impey, December 2d 1781.

The Rajah Cheit Sing, having reflected on his Conduct, determined with his confidential People, that it was necessary he himself should go to meet Mr. Hastings, but that he should go from the Place where he was, with such a Force, and with such Preparations, as would enable him to act both by Land and by Water, and impress the above-mentioned Gentleman with an Idea of his superior Strength; for that Mr. Hastings had with him but a small Number of Troops, and if he should have entertained any ill Intentions toward him, on observing the Number and Force of his Followers, he would be led to reflect, that nothing could be effected, and consequently he deterred from making the Attempt; therefore he gave Information and particular Directions to all his Soldiers and Attendants, that he was going to meet Mr. Hastings, and that they should hold themselves in Readiness to proceed: That he should go by Water, for which Purpose, a Fleet of Boats was prepared; for the before-mentioned Gentleman (the Governor General) would come by Water, and consequently his Fleet of Boats would come with him; therefore it was necessary, that he (the Rajah) should have a Fleet of Boats also, that his People might always be near at hand: That a Body of Cavalry moreover should proceed by Land, and Tents be pitched at Two Places between Ramnagur and Buxar; for at all Events he must meet the Governor General. Accordingly, on the 16th of Shaubaun, the Rajah set out from Ramnagur, by Water, to meet Mr. Hastings. The Jemmadars and Huzzarries, Jaafir Khan, Dillal Khan, Juttoo Khan, Zubburdust Khan, Lulloo the Son of Kauna Mull, Rambuksh, Baulkishen, &c. all together near Five hundred Horse; also Jemmadars of Foot, with Matchlock Men, &c. near Two thousand, proceeded along the Southern Bank of the Ganges. And by Water, the Rajah was attended by a Fleet of Boats, in Number about a hundred and Forty, in which were embarked Suddanund Buxey, Golaum Hooossein Tay, Mirza Fyz-ullah Beg, Bauboo Doorgbijey Sing, Munnear Sing, Purtaub Roodur Sing, Doond Bahadre Sing, Ahlaud Missur, Meer Hooossein Ally, &c. Sheakh Mahommed Aumeen, Commandant of the Sepoy Battalions, Dabee Sing, Mahommed Moraud, Dhun Sing, and Hukkoomut Sing, Soubadars, with Two Companies of Sepoys, Huzzooree Peadahs, and Matchlocks, in all about 2000 Men. Godur Mull and Bullum Dafs, who were stationed at Ghauzipoor, joined by Orders from the Rajah, who afterwards arrived at Buxar, and had an Interview with Mr. Hastings.

Translation of the Deposition of Jewan Ram Moonshy, in the Service of the late Lieutenant Stalker.—The Deponent sworn before Chief Justice Sir Elijah Impey, December 2d 1781.

After the Arrival of Mr. Markham at Shewallah, I went in and paid my Respects to my Master; who asked me, if I knew whether Mr. Markham would come there or not? I replied, It was reported so, but that it depended on his Inclinations. Mr. Stalker then told me, I might go, but afterwards ordered me to stay. I continued there, and saw Doorgbijey Sing sitting with the Rajah in the center Apartment, and Suddanund Buxey and others whispering to the Rajah. Shortly after, News was brought to the Three Gentlemen sitting in the adjoining Room, that there were Disputes without. Mr. Stalker went without the Jauli (or First Wall) and asked the Subadar Bishun Sing, why he had ordered the Bayonets to be fixed? The Subadar replied, that Numbers of the Rajah's armed Servants had come in, and that they paid no regard to the Company's Orders. After which, Mr. Stalker advanced further out, and asked of the younger Mowllavy and me, who amongst those People was the Chief? I answered Bauboo Munnear Sing. Mr. Stalker sent for Munnear Sing, and strongly enjoined him to appease his People, and enquire, why they attempted to dispute and fight with his Sepoys. Munnear Sing replied, "What Power have they, that any one of them should presume to fight? We Two, Father Father and Son, are desirous to go to the Rajah." Mr. Stalker answered, "Very well, but you must stay here between your People and mine, that they may not come to Blows." After that a Letter arrived from the Governor to the Rajah, which Mr. Stalker, having quieted and soothed the People, presented to him: The Rajah then got up, and went out of the Burradurri to the adjacent Bastion, to perform his Devotions.

At this Time Information was brought to Mr. Stalker, that the Rajah's People opposed and refused Admittance to another Company of Sepoys who had brought Provisions, a Table, &c. for the Gentlemen. Mr. Stalker again went out, and calling to Suddanund Buxey, asked the Cause of this Opposition; and told him to send Directions (to the Rajah's People). Suddanund said he would go himself. Mr. Stalker replied, "No, send One of your Servants." While the Man was going out to silence the People, Mr. Stalker returned within the Jauly. Doorgbijey Sing was gone from thence no one knew whither. Cheit Ram, Mr. Markham's Chubdar, informed Mr. Stalker, that he had a Message to deliver to the Rajah from the Governor General. Mr. Stalker said, "Deliver it." He, the Chubdar, said, "At the Place where the Rajah was at his Devotions, the Governor says your People want to quarrel and fight; it will be better if you forbid them, for every Sepoy is as an European, and every European is as a (or the) Company; if a Drop of their Blood is shed, you shall be plundered and destroyed." At this Period, there was a Report of Guns at the Gate of Shewallah; the Action was commenced. At this Time, Mr. Stalker and Cheit Ram went towards the Rajah. Munnear Sing and others cut down Cheit Ram, pulled Mr. Stalker back, and pushing him on one Side, began the Slaughter. The Rajah escaped through a Window by a Rope made of Turbans, got into a Boat, and went off. His People, by the same Means, drew up Swords and Shields as a Bucket is drawn up from a Well, and began to engage. I stood near the Jauly behind my Master; when my Master was killed, I fled toward the Place where the Rajah's Victuals was dressed. I continued there a short Time, and saw the Rajah's People jump from the Walls and the Trees with their Shields and Swords, and advance. After this I assumed the Character of one of Cheit Sing's Servants, fled with his People, and came to the Presence. The Gentlemen after this went to Chunar, and I should have arrived the next Day, but I was plundered on the Road and confined in the Fort of Pindera. Diaram took away from my House Two Tangon Horses, and placed his Seal and a Guard upon the Door. After the Flight of the Rajah, the Zemeedar of the before-mentioned Fort set me at Liberty. Without a Master, every way disconsolate, to whom can I communicate my Distress? I now hope for Favour and Support from the Almighty, and from you.

I had Two Locks of Muskets fixed on my Ears. Bauboo Soojaun Sing sent for me by Ram Kishen Hircarrah to come into his Presence.—He said, "Deliver up the Trunks of Gold Mohurs which the Governor delivered over to your Care when he went to Chunar." I set forth, That I did not know any thing about such Trunks. He then gave Orders to the Sepoys to press the Locks hard, (saying) that without Severity I would not be prevailed upon to give them up; and then the Blood ran from both my Ears.

The Deposition of Patnimul Moonshy. On the last Day of the Month of Ramzan, in the Year of the Reign Twenty-three, the Gentlemen went to Chunar. I was unable to accompany them for want of a Conveyance. Without Remedy, I remained in the House of one of the Inhabitants for Eight Days. The Aumeen Diaram daily caused a Proclamation, to this Purpose, to be made through the City; "In the House of whomsoever a Person belonging to the English Gentlemen may be secreted, let the Owner bring him to the Aumeen's Kutcherry and deliver him up; otherwise, (upon Proof) in the House of whomsoever a Person belonging to the English shall be found, the Owner thereof shall be (considered) as a Criminal to the Government of the Rajah, his House and Property shall be destroyed, and his Belly shall be ript open."

When the Gentlemen marched for Chunar I was not informed of it. I knew it about Four Gurries after. In Terror for my Life, I secreted myself in the House of Bauboo Duffan Ram; I continued undiscovered for One Day; the next Day the said Bauboo Duffan Ram said to me, "To-day there has been a Proclamation through the City to this Purport, Whoever has secreted a Follower of the English in his House, let him produce and deliver him up, otherwise, on Discovery, his House shall be seized, and he himself shall be severely punished. I cannot keep you in my House, go from my House to some other Place." Without Remedy, I put on the Habit of a Fakcer, and took shelter in the Temple of Arnapoorna.

In the Month Phagun a Jemmadar and a Havildar, in the Service of Soojaun Sing, the Brother of Rajah Cheit Sing, came to me, and said, "Soojaun Sing has sent for you." I asked, "On what Account has he sent for me?"—they replied, "We do not know."—I said, "I am a Servant to the English, I will not go to him." They [then] said, "He has sent for you, to take you into his Service."—I answered, "From my Youth to this Day I have been the Servant of the English; I have never gone to any Rajahs or Bauboo's, nor will I go to them." When those People returned to Soojaun Sing, they said, "Doond Sing, the Commandant (i. e. this Depo-nent), refuses to come." The Rajah Futteh Saw also wrote to the Rajah Cheit Sing, to place a Guard over my House at Banaris, in which Case I should (be obliged to) join him with my Sepoys and Guns. This Information was given to me by the Jemmadar Chaint Sing. I said, "My House, and my Wife, and my Children, may be destroyed.—Still I am the Servant of the English, and I am faithful and loyal. By the Blessing of God, in a short Time we also shall go to Banaris and plunder that Rajah, and we will spoil the Rajah Futteh Saw also." At Sukroreh I was informed that a Guard was placed at my House.

On the 19th of Ramzan the Captain* issued Orders to all the Subadars for marching towards Banaris, and directed them to get in Readiness. The next Day we marched to Burrangong. The Captain had mounted his Horse to proceed, and I was in the Rear in Search of a Conveyance for my Baggage, when Five or Six Sepoy Grenadiers and others came and surrounded me, and demanded their Pay, in consequence of which a great many more of the Sepoys came and clamoured for their Pay, and ill used me; and they brought me down from the Bungala, and beat me severely with the Butt-ends of their Pieces, and charged Bayonets even to my Breast, so that my Life was in Danger. A Hircarrah carried Information of this Affair to the Captain, who, on receiving it, turned back and arrived immediately. All the Sepoys then turned their Clamours against the Captain, using insulting Language; and they surrounded him and said that unless they received their Pay they would not set him at Liberty—that if I should pay them, well; if not, they would carry me to Baunfy, which is near to Kunkooa; and that, when they should receive the Whole of their Pay from me, they would set me free.—They moreover placed a Guard with fixed Bayonets over the Captain, and pointed Bayonets to his Breast to stab him; and they rushed upon us several Times, so that we gave up ourselves for lost. In this Situation the Captain ordered them back, and gave them Three Months Pay; and then proposed to them to march with him to Banaris. The Sepoys answered insolently, that they would not on any Account go to Banaris. Without Remedy, the Captain marched from thence with the Battalion, and arrived at Gooruckpoor. He halted there a few Days, purchased Grain for the Sepoys, and marched from thence by the Way of Baunfy. We halted Six Days at Baunfy on account of the heavy Rains; we afterwards marched from thence, and after encountering a thousand Distresses arrived at Buskoreh. The past Events, which are known to every one, I have thus related.

Translation of the Deposition of Doond Sing, Commandant.—The Deponent sworn before Chief Justice Sir Elijah Impey, November 26th 1781.

It appears from the Letter of Ram Sing Jemmadar, stationed at Mutcholi, that the Rajah Ajeet Mull, the Rajah Futteh Saw, and Genoo Roy, had engaged themselves to each other by Oath to cross the Rivers Gogra and Surjoo, for as much as they had received a Letter from the Rajah Cheit Sing, and the Sum of Fifteen thousand Rupees, to cut off the English in the District of Surwur, and drive them out; and Letters have arrived from Futteh Saw, to all the Zemeedars, great and small, to withhold the Collections, and not to pay a single Damm to the English; and the said Futteh Saw sent near Two hundred Men, with Matchlocks, into the Jungle of Burragong, and near to Kunkooa. After Three Days, the Three Rajahs crossed the River, and encamped in the Jungle; and it was reported from all Quarters, that the Zemeedars had shut up all the Ghauts on the Rivers, and sunk all the Boats; and I wrote an Account of these Things to Major Macdonald and Captain Williams, and told them that there were great Disturbances in the Country, and that there were Reports also that the Rajahs would cross the River. And I wrote these Things to Major Macdonald, that he might inform the Colonel that the Road to Banaris was shut up, for fear the Captain should march from that Quarter towards Banaris; it was also reported among the People, that Three Gentlemen had been killed at Banaris. After some Days the Captain arrived at Kunkooa, and after a Halt of Three Days, gave Orders for marching, and directed all the Sepoys to get ready, and about Nine o'Clock in the Morning on the Sixth of September, he marched, and came to the Bank of the River Khaukhi; it then rained excessively. When we arrived at the Khaukhi, the Captain ordered the Troops to be crossed over the River; agreeable to Orders, I crossed them over. When, after a thousand Distresses, we had crossed the River, the Captain said that there were many Rivers in the Road, and no Boats on any of them; that the Ghauts were shut up, and no Grain to be procured on the March for the People; how then would it be possible to pass the Guns and Troops through such a Country? It would be better, he said, to go to Banaris by Way of Buxar; therefore we again crossed the River Khaukhi, and encamped after marching Half a Cos from it. He (then) gave Orders for marching toward Khunkooa. Moving from the Khaukhi the Captain with the Troops arrived at Khunkooa; he then told all the Subadars and Jemmadars, that the Rajah Futteh Saw, with his Force, was posted on the Road, and that it was necessary to attack and drive him from thence; that he would halt a few Days at Nuddy Kaunoon, and then march toward Banaris. It was now known that the Sepoys of the Battalion had said, "Let them give us our Pay, and wherever they go, we will go with them;" to which the Subadars replied, "they might take it wherever they found it." The said Subadars neither confined those Sepoys, nor informed me of the Circumstance. I received the Information from Chaint Sing Jemmadar. The Subadar of Grenadiers stationed a Sepoy behind his Hackery, and told him, he might either protect and convey it to his (the Subadar's) House, or he might leave it to be plundered by the Country People. The Sepoy told him to set his Mind at rest, for that he would convey it safe to his Dwelling. At Night, after Twelve o'Clock, I made my Report to the Captain, who ordered me to go with Bukhtawur Sing, Subadar to the Sepoys, to satisfy and explain to them, that he would give them their Pay when they arrived at Burragong. In the Morning we marched a small Distance toward Burragong. First, a Sepoy pulled off his Coat, and drew his Bayonet on the Captain; the Subadars and Jemmadars did not interpose or check him; the Captain said, "I will pay this Sepoy and dismiss him—do you march on." I obeyed his Orders, and marched; but the Sepoys quitted their Colours and their Guns, and assembled at Khunkooa. The Subadars and Jemmadars said nothing (to prevent them). Seeing the Situation of Things, I directed the Jemmadar Kihaul Sing to take with him Twelve Sepoys, and go to the Captain, that he might know how Things were. After which, Orders from the Captain came, to return back and join him; I went back, and saw that the Sepoys had mutinied violently; that they had drawn their Bayonets, and were threatening the Captain; moreover, Three of the Sepoys loaded their Pieces to fire at him, and they demanded Four Months Pay; and most of the Sepoys said, "Let him pay us all our Arrears, and he may go where he pleases;" when the Sepoys had received their Pay, they said, one and all, "We will not go to Burragong; we will go to the Begum at Fyzabad; if she will retain us, we will stay; if not, we will carry the Gun (or Guns) to the Rajah Cheit Sing, and Saadut Ally Khan." The Sepoys, after this, directed the Subadars to tell the Captain to march; the Captain replied, That the Two Companies and the Gun stationed at Nuchlote were coming; he would march as soon as they had joined; the Sepoys said, "Let the Captain march, we shall meet the Companies on the Road;" however, the Captain halted till the Two Companies arrived; he then sent Hurdeaul Sing, Commandant, to the Sepoys, to tell them that the People (i. e. the Two Companies) were fatigued; that they should halt One Day, that those People might receive their Pay also; and then he would march. The Sepoys refused to listen to Hurdeaul Sing. The Captain then sent for the Two Subadars, and told them to go and persuade the Sepoys to make one Halt, that he might give the Two Companies their Pay. The Sepoys were prevailed upon to halt by the Subadars, and the Captain paid the People.

The next Morning the Captain sent a Man to the Chucklahdar, and directed him to march also. He sent Word, that he was collecting Cattle for the Baggage, and that he would march as soon as he had got them; it was afterwards heard, that the Chucklahdar had given Twelve thousand Rupees to Futteh Saw—the said Rajah demanded Twenty thousand from the Chucklahdar, promising to protect him—And it was currently reported through the Country, that Saadut Ally Khan was the Nabob, and that the English Government was overthrown. After this we marched from Kunkooa; the Captain purchased Grain for the Sepoys; the Waters were out from the heavy Rain; and whoever loitered behind was plundered by the Villagers. When we arrived at Baunsi, we were obliged to halt Six Days on account of the Rains; after that we marched and arrived at Buskroreh, but there were many Rivers and Nullahs in the Road.

Translation of the Deposition of Ahlaud Sing, Subadar, stationed in the Fort of Gooruckpoor:—The Deponent sworn before Chief Justice Sir Elijah Impey, 26th November 1781.

I had confined under my Guard, in the Fort of Gooruckpoor, One hundred and Fifteen Burgomauls, Inhabitants of Surwaur. On the 15th of Ramzan, the Rajah of Gooruckpoor, the Zemeedars of Ouloolah, Bechouly, &c. &c. great and small, likewise all the Inhabitants of Gooruckpoor, with Six thousand Matchlocks, and great Numbers of Country People, armed with Clubs, at Four Gurries of the Night surrounded the Fort, and made an Attack by Surprise; but the Sepoys on Guard at the Bastions were awake; they began to fire, and an Action immediately followed. Seeing that the Country People were in great Numbers, I went to each of the Bastions, and encouraged the Sepoys, and called them to me into the Body of the Place, and formed them together. I left a Havildar and Ten Sepoys at the Rung Mahul, to protect the Baggage; but it was Night Time; the Country People made an Assault with Ladders, and entered the Fort, and both Parties fought resolutely. At this Time they placed Ladders against the Inner Fort, toward the South, and entered upon the Bastion: I seized an advantageous Opportunity (attacked) and killed Seventeen of the Enemy on the Bastion, and wounded several others. About Half after Ten at Night they made an Attack upon the Western Bastion: As there was a Straw Chupper on that Bastion, I took Shelter under it, and threw down, with all my Force, a Part of the Brick Battlement on the Enemy, by which Four of them were killed; One other fell by a Musquet Ball; and they retreated. A Third Time, about Three o'Clock in the Morning, the Country People raised a great Shout, and attacked us again: I was then engaged on the Inner Fort Bastion: Seubunse Havildar was posted, with Twelve Sepoys, to guard the Burgomauls; they rushed upon him in a Body, and Seubunse called out to me, with a loud Voice, that the Burgomauls had attacked him: I gave him Orders to put them all to the Sword; he instantly struck off the Heads of Eighteen Burgomauls, and threw them out, and he wounded several others. The Morning now broke, and I entertained a Hope that the Enemy would fly, and that the People of the Town would certainly join me; but the Country People, the Fougedar, &c. were all united with the Rajah; they lifted up their Arms, and said, The Doway* of the Nabob Saadut Ally Khan, and the Begum, has spread through the Country; for the Rajah Cheit Sing has destroyed all the English, and Letters have come to the Rajahs to put the Dependants of the English to the Sword, wherever they may be found: And he said, "Where will they go? the Country is mine; I am a Bhonear Rajah, how long will they (be able to) oppose me?" In such Discourse Two Gurries of the Morning had passed away. From the Eastern to the Western Gate, within the Mahul, they surrounded the Inner Fort on all Sides, and the Action was renewed. We continued engaged for Five Pahr (Fifteen Hours) with the Enemy, without tasting either Food or Water. At this Time, Furhaud Beg came from the Rajah Bhonear to make Proposals, of which he informed me by One of my People. The Havildar Superfaud said, "Perhaps the Rajah has sent him to support us; no Matter, let him be called;" so I sent for him, and he came up to the Gate of the Inner Fort, and when he saw me, he said to me, "You have no Masters; the English are all killed, and the Colonel and Mr. Gordon are confined by the Begum." I gave him insulting Language in Reply to this, and told him to tell this Story to the Sepoys who were with me; and he did repeat it, with a loud Voice, to the Sepoys; and said to them, "You have no Masters; give up the Burgomauls, that they may enter into the Rajah's Service, or go where they think proper." In Reply we said, "The good Fortune of our Masters is on our Side, and while we have Life we will fight; and we will not give up the Burgomauls." At this Juncture Selamut Khan Jemadar of Grenadiers, with Nine Sepoys, unexpectedly arrived in the Town from Nerownah: My People from the Inner Fort saw that a Company had arrived near to the Curwall's Chubbootre; they gave a loud Shout, and said, "A Company of Grenadiers is arrived from Kunkooa;" and their Spirits were raised; and we opened the Gate of the Fort, and Selamut Khan joined us. The Bravery and Resolution of Selamut

Khan are not to be described. When the Enemy beheld the Arrival of Selamat Khan Jemmadar, they turned their Faces to Flight: I pursued them with my People through the Western Gate, and many of the Enemy were killed and wounded, and Numbers were killed and Numbers were drowned in the River; and, by the Blessing of God, we obtained the Victory. I returned into the Fort, and immediately secured Ferhaud Beg and Fyz-oolla Beg, who had come to make Proposals about the Burgomauls; I wrote an Account of the Whole of this Affair to the Colonel, and to the Captain*. After a few Days, an Order came from the Colonel to Munnowur Khan, directing, that if the Rajah Mustapha Khan had been put to Death, well; if not, strike off his Head. Munnowur Khan shewed me the Order. I said, "The Order is not written to me; I will write to the Colonel on the Subject." And it was understood from the Country People, that the Captain was marching towards Banaris, (but) that the Grenadier Sepoys had mutinied, and demanded their Pay; that the Captain gave them Three Months Pay, and proposed to them to march with him to Banaris: The Sepoys all answered, that they would go to Bungulla, and deliver up their Arms at the Gate of the Begum; in consequence of which, the Captain was obliged to give up his Intentions of going to Banaris, and return to Gooruckpoor; and he gave Orders, that the Head of Mustapha Khan should be struck off; and he was beheaded accordingly; and a Proclamation was made through the Town, that those who were guilty of such Crimes would meet with the same Punishment. The Captain halted for some Days, and brought up Grain for the Sepoys. At this Time, the Brother of Soobaun Sing, Pulwaun Sing, with a thousand Matchlocks, and others, Country People, was at Gooruckpoor; and they raised an Outcry, and said that the English should not remain in the Town, and they prepared for Action; so the Captain crossed the Raubty. A Bullock Man belonging to the Artillery, who returned into the Town to buy Fodder, they put to Death. Marching from thence, in Four Days the Captain arrived at Baunfy. The Ranny of Baunfy came to see him, but her Son prepared for Hostilities; he said, "They have struck off the Head of our Rajah at Gooruckpoor, and I will be revenged." We marched from thence; and the Rajah of Bulrampoor, with his People, had thrown up an Intrenchment across the Road; and he said, "It is the Begum's Orders, that you shall not march by this Road." With the greatest Hazard and Caution we marched from thence, and arrived at Koonda, and the Country People retired into the Fort.

This is a true Account which I have set forth.

On the 16th of Ramzan, an Order came to me from the Commander of the Battalion, that a Jemmadar and Sepoys belonging to the Company of Dut Sing were coming to me; that I should deliver over to him the Fort and the Gun, and the Burgomauls, and that I myself should march and join Mr. Gordon at Taundeh. On the 13th the said Jemmadar and Sepoys joined me at Dummooreah Gunge; and, being relieved on the same Day, on the 14th of the said Month I marched towards Taundeh. The Zemeedars and Villagers surrounded us all the Way from Dummooreah Gunge to Ruddouly, and they said, "The Government of the Colonel is at an End;" but they had not the Resolution to attack us. They also said, "The Rajah Cheit Sing has cut off the English Forces at Banaris; deliver up your Baggage, it is the Order of the Begum." In this Situation I replied, "The Baggage belongs to us, and we have Ammunition to defend it; if any one chooses to attack it, let him come." We lay the whole Night on our Arms at Ruddouly. We marched the next Morning, and arrived at Busty; but got no Intelligence of Mr. Gordon to enable us to join him. Ghuffoor Beg, Subadar of the Nabob's Artillery, told me that Bauboo Dhun Sing, with a thousand Matchlocks, had taken Post in the Jungle of Busty, and that he had moreover sunk all the Boats on the River. I halted Six Hours at Busty, searching after Boats; at last I procured a very small one, and when I was about to cross, the Subadar Bejy Sing arrived, after a March of Twenty Cofs, in which March a Sepoy and Three Horses were killed, and Four Sepoys wounded. Bejy Sing desired I would stop for Two or Three Gurry, till his People had ate their Victuals, for they had marched Twenty Cofs. At the Time that Bejy Sing's Sepoys had untied their Commurbunds [laid aside their Arms], the Country People, with Bauboo Dhun Sing, came and surrounded us in the Village of Busty; in consequence of which, I resolved to seize upon the Fort of Busty, and take Post there. The Subadar of the Artillery before mentioned, and others of the People, said, "Accounts have arrived from the Begum that all the English are cut off: Why will you seize upon the Fort and take possession of it?"—I desired the said Subadar to join and support me; he replied, "Whoever is appointed Aumil of the Pergunnah I will join him, I will not go with you." At this Time a Man arrived, and brought News, that Mr. Gordon was at Sunjur Ghaut, in the Pergunnah of Ruddouly; so I marched to Meer Gunge, intending to go from thence to the said Ghaut, and I sent a Sepoy, naked, to obtain Intelligence of Mr. Gordon. The said Sepoy returned, and brought Word that Mr. Gordon and the Subadars and Jem-madars were imprisoned at Taundeh by Orders from the Begum; that many of the Sepoys had deserted, and several had been killed: When I heard this News, and that the Ghauts on the River were shut, and that the Rajahs, with Six thousand Matchlocks, had surrounded Ahlaud Sing in the Fort of Gooruckpoor, with an Intention to set the Burgomauls at Liberty; I determined to march to Gooruckpoor: On the Road, News arrived that through the good Fortune of our Masters, all the Country People had been put to Flight, and that Ahlaud Sing had obtained the Victory; in consequence of which I went to Mukhur, and there I saw that all the Pergunnah Aumils of that Country had taken shelter in the Monument of Kubbeer Daus; from them I learned, that it was the Begum's Orders to cut off all those who were connected with the English in Surwar, wherever they might be found. I also heard that the Rajah Cheit Sing had destroyed all the English Troops, and that Three of the English had been killed; it was also reported, that the Authority of the Nabob Saadut Ally Khan and the Begum was established throughout all the Country. I marched from Mukhur, and arrived at the Fort of Gooruckpoor. After this a Letter came from Bauboo Ajeet Sing to Ahlaud Sing, to this Purport, "Deliver over the Burgomauls to me, and I will cause you to be conducted wherever you think proper to go; or (if you think proper) enter into my Service, for you have no Master; why will you give yourselves up to Destruction?" We and Ahlaud Sing sent a verbal Answer, That the Fortune of our Masters was on our Side; if he thought proper he might come; that while we had Life we would not give up the Burgomauls, but that we would put them all to the Sword. We wrote an Account of these Things to the Colonel, and received the following Answer, that we should maintain our Post in the Fort, and that we should march toward him with the Captain (when he arrived). It was now known that the Captain intended to march to Banaris by the Road of Nuddi Kaunoon; but that the Grenadiers had mutinied, and obliged him to return. It was also heard that Futteh Saw, and Genoo Roy, and Rajah Ajeet Mull, &c. had resolved to attack the Captain, because Letters had come from the Rajah Cheit Sing to all the Zemeedars, to this Purport, "Wherever there are Dependants of the English, kill and drive them out." It was moreover reported, that when the Captain marched to Kunkooa, on his Way to Banaris, the Grenadiers made a Disturbance, and demanded their Pay; That he gave Three Months Pay to the Sepoys, to prevail upon them to march with him to Banaris, but that those Cowards would not consent; they said, "We will not go to Banaris: We are the Servants of the Begum and Saadut Ally Khan; we will deliver up our Guns and our Arms at the Gate of the Begum."—Without Remedy, the Captain was obliged, by the Disobedience of his Troops, to march to Gooruckpoor, where we joined him; moreover Pulwaun Sing, the Brother of the Rajah Soobaun Sing, came with a thousand Matchlocks, and he and the Inhabitants of Gooruckpoor raised a Clamour, demanding that the Captain should march from thence, and they killed the Brother of the Chowdry of the Bullock Men, who went into the Town to buy Fodder. At this Time Half the Troops had crossed the Raubty, when the foregoing Accident happened; the Captain marched by the Way of Baunfy. After our Arrival at Baunfy it rained Six Days without Intermision. The Ranny of Baunfy came to see the Captain, but her Son stood prepared for Hostilities. After Six Days, we marched from thence to Purtaul Buckra, from thence to Dummoorea Gunge; marching from thence, we halted at Chunderdeep for Two Days; when we marched from thence the Captain went on in Front; Hurdeaul, Commandant, was in the Rear; a Skirmish ensued between him and the Country People; Two of them were taken Prisoners, and One was killed by a Musket Shot. We marched from that Place to the Nullah of Attroleh, Three Cofs to the Westward; we marched from Attroleh, and were opposed, near Bulraimpoor, by about Two thousand Country People; but when the Battalion and Gun were drawn up fronting them, they gave way and fled; the Road cleared, we marched, and encamped at the Nuddy Koaubeh; we continued there One Night, and marched to Gonedeh. When we arrived at Gonedeh, the Country People quitted our Rear. This is a true Account which is written.

The Rajah Futteh Saw, and Genoo Roy, and Ajeet Mull, united themselves all Three together, and bound themselves by Oath; and these were the improper Resolutions which they had agreed to; that they would cross the River Gograh, and establish their own Authority there, for Letters had arrived from the Rajah Cheit Sing at Banaris, in which he said, "All the English are cut off; the Government of the English is overturned; I have taken Possession of the Country; do you, the Zemeedars, establish your Authority also in those Districts."—It was likewise publicly reported, that the Rajah Cheit Sing had sent Fifteen thousand Rupees in Specie to the said Zemeedars, to raise Men, and kill and drive out the Dependants of the English wherever they might be. It was also reported that Colonel Hannay and Captain Williams were in Confinement; the Rajah Futteh Saw came to inform himself of this; but not obtaining any certain Intelligence, returned, and determined to go to Kunkooa, to cut off the People and plunder the Place. At this Time the Captain returned from Lucknow, and arrived at Kunkooa. I also arrived at Kunkooa agreeably to Orders. In the Evening he informed all the Subadars and Jemmadars and Sepoys, that they were to march towards Banaris the next Day. In consequence of which the Sepoys went to the Subadars and said, that they had no Money. The Subadars replied, their Pay was in the Sirkar, if they could get it they might take it. Early the next Morning we marched, the Companies faced to the Right. Four or Five of the foremost Grenadiers stepped out, surrounded the Captain, and said, "Give us our Pay and we will go with you;" the Captain replied, "You are only Four or Five Men, take (your Pay) and I will pay the Battalion when we arrive at Burragong," which is only Eight Cofs from Kunkooa. The Battalion had gone on about a Cofs. On hearing the above, Numbers of Sepoys returned, and loaded their Pieces, and fixed their Bayonets, and pointed them at the Captain; in consequence of which, he recalled the whole Battalion, and told them to take their Pay and march with him to Banaris; to which they all agreed; but when the Captain had given them Three Months Pay, the Men who were the Mutineers raised a Clamour, (and said) "we will take our Arms and the Gun to the Chuckladar, and receive our Pay from him, for the Chuckladar is a Servant of the Begum's, and we also are the Begum's Servants, and Saadut Ally's." The Captain said to the Commandant and the Subadars, "I have paid them all, what then is the Cause of this improper Behaviour?" but what he said had no Effect upon them; however much he urged them to march to Banaris, they still refused, and only said, that they would go to Bungulla, and attend the Begum and Saadut Ally Khan; and that if the Captain attempted to escape, they would put a Guard over him, and deliver him up there. Without Remedy, the Captain marched this Way. That which was true has been written.

Translation of the Deposition of Hurdeal Sing, Commandant.—The Deponent sworn before Chief Justice Sir Elijah Impey, November 26th 1781.

The Servant Hurdeal Sing, Commandant of Major Macdonald's Battalion, gives the following Account. I was stationed in the Pergunnah of Beelpoor, in the District of Narrain Buttool, with Two Companies of Sepoys of Captain Williams's Battalion, Three hundred and Fifty Nejeeb and Sehbundy Men, and One Gun, and acted in the Business of the Sirkar agreeably to my Orders. From the 15th of Ramzan I received several Letters from Mahommed Shuffee Khan, the Chuckladar, and from the Captain, who were then at Kunkooa, to march speedily with my Force and join them, for that the Power of the turbulent Country People and Rajahs was become excessive. At this Time I collected together the People who were stationed at different Places; and on the 19th of the said Month, notwithstanding the Waters were very much out in the Road, I marched toward Kunkooa. When I arrived at Ram Kolah, which is about Fifteen Cofs from my Situation, I heard, from the general Reports of the People, that the Rajahs Ajeet Mull, and Futteeh Saw, and Genoo Roy, who had been expelled from their Zemeedaries, and resided with the Rajah Cheit Sing in the Country of Banaris, had all Three, by Orders from Saadut Ally Khan and Rajah Cheit Sing, marched from thence, and crossed the Gograh, and taken Possession of their Lands; and that the Rajah Cheit Sing had assisted the said Rajahs with Five and twenty thousand Rupees to drive out the English, [directing] that they should drive them and all their Dependants out of their Districts. When I came to the next Stage, I heard that the Grenadiers, who were with Captain Williams at Kunkooa, had mutinied, and confined the Captain, and cruelly beat his Moonshy; that they had got their Pay, and intended to go off to the Vizeer; and that no one attended to the Orders of the Captain. As the Companies with me had been informed of these Circumstances, I soothed and persuaded them not to think of acting in such a Manner; that Pay was never withheld or lost in the English Service; that they would receive every Daum of that which was due to them; but that it would be improper for them, at that Time, to act as others had done. The Sepoys assented to what I had said, and, notwithstanding the Opposition of the Country People on the Road, we arrived in Safety, and with the greatest Expedition, at Kunkooa, and attended the Captain and the Chuckladar, and I then saw with my own Eyes what I had before heard on the Road. The Captain said, when I went to him, "You have without Doubt heard how Things are here; what are the Intentions of the People with you?" I said in Reply, that the People along with me, both the Sepoys, the Nujjeeb, and the Sehbundy Men, had no other Intentions but those of obeying his Orders; and that he might, at all Events, make himself easy as to those Men. The Captain then said, "It was my Intention to have taken the Grenadier Companies, and the Two Guns, and to have marched to Banaris, and joined the Governor, by the Way of the Nuddy Kaunoon; and to have chastised the Three Rajahs, with whom we should have fallen in on the Road; but the Grenadiers would not consent to this; do you inquire of them what their Intentions are." Agreeably to the Orders of the Captain, I went at Night to the Line to the Subadars and Jemmadars and Sepoy Grenadiers, and asked what they wished for and intended. The Sepoys all replied, "If the Captain resolves to march to the Eastward, not one of us will go with him; moreover, we will march early To-morrow Morning to the Westward, to the Vizeer; whoever chuses to go that Way may accompany us." The Two Grenadier Subadars then told me to go to my Tent, for that these Matters the Two Companies had already talked upon with the Captain. I again endeavoured to prevail upon the Sepoys and Subadars, and told them to continue, and set their Minds at Rest; that I would go and speak to the Captain; that, if he approved of it, he would take them with him, and march to the Westward; that at all Events, it would be better to obey him. At last I soothed and appeased them, and went to the Captain and told him what had passed. After this, the Captain ordered me to go to Mahommed Shuffee Khan the Chuckladar, and tell him to prepare to march. I went to the Chuckladar, and delivered the Message; in answer, the Chuckladar, who had sent a Person named Munshan Ram, on his Part, to the Rajahs Ajeet Mull, Futteh Saw, and Genoo Roy, before mentioned, on a private Business, made the Want of Cattle for his Baggage an Excuse; and desired that we would halt Two or Three Days longer, and that he would then collect Beasts of Burden, and march. The said Chuckladar told me the next Day, and told the Captain also, that a Man of his was returned, and had brought Information, that Four Companies of Sepoys and Four Guns were come from the Rajah Cheit Sing, to the Assistance of the Rajahs Ajeet Mull, Futteh Saw, and Genoo Roy; and moreover, that they would cross the Gograh and join them that Day. At length, Two Days after my Arrival, our whole Force marched toward Gooruckpoor; and, notwithstanding the Rajahs and the Country People molested us on all Sides on the March, and the Waters and Nullahs were out, yet in Six Days we arrived in Safety at Gooruckpoor.—There I heard from the People, that Orders from the Begum had arrived to all the Rajahs of Pergunnahs, not to permit any English Gentlemen, or any of their Dependants, to pass in Safety through their separate Districts; and that they had surrounded Ahlaid Sing, Subadar, who was stationed with a few Sepoys in the Fort of Gooruckpoor; but that, through the good Fortune of our Masters, the Enemy was repulsed, and obliged to retire; that no English Letters, or others, or Hircarrahs, were permitted to pass; and that, if the Country People discovered any English Letters or others in the Hands of Hircarrahs, they scourged them with the greatest Severity. In consequence of these (Accounts) the Captain sent for me, and said, “The People have raised great Disturbances in the Country; beyond this no Grain will arrive, therefore we must buy Grain here, and carry it with us.” In the Space of Eight Days Grain was procured for the March, and Bullocks got together, and in Four Days, notwithstanding the heavy Rains, we crossed the Raubty, and marched towards Sukroreh: From the Day that we arrived at Baunfy, for Six Days, such heavy Rains fell, both Day and Night, that no one had the Power to stir from his Place. Without Remedy, we halted during that Time, and on the first Day that the Rain subsided we marched, and in Two Days arrived at Dummoorea Gunge. At that Place there was a Nullah in the Road, which was overflowed by the Rains and stopt our Progress; and we were at last obliged to halt there One Day to make a Bridge, over which the Troops were passed. While we were crossing, the Country People showed themselves, but were repulsed and obliged to retreat. We proceeded from thence the next Day, and March after March to Bulrampoor. As the River Kuwannah crossed our Way at that Place, we were obliged to halt there for One Day; at last we passed that River in Safety, and by repeated Marches arrived at Sukroreh. This Account, knowing it proper, is written according to the Truth.

On the 13th of Ramzan I received Orders from Mr. Williams to join Mr. Gordon at Taundeh, and to deliver over the Gun and the Burgomauls to Kaumdar Beg. Agreeably to Orders I delivered over the Gun and the Burgomauls to Kaumdar Beg, and set out. When I arrived at Naurood the Hooly Rejoicings had commenced; and the Country People gathered together on all Sides, and surrounded me. Making an Effort, I pushed on from thence about a Cofs; but the Enemy were now increased to a prodigious Number. Till Nine o’Clock at Night they continued to insult us; and when the Moon got up they began to fire with Matchlocks; and they said, “You have struck off the Head of the Rajah Juggut Sing; where will you go?—we will strike off your Heads in Return. It is the Orders of the Begum, that whoever strikes off and brings in the Head of an Englishman, shall receive a Reward of a Thousand Rupees; and for the Head of a Subadar or Jemmadar a Hundred Rupees; and for every Sepoy’s Head struck off and brought, that a Reward of Ten Rupees shall be given.”—The Attack continued through the Night; One Sepoy was killed, and Seven Men and Three Horses wounded, of my Party. The Country People said, “Give up your Baggage, and Arms, and Coats, and go naked where you please:” But I stood firm, and we fought with them, and marched on, Night by Night, to Baunfy, where we were quitted by the Enemy. Having joined Dhoon Sing Subadar at Baunfy, we marched from thence with him. This which is related is true.

I Merun, &c. considering God and the Prophet of God as present, do swear upon the sacred Koraun to the following Facts which I give in Writing:—That on the 7th of the Month of September, Mr. Gordon, with Four Companies of Sepoys, and a hundred Horse of the Ruffauleh of Ruzza Beg Khan, did march from the Ghaut Jehoorah for Taundeh; and at that Time, from our setting out till our Arrival at Taundeh, Thousands of Country People assembled together, and attempted to cut off the Troops and the Baggage; so that there was a continued Action, both with Swords and Muskettry, all the Way.—But as the Order of March was well regulated, and the Sepoys were not deficient in Firmness and Resolution, many of the Enemy were killed; and on this Side, not a single Article of the Property of any one was plundered; Mr. Gordon conducting them all, together with the whole of the Baggage, in perfect Safety to the Nullah of Teerah, which runs beneath Taundeh. On our Arrival there he intended to cross the Nullah, and encamp at Taundeh; and he gave Directions for the Troops to pass over. When they were about to cross, (it appeared that) all the Boats were on the opposite Side of the Nullah; and the People of the Taundeh Fougadar, whose Name is Shumsheer Khan, stood Guard over the Boats, and said, “It is the Orders of the Fougadar, that the Boats shall not pass over to that Side.”—When Mr. Gordon heard of this, he wrote a Letter to the Fougadar, and sent it by a Hircarrah. The Contents of the Letter were: “I am a Servant of the Nabob, and am going to join the Army by his Orders; where is the Propriety of shutting up the Ghaut, and refusing to permit People to pass?”—The said Hircarrah took the Letter, and went to the Ghaut, and endeavoured to get over, but the Fougadar’s People would not allow him to cross.—When I saw that they would not permit the Hircarrah to pass over, I gave Mr. Gordon’s Letter to a Servant of the Fougadar’s, who had swam over to our Side of the Nullah to see one of his Friends; and I told him to convey it, by some Means or other, to the Fougadar. He put the Letter in his Turban, and swam back across the Nullah, and delivered it to the Fougadar, who read the Contents, but returned no Sort of Answer. At the Time when the Letter arrived, Mirza Ruzza Beg Khan, Ruffaulehdar, who by chance had arrived alone on some Business, and had crossed over before this Affair, was sitting by Shumsheer Khan, and is an Evidence that the Letter arrived. The said Mirza declared to me, and confirmed it by Oaths, that the Letter came to the Fougadar when he was present; and that, although he endeavoured to persuade him, it was to no Purpose. At last he sent for Three Guns, and some Tomuns of Matchlock-Men, who were stationed at Taundeh; and he pointed the Guns across the Nullah at the Troops, and stationed the Men at the Ghaut, and ordered them not to permit a single Person to cross. In consequence thereof the Fougadar’s People stood at the Ghaut, and used insulting Language; and said, that if any one attempted to cross the River, they would fire upon him. When Mr. Gordon saw this, that no Answer to his Letter had come from the Fougadar, and that his People were inclined to Hostilities, he directed me to go and explain Things to Shumsheer Khan, and persuade him to desist from such improper Conduct. According to the Orders I had received, I went to the Ghaut, and demanded a Boat, and said that I was sent by Mr. Gordon to the Fougadar on Business, and desired that they would allow me to cross over alone; but they would not listen to me, or send a Boat to carry me over. Without Remedy, I returned to Mr. Gordon, and informed him of the Behaviour of the People at the Ghaut. He said, “If they will not give you a Boat, it is no Matter; mount an Elephant, and swim him over.”—I obeyed, and mounted an Elephant, and went and endeavoured to push the Elephant into the Nullah. The Fougadar’s People at once levelled their Pieces at me, and said, “Beware—if you drive the Elephant into the Nullah, we will fire upon you, and kill you.” Per Force I returned to Mr. Gordon: It was now almost Sunset. When the Country People saw this Affair, that the Fougadar of Taundeh was our Enemy also; that he had shut up the Ghaut, and would not permit us to pass, they charged us on all Sides. Our Sepoys seeing Thousands of the Country People assembled on one Side, the Ghaut shut up, and Shumsheer Khan disposed to Hostilities on the other; and being also much exhausted by the Skirmishing and Labour on the March, gave up their Resolution and Firmness at once; and throwing aside their Arms and their Coats, disposed themselves to Flight; and notwithstanding Mr. Gordon used every Means of Persuasion, both to the Sepoys and the Officers, no one either heard or obeyed him, until Mr. Gordon was left with only Ten Men and the Baggage; all the rest were fled. At this Time Cally Pershaud, a Bengaly of Mr. Scott’s, who was stationed at the Kooty, by a thousand Intreaties and Supplications, obtained an Order to send One Boat from the Fougadar, and sent it over. Mr. Gordon then saw that none of his People had remained with him; that continuing there alone was to no Purpose, and therefore was obliged to cross over. All his Baggage, and the Baggage of his Servants and Followers, was plundered; that which they carried over with them when they crossed, and delivered into the Hands of the Fougadar’s People, who promised to protect it, was afterwards taken by them, and never returned. Some Days

PART III.

Days after, some Firelocks were produced from the House of the Fougedar; and many of the People's Effects were seen there; but the Fougedar's Men did not deliver them up. In short, this is the Substance of the Affair which happened at Taundeh; and I have wrote this Account upon Oath, that whoever reads it may know it to be true. Written with my own Hand.

Translation of the Depositions of Meer Ahmud Ally, Subadar in the Battalion of Captain Williams, and Doond Sing, Subadar.—The Deponents sworn before Chief Justice Sir Elijah Impey, November 26th 1781.

We, Meer Ahmud Ally, Subadar in the Battalion of Captain Williams, and Doond Sing, Subadar of Grenadiers in the Battalion of Major Macdonald, do swear (one) upon the sacred Koraun, and (the other) by the Ganges, &c. to the (Truth of the) following Deposition, which we give in Writing: That on the 7th of the Month of September, Mr. Gordon, with Four Companies of Sepoys, and a hundred Horse of the Ruffauleh of Ruzza Beg Khan, did march from the Ghaut of Jehoorah toward Taundeh, and we (the Deponents) were along with him. From our setting out, till our Arrival at Taundeh, Thousands of Country People surrounded us on every Side, with Intention to cut off the Troops and the Baggage; so that we were continually engaged both with Swords and Small Arms the whole Way; but as the Order of March was well regulated, the Enemy could not succeed in their Attempts upon the Army. After skirmishing throughout the whole March, by which several of the Enemy were killed, we arrived in Safety, about Two o'Clock in the Afternoon, on the Bank of the Nullah of Teerah, which runs beneath Taundeh; after our Arrival there, Mr. Gordon wanted to cross the Nullah, and halt in Taundeh, and he gave us Orders to cross the Nullah. We attempted to pass over, but the Fougedar of Taundeh, by Name Shumsheer Khan, hearing that Mr. Gordon was about to cross the Nullah, prepared Three Guns, and Three or Four Tomuns of Matchlock Men, who were stationed with him, and posted them at the Ghaut, and they pointed the Guns toward the Troops of Mr. Gordon; and the Fougedar gave Orders not to permit a single Man belonging to that Gentleman to cross. Although Mr. Gordon wrote a Letter to the said Fougedar, it made no Sort of Impression upon him. At last the Evening came. It happened that Ruzza Beg Khan had arrived alone on some Business, before this Affair, and crossed over to Taundeh. The Cavalry belonging to the said Ruffauleh, before any one else, swam their Horses across the River, and fled. The Sepoys seeing Thousands of Country People advancing, on one Side; the Ghaut shut up by the Fougedar Shumsheer Khan, who would allow no one to pass, on the other; and that the Cavalry who accompanied them were dispersed and gone, gave up at once their Steadiness and Resolution, and taking off their Coats, and throwing down their Arms, turned themselves to Flight, until Mr. Gordon was left with only Ten or Eleven Men, for all the rest had fled. At this Time Cally Pershaud, Mr. Scott's Bengally, who resided at the Kooty in Taundeh, by a thousand Supplications and Entreaties, obtained an Order from the Fougedar for One Boat, which he sent over. Mr. Gordon was then alone on the Bank; he was forced to cross; and all the Baggage belonging to him and his Followers was plundered.

On the 27th of Shabaun, Sunday, the Chiefs who came to Ramnagur from Lutteefgur, appointed by Rajah Cheit Sing, were Mocundy and Ram Buksh, Bhemun Sing, and Cullian Sing, and Baul Kishen Huzzarry, and Sirdar Sing, a Follower of Ramjewun, and Ram Sheweh, a Follower of Ajayb Sing, and Dildar Hoossein Khan, and Nuzzur Ashriff, with their own Parties. On the next Morning, which was Monday the 28th of Shabaun, the above-named Chiefs had an Engagement at Ramnagur, with the Companies which came from the Fort of Chunar; at Two Pahr and a Half of the Day, ( $\frac{1}{2}$  past One P. M.) those Companies were defeated, and the Intelligence was immediately sent to Lutteefgur; and at One Pahr of the Night, (Nine o'Clock) Bauboo Soojaun Sing having left Lutteefgur, with Gholaum Hoossein Khan, and Fyz-Oolla Khan, arrived that same Night at Ramnagur, when Two Gurries of it remained.

Tuesday the whole Day he was employed in Preparations, and in stationing the above-mentioned Chiefs, and in loading Bamboo Ladders on the Boats, and Guns upon the Pinnacle. And he gave Orders to the Chiefs and the Troops, that at Twelve at Night, on Wednesday, they should cross and attack the Governor General, and the other English Gentlemen who resided in Mehadow Daus's Garden. All the Inhabitants of Ramnagur, as well as I, saw and heard these Particulars.

(The Ranny's Signature.)

With respect to Cheit Sing's having, from of old, an improper Correspondence with the Begums at Lucknow, and the Rajah of Bheraich and Gooruckpoor, the Declaration of the above Ranny is as follows:

Since Two Years, ~~an~~ account of the Enmity of Cheit Sing to me, I had left Ramnagur, and resided in another Dwelling; and Cheit Sing had always acted towards me with such Enmity and Opposition as cannot be described; how, therefore, should he have acquainted me with his Correspondences?—but I have heard from Report, that he had in many Places improper Correspondences. However, it is very plain that he had Enmity towards the Governor General; because, whenever he learned any thing to the Prejudice of the Governor, from the Letters of his Vakeels, or the Reports of ill-designing Persons, he used to rejoice:—This is known to all the Inhabitants of Ramnagur. Accordingly, when the Governor General was lately coming from Calcutta towards this Quarter, the Rajah and his Companions used to say, “the Governor has been displaced, and is making his Escape to Hindostan.” Besides, from the Rajah's going to Buxar to meet him with the greatest Preparations his Intention plainly appears.

Translation of the Deposition of Gudgerauge Sing.—The Deponent sworn before Chief Justice Sir Elijah Impey, November 12th 1781.

I Gudgerauge Sing, the ancient Kelladar of Ramnagur from the Time of the deceased Rajah Bulwant Sing, do declare and give in Writing without Reserve (considering God to be present and a Witness) all that I have done, seen, or heard, to the following Effect:

On the Day that the Engagement happened between the Forces which came from Chunar and the Troops of Rajah Cheit Sing, I was in Readiness in the Fort of Ramnagur, with the Burkandazes with their Matches lighted. When the Chunar Army had been defeated, a Budgerow from the Westward came near the Ghaut of Buxey Suddanund. Having observed it from the Fort, I went out by the Wicket Gate, which is to the Southward, with Seven or Eight Burkandazes; the Rowers, and other People belonging to the Budgerow, on seeing this, leaped into the Water, and the Gentleman was killed by the Stroke of a Sword from the Men who accompanied me. About this Time I received Intelligence that the Rajah's Cavalry, who opposed the Chunar Army, had fled; upon this I was greatly confused, and was desirous of carrying the Budgerow under the Fort, but the People of Buxey Suddanund took possession of the Budgerow, and declared that they would keep it, as it had come to their Ghaut. Two Burkandazes brought from the Budgerow Two Muskets and some Cloths, and One of my People took One Musket, whilst the Burkandazes took more Cloth and Arms. From thence I went to my Charge in the Fort.

My further Deposition is as follows:

On the Night of the same Day that the Army from Chunar was defeated, about Two Ghurries of the Night remaining, Bauboo Soojaun Sing arrived from Lutteefgur at Ramnagur. I heard from several Persons, that the said Bauboo had given Orders to his Troops and Chiefs, to make a Night Attack on the Governor General and the other Gentlemen who were in Mahadew Dafs's Garden. Accordingly, he employed his Troops in bringing Bamboo Ladders, and loading them on Boats, and every one was preparing for the Attack.

I swear, that whatever is written in this Paper is true.

Gudgerauge Sing.

before the Arrival of the Governor General at Buxar. Two Sepoys belonging to the Fort of Buxar obtained Leave of Absence, and did not return—That Soojaun Sing, the Brother of the Rajah Cheit Sing, took them into his Service, and made one of them a Havildar, and the other a Naick—That he received undoubted Information, which was afterwards confirmed by Desertions from the Garrison, that Soojaun Sing tutored the Two Deserters to entice away the English Sepoys from Buxar, promising to make them Havildars and Officers if they would enter into his Service; in consequence of which, Seven Sepoys deserted, and entered into the Service of the said Soojaun Sing; and that many more would have followed, but that proper Measures were taken to prevent them. The Deponent also says, That long before this, when Sir Eyre Coote was on his Way to Lucknow, Three Sepoys were sent to purchase Grain at Balleah, in the Country of the Rajah; that they applied to the Fougedar of the Place for his Assistance in purchasing the Grain; which he not only refused, but he caused them to be beaten almost to Death; that their Turbans and Bayonets were taken away; and that no Satisfaction could ever be obtained for this Injustice and Insult to the English Government, nor was the Fougedar called to Account for his Conduct. The Deponent further says, That when the Rajah came to Buxar to meet the Governor General, he had with him a Fleet of Boats, in Number Eighty or Eighty-five, on which were embarked, according to the Information which he obtained, Two thousand or Two thousand Five hundred Men, Sepoys and Matchlock Men, with Four Guns; that he came to, and encamped on, the Northern Side of the River, opposite to Buxar; and that he had several Bodies of Cavalry on the Road, on the same Side of the River—Says, that the Rajah came to see the Governor General; that he brought with him only Fifty or Sixty People, but that they were all his Relations and particular Friends, on whom he depended; and that they were all armed. The Deponent further says, That when Hostilities commenced between the Rajah and the English, the Sepoys and others who happened to be in the Rajah's Country, were all driven out, and the Road on both Sides the River so completely shut up, that no Individual could pass—That Four or Five thousand Matchlock Men were to be collected by Two Brothers, Deir Sing and Beir Sing, at Serinjah, agreeable to Orders from the Rajah; and that the said Rajah wrote Directions to the said Deir Sing and Beir Sing, and to the Kelladar of Serinjah, to reduce the Fort of Buxar, and to establish his Government in that Country.

The Deponent further says, That about Twelve Months ago Three European Gentlemen were attacked at Beerpoor, in the Country of the Rajah, about Five Cos from Buxar; that One of the Gentlemen was desperately wounded; that a Serjeant, a Jemmadar, and Fifty Sepoys, were sent from Buxar to seize the Zemeedar, but without Effect—That Complaints were made to the Rajah, but no Redress could ever be obtained.

Affidavit of Sheakh Mahommed Aumeen Meyher.

Deposition of Sheakh Mahommed Aumeen Meyher, late a Commandant in the Service of Cheit Sing.—Upon his Oath says, He was the Servant of Cheit Sing; that he commanded a Battalion of Eleven hundred and Fifty Sepoys in his Service; that he accompanied Cheit Sing when he went to Buxar to meet the Governor General; that there was with Cheit Sing at that Time, the following armed Force, Two hundred and Twenty-eight Sepoys under the immediate Command of this Deponent, Six hundred Matchlock Men under the Command of Seupersaud Sing, and Three hundred Peadahs, or Sword Men, called Huzzoory or Guards; that the above-mentioned Troops accompanied the Rajah in Boats; and that the said Rajah Cheit Sing was also attended by a Body of Six hundred Cavalry, under different Leaders; that the Cavalry marched down on the Southern Bank of the Ganges, and directed their Movements by the Motion of the Fleet of Boats in which the Rajah and his Infantry were embarked: That when the Rajah Cheit Sing arrived at Ghauzipoor, he was joined by Bullum Dafs the Aumil, and the Dewan Ruggoobur Dial; and that when he proceeded on from thence, a Detachment of Cavalry and Matchlock Men (stationary Troops at Ghauzipoor) in Number about Five hundred, accompanied the Rajah, marching along the Northern Bank of the River in the same Manner as the Troops on the opposite Side, moving when the Fleet moved, and halting when that halted; that the Rajah arrived, and encamped on the Northern Side of the Ganges, opposite the Fort of Buxar; that the Governor General arrived at Buxar the next Day; that the Rajah crossed the River, and waited upon him; that he returned to his Camp, and about Three o'Clock in the Afternoon put his People and Fleet in Motion, returning as he had went, and the Troops on the Banks of the River accompanying the Boats; that the Governor General proceeded the next Morning, and came up with the Rajah at Zemeneeah, about Twenty Cofs from Buxar; that the Rajah again waited on the Governor General on board his Boat, and that the Governor General then proceeded on before the Rajah, the Rajah following at the Distance of Four or Five Cofs, until they reached Banaris; that the Governor General went to the Garden of Mahadew Dafs, and the Rajah to Shewallah Ghaut, his armed People taking their Stations in their Neighbourhood; that his (the Deponent's) People did not arrive with the Rajah, but that he joined him with Fifty Sepoys, and took his Station near to Shewallah; that Two Companies of Sepoys also joined the Rajah from Ramnagar.—The Deponent further says, That on the Day that the Three Gentlemen and the Two Companies of English Sepoys came to the Rajah, and the Circumstance of his Arrest was known, the Rajah's People (who were then stationed round Shewallah) to the Number of about Four thousand, were armed and prepared for Action; that at this Time Munnihar Sing, Seuamur Sing, and Nunkoo Sing, went to the Rajah: That the Disturbance and Dispute at the Gate ran high, and increased every Moment: That the Huzzoories, Peadahs, and others, with their Arms, got upon the Chuppers which were erected against the Wall on the Outside; that the Matchlock Men fired upon a Company who were without Shewallah; that the Deponent counted Seven Matchlocks which were fired, and saw a Sepoy fall by the First Shot; that the Moment the Firing was heard, the Rajah's People forced their Way Sword in Hand into Shewallah, and cut the Gentlemen and Sepoys to Pieces; that the Rajah Cheit Sing escaped during the Conflict to Ramnagar, and from thence to Lutteefpoor.

The Deponent further says, That after the Detachment from Chunar was repulsed near Ramnagar and obliged to retreat, Soojaun Sing and the Buxey Suddanund arrived with Troops at that Place, and that by Orders from the Rajah they prepared Scaling Ladders, &c. in order to make a Night Assault on the Garden of Mahadew Dafs; that Boats were prepared, and Guns and Troops marched down to the Ghaut of Aui Sungum; that the Sepoys belonging to the Deponent refused to cross the River until they had obtained some Refreshment, having been without Food for Two Days; that the Night passed away without any Thing being done, and that the Governor General on that Night quitted Banaris, and arrived at Chunar; that Soojaun Sing and Suddanund Buxey wrote a Complaint to Cheit Sing against the Troops under the Command of the Deponent the next Morning; and that Soojaun Sing sent a Company of his own Sepoys to take possession of the Garden of Mahadew Dafs; that they plundered the Property of the Gentlemen at that Place, and returned to Ramnagar.

The Deponent further says, That the following is, to the best of his Memory, a true List of the Forces with Rajah Cheit Sing; those on the regular Establishment, those newly entertained, and those who came in to his Assistance.

Deposition of Sheakh Hossain Oolla, Jemmadar, relative to the Action at Shewallah Ghaut, at which Period he was Havildar and Orderly with Lieutenant Stalker.

The Deponent upon his Oath says, He was one of those who attended Mr. Markham and Lieutenant Stalker when they went to the Rajah Cheit Sing at Shewallah Ghaut, with about Fifty orderly Sepoys, armed with Swords only; that a short Time after, Two Companies of Sepoys arrived under the Command of Lieutenants Scott and Symes; that Mr. Markham returned from the Rajah's with about Thirty of the Orderlies; that he, the Deponent, continued during the whole of the succeeding Transaction near to Lieutenant Stalker; that he saw Lieutenants Scott and Symes enter Shewallah with their Swords drawn, and shortly after observed Guards posted in different Places, from which he discovered for the first Time that the Rajah was in Arrest; that after the Departure of Mr. Markham there were present Messrs. Stalker, Scott, and Symes, with Seven or Eight Sepoys (Orderlies) attending just without the Apartment, where they were seated with the Rajah; that several of the Rajah's People, all armed, to the Number of Forty, were seated without the Purdahs; that Centries were posted round the Building; and that the Two Companies remained without the Inner Gate; that many of the Rajah's Peons, to the Amount of about Three hundred, were assembled in the same Place; that several Notes were sent off by Lieutenant Stalker, and One Note received by him; that about Twelve o'Clock at Noon the Rajah desired Permission to perform his Ablutions, which was refused, unless he would send for Water and perform them on the Spot, which he did accordingly; that before this Period, the Rajah's People between the Outer Gate and that which led immediately to the Building, made

Two different Attempts to force their Way through the Inner Gate, but were kept back by the Two Companies who were posted there; that Lieutenant Stalker once went himself to the Gate, and struck One of the Rajah's People, who was endeavouring to force his Way in; that the Rajah's People appeared to be highly irritated, and that the Subadars of the Companies found it necessary to fix Bayonets—Says, That Messrs. Scott and Symes accompanied Lieutenant Stalker on this Occasion, but that he, the Deponent, continued near the Rajah with Three or Four Sepoys, by Orders from Lieutenant Stalker; that he nevertheless saw what passed through the Stone Lattice, which surrounded the Building; that at this Period the Rajah sent his Buxey to forbid his People from making any Disturbance, and the Affair subsided; that the Gentlemen returned to the Rajah. The Deponent further says, That after the Rajah had finished his Ablutions, he retired to a Stone Pavilion, or Sort of Bastion, to perform his Devotions; that Three or Four orderly Sepoys were directed to attend him at a small Distance, to observe his Motions (the Officers continuing in their Places); that at this Period a Chubdar (named Cheit Ram) came from Mr. Markham, and delivered a Message to Mr. Stalker; and that the said Chubdar afterwards went to the Rajah Cheit Sing, who was still at his Devotions; that he appeared, by his Manner and the Loudness of his Voice, to be speaking insultingly and passionately to the Rajah; that at this Period a Report of Matchlocks was heard, and One of the Subadars, Bishen Sing, called out to the Officers, that they were fired upon by the Rajah's People from the Outer Wall; that the Gentlemen started from their Seats, and drew their Swords; that Lieutenant Stalker rushed forward toward the Gate, and that Lieutenants Scott and Symes attempted to follow him; that the Moment the Firing commenced from the Outer Wall, the Two Companies were attacked by the Three hundred Peons in the Space between the Two Walls with them; at the same Instant the Officers and their Orderlies were attacked by the Forty of the Rajah's People (said to be within the Building at the Beginning of this Deposition); that the beforementioned Subadar Bishen Sing forced his Way through the Inner Gate, with about Twenty Sepoys, to the Assistance of the Officers; that the Passage was soon stopped up by the Number of Dead and Wounded in the Gateway; that after the Communication was cut off, the Action still continued both within and without; the Two Companies still fired upon from the Outer Wall; that the Deponent saw Lieutenant Stalker defend himself with great Resolution with a Sword, which he had taken from One of his Sepoys; that the Deponent himself in a short Time received several Wounds, and fell; that he fainted, and therefore has no further Knowledge of what passed during the Remainder of the Action, or how the Rajah made his Escape; that when he recovered his Senses he saw Lieutenant Stalker lying dead near him, with many of the Sepoys; that he heard a Firing, which one of the Wounded told him proceeded from a Company of Sepoys, who were driving off the Rajah's Matchlock-men; that he, the Deponent, continued on the Ground the whole Night, but was removed the next Morning to the Garden of Mahadew Dafs.

Upon his Oath, says, That in the Morning of                   , Lieutenants Scott and Symes gave Orders that Two Companies of Grenadier Sepoys should be got ready; that the Companies were immediately paraded, and that the above Gentlemen marched with them to Shewallah, where the Rajah Cheit Sing resided; that Lieutenant Symes with One Company took Post within the First Gate; that the Company under Lieutenant Scott stationed themselves at the Inner Gate; that Lieutenant Stalker ordered him to post a Guard of a Havildar and Twelve Sepoys at the small Gate leading to the River, and another Guard at the Gate opening from thence into Shewallah; that he posted Guards as he was ordered, and that he sent out a Havildar to see what Number of Men were in the neighbouring Gardens and Cantonments, and what they were about; that the Havildar brought back Information, that the Rajah's People were all arming themselves, and loading their Matchlocks; that he communicated this Intelligence to Lieutenant Stalker, and added, that the Rajah's People were certainly preparing to attack them; that at this Period the Rajah's Buxey arrived; that he went in to Cheit Sing, and that he saw him make a Motion with his Hand as one striking with a Sword; that the Deponent saw this from the Inner Gate where he was standing; that Cheit Sing's People became turbulent, exclaiming on all Sides, that they (the English) had made their Rajah a Prisoner, and calling out to attack them; that he found it necessary to order the Sepoys to fix their Bayonets, and that he sent Information to Lieutenant Stalker, that they were about to be assaulted; in consequence of which, Lieutenant Stalker came out to the Place where Lieutenant Symes was posted with his Company; that Lieutenant Symes, pointing to the Rajah's People with his Hand, told Lieutenant Stalker, that those People were going going to attack him; that Lieutenant Stalker spoke to the Rajah's People, and returned, and that the Clamour in some measure subsided; that at this Juncture Munnear Sing, and his Son Nunkoo Sing, and Seumur Sing, arrived, and seated themselves by the Rajah; that at this Instant, an Hircarra brought Intelligence to the Rajah, that another Company of English Sepoys were coming from Murwarry, and that they were arrived near at hand; that at this Period, one of the Rajah's Matchlock Men fired at the Company which was advancing; that the Moment the Report of the Matchlock was heard, the Rajah's People within, who were alarmed, became very turbulent; the Noise and Confusion increased, and Lieutenant Scott came out and enquired into the Cause of it; that the Action immediately commenced within, and that Lieutenant Stalker called out to the Deponent to enter with his Company; that he attempted to obey the Orders which he had received, but that the Attack at that Instant began without the Inner Gate also; that it was no longer possible to enter with his Company; but that he nevertheless forced his Way in with about Twenty Sepoys; that Mohun Sing, Subadar, the Moulavy, and Cheit Ram (Mr. Markham's Chubdar), were first cut down; that Munnear Sing struck at Lieutenant Stalker with his Scymetar, but without Effect; that Lieutenant Stalker made a Thrust at Munnear Sing with his Sword, without Effect also; that Lieutenant Stalker threw the Sword from his Hand, and took a Scymetar from one of his orderly Sepoys, with which he continued the Action; that Nunkoo Sing afterwards made a Stroke at Lieutenant Stalker; that the Rajah's People, who were now assembled in great Numbers both within and without, charged the English Sepoys sword in Hand, and continued the Attack till Lieutenants Stalker and Scott, with all the Sepoys, were cut down; that the Deponent's Arm was struck off by the Blow of a Scymetar; that he received several other Wounds, and at last fell, and that he continued there among the Dead and the Wounded, until a Company of Sepoys came and carried off those who remained alive.

Deposition of Ruggoobur Sing, Orderly Sepoy to Lieut. Stalker.

The Deponent (upon his Oath) says, He went with Lieutenant Stalker and Mr. Markham to Shewallah, where the Rajah Cheit Sing resided, and that he went with them into the Presence of the Rajah; that shortly after Two Companies of Sepoys arrived, with Two Gentlemen, whose Names the Deponent does not remember, being a newly enlisted Sepoy; that those Two Officers came in and continued with the Rajah and Lieutenant Stalker; that he the Deponent was directed by Lieutenant Stalker to attend, with Three other orderly Sepoys, in the Apartment where the Officers were sitting with the Rajah; that the rest of the orderly Sepoys remained without the Purdahs, which were let down in the Front of the Apartment; that he is unacquainted with what passed without the Gate, where the Two Companies were, or what People were there on the Part of the Rajah. The Deponent does not recollect, nor can he, he says, relate the Circumstances which passed before the Attack commenced; but in Reply to a Question put to him, Whether Mr. Markham's Chubdar, Cheit Ram, spoke to the Rajah? he says, that said Chubdar brought a Note to Lieutenant Stalker at the Time when the Rajah's People without were endeavouring to enter; that he delivered the Note to Lieutenant Stalker; that at this Time the Noise and Confusion at the Gateway was very great; that the Chubdar went from Lieutenant Stalker toward Cheit Sing, who was then sitting at the Place where he performed his Devotions; that he told him to order his People to desist; that he (the Chubdar) was Cheit Ram, and that the Rajah was but Cheit Sing; and that if he did not make his People desist, he would confine him—Says, He was an Ear Witness to the foregoing; that it was at this Moment the Firing was heard, and the Attack began; that Lieutenant Stalker's Hircarra had his Sword; that he called to this Deponent to give him his Sword, which he did, and stood behind Lieutenant Stalker by his Orders, with the Scabbard in his Hand, until that Officer fell; that he was soon after cut down himself; that he was deprived of Sense, and knows nothing of what passed afterwards.

Affidavit of Colonel Blair, commanding the Fort of Chunar.

The Affidavit of Lieutenant Colonel William Blair, taken before Sir Elijah Impey, Knight, Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Judicature at Fort William in Bengal.—This Deponent, on his Oath, saith, That on the 21st of August 1781, to the best of his Recollection, about 8 o'Clock in the Morning, and something near an Hour after he had issued Orders for the 2d Battalion of the 6th Regiment to cross the River, and march with all possible Expedition to Banaris, a Man was brought to him, who said he had some particular Intelligence to deliver; that upon hearing what he had to say, he acquainted the Deponent that he had left Ramnagur in the Night, and that it was there determined to attack the Fort of Chunargur the following Night; he mentioned several of the Leaders Names, whom the Deponent does not remember, and said, that Ladders had been prepared at Pateeta for that Purpose, and that a considerable Force was expected to join those at Ramnagur. The Deponent further saith, That at the Time this Fellow gave him the above Information, he was going to the Beach to see the Battalion paraded, and to expedite the Boats; and that he saw the same Man upon the Road as he was returning from the River Side. Lieutenant Colonel Blair further saith, That a short Time before Dinner, on the same Day, another Man was brought to him with Intelligence, who was dressed like a Fakeer; he seemed a middle-aged Man, and appeared very solicitous for the Safety of the English: His Information corresponded with the former, as to the Time that the Fort was to be attacked; the Forces he said could not in all consist of less than between Twenty and Thirty thousand Men, with Artillery; that they were to be led on by the Rajah in Person, and were to come from Lutteespoor, Ramnagur, and Pateeta. The Deponent remarks, that this Man spoke so much more than merely answering Questions that were put to him, that this, joined to his seeming Anxiety for the Safety of the English, created in the Deponent's Mind great Doubts of his Veracity, though he did not totally reject his Information. The Deponent here observes, that this Man, and also the Person that delivered the first Intelligence, were perfect Strangers to the Deponent, and every Person about him; and that, among other Questions, he asked him what was his Inducement to come to him with such particular Information? to which he answered, That he was a poor Man and expected a Reward. The Deponent then told him, that if he called upon him next Day, he would most undoubtedly reward him accordingly. The Deponent further saith, That as far as he recollects, between Three and Four o'Clock the same Afternoon, he was observing the last of the before-mentioned Battalion crossing the River, his Jemmadar Hircarrah came to him, and told him that it was the general Belief every where, that a large Army was upon the March, and it was supposed would reach Chunar that Night, and that vast Numbers of the Inhabitants were flying the Town; that he the Deponent warned the said Jemmadar Hircarrah to beware of bringing or spreading false Intelligence, as he should answer for it with his Life; his Answer was, that he spoke nothing of himself. The Deponent, after having seen all the Battalion across the River, and begun their March, ordered the Jemmadar Hircarrah to attend him to Camp. That as the Deponent was on the Road, he met a young Man seemingly much out of Breath, but could not understand what he had to say, till he reached the Camp, when he called Captain Blair to interpret for him. The Information this Man gave was, that he was an Inhabitant of Pateeta, and used frequently to come to Chunar upon his own Business; that the Deponent's Jemmadar Hircarrah knew him, which was acknowledged by the Jemmadar himself. He said, that when he left Pateeta, there was about Six thousand Men getting ready to march towards Chunar, and that he understood that a very large Body was to follow from Lutteespoor. The Deponent further saith, That, upon reflecting upon the various Intelligence he had received through the Day, he thought it necessary to acquaint Captain Sparks and Captain Blair with his Apprehensions of an Attack being made that Night; that he the Deponent saw Out-posts placed, and gave every necessary Instruction to prevent a Surprise, and to oppose the Enemy with Vigour, as he was conscious that every Thing depended upon being able to keep the Field. The Deponent after this, when the Troops were turned out at Roll-calling, directed Captains Blair and Sparks to thank their Men in the Name of the Governor General for their late gallant Behaviour at Ramnagur, lamenting at the same Time the great Loss that they had sustained by being imprudently led into a Place where they could not act, but that he the Deponent was confident they could in the fair Field beat any Force that the Rajah could bring against them; that the Men expressed a perfect Confidence and Readiness to oppose the Enemy if attacked, and the Chasseurs expressed the greatest Eagerness to embrace the first Opportunity of revenging the Death of their Companions and Commandant; and they remained upon their Arms all Night with the utmost Cheerfulness. The Deponent further saith, That when the Governor General arrived at Chunar next Morning, and that he was told the Danger that threatened him and all the other Gentlemen at Banaris, which he was perfectly ignorant of before, it then crowded on his Mind, as no Enemy had made the least Attempt either upon the Camp or Fort, that all these Pieces of Intelligence, which had been brought in the Day before, were entirely calculated for the Purpose of detaining the Troops from being sent to Banaris, and thereby favouring the Design of attacking the Governor and Gentlemen there; and the Deponent says, that he is the more induced to this Belief, as he was not able next Day, or any Time since, to find the People that brought the Deponent this Intelligence, though every Endeavour was made to discover them.

The Affidavit of Captain Patrick M'Dougall, taken before Sir Elijah Impey, Knight, Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Judicature at Fort William in Bengal. This Deponent, on his Oath, saith, That on the Evening of the 21st of August last, after having crossed the River with his Battalion, in order to march to Banaris, agreeable to Colonel Blair's Orders, several People came and acquainted him, that there were Two thousand armed Men posted in the Neighbourhood of Beety-bur, to oppose his marching to Banaris; and not doubting this Intelligence to be well founded, and Night approaching, took every Precaution to guard against a Surprise, and oppose the Enemy; but meeting with no Opposition on his March there, or returning to Chunargur, therefore concluded the Information to have been groundless.

Affidavit of Nathaniel Middleton Esquire.

Nathaniel Middleton Esquire, on his Oath, saith, That he left Lucknow on the 19th August 1781, and joining the Nabob Vizeer at about Ten Cos distant, proceeded with him towards Banaris, with an Intention to meet the Governor General, who was expected shortly at Lucknow: That about Three or Four Days after his Departure, he heard of the Disturbance at Banaris, and of the Massacre of Three European Officers, with a Number of Sepoys, at the Instigation of Rajah Cheit Sing, which prevented the Governor General's setting out for Lucknow, as he had intended; and on his Arrival at Doudnagur, on the 24th of the same Month, he received imperfect Accounts, through the Channel of the Vizeer's public Intelligence, of the Retreat of the Governor General and his Party to Chunargur; and the same Account, as well as many others, set forth, that the Rajah Cheit Sing had issued his most positive Orders to all the Zemeedars and Officers of his Government, to put every European to Death that they could lay hold of; to seize and severely punish any Natives who should be found in the Service of or connected with the English; and in general, to use every Means in their Power to promote an Insurrection throughout the Country; for which they should be liberally rewarded: That he had also written Perwanahs, or Letters, to many of the Zemeedars of the Vizeer's Country, encouraging them to raise Disturbances in their respective Districts, and to assist him with Troops, for which he promised them large Sums of Money: That this Report was made to him repeatedly, through various Channels, and implicitly credited not only by himself, but he firmly believes by the Vizeer and every Man in his Retinue: That in consequence of these Occurrences, the Vizeer, who had left Lucknow with a very small Force, determined to wait for Reinforcements before he proceeded; and accordingly, summoning his Troops from all Quarters, halted at Hussanpoor until they joined him: That on the 31st of said Month he, this Deponent, in Company with the Vizeer, left Hussanpoor, and proceeded towards Chunargur: That on his Arrival at or near the Village of Gopee Gunge, he heard from several different Persons, whose Names he does not at present recollect, that a Number of dead Bodies were seen, some in a Well situated near the Road Side, and others lying on the open Plain, partly covered with loose Earth, or Sand, that had been thrown over them: That these Bodies were supposed and generally believed to be the Bodies of Dauck Hircarrahs, and other Travellers dependant on the English, who had been seized and murdered in consequence of the afore said Orders of Rajah Cheit Sing: That this Deponent did not see the Bodies, but had not a Doubt of the Truth of the Story, as it was mentioned by several Persons at the Time they were passing the Place, and afterwards by others who had stopped to see them: That in a small Mud Fort and Village near the Place where the Bodies were discovered, he, this Deponent, heard from Almas Ally Khan, a principal Farmer of the Nabob Vizeer's Revenue, that there were several hundred armed Men assembled in the Service of Rajah Cheit Sing; but for what particular Purpose he did not learn: That some Days after his (this Deponent's) Arrival at Chunar, he was informed by Two Hircarrahs, who brought him an Express from the Aumil of Illahabad, that in passing through Gopee Gunge they had seen the dead Bodies of Two Europeans, who they supposed had been murdered by the Inhabitants of that Place: That he heard at the Time, and believed, and does still believe, that much Encouragement, and some actual Aid in the raising of Troops, was given Rajah Cheit Sing by Behar Ally Khan and Jewar Ally Khan, the Two principal Eunuchs and Counsellors of the Vizeer's Mother at Fyzabad; and that their Conduct, as well as that of their Dependants, during the Continuance of the Disturbances at Banaris, manifested a strong Disaffection to the English: That he further heard

heard from his own News-writer stationed at Fyzabad, that a Vakeel, or Agent, from Rajah Cheit Sing had been received at that Place, and allowed to remain under the Protection of the said Eunuchs; but for what particular Purpose, or what was the Nature of his Commission or Negotiations, this Deponent has not been able to discover.

Affidavit of Lieutenant Colonel Alexander Hannay.

Alexander Hannay Esquire, Lieutenant Colonel, commanding a Corps of his Excellency the Vizeer Assof-ud-Dowlah's Sepoys, on his Oath, declares, to the best of his Remembrance and Belief, the following Circumstances respecting the State of the Country he was stationed in, and the Reports that prevailed there during the Months of September and October 1781:—That, in obedience to Orders he received from his Excellency the Nabob Vizeer for that Purpose, on the 28th of August 1781, he issued Orders for forming a Detachment, consisting of One thousand Sepoys, Four Guns, and Five thousand Horse, from the Troops under his Command, to assemble at Akberpoor, on the Road leading to Jowanpoor: That Eight Companies of Sepoys, Two Guns, and about One hundred Horse of the said Detachment, were ordered to cross the Gogra at the Chowra Ghaut, and proceed to Akberpoor: That Two Companies of Sepoys, Two Guns, and the Remainder of the Horse, were ordered to cross at Fyzabad, and encamp on the Rumna until the Arrival of the Deponent, who was from thence to march them to Akberpoor, the appointed Rendezvous of the Detachment: That the Deponent arrived at Fyzabad on the Evening of the 7th of September, with the Intention of pursuing his March to Akberpoor the next Morning, but was detained, from the Horsemen having been seduced into the Town, where they were tampered with by the Servants and Agents of the Begums to decline proceeding further with him: That the Subadars of the Two Companies of Sepoys represented to him, that Guards were placed (said by the Authority of the Begums), to prevent the Sepoys, or any one connected with the English, from entering the Town; and upon Enquiry, it appeared that such Representation was true: That the Deponent learnt from various, and what he deemed Information to be depended on, that the Agents of Rajah Cheit Sing were publicly suffered to raise Troops in Fyzabad; and that the Eunuchs of both Begums encouraged the People to enter into his Service, particularly Jewar Ally Khan, who was represented to have gone into the Chouk for this Purpose: That the Deponent was credibly informed, that Two or Three Days before his Arrival at Fyzabad, a Man named Sheakh Khan, had marched from thence, in order to join Rajah Cheit Sing, with about a Thousand Horse and Foot, and that several other Detachments had before proceeded from thence with the same Design. These Transactions were of so public Notoriety, and so generally believed, that the Deponent deemed it his Duty to represent their Impropriety to the Bow Begum*, but could obtain no Answer. On the Evening of the 8th of September, the Deponent received a Letter from Lieutenant Gordon, who was on his March to join him at Akberpoor, informing him that he had been attacked on his March from Chowrah Ghaut by great Bodies of Men, assembled to oppose him; and that on his Arrival at Taundeh, the Conduct of Shumsheer Khan, the Begum's Aumil of that Place, had effected the Loss of his Detachment, as appears from the following Copy of his Letter to the Deponent, relating the Circumstances of that unhappy Disaster.

Copy of a Letter from Lieutenant John Gordon to Lieutenant Colonel Hannay, dated at Taundeh, the 10th of September 1781.

“ I had the Honour to write you on the 8th Instant, acquainting you with the Disaster which happened to my Detachment; and I now beg leave to lay before you the Particulars of that unfortunate Affair.

“ When I crossed the Gogra, on the 6th, at Chowrah, with the Four Companies of Sepoys, and about Eighty Horse (in all near 400), I saw that the Country was disaffected: My Force, however, I judged to be quite sufficient to join you at Akberpoor; indeed, I did not conceive that his Excellency's Troops, marching to join him by his Order, could meet with any Interruption.

“ On the 7th, at Day-break, I marched; and about Half a Mile from Chowrah, when crossing a Nullah, where I had sent Boats Overnight, I observed great Bodies of Men assembled to oppose my March: I immediately made what I judged to be the best Disposition of my small Corps; and the Behaviour of the Men did them great Credit; for though during the whole of the March of Eight Co's, we were attacked, and often surrounded, by incredible Numbers of People, yet we constantly beat them off, killing and wounding many of them; and

" arrived, with very little Loss, about One o'Clock in the Afternoon, at the Teerea Nullah, which runs by Taundeh, bringing the whole of our Bazar and Baggage in the most complete Safety. I now imagined myself in a Friend's Country, and intended crossing the Nullah, that my People might halt for the Day, and refresh after their fatiguing March: For this Purpose I ordered my Bazar and Baggage to be sent over, and Part of the Sepoys to stand to their Arms: A great Number of our Enemies were still in Sight; but judge of my Surprise, when I was informed that the Boats were all on the other Side of the Nullah, and that none of them were permitted to cross. I immediately wrote to the Begum's Aumil, Shumsheer Khan, acquainting him, that I was marching with the Vizeer's Troops, by his Orders, to join him; that I was astonished at his stopping the Ghaut, and desired he would send Boats for the Transport of my Detachment. To this no Answer was made; but immediately Three Guns were brought near the Ghaut, and pointed to us; and a Number of Nujeebs were posted on the Banks of the Nullah, who threatened to fire if any Body passed. It is proper to remark here, that near the Ghaut there were a great many large Boats belonging to Mr. Scott, whose Gomastah, notwithstanding his most earnest Entreaties, was prevented from sending them by Shumsheer Khan; and even the Plunder of his Factory and his Life were threatened, if he attempted it.—When I found this to be the Case, I took possession of a very strong Ground, surrounded on Three Sides by the River and Nullah; on the Fourth Side, where only I could be attacked by the Country People, I ordered the Sepoys to make a Breast-work, by piling up Planks, of which there were a great Number; and as I had Ammunition and Provisions, I intended to wait there until I could procure Boats, or discover a Ford. While I was thus employed, I found that Mahommed Ruzza Beg, the Jemadar of Horse, had swam across the Nullah, and procured Permission for his People to follow him, which they immediately did. No Answer coming from the Fougedar, I desired my Moonshy to go to him, and explain the Matter; he accordingly went to the Ghaut, and demanding a Passage, he was refused, and insulted in Terms the most opprobrious to the English. He returned; and telling me this, I ordered him to take an Elephant and swim over; but when he attempted to enter the Nullah with the Animal, the Nujeebs pointed their Matchlocks at him, and obliged him to desist: The Sepoys seeing this, and that the Horsemen were permitted to swim across, naturally imagined that the Objection was to the English only, and their Adherents; they thought it safest to abandon me, whom they must have concluded to be devoted, and, throwing down their Coats and Arms, they followed the Example of the Horsemen in swimming across the Nullah, making a Merit with Shumsheer Khan of giving me up to my Fate. One of the Subadars represented to Two others the Folly of their suffering for One Person; and proposed to them to deliver me up to Shumsheer Khan, or to the Country People; but this Proposal they rejected with Scorn: The Desertion however was almost complete; for in a little Time, of the Four Companies, not Twenty Men remained, including Officers. It was now almost Evening, when Mr. Scott's Gomastah, with great Difficulty, at last obtained Permission from the Fougedar to send One Boat; but it came too late to render any effectual Service; for with the few Sepoys who remained, Command was at an end; and, as most of my Servants had gone off, my Baggage was left a Prey to the Badditti, who soon carried off and destroyed it. Some Things, which a few of my Servants brought with them, they gave in Charge of the Fougedar's People, to take care of them; but they reserved them for themselves, or rather for the Fougedar; and though many of my Things were seen in his House, I never could recover a single Article. I am still in Mr. Scott's Factory, which there is every Reason to think will be attacked, as Numbers of People are assembled in the Neighbourhood for that Purpose; and as the Fougedar positively refuses to grant the least Assistance, God knows what may be the Consequence: However, as it is evident that Shumsheer Khan was the sole Cause of this Disaster, I hope that exemplary Punishment will be inflicted on him, and if I survive I doubt not but I shall be reimbursed for what I lost by his Villany.

" I have the Honour to be, &c.

" J. Gordon, Lieut."

The Deponent further saith, That both from Observation and Information, he doth believe that a general and universal Insurrection took place, before the 15th of September, in all the Country to the Eastward of the Gogra, from Mangee to Baraitch, and on its Western Banks from the Borders of the Banaris Districts to the Extremity of Kheirabad; that it was created and fomented by the Agents of Rajah Cheit Sing, disaffected People at Fyzabad, and about the Vizeer's Court; and that the Expulsion of the English was its Object. In the Districts of Gooruckpoor, and indeed in all the Pergunnahs below Fyzabad, it was generally asserted, and the Deponent never heard the Assertion contradicted, that the Rajah Cheit Sing furnished the principal Zemeedars, particularly the Rajahs Futteh Saw, Genoo Roy, Ajeet Mull, Zalim Sing, and Perty Pall Sing, with considerable Sums of Money, in order to subsist the Force they collected on this Occasion; and that he granted them ostensible Certificates under his Seal, engaging to discharge whatever Expence they might incur in the Service of the Insurrection. These Certificates and Perwannahs they received, or pretended to have received, under the Seal of the Vizeer, confirming them in their hereditary Zemeedaries; and appointing them

Aumils on the Part of the Sirkar in their respective Pergunnahs, gained them an unbounded Influence over the Inhabitants. The Aumils of the Country in general were obliged to fly from their Stations; the Nujjees and Sebundy joined the Insurgents, or dispersed; all Ferry-boats were sunk or destroyed; many of the Dauck Hircarrahs were slain, and the rest obliged to fly, which effectually cut off all Correspondence, as well as Communication, and the Country remained in a State of Distraction which cannot well be described, until the Beginning of October; when the News of our Success at Banaris, and the Nabob's Return to Lucknow, calmed the Tumult.

Affidavit of Major M'Donald.

John M'Donald, Esq; Major commanding the Nabob Assof-ud-Dowlah's Third Battalion of Sepoys, on Oath saith, That he the Deponent was stationed at Amora, to assist the Aumil in collecting the Company's Tunka, also to protect the Subjects of his Excellency the Vizeer from the Depredations of Zalim Sing, the Rebel Rajah of the aforementioned Place Amora, also the Attacks of others his Adherents: That the said Deponent had been detached by Lieutenant Colonel Hannay, some Time in February 1780, with a Body of Horse and Foot, in Pursuit of the above-mentioned Rajah Zalim Sing, who, besides sequestering the Rents of the Pergunnah, had compelled the Inhabitants to quit the District; and further, wantonly, and without Cause, murdered Two of the principal Cannoongoes of the Pergunnah aforesaid. The Deponent could not come up with the flying Rajah, but followed him until he took to a large Jungle, that bounded the Country of the Vizeer to the Eastward, and is the Westermost Limit of the Zemeedary of Cheit Sing, Rajah of Banaris. Zalim Sing was there received in the most friendly Manner, and Protection promised him. On this, the Deponent sent proper Spies to watch the Motions of Rajah Zalim Sing, and returned himself with the Troops to his Station at Amora: That the Deponent learned by the Spies left about Zalim Sing, that he was allowed to reside openly under the Protection of Cheit Sing, and had Villages, also Lands, assigned for the Maintenance of himself and Followers.

About the Twentieth of August last, the Deponent was informed, Cheit Sing had, after putting to Death Three English Officers and Two hundred and Fifty Sepoys, fled from Banaris, and openly set up the Standard of Rebellion, inviting all Persons, who could procure Arms, to repair to him, and by fighting under his Banner, extirpate the Fringies. The Road by which the Post usually travelled from Banaris, became impassable from the numerous Parties, it was said, Cheit Sing had sent out, to cut off all Communication betwixt the Honourable Governor General and the different Stations of the Army. As the Deponent could not obtain any authentic Account of the State of Affairs, he thought it best to send out Persons to all Parts for Information, that he might judge from the State of the Country how Matters stood at the Place of the greatest Moment. The Country of the daring Rebel Cheit Sing, and the City of Fyzabad, seemed to the Deponent the most likely Places to furnish the wished Intelligence. In the latter Place it was reported, first, that the Honourable Warren Hastings Esq; had been massacred at Banaris; then, that he had been cut off on his Way to Chunar; at last it was said the Honourable Governor General was in Chunargur, but must soon fall into the Hands of the Banaris Rebel, as no Relief could possibly reach the Place in Time to save it; and that shortly the Destruction of every Englishman in these Parts would be effected. From the Banaris District the Deponent learnt, Cheit Sing had summoned the Zemeedars of his Raje to join him with all the Troops they could raise, promising present Pay to those bearing Arms, and a Remission of a Year's Rent to all who repaired to his Standard. Many Rebels who had fled the Company's and Nabob's Territories, and taken Refuge in his Zemeedary, were furnished with Money, and joined by such Zemeedars, belonging to the aforesaid Banaris Rebel, as lay too far distant from the principal Scene of Action, to make a Diversion both towards the Company's Lands and those Parts of his Excellency's Dominions under the Charge of English Officers, and endeavour to cut them all off, and thereby prevent any Assistance being sent from either Goo-ruckpoor or Bahraich. His Excellency the Vizeer repaired to Sultanpoor, about this Time, which prevented the Rebel Zalim Sing, also Perty Pall Sing, the Rebel of Busty, from quitting the Jungle; but they were busy in making the necessary Preparations, by raising of Men, with the Money said to be sent them by Cheit Sing in Fyzabad: The Khajahs * of the Vizeer's Grandmother, as well as those of the Bow Begum, were raising Men under various Pretences, and making every Preparation that might be necessary either for offensive or defensive War. During the Time the Nabob lay encamped at Sultanpoor, the Deponent's People were insulted and ill used in Fyzabad, by the Peons, Sepoys, and other Servants of Jewar Ally Khan and the Two Begums, as were all who made use of the English Name, or were supposed to have any Connection of the Kind; but on its being known there that his Excellency had moved towards Chunar, no one who was a Servant of the English could get Assistance into the City but by Stealth, or in Disguise; even the Duack from Lucknow was not allowed to pass through as formerly, but obliged to make a large Circuit, and the Hircarrahs put on different Appearances to pass unnoticed to Amora. After the Departure of the Nabob from Sultanpoor, as before mentioned, the Rebels, who had been driven from the Province of Gooruckpoor, began moving towards the Gogra. The Zemeedars of Amora, where the Deponent then resided, also those of the adjacent Pergunnahs, held frequent Meetings, and seemed big with some great Plan. On or about the 29th of August, the Deponent received a Letter from Lieutenant Colonel Hannay, informing him, that his Excellency the Nabob had written to him (Colonel Hannay) to join him immediately with a thousand Sepoys, Four Guns, and Five hundred Horse. Four hundred Sepoys of the Deponent's Battalion were ordered for this Service; also his Battalion Guns, and a hundred Horse that belonged to the Amora Station, were withdrawn, to make up the Number required by his Excellency. No sooner was this made public, than the Zemeedars absented themselves; and the Deponent learnt from all Parts of the Country, that every Man was getting ready his Arms, and that Cheit Sing's Name was in every Body's Mouth; that every Rajah in the Country had declared for him: That the Deponent endeavoured to get some Nujeebs to supply the Place of the Troops called away; but all in vain; every Attempt was rendered abortive by the Machinations of the Khajahs belonging to the Two Begums at Fyzabad; and every Soul in that City seemed, from their Conduct and Conversation, to look upon the English as on the very Eve of Extinction, forbidding any one to serve the Fringies, but to repair to Cheit Sing and Saadut Ally—Nay, every Method and Way were tried to seduce the Sepoys from the Deponent's Battalion, which, however, did not succeed while remaining under his Eye, but had the desired Effect upon the Nujeeb and Sebundy. After the Sepoys, Guns, and Horse had crossed the Gogra, there was an End to all Government in that Part of the Country where the Deponent resided. Not an Article of any Kind was to be had; and but for the Deponent's having foreseen the Situation he should be in, and provided accordingly, he would have been under the Necessity of leaving his Station from the Want of Provisions. Thus surrounded on all Sides by lurking Enemies (for there was no knowing who to treat otherwise) the Deponent knew not when or from what Quarter the Blow was to be struck; but on the 8th of September it broke out in all Parts. All Out Posts were driven into Camp; the Roads in an Instant secured by armed Parties; Hircarrahs murdered, Sepoys attacked, and the intended Destruction of every Englishman openly declared, not only throughout the Pergunnah, Towns, and Villages, but even in the City of Fyzabad. To such Lengths was it carried by the People of Jewar Ally Khan, and other Khajahs belonging to the Begums, that the Women of the Deponent's Camp, that were sent across the Gogra to be out of the Way of Danger, being obnoxious from the Connection, were refused that Protection which the Sex in every Country meets with, but particularly in Hindostan claims as a Right. From the above Date, the Deponent was confined to the Limits of his Camp, nor had he any Road open but that to Rye Ghaut opposite Owd, at which Place Lieutenant Colonel Hannay then lay with a very small Force; while the Country around him, also the City of Fyzabad, seemed ready to commence Hostilities. On the 10th of September, Rajah Zalim Sing, accompanied by other rebellious Rajahs, appeared with a numerous Force on the Banks of the Gogra opposite to Amora. The Deponent's Spies brought him Intelligence from the Rebel's Camp, that his, the Deponent's Property, likewise that of all his Camp, was already divided; that the Deponent's Horses, Camels, &c. Things worth Notice, the Rajah Zalim Sing reserved to himself; the rest was to be given up to those who could get it. Moreover the Deponent saith, his People informed him that Rajah Zalim Sing had produced a Paper, which he, the Rajah, said was a Sunnud from the Nabob, restoring him to his Zemeedary, appointing him Collector of the adjacent Pergunnahs, Bufty and Nagger, also that he had the Nabob's Directions to drive the Fringies out of his Districts; that he only waited for the Sise * (Boats being already provided, from Fyzabad, which the Deponent knew absolutely to be the Case) to cross the Gogra, and carry the Nabob's Orders into Execution. Further, that his Excellency had altered his Sentiments regarding the Part he was to take in the present Contest; that his Excellency set out with the Intent of adhering to his Treaty with the Company, but that Mirza Saadut Ally wrote him he was to blame if he gave any Assistance; that now was the Time to shake off the English Yoke; that it might not be prudent to declare himself at once; that he had only to stand neuter, and, under Pretence of defending themselves, direct his Subjects to take Arms, and endeavour to prevent the Junction of the English Forces, when the Matter would work of itself: Further, to direct the Aumils to send no more Supplies of Money, which would cause the Sepoys to leave the English Service for want of Pay, while themselves would have Plenty of Money. In the City of Fyzabad the same Language prevailed as to the Money Part, and Stoppage of the Tunka, until the Nabob Saadut Ally Khan thought proper to issue the Grants. During the Night of the 10th of September Rajah Zalim Sing crossed the Gogra, and advanced within Four Cofs of the Deponent's Camp; on the Evening of the 11th the aforesaid Rajah pushed Three Posts to within a Mile of the Deponent's Lines, and was to have moved from his Camp with his main Body when the Moon rose. Thus situated, it was thought expedient, for the Safety of both Parties, that the Deponent should join Lieutenant Colonel Hannay while yet a Passage was open; accordingly, about Two in the Morning of the 12th of September, the Deponent quitted his Camp at Amora, and marched to Rye Ghaut. The Deponent was scarcely out of his Camp, when the Rajah's People rushed into it, seizing all they could find, and murdered some unhappy Persons who had neglected to move in Front of the Deponent's Party. The Deponent reached Rye Ghaut at Sunrise of the 12th. As soon as it was known at Fyzabad, that Zalim Sing was in Possession of Amora, the whole City was in an Uproar from Joy; and the Deponent heard the Report and saw the Smoke of Guns that were discharged at Fyzabad, he believes on the Occasion. The Deponent saith, He believed the Reports as before related at that Time, and still is of Opinion the Threats therein contained were intended to be carried into Execution had the League been successful; nor did the Deponent then (or even at this Moment) doubt but what the Begums at Fyzabad and their Khajahs were in a League with Cheit Sing the Banaris Rebel; and the Deponent is of Opinion that the Whole of the Disturbances that happened in the Parts where he resided, took its rise from the Rebellion of Rajah Cheit Sing; and the Deponent is further of Opinion, that it would not have extended itself so wide in the short Time it really did, had it not been a Matter pre-concerted, and brought to light by mere Chance, ere properly ripe for Execution: And the Deponent further saith, That he is of Opinion, from the many Conversations he the Deponent has held with several Persons, Inhabitants of the Rebel Cheit Sing's Country, that the Rebellion has been meditating even some Years; that the Deponent was informed the Matter was absolutely debated in the Year 1779, and prevented only by the Voice of a Person about the Rajah, to whose Judgment much Deference was paid by the Rajah Bulwant Sing, Father of the Rebel.

NUM. 9. D.

Affidavit of Captain David Williams.

David Williams Esquire, Captain of the First Battalion of his Excellency the Vizier Assof-ud-Dowlah's Sepoys, on his Oath declares, to the best of his Remembrance and Belief, the following Circumstances respecting the State of the Country he was stationed in, the Reports that prevailed there, and his own Situation in it, during the Months of September and October One thousand Seven hundred and Eighty-one. Upon hearing that the Rebellion of Rajah Cheit Sing at Banaris, had become of a very serious Nature, he deemed it requisite to repair immediately to his Station at Gungowah, in the District of Gooruckpoor; accordingly he left Lucknow, by Dauck, on the First of September, and reached Sakrora the same Evening; on the Second, he arrived at Amora, and on the Third at Gooruckpoor. Upon the Road between Busty and Meerungunge, a Sepoy belonging to Major M'Donald's Battalion overtook him, and gave him Information that the Rebels had attacked a Post in the Jungle, which they had carried. On his Arrival at Gooruckpoor, the Jemmadar who commanded in the Fort acquainted him, that the Rajahs Furtch Saw, Genoo Roy, and Ajeet Mull, had received a very considerable Sum of Money from Rajah Cheit Sing, to enable them to commence Hostilities in Gooruckpoor, and in the Company's Districts, and that they had crossed the Gogra, and also, that they had Promises of considerable Sums of Money and Supplies of Men upon commencing their Operations. The Fourth, in the Evening, he arrived at Gungowah, and had the same Reports confirmed to him by his Commandant, and most of the People of that Place. On the Fifth and Sixth, he got all Things in Readiness to proceed, agreeable to the following Orders from Colonel Hannay, to Ackberpoor.

" To Captain Williams, commanding at Gooruckpoor.

" Sir,

" Having received the Vizeer's Orders to join him without Delay with the greatest Part of the Forces acting immediately under my Authority, I have to desire, that immediately on Receipt of this Letter, or as soon after as possible, you do march with the Two Grenadier Companies of your Battalion complete, and your Battalion Guns, and proceed with all possible Expedition to Ackberpoor on the Road from Fyzabad to Sultanpoor, where you will receive further Orders. You will march by the Route of Gooruckpoor, and cross the Gogra at Taundeh, where you will find Three large Pattallies ready for your Passage. The Four Companies of your Battalion stationed at Busty, Dooreaparah, Dumreagunge, and Baunfy, have also received Orders to march; but as the utmost Expedition is required, they will proceed immediately under the Command of Lieutenant Gordon, and not wait your Arrival. The Four Companies of your Battalion in Gooruckpoor, and with Hurdial Sing, will remain under the Authority of Mahommed Shuffy Khan; and I have to desire you will particularly instruct the Subadars, commanding them to pay the strictest Attention to such “ such Orders as they may receive from Mahommed Shuffy Khan, during your Absence.

PART III.

 “ I know not what Quantity of Ammunition the Four Companies at Busty, &c. have with “ them; but it will be necessary, if possible, to bring a Quantity with you sufficient to supply
 “ the whole Six Companies of your Battalion under Orders of March, with a Complement of “ Two hundred Rounds a Man; and inclosed you will receive a Letter from Mahommed Shuffy
 “ Khan, desiring him to yield you every Assistance in his Power, in order to procure Carriage
 “ for the Transport of it. What else may be wanted to expedite your March, your own Pru“ dence and Zeal will suggest, and I have only to repeat it is necessary you should make all “ possible Dispatch.

“ Alexander Hannay.”

On the Seventh he marched with Two Companies and Two Guns, having previously sent Orders to the scattered Detachments to repair to Gungowah, there to remain under the Directions of the Aumil, agreeable to Colonel Hannay's Orders. On the Eighth continued his March; on the Evening of the same Day certain Accounts were brought him, that the Boats on the Rivers and Nullahs were destroyed, and the whole Country to the Gogra up in Arms; and having also received Intelligence that Futteh Saw, Genoo Roy, and Ajeet Mull, with their Banditti, were encamped on the Road to Burragong, it determined him to return immediately to Gungowah, and proceed by the Way of Burragong and Chuprah to Buxar, to join Major Crawford's Regiment with the Two Companies and Two Guns; by taking which Route, he would have had an Opportunity of driving off that Party, which would have freed the Country from the principal Rebel. On the Ninth he returned to Gungowah; and, as the Commotions in the Country seemed evidently to increase, since the detached Parties who were directed to repair to Gungowah had been severally attacked on their Way, as they came in, he sent Orders to Hurdial Sing, Commandant stationed at Ichmul, to repair with all Expedition to Gungowah with Two Companies and Guns belonging to the Fougedar of that Place, and in the Evening informed the Aumil Mahommed Shuffy Khan of his Intention of proceeding by Chuprah to Banaris, and gave him Advice respecting the Defence of the Country during his Absence. The Detachment was ordered to march on the Tenth. About One o'Clock in the Morning the Jemadar attached to the Guns came and informed him that the Companies had mutinied, and would not march without having their Arrears paid them. In the Morning he went to the Parade, and ordered the Men to fall in; they paraded with Reluctance and Difficulty, particularly the Left Hand Company, commanded by Khan Mahommed Subadar. When they were got under Arms, he acquainted them that he was concerned they were not paid so regularly as he could have wished, but if there were any of them that were distressed for Subsistence, he would advance them as much of his own Money as they required, as soon as they came to their Ground that Day; but that it was indispensably necessary that they should march with all Expedition to attack a Party of Futteh Saw, &c.'s Troops, which had taken Possession of the Ghaut in the Jerry Jungle, before they should have Time to fortify themselves. They were silent; he directed them to march off. When they had gone about One hundred Yards from the Parade, one of the Men stepped out of his File, and demanded all the Arrears of Pay due to him; he immediately seized the Bayonet of the Mutineer, with an Intention of putting him to Death; when Six or Seven Men turned out, fixed their Bayonets, and made the same Demand; the Black Officers remained silent and inactive; he ordered his Commandant to march on, and ordered the Mutineers to take off their Coats, as they were not worthy of being Soldiers, and that his Moonshy would pay them their Arrears that Instant; many more joined them in a few Minutes, loaded their Pieces, laid hold of the Moonshy, and were going to put him to Death. When he found that to be the Case, and that almost the whole Two Companies were engaged in the Mutiny, he ordered the Party to return, as it was in vain to proceed. A short Time after, the whole Party surrounded him, some with loaded Arms and fixed Bayonets, having also loaded the Guns with Grape, and with one Voice demanded their Arrears might be paid off. He remonstrated, that it was impossible for him to comply with their Demands, but that all the Money he had, or could get, should be distributed amongst them, if they would obey his Orders. For about Three Hours they behaved in the most licentious Manner, and were proceeding to break open the Treasure Chest; at last, however, he prevailed upon them to receive Three Months Pay. Upon this being given them they returned to their Lines, but kept Centries at the Bungalow. After this he sent for the Two Subadars, and desired them to found the Men, and try if they could induce them, upon Promise of Forgiveness for what they had done, to return to their Duty. They came back, and reported, that they would consent to obey upon those Conditions. He went to the Parade in the Evening, and promised them Forgiveness; upon which they took an Oath to obey his Orders, upon Condition that they were not to march to Banaris; so that it became impracticable to prosecute the Intentions he had formed. However, in a few Hours more they again mutinied; and, to the best of his Recollection, they proposed to march to Banaris, and join Cheit Sing and Saadut Ally, who, as they said, would pay them their Arrears, and make them great Men; adding, that all the Europeans were cut off, and that he, meaning the Deponent, was the only Person left in the Country. In the Evening the Two Subadars Khan Mahommed and Buctour Sing came to him, and proposed to carry him Prisoner to Banaris. On the Twelfth he represented sent to them, that if they did not immediately march to attack Futteh Saw, &c. who had already posted Detachments within Sight of the Cantonments, and, as he was informed, was lying near Hussanpoor with near Seven thousand Men, they would be distressed for Provision, since the whole Country was in Arms. He sent for all the Black Officers, and begged and intreated of them to use their Influence over the Men upon this Occasion; but they were deaf to all he could say. Had they complied, he was confident of Success against the Rebels, as Dadjoo Sing and Gobindram Misser had engaged to make a Diversion in his Favour upon their Rear, whilst he attacked them in Front. In the Evening they came to a Determination to march to Fyzabad to the Begum; who they also declared would pay them their Arrears, and take them into her Service; but on the Thirteenth, before they had carried these Intentions into Execution, he was joined by Hurdial Sing, with Two weak sickly Companies; and having borrowed Money sufficient to pay them the Three Months Pay which the others had received, and thereby render them upon an Equality, they remained staunch, though every possible Means had been taken by the Mutineers to corrupt them. Shortly after this he received Information, that the Fort of Gooruckpoor had been attacked by near Six thousand Rebels. There was a Jemmadar and about Fifty Men in the Fort, who behaved most gallantly. The Attack commenced near Nine o'Clock in the Evening. They carried the outward Fort, which was too extensive; and the Party were obliged to retire to the Citadel, where there were upwards of Two hundred Prisoners confined. They endeavoured to seize the Sepoys; in which Attempt Nineteen of them were put to death, and many wounded. The Attack continued till near Four o'Clock in the Afternoon; when Shawmut Khan, a Jemmadar, and Nine Men, who had been ordered to march there from Puroonah, at the Beginning of the Disturbances in the Country, arrived in the Town; the People told them to throw down their Arms, and run off to the Jungles to save their Lives; for it was impossible for them to get into the Fort, as it was surrounded by Six thousand Rebels, who must carry it in a few Minutes. The Jemmadar, with admirable Presence of Mind, replied, That he was only the advanced Party, and that the Captain and the Guns were close after them; called out to a Man to run and bring them up, that the whole of the Rebels might be destroyed; and immediately fired upon the Rebels. The Report instantly spread; a Panic seized the whole, and they ran off in the utmost Confusion. He joined the Jemmadar in the Fort with his Nine Men: They sallied out after the Rebels, and cut off about Two hundred of them. During the Attacks, the Rebels frequently called out to the Jemmadar to deliver up the Place to them, as they had Perwannahs from the Begum, Cheit Sing, and Saadut Ally, for what they did.

Having received Orders from Lieutenant Colonel Hannay to proceed towards him, and also a Letter from Lieutenant Gordon, acquainting him that it was Colonel Hannay's Wish he should join him at Amora, informing him of the Loss of Two Companies of his Battalion which were with Lieutenant Gordon; on the Fifteenth he marched from Gongowah with the Aumil and Fougedars of the Country, and all the Stores of his Battalion. The March proved exceedingly fatiguing, on account of the Country's being under Water, and most of the Nullahs unfordable, and no proper Boats upon them for crossing. On the Twentieth arrived at Gooruckpoor, where he found Two Companies belonging to his Battalion, which were directed to join Lieutenant Gordon, but not being able to effect it, they had been under the Necessity of returning to Gooruckpoor, also a Company of Major M'Donald's Battalion, which had been obliged to retire from Bufty. On the Nineteenth received a Letter from Lieutenant Colonel Hannay, which determined him to remain at Gooruckpoor till he received further Orders, and wrote a Letter in Answer, proposing to march by the Route of Mugger and Bufty, to chastise Zalim Sing at Amora, and Lieutenant Colonel Hannay should advance by the Route of Mahadea to Amora, which he thought would be the most practicable Means of quieting the Rebellion in the Country. He was under a Necessity of borrowing Money to pay his Companies at Gooruckpoor, and also Major M'Donald's Company, and to make up the Ammunition that was damaged by the Weather, and repair the Tumbrils and Limbers: His Battalion being ill furnished with Arms and Ammunition, and the Draft Cattle very bad, which retarded him much during his March to Gooruckpoor. The Thirteenth received a Letter from Lieutenant Colonel Hannay, and wrote, for Answer, that he would march for certain on the Second of October; but the Difficulty he found in procuring a sufficient Quantity of Provision, and Carriage for it, as the whole Country was hostile, and Bodies of armed Men, to the Amount of several Thousands, were actually in the Town; added to the heavy Rain which fell on the Fourth and Fifth, rendered it impracticable for him to march till the Sixth. During the Time he remained at Gooroukpoor, it was currently reported and given out by the rebellious Rajahs, that they acted in conformity to the Orders they had received from Cheit Sing, Saadut Ally, and the Begums, to raise an Insurrection in the Country, and to destroy the English wherever they found them. Many Letters were intercepted, but the necessary Care was not taken of them, and they were either destroyed or lost. Having the Raubty and several Nullahs to cross, he did not reach Baunty till the Ninth, which is distant about Two-and-twenty computed Cos. On the Ninth in the Evening a violent Storm of Rain began, which lasted to the Sixteenth, with scarcely an Hour's Intermission, which rendered it totally impracticable to march during that Time, as the whole Country was overflowed, and the Rivers quite full. The March from Sakrora was extremely tedious and difficult, great Delays being occasioned by the Necessity he was under of making making Bridges, added to the Interruptions he suffered from the frequent Skirmishes he had with the People of the different Districts he passed through. On the 23d he arrived at Goondah, and on the Day following joined Colonel Hannay at Sakrora, with Eight Companies of his own Battalion, and a Company of Major M'Donald's Battalion. The Aumils and Fougedars of Gooruckpoor came under his Protection, and a Number of People in Office in the Collections; the Gun belonging to the Fougedary he brought with him, being the only one in the District he commanded. During his March from Gooruckpoor to Sakrora, the Rebels who harassed gave out, that every Measure they took was in compliance with the Directions they received from the Begum, Saadut Ally, and Cheit Sing. Since the Time of his being appointed to the Command of the Battalion, in January One thousand Seven hundred and Eighty-one, he has only received Two Months Pay, on its Account, from his Excellency the Vizeer, to the present Time, November the Twenty-seventh: His Battalion was dispersed in such a Manner, and at so great a Distance, that he hardly ever had above Two Companies with him, till they joined him by Degrees. During the Rebellion, he continually advised Colonel Hannay of his Situation, but it appears few of his Letters reached him, as the Communication was shut up.

Affidavit of Captain John Gordon.

John Gordon Esquire, Captain in the Corps of Sepoys of his Excellency Assof ud-Dowlah Nabob Vizeer, on his Oath saith, That he crossed the Gogra on the 6th of September at Chowrah, with Four Companies of Sepoys, and about Eighty Horse (in all, near 400) under his Command; that he saw the Country was disaffected, but judged his Force to be sufficient to join Colonel Hannay at Akberpoor; indeed the Deponent did not conceive that his Excellency's Troops, marching to join him by his Command, could meet with any Interruption. On the 7th, at Day-break, the Deponent marched, and about Half a Mile from Chowrah, when crossing a Nullah, he observed great Bodies of Men assembled to oppose his March; he immediately made what he judged to be the best Disposition of his small Corps, and the Behaviour of the Men did them great Credit; for though, during the whole of the March of Eight Cos, they were attacked and often surrounded by incredible Numbers of People, yet they constantly beat them off, killing and wounding many of them, and arrived, with very little Loss, about One o'Clock in the Afternoon, at the Tereea Nullah, which runs by Taundeh, bringing the whole of the Bazar and Baggage in the most perfect Safety; the Deponent then imagined himself in a Friend's Country, and intended crossing the Nullah, that his People might halt for the Day and refresh after their very fatiguing March; for this Purpose he ordered the Bazar and Baggage to be sent over, and Part of the Sepoys to stand to their Arms, as great Numbers of their Enemies were still in Sight; but his Surprise was extreme when he was informed, that the Boats were all on the other Side of the Nullah, and that none of them were permitted to cross. The Deponent immediately wrote a Letter to the Begum's Aumil, Shumsheer Khan, acquainting him that he was marching with the Vizeer's Troops, by his Order, to join him; that he, the Deponent, was astonished at his stopping the Ghaut; and desiring Boats might be sent for the Transport of the Detachment. To this no Answer was made, but immediately Three Guns were brought near the Ghaut, and pointed to the Detachment, and a Number of Matchlock Men were posted on the Banks of the Nullah, who threatened to fire if any Body passed. There were then near the Ghaut a great many large Boats belonging to Mr. Scott, whose Gomastah, notwithstanding his utmost Intreaties, was prevented from sending them by Shumsheer Khan; who threatened the Plunder of his Factory, and even his Life, if he attempted it. This was told the Deponent by the said Gomastah repeatedly, and the Deponent believes it to be true, as it corresponds entirely with every other Part of Shumsheer Khan's Conduct. The Deponent, upon being refused a Passage, took possession of a very strong Ground, surrounded on Three Sides by the Gogra, and the Nullah on the Fourth Side, whence only he could be attacked by the Country People; he ordered the Sepoys to make a Breast Work, by piling up of Planks, of which there were a great Number; and as he had Ammunition and Provisions, he intended to wait there until he could procure Boats, or discover a Ford. While the Deponent was thus employed, Mahommed Ruzza Beg, the Jemadar of Horse, had swam across the Nullah, and procured Permission for his People to follow him, which they immediately did. No Answer coming from the Fougedar, the Deponent desired his Moonshy to go to him, and explain the Matter; he accordingly went to the Ghaut, and demanding a Passage, he was refused, and insulted in Terms the most abusive to the English. He returned, and telling this, the Deponent ordered him to take an Elephant and swim over; but when he attempted to enter the Nullah with the Animal, the Nujeebs pointed their Matchlocks at him, and obliged him to desist: The Sepoys seeing this, and that the Horsemen were permitted to swim across, naturally imagined that the Objection was to the English only, and their Adherents; they thought it safest to abandon the Deponent, whom they must have concluded to be devoted, and throwing down their Coats and Arms, they followed the Example of the Horsemen, in swimming across the Nullah, making a Merit with Shumsheer Khan, of giving the Deponent up to his Fate. One of the Subadars represented to Two others, the Folly of suffering for One Person; and proposed to them to deliver up the Deponent to Shumsheer Khan or to the Country People; but the Proposal was rejected with Scorn, and One of the Subadars reported the Behaviour of the other immediately to the Deponent: The Desertion, however, was almost complete; for in a little Time, of the Four Companies, not Twenty Men remained, including Officers. It was almost Evening when Mr. Scott's Gomastah, with great Difficulty, at last obtained Permission from Shumsheer Khan to send One Boat, but it came too late to render any effectual Assistance, for with the few Sepoys who remained, Command was at an End; and as most of the Deponent's Servants had gone off, his Baggage was left a Prey to the Banditti, who soon carried off and destroyed it. Some Things which a few of his Servants brought with them, they gave in Charge to the Fougedar's People, who promised to take care of them, but they reserved them for themselves, or rather for the Fougedar; and though many of the Deponent's Things were seen in his House, he could never recover a single Article. For many Days during the Stay of the Deponent in Mr. Scott's Factory it was threatened to be attacked; and Shumsheer Khan, though often applied to by Mr. Scott's Gomastah, constantly refused to grant the least Assistance: Notwithstanding this, Shumsheer Khan was, and the Deponent believes is still, continued in Office; and while the Deponent was at Fyzabad, Shumsheer Khan came there, and was well received by the Begum and her Ministers: From all which Circumstances the Deponent is convinced, that Shumsheer Khan could not have dared to act as he did, had he not been authorized by the Begum and her Ministers, or at least had he not known that such Conduct would be agreeable to them.

Affidavit of Jean Honore Mordelait, Private of the Company of Chasseurs.

Jean Honore Mordelait, Natif de Corbell, Province de l'Isle de France, fait Serment, et dit, Qu'étant malade à Mirzapour il fût laissé en arrière avec Quatorze de ses Camarades, lui inclus, tous servant dans la Compagnie de Chasseurs, commandée par le Capitaine Doxat; lorsque le dit Capitaine marcha avec les Troupes qui composoient le Détachement commandé par le Capitaine Mayaffre; que lors du Départ du dit Capitaine, le Raja de l'Endroit les fit entrer en son Entourage pour plus de Sureté contre les Voleurs qui l'environnoient; que sur leurs Représentations qu'ils n'avoient pas d'Argent pour se fournir des Vivres, il leur fit donner à manger chaque Jour par un Bannià, qu'il les consola et les assura qu'allant voir ce qui se passoit à l'Entour de son terrain il chercheroit après un Moyen de les faire passer à Chandernagore; que des lors il ne revint point: Que le Commandement étant alors dévolu au Second, il les fit appeler le Trentième, et leur donna Deux Roupies à chacun pour servir à une Route qu'ils devoient faire de Deux Jours de Chemin; qu'il leur fit sçavoir que c'étoit ses Ordres de les renvoyer de là, et qu'il avoit aussi reçu Ordre de couler tous les Batteaux passant par Mirzapour: Que pendant ce Temps Cinquante de ses Gens furent envoyés pour s'emparer de leurs Armes, et que ces Gens prirent un Inventaire de ce qui appartenait à la Compagnie; que le Lendemain ils furent contrainés de se mettre en Route, leur Sacs placés sur des Chameaux, sur lesquelles ils furent obligés de monter à grands Coups de Fouët pour ceux qui refusoient: Que durant leur Route ils eurent toutes Sortes d'Indignités, qu'on leur crachait au Visage, qu'on les battoit. Que la seconde Journée un de ses Camarades fût assez heureux de mourir; que le Chemin qu'ils faisoient étoit parmi des Gorges de Montaignes, et qu'avec les Détours qu'ils firent il croit que le Trajet jusqu'à Laitiffghur, où ils arrivèrent le Deuxième de Septembre, étoit plus de 40 Cofs: Qu'à la fin de la première Journée ils s'arrêtèrent à un petit Fort dans les Gorges, où leur mauvais Traitement fût redoublé. Qu'arrivé à Laitiffghur ceux qui vinrent avec eux se dispersèrent; qu'ils furent entourés pendans deux Heures qu'ils y restèrent par environ deux ou trois mille Gens qui les insultèrent grossièrement, et particulièrement, les accusa d'avoir assassiné le Raja de Guàlier: Qu'un de leur Camarades, nommé François, fût mené auprès du Raja lequel à son Retour leur déclara que le Raja l'avoit assuré qu'en cas qu'il lui amena Compagnie Française qu'il auroit son Pain. Qu'après ils furent conduits hors de Laitiffghur de la même Manière qu'auparavant sous le Garde de quelques Sepoys, et autres Gens armés, à une petite Maison fortifiée au de là de Laitiffghur une Cofs sur le Chemin de Beerjahghur; que ces Gens y restèrent pour les garder: Qu'on ne leur donna ni à manger ni à boire: Que le Lendemain, étant le troisième, un Chef de Laitiffghur avec dix Sepoys et environ 40 Hommes armés les fit sortir à une Portée de Fusil de la Maison: Qu'ils lièrent leurs Mains derrière leurs Dos; et qu'en cette Position ils leur crièrent à manger, leur montrant des Vivres à quelque Distance dans des Corbeilles. deux de leur Misères, ces Barbares tirèrent leurs Sabres et commencerent le Massacre : Que le susdit eût une Baonette passée du travers du Corps, et un grand Coup de Pied sur les Reins pour la faire ressortir : Qu'en cet Etat il feignit le Mort, et deux de ses Camarades tombant sur lui cachèrent sa Feinte : Que les Meurtriers se retirant après ce Carnage, il eût assez de Force pour se retirer dans les Jungles à vingt Pas de là : Qu'à la Discretion des Tigres il passa toute la Nuit ; qu'accablé de soif, le Lendemain il descendit à un Ruisseau pour boire de l'Eau, qu'il fût vit par des Campagnards, et amené à l'Endroit d'où il étoit sorti le Jour avant ; que les Habitants le rassurèrent contre toute Crainte de sa Vie : Que leur Chef lui donna pour lui et sa Femme huit Pice par Jour, laquelle Subsistance lui fût continué par moyen d'une Garde qui montoit et étoit relevé chaque Jour de Laitiffghur : Que parmi les Gens qui étoient là, il ne reconnût aucun de ceux qui les tuerent : Que le 20, le Jour que le Raja s'enfuit de Laitiffghur, après que lui et ses Troupes eurent passées auprès de l'Endroit où le susdit étoit, il se rendit à Laitiffghur sans Empêchement, et même fut mis au large par les Habitants : Que la Nuit du 20 ou 21 il fût obligé de se cacher, pour se mettre à l'abri des Gens qui pilloient de tous Côtés : Que le Lendemain Marin à l'Entrée du Major Crabb il fût découvert et heureusement mis en Sûreté de toute autre Pour suite.

Le susdit fait Serment et dit, de plus qu'il croit que le Massacre provenoit d'un Acte de libéré, et que ce ne pouvoit être le Résultat d'aucune Cause, comme ces Camarade et lui étoient trop tristes pour démontrer aucun Signe de Joie, s'abandonnant à la Mort d'après la mauvais Traitement qu'ils avoient subits : Qu'au contraire quant ils entendirent le Matin du Jour du Massacre, le Bruit des Canons et des Fusils, ils s'entredisoient tout doucement que leur Destruction seroit la Conséquence infaillible en cas que les Troupes du Raja perdroyent la Bataille : Que même, lors de cette Communication d'Idees, ils n'y avoient aucuns de leurs Gardes ou autres Gens pour les écouter ; que leurs Expressions à ce Sujet se passèrent, lors du Bruit des Canons et des Fusils, lequel étoit de grand Matin : Que leurs Meurtriers n'arrivoient de Laitiffghur qu'environ les onze Heures : Que deux Heures se passèrent à leur contraindre de tirer Habits, Chapeaux, &c. Qu'au lieu du Meurtre ils furent conduis en Chemise, et qu'il étoit environ une Heure après Midi, quand cet Acte de Barbarité fût commise.

John Honore Mordelait, Native of Corbell, a Province in the Isle of France, declares upon Oath, That being sick at Mirzapoor, he was left behind with Fourteen of his Comrades, himself included, all of whom belonged to the Company of Chasseurs commanded by Captain Doxat, when the said Captain marched with the Troops which composed the Detachment commanded by Captain Mayaffre : That upon his Departure, the Rajah of the Place made them come within his own Premises, for the greater Safety against the Thieves which surrounded them : That on their representing they had no Money to supply themselves with Food, he caused them to be given something to eat every Day by a Banian : That he comforted them, and assured them, that upon seeing what passed round his Seraglio, he sought for Means to transport them to Chandernagore : That from that Time he did not return : That the Command having then devolved upon the Second, he had them called before him on the Thirtieth, and gave them Two Rupees each, to serve for the Journey of Two Days they were to take : That he let them know his Orders were to send them from thence ; and that he had also received Orders to sink all the Boats passing by Mirzapoor : That during this Time, Fifty of his People were sent to seize their Arms ; and that those People took an Inventory of what belonged to the Company : That the next Day they were obliged to begin their Journey, with their Baggage placed on Camels, which they were obliged to mount ; and those who refused, received violent Blows with a Whip : That during their Route every Sort of Indignity was offered to them : That they spit in their Faces ; and beat them so, that on the second Day one of his Companions was so happy as to die : That the Road they took was through narrow Passes, between Mountains ; and that with the Circuits they made, he believes the Journey to Laitiffghur, where they arrived the 2d of September, was more than 40 Cofs : That at the Close of the first Day they stopt at a small Fort in the Passes, where their Ill-treatment was redoubled : That being arrived at Laitiffghur, the Persons who came with them dispersed : That they were surrounded for Two Hours, and remained there, among about Two or Three thousand People, who insulted them grossly ; and particularly accused them of having assassinated the Rajah of Gwallior : That one of their Companions, named Francois, was taken before the Rajah, and declared to them, at his Return, that the Rajah had assured him that in case he brought the French Company to him, he should be provided for : That afterwards they were conducted out of Laitiffghur in the same Manner as before, guarded by some Sepoys and other armed Men, to a small fortified House beyond Laitiffghur, One Cofs on the Road from Beejahghur : That those People remained there to guard them : That they had nothing either to eat or drink given to them : That the next Day, being the Third, a Chief of Laitiffghur, with Ten Sepoys, and about Forty armed Men, made them go out to the Distance of a Musket Shot from the House : That they tied their Hands behind their Backs ; and that in this Position they told them to eat ; shewing them Provisions in Baskets at some Distance : That after having amused themselves for an Hour or two with their Misery, these Barbarians drew their Sabres and began the Massacre : That the Deponent had a Bayonet passed through his Body, and a violent Kick on the Reins to make it come out : That in this Situation he feigned Death ; and Two of his Companions falling upon him covered the Deceit : That the Murderers retiring after this Carnage, he had Strength enough to retreat to the Jungles, Twenty Paces from the Place : That he past the Night at the Mercy of the Tigers : That on the next Day being parched with Thirst, he went down to a Brook to drink : That he was seen by some Country People, and carried to the Place which he had left the preceding Day : That the Inhabitants assured him his Life was in no Danger : That their Chief gave him Eight Pice every Day for his Wife and himself, which Subsistence was continued to him by means of a Guard, which was mounted and relieved every Day from Laitiffghur. That he did not recollect the Persons of any of the Murderers among the People here : That on the 20th, the Day the Rajah fled from Laitiffghur, after he and his Troops had passed near the Spot where the Deponent was, he went to Laitiffghur unmolested, and was even set at Liberty by the Inhabitants : That in the Night from the 20th to the 21st he was obliged to lie concealed to save himself from the People, who were pillaging on all Sides : That the next Morning, at the Entry of Major Crabb, he was discovered, and fortunately placed in Safety from all further Pursuit. The Deponent moreover declares upon Oath, That he believes the Massacre proceeded from a deliberate Act, and that it could not have been occasioned by any Cause, his Companions and himself being too sorrowful to shew any Sign of Joy, as they had abandoned themselves to Death after the Ill-treatment they had met with : That on the contrary, when on the Morning of the Massacre they heard the Report of the Cannons and Muskets, they said to each other softly, that their Destruction would be the infallible Consequence, in case the Rajah's Troops should lose the Battle : That even at this Communication of Ideas there were none of their Guards nor any other Persons present to hear them : That their Conversation on this Subject passed when the Noise of the Cannons and Muskets was heard, when it was broad Daylight : That their Murderers did not arrive from Laitiffghur till about Eleven o'Clock : That Two Hours passed in making them take off their Cloaths, Hats, &c. : That they were led in their Shirts to the Place where the Murders were committed ; and that it was about One o'Clock in the Afternoon when this Act of Barbarity took place.

Affidavit of Lieutenant Colonel Hannay.

Alexander Hannay Esquire, Lieutenant Colonel in the Service of the Honourable United East India Company, maketh Oath, and saith, That in the Month of September last (1781) he commanded a Body of Troops (Horse and Foot) in the Service of the Nabob Vizeer : That on the 10th of that Month, being encamped at Ryegunge, near Fyzabad, employed in transporting the said Troops across the River Gogra, in order to act against the Insurgents to the Northward of that River, in the Evening he received Intimation from a Person living in the Zennana, that the Nabob Begum (Grandmother to the Nabob Vizeer Assof-ud-Dowla) had, through her Agents, prevailed upon the principal Jemmadar of Horse, to engage to detach himself from the said Deponent, and to abandon him ; and further warning the said Deponent to attend to his own personal Safety, as there was an Intention of detaining him at Fyzabad : That this Intimation was given to the Deponent in the Presence of Lieutenant Charles Middleton, to whom the Deponent did communicate it ; and that, during the whole Course of that Day (the 10th of September) he the Deponent had not been able to prevail on any of the Horsemen to cross the River—a Matter which he could not until then account for, but which served to impress him so strongly with a Belief of the Truth of the Information he had received, that he sent for the principal Jemmadar of Horse, circumstantially communicated the said Information to him, and, as forcibly as he was able, stated to him the Treachery, Disgrace, and Infamy, inseparable from so unmanly a Behaviour : That the said Jemmadar of Horse appeared much affected at the Conversation, and acknowledged that the Information was true in every Circumstance, except that of his having acceded to the Proposals that were made to him, which he declared he had rejected ; but said, they had also been made to the other Jemmadars of Horse by the Agents of both the Begums (the Nabob Vizeer's Mother and Grandmother) ; and the Truth of this Affir-tion was afterwards affirmed to the said Deponent by Two of the said Jemmadars, and several of the inferior Officers and private Horsemen. The Deponent further declareth, That the above-recited Conversation passed in his the Deponent's Tent, to the best of his Recollection and Memory, on the Night of the 10th of September, in the Presence of Lieutenant Charles Middleton; and that, as the said Lieutenant Charles Middleton did not perfectly understand the Moorish Language, in which the Conversation was held, he the Deponent explained the Nature and Subject of it to him as soon as the Jemmadar left the Tent. The Deponent further declareth, That he is restrained from mentioning the Names of the Jemmadars alluded to, from an Apprehension that their Names becoming public, might operate to their Prejudice, if not Ruin; but that the Facts which he hath deposed are Truth.

Minute of the Board, entered in the Consultations of 14 January 1782.

The Board having already passed their Opinion, in Terms of the fullest Approbation, upon the Governor General's Conduct and Management in the Suppression of the Rebellion of Cheit Sing, and the Regulation of the Province and City of Banaris; they think it unnecessary to repeat their Opinion of those Measures.

Extract Secret
Consultations,
14th Jan. 1782.

They cannot at the same Time but remark, that the Explanations which the Governor General has given in some Parts of his Proceedings, during his first Discussions with Cheit Sing, and subsequent to the Convulsion, are rather an open Avowal of the Motives that actuated his Mind, than the guarded Representations of a public Officer, stating to his Employers the Measures which an extraordinary Situation influenced, dictated, and justified.

To a liberal and candid Tribunal, such was the natural, and certainly the wisest Appeal. The Generosity and Justice of a British Tribunal looks more to the real Motives and Zeal of their Agent, than to the preconcerted Artifice of his Conduct, or the legal Discriminations of his Defence. Even where a public Measure is unsuccessful, the Responsibility required by the Agent (if risked upon public Principles) is frequently his Justification, and in many Cases entitles him to Applause.

In these distant Dominions the ruling Servants of the State attend more to those Rules and Forms which protect from Responsibility, than to an ardent Pursuit of the public Interest; under every private Risk, the Hands of Administration may secure themselves against Condemnation, even though the Country should be lost through their Mismanagement.

It was not by avoiding personal Responsibility that the Servants of the Public established the British Influence in Asia; nor is it by such cold Precautions that our Power is to be maintained, especially at an Hour of general Hostility against us. The Board are led into these Observations, from an ingenuous Consideration of the Difficulties in which the Governor General found himself involved at Banaris, and a Conviction of the Motives under which he acted. The first were surmounted with Ability and Fortitude: The latter they most sincerely believe do him real Honour.

Easy would be the Task to approve the Suppression of the Rebellion, and to stand disconnected with any Responsibility, by justifying those Acts which certainly precipitated the Storm from the Cloud in which he had gathered; Acts which Judges at a Distance, Judges unoppressed with the actual Embarrassments of this Government, may, with great Speciousness of Argument, condemn. But the Board wish not, they cannot permit themselves to proceed so disingenuously, or guardedly. They are at the same Time aware, that in a rigid Investigation of the whole of this Business, the following Questions will be asked.

1st. Where were the Governor General's particular Instructions for such extraordinary Demands upon Cheit Sing?

2dly. Why was that Chief put in Arrest, when he offered to make every Concession?

3dly. Whether there was not a Compact between him and the Company, which specified, that he was only to pay them a certain annual Tribute?

Subsequent to the Massacre of our Troops, and the Events that followed, no Questions will be asked.

In answer to the first Question, the Board think the Governor General was fully authorized by the general Tenor of his Instructions. The Governor General having a deciding Vote, could have written out and approved more particular Instructions. There was a Delicacy in the Mode he preferred; and it imposed a greater Responsibility.

In regard to the Second Question; it is evident from Cheit Sing's Answers and Preparations, and the whole Tenor of his Conduct, before and at the Time, that nothing but Arrest could have convinced him of the Governor General's Determination.

That

That the Arrest was not intended to proceed farther than the Payment of a proper Fine to the Company, who stood in the Place of his Sovereign and Benefactors, is evinced by the Governor General's Answer to Cheit Sing, after his Confinement.

Had a total Revolution in the Administration of the Zemceedary been intended, the Arrest must have been effected with more Force, and greater Marks of Severity.

That the Officers who went to execute this Service were convinced that no Measure of determined Severity was intended against Cheit Sing, appears from that unfortunate Want of Precaution which cost them and their Followers their Lives.

The Third Question involves much Argument, yet is fully answered by that Part of the Governor General's Narrative, which discusses the Situation under which Cheit Sing ruled the Provinces, and which was so liberally granted by the Company.

The Correspondence with the India States, shews clearly their Ideas of the Rights of Zemceedars and Rajahs protected in their Zemceedaries by a superior Power. Had Cheit Sing been an Ally Sovereign Prince, who paid only a fixed Subsidy, his Military Preparations, and his insidious Conduct, under Pretences of Poverty, in disappointing the Expectations of the Government from the Army under Major Camac, justified, together with his Correspondence with our Enemies, the severest Exertion of Aid to assist the Company in their Distresses, and atone for his Ingratitude and Treachery to a Power who protected him, and to whom he owed his Situation.

On the Subject of the Treaty concluded on the 18th of September last, between the Governor General and the Nabob Vizeer, and which the Difficulties of the Communication prevented the Governor General from explaining so fully before, the Board have to observe, that the Treaty is evidently a political Expedient, which forfeits no Advantage, which promises the Acquisition of many, and which, properly managed by this Government (as Events favourable, or even unfavourable, arise), may lead to the final and complete Arrangement of an Alliance with the Vizeer. Such an Alliance, being less oppressive to him, may be more advantageous and honourable to the Company, and may remove that too general but dangerous Impression, which the different States of this Country have received from the double Character in which we have hitherto appeared in India—that of Allies and Conquerors.

If the Nabob Vizeer should not be able, under the Support of the Troops of this Government stationed at Cawnpore, to maintain the Tranquillity of his Dominions, and collect those Resources which are necessary to defray even his reduced Expences, and discharge his heavy Debt to the Company, a new Arrangement must follow; and that Arrangement necessarily, at the express Request of the Vizeer, will secure every Advantage that can be wished or expected from his Provinces by this Government.

The Reduction of that heavy Burthen of Expence, which was at once oppressive to the Vizeer, and of no Return to the Company (though a Source of Patronage to this Administration), the Board approve of most heartily; and, with a full Sense of the Credit which a Measure of such Difficulty and Unpleasantness reflects upon the Governor General, they take this Occasion of pledging to him and to their Employers their utmost Support, not only in this, but in every other Branch of public œconomical Reformation, which he may propose.

Upon the Return of the Governor General, the Board resolve to discuss with him those Parts of the Treaty, which carry the Appearance of a hasty Agreement. The Disaffection of many of the Vizeer's principal Jagheerdars; and the Steps which, from the Representations of Colonel Hannay and other Officers, appear to have been rapidly taken by the Begums, to support the Rebellion of Cheit Sing; were probably very early known to the Governor General, and through the Medium of all the Suspicions that his Situation, at the Time he met the Vizeer, had naturally created.

At such a Moment, and under such Suspicions, and even while the Issue of the Contest of Cheit Sing was depending, it is not surprizing that some Parts of the Agreement between the Governor General and the Vizeer were speedily adjusted, and, as the Governor acknowledges, in Conversation at their First Interview.

A short Time will satisfy the Board, whether the Vizeer is willing or able to fulfil his Part of the Treaty: If he is that, and the Company can recover their Debt from him in the present Emergency and Distress of their Affairs, the Board cannot then but agree, that the Governor General has acted in the Arrangement not only with Zeal, and the best public Intentions, but with a masterly Decision, that must entitle him to the grateful and complete Approbation of his Employers.

It remains with the Board to concert with the Governor General, upon his Return, those Measures that may secure this Government from any future Inconveniencies or Distress, that can be supposed connected with the Confidence reposed in the Vizeer, for the Administration of the Affairs of his Revenue and Military Establishments.

Extra Secy.
Dept. Conf.
5 Feb. 1782.

The Governor General delivers in the following Minute, in consequence of that of the Board, entered on the Proceedings of the 14th ultimo.

The Governor General acknowledges his Obligations to the Board, for this repeated Instance of the liberal Manner in which they have been pleased to record their Judgment on his Conduct. Had it been expressed in the simple Terms of official Approbation, he should have been pleased, and satisfied that it had received so respectable a Sanction; but by tracing the Sources of it, in the Motives which he has avowed; by their Examination of those Motives with their relative relative Facts and Circumstances; and by the Doubts which they have anticipated and solved, on the Propriety of such Parts of his Conduct as might most obviously suggest them; they have justified their own Approval, and entitled him to expect the same favourable Sentiments in their common Superiors.

Nor is he less pleased with the Reserve with which the Board have declared their Satisfaction in the Arrangement concluded by him with the Nabob Vizeer; because he thinks it will be received as an Evidence of the Deliberation and Sincerity of their former Approval. He is willing to submit the Propriety of the Measure to the Test of its Success. The Resident has already informed the Board, that he had received of the Treasures of the late Vizeer, left in the Charge of his Widow, and lately reclaimed by his Son, the Amount of the Bond granted by the latter for the Balance of the Year 1178, which adds in September 1780 of our Æra; and was in the actual Receipt of as much as would discharge the Balance of the last Year, that is, of the Year 1179. The first of these Balances is 32,68,6 3. 11, the last 12,09,876. 9. 8. The Sum of both is, R<sup>1</sup> 44,78,490. 4. 8. Owd Siccas. The Resident seems to have understood this to be the Whole of the Nabob's Debt. There is a further Balance of 26 Lacks, which appears to have been by some means overlooked, or withheld from Mr. Middleton on the Transfer of his Office from Mr. Purling. A rectified Account, drawn to the latest Period, has been transmitted to Mr. Middleton by the Accomptant General, which it is hoped will arrive in Time to prevent his stopping at the Receipt of the supposed Balance; and at all Events, the Profits of the resumed Jagheers ought to yield a Fund, more than sufficient both for the complete Liquidation of what may remain of the Nabob's present Debt, and to make up the Deficiency of the Assignments granted on his Revenue for the current Year, within the Course of it.

The Governor General expects this Service from the Resident, and relies upon his Fidelity for the Performance of it. But in the Supposition of the Possibility of a Disappointment, he again offers his personal Services to proceed to Lucknow, on the first Symptom of such a Failure; and, with the Confidence which he feels in his own Influence, aided by the powerful Support of the Board, he will venture to promise, that he will not return with their Object unaccomplished.

He hopes, and believes, that there will be no Necessity for this Extremity, but adds it as a Ground for the Assurance which he ventures to propose; and wishes the Board to give to the Honourable Court of Directors, in the Advices to them now under Dispatch, that there is the fairest Prospect, amounting as near to a Certainty as can be affirmed of an Event yet in Expectation, that the Debt due from the Nabob Vizeer to the Company, and even that of the Rohilla Donation, will be completely paid off in the Course of the present Year, and a Supply added to our ordinary Resources, which will fully answer all our own Wants for that Period, and enable us to contribute still further, and we hope effectual Aids, to those of the Carnatic.

The Governor General forbears to include the Presidency of Bombay in this Provision. Its Expences have already contributed more even than those of the Carnatic to exhaust these Provinces of the Currency; nor will it be possible for them to support any longer so pernicious a Drain. At a certain Point it must have a Close. For this Distress we must seek a Remedy in a different Expedient, in the Conclusion of the War with the Maratta State, and the consequent and most necessary Reduction of the Armies now employed on that Service. In the mean Time, he trusts that they are not so devoid of Resources in themselves, as to make them totally dependant for the Subsistence on this Government, since they have a large and rich Territory, acquired by their late Conquests in Guzurat, in the Dependence of Surat, and, as we learn only from an allusive Passage in General Goddard's last Letters, even in Concan, of which we were not before apprised. These Districts, we are assured by the same Authority, were in a State of perfect Tranquillity, and undisturbed Collection of their Revenues; and in the same State they are likely to remain, since in the Prospect of a Peace the Maratta Government will naturally look to the Restitution of their former Possessions, and would eventually be at least equal Sufferers with us, by any Devastations committed in them.

Such are the Expectations which the Governor General wishes to have presented to the Court of Directors, of the Course and Issue of the Resources of this Government for the present Year. He hopes that Credit will be given to them to that Degree, beyond which it would be presumptuous on any Grounds to hazard the Promise of contingent Events; that if those which he has predicted shall not come to pass, the Causes of their Failure shall be such as shall account for it, and acquit him of the Reproach of it.

Of the Consequences, as they may affect him personally, he is become indifferent; expecting the forced Censures of his avowed Enemies, and assured of the Applause of his Superiors, from the internal Conviction of his own Mind, that he has laboured to the utmost of his Ability to merit it.

(Signed) Warren Hastings.

THE Lords being in their Places, the House resumed, the usual Proclamations made, and the Defendant appearing at the Bar, the Lord Chancellor acquainted the Managers for the Commons they might proceed with their Evidence.

Then the Clerk proceeded to read from the printed Copy of the Narrative of the Governor General already delivered in, beginning at Page 21, where the same was broken off Yesterday, and read as far as Page 29 of the said Narrative (<sup>a</sup>).

Then the Managers for the Commons stated, that they should proceed to point out such further Extracts from the same, as they particularly desired to call the Attention of the House to.

Read, the following Extract, from Page 34 of the said Narrative :

“ On the 20th or 21st, I forget which, I received a Letter from Rajah Cheit Sing filled with Expressions of slight Concern for what had passed, and Professions, but indefinite and unapplied, of Fidelity. I did not think it becoming to make any Reply to it, and I think I ordered the Bearer of the Letter to be told, that it required none.

“ On the Morning of the 21st, a Person came to Mr. R. Johnson, who was One of my Party, and desired his Interposition with me to receive a Letter and Messenger from the Rajah in the Evening, with Proposals for an Accommodation. The like Application was made by Myrza Abdullah Beg, the Rajah's Vakeel, to my Dewan Contoo Bauboo; and, with my Permission, Contoo Bauboo returned to his own House to meet the Vakeel by Appointment for that Purpose, by which Means he missed the Opportunity of going off with me; the Intelligence of my Intention reaching him too late for him to join me, or his infirm State of Body not admitting of his taking so hasty a Resolution. The Substance of the Message, as it has been since delivered to me by Abdullah Beg, in Writing, was to exculpate himself from any Concern in what had passed, which he charged to the insolent Behaviour of a Servant of the Resident, who was present, and the Repentment of his own People, and to profess his Obedience and Submission to my Will in whatever Way I should dictate (<sup>b</sup>).”

“ It would break the Attention, and perplex the Thread of the Narrative, to relate every distinct Event in its exact Order of Time: I have therefore, in the minuter Points, endeavoured rather to arrange them according to their Relation to the greater, or to find a Place for them in the vacant Intervals and Pauses of it. It may be proper in this Place to mention, that during the Time of Inaction which succeeded to my Arrival at Chunar, I received several Letters from Cheit Sing, besides Letters from Mr. Barnet, and One from Contoo Bauboo, who were both his Prisoners at Lutteefpoor, which were written by his Order. These were all alike in Substance, containing Acknowledgments and Professions of Submission to my Authority; Assertions of his own Innocence, charging the Massacre at Shewallah to the Chubdar, whose Insults provoked the Repentment of his Servants, whom he could not restrain; and claiming a Merit from his having in the Three past Actions been the suffering Party, though successful, and in none the Aggressor; adding general Offers of Accommodation; and in the Letters written by his Order, a pompous Display of his inexhaustible Wealth, the Multitude and Bravery of his Forces, and the devoted Affection and Fidelity of all his Subjects. I refused to answer them, letting him know that they were written with too much Presumption, in the Style of Equality, and with inapplicable Professions, which were no better than none. Some of these Letters will appear in the Appendix; the rest were lost (<sup>c</sup>).”

Read, also, from Page 49, as follows :

“ The News of these concurrent Successes being conveyed to the Rajah at the same Instant of Time, alarmed him exceedingly for his own personal Safety. His Fears were excited with a more forcible Impression by the Surprise of the Advance of so great a Force, from a Quarter where he had not expected any. With his Face turned towards Chunar, and his whole Attention, and that of his People, directed to the Movements which we made on that Side, they had no Suspicion of any Design being formed behind them.—The first Intelligence which was received of Major Crabb's Party described it as consisting of the Followers of Owsan Sing, and only Three Companies of our Sepoys; the Hircarrahs who conveyed the News, possibly mistaking the advanced Guard for the whole Force, and reporting it accordingly; nor was the real Strength of the Party known, even by that which was detached to oppose it, until the Instant of the Action. This Circumstance was related at the Time, and has since been confirmed to me by an Officer named Myher, who commanded a small Body of the Rajah's Sepoys, and the Guns, in the Action. No Design could be more judiciously planned, or more happily executed. Even the Impediments and Disappointments which attended it, served but to promote the Coincidence of the final Movements of its Operations, with so well timed an Effect, that the Difference of the Time which passed between the Engagement at Lora and the Conquest of Pateeta, was little more than that which would be required by the Difference of the Distances of each from Lutteefpoor, for the News of each Success to reach Lutteefpoor at the same Instant.

"Cheit Sing instantly prepared for Flight. His Road to Bidjeygur, which was his last Refuge, lay through the Pals, which he durst not attempt. He left Lutteefpoor about Three or Four in the Afternoon, and making a Circuit over the Hills, gained the High Road at the Distance of some Miles beyond the Pals, and proceeded with a few Followers to the Neighbourhood of Bidjeygur: Some others followed and re-joined him; the rest, left without Orders, stayed but to plunder the Place, and evacuated it. The Gaung-Wallahs, or Militia, composed of the Husbandmen, who had been summoned to attend him, all fled to their own Houses. So rapid was the Report of this Event in it's Communication, and so decisive in it's Effect, that the Fort of Sutteefgur, which lies about Seven or Eight Miles to the Northward of Lutteefpoor, and the Palace of Ramnagar, were evacuated on the same Evening; and the Allegiance of the whole Country restored as completely, in the Course of a few Hours, from a State of universal Revolt to it's proper Channel, as if it had never departed from it (*)."

The Managers for the Commons informed the House, the next Extract they should read was to prove the Appointment of the Rajah Mehipnarain to be Rajah of Banaris.

Read, from Page 51 of the said Narrative, as follows:

"My first Care, after my Return to Banaris, was to determine the Succession to the Zemeedary and Rauje, vacated by the Forfeiture of Cheit Sing. The Right of the Company to the Disposal of it certainly had not suffered by the past Events. The Territory had been wholly lost to their Dominion, and wholly conquered by their Arms. Yet the Rest of the Family who formerly possessed it had not merited, by any Act of theirs, to be involved in the Punishment of a Man who had been equally their Enemy, and whom they regarded as the Usurper of their more legal Rights; nor perhaps would it have been prudent to put the Submission of the People to the Test of a new Species of Dominion. I therefore resolved, in virtue of the full Powers which I possessed from the Board for that Purpose, to bestow it on the next lineal Heir. This was Bauboo Mehipnarain. He was the Grandson of Rajah Bulwant Sing, by a Daughter married to Bauboo Doorgbijey Sing. The Widow of Bulwant Sing, named Ranny Goolaub Kooer, was still living, and in an extreme old Age. By the Hindoo Law she might claim the Inheritance; her Daughter also, the Wife of Doorgbijey Sing, might assert the like Pretension. Had it become a Matter of Contest, I had resolved to leave it to the Decision of the whole Body of the Pundits of Banaris. But this Reference was unnecessary. Doorgbijey Sing yielded up the Pretension of his Wife, and the old Ranny her own, by a Writing, sealed with her Name, and acknowledged in the Presence of a confidential Person, whom I deputed to her for that Purpose; declaring it to be her Wish and Request, that the Rauje might be conferred on her Grandson Mehipnarain. He was accordingly invested and proclaimed on the 30th of September. His Father Bauboo Doorgbijey Sing was at the same Time invested with the Office of Naib, and is in Effect the sole acting Manager. He is about Thirty-five Years of Age—his Son Nineteen (b)."

Read, also, from Page 52 of the said Narrative, as follows:

"After having gained Possession of Lutteefpoor, Major Popham lost no Time in prosecuting his March to Bidjeygur. Cheit Sing did not wait his Approach, but fled, taking with him as much Treasure as his Elephants and Camels could carry, which has been reported to me to have consisted of One Lack of Mohrs, and Fifteen or Sixteen of Silver (c), besides Jewels to an unknown Amount. His Wife, a Woman of amiable Character, his Mother Pauna, and all the other Women of his Family, and the Survivors of the Family of his Father Bulwant Sing who were connected with his, were left in the Fort of Bidjeygur. He took the Rout of Rewa, and from thence proceeded to Panna, the Capital of Boondelcund, paying and plundering as he passed. He was by the last Advices in that Country, the Rajah professing in his Letters to me a Resolution to withdraw his Protection from him, and secretly favouring him (c)."

Then the Managers for the Commons acquainted the House, they should next read an Affidavit of Major Palmer, to prove the Allegation in the First Article of the Charge, which states the Intention of the Defendants to extort a large Sum of Money, by way of Fine, from the Rajah Cheit Sing. (*)

Affidavit of Major Palmer.

" William Palmer, Major in the Service of the Honourable the East India Company in Bengal, maketh Oath and faith, That about the latter End of the Month of June last, the Honourable Warren Hastings Esquire, Governor General of Bengal, discoursing with this Deponent on the Subject of his intended Journey to Banaris and Lucknow, declared one of the principal Objects of it to be, to exact from Rajah Cheit Sing a Fine or Contribution of Fifty Lacks of Rupees, as a Punishment for Breach of Engagements with the Government of Bengal, and for Acts of Misconduct in his Zemeedary. The Governor General further declared to this Deponent, that he knew the Ability of the Rajah to contribute such a Sum to the Exigences of Government; and that he, the Governor General, was determined to convert the Faults committed by the Rajah into a public Benefit. The Governor General further declared to this Deponent in the same Conversation, That an Offer from the Rajah, but indirectly, had been made to him of Twenty Lacks of Rupees for the public Service, as a Retribution for his Failure of Engagements; but that he, the Governor General, was resolved to insist upon the first mentioned Sum of Fifty Lacks of Rupees, and if the Rajah should absolutely refuse the Demand, that he, the Governor General, would deprive him of his Zemeedary, or transfer the Sovereignty thereof to the Nabob Vizeer.

Attestation of David Anderson Esquire.

" To the Honourable Warren Hastings Esquire.

" Honourable Sir,

" In Obedience to your Commands conveyed to me through Major Palmer, I shall endeavour to repeat, as well as I can remember, the Purport of what you were pleased to inform me before your Departure from Calcutta, of your Intentions regarding Cheit Sing; but as so long an Interval has since elapsed, my Recollection, which has never been strengthened by a Communication, must necessarily be somewhat imperfect.

" After enumerating some of the Resources which you expected to find up the Country for the Relief of the Company's Exigencies, you mentioned to me the Conduct of Cheit Sing.

" You observed, that he owed his Elevation to the Company; that he was allowed to enjoy a very considerable Income, the Revenue exacted from him being much inferior to the Produce of his Districts, and that his Territories were maintained and defended by the English Army; that on those Considerations it had been reckoned equitable, that he should contribute on an Emergency to the Support of Wars carried on by that Government under which he held his Zemeedary, and to which he was indebted for its Protection. Accordingly you mentioned that a Sum had been demanded from him; that, after some Difficulties, he had agreed to pay it at a certain Period; that, trusting to his Promises, you had made an Assignment on him for the Use of Colonel Camac's Detachment; and that Colonel Camac, relying on his Punctuality, had returned a Bill for a less Sum, which had been sent to him by Mr. Middleton; but that this Confidence had nearly proved fatal to the Detachment, and actually did prove the Cause of retarding the Expedition; that Cheit Sing, in Spite of all the Representations which were made to him, delayed so long the promised Payment, that the Officers of the Detachment were reduced to the Necessity of selling their Plate; that you therefore determined to call him to an Account, and oblige him to make an Atonement for his Conduct in this Instance, and the Want of Attachment he had in general shewn to our Government, by paying a considerable Sum of Money to the Relief of the Company's Exigencies; that if he consented, you were desirous of establishing his Possession on the most permanent and eligible Footing; but, if he refused, you had in your Power to raise a large Sum for the Company, by accepting of an Offer which had been made for his District by the Vizeer. You minuted the Particulars of Cheit Sing's Conduct in an Account which you drew up in Calcutta, of the State of the different Powers of Hindostan, though I do not believe that in that Paper you expressed the Intentions you had formed: And I remember you told me that you had communicated to Mr. Wheeler your Intentions regarding Cheit Sing; and I believe (though I cannot positively recollect) you said he had concurred in them.

the 14th January, 1782.

Then the Managers for the Commons acquainted the House, they should next proceed to read several Affidavits of Natives. That the First they should produce particularly respected the Escape of the Rajah Cheit Sing, and what happened upon that Escape; and all of them went to prove the Massacre and confirm the Narrative in other Particulars.

Read, Appendix, Part III. P. 163, as follows:

“(Num. 3. E.)

“TRANSLATION of the Deposition of Jewan Ram Moonshy, in the Service of the late Lieutenant Stalker.—The Deponent sworn before Chief Justice Sir Elijah Impey, December 2nd, 1781.

“After the Arrival of Mr. Markham at Shewallah, I went in and paid my Respects to my Master; who asked me, If I knew whether Mr. Markham would come there or not? I replied, It was reported so; but that it depended on his Inclinations. Mr. Stalker then told me I might go, but afterwards ordered me to stay. I continued there, and saw Doorgbijey Sing sitting with the Rajah in the Centre Apartment, and Suddanund Buxey and others whispering to the Rajah. Shortly after, News was brought to the Three Gentlemen sitting in the adjoining Room that there were Disputes without. Mr. Stalker went without the Jauli (or First Wall), and asked the Subadar Bishun Sing, Why he had ordered the Bayonets to be fixed? The Subadar replied, That Numbers of the Rajah's armed Servants had come in, and that they paid no Regard to the Company's Orders. After which, Mr. Stalker advanced further out, and asked of the younger Mowllavy and me, Who amongst those People was the Chief? I answered, Bauboo Munnear Sing. Mr. Stalker sent for Munnear Sing, and strongly enjoined him to appease his People, and enquire why they attempted to dispute and fight with his Sepoys? Munnear Sing replied, “What Power have they, that any one of them should presume to fight? We Two, Father and Son, are desirous to go to the Rajah.” Mr. Stalker answered, “Very well; but you must stay here between your People and mine, that they may not come to Blows.” After that a Letter arrived from the Governor to the Rajah, which Mr. Stalker, having quieted and soothed the People, presented to him. The Rajah then got up, and went out of the Burradurry to the adjacent Bastion to perform his Devotions. At this Time Information was brought to Mr. Stalker, that the Rajah's People opposed and refused Admittance to another Company of Sepoys, who had brought Provisions, a Table, &c. for the Gentlemen. Mr. Stalker again went out, and calling to Suddanund Buxey, asked the Cause of this Opposition; and told him to send Directions (to the Rajah's People). Suddanund said, he would go himself. Mr. Stalker replied, “No, send One of your Servants.” While the Man was going out to silence the People, Mr. Stalker returned within the Jauli. Doorgbijey Sing was gone from thence; no one knew whither. Cheit Ram, Mr. Markham's Chubdar, informed Mr. Stalker that he had a Message to deliver to the Rajah from the Governor General. Mr. Stalker said, “Deliver it.” He the Chubdar said, at the Place where the Rajah was at his Devotions, “the Governor says your People want to quarrel and fight; it will be better if you forbid them, for every Sepoy is an European, and every European is as a (or the) Company: If a Drop of their Blood is shed, you shall be plundered and destroyed.” At this Period there was a Report of Guns at the Gate of Shewallah. The Action was commenced. At this Time Mr. Stalker and Cheit Ram went towards the Rajah. Munnear Sing and others cut down Cheit Ram, pulled Mr. Stalker back, and pushing him on one Side, began the Slaughter. The Rajah escaped through a Window by a Rope made of Turbans, got into a Boat, and went off. His People, by the same Means, drew up Swords and Shields as a Bucket is drawn up from a Well, and began to engage. I stood near the Jauli behind my Master. When my Master was killed, I fled toward the Place where the Rajah's Victuals was dressed. I continued there a short Time, and saw the Rajah's People jump from the Walls and the Trees, with their Shields and Swords, and advance. After this I assumed the Character of One of Cheit Sing's Servants, fled with his People, and came to the Presence. The Gentlemen after this went to Chunar, and I should have arrived the next Day, but I was plundered on the Road, and confined in the Fort of Pindera. Diaram took away from my House Two Tangon Horses, and placed his Seal and a Guard upon the Door. After the Flight of the Rajah, the Zemcedar of the before mentioned Fort set me at Liberty. Without a

Read next, Appendix, Part III. P. 189, as follows :

" Deposition of Ruggoobur Sing, Orderly Sepoy to Lieutenant Stalker.

" The Deponent (upon his Oath) says, He went with Lieutenant Stalker and Mr. Markham to Shewallah, where the Rajah Cheit Sing resided; and that he went with them into the Presence of the Rajah; that shortly after Two Companies of Sepoys arrived with Two Gentlemen, whose Names the Deponent does not remember, being a newly enlisted Sepoy; that those Two Officers came in and continued with the Rajah and Lieutenant Stalker; that he, the Deponent, was directed by Lieutenant Stalker to attend, with Three other orderly Sepoys, in the Apartment where the Officers were sitting with the Rajah; that the rest of the orderly Sepoys remained without the Purdahs, which were let down in the Front of the Apartment; that he is unacquainted with what passed without the Gate where the Two Companies were, or what People were there on the Part of the Rajah. The Deponent does not recollect, nor can he, he says, relate the Circumstances which passed before the Attack commenced; but in reply to a Question put to him, Whether Mr. Markham's Chubdar Cheit Ram spoke to the Rajah? he says, that said Chubdar brought a Note to Lieutenant Stalker, at the Time when the Rajah's People without were endeavouring to enter; that he delivered the Note to Lieutenant Stalker; that at this Time the Noise and Confusion at the Gate-way was very great; that the Chubdar went from Lieutenant Stalker toward Cheit Sing, who was then sitting at the Place where he performed his Devotions; that he told him to order his People to desist; that he, the Chubdar, was Cheit Ram, and that the Rajah was but Cheit Sing, and that if he did not make his People desist he would confine him. Says, he was an Ear-witness to the foregoing; that it was at this Moment the Firing was heard and the Attack began; that Lieutenant Stalker's Hircarrah had his Sword; that he called to this Deponent to give him his Sword, which he did, and stood behind Lieutenant Stalker, by his Orders, with the Scabbard in his Hand, until that Officer fell; that he was soon after cut down himself; that he was deprived of Sense, and knows nothing of what passed afterwards.

Then the Managers for the Commons acquainted the House, that they wished to point their Attention to Two other Affidavits of Natives; the One an Affidavit of Sheakh Hossain Oolla, Jemadar, Havildar and Orderly with Lieutenant Stalker, at the Time of the Action at Shewallah Ghaut, in P. 186 of the Appendix, marked (N° 5. C.) (c); the other, an Affidavit of Bisheh Sing Subadar, (marked N° 5. D.) P. 187, of the said Appendix (d), and which they meant to have produced, as being strong to the same Point as the two Affidavits last read: But as they were to the same Effect, in order to save the Time of the House, they should omit reading them; and proceed next to prove the Submission of the Rajah Cheyt Sing, by certain Letters which they filed Letters of Submission, and which Letters were written by him subsequent to his quitting Benares: The Letters hitherto read in the Course of the Evidence were all prior to that Event.

Read, Appendix, Part II. P. 106, as follows :

" N° 72. The Two following Letters were sent from Ramnagur by Teekchund to Govind Ram Pundit at Banaris, and delivered to the Governor General by Beneram Pundit, on the 5th September 1781.

" Translation of an Arzee from Rajah Cheit Sing to the Honourable Governor General.

" When I waited upon your Highness in your Pinnace, I represented to you every Thing which was proper to be represented; that my Life, my Country, and Property, belonged to your Highness; requesting that you would order whatever was your Pleasure, and I was ready to obey it with Pleasure. I besides performed all the Duties of Obedience and Humility; and represented all the Particulars, with a View to the present Time; for I well knew that, as soon as Owsan Sing should be introduced to your Highness, Mr. Markham and the Moulavies, &c. having settled this Plan, would make you conceive Displeasure against me. At that Time your Highness answered, that you had no Business with my Life or Property; that you had not given Admission to Owsan Sing or any of his People; that you had no Connection with any of my Relations. What Crime did I afterwards commit that, by the Advice of my Enemies, you should resolve to confine me with such Disgrace? However, I remained until Evening in Confinement, and behaved in no Instance otherwise than with the greatest Humility and Obedience. I addressed several Arzees, expressing my Readiness to obey your Orders, and that I was your Slave, and was ready with my Life and Property. Observe, that Cheit Ram Chubdar came to me, and reviled me with a loud Voice gave both me and my People the vilest Abuse. The People of the Sirkar first fired Balls from their Guns, and discharged their Muskets: Immediately the Tumult arose, and notwithstanding my most earnest Request for them to desist, no one would hear me. Myself, after being wounded by a Sword in the Hand of the Captain, escaped with Life from that imminent Danger, and withdrew myself. If you will examine with an Eye of Justice, and without listening to Talebearers and Informers, you will find no Crime in me; and your Mind, which is the Mirror of the World, will, I am certain, approve of it. I have before addressed Arzees to you, but have not yet been honoured with an Answer. Owsan Sing has not yet ceased from ruining the Affairs. Should now my Life and Honour be left to me, I am your Slave. Beneram Pundit will have represented my Situation to you, and will continue to do so." (*)

Then the Managers for the Commons stated, that to save Time they would pass over Two other Letters, and proceed to N° 76. Appendix, P. 109.

The same was read, and is as follows.

" N° 76. From Cheit Sing to the Governor General.

" Before this, the Arzees, which I have repeatedly addressed to your Presence, will have been perused by you, but to this Time I have not been honoured with an Answer to any one of them. I am in every Way ready in my Allegiance and Duty, and have obeyed all your Highness's Orders, and never have I been negligent in any one Point; and your Highness, from your Goodness and Justice, has always been pleased to protect and support your own Slave, and to shew him Favour. All this Time when, from the unfortunate State of the Times, the Reports of self-interested Persons have met with Reception at the Presence, I humbly represent that the Words of evil-minded, self-interested Persons be not attended to, but that your Highness, looking upon me as a Slave raised by yourself, will be favourable towards me, because I am your Slave, and am ready in my Duty and Allegiance. Although I have been guilty of no Fault, yet the Slave is by all Means criminal, and the Business of the Master is Pardon. By the Blessing of God, your Highness is the Master, and is just. Let him consider, that in all the Three Battles the Army of the Sirkar was the Aggressor. Now Matters have passed the Extremities. Should you even now bestow Life upon me, it would not be foreign from the Duty of a Master." (b)

Dated the 21st of Ramzaun.

Then the Managers for the Commons stated, that having brought the Matter to that Part of the Charge which relates to the Storming and Surrender of Bidjeygur, they should presently proceed to call Evidence upon that Head. And in the mean Time they would fill up the Evidence which was left unfinished Yesterday, owing to the Accident of not having the Records of the East India Company at Hand.

And first, With respect to the illegal Delegation to Mr. Hastings, the House would be pleased to recollect that they had produced the Minutes of the Council of the 21st of May 1781, and the Minutes of the Council of the 3d of July 1781, by which they had shewn Mr. Hastings's Motive for desiring that Delegation, the Appointment of himself (Mr. Hastings) to conduct the Business of the Supreme Council, with all the Authority of that Supreme Council, wherever he should be;—The Authority to Mr. Wheeler to conduct all the Business of the Supreme Council, with all the Authority of the Supreme Council at Calcutta, and in the Provinces of Bengal, Bahar, and Orissa; and Mr. Hastings's Credentials. That they had referred to the Stat. 13 Geo. III. c. 63. sect. 7. which attaches upon the Two Standing Orders of the Company, the One of 1702, and the other of 1736; and that the Situation of the Evidence, with respect to those Orders, was as follows: They had produced the Original Drafts of those Orders sent out to Bengal by the Court of Directors, and the Names of the Ships in which they were sent out, docketed upon the Papers: That an Objection had been taken, that there was no Proof of the Orders having arrived at Calcutta; and therefore the Managers, without waving their Right to insist upon that as sufficient Evidence, were now to prove that these Documents did arrive at Bengal, which they should do in the following Manner: First, as to the Orders of 1702, they should prove the Transmission of the Standing Orders from Bengal to Europe, in consequence of the Request of the Court of Directors: And, Secondly, They would shew the Arrival of the Standing Orders of 1736 at Calcutta. Having done that, they should next request the Attention of the House to the Clause of the Act of Parliament attaching upon these standing Orders; and, lastly, to conclude the Subject of the Delegation, they would produce a Paragraph of a Letter from the Court of Directors, in the Year 1778, to shew that those Parts of the Authority conferred by the Delegation, which regarded the Command of the Military, were particularly rendered illegal by the Orders of the Directors contained in that Letter.

Then Mr. Robert Hudson was again called, and produced Book 59, indorced as follows, "1702 to 1727, Bengal Standing Orders."

Then the Witness was asked,

Q. Is that a Letter from Bengal to the Court of Directors?

A. No.

Q. What is it?

A. The standing Orders transmitted from Bengal at the Request or Order of the Court of Directors.

Q. Were they transmitted by Letter from the Council of Bengal to the Court of Directors?

A. They were.

Q. What is the Date of that Transmission?

A. 3d February 1728-9.

Q. Was there any subsequent Transmission of the standing Orders of Bengal to the Court of Directors here that you know of?

A. There was a subsequent Transmission of the Orders in the Year 1737.

Q. Do you know of any other Transmission since the Year 1737?

A. There is another Book of the standing Orders, brought down as low as the Year 1753.

Q. Were those likewise transmitted from Bengal?

A. From Bengal.

Q. Has there been any Transmission from Bengal since the Year 1753?

A. I believe not.

The Counsel for the Defendant stated, That in the Year 1756, when Calcutta was taken, every Muniment of this Sort was, as they understood, destroyed. They wished therefore to know whether, at the Time of Mr. Hastings being appointed to the Government, there remained subsisting on Record at Calcutta any standing Orders of this Sort denoting his Duty.

The Counsel were asked, whether they meant to found upon this any Objection to the reading of these standing Orders.

The Counsel replied, they did not; that they had no particular Objection to reading the standing Orders, if taken with this Explanation—that Mr. Hastings had no Notice of them.—In other Words, that the Orders having been destroyed in 1756, and no Renewal of them sent to the Governor and Council at Calcutta, the Managers ought to prove Notice to Mr. Hastings, or they could not affect him.

The House observed, that it appeared the standing Orders had been transmitted from 1702 to 1753, at the last of which Periods it would appear, when they came to be read, what the standing Orders of the Company to the Governor and Council at Bengal were; and that the Question, whether they came to the Notice of Mr. Hastings, was a Matter for after Consideration.

Then the Managers for the Commons, in answer to the Objection taken by the Counsel for the Defendant, desired to observe, that the Seventh Section of Stat. 13 Geo. III, c. 63, by which Mr. Hastings was appointed Governor General of Bengal, is to the following Effect, "That the whole civil and military Government of the Presidency, and also the Ordering, Management, and Government, of all the territorial Acquisitions and Revenues, &c. are thereby vested in the said Governor General and Council, &c. in like Manner, to all Intents and Purposes, as the same now are, or at any Time heretofore might have been exercised by the President and Council, or Select Committee, in the said Kingdoms." That as there was no Dispute at all concerning the Production of the Book by which the Existence of those standing Orders had been proved, the Act of Parliament attaching upon them was complete and absolute Notice of them to the Defendant.

Upon which the Counsel for the Defendant were again asked, whether they did or did not mean to object to the standing Orders, that were sent to the Company antecedent to the Year 1756, being read? The Counsel replied, that they did not object to their being read, under the Observations they had before taken the Liberty of submitting to the House. Whereupon the Managers for the Commons were informed they might proceed to read those standing Orders.

Read, the following Extract from Book 59, Page 183.

mission dated

" Par. 4. Having heard Complaints of some Irregularities in some of the Factories of either Companies, we do strictly enjoin that all our Affairs be transacted in Council, and ordered and managed as the Majority in Council shall determine, and not otherwise upon any Pretence whatsoever, and to that End, that all of the Council do reside upon the Place; and though we hope you will be unanimous in the Pursuit of our common Interest, yet if on Occasion it happen that your Votes are equally divided, the same must be determined by Lot, as we by our new Charter are directed in such Case to do."

Then the Witness produced Book 57, indorsed, " Fort William Standing Orders, Collected for 12 Years, No. 6. Received 7th August 1739, per Wager."

Read, the following Extract.

" Per Ship Nottingham,
Dated 9th February 1736-7.

pany's Affairs to be transacted in Council.

" Our Orders are, that all our Affairs should be regularly transmitted * in Council, and every Member duly summoned to attend."

The Managers for the Commons observed, That the Word "transmitted" was a Mistake, and should have been "transacted."

Then the Managers for the Commons desired the Witness might be asked,

Q. Whether the Orders which had been read, are not now considered by the East India Company as the standing Orders for the Direction of their Servants in Bengal?

A. We always consider them so.

Q. Do you happen to know if they have been varied by any subsequent Orders?

A. I do not know of any.

Q. (Cross examined.) Have you made any Search to see whether there were any subsequent Orders?

A. I have not; but I have gone through the Correspondence so frequently, that if there had I must certainly have known it.

Q. Whether there were not Orders contradictory to those Orders, namely, to the Order in 1702, that all the Council should reside upon the Spot; and to the Order of 1736-7, that every Member should be duly summoned to attend?

The House observed, That if there were subsequent Orders of the Company in any Manner varying from the Orders that had been read, the proper Evidence of that would be to produce them, and then the Fact would appear; but the Witness could not give distinct Evidence of what is in Writing.

The Counsel for the Defendant said, They did not ask the Question for the Purpose of giving Evidence of the subsequent Orders, but to impeach the Memory of the Witness, by leading his Recollection to Orders which varied the former Orders, though he had said there were none.

The House observed, That nothing would be concluded by whether the Witness did, or did not remember the Whole of the Records of the East India Company; that nothing turned upon it. If there were other Orders they must be produced, and then the Fact would appear.

Then the Witness produced Book 58, intituled, " Bengal Dispatches 7th January 1774 to 15th December 1775."

" Par. 9. As we do not intend that our Governor General shall at any Time exercise Military Command beyond the Limits of the Garrison of Fort William, it is our Order, that whenever the said Governor General shall find it necessary to be absent from the Presidency, his usual and accustomed Body Guard only shall attend him, and remain under his Command during such Absence as aforesaid; and the same Rule is to be observed respecting every President and Governor at our other Settlements."

Then the Managers for the Commons stated, That there was another Chasm left in the Evidence of Yesterday respecting the Recall of Mr. Fowke, and the Appointment of Mr. Markham to be Resident at Banaris, which they should now supply, in order to shew the Intention and View of Mr. Hastings in making that Appointment, and in his subsequent Journey to Banaris.

Then the Witnesses produced Book 54, intituled, " Bengal Secret Council, from 4th January to 29th March 1781."

Read, the following Extract from a Consultation of 14th January 1781, beginning at Page 133 of the said Book.

“ Fort William, 14th January 1781.

“ At a Council; Present,
The Honourable Warren Hastings, Governor General, President; and Edward Wheler Esquire.

Lieutenant General Sir Eyre Coote, K. B. absent on Command at Fort St. George.

“ The Governor General delivers in the following Minute.

“ Governor General.—While this Government is charged with such extensive Concerns, and hath to contend with Difficulties equal perhaps to those in which even the supreme Administration of the British Empire is at this Period involved, it may at least claim as a Right what, under any other System of Government that hath ever yet existed, would be imposed on it as * indispensable Obligation, to employ and exercise the Powers which are inherent in its Constitution, and which are immediately necessary to the Support, and eventually to the Existence of those essential Interests which it holds in Charge. On this Principle I claim the Right of nominating the Agent, of my own Choice, to the Residency of Benares. It is a Representative Station, and cannot, without a Contradiction, be the Charge of a Man not preferably chosen to it, by the Members of the actual Government, and holding it by an Authority independent of theirs. Speaking for myself alone, it may be sufficient to affirm, that Mr. Francis Fowke is not my Agent; that I cannot give him my Confidence; that, while he continues at Benares, he stands as a Screen between the Raja and this Government, instead of an Instrument of Controul; and that the Raja himself, and every Chief in Hindostan, with whom we are in Connection, will regard it as the Pledge and Foundation of his Independance.

* Sic in Orig.

“ To Mr. Fowke himself I have no personal Objection: I approve his Conduct, and esteem his Character; and I believe that I might depend upon his exact and literal Obedience and Fidelity in the Execution of the Functions annexed to it. My Objection I have stated above, and it is insuperable.

“ The Person whom I have chosen to succeed him I consider as standing in the same Degree of Confidence and Estimation with Mr. Wheler as myself. I adopted him (if I may so express myself) from his Family and Patronage, and assigned him an Office of the highest Trust near my own Person, with Mr. Wheler's Approbation; and from a Foresight of the Event which has since made us the Copartners of this Government, and which suggested to me the Propriety of employing such Agents as would be agreeable to him, while they possessed the other Requisites for my own Confidence. I therefore think him, on every Consideration, the fittest to fill the Office in Question.

“ I therefore move that Mr. Francis Fowke be immediately removed from the Residency of Benaras, and that Mr. William Markham may be appointed to it in his Stead.

“ While I thus acquit myself of what I conceive to be a public Duty, it is my Desire at the same Time to indemnify Mr. Fowke from the Consequences personally attending it towards him.

“ I therefore move, that he be at the same Time invested with the Appointment of Agent for the Provision of all Boats to be employed for the Military Services of this Establishment, with an Allowance of a Commission of 15 per Cent. upon all his Disbursements in this Office; that the executive Charge thereof take Place from the Period of the Expiration of Colonel Morgan's present Contract, and that until that Time, and for Three Months following it, he be allowed to draw his present Allowance of 1000 Rupees per Month.

“ I propose this Method in preference to a Contract, because I am convinced from Experience, that the Service will be better performed by this Alteration, although it is liable to one material Objection in its natural Influence on his Expenses. This is a Defect which can only be corrected by the Probity of the Person who is entrusted with so important a Charge; and I am willing to have it understood, as a Proof of the Confidence which I repose in Mr. Fowke, that I have proposed this Appointment in Opposition to a general Principle to a Trust so constituted.

“ I move also, that Mr. John Benn be appointed Assistant to the Resident at Benaras.

“ Mr. Wheler delivers in the following Minute.

“ Mr. Wheler.—I accede to the Propriety of the Governor General's Arguments, and think them particularly applicable to the present State of this Government. I am also highly flattered by the Choice the Governor General has made of a Gentleman to fill this important Station, who was formerly under my Patronage, and who is still in my Confidence: But as Mr. Fowke has not yet signified his Willingness to accept of the Compensation proposed to him in Exchange for his present Appointment, I must decline giving my Assent to his immediate Removal.

“ The Governor General's Motion being agreed to, “ Resolved, That Mr. William Markham be accordingly appointed Resident at Benaras, and Mr. John Benn his Assistant.

“ Resolved, That Mr. Francis Fowke be invested with the Appointment of Agent for the Provision of all Boats to be employed for the Military Services of this Establishment, with an Allowance of a Commission of 15 per Cent. upon all his Disbursements in this Office, the executive Charge of which is to take Place from the Period of the Expiration of Colonel Morgan's present Contract; and that to that Time, and for Three Months following it, he be permitted to draw his present Allowance of 1000 Rupees per Month.

Then the Managers for the Commons stated, That this closed the Evidence which had been left unfinished on the preceding Day; and they should now proceed upon the remaining Part of the Article; but that before they entered upon the Evidence relative to the Capture of Bidjegur, they would prove one Circumstance in Illustration of that Part of the Charge which respected the Proceedings at Benares.

They desired the House to recollect, that it had been stated as a particular Severity to put an Hindoo under Arrest*; therefore they would now produce a Letter from Shujah ul Dowlah to Mr. Hastings, the Governor General, where that Sentiment was expressed, and which Sentiment had actually been put upon Record by Mr. Hastings himself. Introductory to which, they added, it might be proper to inform them, that in 1773 Mr. Hastings made a Journey to the Upper Provinces; that he there concerted various Schemes with the Vizeer, among the rest a Scheme for the Extirpation of the Rohillas; that Colonel Champion commanded the British Army upon that Expedition; that the Vizeer complained of the Colonel by Letter to the Board, upon the Receipt of which he was put upon his Defence; and this was the Letter.

The Commons further stated, That they produced this Extract to shew, by the best Evidence they thought the Nature of the Thing would admit, that the Disgrace of the Rajah Cheyt Sing was in the Eyes of all the Europeans, and People of Hindostan, particularly severe to him.

The Witness produced Book 60, intituled, "Fort William Country Correspondence, received from 1st January to 29th December 1774."

Read, Extract of a Letter from the Nabob Sujah ul Doulah to the Governor General, received on the 28th November 1774, as follows:

"My Friend,

"The Case is, that all the Infantry in my Service know the Custom of the Army, that if any One commits a Fault, he will be imprisoned for it, and think nothing of being put under a Guard; but there are other Hindostanies, and the Nejeeb Battalions, and others in my Service, who consider it as the highest Disgrace to be put under a Guard; and if any one attempts it, they will defend themselves against it, and rather lose their Lives than submit to such a Dishonour."

Then the Managers for the Commons stated, That they wished now to call the Attention of the House to the Letters or Orders issued by Mr. Hastings to Colonel Popham, respecting the Attack of Bidjegur and the Prize Money; previously remarking, that the First Letter they should produce would be read from a Copy, without either Address or Conclusion. They observed, it had been contended this was a Letter of a private Nature; that it had begun, "Dear Sir," and concluded in the same Manner: and Mr. Hastings having shewn he intended to make that Distinction between public Orders and private Letters, they should read it, subject to the following Observation; that no doubt the House would judge from the Letter itself, without regarding Addresses or Conclusions.

Then the Witness produced Book 17, intituled, "Bengal Public Consultations, from the 23d May to the 3d July 1782;" and the Managers for the Commons desired an Extract of a Consultation held on the 23d May 1782, beginning at Page 12, might be read.

The Counsel for the Defendant wished that the Introduction to the said Extract might be read.

Read, the following Extracts, beginning at Page 7 of the said Book.

"Fort William, 23d May 1782.

Lieutenant General Sir Eyre Coote, K. B. absent on Duty at Fort St. George.

§ ("* The Governor General delivers in the following Minute, and begs Leave to record his Correspondence with Major Popham on the Subject.

"23d May 1782.

The Governor General's Minute and Correspondence with Major Popham.

"Governor General.—I am much affected by the Letter which has been addressed by the Officers of Major Popham's late Detachment in reply to the Demand made on them by the Board in their General Orders of the 23d of February. They declare, that, upon a Reference

" to my Letters, dated the 22d of October and 3d of November 1781, they cannot but be of Opinion, that they (i. e. those Letters) clearly and incontestibly invested Major Popham with full Power to order the Distribution of the Effects and Treasure found in the Fort of Bidjey Ghur to the Command of the Conduct of the Troops, of which I myself have been an Eye Witness, and to whom every Degree of Merit has been repeatedly allowed; adding, " how sensibly must the Honourable Governor General himself be affected, were he to see the Reward which he held out to those Troops taken from them by that very Power to whom they have looked up for Encouragement!" And they express their Hope, that " the Board will be induced to permit them peaceably to enjoy what it is apparent from the whole Tenor of my Conduct I wished them to possess."

" I yet acknowledge, with a Conviction of the Obligation unchanged by the Reproach of it, the spirited and effectual Services which were performed by the Officers of Major Popham's late Detachment, and the Zeal which excited them. I receive and confirm their Attestation of the Wishes which were uniformly manifested by me, to bestow on them a Reward adequate to their Merits; and even that, though with some Difference in the Mode, which they assumed for themselves. But I deny that I ever " invested Major Popham with a full Power," or with any Power to order a Distribution of the Effects and Treasure found in the Fort, or that I had any such Intention, or that the Words which have been quoted from my Letters to prove it, are or can be taken in that Sense by any Construction, however forced.

" When I left Benares, I had Hopes given me of a very different Termination of this Affair; I therefore suppressed the Letters which had passed between me and Major Popham respecting it. These are now become necessary for my Justification, and for that Purpose I do not, without much Reluctance, lay them in their connected Order before the Board, requesting that Copies of the other Papers which have been recorded on this Subject may be added to them by the Secretary, and that the Whole may be transmitted by the next Dispatches to the Court of Directors.

" Notwithstanding the Want of Respect which has been shewn to me by the Officers of Major Popham's Detachment, I yet feel so warm a Remembrance of their Services, that I am unwilling to trust to the Equality of my own Judgment, in proposing the Step which may be proper to be taken for asserting the Rights of the Company, the Authority of Government, or the relative Claims of the Officers to a Participation of the Treasure and other Plunder acquired by the Surrender of Bidjey Ghur.

" I will confess, that I am not solicitous to compel the Officers to refund all the Money which they have assumed; it would perhaps, with all the Aid of the Law, be impossible; nor am I now very anxious for the Use of it on Loan. We have it, though not immediately under its proper Term, nor tendered, as it ought to have been, by the Officers themselves.

" The Points which I am most anxious to obtain are, the Establishment of the Right in whatever Manner, and a fair Distribution. I can scarce suppress a Degree of Resentment, even at this Distance of Time, when I reflect that many Officers to whom the Service was most indebted for the Reduction of the Province of Benares, and even this Government perhaps to its Existence, have been shared out by others who had no Part in any of the essential Actions of the Campaign, but came in just at the Close of it, to make their Fortunes by Treasures, in the Seizure of which the successful Exertions of others had enabled them to participate.

" I must particularly refer to the Case of Major Crabb, whose Exclusion dishonours the Decision which passed it; I will not enumerate others.

" I entreat the Board, for the Reasons which I have already alleged, to spare me the painful Office of proposing what may be necessary for their Conduct in this Business, presuming that they are now in Possession of all the Materials required for proceeding upon it." )

Here the Managers for the Commons observed, That as the House were now in Possession of the Manner and Cause of the Letters they were about to read being introduced upon the Consultation, it would save Time to state the Use and Purpose they intended to make of them.

Then they stated, That there were Two Charges against Mr. Hastings, relative to the Prize Money: one, that he did illegally grant that Prize Money, and the Effect it produced; the other, that he afterwards faithlessly endeavoured to take it away: That having premised this now, they should probably not find it necessary to trouble the House with any further Observations upon that Head.

Then the Clerk proceeded to read as follows:

" To Major Popham, commanding before Bidjegur.

" Benares, the 22d October 1781, 10 o'Clock P. M.

☞ [" I am this Instant favoured with yours of Yesterday. Mine to you of the same Date has before this Time acquainted you with my Resolutions and Sentiments respecting the Rannee. I think every Demand she has made to you, except that of Safety and Respect for her Person, is unreasonable. If the Reports brought to me are true, your rejecting her Offers, or any Negotiation with her, would soon obtain you Possession of the Fort upon your own Terms. I apprehend that she will contrive contrive to defraud the Captors of a considerable Part of the Booty, by being suffered to retire without Examination; but this is your Consideration, and not mine: I should be sorry that your Officers and Soldiers lost any Part of the Reward to which they are so well entitled, but I cannot make any Objection; as you must be the best Judge of the Expediency of the promised Indulgence to the Rannee. What you have engaged for I will certainly ratify; but in admitting the Rannee to hold the Pergunnah of Kurteek, or any other in the Zemindary, without being subject to the Authority of the Zemindar, or any Lands whatever, or indeed making any Conditions with her for a Provision, I will never consent to it.

I am, &c.

(Signed) Warren Hastings."

" N. B. The initial and concluding Addresses of this Letter are omitted in the only Copy of it preserved by the Governor, but he knows that the Letter was familiar and not official."

" Dear Major,

" Benares, the 3d November 1781.

" My Duan Contoo Bouboo has shewn me a Letter addressed to him from Panna, the Mother of Cheit Sing, intreating his Intercession that she may be relieved from the Hardships and Dangers of her present Situation, and offering to surrender the Fort of Bidjgur, and the Treasure and valuable Effects contained in it, provided she can be assured of Safety and Protection to her Person and Honour, and to that of her Family and Attendants; and that Contoo himself will undertake to conduct her out of the Fort to such Place of Security as she shall choose. As this Offer affords a Prospect of your obtaining Possession of the Fort, and the Wealth which it contains, without further Loss or Delay, I have judged it proper to accept it, and directed Contoo to repair to your Camp immediately with as many Doolies and Cauhrs as can be collected for the Conveyance of Panna, her Family, and such Necessaries as are indispensable to Women of their Condition.

" You will be pleased, when Contoo arrives with you, to send a Messenger of your own, accompanied with one from him, to acquaint Panna that I have sent him conformably to her Request, to receive and conduct her with Safety and Honour to whatever Place she may choose as her Residence, and that I am willing to grant her now the same Conditions to which I at first consented, provided that she delivers into your Possession, within Twenty-four Hours from the Time of receiving your Message, the Fort of Bidjgur, with the Treasure and Effects lodged therein by Cheyt Sing, or any of his Adherents, with the Reserve only as abovementioned of such Articles as you shall think necessary to her Sex and Condition, or as you shall be disposed of yourself to indulge her with. If she complies, as I expect she will, it will be your Part to secure the Fort and the Property it contains, for the Benefit of yourself and Detachment. I have only further to request, that you'll grant an Escort, if Panna should require it, to conduct her here, or wherever she may choose to retire to. But should she refuse to execute the Promise she has made, or delay it beyond the Term of Twenty-four Hours, it is my positive Injunction, that you immediately put a Stop to any further Intercourse or Negotiation with her, and on no Pretext to renew it. If she disappoints or trifles with me, after I have subjected my Duan to the Disgrace of returning ineffectually, and of course myself to Discredit, I shall consider it as a wanton Affront and Indignity which I can never forgive, nor will I grant her any Conditions whatever, but leave her exposed to those Dangers which she has chosen to risque, rather than trust to the Clemency and Generosity of our Government. I think she cannot be ignorant of these Consequences, and will not venture to incur them; and it is for this Reason I place a Dependence on her Offers, and have consented to send my Duan to her.

Yours, &c.

" (Signed) Warren Hastings."

" Dear Sir,

Camp, Bijee Ghur, 10th November 1781.

" I have the Honour to inform you, that last Night about Twelve o'Clock, the Grenadiers took Possession of the Western Gate of Bijee Ghur, after the Rannee had played with and deceived us from Ten o'Clock in the Morning, when she had agreed that it should have been given up to us.

" Permit me to request your Orders, Sir, with respect to the future Disposition of the Troops; and at the same Time, to beg Major Gardiner may have the carrying on what Works shall be judged necessary for the Repairs of the Fort of Bigee Ghur, as it is with the greatest Truth I assure you we are much indebted to his Labours and Services for the Fall of the Place.

" I have the Honour to be,

" with the greatest Respect, &c.

The Honourable
Warren Hastings Esq.

" (Signed) W<sup>m</sup> Popham."

" Dear Sir,

Camp Bijee Ghur, 12th November 1781.

" I did myself the Honour, the Day before Yesterday, to inform you of the Surrender of this Place, and the Situation of Affairs at that Time.

" The Rhannee came out of the Fort with her Family and Dependants the 10th at Night, owing to which such Attention was not paid to her as I wished; and I am exceedingly sorry to inform you you that the Licentiousness of our Followers was beyond the Bounds of Controul; for, notwithstanding all I could do, her People were plundered on the Road of most of the Things which they brought out of the Fort, by which Means one of the Articles of Surrender has been much infringed. The Distress felt upon this Occasion cannot be expressed, and can only be allayed by a firm Persuasion of the other Articles of the Treaty, which I shall make it my Business to enforce.

“ The Suspicions which the Officers had of Treachery, and the Delay made to our getting Possession, had enraged them as well as the Troops so much, that the Treaty was at first regarded as void; but this Determination was soon succeeded by Pity and Compassion for the unfortunate besieged.

“ The Women are now in Tents at a little Distance from the Camp, with a proper Safeguard; and I have sent into the Fort for those Conveniencies which are necessary to their Situation; and the Rhannee will have her Share of Fifteen per Cent. exactly paid her. She will remain here until such Time as Bearers and Carriages can be procured to convey her to Benares, where she wishes to reside, but she earnestly begs that she may not be dependant upon the old Rhannee, the new Rajah, or Oussaan Sing.)—She tells me that she has a House at Benares (that I believe in which the Nabob Saadut Ally now lives), also another at Gungapore about four Cose from the City. Both these she hopes for from your Indulgence, and, for future Support, she most humbly submits to your Generosity. Cantoo Baboo is with the Rhannee; and as she has particularly requested that Captain Scott may pitch his Tent near hers, and accompany her on her Way to Benares, I have consented, and he will move accordingly.

“ I have to request that you will give Orders for such a Number of Bearers and Coolies as can be collected, to be sent here immediately to conduct the Rhannee and her Family, &c. who are in all about Three hundred Women, besides Children. Thirty or Forty Coupalas will also be necessary; and if some Bazaar is likewise sent, it will make the Journey perfectly convenient. I shall furnish a sufficient Escort. Every Means is taking to procure Bearers here, but I fear this Country will afford but very few, on which Account I hope many will come from Benares.

“ Dhouda Buggut may justly be said to have occasioned the Rhannee's Sufferings, as he caused the Delay in the Surrender of the Fort. Bogwisdial the Buxey, on the contrary, acted with the greatest Honour; and should he survive the Fever he is now ill of, I think he will merit the Attention of Government. Chumput Roy also demands Praise for the Sufferings which his Attachment to our Government has drawn on him. He is likewise with the Rhannee.

“ I have the Honour to be, with high Respect, &c.

“ The Honourable Warren Hastings Esq.

“ To Major Popham.

Chunar, 14th November 1781.

“ Sir,

“ I have received your Letter of the 12th, and sincerely congratulate you on the easy Conquest which you have made of Bidjy Gur.

“ It gives me great Concern that the Licentiousness of any Persons under your Command should have given Cause to complain of the Infringement of the smallest Article of the Capitulation in favour of the Mother of Cheyt Sing and her Dependants. I hope you will discover the Offenders, and oblige them to make Restitution, and also punish them in the most exemplary Manner. I rely on your Humanity and Justice to make her all the Recompence in your Power, by a scrupulous Attention to enforce the Performance of the remaining Stipulations in her Favour.

“ Bearers, Coolies, and other Conveyances have been ordered for the Women and their Effects. The Mother of Cheit Sing, her Family and Attendants, may reside wherever she pleases; and she shall be put in Possession of such Houses as are her own immediate Property.

“ The Subject on which I am now to write is a very disagreeable and painful one to me, but indispensable. I have received Information which, though private, is certainly authentic, that you have already distributed One Dividend of the Treasure found in Bidjy Gur amongst the Officers and Troops on the Spot. If this be true, I am very sorry for it, as, on many Considerations, it appears to me that such Distribution is premature. I apprehend that it is a Proposition not to be disputed, that every Thing acquired by the Arms of a State belongs to the State which employed those Arms. By Charters and Acts of Parliament, the sole Right to all Conquests or Captures made by the Company's Arms were vested in the Company. It was however my Intention to have used my utmost Authority and Influence to have obtained for the Troops engaged in the Service against Cheyt Sing the whole Booty which might be found in Bidjy Gur or other Places. I regarded it as the due Reward of their Services, and Recompence of their Sufferings, but I never meant that they should seize it and scramble for it. Besides, if the actual Right was in the Army, at a Time like this, when the Exigencies of the Company are so great, surely they might have expected to have benefited by the immediate Use of it as a Loan. I had, I must own, such Confidence in your Discretion, that I did expect, if the Treasure found in the Fort should prove very considerable, you would not have proceeded to any Distribution of it until you had reported the Amount to the Board, and obtained their Sanction for appropriating it to the Troops, or at least that you would have represented it to me, as I am so near you.

“ It

" It gives me still greater Concern to learn that you have excluded from any Benefit in this valuable Capture all the Troops not immediately acting in the Siege of Bidjygar. I have received a strong Representation from the Officers of Major White's Regiment of their Claim to an equal Share with the Troops composing your Detachment; and when I consider the Services and Sufferings of that Regiment, I cannot help being of Opinion that their Title is good. You will recollect that it was the first employed, and was exposed in Two Actions, where Danger and Honour were to be expected; that it marched to our Relief at Benares, and has since been furnishing Detachments and Escorts to facilitate the Success of your Operations. Surely neither Justice nor Generosity will admit that a partial Distribution of Benefits should take place amongst Corps engaged in the same Service, and co-operating to the same Effect, because a Part of them happen to be employed at a Distance from the Place where such Benefits are immediately obtained. It will hardly be supposed by those Claimants that you could have overlooked their Pretensions, or not have expected that they would have urged them; and they will interpret so precipitate a Division of the Booty into a Design of precluding them from any Share in it. Whatever may be the Decision of the Board respecting the Treasure in Question, the Claim of the 6th Regiment is unquestionably as just as that of the actual Captors. I must therefore require of you to suspend any further Dividend or Distribution until the Orders of the Board respecting it are received, and I desire you will order and require the Officers, who have already shared, to refund the Sums which they have respectively received, and acquaint them if they do not they will be responsible to Government, and that such Sums, as well as what shall remain, are and must be subject to the final Decision of the Board.

" Let me add, as a Suggestion worth your Attention, that if you do persist to decide by your own Authority on the Claims of the Captors, you may, and I foretell that this will assuredly prove so, withdraw the Question from our immediate Government to make it a National Concern. You might have expected every partial Regard from the Board, from myself especially, who have been a personal Object of your Operations, which we could legally bestow; and whatever we had decreed on so meritorious an Occasion would have received the undoubted Approval of the Company, with whom it would have finally rested; or have fallen, with their Displeasure, if they had not approved it, on us alone.

" I am, &c.

(Signed)

Warren Hastings."

" To the Honourable Warren Hastings Esquire, Governor General, &c.

" Sir,

" Yesterday Evening I was honoured by your Letter, without Date, too late to reply to it by the Return of the Dawk.

" My most earnest Endeavours have been used in performing every Article of the Treaty of Capitulation in Favour of the Mother of Cheit Sing; and she will have the Whole of, if not more than, those Effects, &c. which were agreed to be given up. I have provided as many Bearers, Doolies, and other Conveyance, as will suffice for her Journey to Benares, which she began this Day, accompanied, at her own particular Request, by Captain Scott and Cantoo Baboo. I could have wished her to remain a Day or two longer, till more Conveniencies could have been provided; but as she was exceedingly anxious to move, I did not think it advisable to prevent her.

" It gives me the most sincere Concern to find, that a Conduct, which I flattered myself would have met with your Approbation, has unfortunately incurred your Displeasure; but I am the more sensibly hurt, as the Letters I had the Honour to receive from you, before this, gave me every Reason to suppose that you were of Opinion the Effects and Money in Bijee Ghur should immediately become the Property of the Captors, which Idea, so correspondent to my own and all the Officers Wishes, occasioned the Conduct I pursued.

" Alluding to the then proposed Capitulation, in your Letter of the 22d October, you are pleased to say, " I apprehend, that she will contrive to defraud the Captors of a considerable Part of the Booty, by being suffered to retire without Examination; but this is your Consideration, and not mine. I should be sorry that your Officers and Soldiers lost any Part of the Reward to which they are so well entitled."

" In the Letter which I was honoured with on the 3d instant, you are pleased to give me the following Order, on the Supposition that the Rhannee would surrender the Fort:—" It will be your Part to secure the Fort, and the Property it contains, for the Benefit of yourself and Detachment; and I have only further to request, that you will grant an Escort to Panna, should she require it, to conduct her here, or wherever she may chuse to retire to."

" Convinced before of the Justness of the Detachment's Claims to the Property in the Fort, your so chearful and positive Acquiescence in the Opinion made me doubly happy to share amongst the Officers and Troops the Reward of their Services; and the Order conveyed to me in the last Extract from your Letter made me do it immediately, before a Separation of the Troops should take Place, which I regarded as the best Security against Jealousies and Suspicions that might naturally arise, in case of Delay.

" Before the Fall of the Fort it was determined, agreeable to the general Sense of the Officers, that the Seniors should form a Committee for the Distribution of the Shares. Major Moses Crawford, furd, the First of the Number, accordingly was appointed to command the Party to take Possession of the Fort. The other Members of the Committee went in with him, and have held the whole Power in their Hands ever since, without my having the smallest Interference, except to demand the stipulated Rights and Share of every Thing for the Rhannee.

" It would be as well as unnecessary, for me to enter into Arguments with you, Sir, concerning the Rights of the Company, from Charters and Acts of Parliament in their Favour; but even allowing, for the present, that the Right of Plunder was vested in the Company, I apprehend that your Order to secure the Fort, and the Property in it, for the Use of myself and Detachment, was a sufficient Authority for my sharing the Capture among the Officers and Troops under my Command; but more especially as the Minutes of Council, issued in General Orders, vested you with the full Powers of the Board; and, of course, any Decision you made was regarded as a final one of the Supreme Council.

" The Officers of the Detachment regarded also your generous and impartial Determination in their Favour with Veneration and Gratitude, as it saved them the Anxiety of Suspence, and was a Mark of your Approbation of their Services; yet, at the same Time, they did not admit a Doubt of the Contents of the Fort of Bidjee Ghur being their Prize.

" With respect to the Exigencies of the Company, every Officer of the Detachment would, I dare say, be ready to administer singly to their Convenience, as their Circumstances would allow; but to give in One Sum the Whole of their Property, without its being properly divided, they did not think would be expected, as a general Bond surely cannot be esteemed sufficient Security for every Individual.

" Regarding the Exclusion of Major White's Regiment, the Committee of Distribution will undoubtedly give Reasons for their Conduct, and the Officers of that Regiment will then be able to judge how far the Exclusion has been just, which, I believe, has been regulated by Custom.

" The Plunder being shared, and become the present Property of the different Sharers, I do not think myself competent to give an Order for a Refund. The Officers and Troops will judge how far they are liable to answer to Government for having received it. The Decision of the Board will, I am certain, be received with that respectful Attention it is their Duty to pay; and I beg Leave, Sir, to offer you my sincere Thanks for your promised Influence to make it favourable.

" From the Usages of all Services I have ever heard of, and had the Honour of being employed in, I was firmly of Opinion that the Right of Plunder was vested in the Captors. The Instances of Plunder being shared in this and other Countries, without any prior Application to the Members of Government, have been many; and it would be only, Sir, intruding on your Patience to enumerate them. I will therefore only add, ever happy in the Assurance of your Esteem and Friendship, that I hope, from your Indulgence, the Claims on the Part of the Company to be withdrawn; and that from your Acquiescence and Favour we may obtain the quiet Enjoyment of what, I have every Reason to believe, you will not think unworthy the Services of myself and the Troops under my Command.

" I have the Honour to be, with every Sense of Respect,

" Sir, &c.

" Camp near Bijee Ghur, 16th Nov. 1781.

(Signed) William Popham."

" To Major Popham.

" Sir,

Chunargur, Nov. 18th, 1781.

" I have this Day received your Letter of the 16th instant. Since my private Letters have been received and quoted as Authority, I regret that they were not more guardedly written, and yet more that they were written at all. Their obvious Construction is, that I myself considered the Plunder of Bidjygar as so much the due Reward of the Officers and Soldiers whose Services had earned it, that I expressed it as decidedly theirs. Had my Letters been official, or intended for the strict Interpretation which you have given to them, I should have declared the same Sentiments in Substance, but in more warrantable Language. It is most probable that I should have signified my Opinion that the Officers and Soldiers were entitled to share between them the Whole of the Treasure and valuable Effects taken in Bidjygar; not as theirs by any positive or declared Law, or by the Right of Custom, but as the Effect of that Claim which Merit has to optional Bounty; that if the Amount had been even considerable, but not enormously great, I might have exercised the Authority with which I have been invested, to allow the immediate Distribution of it, that no Part of its Effect might be lost by Delay; but that if the Sum was so great as to become a public Object, I should certainly have hoped, that to remove the popular Envy which might attend its Appropriation to the Benefit of Individuals, it might have been tendered by the Officers themselves for the immediate Relief of the Company in the present Distresses, on Loan, for Bonds severally granted to each Sharer, not, as you supposed would be necessary, to the Whole collectively; which, as the Company's Bonds are negotiable, would have as effectually secured their Property in them, as if the Sums charged to each Bond had been actually lent in the common Mode; but, at all Events, if I had thought it proper to refer the final Decision to the Board, I should have taken upon myself the first Responsibility of the Gift, by advising it, and by becoming the Advocate of the the Army for obtaining an Act of the Board for that Purpose. I am myself, knowing the Characters of the Gentlemen actually composing that Body, perfectly assured that they would have as heartily joined with me in such a Resolution, as I was disposed to propose it.

" If you thought my Letters conveyed the Sanction which you seem to attribute to them, I am sorry that you did not avail yourself of your intimate Knowledge of my private Sentiments, however conveyed to you upon the same Subject; and I must now request that you will endeavour to make them known to those, who, from this partial Selection of them, may have acquired a Right to be possessed of the Whole, by furnishing me with Copies of the Letters which have been written by my Secretary Major Palmer, as declaratory of them; particularly One dated the 10th November, which, I believe, comprises my Opinion and Wishes in the fullest and most positive Terms.

" It has been intimated to me, that a Suspicion, that the Treasure found in Bidjgur might, if reported before its Distribution, have been wholly taken by Government for the Benefit of the Company, was the Cause and Motive for the precipitate Division of it. I own it has that Appearance; and I am sufficiently mortified by the Idea which this Construction suggests of the Opinion which you must have entertained of my Sincerity, if you countenanced such a Precaution, since the Passages in my Letters, which you have quoted as ascertaining the Right of the Army, were, under a more favourable Supposition, more likely to have operated as Encouragements to apply for a Sanction to receive it with the Assurance of Success, than to seize it before it could be disputed.

" I am sorry that I am constrained to appear in a Character so different from that in which I hoped to have shewn myself, in Opposition to an Act done for the Benefit of the Army, instead of being the Instrument of promoting their Interest; I must bear, as I can, the Mortification of my present Disappointment, and satisfy myself with the Consciousness that I have been, and the Assurance that they will find it, by the Event, their best Friend and Adviser.

" In the mean Time you have declared, that the " Plunder being shared, and become the present Property of the different Sharers, you do not think yourself competent to give an Order for " a Refund." I am compelled by the Sense of my public Duty to protest, and I hereby protest against the Distribution, not as the Act of the Officers whom you have constituted a Committee for that Purpose, but as yours, the sole and whole Authority being yours, and Responsibility unalienably vested in you. I protest against the Exclusion of the others in Benefit of their own Pretensions, and against the Power granted them for that Purpose, as repugnant to the Principles of Natural Justice, which forbid that Men shall be Judges in their own Causes, when a superior Judgment can be obtained.

" I shall prepare the Materials of this Transaction for the Information of the Board, but shall wait for your Answer, before I finally dispatch them.

" Sir,

" With the greatest Respect, &c.

" (Signed)

Warren Hastings."

" N. B. To this Letter I never received any Answer."

" To the Honourable Warren Hastings Esquire, Governor General.

" Honourable Sir,

" It is with the sincerest Regret we are informed by Major Popham, that the Distribution of the Prize Money taken at Bidjee Ghur is repugnant to your Ideas of Propriety and Justice.

" We did conceive that any Money and Effects (Warlike Stores excepted) taken consequent to a Capitulation, was the undoubted Property of those whose Lives were risked in the Acquisition.

" Consequent to your Order, any farther Participation is suspended, but we trust, from your Candour and Generosity, you will permit us to retain the Residue of what we had always understood you had regarded as our Property, and which now would have been untouched, had not your (supposed) Approval seemingly established the Rectitude of our Claim as incontestible. But, abstracted from this imaginary Admission of our Right, we were influenced to believe that no Doubt existed as to the Validity of our Pretensions, from many reiterated Precedents in Point occurring to our Reflection to confirm them.

" It is not to be imagined that Military Men are acquainted with the Niceties of Legal Distinction, the Usage of the Service can be their only Guide; and if they adhere strictly to that, and yet err, we do not apprehend that any just Imputation of Guilt can result from their Ignorance.

" Respecting a Resumption of the Sum already received, we fear it is impossible, the greatest Portion being already alienated; but we are very ready to submit what remains to your entire Disposal.

" As to the Claim of the First Battalion of Major White's Regiment (Captain Blair's) it was admitted the Moment the Case was clearly understood; but in respect to the other Battalion of that Regiment, we beg Leave to suggest the following Reasons for its Exclusion.

" In the First Place, a Return of that Corps, since the Commencement of the present Service, has never been transmitted to Major Popham; neither has Captain M'Dougall ever received any official

official Instructions from him whatever: Secondly, a Return of that Battalion has never been included in the General Returns transmitted to you, the Commander in Chief, or Military Secretary, as any Piece composing this Detachment: And, thirdly, we believe it to be strictly conformant to Military Regulations, that Officers commanding Corps do return monthly to their immediate Commanding Officers, as well as to the Commandant of the Regiment or Brigade to which such Corps are attached.

" That Captain M'Dougal has made a Return to Major White (as is customary) we do not pretend to dispute; and does it not then inevitably follow that the same Rule should have been observed in respect to Major Popham, had Captain M'Dougal ever entertained an Idea of acting under his Command?

" We write this, Sir, under the clearest Conviction of your Regard, Candour, and Impartiality, and beg you will do us the Justice to believe that

We are, with the greatest Esteem and Respect, &c.

" Chunargur, November 30, 1781.

" To Major Popham.

" Sir,

" Expecting your Arrival at this Place some Days earlier than it happened, I have delayed my Answer to the Letter which you, and the Officers of your Detachment, did me the Honour to Address to me on the 19th Instant, on the Subject of the Claims preferred to me for a Participation in the Plunder of Bidjygar, by the Officers and Troops engaged in the Service against Rajah Cheit Sing, but not present at the Siege of that Fortress.

" In the present State of the Question, I do not think my sole Authority competent to the Acceptance of the Proposition made in the Letter. My Disposition is still more averse than my Authority is ineffectual to appear in the Character of an Arbitrator, and eventually subject to that of an Opposer of the Interest of Gentlemen, whose public Services, and personal Attachment, have given them the strongest Claims to my Esteem and Support.

" It is my ardent Wish that no Altercation, or Disagreement, may ever subsist between us, and that our only Intercourse may be Justice in public, and Kindness and Cordiality in our private Relations. For these Reasons, I must decline answering the Arguments upon which the Officers have supported the Justice and Propriety of the Disposition which has been made of the Treasure and Effects. But as the Result of the Conversation which I have had with you on this Subject, promises an equitable and impartial Mode of Decision, I shall transmit the Letter to the Board, with such Observations as the Sentiments of Candour and Confidence which it contains, as well as the great Merits and Services of the Detachment, intitle the Gentlemen to expect from me.

" I am, Sir, &c.

" (Signed) Warren Hastings."

" Chunargur, 30th November 1781.

" To Major Poppleton

" Sir,

" I request that you will be pleased to represent to the Officers of your Regiment, with what Reluctance I return the Presents with which they have honoured me, and which are valued not by their intrinsic Value, considerable as they are, but as Testimonies of the Affection of a Body of Gentlemen for whom I entertain the highest and best founded Esteem and Respect.

" Nothing less than the apparent Inconsistency which my Conduct would wear in retaining Presents of such Value, after the Opinion I have delivered concerning the Property of which they compose a Part, could prevail upon me to part with the Pledges of an Attachment for which I am so solicitous. But I shall ever preserve the most grateful Remembrance of the Sentiments which those Pledges are intended to convey.

" Although I cannot accept of Presents which I consider to be a Part of Property yet undecided, I am desirous of giving the Gentlemen of the Detachment a Proof that I do not mean to decline receiving any Marks of their Regard, which I think they can with Propriety bestow, or I accept; and this Proof is afforded me, by requesting they will indulge me with the Shamscut Manuscripts which may be found in Bidjygur, where, I am informed, Rajah Cheyt Sing had made a curious and valuable Collection.

" Sir,

" In Compliance to the Orders of the Honourable Board of the 18th of February last, respecting the Plunder taken in the Fortrefs of Bejyghur, I have the Honour to acquaint, for the Board's Information, that I am, at all Times, willing to abide by their Decision; but having incurred Debts to a considerable Amount from the Service of Eleven Years in a Subaltern Line, I, on receiving my Quota of the Prize Money, remitted it to the Liquidation of those Debts, as being present at the Capture of several more important Fortresses, the Prize Money was, without Hesitation, immediately divided among the Captors.

" 15th May 1782.

I have the Honour to subscribe myself, &c.

" To J. P. Auriol Esquire, Secretary to the Honourable the Governor General and Council.

" Sir,

" I should no Doubt have done myself the Honour of addressing you respecting the Orders of the Honourable Board, under Date the 18th February, regarding the Prize Money divided amongst the Troops employed at the Siege of Bidjeeghur, had I not been upon Leave of Absence these last Two Months, during which Time I received no official Account of these Orders. This, Sir, I hope will sufficiently justify my Conduct in not earlier writing to you on the Subject. I have to request, you will be pleased to inform the Honourable Board, so far as my Abilities will admit, it shall be my constant Duty to shew them how ready I shall be to act with Zeal and Attention to their Commands. Long before any Idea was entertained that the Division of the Prize Money would not meet with the Approbation of the Honourable the Governor General and Council, I had appropriated a considerable Share of it to the Payment of my Debts which I had long owed. The Remainder has been reduced to a very small Sum by the unavoidable Accession of Expence which I have incurred in replacing the most necessary Articles thereby, to the whole Amount of my Property which I had lost in the Retreat from Mammagur. These Circumstances, I doubt not, will convince the Honourable the Governor General and Council of my Inability to repay the whole Sum; however, what little remains, I shall with Pleasure submit to their Disposal.

" I have the Honour to be, &c.

" To J. P. Auriol Esq.

" Sir,

" I have received your Letter of the 2d instant, desiring to know if I am willing to submit my Right in the Share of the Booty found in Bijygur, which I have received, to the Determination of the Honourable Governor General and Council; to which I answer, that I am, and ever shall be, willing willing to abide by their Determination as far as lies in my Power; but that prior Misfortunes, aggravated by a severe Fit of Illness, which I got at the Siege of that Fort, involved me so much in Debt that a Second Bidjygar Prize would scarcely extricate me. You know, Sir, that in the Loss of the Staff, and all the Property that every Individual had on Board was involved. It is plain, that to be a Passenger, and going to Madras to join my Corps, did not leave much behind me, and that, of Course I must have been one of those that suffered the most. I lost all I had in the World, and tho' this was not much, yet the richest of my fellow Sufferers, in a comparative Sense, could have lost no more. Prior to this Event, I was out of Debt, and easy in my Circumstances, but as a Change of Causes necessarily occasions a Change of Events, the Catastrophe of the Staff reduced me to the Necessity of having Recourse to Friends, and borrowing Money; the Willingness with which they served me, heightened the Obligations on my Part, and I sighed after the happy Moment when I could pay them with Gratitude; this happy Moment, I thought, came at last; but after summing up all my Debts, I found my Prize Money insufficient to the Task; however, I made a proportionable Dividend of my Cash to all my Benefactors; and the Goodness of my Intentions supplied my want of Abilities for the Balance.

I am, Sir, &c.
(Signed) M. Falvey."

" On the Service.

" To J. P. Auriol Esquire, Secretary to the Honourable the Governor General and Supreme Council.

" Sir,

" My having left Burrampore to join my Corps at this Station, has been the Cause of my not former answering your Letter of the 2d instant, which I have just received.

" With respect to my not having delivered in my Sentiments upon the Requisition of the Honourable the Governor General and Supreme Council, regarding the Booty found in Bidjyghur, I request Permission to inform the Honourable Board through you, that, with a Confidence of the Propriety of obeying their Orders, and a thorough Reliance upon the Equity and Generosity with which the Honourable Board would determine; nevertheless, being a very young Officer, my Anxiety to affect the Character of a Soldier, not only by a strict Obedience to the Orders of my Superiors, but by an Adherence to my Duty, in supporting whatever Claims I may be justly entitled to, urged me to look to the Conduct of my senior Officers, by whose Experience I wished to be guided. Being now called upon to answer as an Individual, I candidly confess my Opinion, that no Man of Honour can feel the least Compunction in submitting his Right to the Determination of that Honourable Board, whose Justice and Equity forms the Basis of our Government.

* Sic in Orig.

" A Detail of private Concerns may be looked upon as Intrusion; yet give me Leave to represent to my Honourable Masters, that being on my Way to join the Corps I was then attached to, I arrived at Banaris just at the Commencement of the Disturbances, and was immediately desired to join the Troops then with the Honourable the Governor General: That having no Land Carriage for my Effects upon the March to Chunargur, I was forced to leave all that I was possessed of in my Boat, which I * every Thing in it destroyed. I was then of Necessity obliged to run greatly in Debt, to equip myself for the Campaign. This Loss, together with paying my former Debts, and being rather extravagant, when I found it for the First Time in my Power, leaves so small a Part of the Money I received, as my Share of the Booty, in my Possession, that it could not afford the smallest Assistance to the Honourable Company in their present Situation.

" These Circumstances, the Generosity of the Honourable Board, and their Promise of liberally considering the Honourable Governor General's Letters to Major Popham, induces me to hope that the Decision of the Honourable Board will be in my Favour, as it is evident, from the above State of my Affairs, that the contrary must prove fatal to me.

" Peter Auriol Esquire, Secretary to the Honourable the Supreme Council.

" Sir,

" I take the earliest Opportunity to acknowledge the Receipt of your Letter, wherein you complain of my not having given an Answer yet to the Requisition of the Honourable the Governor General and Council, in their Minute of the 18th February last, respecting the Booty found in Bidjygar, also of your being directed to call upon me, to know if I am willing to submit my Right in the Share I have received to their Determination.

" I now acquaint you, for the Information of the Honourable the Supreme Council, that I have, in Obedience to their Requisition of the 18th February last, given my Answer in Writing, dated 26th last Month. Whether it hath miscarried in the Dawk, or had met with an Accident through my Servant, after I had sent it there, I know not.

" The Purport of my Answer, both there and now is, that the Share of Prize I got at Bidjy-gur was given to me as my legal Right, and that by the express Authority of Major Popham; therefore I do not mean to relinquish any Part of it, nor is it in all my * Power, though I should even be inclined at this late Time; my having but a scanty Mite remaining, after discharging all the occasional Debts which I incurred previous to my receiving it; and the hasty Extravagance that such a Thing generally leads to † Officer of my volatile Reason upon his coming to it in that Chance Way. * Sic in Orig.

" Please, Sir, to assure the Honourable the Governor General and Council, that I retain the highest Sense of Respect and Esteem for them; and I hope to be henceforth able, through a proper Attention, to shew the great Duty and Obedience I, as an Officer in the Honourable Company's Service, owe to their certain Wills and Pleasure. † Sic in Orig.

" Sir,

" I have received your Letter in the Name of the Honourable Board, and in Answer I must beg Leave to inform you, that it is out of my Power to lay the Dividend of the Prize Money I received at Bidjygur to ‡ the Determination of the Honourable Board; the greatest Part of it was required to discharge the Debts I had unavoidably contracted. Had I been acquainted before the 31st of March, that the Committee had no Intentions of sending an Answer in the Name of the Whole of Major Popham's Detachment, I would have sent in a separate one before. ‡ Sic in Orig.

" Agreed that a Committee, consisting of all the Field Officers at the Presidency, whether on Duty or otherwise, who have no Interest in the Booty taken at Beejygur, nor Pretensions thereto, be appointed to consider the Claims of those Officers to share in the said Booty, who, in consequence of their Exclusion by the Committee of Officers in the Division made by them on the Spot, have applied to the Board to be admitted;—that all the Papers concerning this Business in the Possession of the Board be laid before the Committee now appointed, in order to guide their Consideration; and that they be desired to report their Opinion, either establishing or rejecting the Pretensions of such Officers whose Cases may be submitted to them by the Board.

" And in order to establish the Right of the Company to the Property found in Beejygur upon the Surrender of that Place:

" It is resolved, that a Suit be commenced against Major Arthur Balfour, whose Name is first signed to the joint Letter, recorded in Consultation 25th April, from several of the Officers concerned in the Receipt of the said Booty, refusing to submit their Rights to the Determination of the Board."

Then the Managers for the Commons acquainted the House they would next proceed to lay before them Extracts of Two separate Letters, from Mr. Hastings, and from the Board in general, to Colonel Champion in 1774, to prove that Part of the Article which charges Mr. Hastings with having made a Demand of the Prize Money contrary to his Knowledge of what was right, and contrary to his own former Declaration *.

“ Extract of a Letter from the Honourable the Governor to Colonel Champion, dated May 28th 1774.

“ I have received a Letter from the Vizier, complaining of the Claim you made to search for Treasure in Pelibeet.

“ I have already expressed my Sentiments upon the Subject of Prize Money to the Army ; the only Instance wherein our Troops, in the present Service, could have any Pretensions to it by the Customs of War, would be in the actual Assault of a Place by Storm ; in every other Case it is clear, that the Capture becomes the sole Property of the Power carrying on the War. In the Instance of Pelibeet, which made no sort of Defence whatever, but fell with the whole Rohillah Country into the Hands of the Nabob, in Consequence of the Victory, we had no more Right to search or interfere at all in the Riches it contained, than we had to ransack every defenceless Village or House in the open Country for Plunder.

“ It is true, that our General obtained that Victory, and our Troops bore the Brunt of the Action ; but such was the Tenure of our Engagement with the Vizier, in Consideration of which he stipulated to pay a certain Sum to the Company, and to bear the whole Expence of the Service. His own Argument is unanswerable on this Subject ; if we deprive him of the Fruits of his Conquest, we infringe the Agreement upon which the Expedition was set on foot ; and he has a Right on his Side, to refuse the Payment stipulated to us, because he depended on the Fruits of his Conquest to enable him to make that Payment. I must here remark, that the Particulars of this Transaction, as mentioned by the Vizier, bear a very different Appearance from your Account of it ; and that when I approved of the Conduct you intended to have pursued, it respected only your Intention of delivering up whatever might be taken to the Vizier, and waiting for the Board's Determination.

“ With Respect to Pelibeet, however, and to every Capture in the present Service, except perhaps, in the Case of Plunder taken in an actual Assault, the Right is clearly the Nabob's, and will admit of no Disputation. This is my positive Decision on the Subject, which must be regarded by you as an Instruction for your Conduct, until you receive the Sentiments of the Select Committee, in case you should judge it necessary to apply to them on this Subject.

“ Read the 9th Paragraph of the Company's Orders in their general Letter of the 24th of December 1765, which are as follows :

“ Extract of a General Letter from the Court of Directors, dated 24th December 1765.

Company's Orders.

“ Par. 9th. To prevent this dishonourable Practice of stipulating for Services that are but the Duty of a Soldier's Profession, we positively forbid all future Stipulations by Treaty or otherwise, with any of the Country Powers, for any Donation or Gratification for Services to be performed.

Reply to Colonel Champion.

“ Agreed that a Copy of these Orders be transmitted with the following Letter to Colonel Champion.

“ To Colonel Alexander Champion, Commander in Chief of the Forces under the Presidency.

“ Sir,

“ The Letter which you addressed us from Biffonly, of the 16th Ult<sup>o</sup>, was duly received.

“ It gives us great Concern to find a Claim urged by the Army and supported by you with no inconsiderable Degree of Warmth, which we deem equally improper, and at this Time ill founded. We cannot admit of any Right in the Troops to a Share of the Treasures which the Vizier may acquire in the Rohilla Country. He is the Principal in the War, and to him every Acquisition of Right belongs, Treasure and Effects as well as Territory. We know that by the Usage of War, the Plunder that falls immediately under the Soldiers Hand, in the Storming of any City or Camp, is left with them, but we believe that in no Country or State there is a Right acknowledged in the Army to any further Share of the Fruits of Conquest. There are indeed Instances where the

Sovereign

Sovereign, in particular Services, grants a Share of the general Plunder to the Troops, and previously settles the Mode of dividing it; but in this Case the Vizir made no such Grant, nor did we stipulate for any such from him.

"We observe, Sir, that after enumerating the immense Spoils which the Vizir is said to have gathered, you testify your Belief that we did not foresee those Circumstances; and if, you are persuaded, we should have made further Conditions for the Company and the Army, our Treaty with him. To this we reply, that we certainly did not foresee what we cannot yet even give Credit to upon the Strength of Reports, although we find they have been sufficient for procuring the implicit Belief of the Army. An Instance which we think almost demonstrative of the Exaggeration of these Reports, is that respecting Fiezulla Khan. We cannot conceive that this Nabob, from a Country yielding only a yearly Revenue from 6 to 8 Lacks, which has besides been the Seat of War, or in the close Neighbourhood of it, for two Years past, should be able to amass a Treasure of 75 Lacks in ready Money.

"But still were these Acquisitions to prove real, and were we to have foreseen them, we do not know that we could have exacted better Terms for the Company. At any Rate, Reflections of this Kind are of no Use. Arguments introduced in Opposition to Measures already decided, can only be considered as Accusations, and we doubt not in this Instance to justify ourselves fully to our Employers.

✂ ["It is however certain, that in no Event either would we, or could we, have made any Stipulation for the Army. The bad Effects of a similar Measure were but too plainly felt in a former Period; and our Honourable Masters did not fail, on that Occasion, to reprobate with their Censure, in the most severe Terms, a Practice which they regarded as the Source of infinite Evils, and which, if established, would in their Judgment necessarily bring Corruption and Ruin on their Army.

"This being their Opinion on the general Practice, they doubtless must have stronger Objections to a partial Distribution among the Troops immediately employed, which could not fail of exciting Jealousy in the others, and carry the Appearance of Injustice to them.

"Further, Sir, for your more particular Information on a Subject, concerning which it appears you have so widely misunderstood both our Motives and Sentiments, we think proper to communicate to you, as a Member of the Administration, an Extract of the Paragraph of the General Letter of 24th December 1765, in which you will find (what it would seem you did not suspect) a positive Prohibition from the Court of Directors against all such Stipulations for the future.

"This Plan, independent of Argument, must appear conclusive on the Point. You will therefore take the proper Method to convey a positive and firm Declaration to the Troops, that they are not to expect any Share of the Riches acquired by the Vizir in this Conquest. Indeed, the Consequences which you signify to us are to be apprehended from our refusing this Gratification are sufficiently alarming; but, at the same Time, were there no other Reason, the very Appearance of so dangerous a Spirit in the Troops would determine us to oppose it in the Beginning; and we rely on your Conduct and Firmness, and that Subordination and strict Discipline, which Experience has taught us it has been always your Pride to maintain, for enforcing, with the Support of your Second in Command and the other Field Officers, these Orders, and procuring a complete Acquiescence in them from all the Officers and Soldiers of the Army. Indeed, we are persuaded that the general Disposition is to Obedience, however a few unruly Spirits or unthinking Men may have expressed different Sentiments.

"We are sorry to find you imagine the Vizir does not entertain a proper Sense of the Service of the Army in this Campaign. Although he may not have testified it directly to them, we can assure you, that he has not been wanting in his Letters to the President in Expressions of the warmest Sort, both as to their Behaviour and the Services which they have rendered him. It is not in the Manners of the Eastern Princes to signify directly to the Troops their Satisfaction in them; and very probably the Rumours which prevailed of the Treasures which he had acquired, prevented the Vizir from expressing his Sense of it in private Conversation, lest he should raise Expectations which it was not in his Power to gratify.

"We conclude with recommending, in the warmest Manner, that you exert yourself in bringing the Troops to a proper Disposition on the Subject in Question; that you discourage in future those occasional Reports of Riches and Treasure found by the Vizir, which are generally founded on idle Rumour, and the Cupidity or Self Interest of Individuals, and which can only tend to mislead the Soldier into Hopes which can never be realized, and instil Notions into him very incompatible with his Duty and Profession.

We are with Esteem, &c."]

"Fort William, 3d June 1774.

Then the Managers for the Commons acquainted the House, That the Subject of the Prize Money was finished for the present. That the next Allegation in the Article * which respects the Nomination and Appointment of the Rajah Mehipnarain had been proved by a Part of the Narrative before read to the House (+), and that therefore they should proceed to the next Allegation, namely, the Defendant's Exaction of a much larger annual Sum of Money than had ever before been paid, and larger than the Province of Benares could afford, viz. 40,00,000 Rupees per Annum as a Tribute.

The Managers for the Commons further stated, That the Letter which proved this Allegation would likewise prove several other Matters; and therefore, to save Time, they showed those Parts of the Letter to be read altogether, stating first shortly the different Allegations of the Articles which the Letter went to prove; namely, First, the Advancement of the Tribute to 40,00,000 Rupees per Annum: Secondly, That Mr. Hastings himself thought that Tribute too high: Thirdly, To shew the Grants and Pensions out of the Property of the Inhabitants of Benares: Fourthly, That certain Duties were laid upon Goods by his Authority without the Interference of the Council; and, lastly, To shew the Amount of the Revenues of Benares, as stated by Mr. Hastings himself; to which Statement they wished particularly to call the Attention of the House, in order that the House might better understand the Parole Evidence that would be given to that Point.

Read, from the Narrative of the Insurrection which happened in the Zemeedary of Benaris, (before delivered in), the following Extracts, beginning at the Appendix, Part I. Page 28. (*)

"Letter to the Governor General and Council, dated the 21st of November 1781, respecting the Settlement of the Zemeedary of Banaris, &c. (Signed) Warren Hastings.

"To Edward Wheler and John M<sup>r</sup>Pherson, Esquires, Members of the Council of Fort William.

"Gentlemen,

"In a short Letter dated the 5th of this Month, I informed you that I had on that Day concluded the Settlement of this Zemeedary, for the fixt and perpetual yearly Jummah of Forty Lacks of Rupees, with a Deduction of Rupees 6,66,666: 10: 10, being the Amount of Two Months Collections, estimated in equal Divisions for the current Year. I have now the Honour to send you the following Papers which comprehend all the Accounts and Deeds appertaining to this Transaction.

"Although I am convinced that with proper Management the Zemeedary might yield an Amount considerably exceeding that which I have taken as the Estimate of its Value, yet I must express my Apprehension, that unless the Naib can find Means to avail himself of better official Assistance than he at present possesses, his real Profits will fall below their allowed Amount; and on that Account I have encouraged him to hope that if he shall prove himself diligent in his Office, and punctual in the Discharge of his Kists to the Company, he may hereafter obtain, from the Indulgence of the Board, some Remission from the stipulated Jummah, whenever the actual Demands of the Company shall be lessened, and the State of their Treasury will admit of it; and this I shall recommend as an Act of Generosity becoming their former Relation to this Province, and equally warranted by the Principles of good Policy; for there are certain Lines beyond which the Exaction of a public Revenue, will not only defeat its own Purpose, but operate as effectually to a Reduction as an intentional Act of Bounty could do. But it is not my Wish to engage the present Attention of the Board in a Discussion upon this Subject; my Desire being only to premise what I may hereafter find necessary to introduce to their further Consideration, so that any future Proposition may not appear to arise wholly from the instant Occasion of it.

"I now proceed to the Explanation of the Particulars of the Settlement, as contained in the Account N<sup>o</sup> 3. H. The first Deduction made from the gross estimated Jummah of Rupees 53,06,002: 12 is the Sum of Rupees 61,496 granted in Jagheers and other Alienations. The first is a Jagheer granted to Beneram Pundit, of the yearly Amount of Rupees 25,000. I have already acquainted the Board with the faithful Services of this Man and his Family during the late Troubles; which I can take upon me to assure the Board, whatever was our Opinion of them at the Time, and how repugnant it may be to our national Character to regard any Situation of Affairs with the Eye of Despondency, were considered universally by all but ourselves, equally by Friend and by Foe, as utterly desperate. To the Merits of Beneram Pundit and his Brother, on this Occasion, I must add a long Series of Attachment and effectual Service, from the Year 1773 to the present Time." (*)

Here the Managers for the Commons acquainted the House, that the following Extract, about to be read, was to shew the Jagheers upon the Province of Benaris.

P. 31. "The next Article will require little Explanation and no Apology. Bundoo Khan, whose Name is affixed to a Jagheer of 2000 Rupees annual Rent, is an Inhabitant of the Town of Chunar. He attended Captain Blair in the unfortunate Attempt on Ramnagar, and in the Battle fought at Pateeta; and was of much Service to that Officer on both Occasions, by his Knowledge of the Ground, and by a natural good Understanding, which enabled him to apply that Knowledge to the Incidents before him. This Man suggested the Expedition which was afterwards formed, to take Possession of the Passes lying behind Luttee, or by an unknown and secret Route, and was himself the Guide of the Detachment. Although his Services, and that which he offered upon this Occasion, were gratuitous, yet as the Success of the Enterprize appeared to me, from his Description of it, likely to prove the Crisis of the War, I thought it advisable to secure his Fidelity, and animate his Exertions by such Incitements as were likely to operate with the greatest Power on a Man of his Rank and Situation in Life. I promised him a Jagheer in any Part of the Company's Dominions, of which he should make Choice, to the Amount of One thousand Rupees clear yearly Rent, if the Enterprize succeeded. The Event proved the Justice of his Advice, and the Truth of his Representations, and his Conduct in the Course of it obtained the most favourable Testimony of Major Crabb, the Officer who commanded the Party. On his Return to Chunar, I instantly granted him a Perwannah for the Village of Jalaulpoor, of which I had allowed him to make Choice, situated in the Pergunnah of Pateeta. He himself told me, that it yielded a Revenue exceeding 1500 Rupees, and to prevent Disputes if it were more, I have inserted it at the round Sum of Two thousand.

Page 32. "Jaggernaut Sing, late Commandant in the 3d Regiment of Sepoys, having been strongly recommended to me by Colonels Muir, Auchmuty, and other Officers of Rank, whose Recommendation at this Time had particular Weight with me, for a Provision in his declining Years, after having passed Thirty of his Life in faithful and meritorious Service, I procured for him a Jagheer, in the Zemedyary, to the yearly Value of 1200 Rupees. I am persuaded the Board will admit the Expediency as well as the Justice and Humanity of making a more comfortable Provision than our ordinary invalid Establishment allows for such native Soldiers as have merited the particular Attention of their Superiours; and I flatter myself that the present Instance, as well as the Principle on which it is founded, will meet with their Approval." (*)

Then the Managers for the Commons informed the House, That what was next about to be read, was the Account of the final Settlement with the Rajah Mehipnarain; and to render it intelligible they would state the Nature of it.—That it was an Account delivered in by Mr. Hastings, annexed to the Narrative and to the Appendix, No. 3. A. That he takes the total Amount of the Revenues of Benares at 53,06,002 : 12 Rupees. That he makes Deductions for Jagheers, amounting to 61,496 Rupees, leaving a net Balance of 52,44,506 : 12 Rupees. That he then deducts the Charges of the Collection in the Aumaunee Mehals, &c. amounting to 1,43,717 : 15 Rupees, which left a Balance of 51,00,788 : 13 Rupees. That he next deducts for Kheiragur, of which the Maulgoozary is appropriated to the Sircar of the Nabob Vizier, to the annual Amount of 1,98,046 : 14 Rupees, leaving a Balance of 49,02,741 : 15 Rupees. The next Deduction is for the Provision for the Rajah's Family, stating it to be for different Purposes, in several different Pergunnahs: One Sum of 1,58,341 Rupees, another 60,000 Rupees, another of 54,000 Rupees, and another of 6,30,400 : 15 Rupees, for the Rajah and the Expence of his Family; which last mentioned Sum of 6,30,400 : 15 Rupees, the Managers for the Commons desired the House to observe was the Sum to which their Attention was meant to be particularly directed. That these Three make together 9,02,741 : 15 Rupees, which being deducted from the last Remainder, left a net Balance of Forty Lacks; namely the very Sum of the Tribute Mr. Hastings thought fit to exact of the Province of Benares, after the Expulsion of the Rajah Cheit Sing.

Then the Managers for the Commons desired Leave to state to the House, That an Omission had been made in the Evidence relative to the Proceedings at Bidjegur, which they thought extremely material to be supplied.

Read accordingly, from Appendix, Part II, Page 138, as follows :

" N<sup>o</sup> 118. Translation from the Persian of a Proclamation issued by the Governor General the 25th of September 1781.

" Be it known to the Zemeedars, Aumils, Reyots, and all the Inhabitants of the Zemeedary of Banaris, &c. That whereas Rajah Cheit Sing, by many Acts of Rebellion and Perfidy, and the Murder of a Number of English Officers, Sepoys, and other Dependants of the Government of the Company, who were unarmed, has totally forfeited his Right to the Zemeedary of Banaris, &c. and become amenable to the Justice of the Company ; it is therefore made known and proclaimed that Cheit Sing and his Brother Soojaun Sing, and their Dependants, have, from this Period, no further Right or Interest in the Zemeedary of the said Province ; and all the Zemeedars and Reyots are required to withhold their Obedience and Submission from him, otherwise they will be punished accordingly. And whereas by the Sedition of Cheit Sing the Country has fallen into Confusion and Alarms, Assurances of Protection are hereby given to the Zemeedars and other Inhabitants of this Country, and they are hereby invited to repair to their former Places of Residence, and resume their usual Occupations in perfect Security. And lest any should entertain Apprehensions on Account of their Misdemeanors, it is declared that the past Offences of all the Inhabitants of this Country, who shall conform to this Order, are pardoned. And further, every Zemeedar and Aumil who shall, within the Space of One Month, repair to the Presence of the Governor General, or to Major William Popham, Commander of the Forces in the Field, and make their Submission, shall be pardoned ; and such as, on Account of the Distance of the Road, or any other valid Reason, cannot attend in Person, must send their Vakeels for this Purpose with proper Credentials. But be it known that the Persons of Cheit Sing and his Brother Soojaun Sing are excepted from this Pardon ; and the Town of Gopee Gunge, the Inhabitants of which have been particularly active in this Rebellion, and have committed many Acts of Sedition, and even Bloodshed on many of the Dependants of this Government, shall be destroyed, and the Inhabitants thereof punished, on a due Enquiry into their Crimes. Such Persons as, availing themselves of these Troubles, shall have plundered and oppressed the Inhabitants of the City of Banaris, and such as shall have committed Murder on peaceable Passengers, shall be rendered accountable for the same in the due Course of Justice (*).

Which being read, the Managers for the Commons acquainted the House, they should return to the Part they had interrupted, and next produce Evidence of the oppressive Duties which were laid by the Defendant upon Goods and Merchandize in the Province of Benares.*

Then the Witness produced Book 45, intituled, "Bengal Council, from the 8th April to the 20th May 1782."

Read, the following Extract of a Consultation of the 8th April 1782, beginning Page 103 of the said Book.

"Fort William, 8th April 1782.

Secret Dep. Monday.

"At a Council; Present,

The Honourable Warren Hastings, Esq. Governor General, President,

Edward Wheler, and } Esquires.
John M<sup>r</sup>Pherson,

Lieutenant General Sir Eyre Coote, K. B. absent on Service at Fort St. George.

☞ ["Read, the following Letters from the Resident at Benares.

"Honourable Sir and Sirs,

"I do myself the Honour of transmitting you, according to the Orders of the Honourable Governor General when at Benares, Account Particulars of the Customs as designed to be levied, and of the Duty as levied by Rajah Cheit Sing. Resident at Benares, 20th and 29th March.

"You will perceive that, to preserve Uniformity and to point out whatever Difference there may be between the present Duty and that proposed to be levied in a more striking Manner, I have rated the Three last Columns on a Tungay, or Six Maunds, the Load which a Bullock is supposed to carry; as the former Method of collecting the Duty was on the Weight, not on the Value of the Goods.

"I shall trust to the Candour of your Honourable Board for my Excuse in pointing out some Articles on which a Duty of 5 per Cent. will be too heavy, and by which the Collection would be required, viz. Mace, Cloves, Nutmegs, Cinnamon, and Silk.

"The People who principally trade in these Articles are the Maratta Merchants, and a religious Sect called Ahteets, who generally land their Goods at Mirzapore, and from thence carry them by Land and Bullocks into the Decan, or to Delhi; and they will find it more profitable to unload their Boats at Patna, and carry their Goods through Ramgur, than to pay so heavy a Custom as 5 per Cent. will amount to in the Road from Patna to Mirzapore.

"I know for certain, that on the Rumour being spread, in December last, that 5 per Cent. was to be levied on every Article, by the Directions of the Honourable the Governor General, that the principal Houses in the Decan immediately ordered their Gomastahs to stop all their Boats at Patna, and to send their Goods by the Rout above mentioned, if the Duty of 5 per Cent. was continued.

"I beg leave to lay before your Honourable Board another Proposition; Whether it will not be judicious to reduce the 5 per Cent. to 2½ on our own staple Commodities, viz. Broad Cloth, Europe Iron, Steel, and Copper.

"I have the Honour to be, &c.

"Benares, the 20th March 1782.

(Signed) W<sup>m</sup> Markham.

"P. S. I have not been able to bring some certain Articles within the accompanying Statement, on Account of their indefinite Value and Weight. You will observe that Cloths more particularly are in the above-Predicament.

(Signed) W. Markham." ☞

"Resolved, That the Duties of 2½ per Cent collected by the Aumeen be abolished.

"Agreed that the following Letter be written to Mr. Markham:

"Sir,

"We have received your Letter of the 20th ultimo, with the Account of Duties designed to be levied by the Governor General's late new Arrangement, and of those exacted by the late Raja. To the Resident at Benares.

"As we agree with you in Opinion, that the Duty of 5 per Cent. being a great Increase upon the former Rates on some Articles would be too heavy, we direct that it be reduced to 2½ per Cent. upon the following Goods, viz.

Saffron,
Cinnamon,
Mace,
Cloves,

(*) Vide supra, p. 222.

Nutmegs,
Cochineal,
Raw Silk,
Broad Cloth,
Europe Iron,
Steel,
Copper.

" Fort William, the 8th April 1782.

"We are, &c."

Then the Managers for the Commons acquainted the House, That the Evidence they were about to produce, related not only to the Points stated in the Letter read from the Appendix, No. 3. A, supra, Page 294, but likewise to some other Points, which, for the Sake of Perspicuity, they would shortly state; whereupon they desired the House to recollect there was a Charge in the First Article against Mr. Hastings of his having carried on a clandestine Correspondence with Mr. Markham *.

* Vide printed Articles, P. 7, Par. 4.

There were other Charges in the same Article as to the Removal of Doorgbijey Sing from his Office, the confining of him in Prison, and the Exactions made upon him by the Defendant †. Governor General's Minute.

" Governor General.—I desire the Secretary to lay the accompanying Letters from Mr. Markham before the Board, and request that Orders may be immediately sent to him concerning the Subjects contained in them. It may be necessary to inform the Board, that on repeated Information from Mr. Markham, which indeed was confirmed to me beyond a Doubt by other Channels, and by private Assurances which I could trust, that the Affairs of that Province were likely to fall into the greatest Confusion, from the Misconduct of Baboo Doorkbijey Sing, whom I had appointed the Naib: Fearing the dangerous Consequences of a Delay, and being at too great a Distance to consult the Members of the Board, who I knew could repose that Confidence in my local Knowledge as to admit of this occasional Exercise of my own separate Authority, I wrote to Mr. Markham the Letter to which he alludes, dated 29th September last, of which I now lay before the Board a Copy. The first of the accompanying Letters from Mr. Markham arrived at a Time when a severe Return of my late Illness obliged me, by the Advice of my Physicians, to leave Calcutta for the Benefit of the Country Air, and prevented me from bringing it earlier before the Notice of the Board. It had indeed been my Intention, but for the same Cause, to have requested the Instructions of the Board for the Conduct of Mr. Markham in the Difficulties which he had to encounter immediately after the Date of my Letter to him, and to have recommended the Substance of it for an Order of the Board, of which indeed I had given him Expectation; and this will account for his Letter of the 24th October, stating the Subject without any Reference to the Orders which I had given him, and for his subsequent Letters, referring to my Orders for what he had done in Obedience to them, and in Default of Orders from the Board. I do now most earnestly recommend that the Board will be pleased to confirm the Appointment which Mr. Markham has made, and to direct him to exact from Baboo Doorkbijey Sing, with the utmost Rigour, every Rupee of the Collections which it shall appear that he has made, and not brought to Account, and either to confine him at Benares, or to send him a Prisoner to Chunar, and to keep him in Confinement until he shall have discharged the Whole of the Amount due from him.

Governor General's Minute.

" I feel myself, and may be allowed on such an Occasion to acknowledge it, personally hurt at the Ingratitude of this Man, and the Discredit which his ill Conduct has thrown on my Appointment of him. In my own Justification, it will be sufficient to recur to the Remembrance of my assigned Motive for his Appointment. The Rajah himself, scarcely arrived at the Verge of Manhood, was in in Understanding but little advanced beyond the Term of Childhood, and it has been the Policy of Cheit Sing to keep him equally secluded from the World and from Business. It is therefore indispensably necessary to depute some Person for the Management of his Affairs, who certainly could appear so fit for this Trust as his own Father, whose external Appearance and Air, and the Mode of his Education, which Qualities were all that could be yet known of his Character, seemed besides to qualify him for that Charge. He has deceived me. He has offended against the Government which I then represented, and merits at least the Punishment of a rigid Exaction of its Dues, and, in my Opinion, a Forfeiture of its Bounties. As he was allowed a Jagheer of a very liberal Amount to enable him to maintain a State and Consequence suitable both to the Relation in which he stood to the Rajah, and the high Office which had been assigned to him, and sufficient also to free him from the Temptation of little and mean Peculations, it is therefore my Opinion, and I recommend that Mr. Markham be ordered to divest him of his Jagheer, and re-unite it to the Maulguzary, or the Land paying its Revenue through the Rajah to the Company.]

"The Opposition made by the Rajah and the old Rannee, both equally incapable of judging for themselves, do certainly originate from some secret Influence, which ought to be checked, by a decided and peremptory Declaration of the Authority of the Board, and a Denunciation of their Displeasure at their Presumption. If they can be induced to yield the Appearance of a cheerful Acquiescence in the new Arrangement, and to adopt it as a Measure formed with their Participation, it would be better than that it should be done by a declared Act of Compulsion; but at all Events it ought to be done. In the Management of this Business, I would recommend that the Board trust to Mr. Markham's Discretion for the Execution of their Orders.

"I must beg leave farther to recommend that Mr. Markham be authorised to grant the Khelaut for the Niabut to Baboo Jagger Deo Sing, and to carry into Execution the other Points of my Letter of the 29th September.

"The Institution of the new Offices therein recommended will effectually guard against the Embezzlements and concealed Practices which the Example of Doorkbijey Sing may suggest to others entrusted with that Charge.

Warren Hastings."

Copy of a Letter from the Governor General to Mr Markham,
Resident at Benaris.

"I have received your Letter of the 8th instant, and am no less pleased with your Conduct than I am dissatisfied with that of Doorbijey Sing. I am thoroughly convinced of his Incapacity, and of the Necessity of removing him. Your Recommendation of Ally Ibrahim Khawn gives me Pleasure. I consider it as a Confirmation of his Worth, and as an additional Proof of yours, that you have conceived a Friendship for the Man who, from the Nature of his Office, might possibly have been to many others in your Situation an Object of Jealousy. For the Reasons you have assigned, I think he cannot, with Propriety, accept the Niabut, and for the same Reasons I should be unwilling to make him a Sezawul. It is an invidious Office, inferior in Point of Dignity even to that of Naib, and invariably exposes the Person who possesses it, to the Ill will not only of his immediate Superior in his District, but of all over whom his Authority extends. The Post he already fills is as laborious as it is useful and important. Not only perfect Leisure, but popular Esteem, is in some Measure necessary to the perfect Discharge of its Duties; and I should be very sorry to give him an Employment that might contribute to rob him of either. Avail yourself, however, of his Experience and Abilities upon all Occasions, where they can be of Service to you in your public Business, and particularly upon the Arrangements which this Letter will authorise you to make.

"I need not tell you, my dear Sir, that I possess a very high Opinion of your Abilities, and that I repose the utmost Confidence in your Integrity. The Whole of your Conduct since our Acquaintance has served to impress me with these Sentiments; and mine, I hope, has proved, that I entertain them. From your long Residence at Benaris, and from the Part you have had in the Business of that Zemindarry, you must certainly best know the Men who are most capable and deserving of public Employment. From among these, I authorise you to nominate a Naib to the Rajah, in the Room of Doorbijey Sing, whom, on account of his ill Conduct, I think it necessary to dismiss from that Office. It will hardly be necessary to except Oossann Sing from the Description of Men to whom I have limited your Choice; yet it may not be improper to apprize you that I will on no Terms consent to his being Naib. In forming the Arrangements consequent upon this new Appointment, I request you will, as far as you can with Propriety, adopt those which were in use during the Life of Bulwant Sing, so far at least as to have distinct Offices for distinct Purposes, independent of each other, and with proper Men at the Head of each; so that One Office may detect or prevent any Abuses or Irregularities in the others, and together form a System of reciprocal Checks. Upon that Principle, I desire you will in particular establish under whatever Names one Office of Receipts, and another of Treasury. The Officers of both must be responsible for the Truth and Regularity of their respective Accounts, but not subject in the Statement of them to the Controul or Interference of the Rajah or Naib; nor should they be removeable at Pleasure, but for manifest Misconduct only. At the Head of one or other of these Offices, I could wish to see the late Boxey Rogoober Dyall; his Conduct in his former Office, his Behaviour on

on the Revolt of ~~the~~ Sing, and particularly at the Fall of Bidjeegur, together with his general Character, prove him ~~not~~ worthy of Employment, and of the Notice of our Government. It is possible that he may have ~~no~~ Objections to holding an Office under the present Rajah; offer him one however, and ~~we~~ know that you do so by my Directions. In forming these Arrangements, do not wholly neglect the Rajah; consult with him in Appearance, but in Appearance only. His Situation requires that you should do that much; but his Youth and Inexperience forbid that you should do more.

" With respect to Doorbijey Sing, he has dishonoured my Choice of him. It now only remains for me to guard against the ill Effects of his Misconduct; to detect and punish it. To this End I desire, that the Officers to be appointed, in consequence of these Instructions, do, with as much Accuracy and Expedition as possible, make out an Account of the Receipts, Disbursements, and Transactions of Doorbijey Sing, during the Time he has acted as Naib of the Zemindar of Benaris; and I desire you will, in my Name, assure him, that unless he pays at the limited Time every Rupee of the Revenue due to the Company, his Life shall answer for the Default. I need not caution you to provide against his Flight, and the Removal of his Effects.

" I am, &c.

" (Signed) Warren Hastings."

" The Letters which follow were also circulated with the above Minute.

" To the Honourable Warren Hastings, Esq. &c. &c. &c.

" Benares, 24th October 1782.

To the Honourable Warren Hastings Esquire, from Mr. Markham.

" Honourable Sir, and Sirs,

" I have delayed sending to you the Accounts Treasury for the Month of September, as I have yet only received from Rajah Myip Narain the Sum of 1,55,000 Rupees in Part Payment of the Kist of Bahdown due the 21st ultimo.

" The Month of Assin is now elapsed, and I see no Probability of his speedily completing the Balance due on account of the Malguzarry of the last Year. I have in the strongest Terms represented to the Naib Durbeetzy Sing the Impropriety of his Conduct, and the Ruin which must attend him, if thus acting contrary to my Advice, he will fully abuse the Trust reposed in him by your Honourable Board. He cannot plead Inability, for I am confident that he has ready Cash now by him more than sufficient to answer every Demand.

" I am sorry that my Duty obliges me to mention to your Honourable Board my Apprehensions of a severe Loss accruing to the Honourable Company, if Baboo Durbeetzy Sing is continued in the Naibut during the present Year. I ground my Fears on the Knowledge I have had of his Mismanagement: The bad Choice he has made of his Aumils, the Mistrust which they have of him, and the several Complaints which have been preferred to me by the Ryotts of almost every Purgunnah in the Zemindarry. I did not choose to waste the Time of your Honourable Board in listening to my Representations of his Inattention to the Complaints of Oppression, which were made to him by his Ryotts, as I hoped that a Letter he received from the Honourable Governor General would have had Weight sufficient to have made him more regular in his Business, and more careful of his Son's Interest. I am sorry to observe that it was but a temporary Remedy to the Evil.

" During a Course of Two Months Illness, he was incapable of transacting any Business whatsoever. In the most pressing Letters, I repeatedly enjoined him to appoint either One of his Brothers, or some confidential Servant, for the settling the Accounts of his Aumils, and for receiving the Kists due from them. I imagine he will find himself a very considerable Loser by neglecting this Advice.

" An innate Sloth in his Disposition, and a studied Procrastination in every Business where Application and Dispatch are necessary, mark him as unfit for the present Station, to which he has been elevated by his Alliance with the old Family of Bulwant Sing, and the Regard which the Honourable the Governor General paid to the obvious Idea of the Father's being the most proper Person for the Management of the Son's Affairs.

" I intended to have represented these Circumstances to your Honourable Board some Weeks ago, but was prevented by a severe intermittent Fever, which confined me to my Bed.

" I acquainted Mr. Day, the Paymaster to Sir John Cumming's Detachment, that I had your Directions for advancing Three Months Pay; but he required only Two Lacks of Rupees, for which I have taken his Drafts on the Military Paymaster General.

" I have the Honour to be, &c. &c. &c.

" W<sup>m</sup> Markham, Resident."

To the Honourable Warren Hastings Esquire, &c. &c. from Mr. Markham, Benares, Nov. 11th 1782.

[" Honourable Sir, and Sirs,

" The Loss which would accrue upon this Year's Collections, if some immediate Step had not been taken, has obliged me to put in force the Orders which I received from the Honourable the Governor General, in a Letter dated 29th of September, and which I at that Time delayed to do, hoping that the Difference of a few Days would occasion no Detriment in the Collections, and that I should be able to persuade the Naib Durbeetzy Sing to pay up the Balances of his last Year's Malguzary. I have been deceived in the latter of my Expectations, and find Durbeetzy Sing more more obstinate than ever in withholding the Balance of his Bahdoor Kist, Two Lacks of which only have as yet been received. It is necessary that I should make One Observation to you, that I am confirmed in an Opinion which I formerly had, but which I could not with propriety mention to your Honourable Board, that it never was Durbeetzy Sing's Intention to hold the Country longer than throughout the Fulslee Year One thousand one hundred and thirty-nine. My Reason is as follows: He has often expressed a Disgust that the Country should be given to him on harder Terms than those on which the late Rajah Chyet Sing held it; and you will observe that he has this Year only paid Twenty-seven Lacks Twenty-seven thousand Rupees, which is nearly the Amount of what Rajah Chyet Sing's Tribute was, after the Five Lacks on his Contribution towards the Expenses of the War was levied upon him. I am confident, and hope I shall be able to prove, that he has collected at least Forty Lacks from the Rajé. I have therefore, in consequence of the Honourable the Governor General's Orders, sent him a Letter, informing him that he is dismissed from his former Employment; a Translation of which I have the Honour to inclose. I thought it proper that Durbeetzy Sing should be put under a gentle Confinement until I shall receive your Honourable Board's Orders for any future Measures.

"As the Honourable the Governor General has given me an Authority to select a proper Person for Naib, and as Baboo Naibul Sing and Baboo Jagger Deco Sing are the only Two of the Family of Rajah Bulwant Sing who are fit for such a Trust, I recommended the latter to the Honourable the Governor General; and as his Illness has prevented me from receiving further Instructions, I have appointed him Naib.

"The Honourable the Governor General also ordered me to establish Offices, which might not only be a reciprocal Check upon each other, but might also prevent any Collusion on the Part of the Naib. I shall therefore appoint a Dewane; One Office for Receipts of Revenue into the Treasury; a Treasury; and a Fourth Office, in which are to be kept all Disbursements from the Treasury. If I had waited for further Directions from the Honourable the Governor General, or your Honourable Board, the Collections on the Khareef Fulsil would have been entirely lost, and a Deficiency perhaps happened in the Forty Lacks, which is the Malguzarry from Rajah Mehpnerrain this Year, as a most unusual Drought has been universally felt over the Country, no Rain having fallen since the latter End of August, which may prove very detrimental to the Rhabbee Fulsil.

"Babbao Durbeetzy Sing has certainly Money by him sufficient to pay up the Arrears of the Month Bhadoon, and it would be proper that some stricter Confinement should oblige him to part with it for that Purpose; yet, let me assure your Honourable Board, that I will exert myself as much as possible to recover any Balances which may be due to him from the Country, and that it shall be my most earnest Endeavour to avert any Loss from the Honourable Company, which his obstinate Conduct and impolitic Dishonesty might otherwise occasion.

"I hope that your Honourable Board will approve of my Conduct in this Business; and that you will believe

"After Compliments—The Impropriety of your Conduct, and intentional Delays in paying up your Bhadoon Khist, have at length determined the Honourable Nabob Imaud ul Dowlah, &c. &c. to remove you from the high Station to which he formerly raised you, from all Interference in the Affairs of your Son, and consequently in those of this Zemindarry.

"You have since the First of Asteen of the Fulslee Year 1189, paid no more into the Treasury than Twenty-seven Lacks Twenty-seven thousand Rupees. It is impossible, from a Country by your own Account affording an easy Revenue of Forty-nine Lacks, that no more should be collected: I therefore recommend it to you most earnestly to make up the Balance due, and avoid the Dishonour and Shame, and perhaps even worse, which will inevitably pursue you, if you disregard these Injunctions. In the mean Time I have thought proper to keep a Guard upon your Person. I desire that you without Delay give me a Paper, containing the Names of all your Mutzuddies, Writers of Accounts, &c. &c. &c.; that you in the Course of this Day send me a List of the Balances due to you from the Aumils whom you have employed; that you give the most positive Orders to your Mutzuddies, &c. &c. &c. to render me a just Account and Information of the present State of the Country, and to attend me whenever I shall call upon them.

"Honourable Sir, and Sirs,

"In a Letter which I did myself the Honour of writing to you on the 12th instant, I informed you that I had given Baboo Jagger Deco Sing the Appointment of Naib. He could not at that Time be invested with the Khalaat, as the Bramins prognosticated it a Day of ill Omen; and the 15th was fixed upon for the Ceremony.

To the Honourable Warren Hastings Esquire, &c. &c. from Mr. Markham. Benares, Nov. 14th 1782.

"Since

" Since that Time the old Rannee and the Rajah, instructed by Durbeetzy Sing, have most vehemently declared to me, that they will by no Means give their Consent that any other Person shall be appointed Naib. I therefore have deferred the Ceremony of granting him the Khalaat till I receive further Orders from your Honourable Board.

" It is necessary to be remarked, that Baboo Jagget Deeo Sing and Baboo Neehul Sing are the only Two of the said Family of Bulwant Sing, and indeed the only Two Men with whom I am acquainted in the Zemindarry, to whose Hands so high an Employment can be entrusted; and I gave the Preference to the former, as Age and Deafness are great Impediments to Business in the latter.

" Mr. Wheler.—I approve of the Measures recommended by the Governor General's Minute respecting Baboo Doorkbijey Sing, and of the Mode of carrying them into Execution through the Resident of Benares, which is his official Duty; and also of the Appointment of Jagget Deeo Sing to fill the Office of which Doorkbijey has been dispossessed; and of the Appointments recommended in the Governor General's Letter of the 29th September. " Sir,

To Mr. Markham,

" We have now before us your Letters of the 24th October, 12th and 14th November. The Governor General has likewise communicated to us a Copy of the Letter which he wrote to you on 29th September from Nia Serai.

" The Measures which you have taken with Baboo Doorbijey Sing are perfectly right and proper, so far as they go; and we now direct that you exact from him, with the utmost Rigour, every Rupee of the Collections which it shall appear that he has made and not brought to Account, and either confine him at Benares, or send him a Prisoner to Chunar, and keep him in Confinement until he shall have discharged the Whole of the Amount due from him.

" We likewise direct, that for the Offence which he has been guilty of you divest him of the Jagheer which was assigned him, and re-unite the Property of it to the Malguzarry, or the Land paying its Revenue through the Rajah to the Company.

" We approve and confirm your Appointment of Baboo Jagget Deeo Sing to the Office of Naib of the Zemindarry, in the Room of Doorbijey Sing, and desire that you will invest him immediately with the usual Khelaat in due Form.

" We also direct you to carry into Execution the other Points of the Governor General's Letter to you of the 29th September, which remain to be accomplished.

" Fort William, 4th Dec. 1782.

" We are, &c. &c. &c."

Then the Managers for the Commons acquainted the House, That they had now read all the Letters they proposed to give in Evidence relative to this Part of the Charge; and that what was not completely made out by those Letters would be supplied by parole Testimony: That they should now proceed to the Conclusion of the first Article of the Charge, which they should read from the Article itself, in order to point out to the House what the remaining Part of the Proof would apply to, viz. " That " the Consequence of all these violent Changes and arbitrary Acts were the total Ruin " and Desolation of the Country, and the Flight of the Inhabitants; the said Warren " Hastings having found every Place abandoned at his Approach even by the Officers " of the very Government which he established, and seeing nothing but Traces of " Devastation in every Village; the Province in Effect without a Government; the " Administration misconducted; the People oppressed; Trade discouraged; and the " Revenue in danger of a rapid Decline. *"

This the Managers stated would be proved by a Letter of the 2d of April 1784 (already alluded to in the opening of this Article) from Mr. Hastings at Lucknow to the Council at Calcutta upon his second Expedition, giving an Account of the Situation of the Country from his own ocular Inspection;—but before they produced this Letter, it might be more in order to read the Petitions or Arzees from the Ranny, the Widow of Bulwant Sing, and the Rajah Mehipnarain, and then proceed to the abovementioned Letter, which would be the last Piece of written Evidence they should have occasion to produce upon this Article of the Charge.

Then the Witnesses produced Book 46, intituled, “ Persian Correspondence, Public Department, Letters received in the Year 1782.”

Read, the following Letters to the Governor General, both received on the 15th December 1782, No. 46 and No. 47 in the said Book.

“ From the Ranny, Widow of Raja Bulwant Sing.

“ Received 15th December 1782.

“ No. 46. I and my Children have no Hopes but from your Highness, and our Honour and Rank are bestowed by you. Mr. Markham, from the Advice of my Enemies, having protected the Farmers, would not permit the Balances to be collected. Baboo Dirgbeje Sing frequently desired that Gentleman to shew his Resentment against the People who owed Balances, that the Balances might be collected, and to give Ease to his Mind for the present Year, conformably to the Requests signed by the Presence, that he might complete the Bundobust. But that Gentleman would not listen to him, and having appointed a Muteleddy and Taveeldar, employs them in the Collections of the Year, and sent Two Companies of Sepoys and arrested Baboo Dirgbeje Sing upon this Charge, that he had secreted, in his House, many Lacks of Rupees from the Collections, and he carried the Mutefeddies and Treasurer, with their Papers, to his own Presence. He neither ascertained this Matter by Proofs, nor does he complete the Balance of the Sircar from the Jaidads of the Balances; right or wrong he is resolved to destroy our Lives. As we have no Assylum or Hope except from your Highness, and as the Almighty has formed your Mind to be a Distributor of Justice in these Times, I therefore hope, from the Benignity of your Highness, that you will enquire and do Justice in this Matter, and that an Ameen may be appointed from the Presence, that having discovered the Crimes or Innocence of Baboo Dirgbeje Sing, he may report to the Presence. Further Particulars will be made known to your Highness by the Arzie of my Son, Raja Mehipnaraine Bahader.”

“ Arzie from Raja Mehipnarain Bahader.

“ Received 15th December 1782.

“ No. 47. I before this had the Honour of addressing several Arzies to your Presence, but, from my unfortunate State, not one of them has been perused by your Highness, that my Situation might be fully learnt by you: The Case is this; Mr. Markham, from the Advice of my Enemies, having occasioned several kinds of Losses, and given Protection to those who owed Balances, prevented the Balance from being collected; for this Reason, that the Money not being paid in Time, the Baboo might be convicted of Inability. From this Reason, all the Owers of Balances refused to pay the Malwajib of the Sircar: before this the Baboo had frequently desired that Gentleman to shew his Resentment against the Persons who owed the Balances, that the Balances might be paid, and that his Mind might be at Ease for the present Year, so that the Bundobust of the present Year might be completed; adding, that if next Year such kinds of Injuries and Protection of the Farmers were to happen he should not be able to support it. But that Gentleman did not reprove the Owers of Balances; and with respect to the Satisfaction for the present Year, he said that he could not at this Time do it. From this Reason so great a Balance to the Sircar still remains. Besides this, upon the false Representations of my Enemies, that Gentleman said to the Baboo, “ You have secreted in your House several Lacks of Rupees from the Collections, and do not pay the Balance to the Sircar.” The Baboo requested that this Matter might be properly inquired into; but that Gentleman, without ascertaining it, appointed a Muteleddy and a Treasurer from his own Sircar, for the Collections of the present Year. Afterwards, on the 4th of Zeheidja he sent an English Gentleman with Two Companies of Sepoys who put the Baboo under Arrest, at the same Time he threw the Mutefeddies and Treasurer, with their Papers, into Confinement, and brought them to his own Presence, and told me that Orders had come from the Presence for a new Naib, and that I must appoint Jugdeo Sing Naib to finish the Bundobust of the present Year; and that having settled this Point with the Ranny, I should return. I gave him a proper Answer, and again went to the Presence of that Gentleman, and conformably to the Directions of the Ranny, I said to him, “ That, with respect to the Neabut of Jugdeo Sing, which he had ordered, I was now myself able to attend to and manage the Affairs * the Sircar, and that the Ranny did not consent or approve of a Naib: that it would have been incumbent on him, first, to have proved the Crime of Baboo Dirgbeje Sing, and then confined him: That this would have been proper, because, in the Room of all the Ranks and Honours bestowed upon him by the Presence, from the Event, Disgrace and Injury,

* Sic in Orig.

Injury, without Bounds, have come upon him: That now, from the carrying the Mutesaddies and Treasurer, with their Papers, to the Presence, no Secrecy remained. If this Matter should be carried to the Proofs, the Baboo is ~~entirely~~ guilty; but in case of his Innocence, let the Guard be taken off, and then the Affairs of this Year may be fully discussed." Mr. Markham replied, that he would again write this Matter to the Presence.

" My Master, I do not know what he may have written to your Presence, I have therefore represented fully my distressed Situation; my only Hopes are from your Highness; my Honour and Rank are bestowed by you. Mr. Markham having written false Complaints to your Presence, has brought me to this Situation, and has thrown the Concerns of this Year into Incompletion and Ruin. I am therefore hopeful that an Ameen be appointed, who having enquired into the Crime or Innocence of the Baboo, may inform the Presence, and may compel the Owers of Balances to pay the Balance of the Sircar. You have approved of the Concerns of the present Year being completed by me; favour me so far as to prevent the Injuries, and Protection of the Farmers from that Gentleman, and that I may remain firm, conformably to the Requests signed by the Presence, that I may complete the Malwajib of the Sircar with Ease."

The Managers for the Commons said, They would in the next Place shew that there was but One Month in Arrear at the Time of Doorbidjey Sing's being put into Confinement.

Edward Wheler Esquire, Council, &c. &c. &c. Fort William.

Governor
General,
Lucknow,
2d Apr. 1784.

" Gentlemen,
Lucknow, the 2d April 1784.
" Having contrived, by making forced Stages, while the Troops of my Escort marched at the ordinary Rate, to make a stay of Five Days at Benares, I was thereby furnished with the Means of acquiring some Knowledge of the State of the Province, which I am anxious to communicate to you: indeed, the Enquiry, which was in a great Degree obtruded upon me, affected me with very mortifying Reflections on my own Inability to apply it to any useful Purpose. From the Confinement of Buxar to Benares, I was followed and fatigued by the Clamours of the discontented Inhabitants; it was what I expected in a Degree, because it is rare that the Exercise of Authority should prove satisfactory to all who are the Objects of it. The Distresses which were produced by the long continued Drought, unavoidably tended to heighten the general Discontent; yet, I have Reason to fear, that the Cause existed principally in a defective if not a corrupt and oppressive Administration. Of a multitude of Petitions which were presented to me, and of which I took Minutes, every one that did not relate to a personal Grievance, continued the Representation of one and the same Species of Oppression, which is, in its Nature, of an Influence most fatal to the future Cultivation. The Practice to which I allude is this. It is affirmed, that the Aumils and Renters exact from the Proprietors of the actual Harvest, a large Encrease in Kind on their stipulated Rent, that is, from those who hold their Pottahs by the Tenure of paying One Half of the Produce of their Crops, either the Whole without a Subterfuge, or a large Proportion of it by false Measurement, or other Pretexts; and from those whose Engagements are for a fixed Rent in Money, the Half, or a greater Proportion is taken in Kind. This is, in effect, a Tax upon the Industry of the Inhabitants; since there is scarce a Field of Grain in the Province, I might say not one, which has not been preserved by the incessant Labour of the Cultivator, by digging Wells for their Supply, or watering them from the Wells of Marisonry*, with which this Country abounds, or from the neighbouring Tanks, Rivers, and Nullahs. The People who imposed on themselves this voluntary and extraordinary Labour, and not unattended with Expence, did it in the Expectation of reaping the Profits of it; and it is as certain that they would not have done it, if they had known that their Rulers, from whom they were entitled to an Indemnification, would take from them what they had so hardly earned. If the same Administration continues, and the Country shall again labour under a Want of the natural Rains, every Field will be abandoned, the Revenue fail, and Thousands perish through the Want of Subsistence; for who will labour for the sole Benefit of others, and to make himself the Subject of Vexation? These Practices are not to be imputed to the Aumils employed in the Districts, but to the Naib himself. The avowed Principle on which he acts, and which he acknowledged to myself, is, that the whole Sum fixed for the Revenue of the Province must be collected, and that for this Purpose, the Deficiency arising in Places where the Crops have failed, or which have been left uncultivated, must be supplied from the Resources of others, where the Soil has been better suited to the

the Season, or the Industry of the Cultivators more successfully exerted; a Principle which, however specious and plausible it may at first appear, certainly tends to the most pernicious and destructive Consequences. If this Declaration of the Naib had been made only to myself, I might have doubted my Construction of it; but it was repeated by him to Mr. Anderson, who understood it exactly in the same Sense. In the Management of the Customs, the Conduct of the Naib, or of the Officers under him, was forced also upon my Attention. The exorbitant Rates exacted by an arbitrary Valuation of the Goods, the Practice of exacting Duties Twice on the same Goods, first from the Seller, and afterwards from the Buyer; and the vexatious Disputes and Delays drawn on the Merchants by these Oppressions were loudly complained of; and some Instances of this Kind were said to exist at the very Time when I was in Benares. Under such Circumstances we are not to wonder if the Merchants of foreign Countries are discouraged from resorting to Benares, and if the Commerce of that Province should annually decay. Other Evils, or imputed Evils, have accidentally come to my Knowledge, which I will not now particularize, as I hope, that, with the Assistance of the Resident, they may be in part corrected. One however I must mention, because it has been verified by my own Observation, and is of that Kind which reflects an unmerited Reproach on our general and national Character. When I was at Buxar, the Resident, at my Desire, enjoined the Naib to appoint creditable People to every Town through which our Route lay, to persuade and encourage the Inhabitants to remain in their Houses, promising to give them Guards as I approached, and they required it for their Protection; and that he might perceive how earnest I was for his Observance of this Precaution (which I am certain was faithfully delivered) I repeated it to him in Person, and dismissed him, that he might precede me for that Purpose; but, to my great Disappointment, I found every Place through which I passed abandoned; nor had there been a Man left in any of them for their Protection. I am sorry to add, that from Buxar to the opposite Boundary, I have seen nothing but the Tracks of complete Devastation in every Village, whether caused by the Followers of the Troops which have lately passed, for their natural Relief, and I know not whether my own may not have had their Share, or from the Apprehensions of the Inhabitants left to themselves, and of themselves deserting their Houses. I wish to acquit my own Countrymen of the Blame of these unfavourable appearances, and in my own Heart I do acquit them; for at One Encampment near a large Village, called Derrera, in the Pergunnah of Zemaneea, a Crowd of People came to me, complaining, that their former Aumil, who was a Native of the Place, and had long been established in Authority over them, and whose Custom it had been, whenever any Troops passed, to remain in Person on the Spot for their Protection, having been removed, the new Aumil, on the Approach of any military Detachment, himself first fled from the Place, and the Inhabitants, having no One to whom they could apply for Redress, or for the Representation of their Grievances, and being thus remediless, fled also; so that their Houses and Effects became a Prey to any Person who chose to plunder them. The general Conclusion appeared to me an inevitable Consequence from such a State of Facts, and my own Senses bore Testimony to it in this specific Instance; nor do I know how it is possible for any Officer commanding a military Party, how attentive soever he may be to the Discipline and Forbearance of his People, to prevent Disorders, when there is neither Opposition to hinder, nor Evidence to deter them. These and many other Irregularities I impute solely to the Naib, and I think it my Duty to recommend his instant Removal. I would myself have dismissed him, had the Controul of this Province come within the Line of my Powers, and have established such Regulations and Checks as would have been most likely to prevent the like Irregularities. I have said Checks, because unless there is some visible Influence, and a powerful and able one, impended over the Head of the Manager, no System can avail. The next appointed may prove, from some Defect, as unfit for the Office as the present; for the Choice is limited to few, without Experience to guide it. The first was of my own Nomination: His Merits and Qualifications stood in equal Balance with my Knowledge of those who might have been the Candidates for the Office. But he was the Father of the Rajah, and the Affinity sunk the Scale wholly in his Favour; for who could be so fit to be entrusted with the Charge of his Son's Interests, and the new Credit of the rising Family? He deceived my Expectations. Another was recommended by the Resident; and, at my Instance, the Board appointed him. This was Juggerdeo Sing, the present Naib. I knew him not, and the other Members of the Board as little.

While Mr. Markham remained in Office, of whom, as his immediate Patron, he may have stood in Awe, I am told that he restrained his natural Disposition, which has been described to me as rapacious, unfeeling, haughty, and to an Extreme vindictive. I cannot avoid remarking, that excepting the City of Benares itself, the Province depending upon it is in effect without a Government; the Naib exercising only a dependant Jurisdiction without a Principal. The Rajah is without Authority, and even his Name disused in the Official Instruments issued or taken by the Manager. The Representation of his Situation shall be the Subject of another Letter: I have made this already too long, and shall confine it to the single Subject, for the Communication of which it was begun: This permit me to recapitulate. The Administration of the Province is misconducted, and the People oppressed; Trade discouraged, and the Revenue, though said to be exceeded in the actual Collections by many Lacs (for I have a minute Account of it, which states the nett Amount, including Jagheers, at something more than Fifty-one Lacs) in Danger of a rapid a rapid Decline, from the violent Appropriation of its Means. The Naib or Manager is unfit for his Office: A new Manager is required, and a System of official Control, in a Word, a Constitution; for neither can the Board extend its superintending Powers to a District so remote from its Observation; nor has it delegated that Authority to the Resident, who is merely the Representative of Government, and the Receiver of its Revenue in the last Process of it; nor indeed would it be possible to render him wholly so; for Reasons which I may hereafter detail. If, Gentlemen, you shall think it proper to entrust me with Powers for this Purpose, I will cheerfully undertake the Reformation of the Country, and will be answerable for its Effects; but I entreat that your Resolves may be instant: for from the Hour that it is known, that such a Design is in Contemplation, and it will be known in Ten Days after your Receipt of it, the Authority of the Manager will sink with his Influence, unless it is preserved by some immediate Pledge of Confirmation; and such I would advise, if you shall deem it improper to yield to my Recommendation. I have the Happiness to find all Men satisfied and happy in the excellent Administration of the City of Benares, and have experienced, what few Men of the first Station have known in the Intercourse with the Natives of India, if of any other Country, the Voice of Adulation diverted, even in my own Presence, from myself, in the Eagerness of bestowing a better merited Praise on another. Such is the Tribute which the Wisdom and Integrity of Ally Ibrahim Cawn have extorted from the Hearts of those who have been subjected to his Jurisdiction; and I dare trust to the Result of your own Enquiries, let who will make the Report of him, for a Confirmation of mine.

I have the Honour to be, &c. &c. &c.

(Signed) Warren Hastings."

" P. S. The above Letter was written immediately after my leaving Benares, but the Interruptions of travelling occasioned a Delay in transcribing it until the present Day. This Delay has, however, given me an Opportunity of ascertaining more fully the Informations I received at Benares, and of confirming the Opinion I before entertained.

(Signed) W. H.]

" Ordered, That the foregoing Letter do lie for Consideration until there shall be a full Meeting of the Council."

Then the Managers for the Commons desired John Stables Esquire might be called.

Then JOHN STABLES Esquire was called, and being sworn, was examined as follows:

Q. Whether you were not in the Province of Benaris in the Year 1764, during the Period of Bulwant Sing's Zemindary?

A. I was, in the Year 1764.

Q. In the Year 1764?

A. Yes.

Q. And Bulwant Sing was at that Time Zemindar?

A. Bulwant Sing was at that Time Zemindar.

Q. In what Capacity was you in the Province of Benaris at that Time?

A. An Officer in the Army.—I had the Honour to be Aid de Camp to the Commander in Chief, and acted then as an Officer in the Service.

Q. Whether you had any Intercourse with Bulwant Sing, and what your Opinion was of the State and Rank of Bulwant Sing?

A. I thought him a very considerable Prince.—He was in Possession of a very fine Country, and had a large Body of Troops.

Q. Whether you ever was in Company with Bulwant Sing in any Progress through the Country, or upon any other Occasion, which gave you an Opportunity of observing the Affections of his Subjects to him?

A. I had the Honour once of riding out with him, and I had great Pleasure in observing the Affection of his Subjects to him; his Villages were full, and they all came out to meet him.

Q. What State did the Country of Benaris seem to be in at the Time of which you have spoken with respect to Cultivation and Fruitfulness, in the Year 1764?—It may be necessary to ask first how long you staid at Benaris in 1764?

A. I cannot exactly speak to the Time we were there; I should suppose between Two and Three Months.

Q. In what Part of the Year?

A. I think in November. The Battle of Buxar was the 23d of October. We marched afterwards to Benares, and we staid from thence it might be about Three Months—not quite Three Months.

Q. During the Time that you was there, had you any, and what Opportunity of observing the Condition of the Country?

A. The Country appeared to me in high Cultivation.

Q. What Part of the Country had you an Opportunity of observing?

A. The Army marched from Buxar to Benaris, and round Benaris.

Q. What is the Length of that March?

A. I do not recollect exactly.

Q. I do not mean exactly; how many Days march?

A. I cannot recollect.

Q. That was the Part of the Country you had an Opportunity of observing?

A. Yes.

Q. And you thought it in high Cultivation and rich?

A. It appeared so to me.

Q. Who was Commander in Chief at that Time, under whom you served as Aid de Camp?

A. At the Time I speak of, Major Hector Munro, now Sir Hector Munro.

Q. During the Whole of the Time you speak of?

A. Yes, during the whole Time.

Q. The Witness said the Troops went round Benaris, I wish to know whether the Troops, or those under the Command of the English Officers, were permitted to enter the Town of Benaris?

A. I believe not: a Chain of Centinels and Guards were set round it.

Q. Do you mean stationed round, or marched round?

A. We were encamped at some little Distance from the Town of Benares, and set Guards to prevent the Troops from getting into the City and committing Irregularities.

Q. Whether there was any Reason, peculiar to Benares, that made it necessary to place those Guards upon the Troops to prevent them entering into the Town?

A. Benares is an open defenceless Town, the Habitation of People of Religion, and of great Property, and they were not molested, and were requested to remain quiet in their Houses.

Q. They were not molested; but it was enjoined them to remain quiet in their Houses?

A. They were requested to remain quiet in their Houses.

Q. By your Commander in Chief, I suppose?

A. Yes.

Q. (By a Lord.) What was the State of the Population of that Part of the Country you saw?

A. The Villages appeared to me full of Inhabitants.

Q. Were the Villages near to each other, or remote from each other?

A. I thought there were a great many more Inhabitants than in our Provinces which adjoined to it.

Q. Which Provinces do you particularly allude to?

A. Gauzepore and Buxar.

Q. At what Distance, upon an Average, and generally speaking, are the Villages in that Part of the Country you went through?

A. They are scattered about here and there, about a Mile, some perhaps two Miles distant from each other.

Q. (Cross examined.) Whether you had any Opportunity of knowing and being acquainted with the Constitution of the Country, except from your casual Residence of Three Months?

A. I was as an Officer of the Army, and had no Opportunity of inquiring into the Particulars at that Time.

Q. You were with the Army, and had not so good an Opportunity of enquiring?

A. Not at that Time.

Q. Whether you had ever been in the Country before the Period of 1764 which you speak to, or ever have been there since the Time that you returned?

A. No, I never have.

Q. How long had you been in the Service of the Company in India when you went to Benares?

A. I arrived in India the latter End of the Year 1759; this I am speaking of was in 1764.

Q. In what Part of India did you arrive at in 1759?

A. First at Madras, afterwards in Bengal.

Q. Can you recollect what Time it was you came to Bengal?

A. I cannot speak particularly to the Distance of Time we arrived. I suppose it was either in September or October 1759.

Q. In Bengal?

A. In Bengal.

Q. Whether you had any Opportunity of knowing the precise Relation in which Bulwant Sing then stood to Sujah ul Dowlah?

A. No, I had not.

Q. Whether you can take upon yourself to say whether Bulwant Sing was at that Time an Aumil under Sujah ul Dowlah, or had any independent Rights of his own beyond the Office of Aumil?

A. I considered him as a Man of very great Consequence. We had taken every Step the Year before to bring him over to our Interest.

Q. (By a Lord.) We have taken your Answer to be, that you understood him to be a Man of great Consequence, and that the English had taken every Means the Year before to bring him over to their Interest?

A. Yes.

Q. The Question beyond that is, whether you know any Thing of the Manner and Constitution of his Office beyond what you observed, namely, that he appeared to have great Consequence belonging to him; his particular Situation you had no Means of knowing?

A. His particular Situation I had no Means of knowing, but I understand he paid Tribute to Sujah ul Dowlah; but that he had by some Measures rendered himself rather Independent. A particular Instance was, that he refused to go to the Presence of Sujah ul Dowlah, as I heard, when he was particularly called for.

Q. Do you know any Thing yourself of that Refusal to go to the Presence of Sujah Dowlah?

A. He was afraid, I should apprehend, for his own Safety.

Q. Does it fall within your Knowledge that he refused to go to the Presence?

A. It was a general Report in our Camp, and of the People who brought us Intelligence from the Enemy.

Q. Whether Bulwant Sing was not, at the Time you have been speaking of, serving in the Army of Sujah ul Dowlah?

A. In October I believe he was; but I said before that we endeavoured to draw him over to our Interest. Our Army was forced to retreat, and, of Course, he would not afterwards join us.

Q. Do you happen to know how long it was that Bulwant Sing was serving in the Army of Sujah ul Dowlah?

A. I don't recollect the precise Time when he joined Sujah ul Dowlah; but for a long Time he kept aloof while Sujah ul Dowlah was making his Preparations to attack Bengal.

Q. Was you in the Army with the English Forces at the Time that Bulwant Sing served in the Army of Sujah ul Dowlah?

A. Yes, I was.

Q. At what Time was that?

A. When Sujah ul Dowlah came down to invade the Provinces of Bengal, he came down with him, as we heard.

Q. Do you mean that he was in the Service of Sujah ul Dowlah, or that he was in our Service at the Time that Sujah ul Dowlah was defeated?

A. At the Time Sujah ul Dowlah was defeated he was in Sujah ul Dowlah's Service.

Q. At what Time was he defeated?

A. On the 23d of October 1764.

Q. When did he join our Arms?

A. At our Arrival at or near Benares.

Q. At what Time before the 23d of October 1764 was it he was serving in the Army of Sujah ul Dowlah?

A. I don't recollect how many Months. He was there for some Time across the River, and would not go to join Sujah ul Dowlah.

Q. At

Q. At what Time was he in the Army of Sujah ul Dowlah?

A. He was in the Army of Sujah ul Dowlah on the 23d of October 1764; and I cannot exactly say how long before.

Q. Can you go to any general Average of Time?

A. Early in the Year 1764, or the latter End of 1763, when our Army lay at Buxar, we were in Treaty with Bulwant Sing to join us.

Q. Between that Time and the 23d of October, had you any Thing more to say?

A. The Treaty broke off.

Q. Do you recollect when that Treaty broke off?

A. It broke off immediately upon our retiring: We were obliged to retreat from Buxar to Patna.

Q. Can you recollect what Time of the Year that Retreat was?

A. I cannot exactly say; it was early in the Year 1764, I think.

Q. At that Time you understand the Treaty broke off?

A. We understood he would not come to join us, because he would not join an Army that was retreating.

Q. (By a Lord.) Whether, when Bulwant Sing was serving in the Army of Sujah ul Dowlah, he was employed to command any of the Troops of Sujah ul Dowlah, or to command his own Troops?

A. We understood in our Camp, that he raised a large Body of Troops, and had joined Sujah ul Dowlah with near 10,000 Cavalry; we speak in round Numbers; we cannot exactly tell.

Q. Whether these Cavalry under Bulwant Sing, that joined Sujah ul Dowlah, were Troops in his own Pay, or whether they were in the Pay of Sujah ul Dowlah?

A. I believe they were in his own Pay.

Q. Whether, when a Tributary joins the Army of his Prince at the Head of his own Troops, he does not always command his own Troops, and those Troops only?

A. I believe in general that is the Case; but Sujah ul Dowlah assigned, as we heard, a different Command to Bulwant Sing—a separate Command.

Q. Whether you know of any pecuniary Assistance afforded by Bulwant Sing to Sujah ul Dowlah at the Time of the Treaty of Illahabad in August 1765?

A. I left the Army in the Beginning of the Year 1765, and consequently could know nothing of what passed afterwards.

Q. The Witness has spoken of having been present when the Inhabitants of the Villages came out to meet Bulwant Sing; I wish the Witness to be asked, Whether the same Circumstances would not have taken place, if an Aumil or Collector of the Province, and particularly an Aumil, or any other Person of great Authority, had come in the same Manner.

A. I thought their coming out proceeded from their Affection to him; it had that Appearance to me at that Time.

Q. But what the Manner of the Country would have been to any other great Person, you do not undertake to know?

A. They generally come out to any great Man; but I thought their coming out and speaking to him as they did, was from Affection.

Q. Besides the Ceremony to other great People, there was a Manner of Affection in the Behaviour of the People to him?

A. I thought so at the Time.

Q. Whether Bulwant Sing did or did not command a Part of the Army of Sujah ul Dowlah at the Battle of Buxar?

A. I believe he commanded his own Troops; a Part of them had crossed over the River to invade the Provinces to the Eastward of the Ganges, and Bulwant Sing was to have gone with a Detachment beyond the Ganges to invade those Provinces; but the Battle of Buxar put an End to that Scheme.

Q. Then, except the Troops which had crossed over the River, his Troops in general made a Part of the Army of Sujah ul Dowlah at the Battle of Buxar?

A. I believe so.—What Part they made I cannot say, but they made a Part of the Troops.

Q. Do you know whether the Cavalry you mention to have been in the Service of Bulwant Sing at the Period you have been speaking of, and making Part of the Army of Sujah ul Dowlah, were all raised in the Province of Benares?

A. I really do not know where they were raised.

Q. Do

Q. Do you consider yourself as having had an Opportunity of being well acquainted with the Province of Benares during the Time you mentioned before, from your Residence there, and your March?

A. I spoke a little of the Language at the Time, and the Hircarrahs or Guides were under my Direction.

Q. Which Language did you speak?

A. Hindostan.

Q. What were the Hircarrahs?

A. Guides.

Q. But who did they belong to?

A. They belonged to the Army, and were generally under my Direction.

Q. Were they Hindoos, or of what Cast?

A. They were of all Casts.

Q. The Question put to you was, Whether you consider yourself as well acquainted with the Province of Benares, from the Circumstance of your Residence and your March?

A. I have mentioned the Time I was there, and the Observations I made during that Time.

Q. Whether, from your Knowledge of the Customs of India, a Vassal is not always obliged in Time of War to be attendant upon his Sovereign?

A. I should suppose that he ought to attend him.

Q. What Part of India is it that your Knowledge leads you to speak of?

A. Bengal.

Q. You say you suppose a Tributary attends his superiour Lord; why do you suppose so? for what Reason?—Upon what Foundation do you go, in saying a Zemindar is obliged to be attendant upon his Sovereign?

A. I believe the Superior always gives him Orders to attend, and many do attend.

Q. Have you any Knowledge upon the Subject at all but what arises from general Reputation?

A. None.

Q. Whether you looked upon Bulwant Sing as a Vassal to Sujah ul Dowlah, and did he stand in that Relation to him at that Time?

A. I never considered him as a Vassal.

Q. In what Relation did you consider Bulwant Sing to stand to Sujah ul Dowlah?

A. He was originally, I believe, a Zemindar under Sujah ul Dowlah; but he had, by every Means almost, endeavoured to render himself independent.

Q. But did he consider himself as independent?

A. No; but he endeavoured to render himself independent.

Q. What do you mean by his holding of Sujah ul Dowlah under the Mogul?

A. He was tributary, and paid a Tribute to Sujah ul Dowlah, under whom he held; but what Tribute he paid, or on what Terms he held the Zemindary, I am not acquainted with.

Q. The Witness has said, he thinks a Zemindar is bound to attend his Superior in Time of War; does he think the Consequence of a Zemindar refusing to attend him would be a Forfeiture of his Tenure?

A. I am unacquainted what would have been the Consequence.

Q. Do you know any thing of the Laws or Rules of that Country but from Conversation or Rumour?

A. No, I am not acquainted with that.

Q. What do you understand to be the Situation of a Zemindar?

A. A Possessor of a District under a Sunnud.

Q. What Alteration was made in that Situation afterwards, when you say the Rajah began to grow independent? What were his Endeavours to make himself independent?

A. He raised a large Body of Troops, and treated to join us while Sujah ul Dowlah was making Preparations to invade the Provinces. I considered that as a Mark of his endeavouring to obtain Independence.

Q. What do you understand the Meaning of the Word Sunnud to be, as near as you can explain it, in English?

A. A Grant.

Q. And as applied to a Zemindary, a Grant of a District of Land?

A. Yes.

Q. At what Period was Bulwant Sing invited or ordered into the Presence of Sujah ul Dowlah?

A. I believe it might have been early in the Year 1764, or the latter End of the Year 1763; when our Army retired from Buxar.

Q. Whether he at that Period was in the Service of Sujah ul Dowlah?

A. He was Zemindar of the District of Benares.

Q. You have described Bulwant Sing as having the Command of a Body of Troops attached to the Army of Sujah Dowlah: Was it at the Time when he was so commanding, and attached to the Army of Sujah ul Dowlah, or before that Time, that he was ordered into the Presence of Sujah ul Dowlah?

A. It was before.

Q. You said he refused to go?

A. There was a Story universally believed, that Sujah ul Dowlah was obliged to send his own Son to him before he would come into his Presence.

Q. The Whole of this you speak from the Relation that was current in the Camp at the Time?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you know or believe that Sujah ul Dowlah had any Right to punish Bulwant Sing for refusing to come into his Presence?

A. I do not know.

Q. You were speaking of the Duty of a Vassal to be attendant on his Superior—Whether you know any Instance of such Vassal so bound commuting his Service for a Tribute or a Sum of Money?

A. I do not.

The Witnesses was directed to withdraw.

Then HENRY FOX CALCRAFT Esquire was called in, and being sworn, was examined as follows:

Q. Whether you served in the Army under the Command of Major Popham at Bidjeygur?

A. Yes.

Q. In what Rank did you serve?

A. As Colonel Popham's Aid de Camp.

Q. Was you present at the Surrender of the Fort?

A. Yes, I was present.

Q. Whether the Treasure found in the Fort was divided amongst the Detachment of the Army?

A. It was.

Q. By what Authority was it so divided?

A. Under the immediate Order of Colonel Popham, as I understood.

Q. What Opportunity had you of knowing by whose Orders they were divided?

A. After the Capture of the Fort, the Officers were desired to send for their Shares.

Q. Who sent them that Order?

A. The Order was circulated in the usual Military Form.

Q. You were Aid de Camp at that Time to Major Popham? Did you circulate that Order?

A. I believe it was written by the Brigade Major; I do not know whether it went through me, but I saw it.

Q. What is the usual Military Form of circulating Orders?

A. The Order originates in the Brigade Major's Office; it is copied from thence by the several Serjeants, and circulated through the Camp to the Gentlemen of the Detachment.

Q. Whether you know under what Authority Colonel Popham issued any Orders upon that Head?

A. On the Day of the Surrender, Colonel Popham shewed me a Letter from Mr. Hastings, which he deemed an Order, or I believe he would not have permitted it to be done.

Objected by the Counsel, that the Witness ought not to give Evidence of a Paper in the Possession of Major Popham; if the Paper exists, the Managers for the Commons ought to have given Major Popham Notice to attend, and produce it.

The Managers for the Commons answered, that the Question did not go to the Contents of the Paper.

Q. The Question is, whether the Division was by the Order of Major Popham?
 A. The Division was under the Order of Major Popham.

The Counsel objected, that the Letter said to have passed between Mr. Hastings and Major Popham ought to be produced and shewn to the Witnesses.

Notice was taken by the House, that the Witnesses had stated that the Governor General wrote a certain Letter to Major Popham, and that an Order for the Division of the Prize Money was given by Major Popham; and the Managers for the Commons were asked, whether they could carry that Point further?

The Managers for the Commons answered, " They could not."

Q. Whether you were sent by Colonel Popham with the News of the Surrender of the Fort of Bidjeygur to Mr. Hastings, the Governor General?

A. Yes.

Q. Whether you acquainted Mr. Hastings with the Division of the Plunder?

A. I did.

Q. Did Mr. Hastings express at that Time any Dissatisfaction at that Division?

A. Very great Dissatisfaction.

Q. Perhaps it may be better to ask, at what Time it was after the Plunder had been divided that the Witnesses acquainted Mr. Hastings with it?

A. I think I went the same Day the Money was divided, and arrived the next Morning at Chunar.

Q. How long was it between the Division of the Money and the Capture of the Fort?

A. To the best of my Remembrance the Money was divided the succeeding Day after the Fort was taken.

Q. Do you recollect the Day of the Month upon which the Fort was taken?

A. I think it was either the 9th or 10th of November. I don't speak positively as to that.

Q. Upon the Day after the Capture of the Fort, the Money was divided; and upon that Day or the next you went and acquainted Mr. Hastings with it, and at which Information you say he expressed great Dissatisfaction?

A. Yes.

Q. What Conversation passed between you and Mr. Hastings at the Time you acquainted him with this Transaction, and at which he expressed his Dissatisfaction?

A. A little while after I was introduced to Mr. Hastings, I begged his Acceptance of a Sword, in the Name of the Gentlemen of the Detachment, as a Testimony of their Respect and Esteem for him. Mr. Hastings said, "As such I accept it." He then asked me whether it was true that the Money had been divided; as a Rumour of that Sort had preceded my Arrival? I answered, It was true: At which Mr. Hastings expressed the most vehement Disapprobation. After some Conversation respecting it, which, from the Distance of Time, I cannot detail so circumstantially as I could wish, I retired. About a Quarter of an Hour afterwards Mr. Hastings sent for me, and asked what could have impelled Major Popham, when he was at so short a Distance, to suffer this Division of the Money, at a Time when the Company stood so much in Want of it. I answered, that I had seen a Letter which, according to my Conception and Construction of it, did authorize the Participation of the Plunder. Mr. Hastings said, that he had been referred to in every consequential Operation of the War, and it was very odd that a Business of this Magnitude should have been concluded without his Concurrence; and that the Letter I alluded to was no Authority: He then said the Officers must refund. I believe I should have stated, that, with the Sword, I gave a Letter from the Gentlemen of the Detachment, professing what I mentioned before. He said they must refund. I said I believed it would be impossible, for the Money was already too generally diffused. Mr. Hastings said, if the Gentlemen would refund, he would use his Influence with Mr. Wheeler and Mr. McPherson to give their Sanction for a Division afterwards; but the Company wanted it now, and they must have it.—I mean to say, that at this Distance of Time it is impossible I should recollect very circumstantially; it is near Eight or Nine Years ago. What I now say are the Heads of the Conversation, as it recurs to my Memory.

Q. Was that all the Conversation?

A. No.

The Witnesses said he was endeavouring to recollect further Heads, and then proceeded as follows:

A. I then told Mr. Hastings, that one Motive for the Precipitancy was the Recollection that the Rohilla Gratuity, or Prize Money, was not yet paid. That Money, Mr. Hastings said, the Troops had no Right to; and finally sent me back with a Letter, the Contents of which I am not acquainted acquainted with; but it occasioned an Order from Major Popham to the Gentlemen to refund; which, however, none of them did.

Q. Whether any Present was sent from the Detachment to any Person; and what it was?

A. I should have mentioned, there were a few Articles of ornamental Plate which they desired Mrs. Hastings's Acceptance of. I mentioned this Circumstance to Mr. Hastings; but I do not believe she ever saw them; they were left there. I do not exactly recollect what Mr. Hastings said, but think it was, He would settle that. There is one Circumstance more I should have mentioned, which is, that Mr. Hastings, before I went away, said, his Acceptance of the Sword was conditional upon the Gentlemen refunding; and if they would not refund, then he would not accept it, or the other Presents. When I went away with the Letter, the Sword and the other Things were left in the Custody of Mr. Markham; what became of them afterwards I do not know.

Q. You said Mrs. Hastings never saw them.

A. No.

Q. What Conversation had you with the Governor General upon the Subject of the Letter authorizing the Plunder?

A. Mr. Hastings denied it was any Authority; and, as I recollect, made some Distinction between a private and a public Letter; he said it was a private Letter; and I said it could not be a private Letter, because it contained public Matter.

Q. What Conversation passed upon that?

A. The Conversation is not sufficiently impressed upon my Mind to recollect any more of it.

Q. (Cross-examined) The Witness having said, that the Acceptance of the Sword was conditional, I wish to ask, did Mr. Hastings retain the Sword?

A. Certainly not.

Q. Do you know whether Mrs. Hastings ever was in Possession of the Plate?

A. I am sure she was not.

Q. Having stated that you were present at the Surrender of the Fort of Bidjeygur—do you know whether any Plunder was committed upon the Person of the Rannee herself?

A. None to my Knowledge. I do not say that none was, but I do not know of any.

Q. Do you know at what Time of Night the Fort was evacuated?

A. It was at the Close of the Day; I do not exactly recollect.

Q. What Hour?

A. I cannot name the Hour; some Time in the Evening.

Q. Whether the Plunder that was committed upon the Persons who attended the Rannee was committed by the Soldiers of the Army, or the Followers?

A. Every Attempt was made to discover who it was done by, but it never could be discovered: I never heard any Person was punished for it; though Major Popham did his utmost to discover it.

Q. Whether any Officers were called upon to refund, or did afterwards refund the Money?

A. They were called upon, and did not refund.

Q. Whether at the Time the Rannee left the Fort every possible Mark of Respect and Attention was not shewn to her?

A. I do not recollect any particular Circumstance of Respect or Attention; but they had Palanquins and Cooleys, and every Thing of that Kind for their Accommodation.

Q. (By a Lord) The Witness said, the Rannee herself was not plundered; I wish him to be asked, whether any Escort was given to the Ladies when they left the Fort?

A. I should suppose there was, but I do not know whether there was or not, but I think there must have been.

Q. Whether before the Surrender of the Fort it was not generally understood by the Officers of the Army that the Plunder of the Fort was to be divided amongst them?

A. I can only say what I thought of it myself; I thought if there was a large Sum of Money Mr. Hastings would take it for the Company, if a small one it would be divided.

Q. Do you know the Amount of the whole Sum that was divided amongst the Army?

A. The Rannee had Fifteen per Cent. upon it, and I believe Twenty-four or Twenty-five Lacks were divided.

Q. You have said, that if it were a great Sum of Money you thought the Company would have it, if a small one you thought it would be divided: Whether you do not conceive Twenty-four or Twenty-five Lacks of Rupees come within the Description of a large Sum of Money?

A. Doubtless it is a large Sum.

Q. Do

Q. Do you know whether the Money was equally divided amongst the Officers and Soldiers, or in what Shares?

A. It was settled by a Committee of ~~Officers~~—a Scapoy got 100 Rupees; it was thought to be a very fair and equal Division.

Q. Whether it was by Order of Major Popham that the Ladies left the Fort at so late an Hour; was it their own Act, or the Order of your Commander? Do you know any Thing of it?

A. I do not.

Q. Can you state what was the Value of the Sword in Question?

A. I have no Idea of it; it was set with very bad Jewels; it was of no very great Value.

Q. Whether you had any Conversation with Major Popham upon the Remarks Mr. Hastings made on the Division of the Plunder?

A. I detailed the Conversation to Major Popham very circumstantially, but I do not recollect any particular Conversation between him and me upon it. I thought Mr. Hastings's Rejection of the Right did not agree with the Purport of that Letter, and Major Popham and I thought we had a Right to keep it.

Q. Whether the Receipt of that Letter was generally known in the Army?

A. I cannot tell.

Q. You said it was your Opinion if the Sum found in the Fort was a small one, the Governor General would give it up to be divided; if it was a large one, he would secure it for the Advantage of the Company: At what Time did you form that Opinion?

A. I cannot say when I formed the Opinion, but it was exactly what I would have done myself, and that is the Reason why I entertained that Opinion.

Q. Do you recollect whether you formed that Opinion before or after your hearing of that Letter?

A. I considered the Letter as a palpable Admission of the Right.

Q. After you had seen the Letter, did you then retain that Opinion?

A. I think I have answered the Question by saying, I considered the Letter as an Admission of the Right.

Q. The Question put to you is, after you had seen that Letter which you suppose to be an Admission of the Right, Did you continue to entertain an Opinion that a Difference would be made between a large and a small Sum?

A. Most certainly not.

Q. Whether Mr. Hastings said any Thing to you about the Right that any other Officers or Soldiers besides those present at the taking of the Fort had to a Division of the Plunder?

A. Yes; I now recollect that Mr. Hastings said the Division was a Scramble rather than a Division, and if there was any Division Colonel Blair and Major White ought to have been included.

Q. Who were they? What Part of the Army did they command?

A. Colonel Blair commanded at Chunar, and Major White (who commanded a Regiment at Chunar), had waived his Right to Major Popham.

Q. How far is Chunar from Bidjeygur?

A. I believe about 40 or 50 Miles.

Q. (By the Managers) The Witness said first, he did not know what the Value of the Sabre was, and afterwards that it was not considerable; I wish to know whether he has any Knowledge of the Value of the Jewels?

A. That Sabre was ornamented with a particular Sort of Jewels called Lasks, an inferior Sort of Diamonds.

Q. Do you know the Difference between Lasks and proper Diamonds?

A. A Lask is a very thin cutting of a Diamond, and those are of little or no Value.

Q. When you left Chunar, in whose Possession did you leave the Sabre and the Plate?

A. I was asked in whose Possession I left the Sword and other Things; the Answer is, I left them with Mr. Markham.

Q. Did you ever see them afterwards, or hear any Thing of them?

A. No.

Q. Then how can you take upon yourself to say positively that they never came into the Possession of Mr. or Mrs. Hastings?

A. Because they were carried out of the Room by me, and I gave them into Mr. Markham's Hands; I speak only to my Belief of the Subject, that Mrs. Hastings never saw the Plate.

Q. Who was Mr. Markham?

A. Resident at Benares.

Q. At

Q. At that Time?

A. Yes.

Q. Did Major Popham express any Surprise at Mr. Hastings's Disapprobation of the Division of the Plunder?

A. I do not recollect what passed between Major Popham and me upon it.

The Witness was directed to withdraw.

Then JOHN BENN Esq; was called in, and being sworn, was examined as follows :

Q. In what Situation was you at Benares?

A. In the Year 1782 and 1783, I was Assistant to the Resident at Benares.

Q. When was you appointed Assistant to the Resident at Benares?

A. In January 1781.

Q. Did you go to reside there then?

A. No; not till some Time after.

Q. When did you go to reside at Benares?

A. In the Month of April 1782 : In March or April.

Q. I should wish the Witness to be asked, Whether he had any Opportunity of examining into, or knowing what Rent or Revenue the Country of Benares was able to pay?

A. I resided there for some Time, and made such Enquiries as I thought would ascertain it.

Q. Did those Enquiries, or did they not, furnish you with an Opportunity of knowing that Fact?

A. Not as a Certainty, but as a Matter of Opinion.

Q. What was the Result of your Opinion from the Enquiry you made?

A. I thought that the Country would not continue to yield Forty Lacks of Rupees.

Q. Whether he has any Means of knowing what the Country did yield in the Time of Bulwant Sing?

A. No certain Documents.

Here the Question and Answer were, by Desire of the Managers for the Commons, read over to the Witness by the Clerk.

Then the Witness was asked,

Q. Have you any other Means of knowing besides certain Documents?

A. I have enquired of some of the Servants of the Rajah, employed in his Offices.

The Counsel for the Defendant objected, That this was not Evidence to ascertain the precise Sum.

The Managers for the Commons stated, That there was an Account before the House, by which it appeared there was an Allowance to Rajah Mehpnarrain of Six Lacks of Rupees, and desired the Witness might be asked,

Q. Whether that Allowance was annually received by Mehpnarrain?

A. I believe it was not.

Q. Do you know the Reason why it was not received?

A. I understood the Rajah claimed it from the Naib, and it appeared the Country would not yield it.

Q. What Manner of Understanding had you of it? How did you understand it?

A. From the Naib himself; he told me so.

Q. Who was the Naib?

A. Doorgbijey Sing, and Jagger Deo Sing.

The Counsel for the Defendant objected, What Jagger Deo Sing and the other Naib said was no Evidence.

Q. Do you know at what Time Doorgbijey Sing was put into Confinement?

A. The latter End of October or November 1782.

Q. How long did he continue in Confinement?

A. Till April following, 1783.

Q. I would wish to know whether he was ever again put into Confinement after that April? Was he discharged in April?

A. He was.

Q. Do you know of his being put in ~~Confinement~~ after that ?

A. He was.

Q. When was it ?

A. About the March following, 1784.

Q. Do you know of the Fact of his being confined ?

A. I do.

Q. How long did he continue in that Second Confinement ?

A. I believe till March 1785.

Q. Was he then released from his Confinement ?

A. He died, I believe, in Confinement, in that Month.

Q. Do you know any Thing of his Confinement ; where was he confined ?

A. He was confined at Benares.

Q. Do you know of his having died in that Confinement ?

A. Yes.

Q. Whether any Complaints were ever made to you, in your Situation as Assistant Resident, that the Rajah did not receive the Stipend allotted to him of Six Lacks of Rupees ?

A. None—no Complaints.

Q. Do you know of any such Complaints being made to any other Person, and to whom ?

A. No.

Q. I should wish that he was desired to recollect himself, and answer the Question, Whether he does not know that Rajah Mehipnarrain made Complaints, that his Allowance was not paid to him, to the Officers of the British Government, and to whom ?

A. I do not recollect that he made any Complaints to any of the Officers of the British Government at Benares.

Q. Do you know that the Naib Doorgbijey Sing complained he could not collect the Revenues of the Country, to any of the Officers of the British Government ?

A. I do not.

The Counsel objected to this as no Evidence, unless the Complaints were afterwards represented to Mr. Hastings.

Q. Do you know whether Doorgbijey Sing made any Complaint to any of the Officers of the British Government that he could not collect the Revenue ?

A. I do not recollect he did.

The Managers for the Commons said, They were extremely sorry to put the Question again to the Witness, to desire he would inform the House,

Q. Whether Doorgbijey Sing complained to any Officers of the British Government that he could not collect the Revenue ?

A. I do not recollect he did.

Q. Did he ever complain to any of the Officers of the British Government, and to whom, that he could not collect the Sum of Six Lacks, which was allowed to the Rajah ?

A. I never heard that Doorgbijey Sing did make that Complaint.

Q. Do you or do you not know whether the whole Sum of Six Lacks annually was paid to Rajah Mehipnarrain ?

A. I believe it was not.

Q. Do you know any Thing of it—was it a Part of your Business to know whether it was or was not paid ?

A. No, it was not.

Q. (Cross examined) Whether you had any Opportunity of seeing Doorgbijey Sing during the Time he was in Confinement ?

A. I never did see him during the Time he was in Confinement.

Q. Do you know where he was confined, and how he was treated ?

A. He was confined in a House at Benares belonging to the Rajah, situated in a Garden, which, I believe, might be about Six Acres of Ground ; the House was in the Centre, and surrounded by a high Wall. He had Permission to walk about that Garden, and the Guard placed to secure him was on the Outside of the Wall of the Garden.

Q. It having been suggested, this Confinement was the Cause of the Death of Doorgbijey Sing, I would wish the Witness to say what he knows was the Cause of Doorbedjy Sing's Death ?

A. I believe Dificale was the Cause of his Death.

Q. Do

Q. Do you know any Thing of his Death, or what occasioned it?

A. He had been long ill, and died of that Illness.

Q. Whether the Subject of the Demand, relative to the Arrears of Rent, was not submitted to Arbitration, on the Part of the Company, to Ally Ibrahim Cawn, and whether Doorgbijey Sing did not submit to that Arbitration?

A. It was submitted to Arbitration.

Q. By whose Consent?

A. By mutual Consent.

Q. Of whom?

A. Of Doorgbijey Sing and Jagger Deo Sing.

Q. To whom?

A. Ally Ibrahim Cawn.

Q. Whether Ally Ibrahim Cawn awarded any Thing, and what to be due to the Company?

A. I do not know the exact Sum, but think he awarded to the Company about 1,50,000 Rupees.

Q. Was the Award made in Writing?

A. It was.

Q. What was the Character of Ally Ibrahim Cawn, and in what Esteem was he with the Natives?

A. In very high Estimation.

Q. Whether it was usual to have a Mahometan in the Situation of Chief or Supreme Magistrate before this Time?

A. In 1781 he was Chief Judge of Criminal and Civil Matters; I believe before the Country was ceded to the East India Company, and while it was under the Vizier, Justice was administered by a Mahometan. When it was given up to the British Government, it was administered by a Hindoo, put in by the Rajah?

Q. Whether, in all the Time you was at Benares, you ever heard a single Complaint made against Ally Ibrahim Cawn?

A. I never heard One.

Q. In what Situation, in point of Cultivation and Population, was Benares when you saw it last, and what Part of the District of Benares have you seen?

A. I have seen nearly the whole District.

Q. When did you see it last?

A. I left Benares in the Year 1786; I believe in February in that Year.

Q. What was the Condition of Benares when you saw it last, in point of Cultivation and Population?

A. It was both well cultivated and peopled, the Parts I saw.

Q. Did you see Benares in 1783, and in what Condition of Population or Cultivation was it then?

A. In 1783 I travelled from Benares to Buxar, on One Side of the River, and we travelled the same Distance upon the other Side of the River. I also travelled through the District of Benares to Chaundpore, which was rather a circuitous Way over that District, and I found it both populous and well cultivated.

Q. Do you know any Thing of it in the Years 1784 and 1785?

A. I resided in the Province of Benares in the Years 1784 and 1785; and the Description that I have given appears to be as applicable to those Years as the others.

Then the Managers for the Commons desired Permission to put a few Questions to the Witnesses which they had omitted; and first,

Q. Under whose Direction the Mint at Benares was, during the Time of his Residence there?

A. Under the Direction of the Resident.

Q. How were the Profits arising from the Mint applied; do you know?

A. As a Perquisite of the Resident's Office.

Q. Do you know whether there was any Monopoly of Salt Petre in the Province of Benares while you were there?

The Counsel for the Defendant submitted, That before this Question was answered, the Managers for the Commons should point out whether it had any Reference to the Charge.

The Managers for the Commons were asked, To what Point of the Charge the Question applied?

They made Answer, That it was stated in the Charge, that Mr. Hastings arbitrarily deposed Rajah Cheyt Sing, and gave the Government to Rajah Mehipnarrain.

It was further stated, That the Mint belonged to him, and that the Question was put with a View to shew how Mr. Hastings settled the Government after he placed Mehpnarrain there.

The Counsel for the Defendant replied, That the Charge states the Instances in which he did tyrannically settle the Government *: That he did of his own mere Authority raise the Tribute to 400,000l. and that he wantonly and illegally imposed certain oppressive Duties upon Goods and Merchandize, to the great Injury of Trade and Ruin of the Province; and did further dispose of as his own the Property within the said Provinces, by granting the same, or Parts thereof, in Pensions to such Persons as he thought fit: And therefore submitted that the Managers for the Commons ought to bring the Question within these Specifications.

The Managers for the Commons maintained, That to prove the Defendant guilty of great Misdemeanours in having deposed Cheyt Sing and setting up Rajah Mehpnarrain, it was necessary to shew how and upon what Terms he had so done; and therefore, amongst other Things, they should shew that he gave the Monopoly of Trade to Persons belonging to himself.

The Managers for the Commons were asked, Whether they pressed that particular Question? To which they answered, That they did not mean to give up their Right to put the Question; but should not at that late Hour trouble the House to go to the Chamber of Parliament.

The Managers for the Commons then proposed to put this Question to the Witness, viz. Whether he was examined before the Committee of the House of Commons?

The Counsel for the Defendant stated, that this was a new Question, and that the Managers for the Commons had no Right to put it, unless it arose out of Matter in the Cross-examination.

The Counsel being asked, If they had any Objection to the Question now proposed being put? Made answer, That they had not, except that it was a new Examination.

Then the Question was put.

Q. Have you ever been examined before the Committee of the House of Commons?

A. I have.

Q. Whether you did not before that Committee answer the following Question in the following Manner: "Who was to pay Mehpnarrain the Allowances stipulated for him by the Governor General? Answer. Doorgbijey Sing."

The Counsel were asked, If they objected to that Question being put?

The Counsel answered, That they must object to that Question, it being perfectly new in Judicature for a Party to undertake to impeach his own Witness; and were heard in Support of the said Objection.

The Managers for the Commons were heard in Answer to the same, and, in the Course of their Argument, acquainted the House, that the Question and Answer which they had proposed the Witness to speak to, were only introductory to a further Question put to the Witness, and his Answer thereto, before the Committee of the House of Commons, which they meant to insist upon, and stated the same as follows:

"Q. Did he not alledge he never received what was allowed him?

A. He says he had not received the Sum that was to be allowed him. He did not receive his Money Allowance, because the Receipts of the Country could not afford it, they being estimated at a Standard of 49 Lacks, whereas they cannot produce above 44 or 45 Lacks, nor that, unless good Care is taken of the Country. The State of the Country depends on its being well nursed. The Country has been made by Care, and without that Care would soon fall off. It never yielded in Bulwant Sing or Cheit Sing's Time above 45 Lacks."

Then the House adjourned to the Chamber of Parliament.

Die Jovis, 10<sup>o</sup> Aprilis 1788.

THE Lords being in their Places, the House resumed, the usual Proclamations made, and the Defendant appearing at the Bar, the Lord Chancellor said: Gentlemen of the House of Commons, I am commanded by the Lords to acquaint you, that it is not competent to the Managers for the Commons to put the Question last proposed by them to the Witness, namely, "Whether he had not, before a Committee of the House of Commons, answered the following Question in the following Manner;

Q. Who was to pay Mehpnarrain the Allowances stipulated for him by the Governor General?

A. Doorgbijey Sing."

The Managers for the Commons requested leave to withdraw for a while.

The Managers for the Commons being returned, said, it was with the greatest Concern they informed the House, that it was impossible for them to acquiesce in the Decision of the House: That they felt it so important not only to the present Question, but to the Whole of the Trial, and to the Proceedings upon Impeachment in general, that they should hold themselves bound to go back to the House of Commons, who sent them thither, to take Instructions from them how to proceed, if they did not feel it necessary to proceed with Vigour and Dispatch, which might make them for the present waive their Opinion upon the Subject, but under a Protest the most strong, that they had a Right to put the Question proposed, and that if they should think a similar Question necessary to be put in the Course of the future Proceedings, they would propose it for the more deliberate Judgment of the House.

The Managers for the Commons were informed they might proceed with their Evidence.

Then John Benn Esquire was again called in, and the following Question put to him on the 29th of February last, and his Answer thereto, were read to him:

Q. Have you ever been examined before a Committee of the House of Commons?

A. I have.

Then the Witness was asked,

Q. What was the Purport of the Evidence he gave before that Committee?

A. The first Part of the Evidence was relative to my Situation at Benares.

The Witness asked, if it was meant that he should go through the Whole, as far as he could recollect?

The Managers for the Commons said, It was: Whereupon the Witness proceeded as follows.

A. I was examined also relative to the Imprisonment of Doorgbijey Sing; to the Appointment of Jagger Deo Sing; to the dispossessing him, and the appointing a Third Naib; relative to the Rajah of Benares; to his receiving or not receiving the Sum of Six Lacks of Rupees, as set down in the general Account of the Country in Mr. Hastings's Narrative; respecting what I suppose to be the Value of the annual Revenue of that Country. I do not recollect any other material Question respecting Benares that was asked me, except as to my Knowledge of the Rajah having not received the Six Lacks of Rupees. I was also questioned relative to the Produce of Saltpetre in that District; and also to the Produce of the Opium in that District. Those were the only material Questions asked me. There were many others which formed Part of those general Heads; but I speak rather from an imperfect Recollection, as I never saw the Evidence after I gave it upon those Subjects: It is now some Time since; and if there be any other that I have not mentioned, I should hope it might be mentioned from the Managers, if it is of any Consequence, that I may answer it.

The Managers for the Commons stated, that the Witness had given an Account of the Subjects upon which he was examined before the Committee; and that the Managers did not want to know what Questions were asked him, but what Answers he gave with respect to the particular Articles mentioned.

A. I find myself at a Loss—My Examinations were long; it is a considerable Time since; and I may, perhaps, omit Part that I mentioned there—There are Circumstances of Recollection; and one Circumstance recalls to Mind another: Perhaps I may here omit to state some Circumstances that were there put to me, which I do not recollect now.

Q. Do you recollect what Account you gave of the several Articles you have mentioned?

A. Of those I have mentioned I think I do.

Q. Upon what Head in particular?

A. May I be allowed to look at the Evidence which I gave before the Committee of the House of Commons to refresh my Memory upon the Circumstances that were then asked?

Q. (By a Lord.) I wish to ask, Whether the Evidence given by you before the Committee of the House of Commons was subsequently read over to you after it was taken down?

A. In different Parts the Answer that I made was read immediately: A fresh Question was then put to me; the Question was read as taken down by the Clerk of the Committee, and the Answer that I gave was read to me as taken down by him, as far as I can recollect.

Q. Whether, if it was taken incorrectly, the Evidence was corrected as taken down?

A. I do not recollect any Instances of Incorrectness; But I made my Replies and entered into Conversations upon the particular Parts where there appeared to be any Doubt, as explanatory of what I had said, or to ask the Meaning of such Questions as were put to me which might admit of Two Meanings. At my First Examination upon the Business of Benares, I seemed, before the Committee, to be rather at a Loss at first to answer immediately to their Questions: One of the Managers, I thought, seemed to imagine I was rather thinking how to evade the Questions, than how to answer them—I speak of the Idea I myself had. I was at a former Examination upon a different Charge; and upon receiving a Second Summons to attend the Committee, I imagined that I should have been examined upon that same Charge: When I appeared before the Committee, I found it was to a different Charge, and that it was an Examination of Recollection to Circumstances that had passed Six, Seven, or perhaps Eight Years before: I did not find myself immediately competent to answer the Questions immediately put to me, without considering; because I had not prepared my Mind, or refreshed my Recollection, before I went there, upon that particular Charge, supposing that I should not then be examined upon it. I mentioned this Circumstance at that Time to the Honourable Managers, stating the Difficulty that I felt. The Reply was, That the Committee was not a captious Committee, that I might look over my Evidence, and if there was any Thing in it that, upon Recollection, I did not appear to have answered to my own Satisfaction, I might correct it. There was, as I understood afterwards (I did not know the Resolution at the Time) a Resolution not to permit a Witness to examine his Evidence after the First Day; I do not mean to say that this was not stated to me. It was a Resolution of the Committee of which I was uninformed; and as a Resolution of the Committee, I could not examine my Evidence afterwards upon the Business of Benares. I do not recollect any other Circumstance. I believe, if I have Permission to look at the Examination, it would be of Service certainly to me in answering the Questions that are put to me.

Q. Whether you recollect what you said respecting the Payment of the Allowances to Mehinnarrain?

A. I said, That the Rajah did not receive the Six Lacks of Rupees which were set down in the general Accounts of the Country as a Sum of Money that would leave a supposed Surplus that would remain in his Treasury after the Company had received their Tribute, and after the necessary Expences of the Collection were defrayed; and that is the Meaning of what I said. As to the very Words, I cannot recollect them.—I was asked by the Committee how I knew that the Rajah did not receive that Sum? My Answer was, I think, That the Rajah told me so himself; that I knew it both from the Naib and from the Rajah.—I think I was asked, if the Rajah ever complained of not receiving it? I believe I answered upon one Meaning of the Word “complained,” that he did complain; stating, that the Rajah’s Communication with me was not an official one: To me he could not officially complain. If he had meant to have made any official Complaint he would have made it to the Resident, the Duties of whose Office it was to hear the Rajah’s Complaints, and to communicate them to the Government if they required Redress.—The Question asked at your Lordships Bar, I believe, was, if the Rajah ever complained to the Officers of Government? To that Question, at the Bar of your Lordships, I answered, No: Because the Rajah stating to me that he did not receive that Sum, I did not conceive it to be of the Nature of a Complaint to an Officer of Government, because as such the Rajah could not complain to me.

I had

I had no official Power to hear his Complaint, or to redress his Complaint, or to communicate his Complaint.

Q. In what Character was you at Benares?

A. As Assistant to the Resident at Benares.

Q. Was it of Course, or did the Resident, or his Assistant Resident, transmit any Petitions, Remonstrances, or Complaints; or was there Communication of any Sort through them, or either of them, from any of the Inhabitants of that Country to the Governor?

A. It was the Business of the Resident to transmit all the Papers intended for the Government to the Government.

Q. What was the Business of the Assistant Resident?

A. The Assistant Resident was immediately under the Resident, to follow his Instructions; he had no Power independent of the Resident, and the Resident was the Channel of Communication with the Government.

Q. Do you mean the Assistant Resident never did communicate actually with the Government?

A. Only in the Absence of the Resident, or in Cases of his Indisposition, when he could not communicate the Papers; in such Cases the Assistant Resident was Locum tenens.

Q. But when the Resident was actually there, did the Assistant Resident communicate with the Resident himself?—Was it the Business of the Assistant Resident to communicate with the Resident when they were both upon the Spot?

A. I did in general.

Q. Did you communicate that Representation, whether Complaint or other, that was made by the Rajah?

A. I really cannot say whether I did or not; it was a Circumstance so well known that it did not require any Communication; the Resident knew it as perfectly well as I myself.

Q. By whom was you appointed to the Office of Assistant Resident?

A. By the Government of Bengal; by Mr. Hastings, the Governor General, and Mr. Welcher.

Q. To fix it more particularly, At what Time was the Appointment?

A. I believe about the Middle of January 1781.

Q. The Witness in his Cross Examination, upon being asked, Whether he had any Opportunity of seeing Doorgbijey Sing during the Time he was in Confinement, answered, that he never did see him at the Time of his Confinement. He was then asked, Where he was confined, and how he was treated: His Answer was, he was confined in a House situated in a Garden, at Benares, where the House was in the Centre, and surrounded by a high Wall; that he had Permission to walk about that Garden; and that the Guard placed to secure him was on the Outside of the Wall of the Garden; I wish to know, whether he meant to allude to the First or Second Confinement; or if there was any Difference in the Place or Manner of his Confinement at different Periods?

A. I believe there was at first a Guard placed for his Security on the Outside of the Garden Wall, and it was afterwards placed in the Inside; there was also, I think, a Guard placed at the Door of the House in the Inside of the Garden.

Q. Was it upon the First or Second Time of his Confinement that the Guard was placed within and at the Door of the House?

A. I believe, the Second Time. I believe at one Time, for a few Days, he was deprived of his Hooka, or the Privilege of Smoking; that was the only Circumstance of Severity as I recollect that was shewn to him.

Q. You said "he was confined in a House at Benares belonging to the Rajah, situated in a Garden, which I believe might be about Six Acres of Ground, the House was in the Centre, and surrounded by a high Wall; he had Permission to walk about that Garden, and the Guard placed to secure him was on the Outside of the Wall of the Garden"; and I want to know, whether the Answer you so gave was meant to describe the First Period of his Confinement, and not the Second?

A. To the best of my Recollection, the First: It was an immaterial Circumstance, as I thought it then; but I believe it was the First Time.

Q. Was there any other Difference in the Second Time of Confinement, except those you have mentioned?

A. None.

Q. Your Answer then went to describe the milder Confinement?

A. I do not recollect that; I think before the Committee of the House of Commons I mentioned all the Circumstances that I have now mentioned.

Q. In

Q. In the Answer you gave to this House, did you mean to speak of the First Confinement, and not of the Second?

A. Of the First only, with that Variation of the Guard being placed within Side of the Garden instead of the outer Wall, and that of the Guard being placed at the Door of the House; but he was not deprived of the Use of the Garden, and the Privilege of walking in it.

Q. The Question now put to you is, What you meant, as far as you can recollect, by the general Answer you gave, when last before the House, "that he was confined, and Guards placed without the Wall"; did you mean to confine yourself to the first Confinement, or to give that Answer throughout to both Times of his Confinement?

A. I did not make that Discrimination in my own Mind. The placing the Guards within Side the Wall, and at the Door of the House, or upon the Outside, was a Circumstance that did not particularly strike me; and unless my Memory had been refreshed by the Question asked by the Honourable Manager, I believe I should not have recollected it now.

Q. If you thought the Circumstance immaterial, whether the Guard was placed upon the Outside or the Inside of the Wall, how came you to mention that Circumstance at all?

A. I really cannot say why I mentioned the one in Preference to the other. I know of nothing further. There was no particular Hardship, as I thought, in the Guard being upon the Inside or on the Outside. I did not mean to conceal any Circumstance; I meant to mention all I knew.

Q. By whose Order was Doorbidjey Sing put into Confinement the First Time?

A. By Order of the Governor.

Q. Was the Governor there?

A. No—He was at Calcutta.

Q. Then it was an Order transmitted from the Government of Calcutta to the Resident of Benares?

A. Yes.

Q. By what Authority was the Second Confinement?

A. I am not clear in my Recollection, whether the Second Confinement was from the Government at large, or from the Governor General in consequence of Powers given to the Governor General from the Government at large: I don't immediately recollect it; but I am sure it was one of them.

Q. Were his Papers seized?

A. They were.

Q. By whose Orders?

A. I believe it formed a Part of the Regulation. When Doorbijey Sing was seized and dismissed from his Office, it formed a Part of the Regulation to seize his Papers, as the Documents of his Office.

Q. What do you mean by the Regulation?

A. I mean the Mode that the Resident at Benares thought the most efficacious to proceed in to secure the Company's Revenue. I do not recollect whether he had any positive Instructions from the Government for this or not particularly; whether the Instructions were particular or general: But I should imagine it may easily be known by Reference to the Proceedings, which are in England.

Q. You don't know whether it was by particular Directions, or whether it was the Manner in which the Resident executed a general Order?

A. I don't immediately recollect; but I think it was by Directions from the Government: My Recollection is not clear about that.

Q. The Proceedings, you say, are here in England?

A. The Proceedings are here in England, I believe: They will shew the Manner of the Resident's Proceedings; and it will appear from them, whether it was his own Regulations upon general Instructions, or upon particular Instructions.

Q. Was the visible Property of Doorbijey Sing, or any Part of it, sequestered?

A. It was intended, I believe, to sequester any Property of his that might be found; but upon Examination none could be found, except some very trifling Things of no Consequence.

Q. Was his Jaghire sequestered?

A. It was.

Q. When his Papers were seized, was an Account made out against him from those Papers, by which it appeared that he had received more than he accounted for?

A. I believe those Papers were examined by the Rajah's Agent; but I am not very clear in my Recollection of those Papers.

Q. Do you know any Thing of the Fact of seizing those Papers ?

A. Yes; the Treasury was seized, and the Accounts ~~impr~~.

Q. Was the Treasury a Public Office ?

A. Yes, the Public Office of the Zemindary, the Place of general Receipts and Disbursements.

Q. Are the Papers you are speaking of the Papers that were seized in that Treasury ?

A. Yes, the Account of Collections and Expences of the Zemindary.

Q. Do you or do you not recollect whether any Account was actually made out, or could be made out, from these Papers, by which it appeared he had received more than he had accounted for ?

A. I recollect it appeared, from examining those Papers, and the Receipts that were produced by some Farmers in the Country, that he had not entered all the Money he had received. I recollect the Circumstance of a Farmer producing an Acquittance that he had paid all his Rents for that Year; but I believe it did not appear, from those Accounts, that Doorbijey Sing had given him Credit for all that it appeared by the Receipt of Acquittal that he had paid. I do not recollect; I never saw any Account made out; but I generally understood that he had collected a good deal more than he had paid upon the Part of Government.

Q. My Question was not about what he understood in general to be the Fact, but whether he knew from those Papers that any Evidence of that Fact was collected ?

The Clerk was directed to read the last Answer given by the Witnesses.

The same was accordingly read.

Q. When the Witnesses says it did not appear from these Papers that there was entered an Account according to the Receipts, does he speak to Matter of Belief from his own Recollection of the Fact, or what he has heard from other Persons ? or did he see it and conclude it himself from those Papers that were seized in the Treasury ?

A. The Instance that I recollect of a Farmer's producing an Acquittal, was of a Farmer whose Name was Kullbelly Beg.

Q. Do you know from your Observation of the Books, that the Sum mentioned in that Acquittal was not brought to Account; or did you take that from the Report of others ?

A. I took it from the Report of a Person who did examine it.

Q. Did you yourself examine those Papers ?

A. No, I did not.

Q. At any Time ?

A. No.

Q. If you did not at any Time examine those Papers, by what Means do you know those Papers did not correspond with the former Receipts ?

A. I believe I have answered to that—that I was told so by a Person that did examine them, who told me of this particular Circumstance respecting Kullbelly Beg.

Q. Was not a Letter or Petition transmitted to you, or to your Office, by Mr. Hastings, he then being at Benares, making a Complaint of several Grievances upon the Part of the Rajah Mehipnarain and his Family ?

The House inquired of the Managers for the Commons, Whether they meant transmitted to the Resident, or to the Witness personally ?

The Managers for the Commons answered, that they meant, to his Office; and added, it might be necessary to inform the House, that Mr. Benn was Assistant Resident to Two different Residents, viz. Mr. Markham and Mr. Fowke.

Then the following Letter, dated 14th March 1784, was produced by the Managers for the Commons, and shewed to the Witnesses.

“ To Francis Fowke Esq.

“ Sir,

“ I herewith send you a Petition which I have received from Rajah Mehipnarain, with a Paper containing an Explanation of it. I request that you will inform me if the Facts are justly stated, or in what Particulars they differ from his Representation of them. I also understand that the Rajah's Name is totally disused in all Sunnuds, Aumilnamas, and other Officers Deeds and Papers of the Naib's Office, and the Naib's used in his stead. Be pleased to inform me, since what Time this Practice has prevailed, and whether by any Authority expressly given to the Naib. On the preceding Points if you can furnish me with any Lights which may enable me to form a proper Judgment of them, I request to be informed thereof.

" I am, &c.

" Benares, 14th March 1784.

(Signed)

W. Hastings."

" Petition of Rajah Mehipnarain.

" When lifting me from the Dust of Obscurity, your Excellency exalted me to the Raaje of Benares, agreeable to the Usage of my Grandfather, Rajah Bulwand Sing, you confirmed to me the Jaghire and Altumgah Mahls, Half Buddock, and the Pergunnahs of Maaug and Mungrore; also Six Lacs and Thirty thousand Rupees odd, for my own Expences and Subundy.

" Baboo Durhbidjey Sing, my Naib, from his own Neglects, failing in the Revenues of the Sirkar, the Jaghire, &c. above mentioned, were sequestered till the Payment of the Balances, and a Perwannah sent me to make them good. Out of regard to the Orders of the Prefence, and hoping the Release of the Mahals, I paid the Demands of the Sirkar through Gopaul Dois; notwithstanding which, my Jaghire is still in Sequestration, and from the Day of my Exaltation to the Raja, I have not received a single Daam of the established Allowance for Support and Sebundy.

" Baboo Jaggudis Sing, contrary to good Policy and the Welfare of the People, makes Exactions from the whole Country, and does not pay even the fixed Revenue. There is neither Advantage to the Sirkar, nor Ease to the People.

" From my good Fortune, your Excellency has advanced to this Country. If a sure Settlement is not now made to my Advantage, I shall despair of its being done ever. From your compassionating Benevolence, I hope, that my Jaghire and Altumgah will be released to me, and Orders be given to the Chief of Benares to pay regularly to me the allotted Sum of Six Lacs and Thirty odd thousand Rupees for my own Expences and the Sebundy.

" Rajah Mehipnarain represents, that, since his Exaltation to the Raje, he has not enjoyed the smallest Part of that Consequence or Respect due to his Rank. Even the Town of Ramnagore allotted for his Residence, has been put under a Cutwal from another Authority.

" Half the Pergunnah of Buddock, producing a Revenue of One hundred and fifty-eight thousand three hundred and forty-one Rupees, was allotted him in Jaghire; the remaining Part he held from the Sirkar, at the Jemma of Seventy thousand five hundred Rupees.

" Mungrore, producing a Revenue of Fifty thousand Rupees, was granted in Altumgah to the Rannee Golaub Koor.

" Maitch, producing a Revenue of Sixty thousand Rupees, was granted in Jaghire to the Rajah's Father and Naib Baboo Durbedjey Sing.

" Baboo Durbedjey Sing, failing in his Payments to the Sirkar, the Whole of the abovementioned Grants were sequestered, and an Order sent from the Council to the Rajah to make good the Balances; but Mr. Markham, on the Rajah's Representation of his Case, released Half the Pergunnah of Buddock, and promised, when the Balances of the Sirkar should be paid, to release the others. The Rajah, seeing that his Father made no Efforts to pay the Demands of the Sirkar, satisfied them himself by the Assistance of the Banker Gopaul Dois. Mr. Markham assured him that his Promise should be kept, but he was recalled, and the Altumgah and Jaghire of Mungrore have not yet been restored. The Half of the Pergunnah of Buddock the Rajah at present possesses in Jaghire, and he now holds the Remainder of the Sirkar, with the Addition of Seventeen thousand Rupees to the former Jemma as before mentioned. He hopes that this Addition will be excused, and a Lease granted him at a fixed Jemma for the future; that the Altumgah of Mungrore will be released to the Rannee, and Maitch, the Jaghire of his Father, be allowed remain under him, till such Times as the Sums advanced on his Account for the Payments of the Sirkar shall be made good.

" Of the Six Lacs five hundred Rupees, allowed for the Muddud Kertch, the Rajah has not received One Daam since his being placed on the Raaje. He hopes that an Allowance will be made him on this Account from the Date of the Removal of his Father from the Neabut, and that he shall receive the Whole in future.

" The Rajah is in all Things obedient to the Sirkar, but he humbly hopes that the usual Ruffaam and Adaab of the Dignity of Rajah, may be allowed him, viz. that the Naib may receive a Khelaat from him, and the Aumils, on their Appointment, be ordered to pay him the customary Compliment of taking leave, and receiving from him the Beetle, &c."

A. I recollect seeing the Letter at Benares; but I do not know what was done in Consequence of it.

Q. Do you recollect having received it from Mr. Hastings?

A. I apprehend it would be sent to the Resident from Mr. Hastings; but I only recollect seeing it in the Office, and reading it there: It was not sent to me, but it was sent to the Resident.

Q. Whether you was not sent upon any, and what Commission, in consequence of Complaints made to Mr. Hastings of Oppression upon the Country of Benares by the Garrison stationed in the Country, or near it?

A. When

A. When Mr. Hastings was at Lucknow, I think he wrote a Letter to the Resident at Benares, stating some Complaints which had come to his Knowledge of the Mode in which One of the Garrisons was supplied with Provisions and Grain; I was sent by the Resident to enquire into this. From my own Inquiry it appeared to me that the Persons employed had not been quite so attentive as they ought to have been in taking the Grain; that it had been customary to send a Person who was employed generally to provide Provisions for the Garrison, and his Conduct appeared to me exceptionable. The Person who was sent was a Native; a Person whose Business it was to furnish the Bazars or Markets. I think, when I was at Gauzepore, I made an Application to the Officer to know what Quantity of Grain he would require for his Detachment, and I think I formed a Regulation with the principal Farmers there, that they should deliver this Grain in the Proportion, and at the Times the Commanding Officer said he would want it; that they would be under no Necessity of sending any Person or Persons into the Country to take the Grain themselves, but that it would be brought to them, and they would receive it, paying the Market-price for it.

Q. Whether any Person was punished for abusive Practices which you discovered?

A. Some of the Zemindars complained to me,—(it is a great Distance of Time, and I must rather recollect myself);—they complained that the Market-price was not paid for the Grain. At that Time the Grain was very high priced, and the Person who furnished Grain for the Markets wanted to have it at the Price of a former Time, when it was not so high; he wanted to have it at an under Rate.

Q. Do you mean to say they only wanted it, or that they actually took it?

A. In One or Two Places, I do not recollect the Number quite, they produced an Account which the Inhabitants said was the Sum they had received for a certain Quantity of Grain; upon comparing this Sum with what the Price of Grain at that Time was, it certainly was less than they ought to have paid; it was more than in a plentiful Season would have been paid for it; but it was less than the Price at the Time.

Q. Part of the Complaint was, that they were obliged to accept of that inferior Price?

A. Yes.

Q. Whether any Investigation was made of that Complaint?

A. I was sent to investigate it. I found it in Part true, as I have stated to your Lordships. I believe there is a Letter of mine addressed from Gauzepore, a particular Part of the District of Benares where the Inquiry was made, to my immediate Superior, the Resident at Benares. In that Letter I think I stated the whole Circumstances, and the Manner in which I had engaged with the different Farmers that Grain should be furnished to the Garrison. If I could see that Letter, I should be then better able to answer the Questions that were put to me upon it, as that was written at the Time.

Q. The Question put upon it was, Whether any further Proceedings were had against the Party complained of?

The Clerk was directed to read the Question put to the Witness, and his Answer.

The same were read by the Clerk, as follows:

Q. Do you mean to say they only wanted, or that they actually took it?

A. In One or Two Places, I don't recollect the Number quite, they produced an Account which the Inhabitants said was the Sum they had received for a certain Quantity of Grain; upon comparing this Sum with what the Price of Grain at that Time was, it certainly was less than they ought to have paid; it was more than in a plentiful Season would have been paid for it; but it was less than the Price at the Time.

Q. I desire to know of the Witness distinctly, whether the Grain was taken by Force or Menaces at that arbitrary Price, or not?

A. Those that produced the Account that I have mentioned, said the Grain was taken at the Price that they gave me.

Q. The Question, as put to you before, was, Whether the Grain was taken against their Will at that Price?

A. They complained of it; when I went afterwards to examine into the Truth of it, they complained, and told me that it was.

Q. By what Menaces or by what Force did they state the Grain was taken from them?

A. I do not clearly recollect.

Q. Whether you are of Opinion, from your Knowledge of the Country, and from the best Information you have received, that it is capable of producing and yielding to Government £400,000 a Year, without Detriment to the Country?

A. I thought £400,000 a Year to Government was certainly a large Revenue; I believe I have said so in my former Examination, and answered that Question; I am not quite clear, but I think so.

Q. Whether

Q. Whether that Sum of £400,000 could be annually raised upon that Country for the Government, without Detriment to the Country?

A. Not if any considerable Sum is allowed to the Rajah for his Support.

Q. The present Question that is put to you is, not what could be raised beyond the £400,000 for the Subsistence of the Rajah; but whether the £400,000 could be yielded without Detriment to the Country?

A. The Country, I think, would always yield Forty-five Lacks of Rupees, besides the Rajah's Jaghire.

Q. What is the Amount of the Rajah's Jaghire?

A. One Lack 58,000 Rupees, with Six Lacks for his Allowance.

Q. Whether you can recollect what your Observation was upon that Subject to the Committee of Managers?

A. I think my Observation must have been, that it would not continue to yield it, because I thought the Revenue was too great for Government to take, unless more Money was expended in the Country, which was altering the Situation of it.

Q. According to your best Information, what was the annual Cash Balance of Trade in Favour of the Country of Benares when you knew it?

A. That is rather a difficult Question to answer respecting a Country, particularly upon Oath.

Q. I wish the Witness to understand when he is asked to Matter of Information, for so many such he has answered from Opinion collected, his Answer is to be understood undoubtedly with proper and reasonable Limitations, whether upon Oath or not: What does he, upon his Oath, say, to the Best of his Judgment, he recollects that Balance to have been?

A. I certainly inquired at Benares, and I thought there was a Balance in Favour of Benares, from Seven to Eight or Nine Lacks of Rupees a Year.

Q. How many did you state it to be to the Committee?

A. I do not recollect.

Here the Managers for the Commons shewed the Witness a Paper.—Then the Witness said:

A. Before the Honourable Committee, I said, I thought it was Six Lacks of Rupees. I have now said, Perhaps Seven or Eight. It is a Fact that cannot be answered with a Degree of Certainty; it might vary.

Q. But you are sure it did not much exceed that last Sum?

A. I speak from my own Opinion of Course.

Q. What is your Idea of the Means and Manner of managing that Country? Whether the Country, in an ordinary Way, is sufficient to take Care of itself, or whether it does not require some particular Indulgence to manage it?

A. I certainly think it requires Attention.

Q. By Attention, you mean it would suffer very much by extracting a very large Revenue from it? Is it your Opinion the Country would suffer much by extracting a large Revenue from it?

A. I think it would. It is not a Country that has in itself a Number of natural Advantages; there are no great Exports. When I saw it I thought it a very flourishing Country; and I concluded, as it had not the Advantage of many Exports, as a Country it had been much attended to; and of course I concluded, the same Attention being continued to it, it would continue to be the same Country as it was.

Q. Whether Opium is not an Article of Export from that Country?

A. It is from the Provinces.

Q. Is there a Free Trade in that Article?

A. When I was at Benares it was pretty much in the Hands of the Resident, and I believe it was considered as an Advantage that he enjoyed there.

Q. Was it not monopolised by the Resident?

A. I believe nearly the whole Trade of Exportation was in the Resident's Hands.

Q. Do you mean it was in the Resident's Hands in the Course of Trade, or by a public Institution put into his Hands as a Monopoly?

A. Not by any public Institution; it was done before I was at Benares, I believe in the Time of the First Resident.

Q. What was the Sort of Monopoly—Did he compel the Producers of Opium to sell all to him?

A. No; I believe not; I never knew of any Circumstance of Compulsion; I never heard of any.

Q. What

Q. What do you mean by Monopoly?

A. The ingrossing any particular Article; having the sole ~~selling~~ selling or disposing of any particular Article.

Q. Was that the Situation in which the Resident was in that Place? could any Body else buy, sell, or export Opium, or deal in it by an open Courte of Trade, except the Resident?

A. There was no Prohibition, but it was chiefly in the Hands of the Resident.

Q. If there was no Prohibition, the Consequence would be, all Manner of Merchants would deal in it, would not they?

A. So I suppose.

Q. What Means had the Resident to get that Privilege into his Hands, which other Merchants had not?

A. It was done long before I went to Benares.—When I was there it was in a regular Channel: Whether it was forced into that Channel or not I cannot say.

Q. Do you know the Manner in which the Resident did exercise that Trade?

A. His Agent bought the Opium, and he contracted for it at a certain Price.

Q. Contracted, with whom?

A. With a Native of India.

Q. That is, contracted to buy it at a certain Price?

A. Yes, from a Native of India. This Native, I believe, had nearly the sole Produce of the District of Benares.

Q. Who was that Native? What was his Name?

A. Sunker Pundit.

Q. Suppose he had sold any Part of his Opium to any other Person besides the Resident, was he at Liberty to do so?

A. No, I believe not; by his Engagement he was not at Liberty.

Q. Might he have contracted with any other Person, if he pleased, before he entered into that Agreement?

A. I think not.

Q. (from a Lord.) The Evidence has told your Lordships, that the Export for Opium was chiefly in the Hands of the Resident; I wish to ask him, if he knows of any Instance of any being exported that was not in the Hands of the Resident?

A. No: I do not.

Q. Then what do you mean by the Word “ chiefly ? ”

A. I did not know but others might. I did not positively know that they did or did not.

Q. Did you, or did you not, know, that it was an understood Monopoly?

A. It was an understood Monopoly.

Q. Whether the Trade of Saltpetre is not an Article of Exportation from that Province?

A. It is.

Q. Was that Trade open?

A. There is something rather particular in the Article of Saltpetre, which perhaps will not quite clearly appear by a direct Answer. If your Lordships will give me leave, I will explain how it is. The Article of Saltpetre in India, I believe, is always considered something in the same Manner as a Royalty is in England; it is separate from the Soil: One Man cultivates the Soil, and another Man has the Produce of the Saltpetre; they are separate Property: They are generally in the Hands of the Rajah of a great Zemindary, in the same Manner as a Royalty may be in the Hands of a Lord in England: This, I believe, the Rajah of Benares gave to the Resident: It is in Value about 7,000 Rupees a Year, or £700: He had the Produce of the Saltpetre in that way: There is more produced than is consumed in Benares, of course it is exported.

Q. Was it a Monopoly or an open Trade?

A. The whole Produce, in the Manner in which I have stated it, was in the Hands of the Resident. It was given by the Rajah to the Resident.

Q. When?

A. I believe at the same Time that the Opium was, but I do not clearly recollect; it was before I was there.

Q. What Time was you there first?

A. In 1782.

Q. Was it generally known that the Resident had these Profits?

A. I do not know that it was.

Q. Were any great Pains taken to conceal it?

A. No, no Pains were taken to conceal it; it was a Matter of Indifference to the Resident, I imagine, whether it was known or not.

Q. Whether it is not generally known to Persons concerned in the Trade at Calcutta, that it was monopolized for the Benefit of the Resident?

A. I believe it was understood amongst the Dealers in Opium that there was a Quantity of Opium sent from Benares, and that it was for the Benefit of the Resident.

Q. Was it generally known the Opium produced in the Province of Benares was to be exported through the Channel of the Resident, or monopolized by the Resident?

A. By the Dealers in that Article I believe it was; but I believe it was not generally known.

Q. Did they know the Sale of Opium at Benares was upon account of the Resident?

A. It was in general sent to the Agent at Calcutta, and sold there.—What I meant by “generally known” was, that those who dealt in that Article would of course know it; but I believe it was not generally known by the Servants of the East India Company, by the Governor, or others in India, not to my Knowledge; I believe it was not.

Q. Have you mentioned the Extent of the Value of the Opium Contract, or do you know how much it produced annually to him?

A. I believe from 40,000 to 50,000 Rupees a Year.

Q. How many Chests of Opium were annually exported?

A. Upon an Average about 450, I believe: I recollect seeing One Account of 425, another of 475, the Produce of Two different Years—I think, to the best of my Recollection, nearly that.

Q. (from a Lord.) He has said this Grant was made to the Resident by the Rajah; does he know whether any Consideration was paid by the Resident for such Grant?

A. I do not know.

Q. Whether you understood, or believe, there was any such Consideration?

A. No; I do not believe there was any Consideration paid for it.

Q. Whether this was a particular Grant to this particular Resident; or whether it had always been attached to the Office of Resident?

A. I believe it had always been attached to the Office; I was under Two Residents there, and both had it: I understood the former Resident had it by virtue of his Office.

The House inquired of the Counsel if they had any Question to ask the Witness upon this Examination?

Q. (by Counsel.)—I wish the Witness to be asked, Whether, when he says it had always been understood as attached to the Office of Resident, he means from the First Institution of the Office of Resident at Benares?

A. I mean after the regular Appointment of a Resident. Mr. Fowke, I believe, was the First Person that was sent to Benares, but not as Resident. I mean after his First Recall.

Q. What are the particular Sources of Opulence of Benares?

A. One of the great Sources of its Opulence is its Situation in point of Religion, the Number of Pilgrims that visit it from different Parts of India as a Place of particular Sanctity; great Crouds generally come there every Year, and they make rather a Point of expending at the different Temples great Sums of Money; that is one Source: It also shares pretty much in the Trade of Diamonds passing through Benares to Calcutta: It exports some Cloth and Opium, and Saltpetre.

Q. Whether the Circumstances you have enumerated, of the Change of the Place of the Guard, and the Prohibition of the Use of the Hooka for Two or Three Days, were the only Restraints of Doorbijey Sing, which you recollect, during his Confinement?

A. They were the only Restraints I recollect, and I believe they were the only Restraints he ever was put under.

Q. Whether the Guard placed at the Door of the House in any Manner prevented Doorbijey Sing from the free Use of the Garden whenever he had Occasion to use it?

A. No. I have given that in Evidence before.

Q. Whether the Paper that has been inquired about respecting the Accounts of Doorbijey Sing's Office was not laid before Ally Ibrahim Cawn, the Arbitrator appointed between him and the Company?

A. I believe the Accounts were laid before him to enable him to determine Part of his Arbitration, a Circumstance I did not recollect at the Time; but they were necessary for his Examination to see what Sums of Money were paid.

Q. The Witness has already told us that Ally Ibrahim Cawn made an Award in Favour of the Company of One Lack 50,000 Rupees, upon his former Examination?

A. I do not mean to be quite particular as to the Amount of Rupees, the exact Sum I do not recollect. I gave what I thought the Amount from Recollection.

Q. Do you know whether that Sum was ever received in full by the Company?

A. That Sum never was received in full by them, unless it has been received since I left Benares.

Q. I am asking as to the Amount of the Money received upon that Arbitration? Do you know whether the Sum of One Lack 50,000 Rupees which was awarded, was received by the Company at any Time before the Death of Doorbidgjei Sing, or not?

A. No. Before the Death of Doorbidgjei Sing the Money certainly was not paid; I cannot answer since. I have been in England some Time. It may have been paid since I left Benares, but it was not paid before.

Q. Do you know whether 400,000 Rupees, or Forty Lacks a Year, as settled by Mr. Hastings, have been constantly received or required by the succeeding Government of that Country?

A. Till I left India it was.—Sir John Macpherson at that Time was Governor, and the same Regulation respecting Benares continued after Mr. Hastings left it.

Q. You do not know whether it was in Fact received?

A. No, I do not: The Revenue was liquidated for One Year, and for Part of another; I cannot tell how much, as I left Benares before the Conclusion of the Year, and whether the Whole was received for that Year I cannot tell.

Q. Was the Whole received for a Year before you left Calcutta?

A. In the Year of Jagger Deo Sing it was received: There was a disputed Account, I believe, of a Sum claimed by him, and I cannot tell whether it was allowed or not.

Q. (from a Lord.) Whether the Property of Doorbidgjei Sing was sequestered when he was imprisoned?

A. An Attempt was made to sequester any Property that might be found; but I believe his Property in Money he had removed.

Q. Do you know whether there was any Grant in Writing from the Rajah to the Resident, of Salt Petre?

A. No, there was not. I believe there was not; I never heard there was.

Q. Whether there was, or was not, any great or extraordinary Failures in the Crops of the Country at the Time Doorbidgjei Sing was Naib?

A. Not at the Time Doorbidgjei Sing was Naib.—I do not recollect it.

Q. Was there any at any short Period before?

A. Not before Doorbidgjei Sing.

Q. The Witness has said in his former Examination, that the Arrears of Rent due from Doorbidgjei Sing to the Company, was, by mutual Consent, submitted to Arbitration, to Ally Ibrahim Cawn; I wish him to explain, whether he meant by the Word "due," due to the Company, as having been actually received by him?

A. If you will give me leave, I will state the Nature of his Office; he was the Naib and a Manager for his Principal, the Rajah; he was supposed to be the Receiver and Manager for him: The Engagement for the East India Company was with the Rajah for an annual Tribute, upon which he took the Country; and whether he received more or less, his Engagement remained as an annual Stipend. It was for a Deficiency in the Sum that he had engaged to pay that he was put into Confinement.

Q. (from a Lord.) The Witness has said, that during Part of the Time Mr. Fowke was at Benares he was not there in Quality of Resident; I would wish to know in what Quality he understood Mr. Fowke to be then?

A. The First Time Mr. Fowke was sent to invest Rajah Cheit Sing with the Rajahship, and to seat him in his Zemindary, it was considered, I believe, as a temporary kind of Mission; afterwards a fixed Resident was appointed. One of the Civil Servants of the East India Company was appointed to reside there: That was the Distinction.

Q. (from a Lord.) The Witness has mentioned some Restriction laid upon Doorbidgjei Sing at the Time he was confined; amongst others, a Prohibition from Smoking a few Days: Was there any Reason assigned for any such Restriction, or for such Prohibition?

A. I believe the Reason was, that if some little Instance of Severity was shewn towards him, it was thought if he had the Money he would pay it; but it had not the Effect, and there was no other Species of Restriction put upon him.

Q. (from a Lord.) I think the Witness said the Jaghire of Doorbidgjei Sing was seized upon; I wish to know by whom that Jaghire was originally granted to Doorbidgjei Sing?

A. The

A. The Jaghire granted to Doorgbijey Sing makes a Part of the general Regulations made by Mr. Hastings, as appears by his Narrative, and it was given to him as Naib—I understood it to be so.

Q. What was the Amount of that Jaghire?

A. Sixty thousand Rupees a Year—Six thousand Pounds English Money.

Q. The Witness said that the Property, as far as it could be come at, of Doorgbijey Sing was seized upon; I wish therefore to know how Doorgbijey Sing was maintained, and how he was attended when he was in Prison?

A. He was attended by his own Servants, and maintained by his own Property, I imagine; for there was no Allowance made to him, and it was our Opinion that he was very equal to maintaining himself.

Q. What might the Number of those Servants be, does the Evidence recollect?

A. No, I do not; he parted with no Servants, none of his domestic Servants, in his Confinement; and those in India are generally a great Number. I do not recollect exactly, nor do I know of any he had in general; all of any Consequence were with him.

Q. The Witness has said in another Part, speaking of Complaints relative to the Grain, that he was sent to enquire into them: What Enquiries did he make, and how were those Enquiries substantiated?—Whether there was any Examination made by him as to the Complaints?

A. I was sent there to make those Enquiries; I went to the very Place where these Circumstances were said to have happened; I found them in the Manner in which I have described them in my Evidence.

Q. The Question proposed is, whether those Complaints made by the Persons aggrieved were substantiated by any other Persons than those who complained?

A. Yes, it seemed to be the general Opinion there; I enquired of many, and they all agreed in the same Story.

Q. As similar Questions have been asked before, whether the Evidence, from his Residence upon the Spot, does not think the Trade of Benares might be improved, and new Channels of Trade opened?

A. I don't know that it is more likely in Benares than any other Country.

Q. Are there any particular Modes which your Residence in the Country has furnished you with an Opportunity of observing?

A. One was, to improve the Cultivation of Sugar: At present, Calcutta and a great Part of India is supplied from China; and the Cultivation of Sugar might be so far improved, as to render that Trade from China unnecessary.

Q. Whether you know of any Circumstance of Cruelty attending the Confinement of Doorgbijey Sing, besides those which are already mentioned?

A. None.

Q. In what Year did you go to Benares first?

A. In April 1782: March or April, I am not certain which; I am not quite clear in the Month.

Q. Did you then find the Country in a flourishing Situation?

A. Very much so.

Q. When did you leave Benares, and in what Situation was it then?

A. I left it in 1786, and it was then, in Appearance, in as flourishing a Situation as when I went there in 1782.

Q. (from a Lord.) Is there any Salary belonging to the Appointment of Assistant Resident at Benares?

A. Yes, there is.

Q. The Witness has said he was appointed in January 1781, and went to reside at Benares in April 1782; I wish to know whether he received such Salary from January 1781 to April 1782?

A. The Salary was 300 Rupees a Month. I was absent by Permission. I lived with Mr. Wheeler as his Secretary, or pretty much in that Line; he was at that Time in Possession of the Government; great Part of the Time Mr. Hastings was absent in the Country, and I staid with him till Mr. Hastings's Return. I received my Salary as Assistant Resident at Benares from the Time of my Appointment. I had no other Salary.

Q. Was there any Body appointed to do your Duty during your Absence, or was it done in the Office by the Resident?

A. My Duty during the Time was done by Mr. Markham the Resident; there was no other Person appointed.

Q. Whether

Q. Whether an Arrest is not a Circumstance in that Country considered as a Disgrace upon the Person arrested?

A. It is—I believe it is so in most Countries.

Q. Is it not more so in that Country by People of that Religion particularly; and more so than it would be in this Country?

A. It does not mix with their Religion at all; but it is considered by higher Classes as a Disgrace.

Q. Is this Rajah or Naib looked upon as a Person of a higher Class?

A. Yes.

Q. I lay a Stress upon the Words “particular Disgrace?”

A. It is disgraceful, but not particularly so; it is a Circumstance of Disgrace, but not a very particular Disgrace.

Q. The Witness was asked whether he had transmitted an Account of the Complaints to Mr. Hastings as Assistant Resident, or whether an Account had been sent to Mr. Hastings of the Complaints of the Tribute not being paid by Mehinnarain? He answered, there were some Complaints; but he did not recollect whether he himself had made any. I want to know from the Evidence, whether he knows, or not, that such a Communication was transmitted to Mr. Hastings officially, or any how else?

A. I do not know it was. Mr. Hastings was at Benares afterwards, and the Rajah perhaps might state it himself. I do not know that he did or did not. I did not communicate it to the Governor, nor do I know that the Resident did.

Q. Have you Reason to believe, from any subsequent Circumstance, that Mr. Hastings was informed of it?

A. I think, when Mr. Hastings was at Benares, that the Rajah might inform him; but I cannot tell whether he did or not.

Q. Did you know from Mr. Hastings, or by any other Means, whether Mr. Hastings was informed of it or not?

A. I did not. When Mr. Hastings was at Benares, I recollect the Rajah's sending to him a Paper containing some Requests: One of those Requests was, that he should receive the Surplus of the Collection, whatever that might be, not mentioning any specific Sum, or stating that he had not received it before. This Paper was entered in the Resident's Office, and there I saw it. The Answer to it was, “Certainly it is the Rajah's Right;” but no express Sum was mentioned, only, generally, that the whole Surplus should be his.

Q. You say you do not know any particular Sum in which the Naib was deficient; I wish to know your Idea as to what it might amount to.—What is your general Idea of what might be the Amount?

A. The whole Sum that he was deficient in, Doorbidgy Sing I mean, was, I think, 2 Lacks 90,000 Rupees: There was a disputed Account: He claimed certain Sums which the Government did not think were reasonable or just to allow. An Arbitration was submitted to Ally Ibrahim Cawn; and what he did not dispute was One Lack 50,000 Rupees, or near it. There was an additional Sum he did dispute, in his own Account; and this additional Sum, I believe, made the Aggregate about 2 Lacks 90,000 Rupees.

Q. I understand the Witness has said, that Mehinnarain did not receive his stipulated Allowance; and that he has been asked in another Place, whether that was owing to the distressed State of the Country—I wish to know whether he did not answer, that Mehinnarain did not receive the Money that was allowed him, because the Receipt of the Country would not allow it, being estimated at 45 Lacks, whereas the Country would not produce above 45 Lacks, unless good Care is taken of the Country: That the State of the Country depends upon being well nursed and made by Care: I wish to know of the Evidence whether he did not give that Answer?

A. Before the Committee of the House of Commons?

Q. Yes.

A. I believe I did: I think I recollect I did.

Then the Witness was directed to withdraw.

Then the Managers for the Commons acquainted the House, that before they proceeded to call another Witness, they should produce some written Evidence, from the Records of the East India Company; and first, a Letter from Shitabroy to Mr. Hastings, for the Purpose of shewing the whole Contents of that Letter, a Part only of which was inserted in the Defence; but they conceived it material for the Whole to be produced.

Then Mr. Robert Hudson was again called in, and produced Book 70, intituled, "Bengal Country Correspondence, Received from 7 Dec. 1763 to 29 Jan. 1765."

Read, the following Extract.

" N<sup>o</sup> 284.

" Translation of a Paper delivered by Raja Shitabroy the 16th Nov. 1764.

* Sic in Orig. " Raja Bulwand Sing * as written to me as follows: ' If it is the Intention of the English Gentlemen to take Possession of Shuja-ul-Doula's Dominions, I will agree to hold Benaris and Gazypoor, &c. which have long been under my Jurisdiction, the Revenues of which amounted to about 24 Lacks of Rupees a Year, and I paid 1,70,000 Rupees Monthly, on the same Terms from the Company as I did from Shuja-ul-Doula.' He likewise desires, that in case the English Army should march forwards to conquer the Country, the Districts of Auzimgurra and Coondar, &c. which are near to Benaris, and lie very convenient for him, may be added to his Jurisdiction.

† Sic in Orig. As the Raja is a Man who adhere † to his Engagements, and pays his Rents regularly, if it is your Pleasure to take the Country, let the Management of the aforesaid Territories be committed to his Charge; and in case of an Accommodation with Shuja-ul-Dowla, yet let a favourable Answer be written to the Raja to set his Mind at Ease; he is a Person of high Rank, and the Zemindar of a frontier Country."

The Managers for the Commons acquainted the House, they should next produce a Letter to shew that Fifty-one Days Grace was allowed to the Rajah Cheyt Sing for every Monthly Payment, and also to shew the Manner in which the Tribute was settled in 1776.

The Witnesses produced Book 40, intituled, "Bengal Letters, received from the 20th of March 1776 to 6th January 1777."

Read, the following Extract.

Bengal
Letters, Secret Department.

" General Letter from the Board at Calcutta to the Directors; dated Fort William, 20th March 1776.

Par. 37. " Raja Cheit Sing has now agreed to pay the Amount of his Tribute, being Sicca Rupees 22,66,180, into the Treasury at Calcutta, by equal Monthly Kists or Instalments, and is to receive 2 per Cent. Premium on the Amount, for the Charge of Remittance. We have allowed Fifty-one Days Grace for every Monthly Payment to be made after the Period on which it actually becomes due, in order to enable him to procure Bills, or to remit Assets, to answer the Payment within that Term. And to secure his being exact in the punctual Discharge of his Monthly Kists, we have agreed to impose a Penalty, in case of Failure, of  $\frac{1}{4}$  per Cent. per Diem on the Amount of all deficient Payments after the Expiration of the Term of Fifty-one Days. A Sunnud for his Zemindarry shall be furnished him on these and the Conditions before agreed on.

(Signed) Warren Hastings,
J. Clavering,
Geo. Monson,
R. Barwell."

Which being read, the Managers for the Commons acquainted the House, they should next produce Evidence relative to the Payments of Doorgbijey Sing, in order to fill up the Chasm, which subsisted at present, in that Head of Evidence.

The Witnesses produced Book 66, intituled, "Bengal Secret Council, from 25th November to 31st December 1783."

Read, Extracts of a Consultation of the 27th December 1783, beginning at Page 66; of the said Book.

John Stables,

" Honourable Sir, and Sirs,
" I have the Pleasure to inform your Honourable Board, that I have received from Babboo Durbetzey Sing the Sum of Banares Sicca Rupees Three Lack Forty-eight thousand nine hundred and seventy-three, Ten Annas, Seven Pie, being the Amount Balance of his Bhadun Kist for the Fufillee Year 1189, unless your Honourable Board should disallow any Part of the Deductions which which he demanded, an Account of which I transmitted to you in my Letter dated the 16th February 1783. I have taken a Mochulka from him, expressed in the strongest Terms, that whatever Part of the Deductions demanded by him shall be judged inequitable, and consequently disallowed, he shall without Delay make good, and pay into the Banares Treasury; and that whatever Sum of Money he shall be proved to have received from the Collections of the Fullee Year 1190, shall be likewise paid without Hesitation to the present Naib Baboo Jaggudeo Sing: In Consequence of his Payment of the above Sum, and the Engagement entered into by him, I have taken off the Two Companies of Sepoys stationed as his Guard, until the further Pleasure of your Honourable Board shall be made known.

I have the Honour to enclose you Bills of Exchange for the Sum of Benares Sicca Rupees, Three Lack Forty-eight thousand nine hundred and seventy-three, Ten Annas, Seven Pies; or Calcutta Sicca Rupees Three Lack, Twenty-eight thousand eight hundred and seventy-five, Thirteen Annas, Three Pies.”]

✂ [“ The following Letters from the late and present Resident at Benares having been for a long Time before the Board, they were considered by the different Members, and the following Resolutions passed on them.

“ To the Honourable Warren Hastings Esquire, Governor General, &c. Supreme Council, “ Fort William.

“ Honourable Sir and Sirs,

“ I have the Honour to enclose to you an Account of the Deductions demanded by Baboo Durbeetzy Sing for the Fullee Year 1189.] I should not have deferred sending it so long, but that I was prevented by Durbeetzy Sing not being able to give an exact Account of the Demand for the Duties on the Saltpetre from the Nabob the Vizier's Dominions.

“ For the First Eight Articles, the Honourable Governor General, when at Banaras, agreed to allow him the medium Rate of the Five preceeding Years, viz.

“ The Mint, Adaulut, and Phoudarry Cutwallie, Nuckhafs Delolly Perdailie, Tellashie, Khimar Khannah, and the Dustoor Angustarry.

“ Your Honourable Board directed, that the Mint should be put under the Direction of the Resident; his Demand upon it is not exorbitant, though, according to the Papers I have been able to collect respecting it, the exact medium Rate is 13,410.

“ With respect to the Adauleet and Phoudarry, the Amount of Loss by not being continued in the Rajah's Hands, cannot be definitively ascertained, as both Offices were conducted during Chyet Sing's, and even Bulwant Sing's Time, in a Manner by no Means conformable to Justice. The Courts were sometimes held at Ramnaghur, the Place of Residence of the Rajah; sometimes at Banares. By the Enquiries I have made, I do not conceive that the clear Income arising from these Two Articles would be more than 10,000 or 12,000 Rupees.

“ The Cutwallie was in the Hands of a Man whom I believe to have been since dead, as I can get no Account of him. I believe the Amount to be just.

“ The Nuckhafs is a Duty on all Horses, Oxen, &c. sold in the Bazar—the Amount set down is just; but Durbeetzy Sing collected on this Article 235 Rupees, so that he is only entitled to 965 Rupees.

“ The Delolly Perdailie was a Tax collected on all Travellers, People coming from the Decan to Banares on Religious Purposes, &c. &c. which the Governor General forbade to be collected, as great Impositions were made on the People thus coming to Banares, and is, I believe, fully just.

“ Tellashie was a Duty collected on every Boat that passed Banares, independant of the regular Duties. I believe its Amount never exceeded more than Two thousand Rupees.

“ The Khimar Khanna was a Duty collected on all Gaming Houses, and is, I believe, a just Demand.

“ The Dustoor Angustarry did not amount to above Ten or Twelve Rupees—was a Duty collected on small Iron and Pewter Rings, which the People who wash at the Banares Ghauts are obliged to wear.

“ The Demand of Deductions for Govind Jeit, Idoll Sing, and Buckhut Sing's Malkhanna, are undoubtedly just.

“ A Village granted by the Honourable Governor General's Perwannah to Mustee Khurreim Aulah is likewise just, as the Governor General confirmed the Sunnud given to his Family by Aurungzebee.

“ Land confirmed to Jubrage Sing stands in the same Predicament, and is likewise just.

“ The Land established by the Governor General to the Chunar Faukhier—the Amount just.

“ The Duty on the Stones, granted by the Governor General to the Commanding Officer at Chunar, was given for the following Reasons:

“ To prevent Disputes, which often happened between the Rajah and the Commanding Officer, and as the Stones were cut close to the Fort, and within the Limits of his Command, the Governor General judged any Perquisite arising from them to appertain more properly to him than to the Rajah;

Rajah; as this Point was not settled before the Signature of the Pottah and Caboulat, the Rajah demands a Deduction.

" The 4,000 Cubits, mentioned at 4347 Rupees, is the Land which the Governor General directed to be measured out, and given to the Commanding Officer, as being within Gun Shot of his Fort. The Honourable Governor General will be able to explain the foregoing Articles.

" Your Honourable Board directed me, in a Letter of July 1781, to pass the Saltpetre which came from the Nabob Vizier's Country free of Duties. His Demand on this Account is about 2000 Rupees less than it ought to be. The Loss which accrued on the Establishment of the Permit through the Zemindary we have rated very high, and is the most exceptionable Part of his Demand.—A Loss, a heavy Loss, was certainly occasioned partly from Goods being sent a different Route by the Merchant, partly from the Deductions of the Schair, which he was obliged to allow to his Aumils, and from the Collections of the Permit not being equal to that Deduction.

" The Paymolly he originally set down at 10,000 Rupees, He afterwards attempted to impose another 10,000 Rupees on the Account. This I refused to admit of.

" The unavoidable Damage which a Detachment so large as Colonel Cummings's must occasion in marching through a Country like this, at a Time when the Grain was ripe, and his Encampment at Chousah during Part of the Rainy Season, will be sufficient Guide for your Honourable Board's Decision in this Article.

" I have the Honour to be, &c.

" Banares,
the 17th February 1783.

(Signed)

W<sup>m</sup> Markham,
Resident."

" The Secretary lays before the Board the following Letter from Mr. Markham.

" Sir,

" The Honourable the Governor General confirmed the Grants of Aurengzebe to Mufti Kerim Oolla and Subraad Sing, to the best of my Recollection, by signing his Name on the original Sunds. I have not Copies of them, but the present Resident can easily procure them.

I am, &c.

" Dec. 26th 1783.

(Signed) Wm. Markham."

" Agreed, That the following Letter be written to the Resident at Benares.

" To Mr. Francis Fowke, Resident at Benares.

" Sir,

" We have lately taken into Consideration a Letter from our late Resident at Benares, dated the 17th February, enclosing an Account of the Deduction demanded by Baboo Durbeetzy Sing, for the * Fussulie Year 1189; and we have also had before us sundry other Letters from Benares bearing the following Dates; 9th April; 14th May; 5th and 9th June; 28th July; 12th and 17th August; and 24th September.

" We enclose an Account of the Deductions claimed by Durbeetzy Sing, and an Account of those which we agree to. We will not allow of any Addition to the latter, unless it be for the Village and Land given by the Governor General's Perwannah and Grant to Meestie + Khurriem Oulah, and Jubrage Sing, in confirmation of a Grant of the Emperor Aurengzebe, and amounting to the Total Sum of S<sup>r</sup> R<sup>s</sup> 2822 : 13 : 1. This Deduction we permit you to add to our Account, if, as the late Resident informs us is the Case, the Governor General's Name appears on the original Sunnuds, and in such Case only.

" You will observe that the Difference between the Amount of Durbeetzy's Claims, and that which we agree to, even including the Deductions for the Village and Land granted to Muftie Khurriem Oulah, and Jubrage Sing, is S<sup>r</sup> R<sup>s</sup> 1,42,259 : 5 : 8. We direct that you make an immediate Claim of this Sum on Durbeetzy Sing, who, according to the Muchulca which he gave to our late Resident, on being released from Confinement, is engaged to pay it into the Benares Treasury.

" We understand, that in consequence of a Request made by the Widow of Rajah Bulwant Sing, and by the present Rajah Mehipnarain, the Amount due from Rajah Durbeetzy, for the Collections of that Part of the Fussulie Year 1190, during which he held the Office of Naib, was agreed to be left to the Arbitration of All † Ibrahim Cawn; and your Letter of the 5th of June informs us, that his Successor Baboo Jagger Deo Sing had paid the full Amount of that Year's Kists up to the Date of it, independent of the Collections made by Baboo Durbeetzy Sing at the Beginning of the Year. We have not yet learnt whether Ally Ibrahim Cawn has delivered in his Award; but if he has, we direct that you claim and receive the Amount adjudged by him to be due from Baboo Durbeetzy Sing, and transmit a Copy of the Award to us.

" The Governor General lays before the Board the following Minute:

Secret Dep<sup>t</sup>.
Monday.

" I now revert to my Proposition, and request the Board to reconsider their Objections to the Instructions which I have proposed to be given to Major Camac. I have not the Presumption to expect that they will be influenced by any Reasonings which I have used; having had too much Experience of the Insufficiency of Official Argument to overcome a decided, and much less a confederate Opposition. But as the Expence which will attend the Measure which I have recommended, is the only formal Objection made to it, I hope I may be allowed to remove it, by offering to exonerate the Company from it, and to take it upon myself. That this Proposition may not be misunderstood, and that I may not bind myself by Engagements which may exceed my Power to fulfil them, I will explain myself.

[" The regular Pay and Batta of the Troops which are to form Major Camac's Detachment constitute no Part of the Expence of it, since there would be the same in their Amount, although the Battalions remained in their original Quarters. Neither ought the Suspension of the Subsidy to be charged to the Expedition, since it is probable, and I regard it as certain, that the Ranah having no further Call for our Aid within his Country, for the sole Defence of it, will be glad to be relieved from the Expence attending it, and because it is proposed in the last of the Minutes of Mess. Francis and Wheler to withdraw it: The Contingencies of the Detachment are therefore the only Expence that can be reasonably charged to the Expedition. These I rate far below Two Lacks of Rupees. That Sum I offer to contribute to this Disbursement; I have already deposited it, within a small Amount, in the Hands of the Sub-treasurer, and I beg that the Board will permit it to be accepted for that Service.

(Signed) Warren Hastings.]

" Ordered that the foregoing Minute lie for Consideration.

I also understand that the Rajah's Name is totally disused in all Sunnuds, Aumilnamas, and other Officers' Deeds and Papers of the Naib's Office, and the Naib's used in his Stead. Be pleased to inform me since what Time this Practice has prevailed, and whether by any Authority expressly given to the Naib. " Benares, 14th March 1784.

" I am, &c.

" Petition of Rajah Mahipnarain.

" When lifting me from the Dust of Obscurity, your Excellency exalted me to the Raaje of Benares, agreeable to the Usage of my Grandfather, Rajah Bulwand Sing, you confirmed to me the Jaghire and Altumgah Mahls, Half Buddock, and the Pergunnahs of Maaug and Mungrore, also Six Lacs and Thirty thousand Rupees odd, for my own Expences and Subundy.

" Baboo Dushbedjey Sing, my Naib, from his own Neglects, failing in the Revenues of the Sirkar, the Jaghire, &c. above mentioned were sequestered till the Payment of the Balances, and a Perwannah sent me to make them good : Out of Regard to the Orders of the Prefence, and hoping the Release of the Mahals, I paid the Demands of the Sarker through Gopaul Dofs ; notwithstanding which my Jaghire is still in Sequestration, and from the Day of my Exaltation to the Raaje, I have not received a single Dâam of the established Allowance for Support and Sebundy.

" Baboo Jaggudis Sing, contrary to good Policy and the Welfare of the People, makes Exactions from the whole Country, and does not pay even the fixed Revenue. There is neither Advantage to the Sirkar, nor Ease to the People.

" From my good Fortune your Excellency has advanced to this Country. If a sure Settlement is not now made to my Advantage, I shall despair of its being done ever. From your compassionating Benevolence I hope that my Jaghire and Altumgah will be released to me, and Orders be given to the Chief of Benares to pay regularly to me the allotted Sum of Six Lacs and Thirty odd thousand Rupees, for my own Expences and the Sebundy.

" Rajah Mahipnarain represents, that since his Exaltation to the Raaje he has not enjoyed the smallest Part of that Consequence or Respect due to his Rank. Even the Town of Ramnagore, allotted for his Residence, has been put under a Cutwal from another Authority.

" Half the Pergunnah of Buddock, producing a Revenue of One hundred and fifty-eight thousand three hundred and forty-one Rupees, was allotted him in Jaghire. The remaining Part he held from the Sirkar, at the Jemma of Seventy thousand five hundred Rupees.

" Mungrore, producing a Revenue of Fifty thousand Rupees, was granted in Altumgah to the Raunce Golaab Koer.

" Meitch,

“ Meitch, producing a Revenue of Sixty thousand Rupees, was granted in Jaghire to the Rajah's Father and Naib Baboo Dushbedjey Sing.

“ Baboo Dushbedjey Sing failing in his Payments to the Sirkar, the Whole of the above-mentioned Grants were sequestered, and an Order sent from the Council to the Raja to make good the Balances; but Mr. Markham, on the Rajah's Representation of his Case released Half the Pergunnah of Buddock, and promised, when the Balances of the Sirkar should be paid, to release the others. The Rajah, seeing that his Father made no Efforts to pay the Demands of the Sirkar, satisfied them himself, by the Assistance of the Banker Gopaul Dofs. Mr. Markham assured him that his Promise should be kept; but he was recalled, and the Altumgah and Jaghire of Mungrore have not yet been restored. The Half of the Pergunnah of Buddock the Raja at present possesses in Jaghire; and he now holds the Remainder of the Sirkar, with the Addition of Seventeen thousand Rupees to the former Jemma, as before mentioned. He hopes that this Addition will be excused, and a Lease granted him at a fixed Jemma for the future; that the Altumgah of Mungrore will be released to the Rannee; and Maitch, the Jaghire of his Father, be allowed to remain under him, till such Times as the Sums advanced on his Account for the Payments of the Sirkar shall be made good.

“ Of the Six Lacs five hundred Rupees allowed for the Muddud Phertch, the Raja had not received one Dâam since his being placed on the Raaje. He hopes that an Allowance will be made him on this Account from the Date of the Removal of his Father from the Neabut, and that he shall receive the Whole in future.

“ The Raja is in all Things obedient to the Sirkar; but he humbly hopes that the usual Ruffaam and Adaab of the Dignity of Rajah may be allowed him, viz. that the Naib may receive a Khelaal from him, and the Aumils on their Appointment be ordered to pay him the customary Compliment of taking Leave, and receiving from him the Beitle, &c.”]

“ To Francis Fowke Esquire, Resident at Benares.

“ Sir,

“ I must further require of you, and I do most strictly enjoin you, to keep a Book of all the Applications which you receive from the Military Officers for the Aid of your Influence or Authority, for whatever Purposes, and of your Letters written officially to them, together with Copies of all Complaints made by them, or against them, or against the People under their Command, whether Sepoys or others; and that if any Officer shall act contrary to these Orders, or suffer them to be infringed, you do immediately transmit to me an Account thereof, with all the Particulars which shall have come to your Knowledge, while I am on this Side of the Caramnassa, and to the Board after my Return to the Presidency; and I think it proper to declare, that if it shall ever come to my Knowledge that any Oppressions are committed by the Sepoys, or any shall have been detached contrary to these Orders, and you shall have neglected to give me Notice thereof, I shall consider it a very criminal Breach of your Duty. I do not believe that it is likely to happen, and have the firmest Reliance on your Vigilance to prevent it. I mean by this Declaration rather to strengthen and enforce your Authority, than to reflect even the most distant Charge or Suggestion of Distrust to your Disadvantage.

“ I must also desire that you will give strict Injunctions to the Manager to compel his Aumils to remain in their Stations, and to place proper Persons in all the Villages which lie on or near the Road, whenever any Military Forces pass through their Districts, to protect the Riats, and make their Applications for Redress to the Commanding Officers, if any Oppressions are committed, or for Guards, when they may be wanted; and above all Things to keep them supplied with the Necessaries of their Bazars; I have been myself a Witness of the ruinous Effects which have been produced by his Neglect of these Precautions, although enjoined in the strongest Terms by myself in Person, and by yourself before my Arrival at the Boundary of his Jurisdiction.

“ Benares,

I am, &c.

“ 16th March 1784.

(Signed)

Warren Hastings.”

“ To Lieutenant Colonel Ahmuty, commanding at Chunar.

“ Sir,

“ Many Complaints have been made to me of Violences committed by the Sepoys under your Command, both those belonging to the Station of Ghazepore, and especially those of your immediate Garrison. The Instances that have been reported to me are of various Kinds; but those which made the greatest Impression on my Memory, from their Influence on the publick Revenue, and Peace of the Country, were these; that it was a constant Practice for Parties of Sepoys to take, by Force, the Grain of the Country at an inferior Rate, and carry it to the Bazars of Ghazipore Station, and of Buxar, where it was sold at a very advanced Price; and Instances were quoted to me of the Grain upon the Ground, and even of Seed Grain attached for the same Purposes, and either taken or released on a pecuniary Accommodation. I so well know the Benevolence and Probity of your private Character, that I am certain you are incapable of departing from the Sight of these Virtues in your public Conduct: But you cannot command the Forbearances, nor be answerable for the Behaviour of that Class of Men to whom these Complaints relate, when you arm them with your Authority, and let them loose, for whatever Purpose or however necessary, on the distant and defenceless Raiats.

“ I must, for this Reason, request, and I am certain that you will allow my Request the Weight of a Command, that you will instantly withdraw every Party, and every Sepoy whom you may have detached into any of the Districts of the Zemidarry of Benares, and that you will give the like Orders to the Officer commanding at Ghazipore; that you will abstain hereafter from sending any Parties, even a single Sepoy, beyond the Caramnassa; and forbid the Officer on Command at Ghazipore to send any Sepoys, or a single Sepoy, with Authority, or for any Purpose whatsoever, into a Village of the District, except on Services required by the Aumil, in Writing, and specially prescribed by the Aumil, or Person appointed to attend them. I have given strict Injunctions to Mr. Fowke to take immediate and effectual Measures for supplying the Station at Ghazipore with Grain, and the Necessaries for their Subsistence; and it must be his sole Province to direct and provide for such Supplies. If you require the like Provision for your Garrison from the District of this Zemidarry, I must desire that you will apply to him, and he has my positive Orders to afford you his effectual Assistance for that End.

I am, &c. &c. &c.

“ Benares, 16th March 1784.

Signed Warren Hastings.”

“ The same to Major Eaton, commanding at Buxar.”

The Managers for the Commons stated, that it was material to attend to the Date of the Paper they were next about to produce, viz. of the 20th April 1784.—That Mr. Hastings did not leave Calcutta till the Year 1785, consequently it was in his Possession at the Time he left Calcutta: and that it appeared by the Date, as well as from the Names of the Members present at the Consultation now before the House, that Mr. Hastings had neglected to transmit it, as it was his Duty to have done.

“ Read, the following Extract from the Appendix to the same Consultation.

[“ To Francis Fowke Esquire, Resident at Benares.

“ Sir,

“ In Obedience to your Commands I proceeded to Gauzipore, to enquire into the various Causes of Complaint preferred against the Sepoys belonging to the Stations of Buxar and Gauzipore. The following Narrative contains a true Statement of Circumstances as far as I have been able to investigate them.

“ In the Months of Assin Cautic, and Aghun Poofe, and Maug, when all Kinds of Grain bore an exorbitant Price, occasioned by the Failure of the Periodical Rains, and the consequent Apprehension of a Famine, the commanding Officers of Buxar and Gauzipore seem to have found their Buzars insufficient* supplied with Grain. To remedy this Inconvenience, it appears, that Parties of Sepoys were sent into the Mofussil, from both Stations, to procure Grain. It does not appear by any Evidence that I have seen or heard, that any conciliating Mode or regular Plan was adopted for the Supply of the Military Buzars, or that the Naib Baboo Jagger Deo Sing (though he must have known of these Complaints) ever interposed his Authority to remedy the Evils complained of, by endeavouring to remove the apparent Cause of them.

* Sic in Orig.

“ The Alarm occasioned in the Country by the Appearance of Sepoys in the different Villages upon this Errand, made the Inhabitants fearful of exposing their Grain, or of acknowledging that they were possessed of any. As this encreased the Difficulty, the Sepoys seem to have had recourse to more indirect Means of obtaining it. They very soon appear to have opposed Secrecy with Violence.—Many of the Ryotts have complained to me, that they were threatened with corporal Punishment by the Sepoys if they did not produce Grain in many Places, that the Sepoys entered the Houses of the Ryotts to search for it, and, in some, that corporal Punishment was inflicted.

" At this Season of the Year there is very little Grain in the Villages, except what is deposited for Seed, or for the Consumption of the Rayott and his Family.

* Sic in Orig. " There is another Cause of Complaint * <sup>which</sup> with the Zemindars and Rayotts have invariably made to me, that either the Weight or Price of the Military Buzars, and sometimes both, differed from the Weights and Prices of the Pergunnahs from whence the Grain was taken. To explain this Subject, I have annexed Two Accounts of Grain, one taken by the Sepoys of each Station, and attested by the Zemindar and Potwarry of the Village from whence the Grain was taken. To have collected and translated all the Accounts of this Nature, I must have translated an Account from almost every Village in this Sircar, from some Two. The Accounts are as they were delivered to me; I have sent you the Originals, together with the Translations, that any Error of mine may be corrected.

† Sic in Orig. " Upon the Receipt of the Price paid at the Military Stations for each Quantity of Grain, it appears that Razynamahs were taken from the Owners of the Grain; which Razynamahs, the Inhabitants assert, were made a Condition of Payment. It does not appear that any of the Officers of the Military Stations received these Razynamahs. The whole Translation † of taking the Razynamahs, and paying for the Grain, seems to have rested betwixt the Cutwal of the Buzars, the Black Officers who commanded the Party sent to search for Grain, and the Owners of it. The Cutwal of the Buzars appear sometimes to have attended these Parties into the Mofussil, but their Presence does not seem in any Instance to have afforded Relief to the Rayotts. The Sepoys do not always appear to have been sent expressly to any particular Town or Village, but generally to a Pergunnah to procure Grain; for there are many Instances where the Village has been spared, on the Inhabitants giving a small pecuniary Consideration to the Sepoys.

" The Pergunnahs in Sircar Gauzipore seem to have been divided betwixt the Two Stations in the following Manner.

Buxar	{	Mohamudabad,
		Gurrah,
		Demah,
		Belliah,
		Copah,
		Lucknessar,
		Khoreed,
		Secunderpore,
		Chounrah,
		Zamaniah.
Gauzipore	{	Havilly Gauzipore,
		Zehourabad,
		Pachouter,
		Curudah,
		Zheddiabad,
		Beerabad.

" Many of the Aumils of Gauzipore have complained to me that their Rayotts prefer Complaints against them to the Officers of the Military Stations on Matters of Revenue, and these Complaints are often followed by Perwannahs ordering the Aumil upon the Subject, the Contents of which Perwannahs are made known to the Rayotts. In the Zemindary of Benares no Person can direct an Aumil in the Mofussil Business of the Country, who is not himself well informed of the particular Usage of each Pergunnah. The Questions betwixt Aumil and Rayott are often of a complex Nature, involved in old Customs and technical Terms, and never can be understood by the Representations of One Party only.

" But this is not the sole Detriment. This Country has long been subjected to one Authority. The Natives do not understand Subdivisions of Power; nor can the Business of the Revenue ever be conducted well, if the Country is subjected to different Jurisdictions. That Class of the Inhabitants of this Country on which the public Revenue depends, the Rayotts, cannot judge how far positive Authority is connected with official Station; they generally consider the Marks of Authority, when they appear as proceeding from a Power regularly authorised to enforce Obedience to its own Acts.

" I am, Sir,

" Gauzipore,
20th April 1784.

" Your most obedient humble Servant,
Signed John Benn, Assistant."

" P. S. The Price paid at the Military Stations would, in a plentiful Year, be a high Price. This Year all Kinds of Grain fell at more than double the usual Price."

Then

Then Lieutenant Colonel THOMAS GARDNER was called in ; and, being sworn, was examined as follows :

Q. How long, and in what Capacity, have you resided in the East Indies ?

A. Seventeen Years and an Half, as an Officer in the Army.

Q. When did you leave it ?

A. In January 1784.

Q. In what Part of India did you reside during the latter Part of the Time you were in that Country ?

A. I resided several Years at Chunargur.

Q. You do not recollect exactly how many ?

A. I do not ; I was for some Time down at Calcutta ; but I believe altogether Five or Six Years.

Q. How far is Chunargur from the City of Benares ?

A. About Fifteen Miles.

Q. Had you any Reason to think, from your own Observations during the Time of your Residence there, that Property was well or ill protected in the Province of Benares ?

A. I had no Reason to think otherwise than that it was well protected.

Q. Did the People seem attached to their Native Government ?

A. They did.

Q. Whether you have made frequent Excursions into the Province, and have been often at the City of Benares ?

A. I have.

Q. Have other English Officers been in the same Circumstances ?

A. Many.

Q. Have you, or, to your Knowledge, have they been insulted, or suffered any Violence, in any of your Excursions into the Country ?

A. Not to my Knowledge ; I never heard but of One Instance.

Q. State that Instance ?

A. There was an Officer, or Cadet, I don't know which ; but he sent his Servants on Shore to get some Milk, and some Disturbance arose ; he went out to assist his Servants, and received some Hurt upon his Head.

Q. In your Excursions did you experience Civilities ?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you observe that Benares was infested by Robbers and Murderers more than any other Parts of India that you have seen ?

A. I believe not.

Q. Was you personally acquainted with Cheit Sing ?

A. I was.

Q. Had you any Opportunity of remarking whether he was of a violent and enterprising Disposition ?

A. I have been frequently in his Company, have played at Chess with him, and been in his House, and never saw any Marks of a violent Disposition.

Q. What was his Disposition, as far as you had an Opportunity to know it ?

A. He was gentle in his Manners, and polite.

Q. Had you observed, previous to August 1781, any Thing in the Conduct of Cheit Sing which indicated a Disposition to subvert the Authority of the East India Company, and to erect his own Independence on their Ruin ?

A. I had not.

Q. Was you ever informed that he was collecting or preparing any Provision for an open Revolt ?

A. Never.

Q. Did you ever hear any of the other Officers at Chunargur express any Apprehension of that Kind ?

A. Never.

Q. Was you at Benares when Mr. Hastings arrived there ?

A. I was.

Q. At what Time did he arrive ?

A. On the 14th of August 1781.

Q. Was there any Thing in Appearances that indicated a Design to attack Mr. Hastings in his Road to that Place ?

A. Not that came to my Knowledge.

Q. Was you with him on the Road ?

A. No, I was at Benares.

Q. At Benares you saw no Dispositions that were menacing ?

A. I went to see him upon his Arrival.

Q. Did you hear any Expressions amongst those who attended Mr. Hastings, that they apprehended any Design was entertained of attacking him ?

A. I did not.

Q. You was at Benares the Day on which Cheyt Sing was ordered to be arrested ?

A. I was.

Q. Where was the Rajah when he was arrested ?

A. I understood he was at Shewallah Gaut.

Q. Whether it is your Opinion, from the best Accounts you could collect, and the Observations you could make, that the Tumult was the Effect of a sudden Affray, or premeditated Design to commence Hostilities ?

A. I believe it was a sudden Affray.

Q. What was your Opportunity of observing it ?

A. I had no other Opportunity than being upon the Spot ; it is only Matter of Opinion ; I was in the Town.

Q. How far from Shewalla Gaut ?

A. About a Mile and an Half.

Q. When did you first hear of the Riot ?

A. The same Day, perhaps a Couple of Hours after he was put under Arrest. I was not there at the first Firing of the Sepoys. We heard they were collecting.

Q. How soon did you come to the Place where the Riot had been, after it had begun ?

A. I was in a House, not under the same Roof that Mr. Hastings was, but in a House connected with it, and dined with Mr. Hastings the same Day the Intelligence was brought of the Troops being cut off, and the Commanding Officers killed ?

Q. Is it that Time you speak of then ?

A. Yes ; it is Matter of Opinion.

Q. If the Rajah had entertained a premeditated Design to cut off Mr. Hastings, and the People who were with him, would it not have been in his Power after that Event ?

A. I think it would.

Q. Was you with Mr. Hastings at the Time ?

A. Yes.

Q. Had Mr. Hastings expressed any Apprehensions of a Design upon him before the Event of the Riot ?

A. Not that I know of.

Q. Were any Dispositions of the Military made to provide against the Execution of that Design before that Event ?

A. I know of none, except the Battalion of Sepoys ordered down to Benares to wait Mr Hastings's Arrival there.

Q. To what Place did Mr. Hastings retire after the Tumult, on the same Day or afterwards ?

A. We did not quit the House.

Q. How long did he continue in it before he quitted it ?

A. Four or Five Days.

Q. To what Place did he retire after he left the House ?

A. To Chunagur.

Q. Were they molested or attacked after the Tumult, and before they retired to Chunagur ?

A. We were not.

Q. Whether you served in the Army that was employed against the Rajah Cheyt Sing's People ?

A. I did ; I was Field Engineer.

Q. Was there any Thing in the Force they had to encounter that indicated a long premeditated Design to make War on the East India Company?

A. It is hard for me to answer that Question. I do not know there was; but I cannot be positive there was not.

Q. Whether the Force was so prepared and so trained as to be beyond the ordinary Establishment of the Rajah?

A. They were under Cover of a Breast-work and the Fort, and we could not see them: We could only see them at a Distance.

Q. It did not afford you the Opportunity required?

A. No.

Q. Did you ever make any Attack upon any of the Rajah's Forces?

A. I erected the Forts against Peteeta and Bidjeygur.

Q. Do you know whether the Fort of Bidjeygur was defended by any regular military Governor, or proper military Establishment?

A. I believe the Rajah's Mother commanded in the Fort, and gave her Directions to the Buxey.

Q. Was there any Military Force to protect the Rajah's Mother?

A. They fired on us frequently.

Q. Was there a formed Military Establishment before?

A. They always kept a Garrison in Bidjeygur.

Q. Of what Numbers did the Garrison consist, and of what Species of Troops, Engineers, or Artillery?

A. I believe there were about 700 Men who acted as Artillery, because their Guns fired upon us frequently, and killed several of our Men.

Q. Had you any Opportunity of making any Observation upon the Cannon and other Stores taken in the Fort?

A. Not till many Months after we got Possession of the Fort.

Q. At length you had?

A. I got a severe Illness at the Batteries during the Siege of Bidjeygur, which I did not recover of sufficiently for many Months, I suppose Seven or Eight Months; at the End of that Time I went to take a Plan of the Garrison myself.

Q. Were there any Remains of the same Guns or Stores which had been there during the Time of the Siege?

A. The Guns, I believe, were all there, or most of them.

Q. What Number of Guns?

A. I do not recollect the Number of Guns.

Q. What Observations you made upon the Quality of the Guns, and the Nature of the Stores?

A. The Guns were old, and ill mounted.

Q. The Stores were hardly remaining, I suppose?

A. No; I believe the Stores were removed.

Q. Do you know whether there were or were not any Cannon removed from Bidjeygur before you saw it?

A. I do not know that there was, for a Certainty; I have some Notion that the Cannon they took from us at Ramnagur was there, and had been removed; I believe it was, but I am not certain.

Q. In what Light was Cheit Sing considered by his Subjects in the Country in general, whether as a Renter, or as an Independent Prince?

A. I believe his Subjects looked upon him as perfectly Independent: They knew he was dependent upon our Government, but he had the Power of Life and Death over them.

Q. Whether he was a Prince beloved and esteemed by his Subjects?

A. I believe he was liked very well.

Q. Whether you know of any Application from Cheit Sing to Mr. Hastings at any Time before Mr. Hastings retired from Benares?

A. I understand there were Applications made.

Q. But you know nothing of them yourself?

A. I know nothing of them myself.

Q. Do

Q. Do you know of any Application made by Cheit Sing to any other Person?

A. Not by Cheit Sing himself—he was upon the opposite Side of the River.

Q. Or by any Person commissioned by him?

A. There was a Man, named Govind Ram, applied to me to request I would intercede with Mr. Markham in favour of Cheit Sing.

Q. Was Govind Ram in the Service of Cheit Sing before?

A. He was a Gentleman that resided at Benares.

Q. When was that Application made?

A. I believe it was the Second Day after the Affair of Shewallah Gaut.

Q. And before Mr. Hastings retired?

A. Yes.

Q. Whether you had any Reason to doubt that that Application was made under the Authority of Cheit Sing?

A. I imagine he was written to by some Person about Cheit Sing to make the Application.

Q. The Application was made to you personally?

A. To me personally.

Q. Was the Application represented as an Application by some Person from Cheit Sing, or as an Application warranted by Cheit Sing?

A. He did not express it particularly—he requested I would intercede for Cheit Sing, and said he was ready to submit to any Terms Mr. Hastings would please to impose.

Q. Did you communicate this Application to Mr. Markham?

A. I did.

Q. What Answer did Mr. Markham make to it?

A. Mr. Markham asked me how I could think of interceding as a Friend for the Murderer of my Friend Stalker, meaning Lieutenant Stalker, who was killed at Shewallah Ghaut.

Q. Did he refuse to communicate it to Mr. Hastings?

A. He did.

Q. Did he assign any Reason for not doing it?

A. He did.

Q. Besides that you have mentioned?

A. He did; he said that Mr. Hastings could not pardon Cheit Sing, his Crime was so great.

Q. I wish the Witnesses may be desired to state, as particularly as he can, what Answer Mr. Markham gave, and what his Reasons were; and what particular Crime Cheit Sing was guilty of that was so enormous he could not expect a Pardon? Do you know any other Particulars of Mr. Markham's Answer.

A. He did not state any other Particulars.

Q. Did you inform Govind Ram of this Refusal?

A. I did.

Q. Did he make any other Applications?

A. He frequently in Conversation wished that something might be done for the Rajah.

Q. Did you, in Consequence of that, make any Application to Mr. Hastings or Mr. Markham?

A. No.

Q. Did you ever communicate with Mr. Hastings at all?

A. I did not.

Q. Did any other Person ever apply to you besides Govind Ram?

A. Not that I recollect.

Q. Are you of Opinion, that in case this Offer had been accepted, Mr. Hastings might, without Bloodshed, have obtained a Sum of Money?

A. I believe he might.

Q. To any considerable Amount?

A. The Rajah, I believe, stood very much in awe of Mr. Hastings; and his Presence, I believe, would have compelled him to any moderate Terms he might have proposed.

Q. What do you mean by moderate Terms?

A. I suppose if Mr. Hastings had asked Ten Lacks, he would have given it to have been reconciled.

Q. This

Q. This you speak to as Matter of Opinion?

A. It is all Matter of Opinion.

Q. Whether you think the Presence of Mr. Hastings alone, without any Violence or Severity, would have induced Cheyt Sing to submit to those Terms you alluded to?

A. I do think he would readily have given Ten Lacks to have made his Peace with Mr. Hastings.

Q. Are you of Opinion, if these Terms had been accepted that Bloodshed would have been prevented?

A. I believe it would.

Q. Was there any Thing that appeared to you, at the Time Mr. Hastings arrived at Benares, to indicate a strong personal Animosity in Mr. Hastings against Cheyt Sing?

A. There did not.

Q. What Impression did the Conduct of Mr. Hastings towards Cheyt Sing make upon your Mind?

A. I suppose Mr. Hastings's ordering the Rajah under Arrest, was in consequence of his having received some secret Information that Cheyt Sing was carrying on a secret Correspondence with our Enemies; it struck me in that Light.

Q. Are you inclined to suppose that, from the Severity of the Measures that Mr. Hastings used towards Cheyt Sing, or from any other Circumstance?

A. From his ordering him under Arrest after his Arrival, without receiving the complimentary Visit from Cheyt Sing.

Q. Was he not by the Arrest disgraced and dishonoured in the Eyes of the Country?

A. Yes, I think he was.

Q. Do you think, that after the Arrest he would have been able, supposing him to have been left in his Government, to have administered his Government, and collected the Revenue as well as before?

A. I should not think he would have been respected as much as he was before; but he could have collected the Revenues, because he could have used Force; but he could not have done it by any other Means.

Q. He could have collected the Revenues, because he could have used Force; but he would not have been so much respected as before?

A. Yes.

Q. Supposing the obtaining a Sum of Money to have been Mr. Hastings's Object, and not a Design of punishing Cheyt Sing for a Correspondence inimical to the English Government, do you think the Arrest was necessary to force the Payment?

A. I do think it might have been done without the Arrest; but Cheyt Sing would certainly have made Difficulties if the Sum had been large.

Q. Did you ever hear what the Amount of the Fine was that Mr. Hastings proposed to levy?

A. Never, till I read it in Mr. Hastings's Narrative.

Q. Do you think that Cheyt Sing would have resisted the Payment of that Fine, and that it could not have been levied by any other than forcible Means?

A. I think Cheyt Sing would have objected to it, and started many Difficulties, if it amounted to so great a Sum as Fifty Lacks of Rupees.

Q. Would he have opposed it by Force?

A. I do not think he would.

Q. (from a Lord) If you know what the State of Cheyt Sing's Force was at that Time, namely upon the 14th of August?

A. I do not.

The Counsel were asked if they wished to put any Questions to the Witness.

Q. (from the Counsel.) Whether your Residence, though you might be sometimes in the Country, was not principally confined to Chunargur?

A. It was principally confined to Chunargur.

Q. Principally?

A. It was.

Q. But you made Excursions in other Parts of the Country?

A. I did upon Hunting Parties and Shooting Parties.

Q. Whether

Q. Whether there might not have been frequent Attempts by Cheyt Sing towards acquiring an Independency, and frequent Disorders in the Country, and yet they might have escaped your Knowledge?

A. No Doubt there might in a Tract of Country so very large.

Q. Whether some of the Forts under Cheyt Sing had not been recently enlarged, and whether some Alterations had not been made in his Forts?

A. I know of his adding a Bastion to Ramnagur, or some Works to Ramnagur.

Q. When was that added?

A. It had been doing for some Years.

Q. How many Years?

A. Two or Three, I believe; I don't immediately recollect.

Q. Whether some Alterations had not been made about Pateeta?

A. Just at the Time of the Insurrection there was.

Q. Before the 14th of August?

A. No, I believe not; I never heard that it was then.

Q. At what Time did you understand they were made?

A. Immediately after the Insurrection.

Q. That was the 14th of August?

A. Immediately after.

Q. What was the Nature of the Alterations?

A. They threw up a Breast-work.

Q. Had not the Works been considerably enlarged at Pateeta; was there any Enlargement at Pateeta antecedent to the 14th of August?

A. I believe not—not that I know of.

Q. Whether the Witness has not heard Complaints of Cheit Sing's Disaffection from the Resident at Benares, prior to the 14th of August?

A. I have heard Mr. Graham say, that he was very much dissatisfied upon the additional Demand of Tribute, upon Account of the Five Lacks in Addition that were laid on, I believe, in the Year 1778, or the Beginning of 1779.

Q. Were those all the Complaints you heard, of any Thing like Disaffection?

A. Yes, they were.

Q. Whether he had any Opportunity of observing the Stores found in the Fort of Cheit Sing, after the Insurrection?

A. Not for many Months after. I answered that Question before.

Q. When did you see them?

A. I saw none, except what I mentioned before.—I saw no Stores; there were large Grainaries there which had been filled with Grain; some was damaged very much, and some had been removed.

Q. Whether you saw the Supply of Stores sent by Colonel Blair?

A. I did not. I was confined to my Bed for several Months after the Surrender of Bidgegur.

Q. The Witness has been asked after the Temper and Disposition of Cheit Sing; I wish to ask the same Question with respect to Soojaun Sing the Brother?

A. Soojaun Sing was of a violent Temper, I believe.

Q. Were not the Affairs of Cheit Sing very much intrusted to that Brother, especially after the Insurrection?

A. I don't know that they were entrusted by Cheit Sing to him; but I believe he took upon him the Direction of many Matters.

Q. Do you mean before or after the Insurrection?

A. At all Times, before and after; all Matters.

Q. What Sort of Matters?

A. Respecting the Government of the Country. I believe he was of a violent Temper, and interfered in many Affairs, whether by Cheit Sing's Approbation or not, I don't know.

Q. Do you mean the Military or Civil Government?

A. I believe in all Matters whatsoever in the Affairs of Government.

Q. Had he not the general Direction of all Matters belonging to Cheit Sing?—Was he not the principal Director, Counsel, and Adviser of the Whole; and did he do it with the Will of Cheyt Sing?

A. I don't know that he was.

Q. At the Time of the Application the Witness has spoken to, which he communicated to Mr. Markham, was not Cheit Sing engaged in open Rebellion, and opposing our Troops in the Field? Do you know the Time when Govind Ram did make his Application?

A. I believe it was the Second Day after the Insurrection.

Q. Where was Cheit Sing at that Time? Was he at the Head of the Army in Rebellion?

A. He was at Ramnegur, on the opposite Side of the Ganges.

Q. Had he any Forces under him?

A. He was collecting Forces; he had collected a great Number.

Q. You don't know how many he had with him at the Time?

A. No, I cannot tell.

Q. Do you know any Thing of the Murder of an European of the Name of Hooper?

A. Mr. Hastings sent to me in the Morning of the Day before we left Benares, to know my Opinion respecting the Bombardment of Ramnegur: I gave it as my Opinion, the opposite Bank would be the properest Situation to erect Mortar Batteries. I represented it was better there than any where else: I represented it so to Mr. Hastings; and Mr. Hastings said, he thought the Distance was too great. I told him, I could not be exact in the Distance, but I thought it sufficiently near to erect a Mortar Battery opposite Ramnegur; but I would go up in the Afternoon, and examine it more particularly. In the Afternoon I went to the Spot: Shortly after my Arrival there, I saw a Budgerow and a large Boat coming down with the Current very quick; it was in the Height of the Rains, and they were coming down very quick. As soon as the Boats were seen from the Fort of Ramnegur, I observed the People at the Ghaut, the Place where the Boats were in the Harbour, a Kind of Gut at Ramnagur, in Motion, and getting aboard the Boats with great Expedition. In short, they afterwards put Boats off with armed Men, and boarded the Budgerow and Boat; many of them were with drawn Sabres in their Hands: Several of the People in the Boat jumped overboard into the Ganges. There were some Boats belonging to myself at a little Village hard by; Pleasure Boats, Two Boats; I run down, and ordered them to put off immediately, and take up as many of the Men as they could. They brought ashore Eleven of them, to the best of my Recollection; they were most of them wounded Sepoys that had been wounded in the Morning of that Day, in the Action at Ramnegur, where Captain Mayaffre commanded, and informed me of Captain Mayaffre and Captain Doxey being killed, and the Detachment being defeated. They were Men who were in the Action, and were wounded, and put on Board the Boats. The Budgerow belonged to an European Merchant who had been up the Country with a Brigade on the Country Station, and was returning to Calcutta, and Cheit Sing's People had cut them off: They had killed all that they found on Board, amongst the Rest was this Merchant, Mr. Hooper.

Q. As the Witness has been asked respecting the Character of different Persons, I would wish to put the same Question to him respecting the Character of Mr. Hastings, as to Temper and Disposition?

A. I believe there is not a more amiable private Character in any Country than Mr. Hastings.

Q. You have said the Country of Benares was of such Extent, it might have been possible for Cheit Sing to have made Preparations for Rebellion, and made Excursions into the Country, without your knowing it. I wish to know whether any Preparations of this Sort had been carried on in the City of Benares or at Ramnagur, without your Knowledge?

A. I believe, if any considerable Preparations were made, they would have come to my Knowledge.

Q. Either at Ramnagur or Benares?

A. Yes.

Q. The Witness stated that the Boat in which Mr. Hooper was, who was murdered, contained some Sepoys that were wounded, belonging to the Detachment of Captain Mayaffre; I wish to know whether Captain Mayaffre had not attacked Ramnagur that Morning?

A. The Sepoys I picked up informed me, he had that Morning attacked Ramnagur, and was killed.

Q. You mean the Sepoys that were wounded in the Action with Captain Mayaffre?

A. Yes.

Q. (from a Lord.) The Witness has said, Cheyt Sing had made some Addition to the Fortification, and raised a Breast-work; I wish to know whether these Additions or that Breast-work had occasioned any Alarm in the English Government?

A. I never heard the Addition to Ramnagur made any Alarm—those at Pateeta were made after the Insurrection.

Q. Then no Additions previous to the Insurrection had given any Alarm to the British Government?

A. I believe not.

Q. If any Alarm or any Jealousy had been conceived from any such Works, should you, as an Engineer who was so near as Fifteen Miles or less to Ramnagur, been applied to on the Subject?

A. I believe if it had given any Alarm to the Government it would have been made known to me as Engineer in that Part of the Country.

Q. You was Chief Engineer there?

A. I was.

Q. Did you yourself, as a Soldier, conceive any Alarm from what you heard of at Ramnagur or Patetta?

A. I did not.

Q. (from a Lord.) Whether you considered the Affray that happened at Shewallah as the Consequence of the Arrest of Cheyt Sing?

A. I did.

Q. (by a Lord.) If Attempts appeared to you to have been made by Cheyt Sing to establish his Independence, would it have been prudent for Mr. Hastings to have proceeded to Benares in the Manner he did, without a Force sufficient to repel such Attempts?

A. I think a large Force should have been collected upon the Occasion, if they apprehended he wanted to make himself independent.

The Managers for the Commons informed the House, they should call no more Witnesses upon this Article.

Then the House adjourned to the Chamber of Parliament.

Die Veneris, 11<sup>o</sup> Aprilis 1788.

THE Lords being in their Places, the House resumed, the usual Proclamations made, and the Defendant appearing at the Bar, the Lord Chancellor acquainted the Managers for the Commons they might proceed.

Then Mr. Anstruther was heard, to sum up the Evidence upon the first Article.— And having finished,

The House directed Mr. BENN to be called in again: and being called in accordingly, he was examined as follows.

Q. (from a Lord.) The Witness was asked Yesterday, whether, from the peculiar Manners of the People of Hindostan, an Arrest was not considered as more disgraceful there upon the Person arrested than it is in any other Country; and his Answer, as I recollect, was, that he looked upon it as disgraceful in any Country. Am I right in saying that was your Answer?

A. I believe it was.

Q. I will now put the Question in a different Manner. — Are you not of Opinion that Mr. Hastings's arresting Cheit Sing must have appeared to the Subjects of Cheit Sing and the People of Hindostan as a Stigma of great Disgrace?

A. No; I did not consider the Arrest of him as a Stigma of great Disgrace. If I may be permitted, I will state what I think of Arrests in general.—In India there are two Sets of Men to whom Arrests would be disgraceful: the First is a Military Man; the other, a Merchant.—In Cases of Revenue, Arrests are very common.

Q. (from a Lord.) As a Bramin or High Priest, looking upon him in that sacred Light, whether an Arrest of him, in that Situation, would not be looked upon by the Hindoos as a peculiar Disgrace?

A. I think upon a Bramin it would.

Q. Was not Cheit Sing a Bramin?

A. If you will give me Leave I will explain what Cheit Sing was.—He was the Son of a Mussul Woman, he was not a Bramin; by that Circumstance, he was not a Man of what the Hindoos call the High Cast among them: All I meant to say was, the Rule which applied to the Bramins or People of a High Cast in India did not apply to Rajah Cheit Sing.

Q. Whether, supposing him a Sovereign Prince, the Arrest upon a Person of such a Description would not be regarded by the Manners of that Country as a particular Disgrace?

A. It would be regarded as a Circumstance lessening the Authority of a Sovereign Prince.

Q. Whether the Mode of Punishment that was inflicted upon Doorgbidjey Sing of depriving him of his Hooka would be considered, according to the Manners of the People of that Country, as a personal Disgrace?

A. No, it would not.

Q. State your Reason.

A. I am asked, whether, agreeable to my Sense of the Manners of that Country, it would be considered as a Disgrace.—From my Sense of the Manners of that Country, I think it would not be considered as a particular Disgrace.

Q. What were the Offences that Doorgbidjey Sing had committed, for which he was imprisoned and treated in the Manner you have represented?

A. A large Balance was due to the East India Company; his first Imprisonment was for that Sum of Money due to the East India Company.

Q. Was there any other Occasion for his second Confinement?

A. That Sum not being liquidated:—There is an Account here I believe that perhaps would state the Matter more clearly than I can from Recollection, or at least I could state it more clearly if I saw that Account.

Q. The general Question put to you is, Whether, upon your Recollection of the Causes of the first and second Imprisonment, that was a Punishment too severe in proportion to those Causes, according to the Rules and Customs of that Country?

A. No; I do not think it was.

Q. Do you think he deserved Death ~~for~~ those Offences?

A. No; certainly not.

Q. What do you understand by the Word Zemindar? Do you understand a Zemindar to be a Person possessed of Land generally, or possessed of Land subject to a small Rent to the Great Mogul?

A. I understand it to be generally a Possessor of Land.

Q. Is there any Difference in the Opinion of the Natives between a great and powerful Zemindar or a smaller Zemindar?

A. The same Difference as in every other Country.

Q. The Question meant to be put is, Whether in the Nature of the Tenure there is a Difference between a great Zemindar and a small one?

A. No, I believe not; there is none that I know of.

Q. (from a Lord.) Whether when Rents or Revenues fall in Arrear, personal Arrests are not the ordinary Process for compelling Payment?

A. It is.

Q. Whether the Deprivation of the Hooka is not commonly the first Mode used to enforce Payment?

A. I don't believe it is at all a general one; it is a little Hardship, perhaps similar to depriving a Gentleman of his Snuffbox in England.

The Witness was directed to withdraw.

Then the House directed Lieutenant Colonel Thomas Gardner to be again called; and being called accordingly, he was asked,

Q. Whether Govind Ram was esteemed a Man of Consequence at Benares?

A. He was a Man of genteel Family and Connections.

Q. Was he a Man of Character?

A. I never heard any Thing against his Character; I believe he was.

Q. If Mr. Hastings had Reason to believe Resistance from Cheyt Sing was intended, do you not think Care ought to have been taken that the Sepoys should have been supplied with Ammunition?

A. Most undoubtedly; but that was the Duty of the military Office, and not mine, to take care of.

The Witness was directed to withdraw.

Then Mr. Burke was heard to observe upon the Evidence last given; and having finished,

The House adjourned to the Chamber of Parliament.

Die Martis, 15<sup>o</sup> Aprilis 1788.

THE Lords being in their Places, the House resumed, the usual Proclamations made, and the Defendant appearing at the Bar, Mr. Adam was heard to open the Second Article of the Charge in Part.

Then the House adjourned to the Chamber of Parliament.

THE Lords being in their Places, the House resumed, the usual Proclamations made, and the Defendant appearing at the Bar, Mr. Pelham was heard to open the Remainder of the Second Article, and to observe upon the Defendant's Answer thereto.

Then the Managers for the Commons stated, that they should proceed to call their Evidence in Support of the said Second Article: Previous to which they begged leave to observe, that it was not their Intention upon this Article to confine the Evidence to the precise Order of the Allegations in the Charge.

They further stated, that in respect to the oral Evidence to be adduced upon the said Article, it was not their Intention always to examine a Witness who was called, to the Whole of the said Article of the Charge, but to such Parts only to which they should have already produced written Evidence, in Corroboration of the same, without Prejudice to the Counsel for the Defendant examining such Witness to the Whole of the Charge, if they should think proper; except as to One Witness, whose Situation made it requisite for him to be examined as early as possible, he being about to proceed to India by the next Ships.—They would therefore only first prove a Paper circulated, printed, and published, by the Order of Mr. Hastings, in the Lobby of the House of Commons, purporting to be a Second Defence relative to the Article now under Consideration; and then they would proceed to call the Witness before mentioned.

The Counsel for the Defendant desired the Managers for the Commons to favour them with the said Paper, and that if it was published by the Defendant it should be acknowledged by him.—The Paper was accordingly delivered by the Managers of the Commons to the Counsel for the Defendant, and by them shewn to the Defendant.

Then the Counsel were asked by the House, Whether they admitted that the Paper produced was a Paper proceeding from Mr. Hastings?

The Counsel for the Defendant admitted that the said Paper did proceed from the Defendant, but not with the Explanation given by the Managers, that it was printed, published, and circulated by him, or by his Order, in the Lobby of the House of Commons, and delivered to the Members as such.

The Managers for the Commons replied, that the House would be satisfied that the Explanation was correct, by the Evidence of a Witness that they would proceed to call.

Accordingly they desired that MAJOR JOHN SCOTT might be called; who appearing at the Bar, was sworn.

Then the following Paper was shewn him.

“ The Real State of the Facts contained in the Fourth Article of Mr. Burke's Charge, divested of all the extraneous Matter in which they are enveloped, may be comprized in the following plain Recital.

“ The Nabob of Oude, by the Privation of a considerable Part of his Patrimonial Estate, and the Enlargement of his Subsidy, was reduced to great and very early Distress. This I repeatedly predicted at the Time that the Majority which constituted the efficient Government of Bengal in 1775 forced from the Nabob those Conditions of the Treaty concluded with him. From the same Causes his Army, which was enormous, became disaffected, refractory, and mutinous, so as at Times to endanger his Person; because he had not the Means of paying their growing Arrears, nor of stopping the Evil by disbanding them. This threw him of course on the English Power for his Protection; and so far only was he dependent on it. Besides these Pressures, the Nabob Sujah Dowlah left him encumbered with a Debt arising from recent Engagements with the Company; and his Treasury, which might have sufficed to answer the actual Demands upon the Son, excluded from his Reach by the previous Charge of it, having been committed to Bhow Begum, the Wife of the deceased Nabob, who tenaciously retained them as her Property; nor in the Wane of his Authority, the relaxed Obedience of all Orders of his Subjects, and the Novelty of Diminution, operating upon a Mind naturally weak, and unfertile of Resources, durst he reclaim them when he might. By this Forbearance the Begum acquired the Construction of an allowed Right, of which she was of a Temper to avail herself in its fullest Extent. As she lived at a Distance from her Son, in the City which was her late Husband's Capital, and over which she had obtained an habitual Influence, this lessened the Means of Conciliation with her Son, and gave Confidence to her Uturpations. Her Stepmother, the Mother of the Nabob Sujah Dowlah, who is best known by the Appellation of the Old Begum, a Woman of a high and uncontrollable Spirit, lived in the same Neighbourhood, and always made common Cause with the Younger Begum of every Dispute in which the latter was engaged with her Son. Nor were these, though weak Women, formidable Adversaries; for they had the City at their Devotion; their personal Wealth, and the Income of their Jaghires, enabled them to keep up numerous Bands of armed Attendants; and an obdurate Perseverance, sustained by the Habit of long Indulgence, and the Consciousness of the Security which they derived from the Delicacy of Oriental Manners, more than served them in the Stead of manly Courage.

“ Such was the relative State of the Nabob Asfulph ul Dowlah and the Begums at the Time of his Accession to the Subahship in February 1775.

“ Though the Nabob dared not openly to reclaim his Treasures, he had at various Times obtained small Sums from the Begum upon Loan, amounting altogether to Twenty-six Lacks of Rupees: But being pressed for Payment of the Company's Debt, without other Resources, he applied to her for a more effectual Aid, and was refused. In this Emergency he had Recourse to the English Resident, Mr. Bristow, whom he prevailed upon, as the Resident affirmed, to be his Advocate with the Begum; and Mr. Bristow, less scrupulous than his Employer, bluntly demanded what the other had only solicited, on the Plea that the whole Wealth which she possessed was the Property of the State. After a Variety of Negotiation he at length obtained from her an Agreement to pay Thirty Lacks in Specie and Effects, on the Condition of the Nabob's granting to her an Engagement in Writing, with the Company's Guarantee, that no more Demands of any Kind should ever be made upon her; and that she should enjoy during Life her Jaghires, and all her other Estates and Possessions unmolested. An Engagement was accordingly granted to this Effect by the Nabob, expressing in it the Company's Guarantee, and a separate Engagement by Mr. Bristow confirming it.

“ This Transaction, which must have employed a considerable Length of Time, since it gave Occasion to Mr. Bristow for Two Journeys to Fyzabad, a Distance of Ninety Miles, was not officially communicated to the Board; and Mr. Barwell and myself were altogether unapprized of it, till about the 11th of November, on which Day Two Letters were read in Council from Mr. Bristow, dated the 8th and 16th of October, and detailing the Origin and Process of it to its Conclusion. In the First of these were the following remarkable Words, evidently inserted to justify his Perseverance in pressing the Begum to an Accommodation: “ It is generally believed that the Begum has Four Crores” (Forty Millions of Rupees) “ in her Possession; but I fancy I may venture to say she has One Crore and seventy Lacks;” i. e. Seventeen Millions of Rupees, or near Two Millions Sterling.

“ The Board approved of Mr. Bristow's Conduct, and confirmed the Guarantee. I certainly disapproved of both; but as I had declaredly made it a Rule to avoid interrupting the Acts of the Majority of the Council, which was the Government, by continual Dissents and Objections to every subsidiary Measure, after the primary Designs were debated and passed, I suppose it was upon this Principle that I allowed the Majority to pass their own Judgement on the Proceedings of their own Agent, without offering an ineffectual Opposition to it, except what passed in verbal Debate. Mr. Bristow had no Instructions from the Board to interfere in so delicate an Affair, much less had he Authority to pledge the Company's Faith to a formal Treaty. I was not therefore likely to approve so irregular an Assumption of a Power which did not appertain to his Office, and which should never be exercised even by the Sovereignty itself without a strong Necessity impelling, selling, or an Object of great Benefit inducing it. I believed that Mr. Bristow had acted under secret Orders, of which it was thought sufficient to put the Result upon Record, and that not till it was finally completed. As little should I have approved of any Interference, however authorized, between the Nabob and his Mother, for the Purpose of effecting, by the Terror of the English Influence, what the Nabob had not the Courage or Inclination to attempt in his own Right. Had the Nabob himself made the Attempt, and failed, or met with such Resistance, as portended a doubtful Issue of it, he might have claimed the Assistance of our Power, by the Virtue of our new Engagements with him, and we might honourably have appeared as Parties in the Competition, whether we had Recourse to Mediation or Arms. But the Act, uncalled for by such an Obligation, or by any Provocation in which our Government had an Interest, could only tend to render the English Character odious in the Eyes of the World for a wanton Intrusion on domestic Decorum, and contemptible for the pitiful Termination of it.

“ That such were my probable Sentiments, and the Motives such as I have ascribed for my Suppression of them, will appear evident from the Minute which I afterwards delivered on the 3d of January 1776, in consequence of an Appeal made by the Begum to our Government; in which, upon a subsequent Provocation, she recited all the Grievances which she had sustained from this Exaction*. In that Minute I expressed my Regret at being compelled, by a formal Call of the Board, to give an Opinion upon a Question which I had wished to leave wholly to their Determination, as it regarded the Conduct of their own System, in which I had no Part, and upon which I knew that my Opinion would be of no Avail: and the Opinion which I proceeded to give upon the Question then before the Board will be found, on a Perusal of it, to allude to my declared Sense, though not recorded, of the original Transaction, and to contain my Disapprobation in Terms of the former Interference.

“ Mr. Bristow was right in his Assertion, that the Treasures of which the Begum was in Possession were the Property of the State. The Nabob had a Double Right to reclaim them, both as his lawful Inheritance, and as a Trust officially committed to her Custody, for which she was especially accountable to him as her Sovereign, and the Presentative of her former Sovereign, from whom she had received them. As Mr. Bristow chose to interest himself in reclaiming the Nabob's Rights, he ought to have asserted them effectually: And had he done so, the Magnitude of the Service which he would have rendered by it to the Nabob, his immediate Employer, and to the Company, who would have been eventually benefited by it, would have largely overbalanced the Irregularity of the Mode, and entitled him to Applause instead of Censure. But his Agency was as unfaithful as it was unwarranted. Acting from a Conviction that the Begum had actual Possession of One Crore and Seventy Lacks of Rupees, and declaring that every Rupee of this Sum was the Nabob's rightful Property, he demanded Fifty Lacks, took Thirty, gave her an Acquittal of all the Rest, with the Right of retaining in Perpetuity the Lands which she before held at the Nabob's Pleasure, and bound the Nabob by a written Obligation, under the Sanction of an Oath, and the Guarantee of the Company, to abide by it.

“ Whether the Justice of the Honourable House of Commons shall decree that the Government of Bengal was guilty of a Violation of the Rights of the Begum in taking from her Thirty Lacks of Rupees, which were her Property; or of a Violation of the Rights of the Nabob in depriving him of One hundred and forty Lacks, which were his Property, by guaranteeing the Possession of them to the Begum; the Members who constituted that Government are alone responsible for either Act. I had no Concern in either: For it is demonstrated by Volumes of Evidence, in the Possession of the Honourable House of Commons, that from the 19th of October 1774, when the new Government of Fort William first assembled, to the Death of Colonel Monson on the 28th of September 1776, the real and efficient Government of Bengal consisted of General Clavering, Colonel Monson, and Mr. Francis, who formed a permanent and unvaried Majority; and that the Company's Interests in the Province of Oude, and their Connection with the Nabob Asfulph ul Dowlah, were conducted in an especial Manner by that Majority alone, Mr. Barwell, the other Member of the Council, and myself, being wholly and absolutely excluded from all Participation therein.

“ In virtue of the Engagement concluded with Bhow Begum in the Manner which has been above related, she continued in the quiet and undisturbed Possession of her Jaghires and Treasures till the Years 1781 and 1782, when I gave my Assent to the Resumption of both on the following Ground and Occasion†.

“ It is well known, that by the Example, and at the Instigation of Raja Cheit Sing, the Zemindar of Benares, the Inhabitants of that District revolted from our Government, and continued in a State of Rebellion from the 22d of August to the 22d of September 1781. During this short but important Period, I was confined to the Fortrefs and Plain of Chunar, and in a Situation which, in the Apprehension of many, portended certain Destruction to myself and my small Party.

---

* See all the Proceedings relative to this Transaction in the “ Minutes of Evidence,” taken last Year; or in the Appendix to the Tenth Report of the Select Committee.

† I insisted upon a faithful Observance of the Engagement, however I disapproved of it originally.—The Nabob was prevented from violating the Engagement in February 1778, by my Remonstrances.—See the Tenth Report of the Select Committee, Page 4.

" The Begums of Fyzabad, prompted by their common Hatred to our Nation, and not much more affected to their own Sovereign, though he was their Son and Grandson, united their Authority and Influence to extend and aggravate our Difficulties. Circular Letters were written to the Zemindars of Oude, inciting them to Rebellion : Rewards were proclaimed for the Heads of English Officers, Soldiers, and Sepoys : A general Revolt ensued, of which their Agents were the principal Leaders, in the Districts of Goorucpoor and Barcech : The Two chief Eunuchs and confidential Servants of the younger Begum openly levied Troops in the great Square of the City for the avowed Service of Cheit Sing against the English ; and these were sent under the Name of Nejeebs to Cheit Sing, and actually employed in his Battles against us.

" These Facts have been proved by the Depositions of Lieutenant Colonel Alexander Hannay, Major John McDonald, Captain John Gordon, and many other Witnesses, taken before Sir Elijah Impey, at Lucknow and Chunar, within Three Months of the Time in which the Events had passed : And in One of the latter, namely, that of Sheikh Mahomed Aumeen Mheir, a Commandant, and the Second Officer in Command, of the Service of Cheit Sing, a List of the Troops which composed Cheit Sing's Force during his Rebellion, was delivered by him upon Oath, in which were inserted 1000 Nejeebs, or Swordmen, newly entertained from Lucnow ; which exactly corroborates the Testimony of Colonel Hannay and the other English Officers, who mention the Recruits enlisted by the Begum's Authority at Fyzabad, by the same Name of Nejeebs, the Deponent supposing them to have been sent from Lucnow instead of Fyzabad, through an evident Mistake of one Capital for the other. It is worth remarking, that these Depositions were all taken to establish a Series of Facts combined with the Rebellion of Cheit Sing ; and what they have affirmed concerning the Begums was an accessory Subject, not required for the original Purpose, though probably the most powerful in the Feelings and Recollection of the Deponents, and therefore more particularly noted in the Evidence delivered by them. This is certainly an additional Argument of their Authenticity.

" Mr. Burke, aware of the Weight of these Testimonies, has taken much Pains to discredit them, by blackening them, in his peculiar Manner, with hard and opprobrious Epithets, such as " passionate, careless, irrelevant, and irregular—consisting of Matter not fit to be deposed on " Oath," &c. and by censuring Sir Elijah Impey, the Magistrate before whom they were taken, for having therein " acted extrajudicially, and not within the Limits of his Jurisdiction ;" with other Reflections upon Sir Elijah Impey, of such a Nature, as no Man without certain Grounds ought to cast upon the Character of another. But as he has offered no Proof of these daring Allegations, and as his Depreciation of the Evidences is certainly no Argument of their Want of Truth or Authenticity, I presume that they will be admitted to establish the Facts to which they have a mutual Relation, on as ample a Conviction as if they had been delivered in every legal Form before a British Court of Judicature.—I must extend this Sentiment, by observing that I did upon this Occasion what the Law of England would have prescribed in a similar Process of its own Jurisdiction : I took the best possible Evidence that could be obtained ; and I gave it the best possible Sanction, by causing it to be taken before the First British Magistrate in India.—I was not to enquire whether his Conduct in this Instance was irregular ; nor was the Sanctity of an Oath less awful to the Minds of the Deponents, many of whom were Men of high Honour and unblemished Character, or less operative of the Truth, at Lucnow or Chunar, than it would have been if administered in the Supreme Court of Judicature in Calcutta, or even in Westminster Hall.—What a Field for Triumph and Derision should I have afforded to my Accuser, had I applied to the Magistrates of the Country for the Authentication of the Evidences ! and what a Display of rhetorical Wit might have been successfully exhibited on Names of unknown Witnesses, attested by Cauzees of uncertain Existence !

" The Evidence of Mr. Middleton and Captain David Williams, taken before the Honourable House of Commons, confirms all the material Points of the Evidence taken before Sir Elijah Impey ; and who will be so hardy as to dispute its Veracity, or the Authority of the High Court before which it was delivered ?

" At the Close of the Disturbances which had arisen in Benares, and while those excited by the Begums yet subsisted in their Neighbourhood, the Nabob Asfulph ul Dowlah, who had generously, and against my repeated Instances, shewn to my Assistance on the first News of my Difficulties, solicited me to give my Consent to a Measure which he stated as necessary to enable him to provide for the Necessities of his own Government, and the Payment of his Debt to the Company, but which he could not carry into Execution without my Sanction, because it involved the Estates of Bhow Begum, who held them under a written Engagement, sanctified by the Company's Guarantee. The Measure to which I allude was, the Resumption of all the Jaghires held within his Dominions. I instantly, and without a Thought of Hesitation, agreed to it ; only requiring (as I now recollect) that the Resumption should be universal, and that it should be steadfastly and effectually accomplished. The Treaty, as it is called, was no Obstacle ; for its Obligation had already ceased with the Breach of that which appertained to the Part of the Begum. Every Engagement of a Sovereign with his Subjects must necessarily suppose the Condition of Allegiance as an Obligation on the latter, though not expressed. To express it would be to admit the Right of withholding it. The Begum had forfeited her Allegiance : She had openly excited the Subjects of her Sovereign to Rebellion ; and had engaged in Designs for the Destruction of the English Government and of its Subjects.

Was I, the Representative of the Company, to exact from the Nabob, their Ally, the rigid Observance of an Engagement with a Person who had abused the Benefits conferred by it, and employed them in disturbing the Peace of his Country, and endangering the Safety of his Person and Government? Or was I, a Servant of the Company, and an Englishman, to be the Advocate for an outrageous Woman, who had sought the Ruin of my Employers, and had offered Money for the Purchase of the Heads of my Fellow Servants, and the Dependents of my Protection? No.—I thank God, mine was not a Government that held the Rod of Persecution over those who faithfully served it, for the sake of patronizing its Enemies, and the Traitors against its Authority; nor is there an Individual in either of these Characters existing, who can boast that he has intuled the Government over which I presided, or violated its Rights, or shed the Blood of my Countrymen or Dependents with Impunity. I have understood it to be a Maxim of the Law of Nations, that all Treaties and mutual Compacts between States lose their Existence with a State of War. With a much stronger Necessity must this Rule apply to a state of Hostility between a Sovereign and his Subjects. In a Word, I regarded the Nabob's Engagement with the Begum, and the Company's Guarantee, if I regarded them at all, as become Two insignificant Shreds of waste Paper. But very different was my Opinion of their Subject, considered independently of their past Obligation. There could scarce exist a more incongruous or a more dangerous Combination of Rights under the same System of Government than a Territorial Property, and unproductive Wealth, subsisting in the Centre of a great Dominion, and though protected by it, independent of it. Such were the Jaghires and Treasures of Bhow Begum; and such, in an inferior and in different Degrees, were the Jaghires of the Old Begum and others. The Letters of Mr. Bristow, in a Period much earlier than this, are filled with Complaints and Instances of the Obstructions which the public Revenue and the Authority of Government sustained from these arbitrary Tenures; and Mr. Bristow will not be suspected of mistating Facts for the Purpose of supplying me with a remote and eventual Argument. But if such Objections existed in Speculation to the Privileges enjoyed by the Begums, with much more Conviction must they be supposed to have operated on my Mind after the Experience which I had so recently received of their Effects. I was therefore glad of the Opportunity of absolving the Nabob from the Shackles in which Mr. Bristow's Engagement had bound him, and yet better pleased that the Proposition for casting them off came from himself. I allowed myself upon this Occasion the Gratification of a Sentiment, which rarely enters, or ought perhaps to enter into, or mix itself with, the Composure of a political Measure. I yielded my Consent as much to the Gratitude which I owed and felt for the late Proof which the Nabob had given me of his Attachment, as to my Sense of public Duty.

“ But when I had proceeded so far, there I stopped. The Rigour of the Act had derived no Part of its Construction from Resentment, at least not from mine: Enough had been done for the Restoration of the Nabob's Authority, and for the Security of the Peace of his Country; enough had been done for an Exhibition of Example; and if I could have regarded Personal Punishment as an Object, enough of that End had also been accomplished in the Anguish which might have been inferred from the Disappointment of Female Vengeance and Malignity. Their Sex, and the Relation which these high Offenders bore to the Nabob, exacted from me a Respect for their Necessities, while I joined in disarming them of the Power of wronging their Benefactor. Whether the Proposition came immediately from the Nabob, or (as I believe) from myself, I cannot precisely determine; but a Provision was made for replacing their Income at the exact Rate at which it had stood on their own Estimate, while they held the Jaghires; by making it the Condition of the Resumption, that they should receive a Pension equal to the Amount of their Jaghires, in equal Monthly Payments; and these, for the fuller Security, were made payable from the Produce of the Company's Assignments.

“ At this Time no Notice was taken of the Treasures which were still retained by Bhow Begum*. As the Nabob's Requisition went no further than her Jaghire, I did not think of urging him beyond that single Point. But when the Resumption of the Treasures was suggested, not as a new and accessory Measure, but as an Exchange for that which had been already determined, I acquiesced in it in the First Sense, and encouraged the Prosecution of it, but would not allow of it as an Exchange; for after the licentious Spirit which the Begums had lately shewn, and with the Disorders which still prevailed in consequence of it, I deemed the Resumption of the Jaghires a Measure absolutely necessary to the Safety of the Nabob's Government, and eventually to the Quiet of our own.

“ As to the subsequent Proceedings, the Nabob's Change of Mind, the Reluctance and Indecision of the Minister, the Negotiations which ensued against my most peremptory Instances and Protestations, and the Conclusion forced by my own Adherence to the original Plan, I chuse to avoid a tedious and unnecessary Detail, by the following brief Explanation of my own Conduct respecting them.

* I can offer a Proof of the Truth of this Assertion, which is incontrovertible—namely, a Letter from the Nabob to me, dated Fyzabad, the 13th of January 1782, and inserted in the Tenth Report of the Select Committee. He had then claimed the Treasures, and he says, “ I have, to increase and confirm our Friendship, even done that, which was not thought of or resolved on.”

" It was ever my Rule, in all public Transactions, however I might allow myself to hesitate in forming Plans of Action, to prosecute them, when they were formed, with a fixed and undeviating Resolution to their Accomplishment. The Resumption of the Jaghires, and yet more especially the Confiscation of the Treasures possessed by Bhow Begum, were Acts of such Eclat, and of so obnoxious a Colour, as they would appear in the Eyes of the uninformed Part of the World, which could not enter into the Grounds of their Justification, but saw only the Violence without its Motive and Reparation, that I submitted, and knowingly, to a Diminution of my Personal Reputation in assenting to them. But when I had made such a Sacrifice, I was resolved that it should not be made without the Compensation which I looked for in the Accomplishment of the Object for which I had made it. Neither would I suffer my Authority to be used as a corrupted Instrument of Intimidation, for the Purpose of extorting secret and mercenary Terms for an Accommodation of Forbearance. That such were my Motives at the Time, and not now made up for the Occasion, will appear from the Letter which I wrote to Mr. Middleton on the 26th of December 1781, when I first suspected that Grounds existed for a Declaration of them, and which has been already published with other Minutes of the Honourable House of Commons.

" Upon a Re-perusal of that Part of my Defence to this Charge, which relates to the Begum's Jaghire, and the Seizure of her Treasures, and comparing it with Papers before the House of Commons, which I had not then read, I find an Inaccuracy which I now wish to correct.—I have observed, that I was indebted to Mr. Middleton for the principal Part of my Reply to the Fourth Charge; and therefore what was written in it was upon the Credit of his Recollection, not my own.

" The Fact undoubtedly is, that not only in consenting to the Seizure of the Treasures on the Nabob's First Requisition to me, on the 2d of December 1781, but in strenuously encouraging and supporting the Measure, so far as to desire Sir Elijah Impey, on his leaving Chunar in November 1781, to mention the Subject, as from me to Mr. Middleton, for the express Purpose of desiring him to converse upon it with the Nabob, and even to encourage the Nabob to make the Proposition to me, I was influenced by the Conviction which I felt in my own Mind, of the Begum's having been very deeply concerned in the Insurrection of Cheit Sing.—I had then Information before me, of the Authenticity of which I believe no Gentleman who has served in Bengal ever doubted, that they had encouraged the Levies of Troops for his Service; and Colonel Hannay, in his Letter to Mr. Middleton of the 8th of September, says, "they had almost recruited themselves for Cheit Sing."—I as firmly believed, and no subsequent Information has induced me to alter my Opinion, that they excited Inturrections against their Son the Nabob Vizier, for the express Purpose of destroying our Influence and our Existence in Oude, and of overturning the Government of the Nabob.

" Though the Proposition was made to me on the 2d of December 1781, and I instantly assented to it on the Grounds above stated, yet it was not carried into Effect until the 12th of January following. In the intermediate Time (in the Course of the Month of December) the Orders of the Nabob were issued for resuming their Jaghires; and the open Resistance of their Eunuchs, Jewar and Behar Ally Cawn, on that Occasion, and their Attempts to excite a universal Revolt in the Nabob's Dominions, might have operated as an additional Motive with him for accelerating the Seizure of their Treasures*; but as far as regards myself, from the Moment I gave my Consent to the Measure, or rather from an earlier Period, from the Moment I had undoubted Proofs of the hostile Acts of the Begums at the Insurrection of Benares, I was determined strenuously to encourage and support the Nabob in a Measure strictly reconcileable to Honour, Policy, Justice, and Good Faith, so far as it respected him; but in respect to my own Government, at the Moment that we were struggling for our Existence as a Nation in India, as an Act of indispensable Duty. The Proposition for the Seizure of the Treasures unquestionably came from the Nabob. It was a Point which he then was, and had formerly been, eager to accomplish. I encouraged and strenuously supported him in it: But let it be remembered, that at a former Period, in the Year 1778, I as earnestly interfered to preserve the Begum in the Possession of those Rights, which, however impolitic it might have been to grant them originally, I deemed the Faith of our Government pledged to preserve to her, until by her own hostile Acts she justly forfeited our Protection.

" Unless the Proposition had come from the Nabob, the Measure could not have been carried into Effect; but I do not wish to screen myself from Responsibility, by disavowing any Part that I took in the Transaction, or to insinuate that I was merely passive in the Business. I meant by my Message to Mr. Middleton, that the Nabob should be informed that the Proposition from him would receive my Concurrence; and on the 27th of January 1782 I wrote to the Members of the Council my Report of the Transaction in the following Words: " This Resolution (to re-

---

* The Inaccuracy is in fact cleared up by Mr. Middleton's Evidence last Year, who stated that it was previous to the Resumption of the Jaghires, that it was determined to seize the Treasures. He also states, that the Determination to seize the Treasures, was in consequence of Information transmitted to me, of the Conduct of the Begums, before the Affidavits were taken; and my Letter of the 27th of January 1782, above inserted, supercedes all other Proof of it.

“ claim the Treasures) I have strenuously encouraged and supported, not so much for the Reasons assigned by the Nabob, as because I think it equally unjust and impolitic that they should be allowed to retain the Means of which they have already made so pernicious a Use, by exciting Disturbances in the Country, and a Revolt against the Nabob their Sovereign.”

“ It has occurred to me as a Question which might naturally arise out of the Subject, Why the Begums should have entertained so vehement a Hatred as that by which I have described them to have been actuated against the English Government and Nation? The Answer is obvious to those who know the History of our Connection with the Nabob of Oude. The Begums regarded us as the Oppressors of their House, and the Usurpers of its Inheritance; nor was their Resentment confined to the English. The Nabob himself had his Share in it, for the Sacrifice which he had made of the Province of Benares against the united Opposition of his Family; and the Nabob Salar Jung, the Brother of Bhow Begum, avowed to me himself, that he had from that Time withheld himself from all Concern in the Nabob's Councils; and assigned that as the Reason for it. I am sorry that I must in Truth add, that a Part of the Resentment of the Begums was, as I had too much Reason to suspect, directed to myself personally. The Incidents which gave rise to it are too Light to be mixed with the professed Subject and Occasion of this Detail; and, as they want the Authenticity of recorded Evidence, I could lay no Claim to Credit in my Relation of them. At some Period I may be induced to offer them to the World, my ultimate and unerring Judges both of that and of every other Trait in my political Character.

“ To excite the Feelings of Humanity against me, the latter Part of the Charge is swelled with a long Account of the Distresses and Miseries to which the Ladies, as they are termed, of the Khôrd-Mahl were reduced for Want of even Food and Raiment. If I had not been too much accustomed to similar Artifices in the Course of this Business, I should have been totally at a Loss to understand for what Purpose the Framers of the Charge should introduce such a Tale of Woe, when I had evidently no Concern either with the Sufferers, or the Causes of their Sufferings. But the Charge essentially relates to Begums in whose Complaints I certainly had a Concern. Begums are the Ladies of an Eastern Prince. But these Women are also styled the Ladies of the late Vizier: their Sufferings are painted in strong Colours; and the unsuspecting Reader is led to mix the Subjects together, and to suppose that these too were Princesses of Oude, since the Title prefixed to this Article of the Charge proposes that, and no other Subject: and that all their Sufferings proceeded from some Act of mine, or had the Sanction of my Authority or Permission. The Fact is, that the Persons of the Khôrd-Mahl (or Little Seraglio) were young Creatures picked up, wherever Youth and Beauty could be found, and mostly purchased from the most necessitous and meanest Ranks of the People for the Nabob's Pleasures. Few perhaps of these had the Honour of seeing his Person more than once; and they remained ever after the Prisoners of his Seraglio, barely subsisted and clothed. The Sum allotted by the present Nabob for their Maintenance was Forty thousand Rupees, payable by a separate Assignment on the Revenue of the District of Sultanpoor. It appears that, at the Time when these Complaints are stated to have existed, the Payments having been irregularly made, the Women were reduced to Distress: But, from the Correspondence which passed on the Occasion, and which is recorded on the Minutes of the Honourable House of Commons, it will appear that the Governor-General and Council were not informed of this Distress until the Resident had obtained its Removal by a Supply of Money advanced for the Purpose. In Truth, I knew nothing of the Matter; nor, if I had known it, could I, with any Shadow of Right, or even without a gross Violation of common Decency, have made any Application to the Nabob on a Subject which was merely a Family Concern, and had no Relation to our Political Connection; though a Sentiment of Compassion would have induced me to write privately—certainly not officially—to the Resident, and recommended to him to make Use of his personal Influence for the Relief of the Sufferers.

WARREN HASTINGS.”

Then the Witness was asked,

Q. Have you seen that Paper before?

A. I have.

Q. Who printed that Paper?

A. I do not recollect the Name of the Printer; he is a Person that lives in Fleet Street. It was printed by Directions from me to him.

Q. From whom did you receive the Directions that you transmitted to the Printer?

A. From Mr. Hastings.

Q. Did you yourself circulate that Paper; or deliver it to any Member in the Lobby of the House of Commons, or in the House of Commons, upon the Day on which the Article of the Charge was opened respecting the Princesses of Oude; and, if you did, by whose Directions?

A. I think there were Fifty Copies of it printed, and of those Fifty Copies, Six or Seven were given to the Members of the House of Commons; I am not clear as to the Day; I rather think it was the Day before, not on the Day, as the Honourable Manager mentioned, of the Charge being opened. I think this was the Paper, and that I offered One of them to the Honourable nourable Manager himself, upon my Conversation with him : But there were Two other Papers printed as well as this, to One of which my own Name was signed.

Q. You recollect that Six or Seven Copies of that Paper were delivered in the Lobby of the House?

A. I did not deliver them in the Lobby, but they were delivered by me to some Gentlemen in the House.

Q. Do you know of any other Copies of that Paper having been distributed in the Lobby of the House of Commons, besides these Six or Seven, which you yourself delivered to the Members?

A. Certainly not, for I believe the Remainder I now have in my own Possession : I believe I have at this Moment the others.

Q. I think you said One Copy of that Paper, if you recollected right, was offered to the Honourable Manager?

A. I state, that I am not perfectly clear, because there were Two other Papers printed, One of which is signed by myself ; and I am not clear as to that Part, whether it was this or that I offered.

Q. Was it with the Consent or by the Direction of Mr. Hastings that these Six or Seven Copies, or any of them, were delivered to any Member of the House of Commons?

A. It was Mr. Hastings's Idea to have delivered, through me, those Papers to such Members of the House of Commons as he thought wished for Information upon the Second Charge ; that is, the present Article ; but there were not more than Six or Seven delivered, and I really do not recollect whether Mr. Hastings himself expressed a Desire or not to have them delivered to particular Members ; I rather think he did not, and that Mr. Hastings never said any Thing more about them ; that he did not limit me at all as to the Number, but left it to my Discretion.

Q. The Question put to you was, Whether those that were delivered, were delivered by his Direction, or his Consent ? You said you understood it to be Mr. Hastings's Idea they were so delivered ; is that the Whole that you can recollect upon the Subject, or can you recollect whether it was by his express Direction, or his express Consent, that they were delivered to such Members of the House of Commons ?

A. I think it was his express Desire they should be delivered to the Members of the House of Commons, without expressing which of them.

Q. (Cross examined.) The Paper that has now been produced has been opened as a Contradiction to that Paper which was delivered in by Mr. Hastings at the Bar of the House of Commons as his Defence. I would address a Question or Two to the Witness respecting the Circumstances under which that Defence was formed ; and I wish to ask, within what Time that Defence, delivered at the Bar of the House of Commons by Mr. Hastings himself, was composed ?

A. It will be seen exactly from the Journals ; I think Six Days, I am not clear whether Five or Six Days ; I mean, from the Time that I presented the Petition to the House of Commons upon the Behalf of Mr. Hastings praying to be heard, to the Time that the Defence was read at the Bar of the House ; and until the Commons gave their Consent to Mr. Hastings's being heard, not a Line of that Defence, I am clear, was written.

Q. Whether you mean, in the Account you have been giving, to speak of the Whole of the Defence, that is, the Paper intituled, The Defence, or of that Part only of the Defence, which is confined to this Article only ?

A. I mean the Whole of the Defence, except the Answer to the Article intituled Fyzoola Khan : The Whole, except that ; and that Article was not presented to the House at the Time this last Defence was put in ; nor till after Mr. Hastings had had Permission to come to the Bar, or had been at the Bar, I am not clear which.

Q. By whom was that Paper composed ?

The Managers for the Commons objected to this Question, as tending to discredit a Defence delivered in by the Defendant himself to the said Article upon the Charge before the House of Commons, and were heard in Support of the said Objection.

The Counsel for the Defendant were heard in Answer to the same.

After which, the Managers for the Commons, protesting that the Counsel for the Defendant had no Right to put the said Question, said, they waved their Objection.

Then the Question was read by the Clerk as follows ;

Q. By whom was that Paper composed ?

A. The second Article, intituled, Benares, was written by Mr. Halhed. The Introduction to the general Defence, and the Answer to the Article intituled, The Rohilla War, and to the Article intituled, intituled, The King's Tribute, were written intirely by Mr. Hastings: And the Reasons which Mr. Hastings assigned to me, for taking intirely upon himself to answer that Article, intituled, The Rohilla War, was, that he understood from me, that in the preceding Debates in the House of Commons upon the Subject of the Article of the Rohilla War, it had invariably been stated as the most important of the Whole; another Reason that Mr. Hastings assigned for taking upon himself the Answer to that Article was, that he believed it was a Subject very little understood in England. As to the other Articles, if the Question goes to them, I believe I can state, that the Answer to the Article intituled, Revenue, was principally written by Mr. Shore. The Answer to the Article intituled, Contracts, was written by myself; and the Answers to the other Articles were written by different Gentlemen with whom Mr. Hastings was connected.

Q. (from a Lord.) I wish, for the Sake of the Regularity of the whole Proceedings, to know whether the Witness is speaking from his own Knowledge, when he speaks of Parts being composed by other Persons?

A. I certainly do: I speak from my own certain Knowledge: The Article, intituled, Benares, which was written by Mr. Halhed, was delivered by that Gentleman to me, and carried to Mr. Hastings, I think the Day preceding Mr. Hastings's Appearance before the House of Commons. I read it to Mr. Hastings hastily in the Presence of another Gentleman. I do not recollect that Mr. Hastings made any Alterations. I carried it back again to Mr. Halhed, who employed a Person to copy it; he sat up the whole Night in order to finish it in Time: Several Alterations were made in Mr. Halhed's Hand Writing, which Mr. Hastings never saw. Those Alterations will appear in the Original Minutes, which, I believe, are now before your Lordships: I mean, the Original Minutes that were delivered in to the House of Commons. They were in a different Hand Writing; they were in the Hand Writing of Mr. Halhed; and I can speak with Certainty, that Mr. Hastings did not see them, or hear them read, until the Defence was read at the Bar of the House of Commons.

Q. Whether you can specify the particular Alterations from Memory, that were made in that Copy, after it was read by you to Mr. Hastings?

Here the Defence delivered in Die Lunæ, 25<sup>o</sup> Februarij*, was shewn to the Witness, who proceeded as follows: * Vide supra, Page 17.

A. The First Passage is in the Thirteenth (a) Page of the Manuscript Copy:

"† But why did the Vizier exact 200,000*l.* on the Death of Bulwant Sing? Affuredly because, as Sovereign of the whole Country, he possessed and exercised the Right of levying Fines, and that to an arbitrary Amount, as appears by the Second Report of the Select Committee. I know not how we can deny the Existence of many despotic Principles in the Mogul System of Government; but wherever those exist, the Powers of the Prince will be every Thing, and the Rights of the Subject nothing. Shujah ud Dowlah fined Cheyt Sing 200,000*l.* and 30,000*l.* per Annum, which, at only Ten Years Purchase, is 300,000*l.*—in all 500,000*l.* for the mere Investiture of what in the Charge is stated to be his Right of Inheritance. I, who was vested by my Station with exactly the same Powers as were exercised by Shujah ud Dowlah, never thought of a greater Fine as a Punishment for the most flagrant Offences (b)." † See Original MS. P. 169.

This, is in the Hand Writing of Mr. Halhed, and was certainly inserted after Mr. Hastings saw it.

Q. Was it inserted by Mr. Halhed?

A. By Mr. Halhed.

Q. Do you mean, Mr. Hastings never saw it before it was presented to the House of Commons?

A. He never saw it before it was presented to the House of Commons.

There is a Second Addition in Page 22 of the MS.: || "No Sunnuds ever were sent to the Court of Directors, nor any Papers in the original Language (c)." It will appear by the Difference of the Hand Writing. || MS. P. 172.

The next, is in Page 24 of the Manuscript: The Words are, ‡ "And for that Purpose he might have had, and had, at all Times, free Access to my House and Apartment (d);" speaking, of the Vackeel of Cheit Sing. ‡ MS. P. 180.

(a) N. B. The Numbers at the Top of the MS. Copy, referred to by the Witness, are not regularly carried on, being sometimes the Number of the Sheet, sometimes of the Page, intended only for the Answer to the Third Article of Charge presented to the House of Commons, intituled, Benares, and in some Places there is no Number at all. But a running Page is preserved at the Bottom through the whole Defence, to which it has been thought proper that References should be added here for greater Convenience in examining the Original. These References are made from the Beginning of each Citation, and at the End is inserted a Direction where the Passage may be found, above, in the Defence to this Charge already printed in the Minutes of Evidence taken Die Lunæ, 25<sup>o</sup> Februarii 1788.

- ¶ MS. Ibid. There is another Addition in the same Page: The Words are, ¶ “ And as I was justified in by the Intentions of my Predecessors (d).”

Here then we have a Second Right made over, with the other Appendages of Sovereignty, to the Company. Had not our powerful Interposition prevented the Consequences of Bulwant Sing’s Treachery to his Master in 1764, Shujah ud Dowlah would probably have exerted with signal Rigour, a Third Right of fining, and have furnished me with a Precedent full in Point to my Treatment of Cheyt Sing. The Inference therefore is, that the Right of fining was general; perhaps arbitrary: but for that I am not responsible. It is a Defect woven in the Texture of the Mogul System. It will, no doubt, be most happy for the Inhabitants of Asia, when the despotic Institutes of Jengheez Khaun or Tamerlane, shall give Place to the liberal Spirit of a British Legislature; and I shall be amply satisfied in my present Prosecution, if it shall tend to hasten the Approach of an Event so beneficial to the great Interests of Mankind (f).”

- §§ MS. P. 201. In Page 12 there is a further Addition, of the following Passage: “ §§ I much fear that the boasted Sovereignty of Benares, which was held up as an Acquisition almost obtruded upon the Company against my Consent and Opinion (for I acknowledge that even then I foresaw many Difficulties and Inconveniencies in its future Exercise:) I fear, I say, that this Sovereignty will be found a Burthen instead of a Benefit; a heavy Clog rather than a precious Gem to its present Possessors. I mean, unless the Whole of our Territory in that Quarter shall be rounded and made an uniform compact Body, by One grand and systematic Arrangement, such an Arrangement as shall do away all the Mischiefs, Doubts, and Inconveniencies (both to the Governors and the Governed) arising from the Variety of Tenures, Rights, and Claims in all Cases of Landed Property and Feudal Jurisdiction in India, from the Informality, Invalidity, and Instability of all Engagements in so divided and unsettled a State of Society; and from the unavoidable Anarchy and Confusion of different Laws, Religions, and Prejudices, moral, civil, and political, all jumbled together in One unnatural and discordant Mass. Every Part of Hindostan has been constantly exposed to these and similar Disadvantages ever since the Mahomedan Conquests.
- “ The Hindoos, who never incorporated with their Conquerors, were kept in order only by the strong Hand of Power. The constant Necessity of similar Exertions would increase at once their Energy and Extent, so that Rebellion itself is the Parent and Promoter of Despotism.
- “ Sovereignty in India implies nothing else: For I know not how we can form an Estimate of its Powers but from its visible Effects—and those are every where the same from Cabool to Affam. The whole History of Asia is nothing more than Precedents to prove the invariable Exercise of arbitrary Power. To all this I strongly alluded in the Minutes I delivered in Council, when the Treaty with the New Vizier was on foot in 1775; and I wished to make Cheyt Sing Independent, because in India Dependence included a Thousand Evils; many of which I enumerated at that Time, and they are entered in the Ninth Clause of the First Section of this Charge. I knew the Powers with which an Indian Sovereignty is armed, and the Dangers to which Tributaries are exposed. I knew that from the History of Asia, and from the very Nature of Mankind, the Subjects of a despotic Empire are always vigilant for the Moment to rebel, and the Sovereign is ever jealous of rebellious Intentions. A Zemindar is an Indian Subject, and, as such, exposed to the common Lot of his Fellows: “ The mean and depraved State of a mere Zemindar,” is therefore this very Dependence above mentioned on a despotic Government—this very Proneness to shake off his Allegiance, and this very Exposure to continual Danger from his Sovereign’s Jealousy, which are consequent on the political State of Hindostanic Governments. Bulwant Sing, if he had been, and Cheyt Sing, as long as he was, a Zemindar, stood exactly in this “ mean and depraved State,” by the Constitution of his Country. I did not make it for him, but would have secured him from it. Those who made him a Zemindar entailed upon him the Consequences of so mean and depraved a Tenure. Ally Verdy Khaun and Cossim Ally fined all their Zemindars, on the Necessities of War, and on every Pretence either of Court Necessity or Court Extravagance (i).”

Q. We wish it to be distinctly understood, when the Witness is reading these Alterations, which of the Alterations made upon Mr. Hastings's Copy are those that he saw and approved of, and which are the Alterations stated by the Witness as never having been seen at all by Mr. Hastings?

A. I will state it precisely as it stands: The Answer to the Benares Charge was written by Mr. Halhed. Mr. Hastings wrote the Answer to the Rohilla Charge; and gave for his Reason, That not being very well understood in England, it was of the most Importance, and therefore he took upon himself to give a full Answer to that Article. Of course, as there were but Five or Six Days to prepare his Answer to the Whole, and I think there were Twenty-one or Twenty-two Charges in all, it must have been done by different Gentlemen of his Acquaintance. I had drawn up a very short Answer to the Article entitled, "Benares": I shewed this (not by any Direction of Mr. Hastings), but I shewed this myself to Mr. Halhed, whose Abilities and Knowledge of the Country were superior to my own: He told me he would answer to that Article; and when he had finished it, he gave it to me, and I carried it to Mr. Hastings, as it stands, without the Alterations that I have read to your Lordships. I shall continue to state, till I come to the End of them, the several Alterations. I stated Mr. Hastings never having seen, nor ever having heard them read, till he came to deliver them to the House of Commons.

Q. How do you know Mr. Hastings never saw them, nor heard them read, before he delivered them to the House?

A. Because when I carried the first Draught from Mr. Halhed to Mr. Hastings, the Day preceding that upon which the Answers were read at the Bar of the House, after reading it to Mr. Hastings, I myself carried it back to Mr. Halhed; Mr. Halhed employed a Person to sit up the greater Part of the Night, if not the whole Night, to copy it; and Mr. Halhed himself told me, that he had made many considerable Additions to it, as it was originally read to Mr. Hastings. The Additions are those which I have read to your Lordships, and appear in Mr. Halhed's own Hand Writing.

Q. What became of the Paper after that Time; was it never carried to Mr. Hastings again?

A. It was finished so late, he had hardly Time to get to the House of Commons with it; there were near Twenty-one or Twenty-two Articles.

Q. Who delivered the Paper to the House of Commons?

A. Mr. Hastings himself.

Q. How long after it was returned to him?

A. I believe not more than an Hour, and I can speak positively to Mr. Hastings not having seen it.

Q. (from the Counsel.) Was Mr. Hastings with you during that Hour?

A. I was with him the Whole of that Hour.

Q. Must you have seen Mr. Hastings peruse it, if he had perused it?

A. I certainly must.

Q. Was Mr. Hastings limited in point of Time for delivering that Answer?

A. I really cannot exactly speak: I believe the Journals will shew that. Whether Mr. Hastings's Petition stated a particular Day, or whether the House appointed a particular Day, or asked how many Days he would want, I don't recollect: I rather think I was asked how many Days Mr. Hastings would require.

Q. (from the Managers.) Whether you mean to say positively, that Mr. Hastings read, as Part of his Defence at the Bar of the House of Commons, something which he had not previously read himself?

A. In so far as these Insertions are made in this Manuscript, he certainly did.

Q. This was read at the Bar of the House of Commons by Mr. Hastings?

A. It was read by a Gentleman on the Part of Mr. Hastings.

Q. (from a Manager.) Am I to understand the Witness to say, that Mr. Hastings read in his Defence at the Bar of the House of Commons, Facts, concerning the Truth of which, and Arguments, concerning the Justice of which, he knew nothing at all?

A. I think the Honourable Manager asks me to a Fact that, in another Place, I believe I stated precisely so.

Q. Are there any other Passages than those you have now mentioned, that were added?

The Managers observed, that the Witness had not answered the Question.

A. I think I have gone through the Paper completely: I don't see any other Additions.

Q. You should answer the Question now put; that is to say, Whether upon the Matter you have now delivered, Mr. Hastings did or did not read, as a Part of his Defence in the House of Commons, Facts of which he knew nothing, and Arguments, the Justice of which he had not considered?

A. I

A. I would wish to state to your Lordships, that in so far as there are any Passages here which I have read, he certainly did; and if I may be permitted to state my Information, as far as I myself am concerned, I beg your Lordships' Indulgence to do it:—In the Course of the Debates preceding the present Impeachment, some Stress was laid by the Honourable Manager on a certain Passage of one of these Answers. I did in my Place myself state, that I might perhaps prove Mr. Hastings guilty of some Disrespect, when I stated to the House of Commons a Fact, which would certainly exonerate him from every Purpose of Misrepresentation; namely, that the Passage which was so animadverted upon in the House of Commons was not written by Mr. Hastings, but written by me.

Q. The present Question is, whether the Alterations you have read do not contain both Facts and Arguments, which were inserted after Mr. Hastings saw the Paper?

A. I think they certainly do, both Facts and Arguments.

Q. Whether when Mr. Hastings saw those Passages afterwards, he expressed any particular Disapprobation of them?

A. I can say positively that Mr. Hastings did.

Q. Was there any Petition from Mr. Hastings to the House of Commons, or otherwise, to give him more Time for his Defence—Any Application from Mr. Hastings for a later Day?

A. Mr. Hastings did not make any Application; but I believe I can state to your Lordships the Reason why no Application was made for a longer Time. A very few Days after the Original Charges, which were brought against Mr. Hastings, were delivered to the House of Commons, they were reprinted, and publickly sold, I believe, throughout the Kingdom: As Mr. Hastings conceived that those Charges contained many Assertions which were likely to injure him in the publick Opinion, he certainly was very eager to produce a Reply to them; and upon the Opinion of his Friends that the Rohilla War was the most important, Mr. Hastings certainly, to my Knowledge, was not so anxious as to the Mode adopted in answering the others; it being supposed the main Stress of the Question would turn upon the Rohilla War.

Q. The Question proposed to you was, Whether Mr. Hastings, by Petition or otherwise, applied to the House of Commons for a longer Time to put in his Defence?

A. He did not. I meant to give that as a Reason why I thought he did not.

Q. I wish the Witness to be asked, whether, when Mr. Hastings expressed his Disapprobation at the Interpolation of the Passages alluded to, he did not know that these Passages stood upon the Journals of the House of Commons as Part of his Defence?

A. I think he certainly did—most undoubtedly.

Q. Did he take any Measure to have those Parts he objected to, retracted?

A. No.

Q. All the Passages which the Witness alludes to, I am to understand, were either read by Mr. Hastings, or in his Presence, at the Bar of the House of Commons?

A. They were.

Q. Did not Mr. Hastings, subsequent to the reading them himself, or having heard them read, desire them to be entered upon the Journals, as his Defence?

A. Not that I recollect. Mr. Hastings said this, I believe: I desire to have them read, and I wish to have them made as public as possible, undoubtedly.

Q. The Question is, whether Mr. Hastings desired to have them put upon the Journals of the House of Commons?

A. Not that I recollect in those Terms: I think it is very probable. I moved to have them printed.

Q. It is in Evidence that he did, and that he did it, not upon the Day upon which he heard it read, but upon the Day after?

A. It took two Days to read the various Answers; they were not all done in one Day.

The Managers for the Commons were asked, Whether the Defence would not have been put upon the Journals of course, if the Defendant had not desired it?

The Managers for the Commons answered, That was a Question they would rather decline answering.

Q. (by a Lord.) I understand the Witness to say, when this Paper was carried to Mr. Hastings, he had it for One Hour; and I understood the Witness to say, he carried it to him. Now I wish to ask the Witness, when he carried this Paper the second Time after those Alterations were made by Mr. Hulhed, whether the Witness did or did not inform Mr. Hastings that any such Alterations had been made, or that any Alterations had been made?

A. I certainly did not; and I would wish to repeat to your Lordships, that he did lay the whole Stress of the Business upon the Rohilla War at the Time.

Q. You did not write any Part of that?

A. I did not. I certainly did not; and that was the Reason why I was careless about it.

Q. Was you, or not, with Mr. Halhed when he sat up all Night ?

A. I believe I stated, or meant to state, when Mr. Halhed came to me the Morning of the Day when those Answers were read at the Bar of the House, Mr. Halhed told me he had sat up all Night, or the greatest Part of the Night, with a Writer, a Stationer, to copy the Paper now produced before your Lordships, and that he had added in his own Hand the Passages I have mentioned.

Q. The material Question is—What Instructions had Mr. Halhed, and from whom, to make those Alterations ?

A. No Instructions of any Kind.

Q. How do you know he had no Instructions, as you were not present ?

A. To that Fact I can certainly speak no farther than from my own Knowledge—I neither know nor believe he had any Instructions.

Q. That is, you do not know of his having any Instructions ?

A. I do not know of any—I know that Mr. Hastings was himself very busily employed at the Time, and did confide in Mr. Halhed to answer the Benares Charge.

Q. Whether Mr. Hastings, to your Knowledge, ever saw that Defence after its being read in the House of Commons, and prior to its being printed ?

A. I believe he did ; I think Mr. Hastings and I went together to Mr. Benson's Room, where we saw the Papers ; there were either Twenty-one or Twenty-two Charges, and they must have been seen with the others ; but we were not there Time enough to make any Alterations, nor should I suppose it was in Mr. Hastings's Power to make any Alterations in any Papers that had been given in.

Q. Did Mr. Hastings, at the Time when the Witness says he went with him to Mr. Benson's, express any Wish to alter any Part of the Defence, if it had been in his Power ?

A. I recollect perfectly well, Mr. Hastings's stating that there were Parts which he did not like, and mentioning Parts of the Benares Article which he did not like ; and a particular Expression in another Article which he said he did not like. The particular Expression in that other Article, which he said had hurt him very much, was “ an unfortunate Minister.”

Q. Do you recollect any other Objection Mr. Hastings made at that Time ?

A. No : Mr. Hastings said generally, there were other Parts he did not like, without specifying what those other Parts were.

Q. Did Mr. Hastings express any Wish that any Application should be made to the House to have any Part altered ?

A. None that I know of.

Q. Whether you had heard the Alterations made by Mr. Halhed antecedent to your delivering it back to Mr. Hastings, and its being read in the House of Commons ?

A. I did not ; but I am not positive : I am not clear whether Mr. Halhed himself did not read One of those long Notes to me ; I rather think he did ; and I had taken upon myself to answer, I think, Three or Four of the Articles, and mine were not ready till just before I went down to Mr. Hastings.

Q. (from a Lord). Whether, when that particular Alteration was read in the House of Commons, in which Alteration there is a very particular and pointed Reference to what Mr. Hastings himself had done upon a former Occasion, (I cannot recollect the Words), where he says, it was to those Principles that I alluded in the Minute that I gave in ; whether Mr. Hastings did at that Time, or at any subsequent Time, express a Disapprobation of that, as having imputed to him Allusions and Principles, that is, Allusions which he did not make, and Principles which he did not avow ; do you remember that Alteration which the Passage refers to ? Do you remember the Passage ?

A. I do.

Q. Did Mr. Hastings observe upon that Passage, that he was dissatisfied with having been understood to make Allusions which he did not make, and to assert Principles which he did not avow ?

A. No. I think his Expression was, “ There were Parts of the Benares Answer which I do not like ;” I think that was the only Observation ; I think so, I am not clear. Mr. Hastings has since mentioned one particular Part very lately.

Q. (from a Lord). The Witness has told your Lordships that the different Answers to the different Charges were prepared by several of Mr. Hastings's Friends ; the Question I wish to ask is, Whether such Answers were prepared intirely from what suggested itself to their Imagination, or from Materials and Instructions furnished by Mr. Hastings ?

A. By no Instructions furnished by him, to my Knowledge, and, I think, I must have known of them, if there had been any.

Q. Whether, when you applied by Petition for Mr. Hastings to be heard in the House of Commons, you yourself did not name the Day upon which you wished Mr. Hastings to be heard ?

5 B

A. I

A. I think I stated the Day; I believe the Journals will shew it: I do not know that I did, but I think I did.

Q. Whether Mr. Hastings, or, to your Knowledge, some Friends for him, have not sent out to India a considerable Number of Copies of the printed Defence of Mr. Hastings, put into the House of Commons as his Justification?

A. Not to my Knowledge. I have sent out a great Number of Papers; an Account of every Thing that has arisen for and against Mr. Hastings, but not with the View the Honourable Gentleman mentioned.

Q. But, with or without that View, have any of those Copies been sent out with the Knowledge, or by the Directions of Mr. Hastings?

A. Not by the Directions of Mr. Hastings.

Q. But with his Knowledge?

A. Not with his Knowledge. I desire not to confine it to one Side of the Question; I have sent out several Copies of every Thing.

Q. But by his Directions?

A. Certainly not.

Q. Mr. Halhed and Mr. Shore, you said, had a considerable Share in composing this Defence; where are those Gentlemen now?

A. Mr. Shore is a Member of the Supreme Council of Bengal at Calcutta; Mr. Halhed is gone abroad in Consequence of the Death of his Father-in-law, and Mr. Hastings has written to him, requesting him to be here in the Course of this Trial, as he shall want him as a Witness, which he has promised to be.

Q. What other Person to your Knowledge had seen the Paper, called, The Defence, before its being read in the House of Commons.

A. I really cannot state any Gentleman, to my Knowledge, who has seen the Whole; but I can state those who have written Parts of it.

Q. Who are they?

A. Mr. David Anderson.

Q. What Part did he write?

A. Mr. Anderson wrote the Answer to the Charge, intituled, The Ranna of Gohud, which, I believe, is not before the House.

Q. Any other Person?

A. Mr. Baber.

Q. Any other Person?

A. Mr. Markham.

Q. Any other Person?

A. Mr. Middleton. I do not immediately recollect any other Person; but there certainly must have been others.

Q. Do you recollect any Member of the House of Commons?

A. No. I do not: And I think I can take upon myself to say, no Member of the House of Commons, or any other Gentleman, except myself, saw the Answer to the Article of Benares.

Q. I mean any Part of the Defence at all?

A. No, I do not know.

Q. Do you know whether any Member of the other House of Parliament saw any Part of his Defence?

A. I believe not.

Q. You do not know that any Member of the other House of Parliament saw any Part of his Defence?

A. I do not take upon myself to speak positively: I am not certain by any Means.

Q. I wish the Witness to speak positively, whether he does not know some Members of the House of Lords saw that Defence?

A. I do not, nor do I believe they did: I think it exceedingly probable some Members of the House of Commons, being very well acquainted with Mr. Hastings, might have seen it.

Q. Whether the Paper delivered in, called "The Second Defence of Mr. Hastings," was composed by Mr. Hastings in the Whole, or in Part, or by any other Person, and by whom?

A. I believe there was One Paragraph that I wrote, but I really cannot be positive which it was.

Q. I wish the Witness to point out that Paragraph, if he can, by looking at the Paper. I would wish to know the Distance of Time between preferring the Charge and the Defence, properly called, the Defence in the House of Commons, and the Time of circulating the Second Paper?

A. I

A. I fancy Nine or Ten Months ; it was in the following Session. The Original Charges were delivered in One Session, and this Paper was given in by him some Day, in the Month of February, in the following Session, which must have been Nine or Ten Months after.

Q. Whether the Witness considers that Defence also to have been written in a Hurry, without due Preparation and Deliberation ?

A. It was certainly written in a great Hurry, because, I believe, Mr. Hastings had no Idea of writing till Ten or Eleven o'Clock in the Morning, and it was finished by Four or Five o'Clock in the Evening of the following Day, and carried by me to the Printer.

Q. Whether the Witness means to distinguish any Passages in this Defence, which, upon the Ground of Hurry, they mean to object to as Evidence ?

A. It is impossible for me to distinguish what they mean to object to as Evidence.

Q. Are there any particular Passages in this Defence which were wrote in a Hurry, which you think less worthy the Attention of the House ?

A. It would be Presumption in me to answer that Question.

Q. (from a Manager.) Are there any particular Passages more remarkable than the rest, which you think the Effect of Hurry ?

A. I have not read that Paper for a Year and a Half, and I don't think I could recollect a Word of it now ; there is one Paragraph written by myself, and I protest I don't think I could find it out.

Q. How came you to be able, so accurately, to distinguish a Part written by yourself in the First Defence, and to have no Recollection of that which was written by yourself in the Second ?

A. I think I have stated, that in the First Defence I took upon myself One intire Article, and answered it ; and it was natural that some Impressions might have been upon my Memory of it : But with respect to the others, I do not know where to find them ; subsequent to that Period I paid no Attention to them. The Moment I saw Mr. Hastings's Name at the Bottom, I perfectly recollected it was a Paper I had written.

Q. (from a Manager.) Whether you have any Recollection that the Passage I shall now read was written by Mr. Hastings, or by any other Person ; viz.

“ Preface to the Fourth Charge.

“ Before I proceed to reply to the Charges respecting my Conduct to the Begums, and on the Affairs of Oude, I must observe, that they contain Particulars of which I was ignorant until I read them in the Charges ; I am therefore very much indebted to the Assistance of Mr. Middleton, and to the Information of Gentlemen who were in Oude when the Transaction alluded to happened. By their Aids I have been enabled to reply fully to these Charges ; and every Assertion in my Reply is capable of Proof either by Documents now before this Honourable House, or by Evidence ready to be produced at its Bar.”

A. I will not speak positively—I cannot pretend to say directly—but I believe that was written by myself, by Mr. Hastings's particular Directions. If your Lordships will give me leave I will state the Fact : When Mr. Hastings read over the Article intitled, The Begums of Oude, he told me there were many Particulars which he had not read, and particularly that Story about the Khourd Mahal. I applied to Mr. Middleton from Mr. Hastings, and got from him the Materials, upon which the Answer to that Article was drawn up : and I believe Two or Three Writers in my House copied that with the Corrections I had put to it as it came from Mr. Middleton, and I carried it to Mr. Hastings afterwards.

Q. Then Mr. Hastings, as we understand, saw the general Defence of that Article of Oude before it was read to the House. When did Mr. Hastings first of all see that Answer so formed by you ?

A. I think either One or Two Days before it was delivered in.

Q. Then, was it not after Mr. Hastings saw the general Article, that he directed you to prepare this Introduction ?

A. The Article of the Defence or Charge ?

Q. The Article of the Defence. Was it after Mr. Hastings had seen the general Article of Defence, that he directed you to prepare this Introduction ?

A. I cannot speak positively, but I think it must have been afterwards.

Q. Then, Mr. Hastings saw the Defence after it was finished by Mr. Middleton ?

A. I think I read it to him myself.

Q. That was before this Introduction was written ?

A. I think so.

Q. He then directed you to insert in this Introduction, “ that by these Aids I have been enabled to reply fully to these Charges ; and every Assertion in my Reply is capable of Proof.” Was that the Insertion you were directed to make, after Mr. Hastings had seen the Article so drawn ?

A. Certainly

A. Certainly not the Passage as it has been read, but it was left to me to draw it up.

Q. What were the Instructions of Mr. Hastings?

A. The Instructions of Mr. Hastings were, that as the Articles intitled "Begums," "Bulbudder Sing," and "Farrackabad," contain many Particulars that I don't know, he said, I think it right to say, I am indebted to others for the Account I have given.

Q. Was that the Whole of your Instructions, according to your Memory?

A. According to my Recollection, it was.

Q. Did you not read the Introduction to Mr. Hastings, after you had drawn it up?

A. I think I did—I have no Doubt of it.

Q. After the Time of your having read that Introduction to Mr. Hastings, do you recollect whether he added any Thing to the Defence?

A. There is a particular Passage, which I am clear must have been added by Mr. Hastings. The Passage I was going to read to your Lordships was added by Mr. Hastings: "I have conducted the Narration of the preceding Detail to its Close, without chusing to interrupt it, or to disturb the Attention of my Honourable Hearers, by the concluding Observation which I now think it necessary to make upon it—because I held the whole Series of the Acts thus connected strictly reconcileable to Justice, Honour, and good Policy, whoever were the Parties concerned in them; but I must at the same Time affirm, that these Acts, whether right or wrong, are not mine, though originating from me, in my Consent yielded to the Nabob, at his special Instance, that he should reclaim the Treasures kept back from him by his Mother, and the Jagheers from all the Jagheerdars; and from my subsequent Claim, which I avow to have been most peremptory, that my Consent to a Measure liable to such a Variety of Constructions, should not be perverted to an Instrument of private Compromise, or the Consistency of my Character forfeited by its being withdrawn, after such rigorous and public Denunciations of it. My last Orders therefore for its Execution * is all that I am answerable for: The Rest depended upon the Instruments which were employed in it, and so little on myself, that I was ignorant of the whole Mode of its Execution till it was done, and so far as I am concerned in it, the whole Board were equally concerned and unanimous." That, I can take upon myself to say, was added by Mr. Hastings himself, after I had read the other Part.

* Sic in Orig.

Q. Was it added after you read the Whole of the Introduction, as well as the rest?

A. Yes. I beg Leave to correct myself: I cannot speak as to whether after the Introduction.

Q. After this Clause was added by Mr. Hastings in this Defence, were any further Additions or Alterations made?

A. I believe not: Not that I know of.

Q. Whether you know at what Time the general Introduction to the Whole of the Defence was written?

A. The general Introduction was written by Mr. Hastings, I think, Two Days after the Commons had permitted him to be heard; and, I think, the remaining Three Days were employed by Mr. Hastings in answering the Rohilla War, and the Article intitled, The King's Tribute: Mr. Hastings assigning as a Reason why he answered the Article intitled, The King's Tribute, that there was an Allegation in that Article, that the East India Company, by not paying Twenty-six Lacks to the King, had forfeited all their Right to the Possession of India; which seemed to him a very extraordinary Allegation; and he meant to defend them.

Q. Then upon the main Question you say, that the general Introduction was written by Mr. Hastings Two Days after Leave had been given him to make his Defence before the House of Commons; and Six Days were given him for that Purpose?

A. I think so; I think it was Two Days afterwards; I was busily employed myself in the Part I had to do.

Q. As near as you can recollect?

A. Yes.

Q. Whether you recollect that in the Preface to the Defence, an Allusion is made to the last Article of the Charge?

A. I rather think the Honourable Manager must have been mistaken, that is, with respect to Fyzoola Khan: There is with respect to some Answers; I don't know them all: But that was given in subsequent to the Time Mr. Hastings desired to be heard. Mr. Hastings had but a short Time to answer the Charge respecting Fyzoola Khan; he had some Time to prepare that Article, as it contained a great Variety of Allegations.

The Managers for the Commons stated, that they would now read the Passage, to convince the House that Mr. Hastings was perfectly aware of that Charge; that he declared himself equal to the Task, that he took the whole Defence upon himself, and that he disavowed all Errors that might be found in it.

Then the Managers for the Commons read the Passage, as follows †.

“ Pressed by the Load of Slander thus heaped upon me, I resolved to try the only Resource which afforded me a Chance of Redress; and in Opposition to many and weighty Discouragements, I threw myself upon the Justice of this Honourable House, and petitioned to be allowed to make my Defence in Person, and I succeeded. Whether I owe this Indulgence to your Goodness or your Justice, I accept it with equal Gratitude.

† Vide this Passage, Par. 3, P. 19, supra.

“ Of the Discouragements to which I allude, I shall mention but Two Points, and these it is incumbent on me to mention, because they relate to Effects which the Justice of this Honourable House may, and, I trust, will, avert. The first is an Objection to my being at all personally committed in my Defence, since, in so wide a Field of Discussion, it would be impossible not to admit some Things of which an Advantage might be taken to turn them into Evidence against myself: Whereas another might as well use as I could, or better, the same Materials of my Defence, without involving me in the same Consequences; but I am sure that this Honourable House will yield me its Protection against the Cavils of unwarranted Inference; and if the Truth can tend to convict me, I am content to be myself the Channel to convey it.

“ The other Objection lay in my own Breast. It was not till Monday last that I formed the Resolution, and I knew not then whether I might not in Consequence be laid under the Obligation of preparing and completing in Five Days, and in effect so it has proved, the Refutation of Charges, which it has been the Labour of my Accuser, armed with all the Powers of Parliament, and at one Time greater, to compile during as many Years of almost undisturbed Leisure; but I knew myself equal to the Undertaking, and I now only revert to my Difficulties, that the Consideration of them may bespeak the candid Allowance of this Honourable House for any Inaccuracies, or for any Thing defective, which may appear in my Defence, but I claim no other Indulgence on this Account.”

Then the Witness was asked,

Q. Whether Mr. Hastings wrote that Paragraph?

A. I believe he wrote the Whole of that Introduction; and the Whole of the Article intituled, The Rohilla War.

Q. Who drew the Answer intituled, Contracts and Encrease of Establishments?

A. I did.

Q. Who drew the Answer to the Article intituled, Receipts and Presents?

A. I believe I drew a Part of that, and I think the rest was drawn by Mr. Baber.

Q. Who drew the Answer to the Article intituled, Resignation?

A. Mr. Halhed, I believe; and there are some Passages in that, which I myself put in.

Q. Who drew the Answer to the Article intituled, Misdemeanors in Oude?

A. I drew that, from Materials given me by Mr. Middleton.

Q. Who drew the Article intituled, “ Fyzoola Cawn?”

A. Mr. Hastings; I believe I mentioned that before.

Q. Whether those Articles were shewn to Mr. Hastings before he produced them at the Bar of the House of Commons?

A. Every Article was shewn to Mr. Hastings. I believe they were read by me, but read in a very cursory Manner, upon Account of the Shortness of Time; and I believe they were all in my Possession till they were put in to the House of Commons.

Q. Were there any Insertions in any other Articles, except the Article, Benares, subsequent to Mr. Hastings' View of them?

A. I recollect an Expression that was put in by myself, which was meant to be expunged, but by Accident it was not; which Mr. Hastings lamented.—I think it is in a Comparison between the enormous Expences incurred by the late War in this Country, and the trifling Expences incurred in India. In that Passage there is this Expression, “ by an unfortunate Minister;” Mr. Hastings objected to that, and it was left in by Mistake.

Q. The Witness has said, the Answer to the Article intituled, The Begums of Oude, which is the present Charge, was composed by Mr. Middleton and others; I wish to know from him, who else was concerned in drawing up that Answer?

A. I don't recollect I said, others—I said Mr. Middleton gave me the Materials, and from these Materials I drew it; and I had some Writers in my own House that copied them—Mr. Middleton gave me the Materials for that—I drew that, and the Article intituled, Bulbudder Sing.

Q. Who drew any Paragraphs in the Article intituled, Bulbudder Sing, I mean the Rajah of Sahlone, besides yourself?

A. I drew it—I beg Pardon,—I do not know whether it was Mr. Middleton or Mr. Gilpin who furnished the Materials; I think it was Mr. Gilpin.

Q. Whether the Articles of the Charge were not printed a long Time before Mr. Hastings produced his Defence in the House?

A. I think I have stated, that in consequence of their being printed and sold in Pamphlets, at Half a Crown each, I made an Application to the House for Mr. Hastings to make his Defence.

Q. How long were they printed before the Order of the House was made for Mr. Hastings to put in his Defence?

A. The Journals will shew that; whether it was a Month or Six Weeks I do not know.

Q. What hindered Mr. Hastings from preferring his Defence before that Time to the House?

A. I believe Mr. Hastings hoped a speedy Question would have been earlier put; and when he found there was no Probability of that being done, he felt uneasy: During the remaining Time, when I speak to Five or Six Weeks, I speak from Memory only.

Q. What Reason had Mr. Hastings to know or to suppose, that a speedy Question would be put upon the Articles?

A. I cannot tell what Reason: I thought at the Time there would; and probably he got his Ideas from me, as I was in the House.

Q. Whether there was any Act of the House which precipitated Mr. Hastings with regard to his Defence?

A. None; but the Session was advancing, and Mr. Hastings was apprehensive it would be continued another Session; and if Mr. Hastings was in a Mistake, he was in a Mistake in common with all the World, that the Rohilla War would determine the Whole.

Q. What Steps did Mr. Hastings take when he found the Business going on in the House of Commons, to undeceive the House with respect to the spurious Defence he put in?

A. I believe I have answered that.

Q. Do you know of any Reason he had for not taking any Step of that Sort?

A. I really do not know.

Q. I will ask a Question merely to ascertain the Degree of Labour that was necessary to draw these Answers. I wish to ask, Whether the Answer to several of the Articles was not copied verbatim, or nearly so, from the Minutes of the Council, in the Year 1774 and 1775, at Calcutta, in which his Conduct had been arraigned by a Majority of the Council?

A. I should suppose the Honourable Manager means, in the Article intituled, The Rohilla War.

Q. I mean all of it?

* Vide the Article intituled, The Rohilla War, in the Defence at the Bar of the House of Commons.

A. There is a considerable Part of One of the Answers, * in which Mr. Hastings inserts a Copy of a Minute made at Calcutta, but the Answer is certainly very long, independant of that; a very long and full Detail.

Q. (from a Lord.) You say the Defence in the House of Commons took up Two Days in reading; Did Mr. Hastings, during the reading upon those Two Days, make any Objection to the Passages altered by Mr. Halhed?

A. He made no public Objection—I was not near Mr. Hastings at the Time—I was in my Place in the House, and therefore I cannot tell.

Q. (from a Lord.) Was not the Charge of Benares read the First Day?

A. The First Day—the First Thing read was the General Introduction; then the Rohilla War; then the King's Tribute, and then the Article, Benares.

Q. (from a Lord.) The Witness has stated that, at First when this Defence was made upon the Benares Article it was carried to Mr. Hastings,—I am speaking now of the First Time when it was carried; I wish to know in whose Hand-writing that Draft was—by whom it was wrote?

A. The original Draft was in the Hand-writing of Mr. Halhed, who himself wrote it.

Q. I wish to know who the Clerk was that made that Copy?

A. I do not know the Name of the Person, but I can learn his Name, and he can be produced—he is in this Town—he was a young Man patronized by Mr. Halhed, and I can learn his Name.

Q. (from a Lord.) The Witness has stated, that after the Defence had been under the Consideration of Mr. Hastings subsequent to the Time of its being printed, Mr. Hastings said to the Witness that there were some Parts of the Benares Business which he disliked; and took Notice of the Words "Unfortunate Minister," which he wished had not been in it; I wish the Witness to be asked, Whether Mr. Hastings, after he had had that Consideration of the Defence, observed, to the Knowledge of the Witness, that there was any Fact untruly stated in the Defence?

A. I do not recollect that he did; I rather think not.

Q. Whether (always speaking to the same Period) Mr. Hastings observed, to the Knowledge of the Witness, that there was any Principle laid down in that Defence which he disclaimed?

A. Not at that Time: But I would wish to mention One Thing as a Reason that probably prevented a great deal of Discussion, That Mr. Hastings did think, in common with all the World, that the only Question was the Question of the Rohilla War.

Q. The Witness mistakes the Time : The Time I speak to is after the Publication of the Defence. The Witness has said, that there was something in the Benares Article, particularly these Two Words, " Unfortunate Minister," which Mr. Hastings disliked.—Whether he then said to the Witness he disclaimed them ? Whether at any Time he recollects Mr. Hastings disclaimed any of the Principles of Argument laid down in his Defence ?

A. He did not at first ; but if your Lordship means, by at any Time, from what has happened lately, I have certainly heard Mr. Hastings mention his Disapprobation ; but these Words, " Unfortunate Minister," are not in the Benares Charge, but in another.

Q. You have told the House, That there were various Passages interpolated in his Defence, of which Mr. Hastings had no Knowledge ; some containing Facts, and some Arguments, which he disapproved : Do you know whether he has ever disclaimed any of those Principles advanced by Way of Argument ?

A. Mr. Hastings has, since the Business has been before your Lordships, but not before, in Conversation declared, he never could, if he had read it, have allowed any Expression to pass that could have been construed into an Idea of his having entertained any personal Animosity against Cheit Sing ; he said positively, he was sure he had not seen it.

Q. That is rather a Fact : I will repeat the Question again. You have mentioned there were many Passages, some consisting of Facts alledged, some of Grounds of Argument ; the Question now put to you is, Whether Mr. Hastings has, in any Conversation with you, disclaimed any of those Principles which are stated in the Defence as Grounds of Argument among those Passages interpolated ?

A. No ; except that particular Expression, " Cheit Sing to have me rather than the Company for its Object at least," that seemed as if it was personal to him ;—he disclaimed that.

Q. Then, in point of Fact, you do not remember his making any Objection to any other Parts of it ?

A. No, except that general Expression, that there were many Parts he disliked.

Q. To put the Question more correctly, Whether Mr. Hastings has at any Time disavowed any of the Motives of his Conduct stated in his Defence ?

A. Not as I recollect in Terms, except generally, that there were Parts which he disliked.

Then the Witness was directed to withdraw.

Then the House adjourned to the Chamber of Parliament.

Die Fovis, 17° Aprilis 1788.

THE Lords being in their Places, the House resumed, the usual Proclamations made, and the Defendant appearing at the Bar, the Lord Chancellor acquainted the Managers for the Commons, that they might proceed with their Evidence.

The Managers for the Commons stated, that the Points which the First Witness they meant to call would speak to, were, First, to what they conceived to be the real Cause of the Disturbances in Oude, and particularly in the Provinces of Baraitch and Goruckpore; Secondly, To the Subjection of the Nabob; and Thirdly, To prove it perfectly impossible but that Mr. Hastings must have been apprised of all the Transactions going on at Lucknow in the Years 1781 and 1782.

The Counsel for the Defendant requested the Managers for the Commons would have the Goodness to state to what Charges, besides the Charge now before the House, this Evidence was meant to be adduced, the Disturbances in Baraitch and Goruckpore making a distinct Article of Charge.

The House informed the Counsel for the Defendant, that the Managers for the Commons had explained the Points to which they meant to examine the Witness about to be called. The only Question therefore was, Whether he should be called at all? Consequently this was not the Time to make an Objection; but if any should arise in the Course of the Examination, that would be the proper Time to make it.

Then ROBERT HOLT Esquire, was called; and being sworn, was examined as follows:

Q. At what Time, and in what Situation was you in the Company's Service in India?

A. I was appointed in the Year 1778 in the Company's Service, and in the Year 1779 Assistant to the Resident at the Vizier's Court.

Q. When was you appointed Assistant to the Resident?

A. I am not certain whether it was in the Year 1779 or in 1780.

Q. In the latter End of the Year 1779 or in 1780; Is that the Account you mean to give of your Appointment to be Assistant to the Resident at the Vizier's Court?

A. Yes; somewhere thereabouts, I am not perfectly certain.

Q. Under what Resident was you employed; whether under one, or more than one?

A. I was employed first, under the Residency of Mr. Purling; then, under Mr. Bristow; then, under Mr. Middleton; and then, under Mr. Bristow again.

Q. I wish the Witness to speak to the State of Oude during that Period as fully as he can?

A. Before I answer that Question, I could wish to communicate something to your Lordships; I hope I shall not be deemed guilty of any Impropriety or Disrespect to your Lordships, if I take the Liberty of stating, that I believe I shall be more able to answer that Question to the Satisfaction of every Body, if particular Questions are put to me instead of general Questions: My Abilities in Language, I apprehend, will not be sufficient to a Task so arduous as speaking of the general State of a Country.

Q. Then, instead of having so general a Question put to you, as that relative to the State of Oude, you wish that particular Questions may be put to you upon that Subject?

A. Yes.

Q. Whether you had any Opportunity of knowing, that during the Time of your Residency in that Office, the Revenues of the Country were considerably, or in what Degree, diminished?

A. I have ever understood they were considerably diminished.

Q. Had you any Opportunity of knowing it?

A. Merely from Report.

Q. Whether the Witness knows they were assessed at a much lower Jumma, or Rate, than formerly?

A. I have only heard so.

Q. Had you any, and what Reason to believe that that Report was ill founded ?
A. None.

Q. From your Observation of the Face of the Country, had you any Reason to think that that Report was ill founded ?
A. None.

Q. Whether you had any Reason, from any Thing that happened in your official Experience, to believe that Report was ill founded ?
A. None.

Q. Have you any Reason, from your Knowledge of the Country, or from what came to your Knowledge in the particular Department of the Revenue, or from what came through your own Office as Resident, to believe it was well founded, and if you have, state that Reason ?

A. I have no other Reason, but only what I have heard. I speak only from what I heard.

Q. Speak to what you know yourself relative to the Administration of Colonel Hannay in Baraich and Goruckpore ?

A. I was in that Country near Seven Months.

Q. Whether or not the People appeared to be much distressed ?

The House observed, that the Witness had not answered the former Question.

Q. Was you there in a Situation that gave you the Means of observing the Administration of Colonel Hannay there ?

A. I was, in some Degree ; I went with him through some Parts of it.

Q. In what Condition were the People of those Districts ?

A. Rather in a bad Condition.

Q. In what Respect did you observe them to be in a bad Condition ?

A. There were fewer of them ; they were not so populous as most other Parts of the Country.

Q. Had you any Opportunity of knowing it before, so as to compare it ?

A. I have no Knowledge of it ; I have heard so.

Q. You have heard it, but have no Knowledge ?

A. No.

Q. But your Observation was, it was less populous than any other District you have been in ?

A. Yes.

Q. Under whose Administration were the Collection of the Revenue and Management of the Finance of those Districts, at the Time you went there ?

A. Under the Direction and Management of Colonel Hannay.

Q. Had you any Opportunity of observing any, and what, Instance of Rigour, in the Administration of those Revenues under Colonel Hannay ?

A. Do you mean justifiable or unjustifiable Rigour ?

Q. The Question put to you is, whether you saw any Instances of Rigour ?

A. I have seen People punished, and People imprisoned, but whether properly or improperly I cannot say.

Q. What was the Mode of Punishment that you observed ?

A. Some were confined within Mud Forts, others were confined within Bamboo Palisadoes.

Q. Were there any Instances of Punishments that you observed besides the Two you have mentioned ?

A. I have seen the Exercise of Corporal Punishment.

Q. What Species of Corporal Punishment ?

A. The Use of an Instrument called a Korah, a long Leathern Thong.

Q. Whipping you mean ?

A. Yes.

Q. Whether the Persons so confined, were in Irons or not ?

A. I do not know whether those that were confined in Bamboo Palisadoes were or were not in Irons ; I have seen those who were confined within the Mud Forts led out in Irons.

Q. Describe the Nature of the Bamboo Palisadoes.—What is the Manner of that Confinement ?

A. They were Walls made of Bamboo, a large Square.

Q. Had they any Covering ?

A. None that I recollect ; I believe they were adjacent to a Grove, and whether any Part of that Grove was within the Palisadoes or not, I cannot say, I am not certain.

Q. Whether

Q. Whether they were confined Night and Day in the open Palisadoes ?

A. To the best of my Recollection they were.

Q. What Space does the Witness conceive might have been contained within those Palisadoes, the Extent of Ground ?

A. About the Extent of that Place in which your Lordships sit.

Q. Do you mean the whole Hall ?

A. No ; that where your Lordships sit.

Q. Do you mean all round this inner Court ?

A. Yes, that lined with red.

Q. What Number of Persons have you seen confined in any One of those Prisons of that Size ?

A. I cannot precisely say, I should imagine about 60 or 70.

Q. Describe what Sort of Persons they were who were thus imprisoned, and upon whom those Punishments were inflicted, what Description of Persons ?

A. I heard that they were refractory Zemindars, or Hostages for the Payment of the Revenue.

Q. Whether they were imprisoned by virtue of any legal Process, or by the Orders of any Court, or by any Magistrate of the Country ?

A. None that I know of.

Q. By whose Order were they imprisoned, and under whose Guard were they confined ?

A. I cannot say under whose Order ; they were under a Guard from a Corps of Sepoys.

Q. That was commanded by Colonel Hannay ?

A. Yes.

Q. By whom, and upon what Description of Men, were the Stripes inflicted by the Instrument called the Korah ?

A. Upon the Farmers of the Revenue who I fancy had not paid ; it is the usual Mode of Punishment, when they do not.

Q. Do you know who assessed the Rate, by virtue of which, those Persons, you saw thus imprisoned or whipped, were charged ?

A. The Collectors who were under Colonel Hannay, and the Sub-collectors.

Q. The Collectors and Sub-collectors were under Colonel Hannay ?

A. Yes.

Q. But the Question is, Who made the Rate, Who authorized the Rate at which they were charged ?

A. I really do not know.

Q. Did you ever hear, or know, that Colonel Hannay himself assessed the Rate ?

A. I understood that he did.

Q. How did you understand it ?

A. It is merely upon hearsay.

Q. What do you mean by Hearsay, credible Information or loose Rumour ?

A. Only Hearsay.

Q. Did you ever converse with Colonel Hannay about it ?

A. No, I never did.

Q. I want to know whether you have heard it from credible Information or loose Rumour ?

The Counsel for the Defendant objected, that the Witness having spoken from hearsay only, he could not be asked, Whether it was hearsay which he credited.

Q. Have you any and what Reason to believe that what you heard was true ?

A. I have no Reason to disbelieve it.

Q. Do you believe it to be true ?

A. I did not hear it contradicted.

Q. Was it not notorious ?

A. I have heard many People speak of it.

Q. Was it not equally notorious, that these rigorous Methods were enforced generally throughout the Provinces ?

A. I do not know, having only had a partial Observation of them.

Q. By what Names did you hear these Bamboo Palisadoe Prisons called generally in the Country ?

A. I do not know. I know what Name they gave to the Mud Forts.

Q. What

Q. What was the Name they gave ~~to~~ the Mud Fort ?

A. A Killa.

Q. Whether in that Climate, Persons are not likely to suffer, who are confined in open Cages by Day and by Night ?

A. Not in the Season during which I saw them, it was about the Month of April.

Q. Whether in any other Season they are likely to suffer in their Health ?

A. I suppose they are in the cold Season from Cold, and in the rainy Season from Wet.

Q. Are they not likely to suffer from the Sun in the dry Season ?

A. I do not know that they will suffer materially—it would be unpleasant in any Season of course ; the Natives of India stay in the Sun all Day frequently.

Q. Do you know whether any Provision was made for the proper Feeding and Cloathing the People so confined ?

A. No, I do not know whether there was or not.

Q. Was there any Gaol Allowance ?

A. I know nothing of the Matter.

Q. You were asked the Name of the Mud Forts and Bamboo Pallisadoes, and you gave the Name of the Mud Forts, which I suppose to be the Indian Name. I wish to know whether they went by any other Name, any Bye-name, among the Inhabitants ?

A. None that I have heard of.

Q. Or among the English ?

A. None that I know of.

Q. Do you know any Thing of the State of that Country during the Time of Sujah ul Dowlah ?

A. I have heard it was in a very flourishing State at that Time.

Q. When you saw it, was it in that State ?

A. I did not think it was, according to my Observations.

Here the Question and Answer were read by the Clerk.

Q. Was the Province much declined from the State it was in, in Sujah ul Dowlah's Time ?

A. I really cannot speak positively.

Q. Was it much declined from a State of Prosperity at that Time ?

A. I thought there were fewer Inhabitants.

Q. It was not so populous ?

A. No.

Q. Did you ever say, you considered it to be in a miserable State ; that the People of the Country were in a miserable State ?

The Counsel for the Defendant stated, that the House having already given Judgment upon a Question of a similar Import with this, they requested the House to sustain their Judgment, by prohibiting the putting of Questions of this Sort.

Q. Recollect the State of the Country, and speak as fully as your Memory can go to it, whether you did or did not observe the State of the Country to be miserable or happy ?

A. I thought it rather in a miserable State.

Q. Do you know, or have you any Reason to believe, that the People continued quietly in the Country, or that they emigrated from it ?

A. I have heard there were many Emigrations.

Q. I desire to know whether any forcible Means were used to prevent such Emigrations, or to restrain them ?

A. I cannot positively say that there were ; I have heard that there were at one Place Chokies, or Guards, placed upon the Banks of the Gogra ; I have seen One or Two Guards, but I really cannot say whether they were for that Purpose or not.

Q. Did you ever converse with Colonel Hannay about the Reason of those Guards being so placed ?

A. Never, that I recollect.

Q. Did

Q. Did you hear of any other Effects from the supposed miserable State of the People ?

A. I think I have.

Q. What was it ?

A. I have heard that many of them were so distressed, that they were under the Necessity of selling their Children.

Q. Have you had any Reason to know that from your own Knowledge ?

A. I know it to be a Practice to sell Children in the Country.

Q. In what Country ?

A. The Country I am speaking of, Barraitch and Goruckpore.

Q. By that Practice, do you mean it was of any long Duration, or only while you suppose the Country was depopulated ?

A. I have heard it was of long Duration. I have heard there was a Mart for Children.

Q. Was that Practice confined to Times of great Distress, or was it more general ?

A. I have heard that it was practised in the Time of Sujah ul Dowlah.

Q. The Question put to you is, Whether it was the Result of peculiar Distress or a common Habit and Custom of the Country ?

A. It might be both, for any Thing that I know.

Q. Do you, or not, know it was understood to be a Sign of great Distress ?

A. I have heard it was a Sign of Distress, and I have also heard it was a common Practice in the Time of Sujah ul Dowlah.

Q. Do you know of any Measure taken to prevent the Selling of Children ?

A. I recollect hearing Colonel Hannay threaten to inflict Punishment upon those who sold their Children.

Q. Do you know it from your own Knowledge ?

A. I heard him do it myself.

Q. Was there any Thing done to your Knowledge for the Relief of the People, so as to prevent the Practice of selling their Children ?

A. I do not know whether there was or was not.

Q. In what Character was Colonel Hannay in that Country ?

A. I understood him to be the Commander of the Military Force, and to have the Collections under his Management.

Q. From whom did he derive the Authority of collecting it ?

A. I heard it was from the Vizier, from the Nabob.

Q. (from a Lord.) Did he farm the Revenue, or did he take it for the Vizier's Use ?

A. He received it for the Vizier's Use as I understood.

Q. He received it for the Vizier's Use ?

A. So I understand.

Q. You know nothing of it ?

A. I know no Title for it.

Q. But you know he received it for the Vizier's Use ?

A. I know he did receive it, for I saw him carry it to the Vizier's House.

Q. There is a Doubt about your Answer to that Question. The Question put to you was, Whether you knew of his receiving them to the Vizier's Use, or of his bringing them to the Vizier's Account.

A. I did not make any Answer to that Question. I have answered, that I knew he did collect the Revenues of the Country, because I saw them paid into the Treasury. I understood they were for the Use of his Highness the Vizier ; but I know nothing more of it.

Q. What Species of Collection was Colonel Hannay entrusted with ?

A. I heard he had what they call the Aunannee.

Q. What is the Nature of that : What does the Word mean ?

A. It differs from the other Mode of Collection which is by the Kistbundy.

Q. In what respect ?

A. In this ; that in the latter Case the Country is collected at a fixt Assessment ; the Nature of the other is to collect agreeable to the Discretion of the Collector as much as he thinks it will with Propriety yield : That is the Idea I have of it.

Q. What Means have you of knowing the Method, either of the one, or of the other Collection ?

A. I have been employed in the Collections, not in that Country, but in others.

Q. And how do you know he collected in this latter Manner, at Discretion?

A. I heard so.

Q. (From a Lord.) From him?

A. No; not from him.

Q. From Persons concerned in the Collection of the Revenues?

A. I heard so from a Person who was an Aumil in the Country of the Vizier.

Q. (from a Lord) Was he concerned in the Collection of the Revenue?

A. Not in that Country but in another.

Q. In what District was he employed in the Collection of the Revenue?

A. In the District of Patna.

Q. Patna is not within the Province of Oude?

A. No.

Q. Do you know whether the same Customs prevail in that Province as in Oude as to the Collections?

A. I believe they do; I am not certain of it.

Q. When you speak of the Manner of the collecting by the Aumanney, which is at the Discretion of the Collector, do you mean it related to the Assessment of the whole District or only to Individuals: was it exercised by making a General Assessment upon the whole District, or was it exercised by only making a Rate upon Individuals?

A. I should apprehend, by making a Rate upon Individuals.

Q. Whether the last Mode of Collection by Discretion, as you call it, is common in other Parts of the District of Oude?

A. I do not know whether it is or no.

Q. Whether any of the Persons that you saw punished by Imprisonment were of those that did not pay this Species of Assessment that was gathered at Discretion?

A. I do not know whether they were or were not—I have only stated that Colonel Hannay had the Collections in this Manner: if he had, of course they were so; if not, otherwise.

Q. Whether at the chief Seat of Government, an Account was taken of what Colonel Hannay actually received, and what he actually paid?

A. I suppose there was.

Q. Do you know there was?

A. No; I do not.

Q. Do you know whether the Resident had any Tuncaw or Assignment upon that District?

A. I do not know.

Q. Was Colonel Hannay's Situation such as that the Vizier's Minister would think fit to call him to any Account, according to your Opinion of it?

A. I should not suppose he had a Power to call him to an Account.

Q. You should not suppose it?

A. No.

Q. Did Colonel Hannay ever demand a Remission of the Revenue which he ought to have paid, or of any Part of it?

A. I have heard he did; I do not know positively that he did.

Q. Do you know upon what Ground he demanded that Remission?

A. For the Injury which the Cavalcade of the Vizier might occasion in travelling through any Districts.

Q. Did you hear that that Remission was granted?

A. I heard that it was.

Q. To what Amount?

A. To the Amount of Two Lacks of Rupees; but I heard it from mere Report.

Q. Did you ever hear it contradicted?

A. No.

Q. Was it generally reported?

A. I do not know that it was generally reported.

Q. Did you believe it to be true; had you any Reason and what to believe it?

A. I had no Reason to believe it to be true any further than what I have heard.

Q. Whether you had any Reason to believe it not true?

A. None.

Q. I desire to know of the Witness, whether he ever had any Reason to disbelieve it?

A. None.

Q. Whether you have heard that Colonel Hannay made any Remission to the Country in consequence of the Remission he had received?

A. I do not know.

Q. Did you ever hear that he did?

A. Never.

Q. Did the Decay of the Country you had Occasion to observe, arise from unfavourable Seasons, or Misgovernment, according to your Opinion?

A. According to my Opinion, from Misgovernment.

Q. Is that Country as liable, or more liable, to suffer by unfavourable Seasons, than other Parts of the Vizier's Dominions?

A. I have heard not.

Q. Have you made no Observation?

A. It is remarkably low, and intersected by a Number of Rivulets.

Q. That you have observed?

A. That I have observed.

Q. From thence you collected yourself that it is not so liable?

A. Yes; and I have also heard it.

Q. What Military Command had Colonel Hannay in that Country?

A. His original Command I understand to have been Three Battalions, One of which I believe was detached under Major Balfour.

Q. Was there any Cavalry besides?

A. There was a Party of Horse under the Command of a Native.

Q. Were they under Colonel Hannay's Command too?

A. Yes.

Q. How many Men might the Three Battalions have amounted to?

A. I really do not know: I never saw them collected.

Q. By what principal Sub-collectors did he make his Country Collections?

A. By the Officers under him, and also by his Servants, who had a Share in the Collection.

Q. The Question is, Who were the Sub-collectors?

A. Is it meant that I should mention their Names?

Q. I want to know of what Description the Sub-collectors were—whether mere Collectors of Revenue, or Officers of the Army?

A. Officers of the Army.

Q. What were their Names, as far as you recollect?

A. Major Lumfdayn, Captains M'Donald and Pringle, a Surgeon of the Name of Blanc, and Mr. Gordon.

Q. Do you recollect any other Name?

A. Major Lumfdayn was succeeded by Captain Williams in his Military Command; but whether Captain Williams had any Thing to do with the Collections, I don't know; I have heard him say not.

Q. What was the general Opinion in Oude concerning the Government of the Country, during the Administration, Civil and Military, of Colonel Hannay?

A. I have heard an unfavourable Opinion.

Q. Have you heard that Opinion credibly contradicted in India?

A. No.

Q. Have you any Reason to believe it ill founded?

A. None.

Q. Were there any Magistrates in Barraitch and Goruckpore, sufficient to controul Colonel Hannay and the Power of the Military Commanders and Collectors?

A. None.

Q. Do you know any Thing of Colonel Hannay having, during that Period of Time, amassed a great Sum of Money?

A. I do not know: I have heard that he had.

Q. Have you any Reason to believe it?

A. I have no sufficient Reason.

Q. Have

Q. Have you ever heard it contradicted in India?

A. I have not.

Q. Was it not reported so?

A. By most of those with whom I conversed, it was.

Q. (from a Lord.) How was Colonel Hannay to be paid for the Trouble he took in collecting the Revenue?

A. I don't know that he was paid at all: There are Profits in the Collectorship of every Revenue.

Q. What are those Profits?

A. A Present may be made by the Renters of the Country to the Collector of the Revenues.

Q. A Present may be made, you say?

A. Yes.

Q. Is it usual to make such Presents?

A. I believe it is.

Q. Can you tell to what Amount, or to what Proportion, according to the Rents they pay?

A. I cannot.

Q. Proceed now to mention the other Profits that may accrue to the Collector?

A. I do not know of any other, excepting by the Exchange of the Coin, in remitting it.

Q. Upon the Exchange of Coin a Species of Profit may be derived?

A. Yes.

Q. Are those Presents usual according to the Custom of the Country?

A. I believe they are.

Q. If the Presents are not made or offered, does the Ryot, or Farmer, suffer in that Respect from the Collector?

A. I do think a Present might be made, and the Ryots not suffer from it.

Q. Whether if such Presents were not made, the Farmers would not be at the Mercy of the Collectors?

A. I should suppose they would be at the Mercy of the Collectors in either Case, because he has the principal Authority over them.

Q. Then you consider the People under such Collection, as you have described, to be entirely at the Mercy of the Collector?

A. In every Collection I should suppose they are in a certain Degree.

Q. In what Country do you mean.

A. I mean in every Collection.

Q. I desire to know whether in this particular Collection by the Aumanney, the Country is not more particularly at the Mercy of the Collector?

A. I should think it is.

Q. In your Judgment, would a Complaint against the Collector armed with such Authority as that, be likely to meet with Success?

A. What Kind of Success?

Q. Would it be attended to equally and fairly?

A. It would be attended to undoubtedly, I think.

Q. Do you think any Complaint well founded against Colonel Hannay, in the Situation in which he stood, would be likely to be attended with Punishment upon him, or with Redress to the Inhabitants who complained?

A. It would only produce Punishment, I should apprehend, through the Medium of the Government at Calcutta, as I do not suppose the Vizier would undertake to punish any of the English Officers, or that he has a Power to do it.

Q. Whether Colonel Hannay was not an Officer in the Vizier's Service?

A. I believe he was in both Services, that of the Vizier, and that of the Company, but I am not certain.

Q. Were those Troops Colonel Hannay commanded, the Troops of the Country or the Troops of the Vizier?

A. They were the Troops of the Vizier, though at the Recommendation of the Board at Calcutta; that is the Idea I had of them.

Q. With the Recommendation of the Board at Calcutta?

A. So I understand.

Q. You said he was also in the Service of the Company; in what Respect was he in their Service?

A. He was a Lieutenant Colonel in their Army.

Q. But in respect of these Troops he was the Officer of the Vizier?

A. I believe he was.

Q. Whether the Collection that Colonel Hannay made was not upon the Part of the Vizier?

A. I understood so.

Q. Had you any Reason to know what Colonel Hannay died possessed of?

A. I have heard that he died worth a great deal of Money.

Q. To what Amount?

A. I have heard that he died worth Thirty Lacks of Rupees.

Q. Have you any Reason to know that?

A. That was what I heard.

Q. How much is Thirty Lacks?

A. About Three hundred thousand Pounds.

Q. Did you hear how that Sum was transmitted to Calcutta?

A. It is mere hearsay, the Truth of which I know nothing: Merely Conversation in Companies in which I have been.

Q. Had you any Means of knowing, or Reason to form a Belief, either of the Extent of his Fortune, or the Means of sending it to Calcutta?

A. I have heard he remitted a great Part of it in Specie from Lucknow.

Q. To what Amount? And in what Specie?

A. There was a Rumour that he had remitted it.—Am I to answer that Question?

The Counsel for the Defendant said, they objected to Evidence of Rumours.

The Managers for the Commons contended that it was competent to them to give Evidence of the general Fame of the Country; that it was uncontradicted; and that from its Notoriety it must have come to the Knowledge of the Defendant; and desired the Witness might be asked, whether he heard the Quantity and the particular Specie in which this Money was remitted to Calcutta.

The Counsel for the Defendant replied, That they had acquiesced in many of the Questions put by the Managers for the Commons, not under an Idea that they were Questions which ought to be put in a Court of Law, but from a Delicacy in interrupting that Mode of Enquiry, unless it were resisted by the House; and therefore, under the Claim of being intitled to a similar Indulgence on their Parts, they should not object to this Mode of Examination.

The Managers for the Commons said, they disclaimed it as an Indulgence, and consequently that they were not bound to agree to any Indulgence to the Defendant in any Mode of Enquiry the Counsel might think fit to adopt.

The Managers for the Commons, and the Counsel for the Defendant, were informed that there could be no Contract of that Kind; but if the Question was not objected to, they might proceed.

Q. What was the Rumour about the Manner of his sending the Money to Calcutta?

A. I have heard there was a Rumour of his sending a considerable Sum of Money in Gold Mohurs.

Q. To what Amount?

A. To the Amount of 80,000.

Q. How much is a Gold Mohur in Sterling Money?

A. About Two or Three and Thirty Shillings, if not more.

Q. How much do 80,000 Gold Mohurs amount to in Pounds Sterling?

A. About 130 or 140,000 l. Sterling, or thereabouts.

Q. Did you ever hear these Accounts contradicted by unprejudiced Persons, or Persons likely to be well informed?

A. No, I do not know that I ever did; I never made that a Subject of Enquiry.

Q. Did you ever hear it?

A. No.

Q. Did you ever hear any One Man in India contradict it?

A. I do not know I ever heard Ten Men talk of it.

Q. Did you ever hear any One Man contradict it?

A. No.

Q. Did you ever hear any Discourse of that kind in Calcutta?

A. I cannot pretend to say where I heard it.

Q. Do you think it possible that the Misdemeanors imputed to Colonel Hannay, and the Report of the Fortune he is supposed to have amassed, could have been a Secret to Mr. Hastings?

A. Not if Mr. Hastings had chose to inform himself of what I heard.

Q. But, in Point of Fact, do you know, or have you any Reason to imagine, it was a Secret or not?

A. None, either one Way or the other.

Q. Were not these Matters publicly talked of, by those who are less capable of obtaining Information than yourself?

A. I do not recollect who they were, or whether they were less or more capable of obtaining Information than myself.

Q. Have you not stated elsewhere, that those were Matters publicly talked of at Calcutta?

The Counsel for the Defendant stated, that they must repeat their Objection to this Sort of Question.

Q. Do you recollect, at any Time, that those Matters were publicly talked of at Calcutta?

A. They were never told to me as a Secret, and therefore I said they were Matters publicly talked of.

Q. Did Mr. Hastings, to the Knowledge of the Witness, direct any Inquiry to be made at any Time into the Conduct of Colonel Hannay?

A. None that I ever heard of.

Then the Managers for the Commons produced a Paper, which they read.

Then the same was shewn to the Witness; and he was asked:

Q. Do you know whether a Translation of that Letter, dated 15th September 1782, from the Nabob Vizier to Mr. Hastings, upon the Proposition of appointing Colonel Hannay, passed through the Resident's Office at Lucknow?

A. I do not: I have seen it frequently.

Q. Do you mean the original Letter?

A. I never saw the original Letter: I have seen it in Print, or in Manuscript.

Q. How long was Mr. Hannay employed or concerned in the Collections in Baraich and Goruckpore?

A. I do not know how long he was employed previous to my going into that Country; but, to the best of my Recollection, he was not employed in them subsequent to the Insurrection.

Q. About what Time was that?

A. I think it was the latter End of 1781.

Q. What were Colonel Hannay's reputed Circumstances, when he entered upon that Employment?

A. I do not know, except from Hearsay.

Q. As to Repute?

A. I have heard he was in involved Circumstances.

Q. How long do you understand Colonel Hannay was in the Receipt of the Collections of those Provinces?—Have you any Means of knowing how long he had been in that Employment before you went there?

A. I heard he first went to that Country in the Year 1778: I found him in the Collections in the Beginning of 1780, and I found that he had quitted them the latter End of 1781.

Q. Whether the Rigour which the Witness has mentioned to have been exercised under Colonel Hannay's Administration, did not greatly exasperate the Natives in general?

The Counsel for the Defendant stated, that they had not objected to Rumour and Report; but as this was putting in the Mouth of the Witness an immediate Answer, if if he chose to give it in the Terms proposed, they must object to it as a leading Question.

Q. What Effect in the Country had the Administration of Colonel Hannay, in the Article of exasperating the Natives?

A. I saw no Marks of Exasperation while I was there: I heard they were subsequently exasperated.

Q. At the Time you was there, you saw no Marks of Exasperation?

A. What I mean by Marks of Exasperation is, there was no Insurrection.

Q. Whether there were any other Marks of Exasperation besides actual Insurrections?—Were there any Complaints to the Resident, or to any Court?—Were there in general Symptoms of Discontent and Dissatisfaction?

A. Not immediately under my own Observation.

Q. But you heard it subsequent to your coming away?

A. Yes.

Q. At what Time did you come away first?

A. I came away first, I believe, in May 1780.

Q. Between that Time and the End of 1781, when Mr. Hannay was dismissed from his Employment, was the Period of the Discontents you speak of?

A. I think so.

Q. The Witness cannot mean Insurrections after Colonel Hannay left the Country?

A. No.

Q. Did you hear that Colonel Hannay was himself in particular Danger from these Insurrections?

A. I did.

Q. Did you or did you not understand that the Ill-will of the Country was particularly directed against Colonel Hannay?

The Counsel for the Defendant objected to this as a leading Question.

Q. Whom do you suppose the People were discontented with?

A. I heard there was a general Insurrection, and that Colonel Hannay and the Officers with him were in Danger.

Q. In Danger from the Insurrection, do you mean?

A. Yes.

Q. What do you suppose those Insurrections arose from at First: Did you ever hear of any Machinations or Contrivances of particular Persons, or did you ever hear what the Cause was that they objected to?

A. I have heard it was owing to the Misconduct and Misgovernment of Colonel Hannay.

Q. The Witness upon a Question put to him some Time since with Respect to the Natives of these Provinces selling their Children, stated it in Two Ways; First he said, they were so distressed as to be under the Necessity of selling their Children; and Secondly, that he heard of it as a Practice; I wish to know whether the Witness meant to say it was the Practice of the Natives to sell their Children without Motives of Distress?

A. I have already stated it as the Practice among the Princes or Governors in Oude to purchase Children in that District; that there was a Mart for them; Sujah ul Dowlah was supposed to have bought many Slaves from that Country; I have also heard that from the Distresses of the Country, they were also obliged to sell their Children.

Q. The Question is, whether it was a Mark of Distress: Whether it was a Part of the Idea you entertain of that Practice of selling their Children, that it was used not only when the Family was in great Distress, but when the Family was clear of Distress?

A. I should apprehend it was a Mark of Distress, whenever they were sold.

Q. Universally whenever they were sold?

A. Universally.

Q. Had you an Opportunity of observing the general Disposition of the Natives of those Provinces, Baraitch and Goruckpore?

A. I have heard in general, that they were refractory; that it was considered as an Asylum for fugitive Zemindars, and particularly so, from there being a great deal of Jungle in it and Wood.

Q. Did you ever hear that another Remission of Two Lacks, besides that which you stated for the Damage the Nabob might occasion by Hunting in the Province, was demanded by Colonel Hannay?

A. I

A. I have heard there was a subsequent Demand.

Q. To what Amount ?

A. To the same Amount.

Q. For what was that Remission ?

A. For the Damage which the Cavalcade of the Vizier might occasion.

Q. That was the Occasion specified for demanding the First Remission ?

A. Yes.

Q. Was the like Occasion specified upon the Second Time ?

A. Yes.

Q. Was it for Damage actually done ?

A. Not as I heard of, but for Damage that might be done.

Q. Were they both in the same Year ?

A. No.

Q. Now, in either of the Years did you hear the Vizier went into the Province ?

A. In One Year he did.

Q. Did he in the other Year ?

A. I don't know that he did.

Q. Did you hear that Remission was obtained ?

A. I do not know it was.

Q. Did you hear it was not ?

A. No.

Q. You said he did come into the Province One Year; that was the Year he asked and obtained a Remission ?

A. Yes.

Q. Did he come into the Province the Second Year ?

A. Yes.

Q. Was it demanded then ?

A. I heard it was.

Q. Upon what Ground or Pretence ?

A. For the Injury the Country might sustain by the Cavalcade of the Nabob.

Q. Do you know any Thing of any Discontent expressed by the Nabob with Colonel Hanger's Administration ?

A. I have heard he expressed much Discontent.

Q. You was Resident at the same Time ?

A. I was speaking of the Time I was at Lucknow. I was Assistant to the Resident; there are Five of them.

Q. At that Time you heard the Nabob express much Discontent ?

A. I heard he expressed much Discontent.

Q. Did you hear, or not, whether the Vizier attempted to remove him

A. I heard that he wished to remove him.

Q. By whose Means was the Removal prevented, or was it prevented ?

A. The Removal, I believe, did not take Place till afterwards.

Q. Do you know by whose Means it was that the Removal did not take Place ?

A. I can only speak from Hearsay.

Q. From your Situation in the Resident's Office, had you, or not, an Opportunity of observing in whose Hands the actual Power of that Country was placed ?

A. I think I had.

Q. In whose Hands, the Nabob's, or those of Hyder Beg Cawn, was the Power of that Country actually placed ?

A. I have ever understood it was in the Hands of Hyder Beg Cawn.

Q. That Power which Hyder Beg Cawn exercised, Was it by the voluntary Delegation of the Nabob, or from what other Cause did it arise ?

A. He was appointed Deputy Minister, I believe, by the Nabob.

Q. Was there any other Cause of his Power besides that Appointment by the Nabob ?

A. From his Office he naturally held a very great Power.

Q. Was

Q. Was the Power he exercised incident to his Office, or was it a Power he engrossed by any other Means besides his Office?

A. It was a Power, I apprehend, naturally incident to his Office.

Q. Did you understand it to be from no other Influence, but what the same Sort of Office would have given to any other Man?

A. I should apprehend that the Office itself, if supported by him who delegates it, is sufficient to have the Controul over the Country.

Q. Was that Power which he exercised derived from the Support of the Nabob, or was it derived from any other Cause than that Support, always speaking, according to your Observation in your Situation?

A. I cannot speak with respect to my Observation, because I had no Opportunity of knowing; I can speak of what I have heard.

Q. I wish to know, whether the Administration of Colonel Hannay was agreeable or not, to the Nabob, at the Time when he was at Lucknow?

A. I have heard it was obnoxious to the Nabob.

Q. By what Influence was Hyder Beg maintained in a Situation that was obnoxious to the Nabob?

A. I have heard it was from the Influence of the Government.

Q. Of the English Government?

A. Of the English Government.

Q. By whose Influence in particular; by what Member of the English Government in particular?

A. I have heard he was supported in particular by the Influence of the Gentleman at your Lordships Bar.

Q. Had you, or not, from the Nature of your Office, an Opportunity of seeing the Official Correspondence between the Resident's Office and the Governor General?

A. Not during the Residence of Mr. Middleton; but subsequently, I saw the greater Part of it, if not the Whole.

Q. In whose Residency?

A. In Mr. Bristow's.

Q. From the Situation you held in the Office, had you an Opportunity of judging, whether the Nabob or Hyder Beg would have dismissed a great Amil without the Countenance of Mr. Hallings?

A. I don't believe that he would have done any Thing, or taken any Measure obnoxious to the English Government.

Q. Had it been usual with the Resident, or any of his Assistants, or any Person under him, to interfere with the Nabob's Government?

A. I have heard of his Interference.

Q. Have you known of any Instances of such Interference?

A. I do know of an Instance.

Q. Did Mr. Bristow's Nomination and Arrangement of a Court of Justice take Effect?

A. It did not.

Q. Why did it not take Effect?

A. From the Opposition of Hyder Beg Cawn.

Q. Had Mr. Bristow any Authority under his Instructions to institute such Court?

A. As nearly as I can recollect, he had the Authority to recommend the Institution of those Courts to the Vizier.

Q. What do you understand by a Recommendation of the Governor General, to the Vizier or Hyder Beg?

A. A Recommendation with which he expects to meet Concurrence.

Q. Do you think, that either the Nabob or Hyder Beg would have resisted any Recommendation that came from the Governor General?

A. He might so far, as to complain against it.

Q. To whom was the Nabob to complain?

A. To remonstrate to the English Government.

Q. But suppose his Remonstrances fruitless, do you think the Nabob would have continued the Opposition?

A. I think he would not; because the English Government, as I apprehend, had the Means of enforcing any Request which they chose to make to the Vizier.

Q. To what Cause was it imputable, or to what Cause do you impute, the Success of Hyder Beg's Opposition to the Establishment of a Court of Justice?

A. In my own Opinion?

Q. According to any Reason you had, of knowing and observing?

A. My Opinion was, that it was owing to the Support of Mr. Hastings.

Q. He had Instructions to appoint a Court of Justice?

A. That was the Idea I had of it at the Time.

Q. Had Mr. Hastings any secret Agents at Lucknow during the Time of Mr. Bristow's Residence?

A. He had;—Major Palmer.

Q. Do you suppose Hyder Beg could have opposed it with Success, as you observed, unless he had been supported by Mr. Hastings in Opposition to his Instructions?

A. I believe he would have been afraid of doing it.

Q. What was the Resident's Power, according to your Observation?

A. If supported, I should apprehend, he would have the principal Power.

Q. Supported by whom?

A. By the Government.

Q. By the English Government?

A. By the English Government.

Q. Did not Mr. Middleton, during his Residence, exercise that which you call a principal Power?

A. I know very little of Mr. Middleton's Administration.

Q. Had he, according to your Knowledge, the Command of the Troops?

A. I understood that he had; and that any Requisition he chose to make, to the Officers stationed at the several Cantonments, would be complied with, by sending such Troops as he might require.

Q. Had he not a Body of Troops under his own immediate Command, called the Resident's Body Guard?

A. He had.

Q. I understood the Witnesses to have said, he considered Mr. Middleton as having the substantial Power in the Country. Who did the Nabob and his Minister consider as having that Power?

A. I never heard either the Nabob or his Minister speak of him; therefore, I cannot say in what Light they considered him.

Q. Do you know who the Country in general looks up to for that Power?

A. To the English Government; they were considered as the chief Power, I apprehend.

Q. Was Mr. Middleton looked up to by the English in general, as having that Power?

A. I believe so.

Q. From your Situation in the Office, do you think that Power could be exercised by Mr. Middleton without Mr. Hastings's Knowledge?

A. I do not think it could.

Q. You have named Major Palmer as an Agent of Mr. Hastings; I would ask, in what Character you considered Major Davy at Lucknow?

A. I understood he went up the Country upon some Business of Mr. Hastings.

Q. Did you consider those Agents of Mr. Hastings, Major Davy and Major Palmer, as forwarding or obstructing the Execution of his public Orders?

A. I cannot positively swear that, but I understood they did.

Q. Obstruct or forward?

A. Obstruct.

Q. Have you any Reason, and what, to believe that Major Palmer and Major Davy were employed in opposing his public Instructions?

A. I understood that they were; I have no other Reasons than what I heard from those in the Office.

Q. You know nothing of it, but you heard it?

A. Nothing but what I heard from those in my Office.

Q. Was

Q. Was not Major Palmer at Lucknow during a considerable Part of the Time of the Transaction relative to the Begums ?

A. I was not there at the Time of the Transactions with the Begums, I was gone down to Calcutta.

Q. I don't mean at the Time of seizing the Treasures, but when the Measures were taken to compel the Begums Officers to confess where the Treasure was, to compel them to confess while they were in Prison in 1782 ; the Question is, not as to the seizing the Treasures, but do you remember the Time the Begums were imprisoned to compel them to say where the Treasures were ?

A. Yes.

Q. Was Major Palmer at Lucknow at that Time ?

A. To the best of my Recollection he was.

Q. Do you believe that these Transactions could have happened without Major Palmer's Knowledge, during his Residence there at that Time ?

A. I should suppose not ; but I am not certain whether he was there or no.

Q. Did you ever see the Two Ministers of the Begums ?

A. I saw them brought into Lucknow.

Q. In what Situation were they, when you saw them brought into Lucknow ?

A. They were brought in their Palanquins, attended by a Guard of Sepoys.

Q. Under whose Command were the Sepoys ?

A. That they were brought in by ?

Q. Yes.

A. I do not recollect.

Q. Were those Sepoys that brought in the Prisoners, Part of the Nabob's Army, or were they any British Troops ?

A. To the best of my Recollection, they were detached from a Regiment then stationed at Fyzabad.

Q. In whose Service was that Regiment ?

A. In the Company's.

Q. Were they at large afterwards at Lucknow, or closely imprisoned, and how ?

A. They were confined in a detached House, with a Guard, and in a Garden.

Q. What other Circumstance do you know of their having been scourged, or hardly treated ?

The Counsel for the Defendant objected to this, as a leading Question.

Q. Whether you know any Thing of their being hardly treated ?

A. I never saw them punished.

Q. Do you know of any other hard Treatment ?

A. Nor of any other hard Treatment.

Q. Did you add to your Answer, Till some Time after ?

A. I heard something about it a long while after—several Years after.

Q. Were they imprisoned in any House, near that in which you resided ?

A. They were imprisoned immediately under the Window of the House in which I resided, close to it.

Q. Did you, or did you not ever see, any Preparations made for any corporal Punishment ?

A. I saw something of a Scaffolding.

Q. For what Purpose ?

A. I heard, it was for the Purpose of tying them up.

Q. Whose Prisoners did you consider these Men to be ?

A. I considered them as Prisoners of the Resident : They were close to his House, and under an European Officer.

Q. For what Purpose were they confined, or rigorously treated, if they were so ?

A. I understand it was for the Purpose of extracting from them the Balance due from the Treasures seized at Fyzabad.

Q. Do you, or do you not know of any Balance being due from the Treasures seized at Fyzabad ?

A. I heard that there was : I do not know that there was.

Q. I have you any Knowledge of the Cause of their Imprisonment, but from what you heard?
A. None, but from what I heard.

Q. Did you hear from the Resident, the Cause of their Imprisonment?
A. No; not that I recollect; it is not, I think, likely he should have told me.

Q. What Reason have you for saying, it was unlikely the Resident should tell you?
A. I had nothing to do in the Office at that Time; consequently, it was improbable he should communicate any Thing of the Office to me.

Q. Whether, Major Palmer had frequent Access to the Resident, and to the Nabob, and to his Minister?

A. I do not know that he had, during Mr. Middleton's Administration; I am not sure.

Q. Had he, during Mr. Bristow's Residence?

A. Yes, to the best of my Knowledge.

Q. But what Knowledge have you of it?

A. I have seen the Attendants of the Minister waiting at Mr. Palmer's Door, when I have understood he has been with him.

Q. During the Time you were in the Resident's Office, do you know, whether all Mr. Hastings's Correspondence was regularly entered?

A. I have heard there were some Things which were not.

Q. Do you know of any Reason, why it was not?

A. No.

Q. Did you hear any Orders for its not being entered?

A. No.

Q. Do you recollect seeing any Letters yourself, not regularly entered, that were transmitted to the Resident's Office from the Government at Calcutta?

A. I do recollect seeing one.

Q. State the Purport of any Passage, you recollect to have been so omitted; do you remember what the Letter was?

A. I do not remember the Whole of it.

Q. Do you remember any Part of it?

A. I think I do.

Q. Do you know, whom it was from?

A. I cannot be certain; I think it was a Letter from the Governor.

Q. Do you know Mr. Hastings's Hand Writing?

A. I do not; I believe I could tell his Signature, but not his Hand Writing.

The Witness was shewn a Letter dated 30th June 1783, and asked,

Q. Had this Letter his Signature?

A. I do not know that it had or had not.

Q. Why do you call it a Letter from the Governor then?

A. Because I understood it so.

Q. Why did you understand it so?

A. I was told so.

Q. Was you told so by the Resident?

A. No.

Q. Did you see that Letter?

A. I am not certain whether I saw the original Letter, or whether it was a Copy of it.

Q. Was it an official Copy, if you saw the Copy?

A. It was in the Office.

Q. Was it, or not, in the Books of the Office; was it transcribed according to the Forms of the Office?

A. No, it was not transcribed in the Books.

Q. State the Passage you recollect?

The Counsel for the Defendant submitted, that the Managers for the Commons were not at Liberty to suggest any Passage of a Letter to the Witness, particularly under under the Circumstances stated by the Witnesses, that he does not know whether it was an official Paper, or whether it was signed by the Defendant.

The Managers for the Commons were informed, that unless they could bring the Letter home to Mr. Hastings, it was no Evidence.

The Managers for the Commons observed, that the very Passage might ascertain who the Writer was.

The Counsel for the Defendant insisted, that the Writer could not be so ascertained.

The Managers for the Commons said, they would waive the Question for the present.

Then the Witness was asked,

Q. Whether you saw a Letter of Intelligence from Fyzabad containing a Relation of the Treatment of the Women in the Khôurd Mahl?

A. Yes I did, and translated it.

Q. From whom did it come?

A. Hoolais Roy.

Q. Who was he?

A. An Agent of the Resident at Fyzabad, employed for the Purpose of transmitting Information to the Resident.

Q. Was that Paper transmitted to Mr. Hastings?

A. To the best of my Recollection, it was transmitted to the Board after I had attested it.

Q. What was the general Effect upon the Country, from the Seizure of the Begums Treasures and the Imprisonment of the Ministers: what Sensations did it occasion?

A. I cannot tell what Sensations it occasioned.

Q. Do you know of any Effects actually produced by it?

A. None.

Q. In what Respect did it affect the Nabob's Character, and how?

A. I have heard, from one or two Persons, that it rendered him odious.

Q. What was the general Condition of the Police at Lucknow?

A. In a very miserable Condition; very wretched indeed.

Q. What Sort of Establishment is that Police?

A. There is a Man who has the Management of it, who is called a Cutwall.

Q. What Officers are under him; what Patroles; what is the Nature of the Establishment?

A. I believe he has a Body of Country Sepoys.

Q. What Number of Sepoys?

A. I do not know.

Q. In what Manner does this Cutwall exercise his Office?

A. In a very bad Manner.

Q. What do you mean by exercising it in a bad Manner?

A. Because Robberies are frequently committed.

Q. Do you impute that, to the Negligence of the Cutwall, or to the Insufficiency of the Institution?

A. To both.

Q. Was there any Thing else in the Behaviour of the Cutwall, besides mere Negligence?

A. I have heard, he was an Accomplice in the Robberies.

Here the Witness was shewn a Paper, and asked by the Managers for the Commons,

Q. Do you know that Hand Writing?

A. I do not.

Q. Look at the Hand Writing in the Margin.

A. I cannot swear positively to that in the Margin.

Q. Whose Hand Writing do you take it to be?

A. I think it is Mr. Bristow's.

Q. Have you seen him write ?

A. Yes frequently ; I have had many Letters from him.

Q. And you believe that to be his Hand Writing ?

A. Yes.

Q. If you think that is Mr. Bristow's Hand Writing, do you think that these Corrections and Observations were authorized by him ?

The House acquainted the Managers for the Commons, that as yet the House was not informed what they were. If made Evidence, the House would hear them.

Q. In what Condition were the Nabob's Troops when you were at Lucknow, I mean, distinguished from the Company's Troops ?

A. In a very bad Condition.

Q. Describe what you mean by a very bad Condition : do you speak of their Appearance, or Drefs, or in what ?

A. I mean, they were very badly clothed, and in general without much Discipline.

Q. Do you know of any Instances of the Nabob's Guard rising at any Time upon the Nabob himself, in a mutinous Manner ?

A. No, not whilst I was there.

Q. To what do you attribute the bad Cloathing and poor State of the Nabob's Troops ?

A. I apprehend to the Want of Pay and to the Want of Cloathing.

Q. To what was the Want of Cloathing owing ?

A. I cannot say ; I suppose, to the Want of being regularly supplied.

Q. What Circumstances of their ill Cloathing do you recollect, to shew that they were ill clothed ?

A. I recollect seeing some of the Cavalry very badly clothed indeed.

Q. Specify, as far as your Memory goes, the Deficiencies in the Cloathing which you had occasion to observe ?

A. Some were with one Sleeve of a Coat, others with a Bit of Cloth sewed on to a Shirt : The Cavalry I am speaking of.

Q. Was this extensive amongst the Cavalry ; how many had he ?

A. I never saw above Two Corps of Cavalry.

Q. What is the Number of each Corps ?

A. Both together make about Four hundred.

Q. What Proportion of these Four hundred were so clothed ?

A. The greater Part ; nearly all of them.

Q. Did you proceed with the Nabob from Lucknow to join Mr. Hastings at Chunar in September 1781 ?

A. I did.

Q. Were these Cavalry attending in the March ?

A. I cannot positively say ;—a great many attended, but whether these Corps of which I am now speaking attended, I cannot say.

Q. Was the Appearance of that Cavalry who did attend him, in the bad Way you have described ?

A. They were of a different Kind ; they had not European Cloaths, nor European Accoutrements.

Q. Whether a Sum of Money would not have been highly acceptable to the Nabob to pay or cloath these Troops at that Time ?

A. I should apprehend it would, whether he had Troops or not.

Q. But the Question means ; whether it was peculiarly necessary ; whether the cloathing his Troops would not have made it peculiarly acceptable to him ?

A. I suppose it would.

Q. Have you any Knowledge of Mr. Middleton having advanced to the Nabob a Sum of Money at that Period, previous to his joining Mr. Hastings at Chunar ?

A. I know nothing of it.

Q. From your Observations and Knowledge of his Circumstances, did you consider the Nabob as in a Condition to make a considerable Present to any Person ?

A. I have no Knowledge upon the Subject.

Q. You have mentioned hitherto the ill Pay of his Troops and the bad Condition of their Cloathing, did you look upon him therefore to be in a Condition to make a great Present?

A. I cannot say, whether he had a large Sum of Money in his Possession or not.

Q. Do you believe, if he had had a large Sum or any Sum of Money in his Possession, he would have applied it to the Cloathing and Pay of his own Troops, his own Body Guard?

A. I should suppose he would for his own Credit.

Q. Whether you know any thing of the Nabob giving Mr. Hastings any Present, and what, immediately upon his Arrival at Chunar?

A. I do not know of any.

Then the Managers for the Commons stated, that the Witnesses had authenticated the Hand-writing of Mr. Bristow in the Margin of a Paper that had been shewn him, and in Order to authenticate the Paper itself, it was necessary it should be read to the Witnesses?

The Counsel for the Defendant objected to the Paper being read, till it had been authenticated by the Witnesses, or otherwise.

The Managers for the Commons were asked, if this was not the Paper of which the Witnesses had said, he knew the Hand Writing in a Marginal Note of it to be the Hand Writing of Mr. Bristow, but that he knew nothing of the Hand Writing of the Paper itself.

The Managers for the Commons observed, that the Witnesses had said a Paper had been received from Hoolahs Roy, which he translated in the Resident's Office: That they wished to ascertain whether this was not that Paper, and to do it, it was necessary for the Witnesses to hear or read the Paper.

The Paper was shewn to the Witnesses; and he was asked,

Q. Do you know whether that was the Paper you translated? Is that the Paper which came from Hoolahs Roy?

A. To the best of my Recollection it is—the original Paper was given to me by the Resident to translate.

Q. Was that Paper transmitted to Calcutta?

A. I don't know whether or no the Original was, but I understand my Translation was, because it was sent to me to attest after having translated it; which Process it would not have undergone, had it not been intended to be transmitted to Calcutta.

Then the Managers for the Commons were heard in Support of the above mentioned Point.

Then the Witnesses was asked,

Q. Whether that Paper now shewn to you is, or is not, a Translation of a Paper of Intelligence transmitted from Fyzabad to Lucknow?

A. I think it is.

Q. Do you say, also, you think it was transmitted to Calcutta?

The House observed, That that could be proved by the Records of the Company.

The Managers for the Commons made Answer, That they should prove it from the Records of the Company, but they wished to strengthen the Evidence by authenticating this as an official Translation of the Paper.

Q. Whether you know of any Allowance made to the British Gentlemen out of the Revenue of the Nabob of Oude?

A. I do;—by the Resident.

Q. Do you know, or have you any Reason to believe, or form a Judgement whether the Resident would have made those Allowances, without the Knowledge or Consent of Mr. Hastings?

A. I do not believe he would, without the Knowledge and Consent of the Government at Calcutta.

Q. Do you know of any Authority for these Allowances by any Body, and whom, posterior to the Treaty of Chunar?

A. What Authority?

Q. You

Q. You have said there were Allowances made to English Gentlemen by the Resident at Oude?

A. Yes?

Q. Do you know of any Authority, posterior to the Treaty of Chunar, by which those Allowances were so made?

A. I do not.

Q. I desire to know who paid you your Allowance?

A. The Resident.

Q. Was that Allowance settled before, or after the Treaty of Chunar?

A. From the Date of the Treaty of Chunar I received it.

Q. Have you any Reason to know that was in Consequence of a Regulation; or do you know of any Regulation made upon the Subject?

A. The Resident told me it had been settled. As nearly as I can recollect, "that the Vizier had settled that Allowance upon us."

Q. To what Amount?

A. Two thousand Rupees a Month.

Q. From your Knowledge who did the Allowance come from; was it from the British Revenue, or the Nabob?

A. From the Resident, out of the Nabob's Revenue.

Q. Could the Resident make you that Allowance, without having the Authority of Mr. Hastings? Do you know whether he did make it by the Authority of the English Government or not; or from his own Head?

A. I do not know that he made it by the Authority of the English Government positively, nor do I know he did not.

Q. Did the Resident, from any Conversation he held with you, make you understand it was settled at Chunar?

A. That Impression was left upon my Mind when he told me it was settled at Chunar.

Q. Would the Nabob, as far as you had Occasion to observe or know, have made any Allowance to any English Gentleman without the Approval of the Government of Bengal, or of Mr. Hastings?

A. I do not believe I could have obtained a Rupee without.

Q. Did you hear of any other great Allowances made, besides those paid to the Resident's Office?

A. I have heard of other Allowances.

Q. Have you heard of any Allowance to Sir Eyre Coote?

A. I have.

Q. Have you heard of any Allowance to Dr. Thomas?

A. I have.

Q. That it was a great Allowance?

A. Yes; that it was a great Allowance.

Q. Have you heard that there was any Allowance to Dr. Murcheson?

The Counsel for the Defendant objected to the Question being asked in the Form put by the Manager for the Commons; and that it ought to be asked what Allowances were made; not whether an Allowance was made to such a One by Name.

Q. Do you recollect what Allowances you have heard were made?

A. I have heard, as I said before, of an Allowance to Sir Eyre Coote, which was Fifteen thousand Rupees a Month; of One to Dr. Thomas, the precise Sum I do not know; and of One to Dr. Murcheson, the precise Amount of which I am also ignorant of.

Q. Have you heard of any other?

A. I cannot charge my Memory with any.

Q. Whether Dr. Murcheson had any, and what Emoluments, besides what he received by those Allowances?

A. He had an Allowance from the Company.

Q. I except the Company; I am not enquiring of the Company. Had he any other Emolument besides that from the Nabob?

A. None from the Nabob, that I know of.

Q. Had

Q. Had he from the Resident ?

A. I have heard of his having an Emolument from a Corps to which he was Paymaster.

Q. As a Paymaster ?

A. As a Paymaster.

Q. But no farther ?

A. Not that I know of.

Q. Do you recollect any Thing concerning a Memorial or Representation by the Nabob of Bahadre, the Brother of Afoph ul Dowlah, the reigning Nabob, being presented to Mr. Bristow ?

A. Yes, I do.

Q. What was the Subject of it ?

The Counsel for the Defendant objected to the Witness speaking to the Contents of a Memorial in Writing.

Q. What is become of that Memorial ?

A. That Memorial was given me to translate in the same Manner as the other Paper I have mentioned ; which I did : It was afterwards attested, and I believe it was sent to Calcutta.

The Managers for the Commons stated, that they had the Representation, which would undoubtedly appear in its Time ; but as the Defendant denied having ever heard of any Part of the Transaction, they meant to prove every Circumstance relative to it.

The Counsel for the Defendant insisted, that it was not competent to the Managers for the Commons to examine the Witness to the Contents of a written Paper.

Then the Witness was asked,

Q. Whether there was any Difference, in point of Time, between the Date of the Paper being translated, and its being put into the Office ?

A. Much about the same Time, if not the same Day.

The Managers for the Commons stated, that they meant to support the written Paper by the verbal Testimony of the Witness at the Bar ; but as it would put him to Inconvenience to detain him till the Paper could be produced, they should proceed with their Examination, and waive this Question for the present.

Q. The Witness has said, he translated the Memorial ; I would ask whether the Translation was correct and proper ?

A. Yes.

Q. And it was transmitted to Bengal as such ?

A. Yes.

Q. And it is now among the Papers of Bengal ?

A. Yes.

Q. Whether, during your Residency at Lucknow, the Condition of the Inhabitants of that Place was in perfect Security as to their Lives and Property ?

A. I think not ; not in a State of Security.

Q. Whether you know of any, and what Instance, that served to mark that State of Insecurity you have imputed to Lucknow ?

A. I know of several Robberies that were committed, very daring ones ; also of Murders.

Q. Mention such as you know yourself.

A. I was twice robbed myself.

Q. What Knowledge had you of the Murders ; do you know any thing of them, otherwise than from Report and Rumour : Did you see the Body, or any Thing of that Sort ?

A. I did not see the Body.

Q. What do you know of them ?

A. There was a Robbery committed whilst I was at Supper in the Resident's Garden ; it was committed by a numerous Band of very atrocious Robbers : They came with Torches in their Hands, and cut down several People ; and afterwards plundered the House of a Banker, to the Amount of 24,000 Rupees, close to the House of a Gentleman at the Bottom of the Resident's Garden.

Q. I desire to know whether Justice was done upon these Delinquents?

A. I do not know that they were discovered?

Q. Whether you know of any Diligence being used to bring them to Justice?

A. I recollect Mr. Bristow complaining of the Impossibility of bringing them to Punishment from the Want of Power.

Q. From your Observation of what passed at the Court of the Nabob, how did that affect the Police of that City?

A. I do not understand the Question.

Q. Whether the Nabob's Household behaved orderly, or how otherwise?

A. They did not behave orderly, so far as I heard.

Q. Did their Disorders require the Assistance of a Magistrate to controul them?

A. Most undoubtedly, from the Depredations they were supposed to have committed.

Q. Whether, if Magistrates had been duly appointed, according to the Constitution of the Place, they would have been sufficient to have controuled these Disorders?

A. I suppose they would.

Q. Do you know of any Attempt made under Mr. Hastings's Recommendation to establish such an Officer?

A. I understand there was.

Q. Was any Body, and who, appointed to the Office?

A. A Person of the Name of Moolevy Mowbein.

Q. Do you know any Thing of the Character and Qualification of Moolevy Mowbein?

A. I understood him to be of a very excellent Character, a very good Man, and very well qualified for that Place.

Q. Did you take him to be incorrupt, or otherwise?

A. I understood he was very much so: Very incorrupt, and a very honest Man.

Q. Do you know whether he was ostensibly admitted by Hyder Beg Cawn?

A. I understood he was ostensibly admitted by Hyder Beg Cawn.

Q. Was he properly supported in his Office, so as to enable him to do his Duty?

A. I understood not.

Q. Did Hyder Beg Cawn give him any Support?

A. I understood he gave him no Support; upon the contrary, he opposed him.

Q. Is it your Opinion that if Mr. Hastings would have supported Mr. Bristow in the Nomination recommended by himself, Hyder Beg Cawn would have dared to have opposed him?

A. I should suppose that Hyder Beg Cawn would not have dared to oppose him, if the Government had taken the Means in their Power to support the Magistrate.

Q. Whether, according to your Observation of the State of that Country, it did not particularly call for the Establishment of Magistrates according to Law?

A. I think it did.

Q. (Cross examined.) What Age was you when you went to Lucknow?

A. Fifteen or Sixteen.

Q. I understand the Witness to have gone up the Country in 1778 or 1779?

A. In 1779.

Q. In 1779, you were of the Age of Fifteen or Sixteen?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you recollect what Age you were, when you went to Goruckpore?

A. I cannot precisely recollect what Age I was when I went to Goruckpore.

Q. How soon was it after you went up the Country of Oude?

A. It was after Sir Eyre Coote left Oude.

Q. What Year was that, do you recollect?

A. I think it was in 1780.

Q. Then you must have been between Sixteen and Seventeen?

A. I fancy somewhere thereabouts.

Q. Did you make a longer Stay in either of the Provinces of Baraitch, or Goruckpore than Seven Months?

A. No longer.

Q. You

Q. You said the Country appeared to be in a worse State than it had been ; I wish to understand whether you saw any particular Marks of the former Cultivation that had been discontinued ?

A. I don't recollect to have said that.

Q. It is understood, and if there is any Doubt about it, you will explain it, that when you went to Goruckpore and Baraitch you had observed it was less populous ; that there were some Marks of Distress in that Country, and that it was in a worse Condition than you understood it from Report to be, before you went there

A. Yes.

Q. Then the Question is, what Signs of that Distress you had observed there ?

A. I observed it was not so populous as other Parts of India I was in.

Q. Whether you saw any Signs that Parts of the Country, which had been cultivated and inhabited before, were uncultivated and deserted ?

A. I think I did.

Q. In what Part, and which of those Provinces in particular ?

A. I saw Two or Three very capital Towns, with the Houses which had been inhabited by former Rajahs or Princes : These, at the Time I saw them, were uninhabited ; and the Towns had fewer Persons in them than they appeared originally to have contained.

Q. What were the Names of those Towns ?

A. The Two Towns I mean, were Barampore and Ghouda.

Q. Are not the Districts of Baraitch and Goruckpore the Frontier Districts of the Province of Oude ?

A. They are.

Q. Do you know any Thing of Insurrections and other Causes of Depopulation which prevailed in those Two Districts ?

A. I have already stated, that it afforded an Asylum for fugitive Zemindars.

Q. In Answer to a Question, what the Character of those People were, you said they were refractory, and imputed it to that ; do you impute the Want of Cultivation and Population that you observed to the same Cause ?

A. I impute it in some Measure to the Distress of the Country.

Q. I wish to know from the Witness, whether he does not know those Distresses were owing to the Incursions made by those refractory fugitive Zemindars ?

A. I do.

Q. Were there any particular Zemindars about 1780 or 1781 who distressed that Country ?

A. I have forgot their Names. I recollect hearing of One or Two.

Q. Was Zalmin Sing One ?

A. I do not recollect their Names.

Q. The Towns that you observed to be abandoned, did they appear to have been long or recently abandoned ?

A. They were not in very bad Repair ; and whether they were abandoned for a Length of Time or very little, I cannot pretend to say.

Q. Did they appear, or could you collect from your Observation from what you saw in these Towns, Whether they had or not been abandoned before the Year 1775.

A. I do not know. I cannot tell.

Q. Do you, or do you not know, Whether the Native Zemindars had behaved in a Manner more refractory than other Zemindars ?

A. No ; I do not.

Q. Do you know whether the Revenues of these Two Districts had ever been collected without considerable Rigour ?

A. I know nothing about the former Mode of collecting it.

Q. Do you know whether, in Cases of Claims for Arrears of Revenue in Baraitch and Goruckpore, there were any Courts to which they could resort to compel Payment ?

A. No.

Q. Do you know of any Court in which the Collectors of the public Revenue can, by the regular Process of such Court, compel Payment ?

A. None.

Q. Whether, from November to July, the Inhabitants of that Part do not continue in the open Air all Night ?

A. The greater Part of them sleep in the open Air of Choice all Night.

Q. You

Q. You have stated Two Modes of collecting; One by the Kistbundy, which is according to a regular Rate; the other the Aumanney, which is discretionary: I wish you to explain what you mean by the Aumanney, and whether it is not a certain Proportion of the growing Crop?

A. Do you mean, a Demand made according to a certain Proportion of the growing Crop?

Q. Whether in the Assessment of the discretionary Rate by the Aumanney, any Proportion is observed between the Sum demanded and the growing Crop of that Year?

A. I do not know.

Q. Do you know whether the same Mode, or a similar Mode of Collection, obtains in the Two Provinces of Bahar and Oude?

A. I believe they do.

Q. Do you know whether it obtains likewise in the Province of Bengal?

A. I do not know.

Q. When you speak of a similar Manner, do you mean that there is a double Mode of Collection—One by the Kistbundy, which I understand to be regular; and One by Discretion, called the Aumanney—Whether the same Practice prevails in Bahar and Oude?

A. Yes, to the best of my Memory.

Q. Do you know, whether the Instances of Rigour used in Colonel Hannay's Time, came at any Time to Mr. Hastings's Knowledge?

A. I do not.

Q. Whether you know Major McDonald, Captain David Williams, and Captain Gordon?

A. I do.

Q. What is the Character of those Gentlemen for Veracity?

A. I never heard it impeached.

Q. Were those Gentlemen stationed in the Province of Goruckpore in September 1781?

A. I think they were.

Q. You was stationed there in the Months of August, September, and October, 1781?

A. No; I was there in the Spring.

Q. Then, they who were there in the latter Months, had a better Opportunity of knowing than you?

A. I believe they had; they were employed in the Collections, and consequently had.

Q. Do you remember at what Distance of Time, after the Receipt of the Intelligence respecting the Distresses of the Khood Mahl, that Paper was transmitted to Calcutta?

A. I cannot say.

Q. Do you believe it was transmitted within Ten Months after the Time it was received?

A. I understood it to be a Letter received just before it was transmitted.

Q. Then you understand it was transmitted as soon as received?

A. Yes, in the Course of Three Days.

Q. Can you bring to your Mind the Time at which the Translation was made?

A. To the best of my Recollection, it was in January 1784.

Q. Whether the Distresses that had been complained of had ceased for above a Twelvemonth before the Distresses of the Khood Mahl?

A. I understood they were new Distresses.

Q. Then you state, that that Account transmitted in 1784, was, as you understand, an Account of new Distresses?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you know, whether there was not a specific Assignment for the Maintenance of those Women in the Country of Sultanpore?

A. I know that they had large Parcels of Land allotted for their Support and Maintenance.

Q. Were they separate Assignments from the Begums Jaghire?

A. I do not know.

Q. Does the Witness know the Distance of a Place called Taundy from Fyzabad upon the Banks of the Gogra?

A. I am not certain, I think about Forty Miles.

Q. Do you know whether Tannda is within one of the Begums Jaghires?

A. Yes, it is.

Q. At

A. I was at Calcutta.

Q. Was you there from the 15th of August to the End of September?

A. I cannot speak to Dates; but I went with the Vizier from Lucknow to Chunar, and from thence I proceeded to Calcutta.

Q. How far is Lucknow from Barraitch and Goruckpore?

A. About Eighty Miles.

Q. The Witness has stated, that a Letter of the 15th of September 1782, from the Vizier to the Governor General at Calcutta, complaining of Colonel Hannay, was sent to the Government; do you know when Colonel Hannay died?

A. I think in 1784; I cannot tell.

Q. Where did he die?

A. In Calcutta.

Q. When was the Letter transmitted?

A. I do not know. I did not say I had transmitted it, or that I knew it was transmitted.

Q. Whether you have any Knowledge of the Opposition; or whether there was any Opposition to the Courts of Justice by any Body?

A. I understand that Hyder Beg Cawn opposed them.

Q. Have you any Knowledge of your own, of the Manner in which he opposed them?

A. I heard it was, because he would not give them a Court to sit in; that was one.

Q. Was there any other?

A. I do not know of any other.

Q. Whether you know of any Act of Opposition upon the Part of Hyder Beg?

A. I do not know of any.

Q. What Station had Moolevy Mobein been in before he was appointed to the Magistracy, the Duggah Adawlut?

A. I heard he was originally appointed upon a former Occasion to the same Office; but I think they said he refused to accept of it, and that, subsequently, for Subsistence, he kept a School.

Q. Was he a Schoolmaster at the Time he was appointed?

A. I believe he was.

Q. By keeping a School, do you mean, an inferior Situation; or was it a considerable One in the Place?

A. Rather an inconsiderable One, I should imagine.

Q. But have you any Knowledge of that?

A. I have seen the School in the Street.

Q. The Witness said, he heard it was usual for the Resident to interfere with the Nabob's Government, and that he heard of an Instance. Can you specify the Instance in which the Resident intermeddled in the Nabob's Government?

A. In the Appointment of an Aumil.

Q. How did he interfere?

A. Against the Concurrence of Hyder Beg Cawn.

Q. Whether it is not usual throughout the Dominions of the Vizier to collect the Revenue by Means of a Military Force?

A. In many Parts it is.

Q. Is there any Part of the Dominions of the Vizier in which a Military Force is not employed for that Purpose?

A. I do not know that there is.

Q. Whether the Force employed in the Collection of the Revenue, being a Military Force, is not commanded by Military Officers?

A. Not by Military Officers in general, but many of the Aumils, though not Military Men, have Corps employed in the Collection of the Revenue.

Q. You mean many Persons, themselves not Military, have Corps under their Command for the Purpose of collecting the Revenue?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you ever see a written Copy of the Aumanny?

A. None.

Q. What Knowledge then have you of it?

A. Merely Report.

Q. You said the Collection was higher at One Period and lower at another ; did you state that, from mere Report, or from certain Documents ?

A. From mere Report.

Q. Do you know whether Major Palmer was in the Country of Oude at the Time the Insurrection in Baraitch and Goruckpore broke out ?

A. I do not know precisely the Time when the Insurrection broke out, for I was absent at the Time.

Q. Do you know whether Major Palmer was there in the Month of January 1782 ?

A. I cannot charge my Memory ; I cannot precisely tell whether he was, or was not ; I was at Calcutta in the Beginning of the Year 1782.

Q. Whether Colonel Hannay was not dismissed by the Vizier himself ?

A. I have heard he was.

Q. Do you know the Period of that Dismissal ?

A. I do not.

Q. Can you state at what Time, within a few Months ?

A. I cannot, for I did not hear till some Time afterwards.

Q. Do you know of his being re-appointed, after being dismissed by the Vizier in 1782, or whenever it was ?

A. He never was re-appointed.

Q. Was he never re-appointed ?

A. Not to my Knowledge : I heard he was dismissed and re-appointed. I do not mean that he was dismissed at the Time that he left the Country, but previous to it.

Q. So that you have heard that he had been dismissed and re-appointed ?

A. I have heard that he had been dismissed and re-appointed.

Q. Can you bring it to your Memory, at what Time he had been dismissed before he came out of the Country ?

A. I cannot ; it was some Time after that I heard it.

Q. Do you know of any Ground that would have prevented the Vizier, Hyder Beg, or any other Part of the Government of Oude, from complaining to the Government of Bengal, if there were Occasion ?

A. None ; I should think he might very easily have complained, if he chose it.

Q. Whether Dr. Thomas was not the Surgeon and particular Favourite of Sujah ul Dowlah ?

A. He was his Surgeon and particular Favourite.

Q. Do you know any Thing of his being a Favourite, or of his Allowance, except from Hearsay ?

A. I have heard him say so myself. He had a particular Disorder, in consequence of which he wrote to Mr. Hastings to send him up, and he was sent up to Oude at the particular Request of Sujah ul Dowlah.

Q. When did you leave India ?

A. I left India the latter End of November 1786.

Q. Do you know when Mr. Hastings left India ?

A. I think he left it in the preceding Season.

Q. Do you know whether Hyder Beg continued in the Service of the Vizier, as his Minister, down to the Time you left India ?

A. I have heard he continued, and is now the Minister.

Q. Do you know whether Mr. Hastings's Power was looked upon to be considerable in England and India, after he had left India ?

A. I do not know for certain ; I have heard so.

Q. Was not such an Opinion common ?

A. Whether it was common or not, I cannot pretend to say ; I have heard such a Thing.

Q. Did you ever hear to the contrary ?

A. Never, that I know of : It is possible I might have heard, but I really cannot charge my Memory.

Q. Whether, from your Observation, you think the Vizier could hope to make an effectual Complaint against any Person supported by Mr. Hastings ?

A. My Observation does not justify an Answer, one Way or the other.

Q. Whether you do not know that Colonel Hannay was re-appointed by the Direction of Mr. Hastings, after he was dismissed by the Nabob ?

A. I may have heard so ; I very likely did hear so.

Q. Whether

Q. Whether you have not heard that Major Osborne was appointed by Mr. Hastings?

A. I understood that Major Osborne had a Command of a Corps belonging to the Vizier.

Q. Whether that Appointment was by the Recommendation of Mr. Hastings?

A. I have heard Mr. Hastings was a Friend of his; but I do not know whether he was appointed by the Recommendation of Mr. Hastings, or not.

Q. Was Major Osborne concerned in the Collection of the Revenue?

A. Not to my Knowledge.

Q. Did you never hear of it?

A. I have heard of it.

Q. Did you hear Complaints were made?

A. I heard there were. An Aumil of Illiabad made a Complaint against him.

Q. Did you hear of any Enquiry made into that Complaint?

A. Never that I know of. It is possible I may have heard of it; but I cannot charge my Memory.

Q. Then you do not know that any Enquiry was made into it?

A. No.

Q. Whether when the Vizier swore by the Prophet he would fly from his Dominions in case Colonel Hannay was sent back, you consider that Phrase of the Vizier as a Complaint?

A. I do.

Q. Whether the Appointment of Moolevy Mobein was considered by the Natives as a Degradation of the Office?

A. I should apprehend not.

Q. What was the Estimation Moolevy Mobein stood in amongst the Natives?

A. Very respectable, by those I heard speak of him.

Q. It has been said he was a Schoolmaster: I would ask, whether the Men of the Law were not obliged to resort to other Employments to get their Bread in that Country, while there were no legal Courts?

A. Yes, I should suppose they might.

Q. Whether Moolevy Mobein had not been appointed, in Mr. Middleton's Time, to the same Office by Mr. Middleton?

A. I have heard that he was.

The Managers for the Commons stated, that they wished to establish the Fact of a Paper, upon the Records of the Company, having passed through the Resident's Office, purporting to be a Narrative of a Conversation between Mr. Bristow and Hyder Beg Cawn, on the First of May 1783; and read a Passage therefrom.

Then the Paper was shewn to the Witness; and he was asked,

Q. Do you remember such a Paper as this?

A. No, I do not remember any such Paper.

Q. (by Counsel.) I would wish the Witness to be asked, whether Colonel Hannay was sent back to the Country of Oude, after the Letter of Complaint was written?

Q. What is the Date?

A. The 15th of September 1782.

Q. Had he left the Country on the 15th of September 1782?

A. I believe he had.

Q. Did he ever go back?

A. Not to my Knowledge.

Q. Do you know any thing of the Circulation of the Copies of the Articles of Impeachment in India?

A. Yes; they were in general Circulation.

Q. Do you know when Colonel Hannay died?

A. I cannot bring that to my Recollection at all.

Q. Are the Revenues that are collected upon the Kistbundy, collected without a Military Force?

A. Many of them are, if the Country happens not to be in a turbulent State.

Q. Whether the Punishments which you speak of, so inflicted by Colonel Hannay, by Imprisonment in the Way you mentioned, were severe beyond the usual Punishments inflicted in other Places, and by other Collectors?

A. I

A. I do not think they were, if the Demand were justifiable. They are Punishments which are used in many Parts of India: I mean, Imprisonment and Corporal Punishment.

Q. Were there any Instances of particular Severity under Colonel Hannay's Administration?

A. None, that I know of.

Q. Had Colonel Hannay any Office, Authority, or Employment under the Vizier's Government, except that of collecting the Revenues in the Two Districts of Baraitch and Goruckpore?

A. I believe he had every Authority in the Country.

Q. Had he any other Office?

A. I don't know that he had any other Office.

Q. What Kind of Authority do you allude to, when you say, Every other Authority?

A. Every other Authority.

Q. Was that beyond the Two Districts of Baraitch and Goruckpore?

A. No.

Q. But in Baraitch and Goruckpore?

A. Yes.

Q. I understood the Witness to say, he had an official Authority for the Collection of the Revenues: I understand him now to say, he had Influence. I want to know, whether he had any other official Authority than that of Collector?

A. None, that I know of, except to command the Troops.

Q. I understood the Witness to have said, that Colonel Hannay told him he had set Guards to prevent Emigrations, and threatened Punishments to them that sold their Children: I understood him to have said so; if not, I should be glad the Witness would set me right?

A. I do not recollect saying any such Thing: I recollect having said, upon a Complaint made to Colonel Hannay, that many People made a Practice of selling their Children;—that he had threatened to punish them if they would not forbear that Practice?

Q. (from a Lord.) I understood the Witness, (he will set me right if I am wrong), that he saw some Guard at the Bank of the Gogra, and that he heard Guards were placed to prevent Emigrations?

A. I recollect hearing that.

Q. Whether Colonel Hannay took upon him to place Chokies upon the Banks of the Gogra, or any other Places, to prevent Emigration, by virtue of his Authority as Collector; or how did he assume it?

A. I should suppose he had done it by virtue of his Authority as Collector; but I have not said I knew positively that he did, only that I heard so.

Q. The Interference that you suppose Colonel Hannay to have made Use of, either with respect to the selling of Children, or restraining Emigration, did you understand to arise from his Office of Collector, or any other sort of Authority?

A. From his Office of Collector.

Q. Whether those Mud Forts, for the Imprisonment of Persons in the Manner you describe, were according to the ordinary Custom of the Country, or made up in a particular Manner for that Purpose?

A. They were not agreeable to the common Order of the Country.—In Bahar, those who do not pay the Revenue are generally shut up in a Gaol.—There was no Gaol in the Country of Goruckpore and Baraitch that I ever heard of, and consequently they must have some Place of Confinement. The Bamboo Pallisadoe Prisons, I understood, were merely temporary, till there should be such a Number of Mud Forts built as would be sufficient to contain the Prisoners.

Q. I understood you to say, it was the Custom of the Country to lay out of Doors, and that these Prisons were uncovered; Whether the Persons confined, the Farmers, or whoever they were, for not paying Rent, whether they were not confined in those open Forts without any Cover, for a Twelvemonth together?

A. Not to my Knowledge; I only saw them for a few Days.

Q. (by the Managers for the Commons.) As those Cages or Gaols differ from the ordinary Gaols in Bahar and the other Places, I would ask, Whether, in Bahar, there are not Courts of Justice to which it is necessary to apply, in order to imprison Persons charged with defrauding the Revenue?

A. I do not believe it is necessary for a judicial Process to imprison those who do not pay their Duties to Government.

Q. You do not believe a judicial Process requisite for those that do not pay the Revenue to Government?

A. I do not.

The Witness was directed to withdraw.

Then the House adjourned to the Chamber of Parliament

THE Lords being in their Places, the House resumed, the usual Proclamations made, and the Defendant appearing at the Bar, the Lord Chancellor acquainted the Managers for the Commons, they might proceed with their Evidence.

The Managers for the Commons stated to the House, that finding Mr. Holt was not gone so soon as he proposed, they wished to call him again, for the Purpose of asking him a few Questions, as to the Monopoly of the Resources of the Country of Oude.

Then ROBERT HOLT Esquire, was called in; and asked,

Q. Whether the Trade of Saltpetre is a considerable Branch of Trade in the Country of Oude?

A. It is.

Q. I desire to know, if that Trade is free in the Province of Oude?

A. I understand and believe, it is not free.

Q. Is it under a Monopoly?

A. I have understood it is.

Q. For whose Benefit?

A. I believe for the Benefit of the Resident.

Q. I desire to know, whether there is a considerable Manufacture of Cloths in the Country of Oude?

A. There is.

Q. Is that Trade considerable?

A. Very considerable.

Q. To what may the Export of it amount?

A. I cannot precisely say; but I have heard, to the Amount of several Lacks of Rupees.

Q. Have you heard it was One or Two or £300,000?

A. I have heard it was £200,000.

Q. The Export?

A. The Export.

Q. I desire to know, whether that Trade is free?

A. I understand it is not free; I know it is not.

Q. Is it a strict Monopoly?

A. It is.

Q. Have the Weavers a Power of working for whom they please?

A. I believe they have not. I know the Merchants are not allowed to buy or sell that Commodity.

Q. Does the Prohibition upon the Merchants to buy and sell, extend to the Home Trade, the Internal Trade, as well as to the Export Trade, of that particular Article of Cloths?

A. I am not certain; I believe it does.

Q. For whose Benefit is that Monopoly? for whose nominal Benefit?

A. For the Benefit of Mr. Scott: I believe, in some Measure, under the Orders of the Government of Calcutta.

Q. What is Mr. Scott's Situation?

A. Mr. Scott has the sole Privilege of dealing in Cloths.

Q. From whom does he derive that Privilege?

A. From the Vizier.

Q. What is his Interest with the Vizier, that he should give him a Monopoly of the principal Manufacture in his Dominions?

A. I understood it was at the Recommendation of the Government of Calcutta.

Q. Where are Mr. Scott's principal Warehouses and the Seat of his Business?

A. There is One at a Place called Tannda; another somewhere near Illiabad, where Mr. Scott resides, between Illiabad and Benares.

Q. Whether Tannda is not in, or immediately bordering upon, the Country under the Jurisdiction of the Begums near the Jaghires.

A. I really cannot positively say: It was within about Forty Miles from where the Begums resided.

Q. Do you mean Forty Miles from Fyzabad?

A. Forty Miles from Fyzabad.

Q. Did you hear it was the Phouzdarry or other Jurisdiction of Shujah Cawn?

A. I do not know.

Q. Do you know, or have you any Reason to believe, that, during the Troubles, any Attempt was made to pillage or destroy Mr. Scott's Manufacture at Tannda?

A. I was absent during the Time of the Troubles, and I never heard any Thing of it.

Q. I desire to know, in Explanation of an Answer given by the Witness Yesterday, Whether or no, when he said he had not heard the Report of the Fortune of which Colonel Hannay died possessed, spoken of by above Eight or Ten People, he meant to express that that was the Opinion of those Ten People only, or a general Report?

The House observed, that the Witness had spoken of a Report which he had heard from Ten People, and that to ask him to the Rumour of a Report was going a great Way.

The Managers for the Commons stated, That the Witness had said, he had not heard it from above Ten People; the Question therefore that they wished to ask was, Whether the Witness understood, that that was the Opinion of those Ten People only, or that the Opinion was general?

The Witness was asked,

Q. Whether he understood, from the Conversation of those Ten People, that they were reporting general Rumour, or their own Opinion?

A. They were reporting a general Rumour, and the Belief which they themselves expressed of it.

Q. (Cross examined.) I understand you to say, that you heard these Ten Persons report, at Second-hand, the Report of others: Was it Hearsay at Second-hand?

A. Yes.

Q. Whether you know or heard that Saltpetre was a Free Trade in Oude?

A. I do not know that it was.

Q. Do you know, whether Mr. Hastings was, or was not acquainted, with the Fact of this being a Monopoly, and that the Resident had the Benefit of this Monopoly?

A. I do not.

Q. The Witness has spoken to a Monopoly of the Manufacture of Cloths in the Hands of Mr. Scott; I wish to ask, Whether Mr. Scott provided them for the Benefit of the Company, or for his own private Benefit and Emolument?

A. For the Benefit of the Company.

Q. Do you know, whether he had, or had not, a regular Contract with the Company for a regular Supply of that Article?

A. I think I have heard of it.

Q. But do you know any Thing of it yourself?

A. No, I do not, any further than that he had the sole Privilege of buying and selling the Cloths.

Q. Was you ever at Illiabad or Tannda, where the Warehouses were?

A. No—never.

Q. Have you any Knowledge at all of it, but from Report?

A. I have heard a Merchant complain of his not being able to purchase Cloth; that is all the Knowledge I have.

Q. Do you know, whether the Cloth had always been a Monopoly under the Nabob's own Government?

A. I do not.

Q. Do

Q. Do you know, whether Mr. Scott paid any Duty to the Nabob's Government for his Cloths ?
A. I do not.

Q. Do you know, whether the Cloths, the Manufacture of Oude, did or not constitute a valuable Part of the Company's Investments ?

A. I have heard a very considerable Share.

Q. Do you know, whether the Manufacture was much improved and extended by Mr. Scott ?

A. I have heard the Exports were considerably increased, and were considerably increasing when I left the Country.

Q. Do you know, whether Mr. Scott obtained his Situation, with respect to the Monopoly, by the Recommendation of Mr. Hastings ?

A. No, not particularly from Mr. Hastings.

Q. Do you know any Thing of the Manner of his obtaining his Situation there ?

A. I have already said, I understood it was by the Recommendation of the Government at Calcutta.

Q. In what Manner do you know it ?

A. I have heard it.

Q. You said, you only knew the Fortune of Colonel Hannay from Rumour: I wish to ask, whether you had ever heard this Rumour respecting Colonel Hannay's Fortune, before Colonel Hannay had left the Country of Oude ?

A. I have heard he had amassed a large Fortune; but I never heard it particularly specified till subsequent to his Death, when I heard he died possessed of the Money I have already mentioned.

Q. When did you hear he had amassed a large Fortune ?

A. Some Time before his Death.

Q. (by a Lord.) Was that Complaint of the Merchant you speak of, made to you as an Officer of Government ?

A. No.

Q. Did it ever come to the Resident's Knowledge ?

A. I do not know that it did: I am not certain. Upon Recollection, I believe there was a Complaint made to the Resident by this very same Person.

Q. Who was this Person ?

A. A Mr. Graham, an European Merchant.

Q. He made this Complaint, did he ?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you know any Thing of what became of that Complaint ?

A. No; he only complained of it as a Hardship.

Q. In Conversation ?

A. In Conversation.

Q. Not formally ?

A. No.

Q. (by the Managers.) Whether you did not consider the Existence of this Monopoly of Cloth, as a Matter of public Notoriety ?

A. Very public.

Q. Whether, from your Knowledge of the Country, and of the Agents kept by Mr. Hastings, you believe this Monopoly to be a Secret to him ?

A. I think it highly probable he should have heard of it.

Q. Had he not in Oude a Variety of Agents for Intelligence, from almost all the European Merchants ?

No Answer.

Q. Do you know whether Mr. Scott was removed when the rest of the English were removed, after the Treaty of Chunar ?

A. I do not believe he ever quitted the Country, from the Time of my going there to the present Hour: He never was out of the Province of Oude.

Q. You do not know that he ever quitted the Country to the present Hour ?

A. No, except he went to Benares.

Q. (by Counsel.) Whether Mr. Scott was in the Company's Service ?

A. He was not.

Q. (from a Lord.) You have said, Mr. Scott was not in the Company's Service. I wish to know, whether I understood you right when you said he had a Monopoly for the Service of the Company; How do you explain that? You first said, that Mr. Scott had a Contract from the Company; you have now said he is not in the Company's Service. What do you mean by the Service of the Company?

A. I mean that he is not a covenanted Servant, the same as myself.

Q. Did you understand he had a Monopoly, so as to be responsible to the Company for all the Profits of that Monopoly, or that he contracted with the Company so as to make a Profit of it for his own Use?

A. I did not so understand it.

Q. How did you understand it?

A. That he was accountable to Government for every Thing he received in Consequence of the Monopoly.

Q. Do you know whether he had a Contract with the Company; or do you know in what Manner he was accountable for the Produce of the Monopoly to the Company?

A. The Way I understood it was this: Mr. Scott was recommended to the Vizier as a Person to have the entire Charge of the Cloth Manufactory: That he was to be allowed the sole and exclusive Trade in it; and that it was considered as an Advantage to the Company, by his being able to supply the Cloths for the Investments of the Company. That is precisely my Idea of it.

Q. Do you know any Thing of the Matter?

A. I know nothing more than what I have stated.

Q. But as you understand it, he seems to have a Contract with the Company, to deal with him for what they wanted. Was he paid as an Agent for them? What Profit was there to be got by it, but the exclusive Privilege of selling to the Company?

A. I should suppose there was a great deal of Profit that he might derive from the exclusive Privilege of selling to the Company.

Q. Then he was not paid as Agent to the Company?

A. I know nothing of the Matter.

Q. (by a Lord.) Whether the Treasure belonging to Colonel Hannay, was not found in his Chest by his Executors after his Death?

A. I do not know that it was.

Q. Was it Part of the Report that it was so found?

A. It was.

Q. Was it not a general Report?

A. I have heard so.

Q. (from a Lord.) The Witness has stated, that Mr. Palmer came up, during Mr. Bristow's Residency, to Lucknow; and that he considered him as a secret Agent to Mr. Hastings; I wish the Witness to explain, what he meant by a Secret Agent of Mr. Hastings?

A. I only mean, that he had not the Authority of the Government.

Q. That he was not employed by the Government?

A. That he was not employed by the Government.

Q. Do you know any Thing of his being an Agent at all for Mr. Hastings?

A. I know nothing, but from those in the Office.

Q. Was he an Agent for Public or Private Affairs?

A. Not for Public Affairs, only Private.

Q. (from a Lord.) You have stated that Mr. Scott was accountable to the Company for the whole Produce of the Monopoly; and you have also stated, that you suppose he must have had a considerable Profit, as being the sole Dealer in Cloth; now, I wish to understand how this Profit arose to Mr. Scott, whether by a fixed Salary, or by Agency, or how?

A. It was merely an Opinion I formed—I do not speak of it as a Matter of Fact.

Q. What was it you spoke of then, as to his Profits?

A. I was asked, Whether I supposed there was any Emolument annexed to that Privilege of dealing in Cloth? To which I answered, Undoubtedly there were Profits, because there might be more Cloths than were necessary for the Use of the Company's Investments; the rest he would make Use of for his own Profit.

The Witness was directed to withdraw.

Then

Then the Managers for the Commons acquainted the House, that the particular Circumstances of the Witness just examined having induced them to call him so early, had in some Measure deranged the Plan of Evidence they had laid down; but that they should now begin upon the Method they had originally intended, and which, for the future, they meant to pursue; for this Purpose they desired a Paper already delivered in to the House, namely, the Defence of Mr. Hastings delivered in at the Bar of the House of Commons, might be read.

Read, beginning at Page 210 of the same, as follows (a).

" Preface to the Fourth Charge.

" Before I proceed to reply to the Charges respecting my Conduct to the Begums, and on the Affairs of Oude, I must observe that they contain Particulars of which I was totally ignorant until I read them in the Charges. I am therefore very much indebted to the Assistance of Mr. Middleton, and to the Information of Gentlemen who were in Oude when the Transactions alluded to happened. By these Aids, I have been enabled to reply fully to these Charges; and every Assertion in my Reply is capable of Proof, either by Documents now before this Honourable House, or by Evidence ready to be produced at its Bar. For the Conveniency of this Honourable House, I shall reply to these Charges, not as they are numbered, but as the Subjects are connected. First, " The Princesses of Oude;" Second, " Misdemeanors in Oude;" Third, " Destruction of the Rajah of Sahlonge;" and Fourth, " Furruckabad."

" Charge the Fourth.

" PRINCESSES of OUDE.

" It is certainly not true, that the Nabob of Oude was ever under the Controul of the Bengal Government, in the Extent stated in this Charge. That the Resident, who represented the Council General, had an Influence at his Court, cannot be disputed; but it is notorious that the Acts of the Nabob's Government were, on various Occasions, remonstrated against, and ineffectually opposed by the Resident, as may be seen by the publick Correspondence of Messrs. Middleton and Britton. It cannot, therefore, be admitted, that " the English Name and Character were concerned in every Act of his Government, or in any not authorized by them."

" Allowing it to be true, that the Country of Oude was in a flourishing State before our Interference, surely I cannot be chargeable with the Evils resulting from the System we established, since I gave all the Opposition I could to the first Introduction of it. The System was undoubtedly very defective, and generally prejudicial to the Nabob's Affairs, inasmuch as it necessarily established a Degree of Interference in his Government, undefined by any precise Rule; which, however discreetly used, would not fail to weaken his Authority, and in many Cases to be productive of all the Evils consequent on a divided Government. The Resident, for Instance, though officially competent to no positive Act of his own, found himself, on some Occasions, driven to the Necessity even of opposing the Execution of the Nabob's Orders to the Officers of his own Government, as the only Means of defending the Securities made over to him for the public Claims of the Company; for however willing his Excellency may have been to grant Assignments for the Liquidation of his Debt, he was never very scrupulous of infringing them, when pressed by other importunate Creditors, but has frequently granted Tuncaws upon Aumils, whole Revenue, to its utmost Amount, he well knew had been previously assigned over to the Company. In such Cases the Resident, though invested with no ostensible Authority, would have failed in his Duty, had he not resisted, and exerted every Means in his Power to maintain his Priority of Claim, however conscious he might be that in so doing he weakened the Authority of the Nabob in the Eyes of his Aumils and Subjects in general. This Conduct of the Nabob forced the Resident into a Competition with his Authority, and exhausted the Revenues of the assigned Lands, by giving new Drafts, with new Powers, on what was already pledged to its utmost Extent, which may have been One Source of the Decline of the Nabob's Country, since our Connection with it; but more obvious ones may certainly be traced, in the great and constant Drain of Specie from the Nabob's into the Company's Provinces; in the Supineness and Inactivity of his Excellency's Administration; and, lastly, in the Calamity of Three successive Years Drought, which, if we may judge from the fatal Experience of a single Year's Failure of the natural Rains in our own Provinces, would have left them an entire Waste, without Cultivation or Inhabitants. The Estimate of the Revenues of Oude at the present Nabob's Accession to the Government, as given in this Charge, is fallacious; for, from the Year 1777, when I re appointed my own Agent to the Nabob's Court, the Revenue never amounted to any Thing like the Sum stated, even if the Revenues of Benares were included. Two millions Sterling would have been much nearer the Reality. The Revenue never was equal to the enormous Burthen of the Two English Brigades, with the progressive Liquidation of the accumulated heavy Balance, and the ineffectual Endeavour to realize such Claim, from the common Resources of the Country, was ever a Source of the greatest Embarrassment and Distress to the Nabob's Affairs. The Balance on the annual Tuncaws or Assignments was always considerable, but never greater than it was at the Time of Mr. Bristow's first Removal, and Mr. Middleton's Appointment to the Court of Oude, the Beginning of 1777, nor the Confusion in the Country more serious or alarming, as may be proved by the public Correspondence of that Period. But neither shall I, nor the Resident of my Choice, be chargeable with any of the Evils antecedent to that Time, as the whole Powers of Government were lodged in other Hands.

"The most rigorous Means were adopted, and even Threats of Military Execution resorted to in the Time of the late Resident, Mr. Bristow, in the Year 1776, to exact the Payment then made by the Begum; nor would any softer Methods have availed, as she declared "she would sooner throw her Treasures and Jewels into the River, than advance the Nabob a single Rupee." Her Jewels, Cloaths, and Household Utensils, were permitted to be taken in Default of Ready Money Payments, and converted to the Company's Use by public Auction in Calcutta, without any Disapprobation having been signified by the Council General, either of the Principle on which the Claim had been made on the Begum, or the Mode of enforcing it. All Delicacy was necessarily laid aside; and it became "now a Question, whether the Nabob", as Mr. Bristow stated, "should seize his Right, or suffer a Lack of Souls to perish, and the Sovereignty of these Provinces to be transferred to another Family." The Board, so far from disapproving this Doctrine of Mr. Bristow, that Two of the Members, Colonel Monson and Mr. Francis, recorded their Opinion, "That the Begum who succeeded to the Treasures, should pay "all the Sums due to the Company," and Mr. Francis expressed his Astonishment, that the Begum, "in a Country where Women are not allowed a free Agency in the most trifling domestic Concerns," should, as the Condition of yielding up those Treasures, claim an Interference in the Nabob's Government, and "presume to talk of appointing Ministers, and governing Kingdoms." The concluding Words of Mr. Francis are very strong. "With respect to receiving her into the Provinces, I shall have no Objection, provided she can obtain the Nabob's Consent; without that, she can have no Right to remove the immense Wealth she possesses, or even her own Person, out of his Dominions." These were the Opinions of Two leading Members of the Council at that Time, on the Claim set up by the Nabob, and the independant Rights of the Begum; and yet there was then no Accusation against her of notorious Disaffection and Conspiracy. "The Treasures she possessed," Mr. Bristow said, "were the Treasures of the State, as she had not succeeded to them by any legal Title;" the Nabob was, therefore, strictly justified in demanding them; and if there was any Thing in the whole Proceeding which did not accord with the Sentiments of People in general, it was the Part we officiously took to prevent the Nabob's recovering the Whole of his Patrimonial Estate from those who fraudulently withheld it from him. He was charged with the Whole of his Father's Debts; his Life was repeatedly endangered by the Insurrections of his Troops, who had been left many Months in Arrears; and he was moreover divested by us of a valuable Part of his Dominions; and yet we prevented him from availing himself, as he had undoubted Right to do, of the Means which were left him of satisfying those Debts; the Whole of which had been incurred in the Accumulation of the very Wealth he was now contending for.

"It is not true that the Begums were left in Charge of the late Nabob's Treasures, or other valuable Effects, for the Purposes set forth in the Charge of maintaining his Offspring and Dependants; the old Begum, the Mother of Shujah ul Dowlah, is entirely out of the Question, having had no Presents entrusted to her Care, but she became possessed of them in her Capacity of Trustee and Treasurer of the Deceased, who, for some Time before his Death, "deposited the Surplus of his Revenues with the Bow Begum, to provide against an Emergency." Hence the Whole of his Property, of what Sort soever, was in her Custody at the Time of his Death, but still as a Deposit, though from the Hands of his Mother; for they were the Rights of the State which she had in Charge.—But I must repeat, that I disapprove, and still condemn the Interference of our Resident; because we had no Concern in it, and our Credit suffered in the Opinions of Mankind, from the natural Disgust which would be excited by a Contention between a Son and his Mother, and by our Appearance as Incendiaries, instead of Conciliators in it: But no Man could ever assert or believe that it was therefore her own. It was undoubtedly a constituent Part of the hereditary Estate, which devolved to the Nabob Asfoph ul Dowlah on his Father's Demise, and as such ought to have been wholly delivered up to him; but the Begum refused to give up any Thing, until coercive Measures were threatened, and then she consented only to the Payment of Thirty, out of One hundred and seventy Lacks, which Mr. Bristow declared, that, on the most moderate Computation, she possessed; and making a Merit even of this Condescension, she was suffered to demand, and actually to exact, from the Nabob, an Encrease of Jagheers to Ten Times the Amount of the Income which had been settled upon the old Begum by her deceased Son, Shujah ul Dowlah, for the Maintenance of herself, and the numerous Family and Dependants of her late Husband, Sufdur Jung. The Agreement thus entered into between the Nabob and his Mother was ratified by Mr. Bristow, without any Authority; but "as the Urgency of the Case rendered it necessary, the Board approved the Ratification." The Board, I have said, approved of it, and I was a Member of the Board, but I was an inefficient Member of it; the Whole of this Transaction having passed under the Order and Guidance of the Majority of the Board, which excluded me from any Share in their Acts, equally in such as I approved, and in such as I disapproved. It will appear, from the preceding Reasoning, that I approved of the Nabob's Assertion of his own Right to re-claim the Treasures of his Inheritance.

Bond's Letter to the Court of Directors.

" It is not true that the Women and Children of the late Nabob were left, or intended to be left, dependant on the Bow Begum. They were separately provided for; and though, from the Failure of the Funds assigned for their Maintenance, they were too often subjected to great Inconvenience, they never experienced any Acts of Benevolence from the Begum, beyond an occasional Donation of a few Rupees to the Children, when she condescended, which was indeed very seldom, to permit them to wait upon her. Neither is it true, that the Jagheers were left the Begum by the late Nabob. At the Time of his Death, the Districts which afterwards constituted the Jagheer, were held by the Begum on the Footing of a Farm, under the Name and Management of Jowar Ally Cawn, with whom the Accounts of the same were annually adjusted at the Khalla. To the present Nabob, therefore, she was indebted for the principal Part of her Jagheers.

" The Treaty and Guarantee, though ratified, it would appear, by the Council only because 'the Urgency of the Case rendered it necessary;' and, though the Begum, before Six Months had elapsed, had, by Mr. Bristow's Acknowledgement, "forfeited her Claim to the Protection of the Company, by infringing the Conditions of the Treaty to which they were Guarantees," were most sacredly adhered to by me, until the Misconduct of the Begums and their Dependants, on the Occasion of the Insurrection at Benares, would have made it an Act of the greatest Injustice in the Company to themselves to continue their Protection: The Guarantee was then withdrawn, and the Nabob was permitted to renew and prosecute his Claim to his Inheritance. Previous to that Period the Resident, by my Orders, on all Occasions employed the utmost Influence of his Station, to guard the Begums assumed Privileges from Invasion; and in various Instances, as will appear from his publick Correspondence, did oppose, almost by Violence, the Designs of the Nabob, where they were hostile or offensive to the Begum. He repeatedly went to Fayzabad, purposely to mediate between the Nabob and his Mother, and reconcile mutual Animosities; which, on one Side, were perpetually excited by the Jealousy and interested Views of the Two principal Eunuchs, Jowar and Bahar Ally Cawn; and in every other Instance whatsoever, he invariably shewed that Attention and Respect to the Begum, which was due to her from the near Relation she bore to our Ally. This the Bow Begum herself admitted, observing, in her Letter to Mr. Bristow, "That the Nabob, her Son, had once before threatened to seize her Jagheer, but Mr. Middleton interfered, and prevented it;" and there is not the Shadow of Doubt, that but for this Interposition, his Excellency would long before not only have seized her Jagheers, but have wrested from her the Treasures she unjustly withheld from him.

" The Nabob was permitted to resume the Jagheers, because they were found highly prejudicial to the Revenue of the State, and he granted, to such as were entitled to that Indulgence, Stipends in Money equivalent to the net Produce of their Lands. The Begums were expressly provided for, and the Payments were to be made them, not at the Discretion of the Nabob, but from the Company's Treasury under Charge of the Resident. Where then was the pretended Injury, since the Begums were regularly to receive, according to their own Statement, to the utmost Amount of what they ever realized from their Jagheers? This Proposal was repeatedly made to them in Writing, and fully explained to their Agents, by the Nabob, his Ministers, and the Resident, but was answered with the grossest Indecency and Abuse, and the most violent Denunciation of Vengeance on the whole Country, in case their Jagheers were touched." With respect to the other Jagheerdars, excepting only the Nabob Salar Jung, and a very few others, they were generally the meanest and most contemptible of the Nabob's Subjects, and in no Shape deserving of his Bounty. They were, in short, his Orderlies, and other Persons of that Stamp, the Companions of his looser Hours. The personal Influence of these Men, which was very powerful, was naturally exerted to defeat a Design which so materially affected their Interests, and not without considerable Efficacy, as appeared by the Nabob's subsequent Conduct when the Measure of Resumption came to be carried into Execution. It was on their Account only that any Difficulties were started, and could these Men have been exempted, his Excellency would most certainly have made no Hesitation about the Rest; but it would indeed have been a Disgrace to the Influence which we were supposed to have acquired in his Government, to have suffered a partial Distinction in favour of such unworthy Objects.

" No Injury was intended, or could possibly arise, to the Begums, from the Resumption of the Jagheers; they were found destructive of the Nabob's Revenue, and dangerous to the very Existence of his Government; they had been made the Sources to feed a Rebellion. It was necessary therefore to resume them; and the only Change which the Begums Situation could undergo from it, was the Substitution of the Nabob's Agency, with the pledged Security of the Company's Resident, in lieu of that of their Eunuchs Jowar and Bahar Ally Cawn. No Stipulation was made in Favour of any other Jagheerdars, because the Faith of the Company was not concerned in it.

" The Two distinct Acts, of resuming the Jagheers, and seizing the Treasures, are confounded, and improperly made to originate from one and the same Cause, viz. the Detection of the Begums in the Insurrection at Benares. At the Time that the Resumption of the Jagheers was resolved on, the Conduct of the Begums, though strongly suspected, was not sufficiently ascertained to justify the depriving them of Jagheers held under the Pledge of the Company, without an Equivalent; and accordingly a full Compensation was stipulated. Their Conduct, in openly and most violently opposing, by armed Force, the Nabob's Orders for the Resumption of the Jagheers, though they were

were not to be Losers by it; their exciting their Agents and other Jagheerdars to unite in forcible Resistance; and, lastly, the subsequent Information which was obtained of their Zeal and Activity in supporting the Rebellion of Rajah ~~Cheit~~ Sing, and spreading its Consequences through the Nabob's Dominions, for the declared Purpose of our Extirpation, were the Grounds of withdrawing the Company's Guarantee, and of the consequent Confiscation of their Treasures. Admitting the Facts alledged in the Resident's Correspondence, and confirmed by the solemn Testimony of so many Witnesses, both Native and European, and of the latter many, (fortunately for my Honour), are in England, who could be no Ways interested in the Issue, no Man surely can dispute the Propriety of this Measure, whether its Justice or Policy be made the Criterion of judging it; most assuredly, no unprejudiced Man in the Country, whether Native or European, ever entertained a Doubt of the Begums having been extremely active in promoting the Insurrection at Benares, and in the Nabob's Country: It remains, therefore, for Justice to decide, whether in so doing they did or did not forfeit their Claim to the Protection of the Company, by which alone they had hitherto maintained whatever they possessed.

" When the Nabob so earnestly desired my Sanction for the Resumption of the Jagheers, he certainly had in View only the Begums and a few others of Magnitude, which he considered protected, either by the Guarantee or Favour of the Company. He could not be supposed to ask my Sanction to the Resumption of Grants, in which the Company's Faith was no Ways concerned; but, being aware that his Excellency intended a partial Resumption, reserving the Jagheers of his particular Favourites, who from their Characters and Conduct ought to be the first proscribed, I determined to defeat the Design, by advising him to make the Resumption general; and he engaged to follow my Advice. The Consequence of this his Excellency did not at the Time advert to; but when he discovered that, by the Spirit of the Agreement, and my determined Adherence to it, he was precluded from shewing any Partiality, and moreover that the Produce of the Jagheers, when resumed, instead of coming immediately into his Possession, was to be appropriated to the Liquidation of his Debt to the Company, for which I expressly stipulated, he became indifferent, and even apparently averse to the Resumption. He was also, as I have already remarked, greatly influenced by the inflammatory Suggestions of Incendiaries and Personal Favourites about him, who counteracted my Designs in all my Proceedings with his Excellency, by dissuading him from a Measure by which their Interests would be so much affected. To those who are personally acquainted with the Nabob, it will not appear extraordinary that all these Causes, combining and operating upon his Mind, should have drawn him into Inconsistencies of Conduct, which to others may seem irreconcilable.

" It is not true that Sir Elijah Impey was at Lucknow when I communicated my Sentiments through him to the Resident, respecting the Begum's Treasures. Sir Elijah was with me at Chunar, and the Resident did avail himself on this and other Occasions of that Gentleman's Presence and confidential Intercourse with me, to ascertain my Wishes on certain Points, which the Multiplicity and Importance of the Business which I was then engaged in prevented my communicating so fully by Letter.

" The English Troops were not employed at Fayzabad until the Nabob formally demanded their Aid, in consequence of hostile Preparations to resist his Claim upon the Begum for his deceased Father's Treasures, which he deemed his own Force unable to repel. The Eunuchs were seized, not for the Purpose of extorting Money, as assumed in the Charge, but as the Agents and principal Instruments of exciting the Insurrections before alluded to, and for actual Rebellion.—The Nabob had declared his firm Intention, by Letters to myself and the Resident, long before he went to Fayzabad, of seizing and severely punishing the Two Eunuchs of his Mother, not only for their shameful and insidious Conduct during the Troubles at Benares, but for their long and unremitted Treachery, particularly to himself, in seeking every Occasion of embroiling him with both his Parents, and openly insulting his Authority; a Conduct they had invariably pursued from the Death of the late Nabob his Father. " They have preserved (says Mr. Bristow, in his " Letter of the 25th January 1776) a total Independence of the Nabob's Authority, beat the " Officers of his Government, and refused Obedience to his Perwannahs." Their Persons were accordingly seized on the Nabob's Arrival at Fayzabad, and secured under a strict Guard of the Company's Troops, the Nabob not thinking it prudent or safe to trust them in the Custody of his own Sepoys, whilst surrounded with such large Parties of their armed Men assembled in the Neighbourhood, who had declared themselves equal to any Contest with his Excellency's Force, and determined on a desperate Resistance, had the Attack upon them at Fayzabad been made by his Strength alone. So confident indeed was the Begum in her own Strength, under her Two Commanders, Jowar and Bahar Ally Cawn, that she did on all Occasions profess to hold the Troops of the State in the utmost Contempt, and opposed them without Ceremony. " Do " not you," says she to Mr. Bristow, " take any Part in the Affair, and then let Asoph ul Dow-* Sic in Orig. " lah and Murteza Cawn (the Nabob and his Minister) in whatever Manner they are able, * to take " Sums of Money from me—they will then see the Consequences."

" Upon a Review and due Consideration of the Situation of Affairs at Fayzabad, it appearing that these Two Eunuchs were capable of affording the Nabob the most effectual Assistance in the Recovery of his Claims on the Begum, and that in Fact there was very little Probability of succeeding without their Aid, it was deemed good Policy to tempt them with Assurances of a Mitigation of their Punishment,

Punishment, in Proportion as they might exert themselves in the Business. They, in consequence, promised every Assistance in their Power, and charged themselves with the whole Claim, which, after a tedious Negotiation, was compromised at Sixty Lacks. On the Strength of this Engagement the Eunuchs were permitted, in Custody however of a sufficient Guard, to return to their Habitations in the Town, for the declared Purpose of acquitting themselves of their Obligation, which they owned they could accomplish in Three Days; they, however, broke this Engagement, and were guilty of such Equivocation, Falsehood, and Evasion, produced probably by their Intercourse with the Begums, as rendered it necessary, in the Judgment of the Nabob and his Ministers, to recur to rigorous Treatment as the only Means of bringing them to an immediate Adjustment, which it was well known, from their Situation with the Begums, was within their Reach. The conditional Obligation of their Compromise with the Vizier was, that they should procure the immediate Payment of his Claim upon the Begums, and in Return they were promised Lenity: They wilfully broke the Terms of the Agreement, and it was therefore justifiable to replace them in the Situation in which they would have stood, had no such Compromise taken Place; and they had added to their other Offences the recent Violation of a solemn written Obligation; but upon their again giving the strongest Assurances of satisfying the Nabob's Claim, a new Agreement, under the Sanction of the Begum, was entered into, in which they were allowed One Month, considerably more than they had even asked, to pay up the Balance, and they were in consequence freed from their Restraints, the Nabob returning to his Capital, leaving an Agent of his own with a proper Guard to conclude the Business. It very soon, however, appeared, that this Agreement was meant only to amuse and carry the Nabob from Fayzabad; for at the Expiration of the limited Time very little had been paid, and only idle, fallacious, and insulting Pretences, with renewed Promises, offered in Excuse for the Failure. Could then the Nabob, who knew that these Men had the Means of satisfying his Demand in One Hour, be blamed for again directing Recourse to Severities, as the last and only Resort? There could be no Doubt of the Ability of the Parties to comply with the Demand; for, notwithstanding the Pretences which were used after the Delivery of the Sum obviously deposited with Bahar Ally Cawn for the Purpose of concealing the secret Hoard in the Begum's own Charge, and the poor Expedient of delivering Jewels and Effects to impress a Belief of her having yielded up all, there is every Reason to suppose, from the best Informations that could be obtained from the Ministers, and others conversant in the late Nabob's Affairs, confirmed by the Testimony of Mr. Bristow, who says, "it is generally believed the Begum has Four Crores in her Possession; but I fancy I may venture to say she has One Crore and Seventy Lacks," that the Claim now made upon her did not amount to One-third of the actual Wealth in her Possession. The Circumstance of her yielding up Jewels, Plate, &c. declaring herself possessed of no other Means of satisfying the Demands, will not appear deserving of Attention, when it is remembered that the same pitiful Expedients, and the same Stories of Poverty and Wretchedness, were practised on a former and similar Occasion. The Nabob's Right was uncontroversible, and the Exigency of his Affairs, with his own and the Company's Troops, who were dependant on his Resources, almost in a State of general Mutiny for their Pay (our Troops Six Months in Arrear) strongly compelling him to assert it (setting aside the Treachery of the Begums and their Agents, and the Political Danger of leaving them with such powerful Means of extending their pernicious Influence) it must rest with this Honourable House to decide the Question, whether it was allowable, "when the Nabob was reduced to such Distress, that his Mother should uselessly keep up immense Treasures," declared to be the Treasures of the State; or how far he was warranted in directing the Course he did, no other being practicable to obtain his lawful Demands.

"In respect to the Eunuchs, it may suffice further to say, that to those who were acquainted with their Conduct during the Rebellion of Benares, and subsequently on the Occasion of resuming the Jagheers, when they marched their Troops in every Direction, for the avowed Purpose of resisting the Nabob's Orders, and in the most unreserved Manner encouraged others to follow their Example, the Treatment they met with cannot appear harsh or undeservedly severe; on the contrary, it was the general Opinion that they merited even Death, and Death probably would have been the immediate Portion, at least of Bahar Ally Cawn, had the Nabob been left uninfluenced to the Gratification of his own well-grounded Resentment.

"I have conducted the Narration of the preceding Detail to its Close, without chusing to interrupt it, or disturb the Attention of my Honourable Hearers by the concluding Observation, which I now think it necessary to make upon it; because I hold the whole Series of the Acts thus connected strictly reconcileable to Justice, Honour, and good Policy, whoever were the Parties concerned in them: But I must at the same Time affirm, that these Acts, whether right or wrong, are not mine, though originating from me, in my Consent yielded to the Nabob at his special Instance, that he should reclaim the Treasures kept back from him by his Mother, and the Jagheers from all the Jagheerdars, and from my subsequent Claim, which I avow to have been most peremptory, that my Consent to a Measure liable to such a Variety of Constructions should not be perverted to an Instrument of private Compromise, or the Consistency of my Character forfeited by its being withdrawn after such rigorous and public Denunciations of it. My last Orders therefore, for its Execution, is all that I am answerable for. The rest depended upon the Instruments which were employed in it, and so little on myself, that I was ignorant of the whole Mode of its Execution, till it was done; and so far as I am concerned in it, the whole Board were equally concerned and unanimous.

“ Upon the Letters of Colonel Hannay and Captain Gordon, quoted by the Bow Begum in Proof of her Innocence of the Conduct imputed to her and her Servants, it is only necessary to observe that they were written at a Time, and under the Impression of the Begums having it very much in their Power to contribute to the Safety, or possibly to the Destruction of Colonel Hannay's Detachment, then in a very precarious Situation in the Neighbourhood of Fayzabad, and at a Time too when our Affairs at Benares were supposed by those Officers to wear an unfavourable Aspect. The Colonel's First Object was to procure Safety for the Person of Captain Gordon, who was at the Mercy of the Begums and their Eunuchs; and for this Purpose he thought no Means so likely to succeed, as declaring an implicit Reliance on their Friendship and Good Faith, and affecting to consider himself under Obligations to them. Captain Gordon, however, most probably owed his Salvation to another Influence: Soon after he fell into their Hands, by the treacherous Conduct of Bahar Ally Cawn's Naib and adopted Son, at Tanda, the News of some successful Operations of our Troops at Benares reached the Begums, and as Affairs began to promise a speedy and decisive Issue in our Favour, it is not surprizing that the Begums and their Agents should endeavour by Acts of Kindness to efface the Impression which they must have been sensible their Conduct had made to their Discredit. This was the Explanation given by Colonel Hannay to Mr. Middleton of the Motives of his Conduct to the Begums at that Period; and the Letters alluded to cannot possibly bear any other Construction, without an Imputation on the Veracity and moral Character of the late Colonel Hannay, which his Reputation and general Conduct in Life will not warrant.

“ The Testimony of Colonel Hannay cannot now be had, but his Explanation to Mr. Middleton of the Motives of his Conduct to the Begums and their Agents at that critical Conjunction of his own and the National Affairs, that Gentleman will be ready at any Time to certify on Oath; and the Evidence of Captain Gordon may possibly throw further Light upon the Subject.”

The Managers for the Commons stated, they thought it very material the several Defences of Mr. Hastings to this Article of the Charge, should appear at Length upon the Minutes; and requested the House to observe, that no Attempt was made, upon the Cross Examination of Major Scott on Wednesday last, to prove that any Parts of the Defence just read, were written by other Persons, so as to be disavowed by Mr. Hastings: On the contrary, they should prove it was admitted by him; that it was revised and corrected by him; and that he avowed the Whole of it to be his Defence.

They would next proceed, therefore, to read the Paper which they called, The Second Defence, delivered in to the House on Wednesday last.

The same was read (a).

Then the Managers for the Commons informed the House, there was not a single true Statement, in any of the Answers to this Article, which went to the Justification of the Defendant; and this they should prove presently, from the Evidence of the Defendant himself.

1st Head of Evidence.

They then stated, That, for the Sake of Elucidation, they should give a short Title or Description of the different Heads of Evidence, as they proposed to call them; and, First, they should submit to the House, what they conceived to be Proof of the high Rank and Title of the Begums, and of the Circumstances which constituted their Claim of Right to the Treasures; and also general Evidence of the high Veneration in which Women in India are held; which they considered as very material in support of the Article now under Consideration.

Whereupon they desired Mr. Brietzke to be called in, to prove a Letter from Sir Elijah Impey to the Secretary of State.

Accordingly Mr. BRIETZKE was called; and being sworn, was asked,

Q. Have you got a Letter from Sir Elijah Impey to Lord Rochford, dated 26th March, 1779, from Fort William?

A. Yes.

The Counsel for the Defendant stated, That, for the Sake of Regularity, they must object to the Production of this Letter in this Stage of the Proceeding, it being necessary, in order to entitle the Managers for the Commons to read the Contents of it, that it should first be made Evidence. That as to the Facts in it, Sir Elijah Impey was in England, and could speak to them, if the Managers thought fit to call him.

The Managers for the Commons observed, That they certainly might examine Sir Elijah Impey upon the Contents of the Letter if they thought fit; but they conceived this to be the best possible Evidence that could be produced; and if the Counsel for the Defendant chose to call Sir Elijah Impey afterwards, they might cross examine him to it.

The Counsel for the Defendant said, They relied upon their Objection.

The Managers for the Commons replied, That when an official Letter was written on a different Occasion, containing Matter of Opinion, not immediately relating to the Trial, but upon a collateral Point, they conceived that Letter to be better Evidence of such Matter than the Testimony of the Party, viva voce;—that they wished to read the Letter in question, not with a View to the Guilt or Innocence of the Party accused, but to prove a Custom in India; the Application of which Custom they should afterwards endeavour to make good.

The Counsel for the Defendant persisted in their Objection.

The Managers for the Commons were asked, if they pressed the Point of this Letter being read?

The Managers for the Commons made Answer, that it was a great Object with them to be tenacious of a Principle of this Kind; but in order to save Time, they would waive it for the present, reserving to themselves their Right to read the said Letter in future, if they should think fit; and that they would now call Sir Elijah Impey to prove the Contents of it.

The Counsel for the Defendant still objected.

The Managers for the Commons were informed, that the Objection taken was this; That whatever the Contents of the Letter were, whether matter of Custom or an individual Fact, the proper Evidence of them was the Writer of the Letter, and not the Letter itself: A Letter without Oath being no better Evidence than a Conversation on the same Subject.

The Managers for the Commons observed, That their Object in calling Sir Elijah Impey was to authenticate the Letter: That the Letter was not upon the East India Company's Records, but amongst the Records of the Secretary of State's Office, and kept there in rei memoriam; therefore, they should first call Sir Elijah Impey to prove that he wrote the Letter, and then deliver the Substance of the Letter in Evidence.

The Counsel for the Defendant submitted, that when the Managers for the Commons had called Sir Elijah Impey to authenticate the Letter, they would be as far from reading it as they now unquestionably were; for they could only ask him to the Facts, independant of the Letter.

The Managers for the Commons were informed, That when they had proved by Sir Elijah Impey, that he wrote the Letter, the Objection would still remain.

The Witness was directed to withdraw.

Then Mr. ROBERT HUDSON was again called in, and produced Book 6, intituled, "Bengal Letters received, from 16th May 1775, to 20th of January 1776."

Read, the following Extract of a Letter dated 18th May 1775, from the Governor General, addressed to the Court of Directors, No. 19. (Received per Northumberland, 4th April 1776.)

"You will expect, that in the Proceedings against the Begum, the strictest regard will have been paid to her Honour, and every scrupulous Attention observed which the Delicacy of the Oriental Manners prescribes with respect to her Sex, and her Rank and Character particularly demand (a).

[Signed at the End of the Letter]

Warren Hastings."

(a) Vide Appendix, N<sup>o</sup> I. It is thought proper to observe in this Place, that, it being ordered by the House, that when a Part only of any Consultation, Paper, or Document is actually read, the Whole of such Consultation, Paper, or Document, as far as the same relates to the Matter of the Evidence so actually read, should be printed in an Appendix to the Evidence upon the respective Charge on which such Extract is read; the References to the same will be by Numbers, in the Order in which such ADDENDA occur.

Read, from the same Book, the following Extract of an Address from the Governor General to the Court of Directors, dated Fort William, 31st July 1775. No. 20. (Received per Northumberland, 4th April 1776.)

“ Mr. Goring was deputed by the Board to divest the Begum of her Authority, to place it in the Hands of the Son of Nund Comar *, to receive from the Begum the Accounts of the Nabob's Expences, and to deliver them to the Gentlemen who were at the same Time appointed to examine and report them to the Board. What private Instructions he received I know not; but one of his first Acts of Authority, after having taken care to impress the Begum with a proper Idea of the Extent of his Power over her own Person, by apprizing her of the Order of the Board for her Removal from the Palace to a remote House in the City, and that the Execution of this Order depended solely on his Option, was to imprison Etwar Ally Cawn, her chief Eunuch, and confidential Servant, on the Complaint of One of the Servants of the Household, respecting a private Grievance, totally foreign from the declared Purposes of Mr. Goring's Commission.—By this Species of Torture inflicted on the Mind of a weak Woman, who had hitherto been accustomed to the gentlest Treatment and most respectful Address from all Persons, of what Rank soever, who approached her, she was compelled to deliver a Paper to Mr. Goring, containing an Account of Two Sums charged to have been paid to Mr. Middleton and myself, each amounting to 150,000 Rupees †.

[Signed, at the End of the Letter]

Warren Hastings.”

Then the Witnesses produced Book 25, intituled, “ Bengal Letters, received from 1st February 1779 to 3d March 1780.”

Read, the following Extract of a Letter, indorsed “ 1780. Revenue Department, Fort William, 29th February. Triplicate separate General Letter, dated the 25th January, and Postscript, dated the 29th January. No. 5. Received per Swallow, 28th July 1780,” from Page 245 of the same Book.

“ Letter from the Board at Calcutta to the Court of Directors, dated Fort William, 25th January 1780.

“ Par. 29. To those who are acquainted with this Country and the Character of its Natives, it is well known that among the stubborn and immutable Usages of a People, who by an unheard of Policy are thus attempted to be dragged within the Pale of our Laws, there are not any that are so intimately blended with their Natures, so interwoven with their very Existence, and a Force upon which were therefore so likely to drive them to Desperation, as those which regard their Women; a Reason for which we presume you will think with us, that Policy and Humanity should in all Situations respect them.

“ 30. And yet with equal Wonder and Alarm we have recently seen the Mandatory Process of the Court directed to a Woman of the highest Cast and Rank (the Rannee of Rajshahsee) who possesses in her own Right the first great Zemindarry in these Provinces.—You will permit us to draw your Attention for a Moment to the certain Consequences of this Proceeding, if that Management had not been employed to avoid them which we cannot hope will always succeed.

“ 31. Secluded as Women of her superior Rank are, and equally ignorant of the Language and Purpose of the Process, it were to a Certainty disobeyed. The Court adhering to its Rules a Capias follows; the Execution of which is probably committed (as in the Case that occasions this Representation) to a Band of armed Ruffians, her House is pillaged, her Temples polluted, the most secret Recesses of her Family violated, and that Sanctity of Character trampled upon, which throughout the East, even in Times of fiercest Hostility, the most barbarous Nations revere in Woman.

“ 32. Happily in this Case these Things have not all occurred; but as the indelible Dishonour of a public Exposure, and that inexpiable Pollution from the insufferable Sense of which, according to their Mode of thinking, there is no Refuge but in Death, would have followed, if the Plaintiff had not been persuaded to withdraw his Action, we state this as another of those Cases, to which we are confident that a feeling and enlightened Nation could never have intended to stretch the Authority of its Laws.

Then the Witnesses produced Book 92, intituled, "Bengal Council of Revenue Proceeding, from 20th January to 8th March 1776."

Read, the following Extract :

" The Arzees speak so clearly for themselves, they need little Comment thereon ; but we must beg Leave to observe, that we think the Peons sent by the Supreme Court to the Zemindars of Seven Annas Turnlock, have acted in a most unjustifiable Manner, not only in prohibiting his Women from Fire and Water, but particularly in entering their Apartments, which have hitherto by all Governments been held sacred. We hope, Gentlemen, such unwarrantable Behaviour will be taken Notice of by you in the Manner it deserves, as such Acts of Violence and Violation of the Hindoo Laws must tend not only to disgrace us as a National Body with the Natives, but likewise to breed a Disgust in their Minds, that may tend to the most serious Consequences (a)."

The Managers for the Commons stated, They should next produce a Letter from the Bhow Begum to Mr. Hastings, received the 20th December 1775, in which she states the Situation she was left in by Shujah ul Dowlah.

The Witnesses produced Book 78, intituled, " Bengal Secret Consultations, from 29th Nov. 1775, to 8th Jan. 1776."

Read, the following Extract, beginning at Page 423 of the said Book.

Then the Witness produced Book 90, intituled, " Bengal Publick Persian Correspondence, sent 1778; received per Ganges 24th February 1781."

Read, the following Extract of a Letter from Mr. Hastings to the Vizier, written 3d April 1778.

a Letter to the Vizier, written
3d April
1778.

" The Duty of Children towards Parents is enjoined by all Laws, and the Breach of it condemned by all Nations: This is a general Obligation, which is binding on all Mankind; but the Bhow Bhegum, exclusive of her maternal Right, has a particular Claim to your Excellency's Affection and Kindness, as you owe to her Intercessions with the late Nabob, not only your Elevation to your present Greatness, but a still more valuable Blessing.

" I need not point out to your Excellency the Example of your Father, whose whole Conduct to the Bhegums was not only marked with Kindness and Respect, but with Bounty, in the Establishment of a handsome Provision for them. It is incumbent on your Excellency to imitate him, and, by the Observation of such a Conduct as your Duty requires, to remove every unfavourable Imputation, to conciliate the good Opinion of the World, and, in short, to constitute yourself a Pattern to others.

" The Bhow Bhegum has a publick Title to my Interposition for the due Maintenance of all the Rights which she possesses, in virtue of the Treaty executed between your Excellency and her, as Mr. Bristow, at your Request, pledged the Honour of the Company for the Performance of it: I am therefore compelled not only to solicit, but to require, by Right of the Guaranty*, that you do not, either directly or indirectly, deviate from the Treaty, but fulfil it in every Instance (c)."

Then the Witness produced Book 84, intituled, " Bengal Secret Council, from 4th September to 21st October 1783."

Read, the following Extract of a Letter from Major James Brown, of the 9th of August 1783, inclosed in a Letter from Mr. Bristow to the Board, dated the 23d of August 1783.

The Honourable Warren Hastings, Governor General, President.

John Stables,

Edward Wheler Esquire, absent up the Country.

" Sir,

" I have just received your Letter of the 5th instant, with its Inclosures.

" The Evening of the 7th, at a Conference I had with Mirza Shuffee Cawn, he introduced a Subject respecting the Nabob Vizier, which however disagreeable it may be to you to know, and consequently to me to communicate, I am under the Necessity of laying before you.

" He told me that he had received Information from Lucknow, that by the Advice of Hyder Beg Cawn, the Vizier had determined to bring his Grandmother the Widow of Sufdat Jung, from Fyzabad to Lucknow, with a View of getting a further Sum of Money from her, by seizing on her Eunuchs, digging up the Apartments of her House at Fyzabad, and putting her own Person under Restraint. This he said he knew was not an Act of our Government, but the meer Advice of Hyder Beg Cawn, to which the Vizier has been induced to attend. He added, that the old Begum had resolved rather to put herself to Death, than submit to the Disgrace intended to be inflicted on her: That if such a Circumstance should happen, there is not a Man in Hindostan who will attribute the Act to the Vizier, but every one will fix the Odium on the English; who might easily, by the Influence they so largely exercise in their own Concerns there, have prevented such unnatural Conduct in the Vizier.—He therefore called on me as the English Representative in this Quarter, to inform you of this, that you may prevent a Step which will destroy all Confidence in the English Nation throughout Hindostan, and excite the bitterest Resentment in all those who by Blood are connected with the House of Sufdae Jung. He concluded by saying, that if the Vizier so little regarded his Family and personal Honour, or his natural Duty, as to wish to disgrace his Father's Mother for a Sum of Money, let him plunder her of all she has; but let them send her safe up to Delhi or Agra; and, poor as I am, I will furnish a Subsistence for her, which she shall possess with Safety and Honour, though it cannot be adequate to her Rank.'

" This, Sir, is a most exact Detail of the Conversation, as far as related to that Affair, on the Part of Mirza Shuffee Cawn. On my Part I could only say, that I imagined the Affair was misrepresented; and that I should write as he requested. Let me therefore request, that you will enable me to answer, in a more effectual Manner, any further Questions on this Subject.

" As Mirza Shuffee's Grandfather was Brother to Sufdar Jung, there can be no Doubt of what his Declaration means; and if this Measure of distressing the old Begum should be persisted in, I should not, from the State of Affairs, and the Character of the Amir ul Omrah, be surprized at some immediate and violent Resolution being adopted by him.

Then the Managers for the Commons stated, They had stronger Evidence to prove, in what Estimation the Women in India are held, according to the Manners and Customs of that Country; namely, that those who had attempted to make Laws for the Regulation of the Courts of Justice for the English Government in India, had found the Laws and Rules of Evidence, and the Mode of Process so different, that notwithstanding their extreme Attachments to our Modes, they had been obliged to bend to the Customs of India; for which Purpose they should produce a Body of Laws, by Sir Elijah Impey, for the Regulation of the Courts of Sudder Dewannee Adawlut, and from thence shew it was his Opinion, that with respect to the summoning of Persons to appear as Witnesses, an Exception should be made in the Case of Women; and though the Paragraph about to be produced was of inconsiderable Length, it was sufficiently strong to prove the Custom and Manners of that Country.

The Witness produced a Book, intituled, " Regulations for the Administration of Justice in the Courts of Dewannee Adawlut, passed in Council, the 5th July 1783. With a Bengal Translation, by Jonathan Duncan."

The Witness was asked,

Q Whether that Book was transmitted from Bengal to the Court of Directors?

A Yes.

Read, the following Extract, from Page 75 of the same Book.

" If such Parties have any Witness to produce, and for that Purpose the Courts of Mofussil Dewannee Adawlut may, on the Requisition of any Plaintiff or Defendant, or their Vakeel, issue a Summons to such Witness, as the Parties shall name, (not being a Hindoo or Mussulman Woman of a Rank or Quality which, according to the Prejudices of the Country, would make it improper to compel her to appear in an open Court of Justice), specifying at whose Request the Summons shall have issued, and requiring them to appear in the Mofussil Dewannee Adawlut, on a Day named in the Summons."

" And in case of any Witness being a Hindoo or Mussulman Woman, of a Rank or Quality which, according to the Prejudices of the Country, would make it improper to compel her to appear in an open Court of Justice, the Courts of Mofussil Dewannee Adawlut are hereby authorized to depute or commission Three credible Persons, being Women, who shall be called Dyes (such Women being first sworn to execute the said Commission faithfully and truly), to administer, either an Oath, or such Declaration as is before required from Persons of high Rank, according to the Discretion of the Judge and the Religion of the Witness; and to examine such Witness, on written Interrogatories delivered to the Persons so deputed by both Parties or their Vakeels, if both Parties shall desire to examine such Witnesses."

taking the Deposition of Hindoo or Mussulman Woman, who cannot appear in open Court.

The Managers for the Commons observed, that they proposed to shew, by the above Extracts, that the whole Course of Examination of Witnesses and Justice was entirely changed, to conform to the Customs of India, where Women were concerned.—That they would next call Sir Elijah Impey; but they thought it right to apprise the House, they were not going to examine him to the many material Points to which, in the Proceedings upon this Article, it might be necessary to call him. The Drift of their present Examination would be, to establish still more explicitly the Certainty of the Customs and Prejudices relative to Women in India—a Point, in their Opinion, very material to the right understanding of this Article of the Charge.

Whereupon, Sir ELIJAH IMPEY was called in; and, being sworn, was asked,

Q. Whether he recollected to have written a Letter to the Secretary of State on the 26th of March 1779?

A. I have had the Honour of writing several Letters to the Secretary of State: I do not recollect the particular Dates: If the Letter was shewn me, I should recollect the Substance.

Then a printed Paper was shewn to the Witnesses, who said,

A. I recollect this Letter.

Q. Whether you recollect this Passage in that Letter?

Before the Passage was read, the Counsel for the Defendant desired to know, whether the Letter was recorded upon the Consultations; if not, they should object to the Question.

The Managers for the Commons were informed, that the House understood the Letter to be a Letter to the Secretary of State, and not recorded upon the Consultations; and they supposed the Honourable Managers meant to interrogate the Witness upon the Subject Matter of that Letter.

The Managers for the Commons answered, Certainly, they did mean to examine him to the Subject Matter of that Letter.

The Counsel for the Defendant relied on their Objection, stating, that the regular Mode was, to examine the Witness to his Memory of what he knew, exclusive of the Letter, which contained only his Opinion at the Time, and that not upon Oath.

The House observed, that the Opinion of the Witness, as to any Thing he said upon a former Occasion, not upon Oath, was not in its own Nature Evidence; but that it was very easy to interrogate him to his own Memory of the Subject Matter of the Letter in Question.

Then the Witness was asked,

Q. Whether a Woman, Hindoo or Moor, if not of the Outcast of the People, can by any Treatment be provoked to apply to a Court of Justice, if she must make her personal Appearance?—Do you take the Drift of the Question?

A. I do. I have never known an Attempt made; but, from what I have understood of the Customs of the Country, I believe she could not be induced to do it.

Q. Whether an Accusation against her, if she were obliged to appear in a Court to make answer, would or would not be equivalent to a Capital Sentence against her?

A. As far as a Capital Sentence would affect her Life, I believe the Proposition to be true, that she would rather suffer Death—that she would put herself to Death, rather than be put into such a Situation. But when I say this, it is not from absolute Knowledge; it is from Reports I have had of the Customs of the Country.

Q. Whether upon those Reports, and the Ideas you conceived of the Customs of the Country from them, you have not grounded judicial Opinions and judicial Regulations?

A. Very early after my Arrival in Bengal, I wrote a Letter to the Secretary of State, in which I represented the Situation of the Women of Rank in that Country, in hopes that Regulations might have been sent from England to give them Relief. When I was afterwards appointed Judge of the Sudder Dewannee Adawlut in Bengal, I was desired to make Regulations for the Administration of Justice in that Court, and in the Courts which appealed to that Court: I then made Regulations, conformable to those Ideas which I had communicated to the Secretary of State.

Q. And those were also conformable to the Ideas you have now represented of the Customs of the Country, with respect to Women?

A. They

A. They were ruled by those Ideas. I was going on with a further Explanation: I was going to mention, that, in my judicial Capacity of Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Judicature at Fort William in Bengal, when a Woman of Rank was indicted for a Felony, I strove all I could to prevent her from being brought personally before a Court of Justice; conceiving that, if she had been put into a Situation to be brought publickly into a Court of Justice, it would have been nearly equivalent to having a Sentence passed upon her.

Q. Whether any Officers of a Court of Justice could enter the Walls of the Zenana, to recover Property claimed by any Person, or for any other Purpose, either in the English Court of Justice, or in the Courts of the Country?

A. I cannot account for what Force might do; but it would be a great Breach of Decorum, and of the Customs of the Country, to permit it; and the Supreme Court would, I have no doubt, if Complaints of that Sort had been made of their Officers, have severely punished them for the Intrusion, except they had first applied to the Court; but, during the Time that I was Chief Justice, there never was any Complaint made to the Court of any Thing of that Nature.

The Counsel for the Defendant being asked, if they had any Questions to put to the Witness, informed the House, That as they understood the Witness would be called again, they should postpone any Examination of him till that Time.

Q. (from a Lord.) The Witness has stated, the Reluctance the Women in that Country have to appear in a Court of Justice; and has said, they would rather suffer Death than so appear; I wish to understand, Whether the Witness means, so appearing in a Court of Justice, or so appearing in Publick?

A. I mean, appearing in Publick; Courts of Justice being publick.

Q. How then do they proceed against those Persons, in a criminal or civil Way; what is the Process against them?

A. I do not know whether the Question relates to the Supreme Courts, or to the Country Courts.

Q. (from a Lord.) In one, or the other, or both?

A. With respect to the Supreme Courts, I know but of One Instance of a criminal Case, which I have mentioned; there was no Distinction whatsoever as to the Process, nor were we enabled to make it: With regard to civil Suits, they were proceeded against, as all other Persons are; but it is not necessary, in civil Suits, for them to make their personal Appearance.

Q. Do you know any Thing of their Manner of Proceeding by the Laws of the Country?

A. Of that I know nothing; that is, nothing that I could speak to with Certainty.

Q. By what Means is Property, improperly detained in the Zenana, to be recovered; by what Process of Law?

A. The Process of Law in the Supreme Courts, must have been the ordinary Process; there was no other Process; and upon an Application to the Court, though they might have thought it wrong, and might have punished an Officer for entering the Zenana originally, without an Application to the Court; yet, if an Application had been made, stating to the Court, that Property was secreted in the Zenana, and was refused to be delivered up, I doubt not but the Court would have given the Officer an Authority to break it; because it would then have been the Fault of the Person herself, to elude Justice.

Q. (from a Lord.) Then I understand, after Sentence, the Zenana may be entered by the Officers of Justice?

A. I never had Occasion—There being no Complaint, it was never in my Knowledge that the Zenana was forced in any Instance.

Q. Whether in the Description you have given of the Process in Execution, you do not mean the Process of the Supreme English Court at Calcutta, and not the Process of the Country Courts?

A. I mean, the Process of the Supreme Court.

Q. Proceeding by English Laws?

A. Proceeding by the English Laws.

The Witness was directed to withdraw.

The Managers for the Commons acquainted the House, they should next proceed to produce some Historical Evidence to this Point, to shew not only the Customs with respect to the Privacy observed by Women of Rank in that Country, but also the high Authority they hold in the State, their great Power and ample Revenues, and the profound Respect and Submission of their Children, even in the Person of the reigning Prince himself, towards his Mother.

This Historical Evidence they proposed to read from, The History of the Growth and Decay of the Ottoman Empire, by Prince Demetrius Cantemir.

The Counsel for the Defendant objected, that it would be first necessary to lay some Ground for the Production of this Evidence; at least, it should be shewn, that the Laws and Customs of Constantinople were the same as those of Hindostan; and even then it might admit of considerable Doubt, whether such a History could be admitted in Evidence.

The Managers for the Commons made Answer, that the Ground they laid for the Production of this Evidence was, that wherever the Mussulman Faith prevailed, the Manners, Customs, Orders, and Constitutions, of the several Countries were, nearly, if not altogether, the same; in particular, that the Mussulman Faith enjoined the greatest possible Submission and Reverence from Children to their Parents, and more especially to their Mothers, as would appear also from the Khoran.

The House informed the Counsel for the Defendant, That the Ground on which it was contended this Evidence should be produced was, that a general History, though not Evidence of a particular Fact, was Evidence of the Customs and Manners of the Place which are the Subject Matter of such History: That it had been alleged, the Mahomedan Religion was the prevailing Religion of Indostan, and it was proposed to prove from this History, which had been stated to the House as the History of a Mahomedan Country, that the Custom insisted on was a Custom of the Mahomedan Religion.

The Counsel for the Defendant were asked, in what Manner they stated their Objection?

The Counsel for the Defendant replied, That, to make the History in Question applicable to the East Indies, it was necessary for the Managers to shew, that the Religion of Mahomed was uniform in every Country in which it prevailed. That they were ready to admit the Khoran was obligatory upon all; but if a Comment only on the Khoran were produced, they could not be bound by it. For the same Reason, a History of the Customs of Constantinople was no Evidence of the Customs and Manners of Indostan, unless it were first shewn, that the same identical Custom, there stated, prevailed also in India.

The House agreed with the Counsel for the Defendant, that a general History is no Evidence to prove a particular Fact, nor to prove a Custom in any other Country, than that to which the History particularly relates. But it was very difficult, without seeing the Passage proposed to be read, to know whether it applied. If the Passage was produced to prove a Custom, historically, of the Mahomedan Religion, as applied closely in that Manner, it was Evidence. But the next Question would be, Whether, if it were not proved that the Mahomedan Religion prevailed exactly in the same Manner in Indostan, it would be applicable in respect of that Country; however, that was rather a Question upon the Effect, than upon the Competency, of the Evidence.

The Managers for the Commons stated, that, after what had fallen from the House, they would only cite, in support of the Doctrine they contended for, The Law of Nisi Prius, Page 248. "Camden's Britannia would not be Evidence to prove a particular Custom; but a general History may be given in Evidence to prove a Matter relating to the Kingdom in general."

The Counsel for the Defendant said, Their Objection was, that Camden's Britannia was no Evidence to prove a Custom in France.

The House informed them, That if the Passage proposed to be produced went to prove an universal Custom of the Mahomedan Religion, the Managers for the Commons might read it.

Then the Managers for the Commons delivered in a Book, intituled, "The History of the Growth and Decay of the Ottoman Empire, written originally in Latin, by Demetrius Cantemir, late Prince of Moldavia: Translated into English from the Author's Author's own Manuscript, by N. Tindal, M. A. Vicar of Great Waltham in Essex."

" Annotations (36.) Sultana Mother.]

" Valide Sultana. This Name is appropriated to the Mother of the reigning Sultan, and she cannot be so called before her Son is arrived to the imperial Dignity, or after his Deposition, because none but Mahomet Fatih and Selim yauvue have happened to mount the Throne in their Father's Lifetime. The Sultans have always treated their Mothers with great Respect, in Compliance with the divine Precepts and those of the Koran. They can not only introduce and change many things at Pleasure in the Seraglio, but also the Sultan is forbid by the Laws to be with any of the Women kept there without his Mother's Consent. Every Day, during the Feast of Bairam, the Sultana-mother presents a beautiful Virgin, well educated, richly dressed, and adorned with precious Stones, for her Son's Use; and though the Vizir and the Rest of the Bashaws send, among other Things, young Virgins for Presents to the Emperor, yet he touches none of them but what is brought him by his Mother. If the Sultan has a Mind to chuse a Concubine unknown to his Mother, he may indeed do it without Opposition; but he is reckoned to have acted contrary to the Rules of the Seraglio and against his Mother's Honour. Very often the Sultan communicates to his Mother the Affairs of State, as Sultan Mahomet is known to have done; and sometimes she has Conferences with the Vizir and Mufti, under a Veil, that she may not be seen, and recommends to them Faithfulness to her Son. Whenever she is sick, the Hekim-effendi, or chief Physician, is brought into her Bedchamber, but he speaks to her through a Veil hung round her Bed; and, if he must feel her Pulse, it is through a Piece of fine Linen cast over her Arm; for it is reckoned as unlawful for any Man to see the Sultana sick, as in Health. Her Revenues consisted of above a thousand Purfes, raised out of the Provinces of the Empire, and for the collecting of them there is an Officer appointed, named Kiethudai Valide Sultan, which is a Place of great Honour. She does what she pleases with her Money; sometimes, in a case of Necessity, she lends Money to the Treasury, and at other times raises Soldiers for the publick Service, as the Mother of the present Ahmed III. is reported to have done during the War with the Muscovites."

Read, also, from Page 293 of the same Book.

" And though the Turks generally chuse to be called only, after the Names of the Prophets, yet they do not reject the Names of the Two fiercest Creatures, Arslan, Lion; and Caplan, Tyger; nay, the Sultana Mother calls her Son, notwithstanding he is Emperor, no otherwise than Arslanum, My Lion. For it is an Affront from any one, but the Sultan's Father, to call him by his proper Name. On the other Hand, the Name of Padishah, which is given him by all others, seeming to derogate from a Mother's Authority over her Son, a middle Way has been found out, and allowed only to his Mother, namely, to call him, Lion."

Then MAJOR BROWN was called in; and, being sworn, was examined as follows:

Q. Where, and in what Capacity was you, in August 1783?

A. I was the English Resident at the Court of the King Shah Allum, and at that Time we were encamped at Delhi.

Q. Was you in a Situation to have an Opportunity of judging, of the Opinion of the Court of Delhi, respecting the Conduct of the English Government?

A. Certainly, I was in a Situation to form an Opinion, of what they thought of our Government; but, at the same Time, it was not likely they should communicate that Opinion to me, considering me as the Representative of that Quarter; except in Instances where it might be favourable to us.

Q. What was the Opinion at Delhi respecting the Rank, Quality, and Character of the Princesses of Oude, or of either of them?

A. The elder Begum was looked upon as a Woman of high Rank. She was, I believe, the Daughter of Saadit Alli Cawn, who was a Person of high Rank in the Time of Mahommed Shah.

Q. Do you know, whether any Woman in all Indostan was considered of superior Rank or Birth?

A. I believe not, except those of the Royal Family.

Q. Did you write a Letter to Mr. Bristow, the Resident at Oude, relative to the Report concerning the Begums, in August 1783?

A. I think I did: I think it was on the 9th of August, I wrote a Letter, containing the Substance of a Conversation I had had with Mirza Shuffee Cawn, upon the Subject of the Begums.

Q. Who was Mirza Shuffee Cawn?

A. He was the Second Person of the Empire, and commanded the King's Army.

Q. What particularly induced you to write that Letter to Mr. Bristow?

A. I did it at Mirza Shuffee's Request: He desired me, as the English Agent in that Quarter, to write that Letter.

Q. Do you know, upon what Ground, the Reports of the intended ill Usage of the elder Begum gained such Credit with Mirza Shuffee?

A. The Intelligence he had was from his own News-writers, a Set of People employed to gain Intelligence; and the Reason why he believed it, I suppose, was in consequence of some coercive Measures being used towards her by the Vizier; he received Intelligence respecting some Measures that had been used.

Q. What Sensation did it occasion at the Court of Delhi?

A. I really don't know: I was not at the Court of Delhi at the Time these Transactions took place; they had taken place a Year before.

Q. What Sensations did you observe in the Court of Mirza Shuffee, and in the Camp, at the Time you were there?

A. I do not recollect any, except the one detailed in that Letter; I do not remember ever hearing it mentioned but upon that Occasion; the Letter expresses in Terms some Repentment; and I believe he was related in Blood to the Begum.

Q. Was you at Delhi after you wrote that Letter?

A. I was.

Q. How long did you continue there?

A. I was there from December 1783, to May 1784.

Q. Did you never, in that Period, hear of the Transactions relative to the Begums in 1781 and 1782, mentioned at Delhi?

A. I do not recollect that I did.

Q. Have you no where stated, that that Intelligence relative to the Begums, made a bad Impression at the Court of Delhi?

The Counsel for the Defendant objected to this Question being put.

Q. Do you recollect, whether it did, or not, make a bad Impression at the Court of Delhi, or you ever having entertained an Opinion to that Effect?

A. None but from the Conversation detailed in that Letter, I do not recollect any other Occasion; but, from what is mentioned in that Letter, it had made a bad Impression upon the Minds of those People to whom it was related.

Q. Have you had an Opportunity of observing the Customs of that Country, with regard to the particular Veneration and Respect paid to the Women of high Rank?

A. I have.

Q. What is your Opinion upon that Subject; what Observations have you made upon the peculiar Respect paid to Women of high Rank in that Country?

A. It is exceedingly high, and exceeding any Thing we can compare it with in our Customs.

Q. Have you had the like Opportunity of making Observations, with respect to the Affection and Duty of Children towards their Parents?

A. Yes; in the Course of the many Years I was in the Country, I had Opportunities of observing it.

Q. What was the Result of those Observations?

A. That the Respect for Parents is very high in that Country, and that it extends to all Descriptions of People.

Q. Are there any Peculiarities in the Manner of shewing that Respect, which you have had an Opportunity of observing, as the Custom of the Country?

A. Such as are manifested in all Parts of the World, only in a more extensive Degree; for you may meet with People of a very bad Character, in other Respects, that are attentive as Children in their Duty towards their Parents.

Q. From your Observations on the Manners and Customs of that Country, what Effect do you think a Threat to remove a Woman of high Rank from the Zenana would have upon her Mind?

A. I should suppose it would make an Impression equal to the highest Disgrace almost that could be inflicted upon her.

Q. Do you mean being removed in any forcible Manner, or how?

A. Being removed in a forcible and disgraceful Manner; not being removed by her own Consent, or in a Manner becoming her Rank.

Q. Whether

Q. Whether that Impression would be aggravated, if the Son was the Instrument either of the Force or Disgrace, or whatever the Cause of that Impression was?

A. No doubt it would.

Q. Had you any Reason to believe, that the Begums were engaged in any Design to extirpate the English?

A. I know no more of it than as from Report; I was not upon the Spot at the Time it happened.

Q. At Delhi, while residing there, had you any Reason to believe, that the Begums had entered into an Association for the Purpose of extirpating the English?

A. I never heard any Thing upon the Subject at the Court of Delhi; it was not the kind of Subject they would be likely to converse with me about.

Q. Was it, or was it not, Part of your publick Duty, to have informed yourself of any Circumstance that related to an hostile Alliance against the British Government?

A. Certainly, of any Thing that happened at the Time I was there; but this happened a Year and a Half before I went there, and I was not instructed to make any Enquiry into it.

Q. Whether, in any Negotiation or Treaty with any of the different Princes of the Country, any Circumstance came within your Knowledge, that indicated such a Disposition in the Begums?

A. No; I don't recollect there ever did.

Q. (By the Counsel.) The Witness has said, that he wrote a Letter upon the 9th of August to Mr. Bristow, upon the Subject of a Conversation he had with Mirza Shuffee Cawn; I wish to know, Whether he did not receive an Answer to that Letter, bearing Date the 21st of the same Month of August 1783?

A. I did.

Q. Did that Answer state, that the Report in the Conversation was entirely without Foundation?

A. It did, and he instructed me to inform Mirza Shuffee that it was groundless.

Q. (by the Managers for the Commons.) Whether, or no, the Attempt, which Mr. Bristow authorized you to deny, was not a Second Attempt of the same Kind as that made before upon the Begums?

A. It was a Second, no doubt; the other had been carried into Effect about a Year before.

Q. (by Counsel.) I only wish to ask whether it was not the Attempt which was the Subject of your Letter of the 9th of August 1783 that was contradicted by the Letter of the 21st of August 1783; was that the only one you ever wrote about?

A. Yes: It was the only One.

Q. (from a Lord.) Whether in that Conversation with Mirza Shuffee Cawn, of which you have given an Account, he did, in speaking of what I now understand clearly to be a Second Attempt, express in any Terms whatsoever any Resentment of the former Attempt?

A. He did not positively refer to a former Attempt, but he spoke of the Attempt that was then suspected in Terms of Resentment, and as a Disgrace in which he participated, as being related by Blood to the House of Suffder Jung, who was the Husband of the old Begum.

Q. Am I to understand you to say, that Mirza Shuffee Cawn expressed his Resentment of the supposed Second Attempt, in Terms that implied general Resentment of any Indignity offered to the Begum?

A. Yes; I think the Terms in which he expressed himself did imply that.

Q. The Question put to you is, whether the Terms in which he expressed his Resentment, implied a general Resentment against all Indignities that might be offered to the Begums?

A. I think they did. They are clearly recited in the Letter; I believe literally as the Conversation passed between us.

Q. What Distance is Delhi from Lucknow?

A. About 120 Miles.

Q. (by Counsel.) The Witness having spoken of an Opinion entertained at Delhi upon some Transactions he has stated, I wish him to be asked, in what Estimation at Delhi, and other Parts of India where the Witness has been, the Character of Mr. Hastings was held?

A. Mr. Hastings was considered as a Man of considerable Abilities; as a Man that had held a high Office for a Length of Time, and was respected in the Exercise of it: But doubtless Men speak more or less favourably of him, according as they have been served more or less by him; he was not universally spoken of in the same Manner, but generally in the Terms I have mentioned.

Q. (by the Managers.) Was you employed at the Court of Delhi by Mr. Hastings individually and particularly?

A. I think not: My Instructions called me his Agent, but the Agent of Government at the same Time, and in the same Paragraph; therefore I considered myself as the Agent of the Government, of which Mr. Hastings was the principal executive Member.

Q. Whether Mr. Hastings's Instructions did not authorise you, to make some particular Propositions of Importance to the King at Delhi, or to his Ministers?

A. Not any in particular: The Instructions stated that I was to make a general Profession of the Attachment of the Company to the King, and that they wished to shew it as far as lay in their Power.

Q. Did he propose any specifick Object of his Negotiations?

The Counsel for the Defendant desired to know to what Point in the Articles this Examination tended; for, as far as appeared at present, it was irrelevant to any Thing stated in them.

The Managers for the Commons stated, That they were examining the Witnesses to Mr. Hastings's Character, of which they knew he could speak very particularly.

The Managers for the Commons were informed, that, if that was their Intention, they must put a Question relative to his Character.

Q. (By the Managers.) Whether Mr. Hastings did, or did not, afterwards disavow the Object of his Instructions to you?

The Counsel for the Defendant still objected, that a General Question, respecting the Character of a Defendant, did not entitle the Party prosecuting to go into a Matter not in Charge against the Defendant, or into Proof of particular Facts.

Q. What was your Opinion, with respect to the good Faith and plain Dealing of Mr. Hastings, towards those he has employed in his political Negotiations?

A. It is a difficult Matter for me to form an Estimation of a Subject, of which I understand so little.

Q. (from a Lord.) In what Time would Intelligence be conveyed from Delhi to Lucknow, if there was any Rebellion in the Country of Oude?

A. I think the Rate at which the Post goes and comes, is the Third Day; but upon particular Emergency it may arrive the Second Day.

Q. With whom did you correspond; with Mr. Hastings, or with the Governor and Council in general?

A. With Mr. Hastings.

The Witnesses was directed to withdraw.

Then CHARLES GORING, Esquire, was called in; and being sworn, was asked,

Q. What was your Situation in India?

A. I was appointed to the Nabob's Court upon a Special Commission by the Governor and Council.

Q. At what Time?

A. On the 9th of May 1779.

Q. How long did you reside there?

A. Four Months.

Q. How long did you reside in India altogether?

A. I was in India Two different Times; I went out in the Year 1760, and remained there, I think, till the Year 1769. I went out a Second Time in the Year 1774, and remained there till the Year 1778.

Q. Whether, during your Residence at the Nabob's Court, or in any other Part of India, you had an Opportunity of observing the Manner in which the Women were treated, according to the Custom of the Country?

A. I had.

Q. Give an Account of the Observations you made upon the Manner in which the Women were treated, according to the Custom of that Country?

A. The Women of that Country live extremely retired; they do not appear at all in Publick. I had Occasion, however, to wait at different Times upon the Munny Begum, the Nabob's Mother. I observed she was treated with the utmost Respect by her Son, and by every Body who surrounded her, and that she lived in great Magnificence.

Q. From

Q. From what you have observed, what Effect do you suppose, a Threat to remove a Woman of her Rank from her Zenana, would have made upon her Mind?

A. Amongst the Powers granted me by the Supreme Government, I had that of removing the Begum from the Nabob's Palace to another Place, in case I should find her employed in any Intrigue to impede the Business I was sent upon. Upon the last Visit I paid her, she took Notice of it, and said, Had I attempted to execute this Power, she would have put to Death every Woman in the Zenana, of which there were at that Time 2000, and have murdered herself, rather than be removed from her Palace. I did not find any Occasion to remove her, because I put her upon her Guard upon my first going. I told her I had that Power, but I never wished to execute it.

Q. Did you understand that Resolution which she mentioned to you, in case of her being removed, to be the natural Consequence of the Customs of the Country, or of any particular Threat of her own?

A. I considered it as a natural Idea that all the Women of Rank have, at being removed from their Dwellings.

Q. She did not tell you of this, till you took your Leave?

A. I think not.

Q. Whether you ever had an Opportunity of seeing the Widow of Surajah ul Dowlah?

A. I had.

Q. In what State did she appear to live?

A. In great Splendour and Magnificence.

Q. From whence do you suppose she derived the Means of living, in that Splendour and Magnificence?

A. I supposed it was from Money deposited in her Palace, by the Orders of her late Husband, the Nabob.

Q. Did you ever hear, that Meer Jaffer claimed any Part of the Treasure left in the Zenana, after the Battle of Plassey, and after the Death of Surajah ul Dowlah?

A. I never did.

Q. To whom do you conceive the Treasure, once lodged within the Walls of the Zenana, must of Right belong?

A. I conceive that the Treasure, lodged within the Zenana, is intended for the Support of the Women of the Zenana.

Q. It is the Custom of the Country to lodge Treasure in the Zenana, for the Support of the Women?

A. I conceive, so from my Observation.

Q. Do you mean, of the Women generally left in the Zenana, as well as of the Begum, who is supposed to have the Direction?

A. I conceive so; because the Begum told me, there were no less than Two thousand Women in the Zenana of the Nabob of Bengal.

Q. (Cross examined.) At what Time in the Year 1775, were those Powers granted to you?

A. On the 9th of May.

Q. Do you know, whether, or not, the precise Powers granted to you appear upon the Records of the Company?

A. I believe they do; and if they do not, I have the Original in my Possession.

Q. Do you know, by whom they were signed?

A. By the Secretary of the Council, I think.

Q. Who composed the Council at that Time?

A. Mr. Hastings, General Clavering, Colonel Monson, Mr. Francis, and Mr. Barwell, I think.

Q. Do you know, whether, or not, these Powers were given with the Approbation of General Clavering, Colonel Monson, and Mr. Francis; I mean, particularly, that Power to remove the Begum from her Palace in case she entered into any Intrigue, and of which you state you gave her Notice?

A. I received my Orders from the Governor General and Council; consequently I could not know what passed in the Council, it being the Secret Department.

Q. Do you know, whether, or not, the Treasures which belonged to Surajah Dowlah, and which were lodged in the Zenana, were the Treasures of the State, or whether they belong to the Begum; and, when you speak upon this Subject, do you speak according to your own Opinion, or have you any positive Knowledge on the Subject?

A. I do not understand the Question.

Q. Do

Q. Do you know, whether, or not, the Treasures lodged in the Zenana belonged to the Begum, or whether they were the Property of the State; and do you take it from general Opinion, or your own Knowledge?

A. I conceive, if they were the Treasures of the State, the State would naturally have demanded them.

Q. If they had been demanded by the State, would that have given you an Opinion that they belonged to the State?

A. That would not follow of course. I conceive illegal Demands might be made by the State.

Q. The Question is, As far as you founded your Opinion of their belonging to the Women, upon the Circumstance of their not being demanded by the State, whether, if you had had no other Reason, you would not have supposed them to have belonged to the State, in case they had been so demanded?

A. I said, No; because I conceive the State might make an unjust Demand.

Q. In the actual Case of the State having made the Demand, would you have entertained an Opinion of its being unjust?

A. I surely should. As so many Years had elapsed since the Death of Surajah ul Dowlah, and no Demand had ever been made, as I heard of; had a Demand been made at that Time of Day, I should have conceived it to be an unjust one.

Q. How many Years had elapsed?

A. I should suppose, upwards of Twenty Years. I do not know exactly, but a very considerable Time.

Q. Do you, or, do you not, know the Amount of the Treasure reported to be in the Zenana at the Time of the Death of Surajah Dowlah?

A. I know nothing at all of the Matter.

Q. Do you know, whether, or not, it was an usual Custom for Surajah Dowlah to deposit his Treasure there?

A. Surajah Dowlah was cut off before I went to India.

Q. Do you know any Thing of Oude?

A. I know nothing at all of the Matter; I never was in that Country at all.

Q. (by the Managers.) Whether Munny Begum, whom you had Authority to remove, was really Mother of the Nabob?

A. She was not—she was his Mother-in-Law; his own Mother was then living, and was in the Nabob's Seraglio.

Q. (from a Lord.) Have you or have you not read the printed Proceeding of the Council of Bengal, touching your Appointment, and the Object of it?

A. I have read them since I have been in England.

Q. (by the Counsel.) What was the Name of the Widow of Surajah Dowlah?

A. I don't recollect.

Q. Where did she live?

A. At the City of Muxadabad.

The Witness was directed to withdraw.

Then JOHN STABLES, Esquire, was again called in; and asked,

Q. In what Situation was you when you was last in India?

A. I had the Honour of being Member of the Supreme Council.

Q. Do you recollect, in a Minute on the 9th of September 1783, that you proposed an Inquiry to be made, Whether or not there had appeared any Sort of Disaffection in the Begums of Oude, previous to the Troubles in Benares?

A. Yes, I do recollect it.

Q. What was your Motive for proposing that Investigation?

A. A Letter from the Court of Directors: I conceived it to be ordered by them.

Q. Did you conceive the Letter of the Court of Directors positively to direct that Inquiry?

A. I did so certainly at the Time; and I beg to refer to the Minutes which express it.

Q. Had you ever heard of any Marks of Disaffection in the Begums, previous to the Troubles of Benares, at that Time?

A. I was not in India at the Time of the Troubles of Benares; I arrived some Time after.

Q. Ha:

Q. Had you, at any Time, any credible Evidence produced to you, to induce you to believe the Begums had ever taken any hostile Part against the English, previous to the Troubles in Benares?

A. I believe, none, as I recollect.

Q. Upon what Evidence, Ground, or Authority, did you ever believe that they had, at any Time, taken an hostile Part against the English Government?

A. I had no Evidence, but what appears upon the Records.

Q. What Evidence did appear upon the Records, and of what Nature?

A. I believe it appears principally by the Narrative delivered in by Mr. Hastings; but I refer to the Records.

Q. Had you any other Evidence but the Benares Narrative to induce you to believe it?

A. Nothing, but what appears upon the Records.

Q. I want it to be understood, Whether any Thing but the Benares Narrative appears upon the Records, that you recollect?

A. I do not recollect, or I would mention it.

Q. Whether you have read the Affidavits contained in that Narrative, relating to the Begums?

A. I cannot say I have read them all; I have read a great many of them.

Q. Did you read them upon the Record?

A. No, I did not; Mr. Hastings was kind enough to give me the Narrative, and I read them there.

Q. Am I to understand, that Mr. Hastings gave you the printed Narrative?

A. Certainly; it was a printed Narrative.

Q. Is that the Authority and Evidence to which you refer?

A. As far as it goes it is; I do not know what other Evidence is upon the Records.

Q. You never compared the printed Book with the Records?

A. No.

Q. What is the Fact; is that printed Book the same as the Record or not—I want to know whether you ever saw the original Affidavits, and whether they are entered upon the Records, or whether you have only seen them in the Case transmitted from Calcutta by Mr. Hastings?

A. I do not know; they might be there; it happened before I arrived; but I never saw the original Affidavits.

Q. Did you ever converse with any Man that ever saw the original Affidavits?

A. I do not recollect I did; I have no Doubt that they were in Existence.

Q. Did Mr. Hastings assign any other Reason to you for refusing to enter into that Inquiry, so directed by Order of the Company, except those Reasons that appear upon the Record—Do you recollect those that did appear upon the Record?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you recollect any other Reasons assigned, besides those?

A. No, I think not.

Q. What Effect did Mr. Hastings's refusing this Inquiry produce upon your Mind, at the Time?

The Counsel for the Defendant objected to the Question, as being Matter of Opinion only.

Q. Was there any Debate about pursuing the Inquiry?

A. It is recorded upon the Minutes. I do not recollect I had any Conversation upon the Subject.

Q. Did you ever say any Thing to Mr. Hastings, upon the Subject of his refusing that Enquiry?

A. I do not recollect that I did. I was sorry the Enquiry did not go on.

Q. Do you know of any other Method, by which the Guilt or Innocence of the Begums might be ascertained, besides the Enquiry you proposed?

A. None so likely; my Opinion is clearly expressed upon the Minutes.

Q. And that is the whole Opinion you delivered upon the Occasion, as far as you remember?

A. It is, as far as I remember.

Q. Whether the Whole of the Persian Correspondence universally, was not carried on in the Name of Mr. Hastings, and addressed to him?

A. I believe so; at least it is so ordered.

Q. Whether it is not also ordered, that it should be communicated to the other Members of the Council ?

A. I should think so.

Q. Whether that Correspondence was so regularly communicated ?

A. I cannot say that, because I was no Judge when it arrived ; I can only say the Time it was given in to the Board.

Q. Do you recollect any Instance of Persian Correspondence, not so communicated ?

A. I have taken Notice of One Instance, or Two, in my Minutes.

Q. Do you, or do you not, recollect any Thing concerning a Box of Letters supposed to have been mislaid ?

A. There was a Box of Letters sent to the Board, upon the Day Mr. Hastings took Leave of the Council, to go to Lucknow.

Q. Whether it was a Box of Letters stated to have been mislaid, and which ought to have been communicated much sooner ?

A. It certainly ought : I made a Memorandum at the Time, which, if you please to hear, I will state.

Q. Be so good as to give the Date of the Time of the Letters being communicated ?

A. The Governor General mentioned he had mislaid a Letter from Mr. Bristow, dated the 4th of October 1784, sent in Circulation to him upon the 15th of October ; it was produced to us, that is, to the Council, upon the 17th of February.

Q. Sent in Circulation to him, or by him ?

A. To Mr. Hastings from the Secretary ; it was mislaid in the Council Box till the 17th of February 1785, when it was sent to the Board ; and it contained the Correspondence of Almas Ali Cawn.

Q. Are those Letters now upon Record ?

A. They are now upon Records, if I recollect right, of the 17th or 18th of February.

Q. Where was Mr. Hastings going ; what Journey was he setting out upon, the Day on which those Letters were produced ?

A. To Suxauger, in his Way to Lucknow.

Q. Did you conceive those Letters to relate to Matters of great Importance ?

The House observed, That the Letters were upon Record, and would speak for themselves with respect to the Importance of the Matters to which they related.

Then the Witness was asked,

Q. Was there any Conversation between you and Mr. Hastings upon the Subject, as you recollect ?

A. Not any, which I recollect.

Q. Did you, as a Member of the Supreme Council, consent to Mr. Hastings going that Journey to Lucknow ? Was it by the Consent of the Council at all ?

A. I dissented ; and protested against the Power given, the Minute of which I beg Leave to refer to.

Q. Was Mr. Hastings very solicitous and earnest to go upon that Journey ?

A. His Minutes will shew ; I refer to them.

Q. Do you know any Thing of his being solicitous, except from what appears upon the Minutes ?

A. No ; I do not.

Q. Do you know of any Concern or Matter in Lucknow, that might not have been transacted, without Mr. Hastings' going personally to Lucknow ?

A. I know of none, which the Authority of the Board would not have been sufficient for.

Q. In whose Hands do you conceive the substantial Power of the Country of Oude, then to be placed ?

A. It was nominally in the Hands of the Nabob Vizier ; but I believe a great Power was in the Hands of his Minister, Hyder Beg Cawn.

Q. Do you mean, that Hyder Beg Cawn had in Fact, and in Effect, the Power of the Country, or what Degree of Power did you understand Hyder Beg Cawn had, as Minister of the Nabob ?

A. I understood that he had very great Power indeed. I refer to the Instructions both to Mr. Middleton and Mr. Bristow, where his Power is described.

Q. What was your Opinion, of the Influence and Power of Mr. Hastings over Hyder Beg ?

The Counsel for the Defendant said, they must once for all object to Evidence of Opinion.

Q. Do you know any Thing of any Influence that Mr. Hastings had over that Minister ?

A. I know of none, further than what appears upon the Records.

Q. What do you know of the Power of the Minister of Oude over the Begums, at the Time Mr. Hastings went up to Lucknow ?

A. I do not know of any Power he had over the Begums.

Q. Do you know, in whose Possession the Begums Jaghires were, at the Time Mr. Hastings went to Lucknow ?

A. No ; I do not.

Q. Did you, previously to Mr. Hastings's setting out, take any Measures for the Restoration of the Jaghires from Hyder Beg (if he had them), or from the Nabob's Government, to the Begums ?

A. There is a Minute of mine upon the Occasion, to which I refer ; I do not immediately recollect the Terms of it.

Q. Did you take any other Measures than what appear upon the Minutes ?

A. No.

Q. What Measures did you take, to procure the Payment of an Equivalent to the Begums, while the Jaghires were withheld from them ?

A. I took no other Measures, than what are expressed upon the Minutes.

Q. Were any Measures taken that you recollect, at your Suggestion or Proposal ?

A. I proposed an Inquiry, to know whether they had been paid, and by what Channel.

Q. Did you procure any Intelligence, that an Equivalent had ever been paid ?

A. No, I think I did not.

Q. Were there any other Powers in that Country that could have withheld that Payment from the Begums, but the Nabob, his Minister, or the English Resident belonging to the English Government ?

A. I believe not.

Q. Was there any Power besides them, that could have paid the Begums that Money ?

A. The Influence of the English, I suppose, would have made them be paid.

The Managers for the Commons stated, that they pressed this to shew at whose Mercy the Begums really were, when Mr. Hastings took this Journey to Lucknow.

The House observed, that the Witnesses seemed to think he had expressed all his Opinion and all his Ideas upon Record ; that he constantly referred to them, and did not seem to have any other Memory upon the Subject.

Q. (Cross examined.) Whether the Time of your Arrival in India, was a Year and a Quarter after the Troubles in Benares ?

A. I arrived upon the 6th of November 1782 ; I took my Seat at the Board upon the 11th of the same Month.

Q. I wish to know whether, after your Arrival, you ever went up into the Country of Oude, or was ever absent at any Distance from Calcutta ?

A. I never went further than the City of Moorshedabad, during the last Time I was in India.

Q. How far was that ?

A. About a Hundred Miles from Calcutta.

Q. State, whether the Persian Correspondence is not, according to the Course of the Office, entered in a Book, and whether that Book is not open for the Inspection of all the Members of the Board ?

A. The Persian Correspondence of the publick Officer very often was upon the Table.

Q. The Question is, whether the Letters are not transcribed into some Book, which Book is constantly open to the Inspection of all the Members of the Board ?

A. I don't believe all the Letters are transcribed.

Q. But whether it is not the Course of Office to have them transcribed ?

A. It ought to be so certainly.

Q. I understood the Witness to say, with respect to the English Letter received from Mr. Bristow, when he was describing what Mr. Hastings said upon the Subject, (and I wish to know whether I understood him right), that Mr. Hastings mentioned as a Reason why it was not brought earlier before the Board, that it was mislaid by Accident ?

A. I don't

A. I don't know it; but I think it is so expressed in the Note that came with it to the Council.

Q. At what Time are the Letters transcribed into the Book; before, they are sent into Circulation, or afterwards?

A. I do not know.

Q. What is the common Course of the Office?

A. They ought to be first transcribed in a Book, and then sent in Circulation.

Q. Do you know whether those Letters were in fact so transcribed?

A. I do not.

Q. I wish to know whether the Witness made any Enquiry at all, one Way or the other, upon the Subject of the Rebellion or Insurrection of the Begums?

A. In Conversation, of course; but no official Enquiry.

Q. Recollect, whether you ever signed a Letter, bearing Date the 3d of March 1783, in which are these Words, " You will inform us if any, and what, Means have been taken for the Recovery of the Balance due from the Begums at Fyzabad; and, if necessary, you will recommend it to the Vizier to enforce the most effectual Means for that Purpose?"

A. I should like to refer to the Records; I have it not in my Recollection perfectly; I dare say the Records will shew it, if it is so.

Q. (from the Managers.) Whether you did approve, or direct the Recommencement of Severity towards the Begums or the Ministers?

A. God forbid I should!

Q. Were not the Ministers of the Begums in Imprisonment upon your Arrival at Calcutta?

A. I do not recollect.

Q. Does it appear in that Book in which the Letters are transcribed for Preservation, at what Time they are transcribed; or does any Thing more appear than merely the Dates of the Letters?

A. I really do not know.

Q. (from a Lord.) I should be glad to know, in what Manner the Women could subsist, if the Jaghires, or an Equivalent, were not paid them?

A. I do not know.

Q. Do you know whether the Letters you have mentioned, related to the Ground upon which Mr. Hastings went to Lucknow?

A. I should wish to refer to the Letters—I think they related to the supposed Defection of Almas Ali Cawn.

Q. (from a Lord.) The Witness has stated, that at the Time he has mentioned, he conceived the Letter from the Court of Directors to order an Enquiry, and that it was upon that Opinion that he regulated his Conduct, and his Proposal for such Enquiry; I wish to know, Whether the Expression, " at the Time" was merely casual, or am I to understand from it, that the Witness has altered his Opinion of the Intention of this Letter since that Time?

A. I certainly retain that Opinion, and I wished the Enquiry to go on.

Q. (from the Managers.) Whether you know of any other Instance of the Suppression of Correspondence, besides the one you have stated?

A. There was another of the same Kind, I believe, taken Notice of in One of my Minutes, which I wish to refer to. If your Lordships will give me leave, I will give you the Date of the Minute, and I wish to refer to that—it is a Minute regarding the Recall of Mr. Bristow, dated the 4th of September 1783; and the Papers were not laid before the Board till near Three Months after they were received.

Q. But you have no Recollection of that Passage, other than what is contained in your Minute?

A. No.

Q. Whether any Note, Minute, or Letter, sent by you, was ever meant to convey your Consent or Approbation of the Measure pursued respecting the Begums, or their Ministers?

A. No, I think not; that Business was over before my Arrival.

Q. (from a Lord.) Did you ever convey to Mr. Hastings your Disapprobation of the Measures taken against the Begums, and their Ministers?

A. I don't know that I did: I refer to my Minutes. We had no Conversation upon it; it would have been indelicate to have condemned privately: I certainly never approved of the Treatment of the Begums.

Q. (from a Lord.) Could their Guilt or Innocence appear in any other Way than by public Enquiry?

A. No. I wished the Enquiry to go on.

Q. (from

Q (from a Lord.) Whether all the publick Letters that come to the Board, at Calcutta, are not first opened by the Secretary, before they come to the Board?

A. He opens them; but he very often carries them to the Governor General: There are many Letters directed to the Governor General himself, and not to the Board.

Q. Is it the Course of Office for the Secretary to open Letters, or send them as they come closed to the Members of the Board?

A. I do not believe there is any general Rule; they are sometimes opened, and sometimes not.

Q. (from the Managers.) Whether you do not recollect that the following Paragraph is among the General Orders of the Company? "We direct, that you assemble in Council twice every Week; and that all the Members be duly summoned; that the Correspondence with the Princes, or Country Powers in India, be carried on by the Governor General only; but that all Letters sent by him, be first approved in Council; and that he lay before the Council, at their next Meeting, all Letters received by him in the Course of such Correspondence, for their Information: We likewise direct, that a Copy of such Parts of the Country Correspondence be communicated to our Board of Trade (to be constituted as hereinafter mentioned), as may anyways relate to the Business of their Department." Whether that is not a standing Order of the Court of Directors?

A. I think I am aware of it; it is.

Q. In case any Letters are directed to the Governor General alone, are they opened by the Governor General, or by the Secretary?

A. I should suppose not by the Secretary. I should suppose they were delivered to the Governor General, if directed to him.

Q. Do you remember Mr. Palmer being employed in the Upper Province at Lucknow?

A. I remember his being employed, but I did not know it till long after I went to Bengal.

Q. Was he employed before you got there?

A. I think he was at Lucknow, when I arrived in India; I am not positive there were Instructions for him: I enquired of the Secretary, and heard of none till some Time after I arrived.

Q. Was you, in your Capacity as One of the Council General, duly consulted upon the Continuance of Major Palmer in the Upper Provinces; or in any Renewal of his Commission; or was you ever consulted about him?

A. No, I never was.

Q. What is your Opinion of the Effect of such secret Agents, upon the Part of the Governor General only, upon the Conduct of publick Business, when the Company maintains a Resident there, upon the Part of the Governor General and Council?

The Counsel for the Defendant objected to the Question.

The House observed, It depended upon the Nature of the Agency, and the Extent of it: If there was any particular Agency, what the Effect of it was, might be a Subject of Observation; and therefore the proper Question would be,

Q. Whether the Witness knows of any Effect the Agency of Mr. Palmer had upon the publick Business?

A. It certainly must make the publick Agent very uneasy in his Situation, and it certainly did; but in my Opinion, there was no Occasion for any private Agent at all.

Q. What Knowledge have you of the Effects of it?

A. I have no Knowledge of the Effects, but from Mr. Bristow's Writings upon the Subject, to which I refer.

Q. I desire to know, whether all Mr. Hastings's Correspondence with Almas Ali Cawn was ever produced to the Board?

A. I really cannot tell.

Q. Do you know of his having written any Letters to Almas Ali Cawn?

A. I do not immediately recollect.

Q. Do you know whether all the Correspondence with the Nabob of Oude, concerning Colonel Hannay, was duly laid before the Board?

A. I do not recollect; Colonel Hannay was dead before I arrived.

Q. Have you Reason to think Mr. Hastings had frequent Conference and Communications with the Nabob of Oude's Vackeel at Calcutta?

A. The Vackeel paid his Respects to Mr. Hastings almost daily, as I should suppose every other Vackeel would do, to tell him the News of his Court.

Q. Do you know, whether Mr. Hastings communicated the Substance of any such Conversation with the Vackeel, to the Board?

A. How could I know that?

The Witness was directed to withdraw.

Then the House adjourned to the Chamber of Parliament.

Die Mercurij, 23° Aprilis 1788.

THE Lords being in their Places, the House resumed, the usual Proclamations made, and the Defendant appearing at the Bar, the Lord Chancellor acquainted the Managers for the Commons, they might proceed with their Evidence.

The Managers for the Commons informed the House, they would now proceed to prove the Right of the Bhow Begum, the Mother of Asoph ul Dowla, to the Treasures given her by Sujah ul Dowla; also the Treaties in the Years 1775 and 1776, by which her Right to these Treasures was allowed and confirmed by the Vizier, and guaranteed by the Council at Calcutta.

Then Mr. ROBERT HUDSON was called in; and produced Book 75, intituled, "Bengal Secret Council, 15 October to 20 November 1775."

Read, the following Extract of a Consultation of the 8th November 1775, beginning at Page 824 of the same Book.

"Fort William, 8th November 1775.

Secret Dept.
Wednesday.

"At a Council; Present,

The Honourable Warren Hastings, Governor General, President.

Lieutenant General John Clavering.

The Honourable George Monson.

Philip Francis Esquire.

"Received the following Letters from Mr. Bristow.

"To the Honourable Warren Hastings Esquire, Governor General, and the Members of the Honourable Supreme Council at Fort William.

"Honourable Sir and Sirs,

"Immediately on his Return from Fyzabad he stated his Distresses to me, and begged of me to use my Endeavours to persuade the Begum to assist him. I wished to have declined complying with his Excellency's Request, especially after he had indirectly objected to my having any Correspondence with her; but being sensible of his Necessities, I consented, upon the Condition of his not expecting of * me to use violent Measures. I accordingly went to Fyzabad, and explained particularly in Writing to the Begum, how impossible it was for the Nabob to conduct his Government without her Assistance; and likewise insinuated to her that she could not complain of him, for he had granted her an additional Jaghyr of Four Lacks a Year for the Sums he had already borrowed of her, and treated her with great Respect. I further insinuated to her, that the Treasures she possessed were the Treasures of the State, as she had not succeeded to them by any legal Right, and they had been hoarded up to provide against an Emergency: That that Emergency was arrived; and I recommended it to her to spare his Excellency the Sum of Fifty Lacks as a Donation. If this did not please her, to let the Treasure be divided according to the Laws of the Koran, or else grant him a Loan, and that I could engage for the Repayment of it.

* Sic in Orig

"After much Persuasion the Begum agreed to pay the Nabob Twelve Lacks, and this she declared was wholly to oblige me, and upon the Conditions of the Company's being to secure her the Possession of her Jaghyrs for Life; and that the Nabob should not interfere with her upon any Account. I excused myself, because of the Insignificancy of the Sum, but offered to comply with her Terms in case of her granting Fifty Lacks. This I had Authority for from the Nabob, who, on desiring me to undertake the Negotiation, repeatedly and earnestly expressed his Desire not to use any Violence; and in order to prove it, he said he would submit to the Company's being Mediators of all Differences between him and the Begum. But it was hard, when reduced to such Distress, that his Mother should uselessly keep up immense Treasures.

"On my Return his Excellency approved of my Conduct, and desired of me to write to the Begum very fully, again explaining his Situation to her; that I had interfered merely to prevent any Differences or Doubts subsisting between them, which I thought the Part of a mutual Friend.

"That I had always dissuaded the Nabob from violent Measures, and would continue my Endeavours; but the Point in Question was a domestic Matter, in which I could not insist on his Excellency's following my Advice.

" The Begum, in her Answer, complained much of the Administration of Affairs, and told me, in plain Terms, that what she would do should be for the sake of the English, and, as for the Nabob, she would not advance him a single Rupee upon his Word; but sooner throw her Jewels and Money into the River. On my presenting the Letter to his Excellency, he again desired of me to go to Fyzabad, and as there were great Doubts entertained of the Eunuch employed between the Begum and me not having explained my Representations fully to her, but concealed such Part as did not conform to his Views; the Nabob ordered Sellar Jung and Buf-fant Ally Cawn to go to Fyzabad also, and follow Murtehze Cawn's and my Advice in making any additional Representations which might be found necessary. It is generally believed the Begum has Four Crores in her Possession; but I fancy I may venture to say she has One Crore and Seventy Lacks.—Considering this immense Sum, I hope, now we are all here, and when Circumstances are impartially stated, that she will yield to our Persuasions.

[Signed at the End]

" John Briltow, Resident at the Court of the Nabob of Oude. (a)"

The Managers for the Commons requested the House to observe that, in these Letters, the Treasures stated by Mr. Hastings as belonging to the State, are claimed by the Nabob as his Right: That, in a former Letter, it appears, he had actually negotiated a Loan with the Bhow Begum; and by the Letter now going to be read, it would further appear, that he had also given a landed Security, for the Money so borrowed from the Bhow Begum.

Read, the following Extract of a Letter from Mr. Briltow to the Board, dated Fyzabad, 16th October, 1775, from the same Book, Page 838.

" To the Honourable Warren Hastings Esquire, Governor General, and the Members of the Honourable Supreme Council at Fort William.

" Honourable Sir, and Sirs,

" I have already fully explained to the Honourable Board the Part I took in the Negotiation between the Nabob and the Begum. My Representations since my Arrival this last Time have tended to prove to her Excellency, that the Nabob's Situation was desperate; and she might have determined on what rash Resolutions she pleased in her own Mind, still it was now a Question, whether the Nabob should seize his Right, or suffer a Lack of Souls to perish, and the Sovereignty of these Soubahs, now in the Fourth Generation, to be transferred to another Family? I afterwards used many mild Arguments. I also met Sellar Jung, Myrza Ally, and Murtehze Cawn, and we consulted together; and after many Messages to the Begum, and many Alternatives proposed by both Parties, Thirty Lacks were consented to. I am sure I could have obtained Fifty, the Sum I asked, if Murtehze Cawn had not been impatient to return, and unguardedly mentioned, that the Nabob would be satisfied with Thirty. When I pressed him to adhere to our first Request, he seemed to be apprehensive of the Begum's Temper hurrying her into some violent Act, disgraceful to the Nabob's Government; and as the bare Probability of forcing her to Extremities was enough to determine me from asking ever so small a Sum, I at once gave up the Point.

" The Begum not only grants the Nabob this Sum, but gives up to him Twenty-six Lacks, for the Re-payment of which she had Security in Land. In lieu of this, she asked of the Nabob never to interfere with her again, upon any Pretence whatsoever; and for her entire Satisfaction, she insisted on having the Company the Guarantees of a Treaty to be entered into betwixt her and the Nabob, and that I likewise should execute another directly with her, on the Part of the Company; with which having complied, I have the Honour to inclose Copies of both Treaties, N<sup>o</sup> 1 and 2.

" I now submit my Conduct in this Negotiation to the Consideration of the Honourable Board. It is Necessity alone which has obliged me to act the Part I have done; for without the Company as Guarantees of the Treaty, the Begum would not have given a single Cowry. The Nabob wholly of himself asked me to interfere, contrary to my Inclination; and I therefore hope the Honourable Board will approve of my Conduct, especially as it was the only Means of realizing a considerable Sum at this Juncture. Half of the Money procured from the Begum is to be paid to the Company; which, with Five Lacks now receiving, making altogether Twenty Lacks, is a considerable Sum in the present State of the Nabob's Affairs.

" I have written Powers, and the Testimony of the Persons concerned in this Negotiation, of my having had the Nabob's Sanction: However, I think it necessary to provide against any future Doubts, and shall therefore forward the Honourable Board a Treaty on the Part of the Nabob with the Company, acceding to the Terms with the Begum, which the Minister promises to get executed with all Expedition. The Begum having at first inserted the Word " Heirs," we had very near broke off the Negotiation ; for I positively refused, and told her Excellency, the Company were in Alliance with the Nabob Auffuf ul Dowla alone, and during his Life knew of no Heirs, or any other Sovereign in this Country.

" I have the Honour to be, &c.

(Signed) John Bristow,

Res<sup>t</sup> at the Court of the N<sup>b</sup> of Owd (a)."

" Fyzabad, the 16th Oct. 1775.

The Managers for the Commons stated, they would next read a short Extract, to prove that the Council did authorize Mr. Bristow to conclude the Faith of the Company by this Guarantee.

Read, the following Extract from the same Consultation, beginning at Page 850 of the same Book.

" Resolved, That the following Reply be sent to Mr. Bristow.

" To Mr. John Bristow, Resident at the Court of Oude.

" Sir,

" We have received your Letters of the 11th, 16th, 20th, and 26th of October. We think that the Circumstances of the Nabob's Affairs, and the unfavourable Disposition which his Mother, the Begum, shewed towards him, made it necessary for you to comply with his Request, for affording your Assistance to persuade her to supply him with a Sum of Money ; and we therefore approve and confirm your Guarantee of the Treaty which has been entered into between them (b).

" Fort William, 8th Nov. 1775.

The Letter concludes,

" We are, &c."

The Managers for the Commons stated, they would next proceed to prove, that the above Proceedings were communicated by the Governor General and Council to the Company.

The Witnesses produced Book 6, intituled, " Bengal Letters received, 16 May 1775, to 20th January 1776."

Read, the following Extract of a Letter from the Board at Calcutta to the Court of Directors.

" Fort William, the 20th November 1775.

Par. 9. " The Nabob's Mother, Buboo * Begum, retaining Possession of all the late Vizier's Treasure, to a very considerable Amount, the Nabob, when he found all his other Means were exhausted, had recourse to her for a pecuniary Aid, but she was immovable on his first Applications ; he at length found it necessary to press Mr. Bristow to use the Influence of his Mediation, which, after some Solicitation, he complied with. By the Assistance of many of the Nabob's Friends, and the most earnest Entreaties to the Begum, they prevailed on her to give the Nabob Thirty Lacks in ready Money, and a Release for a Sum of Twenty-six Lacks, which she had formerly lent him ; but her Conditions were positive, that he should enter into a Treaty with her, under the Ratification of the Company, never to molest her more with Demands for Money, as she would not grant the present Relief on any other Terms. The Nabob signed the Treaty, and Mr. Bristow ratified it : Which Ratification, as the Urgency of the Case rendered necessary, we have approved. The Company were to receive Fifteen Lacks of this Sum, which, together with Five Lacks before in Course of Payment, we expect Mr. Bristow will shortly dispatch to us (c)."

The Managers for the Commons stated, they would next proceed to read the Coulnama between the Nabob and his Mother, and the Guarantee of Mr. Bristow ; by which the House would perceive, that supposing the Vizier ever to have made any Claim to these Treasures, it became extinguished ; that he received Thirty Lacks upon Account of present, and Twenty-six Lacks on Account of former Debts due to him ; and that, upon Receipt of the Thirty Lacks, he renounced all Claim whatsoever in future.

" Copy of a Draft of a Coulnamâ under the Seal of the Nabob Asoph ul Dowlah, dated the 19th of Shabaun, in the Year 1189 of the Hegyra, (15th of October 1775).

" I Asoph ul Dowlah Bahadre engage and give this written Agreement, viz.

" I have now taken from my Mother 30 Lacks of Rupees on Account of the present, and 26 Lacks on Account of former Debts, in Specie, Goods, Jewels, Elephants, Camels, &c. from the Patrimony of my Father, and have no further Claim on her. Having received this through the English Chiefs, I renounce all further Demands on her. I also engage that I will never molest my Mother in the Enjoyment of the Jaghiers, Gunges, Culladarries, Gardens, or the Mints of Owde, Fyzabad, &c. conferred on her by the late blessed Nabob, but will leave her in the full Possession of them, during her Life Time.—As long as my Mother lives, I will give her no Trouble on account of them.—She shall collect whatever appears to be due from the said Jaghiers, by her own People; I will not obstruct it.

" When my Mother goes on her Pilgrimage she is at Liberty to leave the Jagheers, &c. under the Charge of whomsoever she pleases.—It is entirely at her Option: I will not oppose it.

" Whether she resides here or goes on her Pilgrimage the Jagheers, &c. shall remain in her Possession; and no Person shall on any Occasion obstruct or molest her therein. To whomsoever my Mother shall give Charge of the Jagheers, &c. My Mother is at Liberty to act as she pleases therein; she is the Mistress. For the Observance of all these Articles I give God and his Prophet, the Twelve Imaums, the Fourteen Mauffooms, and the English Chiefs are joined in this Engagement. Further I will not in future demand any Loan from my Mother. I have no Claim on her; nor will I ever deviate from this Engagement. Should I act contrary thereto, it may be supposed that I am estranged from the English Chiefs and the Company.—I have accordingly given this as a Coulnamâ to remain as a Voucher.

"List of the Jaghiers, &c. exactly the same as that in N<sup>o</sup> 1."

The Managers for the Commons acquainted the House, they should next proceed to read again a Passage in Mr. Hastings's Defence at the Bar of the House of Commons, by which he would lead the House to believe, that the Bhow Begum had no Reason to distrust the Good Faith and Punctuality of the Nabob her Son; and therefore that the acted out of personal Enmity to him, in refusing to deliver up the Treasures.

Read, the following Extract from the Manuscript Defence, Page 213.

"However willing his Excellency may have been to grant Assignments for the Liquidation of his Debt, he was never scrupulous of infringing them, when pressed by other importunate Creditors; but has frequently granted Tuncaws upon Aumils, whose Revenue, to its utmost Amount, he well knew had been previously assigned over to the Company (b)."

Read, also, from the Manuscript Defence, Page 217.

"The most rigorous Means were adopted, and even Threats of Military Execution resorted to, in the Time of the late Resident, Mr. Bristow, in the Year 1776, to exact the Payment then made by the Begum; nor would any softer Methods have availed, as she declared "she would sooner throw her Treasures and Jewels into the River, than advance the Nabob a single Rupee." Her Jewels, Cloaths, and Household Utensils were permitted to be taken, in Default of ready Money Payments, and converted to the Company's Use, by publick Auction in Calcutta, without any Disapprobation having been signified by the Council General, either of the Principle on which the Claim had been made on the Begum, or the Mode of enforcing it (c)."

The Managers for the Commons observed, they had now conducted the House to the Treaty and Guarantee of Mr. Bristow, relative to the Treasures; and stated, that a Dispute afterwards arose between the Nabob and his Mother, respecting some Part of the Goods: That those Goods, which consisted of Elephants and Military Stores, were not in the Zenana; and therefore, though the Nabob, in the Course of the Dispute, admitted that every Thing in the Zenana belonged to the Begum, he asserted that these Goods were the Property of the State.

The Managers for the Commons further stated, that Mr. Hastings, in his Defence, where he quotes Mr. Bristow's Letter on this Subject, states this Dispute about the Property not in the Zenana, as if it had been a Dispute about the Whole of the Property; whereas it was expressly stipulated by the Treaty just read, that Part of the Thirty Lacks should be paid in Goods; and they should next proceed therefore to prove, that the Complaint then was of that Treaty not being abided by.

The Witness produced Book 78, intituled, "Bengal Secret Consultations, 29th November 1775 to 8th January 1776."

Read, the following Extract of a Letter from Mr. Bristow to the Board, dated 30th Nov. 1775, beginning at Page 362 of the same Book.

"Respecting the Treaty with the Begum, I have had many Letters from her, complaining of its not being abided by, and that the Nabob does her great Injustice in disputing her Right to Effects, which she wants to deliver to him; but he asserts them to be his Property, as they were under the Charge of his Confuma, and only deposited in one of the Buildings adjoining to the Begum's Palace. He says, he acknowledges her Right to any Thing in Trust with her own Servants, but all other Effects belong to him. I have hitherto been unable to satisfy the Nabob, or the Begum; but as the Treaty cannot be in force* without the Begum pays the stipulated Sum, I informed her of this Circumstance, and shall advise her, in a Letter I purpose writing To-night, to compleat her Engagements to the Nabob, all to the Value of the Effects in Dispute, the Right to which may be hereafter settled; and as they only amount to about Two Lacks and a Half of Rupees, it is not an Object to stop her fulfilling her Agreements in other Respects. I find it a difficult Point to please the Begum; for she has, through the Whole of this Negotiation, asserted that she placed entire Confidence in the English, by whom alone she was induced to promise the Thirty Lacks of Rupees; and now she thinks herself ill-treated, in having the Identity of her Property disputed."

The Counsel for the Defendant requested the Remainder of the Paragraph might be read.

The House informed the Managers for the Commons, and the Counsel for the Defendant, that the Rule was, for either Side to read what they considered as material to be communicated to the House at the Time; and that the Whole of the Instrument or Paper produced, as far as related to the Charge, would be printed in an Appendix.

Read, the Remainder of the above Paragraph, as follows:

"She also complains heavily of the Troops left to guard the Town, putting Restrictions upon her Servants, and prohibiting them from the same Liberty as the other Inhabitants. I interceded with his Excellency to forbid any Violence from † being used to her, or any of her Dependants; and he accordingly issued Orders to this Purport. In regard to the Dispute about the Effects, I must enquire more particularly, as his Excellency's Officers may be in the Wrong; but I know also, by the Behaviour of the Begum's Eunuchs and Servants while I was at Fyzabad, that they were inclined to procrastinate the Payment upon any frivolous Pretence that occurred."

The Witnesses produced Book 101, intituled, "Bengal Secret Consultations, 15th January to 11th March 1776."

Read, the following Extract, beginning at Page 71 of the same Book.

"Fort William, 25th January 1776.

Enclosed in Mr. Bristow's Letter.

"Copy of a Letter from the Begum, Mother of the Nabob Asuf ul Dowlah, addressed to Mr. Bristow.

"I have received your agreeable Letter, and perfectly understand the Contents. Some Time ago the Affair in Question was settled in your Presence for 30 Lacks of Rupees. The Goods which I delivered for Appraisement were taken Possession of and carried away. It is not I who interrupt this Business, but Asuf ul Dowlah and Murteza Cawn. I am so far from wishing the Continuance of this Dispute, that I am very desirous it should be speedily accommodated; but Asoph ul Dowlah and Murteza Cawn do not desire to have it adjusted. I now enclose you an Inventory of the Prices of the Broad Cloth, Elephants, and Camels which I delivered in your Presence, by which you will be made acquainted with the Value of the several Articles; whatever Balance remains shall be paid. You ask me, since the Accession of the Nabob Asoph ul Dowla, what ill Treatment or Disgrace I have experienced from him. Alas, that you should be still ignorant of it! God forbid that even my Enemy should suffer so much Disgrace. Murteza Cawn stationed a Battalion of Sepoys at my Door, and sent me Word, that if I would quietly deliver the Sum, it was well, otherwise he would prevent any Provisions being brought me, and take it. This is not all the Disgrace I have suffered. Whatever he says is a Law. You were not a Witness of the late blessed Nabob's Mutnud, and without having seen it, you can form no Idea of what Kind of a Ruler he was. You came at an unreasonable Time and saw it. ‡ Asoph ul Dowla on the Mutnud the late blessed Nabob went with him.

† "This Passage is very obscure in the Original;—I imagine some Words are omitted.—The Translation I have made of it is quite literal."

"There never was an Instance in the World of a Son exercising such Oppression on his own Mother, as to send his Servants to distress and afflict her. Reflect maturely that no such Instance ever occurred in former Times. I have already written you what Asoph ul Dowla has done to his own Mother, and that I am ready to give up my Life without Fear. Whatever he wishes let him do.

"I have written the real Value of the several Articles, in the List which I have sent you, without the least Variation. Did I wish to procrastinate this Affair, I should have written that the Goods which were seized and carried off amounted to Eleven Lacks of Rupees; but I do not wish to delay it, and have therefore written down the real Value I sent it to you. Deduct this, and whatever Ballance appears shall be made good in other Goods, China Ware, and Bullocks. Guards are stationed over my Goods; cause these to be removed, that a Price may be set on them, and the Ballance made good. You have repeatedly written me that the Coulnama is inefficacious.

"You

" You were a Party in this Affair, and took from me the Sum of Fifty-six Lacks of Rupees : If you will cause the Fifty-six Lacks to be restored to me, then the Coulnama will not be binding. And do not you then take any Part in the Affair; and then let Afoph ul Dowla and Murteza Cawn, in whatever Manner they are able, take Sums of Money from me; they will then see the Consequences (a)."

The Managers for the Commons stated, they should next proceed to read a Letter from the Bhow Begum to the Governor General and Council, on the same Subject.

" EXTRACT of Bengal Secret Consultations, the 21st December 1775.

" The Governor General lays before the Board the following Letter from Bow Begum, Mother of the Nabob Afoph ul Dowla, received by her Servant Coja Shagoon Ally Cawn.

" From the Baboo Begham, Mother of the Nabob Afoph ul Dowla: Received the 20th December 1775.

" A long Space of Time has elapsed since I have had the Pleasure of a Letter from you, during which I have been continually on the Rack of Expectation. I formerly sent you a Letter expressive of my Friendship, through the Channel of Mr. Bristow, to which I have not yet been favoured with an Answer: I do not impute this to Unkindness, but suppose that you never received that Letter. How shall I represent you my distressful Situation! My Grief is without Bounds, and my Life a Burthen to me. Since the Decease of the late blessed Nabob, I have bid adieu to all worldly Affairs, and with a broken Heart given myself up to Sorrow. I cannot bear the Reflection of my own melancholy Situation—how can I represent it to others? My wounded Heart is made to bleed afresh every Instant, and Fortune seems to take Delight in tormenting me.

" As my Son the Nabob Afoph ul Dowla is entirely unexperienced in the Affairs of the World, and ignorant of what is good or bad, Murtezza Cawn has taken Advantage of his Inexperience, and turned his Thoughts to frivolous Amusements, and has taken on himself the entire Management of all the Affairs of the Government, appointing his Brethren Foujedars in all the different Soubahs. My Son the Nabob Afoph ul Dowla took from me, the First Time, Thirteen Lacks of Rupees for the Discharge of the Dues to the English Chiefs, giving me a written Engagement to repay this Sum in the Space of a Month. The Second Time he sent Salar Jung and Murtezza Cawn to me with a Message, importing, that he was in Want of Money to discharge his Debts to the English Chiefs. I then delivered Seven Lacks of Rupees, with Jewels. The Third Time he came to me himself, and informed me of the Importunity of the English Chiefs. Though I was convinced that this was a Lesson taught him by Murtezza Cawn, I nevertheless delivered him Six Lacks of Rupees in Specie, together with Jewels. He gave me a written Engagement, and promised on Oath, that all these Sums should be repaid me. Some Time afterwards my Son sent Mr. Bristow to me for further Sums. Mr. Bristow wrote me many Letters, desiring that I would furnish Money, or the Nabob's Affairs would be ruined. After a long Correspondence, Mr. Bristow went to the Nabob, and soon afterwards came to my House, accompanied by Salar Jung and Murtezza Cawn, and sent a Message to me, that if I would furnish the Sums wanted quietly, it was well; if not, he would withhold Provisions from me, and take the Money; that he would even beat my People, and send Men into my House to plunder whatever they found there. I returned for Answer, ' Do whatever is in your Power.' As Mr. Bristow was concerned in this Affair, it was at last settled by an Agreement under that Gentleman's Seal, on the Payment of the Sum of Thirty Lacks of Rupees: Out of these Thirty Lacks it was agreed that Eleven Lacks should be in Goods, Elephants, and Camels, and the Remainder in Specie and Jewels. I assented, concluding that, as Mr. Bristow was a Party in the Affair, it would be conducted in a proper Manner; but they valued the Goods which they took at a Fourth Part of their intrinsic Worth—how then could I make good the Sum? The Amount of the several

(a) Vide Appendix, N. XI.

Sums taken from me by the Nabob Asoph ul Dowlah, in Specie, Jewels, and Goods, is Fifty-six Lacks of Rupees.

“ He formerly gave into my Possession for the Discharge of the Monies due to me, the Mahals of Ackberpore, &c. but after a few Days took them from me again.

“ My Son and Murtezza Cawn sent me Word, that I had written to, and received many Letters from, Mr. Hastings; that I now saw of what Effect they were—such ironical Answers did they send me. I did some Time ago write you a Letter, but mentioned therein nothing to the Disadvantage of my Son—this you well know. Let me have a Letter in Answer from you, and write to the English Chiefs to afford me their Assistance and Support, and communicate to me the Substance of such Letters, that I may apply to them in Consequence.

“ Murtezza Cawn is striving with all his Might for the Ruin of this antient Family, which he wishes utterly to destroy. If it is your Pleasure that the Mother of the late blessed Nabob, myself, and his other Women, and Infant Children, should be reduced to a State of Dishonour and Distress, we must submit; but if, on the contrary, you call to Mind the Friendship of the late blessed Nabob, you will exert yourself so effectually in Favour of us, who are helpless, as to remove Murtezza Cawn. He is the Author of all the Evil. I have no Displeasure against the Nabob Asoph ul Dowlah—let him be Master of his own Affairs. If you do not approve of my remaining at Fyzabad, send a Person here in your Name, to remove the Mother of the late Nabob, myself, and about Two thousand other Women and Children of the said blessed Nabob's, together with the Women of the Nabob Burhan ul Mulck, and those of Sufdar Jung, from this City, that we may reside with Honour and Reputation in some other Place—we cannot even exist here. Whatever Remedy occurs to your Wisdom, let it be applied without Delay, for we are now brought to the very Brink of Dishonour. In the Nabob's Life-time he was possessed of no more than the single Soubah, and the Dues of the English Chiefs were paid out of the Revenues of it, as also the Expences of his Army, and his own. At present, that the Soubah is increased to Three Times its former Extent, what becomes of the Revenue? No one thinks of making this Enquiry; but Sums are continually taken from us helpless Women. Murtezza Cawn possesses the sole Authority in the Nabob's Family, and his Brethren are Fougedars over all the Provinces, the Revenues of which they embezzle and dissipate.

“ Murtezza Cawn and Mr. Bristow, as soon as they had taken 30 Lacks of Rupees from me, went to Lucknow, from whence Murtezza Cawn sent Word, that my People were not to be admitted into the Kellah; in consequence of which they have been prohibited going there, nor are any of my Things suffered to be brought out. Murtezza Cawn has also sent Word, that the Things which his People took from me are the Property of the Sirkar; that they must not be considered as Part of the 30 Lacks of Rupees, but sent to the Nabob.—A Guard has been placed on my Goods.

“ I one Day sent some Copper Furniture to be sold in the Buzar, but the Guard would not suffer them to pass. I say frequently, Take the Copper Utensils at their Value, as a Part of the Eleven Lacks of Rupees; but no one will attend to me: In a Word, I am reduced to the most astonishing Distress. For the Sake of God, and of your Prophet, relieve me from my Misfortunes. It is written in the Coulnama, “ I have taken 56 Lacks of Rupees on Account of my “ Inheritance.” I sent word, that others had a Right to Part of the Inheritance. Murtezza Cawn replied, I have taken the Inheritance of all.—I have now given you a Detail of every Circumstance. I send to your Preference Mahomed Shagoon Ally Cawn, an Eunuch, who is possessed of my Confidence. For further Particulars I must refer you to him.

“ I inclose for your Inspection Copies of the Coulnamas in my Possession, under the Seals of Mr. Bristow, the Nabob Asoph ul Dowlah, and Murtezza Cawn.

“ I went to the Nabob, when the Hour of his Death approached, and asked him to whose Charge he left me? He replied, “ Apply to Mr. Hastings whenever you have Occasion for Assistance; he will befriend you when I am no more, and will comply with whatever you may desire “ of him.” The Recollection of the long Friendship which subsisted between you has induced me to write you so particularly.

“ In the Coulnama given by Mr. Bristow and the Nabob Asoph ul Dowla, it is written, that it is agreed 19 Lacks of Rupees out of the 30 shall be in Specie, and 11 Lacks in Goods, Elephants, and Camels. I accordingly paid the 19 Lacks in Specie and Jewels; and, with respect to the Goods, Elephants, and Camels, which I delivered on Account of the 11 Lacks of Rupees, the Nabob Asoph ul Dowlah and Murtezzah Cawn have sent Word that they are the Property of the Sirkar, and will not be allowed a Part of the 11 Lacks of Rupees. I wrote a full Account of these Circumstances to Mr. Bristow; who returned me for Answer, at the Desire of Murtezza Cawn; that those Goods, Elephants, and Camels, are the Property of the Sirkar. I returned an Answer to Mr. Bristow, in which I said, “ From whence should I procure them? all that I possess is by the Bounty of the late blessed Nabob: Nobody will pay Attention to this, but they are bent at all Events to dishonour me; they have again sent People to disgrace and force Money from me. I have all along placed my Reliance on you. Should the Answer to this Letter be delayed, my Affairs will be ruined, and I shall suffer the greatest Disgrace: Let me be speedily favoured with a satisfactory Answer, for which I am very anxious. The Affair before mentioned was settled on on Condition of my paying 30 Lacks of Rupees: I accordingly paid 19 Lacks in Specie and Jewels, and gave Goods, Elephants, and Camels to the Value of 11 Lacks. When an Account of the Price of the several Goods was making, Murtezza Cawn sent Word to have them brought without Valuation, which was accordingly done: I sent Word of this to Mr. Bristow, saying, "Is this the Method of observing Engagements?" He replied, "I am told by the Nabob and others, that the Goods you have delivered are the Property of the Sirkar." No One will pay Attention to what I say. Asoph ul Dowlah and Murtezza Cawn have again sent People to me to demand 11 Lacks of Rupees—where shall I procure this Money? I am oppressed beyond Measure. Favour me with a Letter to Mr. Bristow to the following Purport, that One Company may be stationed as a Guard at my House to prevent my being oppressed; write also to the English Chiefs here, that whenever I have a Mind I may begin my Journey to Kerbelah, and that no One is to obstruct or hinder me. When I am delivered from the Burthen of these Misfortunes, I will proceed to you. Should I be tired with remaining here, I will go to Benares or Azimabad, and stay there for some Time, or will proceed to you: Be so kind as to write on this Subject to the English Chiefs here, and direct, that whenever I chuse to set off for Benares or Azimabad, they are to supply me with an Escort to conduct me thither in Safety. The late blessed Nabob called you his Brother and mine too. Exert yourself so effectually in Favour of us helpless Women, that Murtezza Cawn may be displaced, and Mahomed Elich Cawn and Mahomed Busheer Cawn be restored to the Offices they held in this Soubah in the Life-time of the late blessed Nabob, by them the Revenues will be collected; and whatever Sums are due to the English Chiefs, I will cause to be paid out of the Revenues: This I will strictly perform. I am induced to represent all these Matters to you, solely from my Regard to the Prosperity of this Family. Do you act in such a Manner as to secure the Prosperity of this Family, by which your Name will be transmitted with Honour to the latest Posterity, for having preserved your Friendship to the late Nabob beyond the Grave. Murtezza Cawn is so far from wishing well to this Family, that he is desirous of its Destruction, that he may raise himself on its Ruin: He is in Fact at present possessed of absolute Dominion.

"You have doubtless learnt the Transactions of this Part from the News-papers. I have written nothing but the Truth: For the rest, you are the Master, to act as you think most proper. Favour me with an immediate Answer to this Letter."

"The Enclosures mentioned above are the same as those transmitted by Mr. Bristow, and have been already translated, and sent in to the Council.

"Agreed, that it lie for Consideration.

Then the Managers for the Commons stated, That Mr. Hastings in his Defence asserts he was always a Friend to the Nabob's Right to reclaim the Treasures. They should therefore next proceed to shew, that he refused the Whole of the Nabob's Claim to the Treasure, and asserted the Right of the Begums: For which Purpose they desired the Minute of the Council, upon the Receipt of this Letter, to be read.

The Counsel for the Defendant desired the Whole of this Minute might be read.

* Sic in Orig. " I should have been better pleased on such a Subject to have concurred in the Resolution * with the other Members of the Board might have thought it proper to pass, in consequence of the present Remonstrance, than to offer my separate Opinion upon it, in the Uncertainty whether it would be adopted. All my present Wish is, that the Orders of the Board may be such as may obviate or remove the Discredit which the English Name may suffer, by the Exercise or even the public Appearance of Oppression, on a Person of the Beghum's Rank, Character, and Sex. Had the Nabob chosen to have made Use of the Means with which his own Power alone supplied him, to exact Money from the Beghum his Mother, this Government would have wanted a Pretext to interfere in her Behalf; but as the Representative of our Government has become an Agent in this Business, and has pledged the Honour and Faith of the Company for the punctual Observance of the Conditions under which it was concluded, we have a Right to interfere, and Justice demands it, if it shall appear that these Engagements have been violated, and an Injury offered to the Beghum under the Cover of the Authority by which they were contracted.

" I am therefore of Opinion, and I recommend that a Letter be written by the Board to Mr. Bristow, commanding him to remonstrate to the Nabob against the Seizure of the Goods as his own original Property, which he received from his Mother in Payment of the Eleven Lacks stipulated to be so made: To insist on the Nabob's receiving them in Payment; and that he either admit of the Valuation which she has put upon them, or that he allow them to be appraised by Persons appointed for that Purpose by both Parties. And that Mr. Bristow be further ordered to request, and, if necessary, to insist, in the Name of this Government, that the Nabob do grant Permission to the Beghum to repair to, and reside within, any Part which she may chuse of the Company's Territories.

" If these Propositions are approved, it will be necessary to give other Orders for the Accommodation of the Beghum in any Place which she may chuse for her future Residence; and these may be conveyed in the Name of the Board, by Mr. Bristow, either to Mr. Francis Fowke, or to the Chief of Patna, as it would be improper to notify to either the Intentions of the Board, on a Point of such Delicacy, until it was finally determined.

" (Signed)

Warren Hastings." M

§ (" I think the Nabob should be informed of the Representation which the Beghum has made to this Government, and a Copy of her Letter sent to him. I join with the Governor General in thinking that the Goods which the Beghum has delivered should be appraised, and whatever their Value may appear to be, under Eleven Lacks, which the Beghum engaged to pay, she ought to be made acquainted with the Difference; for it was on the full Accomplishment of her Promise that Mr. Bristow's Guarantee was to have its Effect. Provided that the Beghum be desirous of withdrawing her Person within these Provinces, and the Nabob do consent to it, I think every Assurance of Protection should be granted to her, and a proper Place provided for her Residence; but I cannot consent that the Company's Authority should be employed in placing both Ellich Cawn and Bulheer Cawn in their former Offices, agreeably to the Beghum's Request; because the Nabob, considering them as his mortal Enemies, would never be prevailed on to acquiesce in their Return, from the Certainty that his Removal from the Musnud, and probably his Death, would be the certain Consequence of such an Event.

" (Signed)

John Clavering."

" The Beghum's Letter should be sent to the Nabob and Mr. Bristow, as it contains a Charge against them, and a Breach of Faith in this Government, in the Conduct of the Resident, which it will be necessary for him to obviate. She should be informed of the Sums of Money the late Nabob owed this Government by Treaty, for Services performed, and which were not liquidated at his Death; that she received the Advantages of the Rohillah Conquest, the Plunder of those Countries being deposited with her; as she succeeded, therefore, to all the Nabob's Wealth, it is just she should discharge the Demands due for those Services by which she is the principal Gainer.

" The Vizier's Estate has not been divided according to the usual Custom of Mahomedan Princes. The present Dispute turns upon the Value of Goods, Elephants, and Camels: I do not conceive, according to strict Justice, these Effects to be the Beghum's Property, as I understand Women can only claim a Right only to what is within the Zenana; but if it be a Condition made by the Nabob with his Mother, that he should take these Things in Part of Payment of the Thirty Lacks, the Value of them should be ascertained by Arbitration.

" If the Beghum has an Inclination to retire within these Provinces, she may be received, the Nabob's Consent being obtained, and it being understood that she is not to expect any Support " from

“ from Government. We have no Right to insist that the Nabob should restore Elich Cawn and Busheer Cawn : Such an Application from us would be justly offensive to him.
 “ (Signed) Geo. Monlon.”

“ The Board have already approved of Mr. Bristow's Conduct in negotiating the late Agreement between the Begum and the Nabob. Until she has fulfilled her Part of it, she has no Claim to the Company's Protection. Before we determine whether she has been ill-treated or not, we ought to hear the Nabob's Reply to the Charges contained in her Letter ; for this Purpose, and that he may be able to judge from whose Advice they originate, a Copy of it should be communicated to him. With respect to the Property of the Effects in Question, I am inclined to think, with Colonel Monlon, that Women can claim a Right only to what is within the Zenana. The Property being determined, the Value, if disputed, may be settled by Arbitration or publick Sale. I cannot conceive that she has the least Right to interfere in the Nabob's Government : in a Country where Women are not allowed a free Agency in the most trifling domestic Affairs, it seems extraordinary that this Lady should presume to talk of appointing Ministers, and governing Kingdoms. Upon the Whole, I look upon the Letter before us not as of her writing, who probably cannot read, but as the Composition of some of her Servants, perhaps of the Eunuch who brings it. With respect to receiving her into the Provinces, I shall have no Objection to it, provided she can obtain the Nabob's Consent ; without that she can have no Right to remove the immense Wealth she possesses, or even her own Person, out of his Dominions.

“ (Signed) P. Francis.”

“ Agreed, That Mr. Bristow be desired to recommend it to the Nabob, that the Goods taken by him from the Begum be appraised, by such Persons appointed to value them as shall be agreeable to both Parties.

“ And resolved, That a Retreat shall be granted by this Government to the Begum, if she obtain the Consent of the Nabob to her retiring into these Provinces.

“ Resolved also, That as soon as her Engagements with the Nabob, to which Mr. Bristow is a Party, shall be fulfilled on her Part, * this Government this Government will think themselves bound to protect her against any further Demand or Molestation. * Sic in Orig.

“ The Governor General. I dissent to the Second Resolution ; because I think, by being made Guarantees to the Engagements between the Nabob and the Begum, we have a Right to require his Consent to her Removal from his Dominions ; as we can have no other Security for the faithful Performance of those Engagements, and it may not be in the Power of the Begum to make a Second Application to this Board, after the Notification of this to the Nabob ; in which Case, we shall not have it in our Power to afford her Protection, not knowing that she is injured.”

“ Mr. Francis. I think that Mr. Bristow should be ordered to observe the Conduct of the Nabob and his Minister to the Begum, and to assure her of his Readiness to interpose in her Behalf, if she should at any Time hereafter have Reason to complain of ill Treatment ; we have no Right to suppose, that the Nabob will violate an Engagement guaranteed by this Government, as long as our present Influence at his Court continues ; at present there is no Appearance or Likelihood of its diminishing ; if, however, any injurious Attempt should be made against the Begum, after she has fulfilled her Part of the Agreement, I shall be inclined to give her a Retreat in the Provinces at all Events. I do not think that, in the present Circumstances, we should be justified in doing it now.”

“ Agreed, That Orders be sent to Mr. Bristow agreeable to the Terms of the above Minute.

“ Resolved, That a Copy of the Begum's Letter be sent to Mr. Bristow, with Orders for him to communicate the Contents of it personally to the Nabob only.

“ The Governor General. It appears so consonant to the Principles of strict Justice, to afford those who are accused, the Means of vindicating themselves, that I shall request the Board's Permission to wave, at this Time, entering the Objection which I have to this Resolution, as it will be necessary to explain my Sentiments very fully upon it. I approve of the Resolution, and should recommend it for communicating the Begum's Letter to Mr. Bristow. I disapprove of its being made known, either to the Nabob or to Murtezza Cawn.”

“ Mr. Francis. Having observed, in the Begum's Letter, a Passage apparently reflecting on Mr. Bristow's Character and Conduct, and charging him directly with having sent a Message to her in his own Name, that he would stop her Provisions, beat her Servants, and send People to plunder the Zenana, I beg Leave to lay before the Board a literal Translation of the whole Passage, as I think it differs materially from the first.”

The Managers for the Commons stated, that it would appear afterwards, and they should shew, that the Board were perfectly satisfied with Mr. Bristow's Conduct. But, they would first read Three short Passages from Mr. Hastings's Defence at the Bar of the House of Commons.

Read, the following Extract from the Manuscript Defence of Mr. Hastings, P. 220.

"The Treasures she possessed," Mr. Bristow said, "were the Treasures of the State, as she had not succeeded to them by any legal Title;" the Nabob was, therefore, strictly justified in demanding them; and if there was any Thing in the whole Proceeding, which did not accord with the Sentiments of People in general, it was the Part we officiously took to prevent the Nabob's recovering the Whole of his Patrimonial Estate from those who fraudulently withheld it from him (a)."

Read, also, the following Extract from Page 222 of the same.

"It is not true that the Begums were left in Charge of the late Nabob's Treasures, or other valuable Effects, for the Purposes set forth in the Charge, of maintaining his Offspring and Dependants (the old Begum, the Mother of Shujah ul Dowlah, is entirely out of the Question), having had no Presents entrusted to her Care; but she became possessed of them in her Capacity of Trustee and Treasurer of the deceased, who, for some Time before his Death, "deposited the "Surplus of his Revenues with the Bow Begum, to provide against an Emergency." Hence the Whole of his Property, of what Sort soever, was in her Custody at the Time of his Death, but still as a Deposit, though from the Hands of his Mother; for they were the Rights of the State, which she had in Charge. But I must repeat, that I disapprove and still condemn the Interference of our Resident, because we had no Concern in it, and our Credit suffered in the Opinions of Mankind, from the natural Disgust which would be excited by a Contention between a Son and his Mother, and by our Appearance as Incendiaries, instead of Conciliators, in it (b)."

Read, also, the following Extract from Page 225 of the same.

"The Board approved the Ratification." The Board, I have said, approved of it, and I was a Member of the Board, but I was an inefficient Member of it; the Whole of this Transaction having passed under the Order and Guidance of the Majority of the Board, which excluded me from any Share in their Acts, equally in such as I approved, and in such as I disapproved. It will appear from the preceding Reasoning, that I approved of the Nabob's Assertion of his own Right to reclaim the Treasures of his Inheritance (c)."

"To Mr. Bristow.

"Sir,

"We have received your Letters of the 30th past and 1st instant.

"We conclude that you will be apprised of the Begum's ultimate Resolution with respect to the Payment of the Balance of her Account with the Vizier, before this Letter reaches you; and that you will either have recovered the Amount, or received her peremptory Refusal to pay it. We do not disapprove of your accepting of the Vizier's Transfer of that Debt to the Company; but as it is highly improper to make them the Instrument of asserting his Pretensions on any his Subjects, not in open Rebellion against him, and more particularly in enforcing disputed Claims on his Mother, we direct, that if she shall not have discharged the Assignment, or freely consented to pay it, when you receive this Letter, you will immediately return it to the Vizier, and leave it to him to adjust the Account with the Begum, accepting at the same Time any Part that she may be willing to pay you on Account (d).

As you regard the Payment of Respect and Duty to the Begum in Preference to every other Consideration, it is incumbent on me to give you, in Writing, the Particulars of the Orders which I have received from the Governor and Council, on this Subject, that you may clearly comprehend them, and that there may be no Possibility of your losing the Memory of them. * Sic in Orig.

" 1st, Respecting the Goods and Effects which the Begum may have given, or may give, on Account of Part of the Thirty Lacks of Rupees, stipulated in the Coulnâmâ, that they be received on an Appraisement made by a Person mutually chosen for that Purpose. I recommend this Method of accommodating the Matter to your Excellency.

" 2d, Regarding the Begum's coming to reside in the Company's Territories, should this meet with your Approbation and Consent, the Governor and Council will undoubtedly agree thereto, and will treat her with that Respect and Honour which is due to her Rank. Moreover, when the Begum has fulfilled the Conditions of the Coulnâmâ, she will not be liable to further Demands, or Trouble, on account of Money, and no One, agreeable to the Terms of the Coulnâmâ, will, in any Manner, obstruct or molest her. Mr. Bristow.

“ Honourable Sir and Sirs,
“ In consequence of the Information I gave the Honourable Board, I attended his Excellency to this Place, to obtain Payment of the Money due from the Begum, and a final Adjustment of her Accounts. The Vizier claimed Nine Lacks Sixty-three thousand nine hundred and sixty-six Rupees; but the Begum admitted only of Three Lacks Sixty-six thousand six hundred and seventy-six Rupees, Seven Annas, and Nine Pies; the Particulars of which are explained in the enclosed Account (N<sup>o</sup> 1). Neither Party would at first relinquish their Claim, and I apprehended a Settlement would not have been effected; but his Excellency, after two or three Interviews with the Begum, shewed a great Inclination to come to an Adjustment upon almost any Terms; and I, the Day before Yesterday, attended him to her Palace, when he agreed to take the specific Sum of Five Lacks. He set off immediately after for Lucknow, and left with me an Acquittance, of which the enclosed is a Copy (N<sup>o</sup> 2). On the Vizier's Departure, the Begum objected to the Payment of the Whole in Money, and wanted me to accept three Lacks in Goods, which I declined; and informed her, if it was not perfectly agreeable to her to comply with the Vizier's Draft, I should not urge her to it, contrary to her Inclination. She afterwards gave up the Point of the Goods, upon Condition that she had Time granted her to provide the Money in.

“ The Periods she fixed were as follows, viz.

In Two Days	—	—	—	—	—	100,000
In Twelve Days	—	—	—	—	—	100,000
In Six Monthly Kifts, at 50,000 Rupees per Kift,	—	—	—	—	—	300,000
Owl Sicca Rupees	—	—	—	—	—	500,000

“ I said, I could not agree to these Terms without the Sanction of the Honourable Board; but offered to receive whatever Sums she would pay me, until their Approbation should arrive. To afford the Honourable Board further Information on this Subject, I herewith do myself the Pleasure to enclose the Copy of the Begum's last Letter to me (N<sup>o</sup> 3). Lieutenant Grant will stay at this Place to receive the Two first Payments, all together amounting to Two Lacks of Rupees.

“ The Cloth was the only Article in the Account on which the Begum laid any great Strefs; but by her own Confession it was much worm-eaten and damaged, so that by what I understood it could not be sold at a Fifth of what it was valued *.

“ The Begum in her Arguments principally urged the late Minister's having agreed to accept Eleven Lacks of the stipulated Sum in Goods, a Circumstance I well remember, though not mentioned in the Treaty; and under this Pretence she offered all the Cloths and Plunder taken in the Rohilla Campaign in Part Payment, at a most exorbitant Rate. I, for my Part, have been very cautious in laying any Thing to induce either the Vizier or Begum to adopt my Opinions in the Settlement that has taken Place, but to let them act entirely from themselves.

"Fort William, 12th September 1776. General Letter. Secret Department. Received per Syren, 26th April 1777. Signed, Warren Hastings, J. Clavering, Rich<sup>d</sup> Barwell, P. Francis.

"To the Court of Directors.

"The Nabob has, at Length, agreed to sign a full Acquittal for the Thirty Lacks of Rupees which his Mother had engaged to advance him, on her promising to pay him, in ready Money, Five Lacks instead of Nine, which he claimed as the Balance due on that Account. He has assigned these Five Lacks to the Company in Part Payment of his Debts."

The Managers for the Commons stated, they had now laid before the House the Whole of the Dispute relative to the Goods offered in lieu of the Eleven Lacks, upon which Dispute so much Stress was laid by Mr. Hastings, in his Defence; and that they had thought it the more necessary to shew, what the Proceedings of the Board and of Mr. Bristow were upon the Occasion, because the Conduct of both was quoted by the Defendant, as a Precedent and Justification for the Proceedings against the Begums in the Years 1781 and 1782.

They further stated, they should next proceed to prove, that after this Dispute had been amicably terminated, there was a final Release executed, both upon the Part of the Nabob, and by Mr. Bristow. That the Papers were put together in a confused Manner upon the Records of the Company; and it might appear that the Extract now about to be read was only a Repetition of the before mentioned Treaty; but, in Fact, it was a final Release and Discharge, under the Joint Seals of the Nabob and Mr. Bristow.

"Copy of an Engagement under the Seal of the Nabob Asfuph ul Dowlah Behadre, and of Mr. John Bristow, with his Signature in English, dated the 28th of Jemmalal Owai in the Year of the Hidgree 1190.

"I Asfuph ul Dowlah Behadre have, on the 19th of Shabaun, in the Year 1189 Hidgree, according to my Agreement, received the Sum of Thirty Lacks of Rupees, for the present Year Twenty-six Lacks of Rupees, on account of my old Debt, consisting of the following Articles; Ready Money and Goods, Jewels, Elephants, and Camels, &c. which have been settled with the Begum, my Mother, through the Mediation of the Heads of the Chiefs of the English, as my Inheritance from the late Nabob Sujah ul Dowlah, my Father, and have passed an Acquittance, in full of all Demands, to the Begum my Mother, on account of her Jagheers, Gunges, Kulledarrys (or Meat Markets), Gardens, Mints of Owd and Fyzabad, &c. which the late Nabob in his Life gave to her. According to this, I agree and give in Writing, that agreeable to the aforementioned Engagement, I have myself received the full Amount of this Claim in ready Money and Goods from the Begum my Mother. I have now no Demand whatever upon my Mother; and on no Account will I oppose the Begum's Possession of the Jagheers, &c. belonging to her, which are included in the Engagement, and specified in the particular List; and I engage in this God, Mohamud, and the English Chiefs. I have wrote these Lines as a Receipt and Acquittance, which shall be in force now, and, if Occasion requires, be made use of (a)."

The Managers for the Commons acquainted the House, they had now concluded the Head of Evidence which related to the Rights of the Bhow Begum, the Mother of Asoph ul Dowla; and desired the House to observe, that these Rights had never been impeached by the Nabob, or any Body else; on the contrary, they had been admitted to her as far as the Jaghires, and the Treasures within the Zenana; and that they had been particularly upheld and supported by Mr. Hastings.

They should next proceed, therefore, to submit to the House, Evidence of the Rights of the Elder Begum, the Grandmother of Asoph ul Dowla, and her Treasures; and to bring before the House the Treaties of 1778, in which those Rights were confirmed by the Nabob, and guaranteed by the Company: First observing, as a Circumstance materially to be attended to, that the Women and Children stated to be in the lesser Palace, or Khourid Mahal, were virtually included in these Negotiations, and in the final Treaty and Guarantee.

" Read the following Letters from Mr. Middleton.

" Honourable Sir and Sirs,

" The Honourable Board having been long ago informed of an Intention which the Mother of the late Vizier had formed of proceeding on a Pilgrimage to Mecca, and carrying with her the Remains of her deceased Son, she was prevailed upon by the Nabob Asuf-ul-Dowla, to suspend for a Time the Execution of this Design, but would not consent to relinquish it; and she has lately renewed it, seemingly with a firm Resolution to prosecute it.

15th Jan.

" When I was with the Nabob at Bahrach, he mentioned the Circumstance to me, with an Appearance of great Concern, and told me how exceedingly anxious he was to dissuade the Begum from so rash a Design; but doubted the Power of his own Influence to effect it, unless I would also unite my Endeavours and personal Entreaties. I assured his Excellency that I should be willing, on all Occasions, to afford him my Assistance in forwarding any Wish of his, which might be consistent with his own Honour and Reputation, and in no respect incompatible with the Duties of my Station; and as I was clearly of Opinion that he ought to endeavour, by every fair and amicable means, to prevent the Begum's abandoning his Dominions, I very readily promised him my Influence, as far as it could be properly exerted, to effect it. I confess, however, I had then little Expectation that his Excellency would ever really have occasion to call upon me for the Performance of this Promise, as the repeated Proofs I had had of the Caprice and Inconstancy of the Begum's Disposition, led me to pay little or no Regard to those Declarations, which I suppose were calculated merely to carry some particular Point with the Nabob, who she is sensible is exceedingly averse to her avowed Design; but the Contents of a Letter which the Minister received a few Days ago from the Widow of the late Shuja-ul-Dowla, in which she earnestly entreats him to prevail upon me to visit Fyzabad immediately, and other corroborating Circumstances, have inclined me to believe the Begum is now serious in her Declarations: In compliance, therefore, with the Nabob's Wishes, and his Mother's Solicitations, I thought it my Duty to proceed immediately to Fyzabad, and to use my Endeavours, as far as I can consistently with the Line of my Duty, to influence the Begum to relinquish a Design which, from her Age and Infirmities, she cannot enter upon with any probable Chance of accomplishing it.

" I arrived at this Place To-day; but as yet I have not had an Opportunity of conversing with the Begum upon the Subject of her intended Expedition. As soon as I have that Honour, the Board shall be duly informed of the Result; in the mean Time, I hope for the Honour of their Approbation of the Steps I have taken in this Business.

" Honourable Sir and Sirs,

" The Honourable Board will have been informed, from my Address of the 15th instant, of the Occasion and Object of my Journey to Fyzabad; I must now beg leave to trouble them with the 25th Jan.

the Substance of the Conversations which have passed between the old Begum and myself on the Subject of her intended Pilgrimage to Korbùlla.

" My first Visit having been entirely dedicated to Ceremony and Form, and the Begum having continued indisposed for some Days, no Subjects of Business were discussed until Yesterday, when I was concerned to find that my Suspicions of the Reality of her Design were but too well grounded. She was intirely prepared for the Journey, had taken a final Leave of the late Vizier's Family, and had appointed the 24th instant for her Departure from Fayzabad. Upon my respectfully representing to her the Difficulties and Inconveniencies which she must inevitably encounter in the Execution of this Purpose; the Dangers she would be exposed to in passing through Countries involved in Troubles; her own Inability, from her Age and Infirmities, to encounter these Difficulties; and above all, the Misfortune and irretrievable Loss which her withdrawing herself from these Provinces would be to her deceased Son's numerous Family, which, in its present Infant State, required that tender Care and Attention she alone, from her known Wisdom and Experience, and Concern for her * Wellfare, could be relied upon to give them: She observed, that her present Purpose was not of modern Invention, but had been her determined Object for many Years past; even before the Death of her late Vizier she had it in Contemplation, and was irrevocably bent upon putting it into Execution Three Years ago, had she not been prevented by the Sickness and Death of her Son: That since that unfortunate Event, her Mind had been constantly directed to the Care and Education of the young Family, which she thought she could not with Propriety leave, until they were in some Measure in a Situation to make their own Way in the World. All this was but the Preface to a Narrative of her own Grievances and Complaints against the Nabob, whose Deportment towards her, his Family and Relations in general, I cannot but admit is very exceptionable. The Heads of the Begum's Complaints are these:

" First, That the Nabob Asfui ul-Dowla had deprived her of the Allowance which had been established by the late Vizier, for the Maintenance of the Family of her deceased Husband, and had resumed the Jaghyrs and Emoluments of all her Servants and immediate Dependants.

" Secondly, That his Excellency had made no suitable Provision for the late Vizier's Women and Children now at Fayzabad: That the Education of the Children had been entirely neglected, and their Situation wholly unattended to: And,

" Thirdly, The Nabob suffered his Favourites to infringe her Rights, to insult his Relations, and the ancient Dependants of the Family; and so far from affording her Redress in any of her Complaints against these People, she had Reason to believe he had connived at, and secretly encouraged such Conduct. These Causes of Complaint, although they were not the Origin of her present Design, she confessed had induced her to fix an earlier Period for her Departure than she should have otherwise done; but that she would consent, at my Entreaty, to remain Two or Three Months longer at Fayzabad, if I would engage, on my Part, that she should not be subject to such Insults and Mortifications which she had heretofore experienced; and that I would heartily unite with her and the young Begum, in settling the Nabob's domestic Affairs in a firm and permanent Manner, and fixing a certain Provision for the Support of the Women and Children of her deceased Son, and her own Relations, so that the Honour and Credit of her Family might be preserved inviolate. I assured the Begum, there was nothing she could possibly ask of me, tending to promote the Dignity and Reputation of her illustrious Family, which I would not most cheerfully accede to; that I would with Pleasure exert all my Influence with the Nabob to remove those Causes of Complaint which had hitherto existed; and I did not doubt but I should be able to prevail upon his Excellency to redress her Grievances, and to attend to the distressed Situation of her Family. She replied, she had experienced too many Proofs of the Nabob's Infidelity, and his total Disregard of every moral Obligation, to place the smallest Dependance upon his Promises; she therefore expected that whatever Assurances I might make her, and whatever Agreements might take place between us, should be wholly in my own Behalf, and not subject to the Pleasure of the Nabob, whom she did not doubt would be ready enough to make Professions, but without the most distant Idea of adhering to them. I requested the Begum would do me the Favour to give me in Writing the Substance of her Expectations, and the Services she required of me, that I might duly weigh them in my own Mind, and candidly inform her how far it would be in my Power to comply with them; which she promised to do To-morrow, when I shall do myself the Honour to address the Board again upon the Subject. In the mean time, I think it necessary to assure the Honourable Board, that as far as I have yet been able to learn, I think the Begum's Claims are very moderate and just, and such as it would be natural to suppose the Nabob cannot in Decency refuse.

" Honourable Sir and Sirs,

27th Jan.

" I had the Honour to address you under Date the 25th instant, acquainting you with the Substance of the Conversations which had passed between the Old Begum and myself on the Subject of her proposed Expedition to Korbùlla. I now do myself the Pleasure to forward you a Translation of a Writing she has presented to me, containing her several Requisitions and Claims, which she expects shall be complied with and guaranteed to her by the Company; so that it may not be in the Power

Power of the Nabob at his Pleasure to annul any of the Conditions, or deviate from any of the Provisions therein specified. That the Honourable Board may be clearly informed of the Nature and Propriety of the Begum's Expectations, I have subjoined short explanatory Observations to each separate Article; and if the Honourable Board shall be pleased to consider them after in the Light it appears to me, I hope to be favoured with their Permission to sanctify the Agreement in the Manner the Begum requires, in my Publick Character. I have referred the Subject to the Nabob for his Consideration and Approval; but I have little Expectation that he will of his own Accord acquiesce in the Begum's Propositions, however moderate and reasonable they may appear; and if he should, his Assent alone, without the Ratification and Guarantee of the English, will not be accepted as any kind of Security by the Begum. If however his Excellency approves of these Propositions, and gives them the Sanction of his Signature, I apprehend there will be no Impropriety in my becoming a Surety for their Performance, in which Case, the direct Interposition of the Honourable Board will not be necessary; but if, on the contrary, he should refuse his Concurrence, I beg Leave, with humble Submission, to suggest the Necessity of an immediate Exertion of their Influence to secure the Begum, whatever they may be pleased to consider her undisputed Rights; when I doubt not I should be able to prevail upon her to relinquish her Design of a Pilgrimage to Korbùlla altogether, though she at present declares her Intention of prosecuting it at the Expiration of Two or Three Months, even admitting her Requisitions are complied with. Indeed I have great Reason to believe she has no serious Intention of undertaking so arduous a Task, and that her View is only to withdraw herself from these Dominions, where the Treatment of her Grandson seems to have rendered her Residence disgusting and irksome to her, and to accept of an honourable Retreat, which I am informed has been offered her, for herself and Family, both by the King and Nudjiff Cawn. I am the more confirmed in this Belief, from her extraordinary Partiality to a young Man, who she has bred up from a Child, and adopted as her Son, and who she means shall inherit the Residue of whatever she may be possessed of, after deducting from it what she may consider an adequate Provision for her own Family, and immediate Dependants; which Intention she thinks she cannot so well execute in this Country, as the Vizier, no doubt, considers himself the legal Heir to her Property, and if unrestrained, I am certain, would pay very little Attention to any previous Disposition she might make of it. I form this latter Opinion upon some late Declaration which the Nabob has made, importing, that if the Begum was bent upon abandoning his Dominions, in Opposition to his Will, it was his Determination that she should not carry more with her than her Wearing Apparel.

The Managers for the Commons stated, that the Paper next about to be read, was a Requisition sent to Mr. Middleton by the Mother of the late Shujah ul Dowlah, and transmitted by him to the Board, with his Remarks upon each of the Articles contained in it. That it might not appear important at first; but it was extremely material, to prove, that the Elder Begum had the Guarantee of the English as well as the Younger Begum; which Circumstance, though expressly denied by the Defendant, they trusted they should make out to the Satisfaction of the House.

Read, the following Extract from the same Consultation, beginning at Page 450 of the same Book.

" Translation of a Paper presented, by the Begum Suddur-ul Nissa, Mother of the late Shujah-ul-Dowlah, to Mr. Middleton.

" In Consideration of your having come here on my Account, I will protract my Journey until the Norose, (about Ten Weeks), on the following Conditions:

" First, That I be permitted, without any Interruption or Molestation whatever, to remove the Remains of my deceased Son to any Place I may think proper; that I be allowed either to inter them here, or carry them with me to † Corbùlla; in short, that they shall be at my Disposal.

† Another
Name for Mecca.

" Remark—The Remains of the late Shujah-ul-Dowlah are at present lying at Fayzabad. I believe it is the Intention of the Begum to carry them to Delhy, and to inter them with the Remains of her Husband, which were removed from hence to that Place.

" Secondly, That separate and sufficient Jaydaads be given for the Support of the Khord Maul, and my late Son's Children, suitable to their Rank and Situation; and that when the Children arrive at Ages of Maturity, I be permitted to enter into Treaties of Marriage for them, agreeable to my own Judgment and Discretion, and that a suitable Allowance be made for the Expences which may be incurred on the Occasion: That the Daughters who have been contracted may be sent to their intended Husbands, or the Husbands sent for to receive them; and those remaining in the Maul who are in the same Predicament, and not received by those to whom they have been contracted, be provided for; and that for such as may not be joined in Wedlock during my Residence here, it will be the Care of my Daughter Bow Begum to see done, as Opportunity may offer.

“ Remark—An Allowance of 12,800 Rupees per Month has been established for the Women of
 • See in Orig. • Khord Maul, and the late Nabob's Children, which will be adequate to the Support of the Children, and such of the Women from their Connection with the Nabob, are entitled to a Maintenance. The rest the Begum has consented to release from their Confinement.

“ Thirdly, That for the Support of the Family and Dependants of the Nabob Sufder Jung, my late Husband, who are all allied to me, the same Allowances be now made that were fixed in the Lifetime of Shujah-ul-Dowlah.

“ Remark—The Allowance made by the late Vizier for his Father's Connexions and Dependants was about 17,000 Rupees per Month, exclusive of the Begum's own Jagheer. This Allowance has been withheld from the Period of Shujah-ul-Dowlah's Death, and been disbursed from the Begum's private Purse.

“ Fourthly, That all my own Dependants are to remain under my exclusive Authority, and uncontrouled by any other Person; that I shall not be molested in any Shape, if I should either give them their Dismission, or take them with me on my intended Journey.

“ Remark—By her own Dependants, she means the Relations and Connexions of her deceased Husband, Meer Hussian Allee her adopted Son, and such other Persons as immediately rely upon her for Support.

“ Fifthly, That at the Period of the Norose, I be permitted to proceed on my Journey, and that no Person whatever shall attempt to dissuade me from my Purpose; and that, if they should, I will not accede to any such Request.

“ Remark—This means nothing more, than that, at the Expiration of the Period she has fixed for her Residence here, she shall be at full Liberty to proceed out of the Provinces or not, as she thinks proper; and her Resolution, I will venture to say, will be entirely governed by the Treatment she may receive in the Interim from the Nabob.

“ Sixthly, That you will protect and take Care of my Allowances and Purgunnahs, which upon my leaving this Place I shall commit in charge to my Daughter Bhow Begum, with my own People; and in whatever City or Town I may take up my Residence, regular Remittances by Bill shall be made to me, and all my People, and Meer Hussian Ally Cawn shall not be molested or oppressed.

“ Remark—This Stipulation I apprehend is meant only to secure to herself and Assigns the Jagheers and Emoluments she now holds, in case of her removing from the Provinces. Her own Jagheer, which is now in her own Possession, is about a Lack of Rupees per Annum; besides which, she claims a Purgunnah in the Soubah of Allahabad, which was granted her in Ultungaw by the King, a short Time before his Departure for Delhi, but never taken Charge of by her. She has produced the King's Sunnuds to me, which are authentic; but it seems extraordinary she should not have got Possession of the Purgunnah in her Son's Life-time; and I made that Remark to her, which she answered by saying, that whatever her late Son possessed she looked upon and commanded as her own; and that she was no Sufferer by leaving the Purgunnah in his Charge.—The Revenue is about a Lack of Rupees per Annum.

“ Seventhly, The foregoing Conditions and Stipulations I signify to you, and I trust to you to see them faithfully performed. The following are the specifick Rights which I expect to be confirmed to me.

“ 1st. The Sayer Duties of Khoda Gunge and Allee Gunge.

“ 2d. Ultungaw Purgunnah, Raury in the Soubah of Allahabad.

“ 3d. Vizier Gunge, the Garden of Sipahdar Khan, and Makee Gunge.

“ 4th. Monthly Allowances fixed by my late Son Shuja ul Dowlah, for the Family and Relations of Sufder Jung.

“ 5th. The Jagheers of the following Khojah Serais, given by my late Son, and resumed by the Nabob Asfud ul Dowlah, “ Muhrum Allee Cawn.

“ Mahniud Illtufant.

“ Mahmud Bhureab.

“ Mahmud Dannah.

“ 6th. Monthly Allowances, as before, of the following Persons.

“ Mahmud Janud.

“ Trumbuch Dofs.

“ Hawkeim Mahmud Hussian Cawn.

“ Malony Mahmud Majied.

“ Remark—The Sayer Duties of Khoda Gunge, and Alla Gunge, are at present in the Begum's Collection; but other Gunges, by the Nabob's Authority, have been established close to them, under the Auspices of Rajah Bowanny Sing, and Hingem Cawn, his Excellency's Elephant Driver, who have used such Means to people and supply their Gunges as have effectually depopulated the Begum's; by which Means she has, for some Time, been deprived of the Duties she before before collected. She requires that Bowanny Sing and Hingem Cawn be compelled to remove their Gunges.

" On the Second Article I have already remarked, Vizier Gunge, which the Begum had always the Duties of, has been depopulated in the same Manner as the Two former Ones, by the Erection of another close to it.

" 3d. The Garden of Sipahdar Cawn, and Mâhee Gunge, are in the Begum's Possession; but Depredations are constantly made upon her Rights in the latter, which she desires may be prevented.

" On the Fourth Head I have already remarked.

" 5th. The total Amount of these Jagheers, as they stand on the late Vizier's Records, is about 46,000 Rupees per Annum. Most of them were resumed soon after the present Nabob came to the Mufnud, by the Advice of the late Minister Mocktar ul Dowlah.

" 6th. These Allowances are very inconsiderable, not all together exceeding 10,000 Rupees per Annum.

" Eighthly, The Sum of 30,000 Rupees on account of a House, &c. purchased from Muhrum Ally Cawn, at Lucknow, be paid, the Particulars of which Purchase are as follow :

" The House, Stable, and the Kurhannahs.

" Two Houses in Jawar Tully.

" Peir Khan's Fort, Garden, and the Village of Gudoorah, and the Cuttera of Rustumnagur.

" Remark—When the Nabob fixed his principal Residence at Lucknow, he took Possession of several Houses and Gardens belonging to the Begum and her Dependants, which he agreed to pay for upon an equitable Valuation. The Sum of 30,000 Rupees was admitted by his Excellency for the Possessions of Muckrum Ally Cawn, but never paid. The Begum expects that this Sum shall be reclaimed of the Nabob, or the Houses, &c. restored.

" The same Observations will apply to the Two following Articles.

" Ninthly, The Houses of Mahmud Illtafaut and Mahmud Janud, in Lucknow, to be paid for by the Nabob, or delivered up to their proper Owners.

" Tenthly, The Sum of 1,15,000 Rupees which the Nabob agreed to pay on Account of the Cost of Mutchy Bowan; the House of Jahub Jee, the Fort of Goofain, with the Ground and Garden, the Barra Dewarry, on the Banks of the Gompty, the Bazar, Garden, and House of Rajah Mahanarain, the House of Benny Puthur, all in the Town of Lucknow, and for which the Nabob Asif ul Dowlah promised to pay at the Expiration of Two Months, but Two Years are now elapsed, without having performed his Engagement.

" Honourable Sir, and Sirs,

" I am sorry to acquaint the Honourable Board, that I have not been successful in my Applications to the Nabob in Behalf of the Begum. He has positively refused to come to any immediate Determination upon any one of the several Points I have submitted to him; answering me only in general Terms, that it is his Intention to visit Fyzabad on his Return from his Hunting Party, when he will request my personal Assistance in accommodating all Matters of Dispute between him and the Begums. In the mean Time, he intreats me to take every Means in my Power to prevail upon the old Begum to suspend the Execution of her Purpose, until he shall have had an Interview with her; and to accomplish this Object, he even authorises me to make her such Assurances on his and my own Behalf, and * in my Judgment shall seem reasonable and just. 2d February.

" It is needless for me to remark upon the Ambiguity of this Reply, or the indefinite Terms in which his Authority to me is conceived. The Begum's Requisitions were laid before him in the Form I received them, clearly and specifically noticed; so that it required only that he should have given me his Sentiments upon them, and have informed me how far he wished me to engage his Compliance; but instead of this, he contents himself with desiring me to use every conciliating Argument I can with the Begum, to dissuade her from her Purpose, while he denies me the only Means by which he knew it could be effected, and by his Conduct, in Fact, strengthens and confirms her Resolution. I have acquainted the Begum with the Substance of the Nabob's Reply to my Letters, which she is by no Means satisfied with; and, indeed, I am myself convinced there is very little Faith to be placed on the foregoing Assurance; but she has, at my earnest Request,

* Sic in Orig.

Request, and from a firm Reliance on the Justice and Equity of the Honourable Board, consented to suspend her Journey until I may be favoured with your Sentiments and Decision upon this Reference, which I hope to be indulged with as soon as possible, as any considerable Delay might perhaps raise Doubts in the Begum's Breast as to the Part the Honourable Board would take in her Affairs, and induce her, at all Events, to take her Departure before your Decision reaches me.

3d Feb. 1778.

" Honourable Sir, and Sirs,
" I had the Pleasure to address you Yesterday; and having closed the Subject of the old Begum's Complaints and Requisitions, it is necessary I should now trouble you with those of the Bow Begum, who has, through me, demanded the Protection of our Government, and its Influence to restore and confirm her Rights.

" On my Arrival here, she addressed a long Letter to me on the Subject of her Affairs, covering the original Treaty which had been entered into between her and the Nabob, and guaranteed by my Predecessor on the Part of the Honourable Company; Copies of all which I have now the Honour to lay before you, together with a particular Account of the Begum's several Claims and Requisitions, with my own Observations on each Article.

" As most of these Claims are expressly admitted in the Treaty, and guaranteed by the Resident, I apprehend by publick Authority, I did not suppose the Nabob would have hesitated to comply with them: I therefore thought it unnecessary to take up the Attention of the Honourable Board with a Matter which had before been so particularly discussed and settled, and which, after such solemn Engagements on the Part of the Nabob, they would hardly expect could at this Time become a Subject of Dispute. His Excellency has, however, declined Compliance with them.

The Managers for the Commons stated, That having read Mr. Middleton's Account from Fyzabad, of the Complaints of the elder Begum, they should next proceed to shew the Opinion of the Council upon hearing those Complaints; and it was material to observe, that Mr. Hastings, at this Time, had, in Effect, the whole Government in his own Hands.

The Witness produced Book 77, intituled, " Bengal Secret Council, 23d March to 21st May 1778."

Read, the following Extract of a Consultation of the 23d March 1778.

" Fort William, the 23d March 1778.

Secret Dept.
Monday.

" At a Council; Present,
The Honourable Warren Hastings, Governor General, President;
Richard Barwell,
Philip Francis, } Esquires.
Edward Wheler,

" Reconsidered the Letters from Mr. Middleton, dated the 25th and 27th January, recorded in Consultation the 9th February; and of the 2d and 3d February, recorded in Consultation the 9th March.

" Resolved, That the following Letter be written to Mr. Middleton.

To Mr. Middleton.

" Sir,
" We have duly considered your Letters of the 25th and 27th January, 2d and 3d February, on the Subject of the Complaints and Requisitions of the Old Begum and Bow Begum.

" We can have no Right to interfere between the Vizir and his Relations or Subjects, for the Redress of any Grievances which they may sustain from him, except by Remonstrance, or in Cases that we shall deem of a Nature so gross and enormous as to cast a Reproach on the Company, and to involve and affect the Dignity of the British Name, by withdrawing ourselves from such a dishonourable Connection: We must therefore decline giving you Authority at present to insist on the Nabob's immediate Restitution of the Property claimed by the Family of the Old Begum, and by the Family of Nabob Sheir Jung, deceased; but as we approve of the Means you have taken to conciliate the Differences that have arisen from the former, and dissuade the Nabob from the Act of Oppression which he intended to commit on the Estate of the latter, we desire you will repeat your Remonstrances to the Vizir on both these Points, in the Name of this Government, representing to him the Consequences of such an arbitrary Proceeding, the Re-proaches

proaches to which his Honour and Reputation, as well as ours from being connected with him, will be exposed by such Acts of Cruelty and Injustice, and the Right, which we derive from the Nature of our Alliance with him, to expect that he will pay a Deference to our Remonstrances.

" If he shall persist in his Refusal, after this, to agree to any reasonable Terms, you are to take no further Steps till you have advised us thereof, and of every Circumstance attending it, that we may give you our final Orders for your Guidance.

" Having given the Old Begum such a Proof of our Desire to assist her, and to obtain Security for her in her present Situation, we hope she will be satisfied to continue where she is, as we can by no Means encourage her Wish to remove, with her personal Wealth, from the Nabob's Dominions.

" With respect to the Bow Begum, her Grievances come before us on a very different Footing; she is entitled to our Protection by an Act not sought by us, but solicited by the Nabob himself, and granted in Compliance with his and her Request: We therefore empower and direct you, to afford your Support and Protection to her, in the due Maintenance of all the Rights she possesses, in virtue of the Treaty executed between her and her Son, under the Guarantee of the Company, and against every Attempt that may be, directly or indirectly, made to infringe them. At the same Time that we recommend the greatest Delicacy to you, in every Case of this Nature, we desire you will act with Firmness and Resolution, and, as far as you can, with Effect.

" [Signed at the End,]

Warren Hastings,
Richard Barwell,
P. Francis,
Edward Wheler."

The Managers for the Commons requested the House to observe, that Mr. Middleton had applied for a conditional Permission from the Board to execute the Treaty of Guarantee to the Elder Begum; that such Permission was, for some Time, withheld by the Board; and the Report states, that, " having given her such a Proof of their Desire to assist her, they hoped she would be satisfied to continue where she was, as they could by no Means encourage her Wish to remove with her personal Wealth from the Nabob's Dominions." That it appeared, it was not her Intention to remain, (and it was so stated by Mr. Middleton,) except under the Guarantee of the Company.

That her personal Wealth was considerable; and they would shew, in Contradiction to what was stated by Mr. Hastings, that the Elder Begum was actually plundered of her Wealth, after she had consented so to remain in the Dominions of the Nabob, under the Faith of the Company's Guarantee.

The Witnesses produced Book 26, already delivered in.

" 9th. If the Begum shall go to Mecca, she shall leave her Mahls and Jaghires to the Begum, the Mother of Asoph al Dowlah, who shall remit the Revenues thereof to the Burree Begum. No one shall prevent her enjoying her Jaghires (a)."

The Counsel for the Defendant observed, That the Papers were Enclosures from Mr. Purling; and that the First Time they appeared upon the Consultations, was in June 1780.

The Managers for the Commons stated, That the Copy of this Treaty was certainly not transmitted at the Time by Mr. Middleton, which was a very material Circumstance, and One on which they should dwell much, when they came to state under what Circumstances it came enclosed from Mr. Purling; but they thought it clearer to have the Treaty inserted here; and when they came to the Year 1780, they should then state those Circumstances under which it was so transmitted to the Council from Mr. Purling. That they were aware, the Counsel went on a Supposition that Mr. Middleton had not a direct Authority from the Board to execute this Treaty; but they would clearly shew, that he must have acted by the Authority of the Board, and that it had all the binding Force that such an Authority could have given it.

" The English are Guarantees to the above Engagements as long as the Begum shall exist (a)."

The Counsel for the Defendant desired to know, whether this Instrument was executed by the Nabob ?

The Managers for the Commons acquainted them it was, by the Seal of the Nabob being affixed to it ;—that it was well known the Nabob never signed his Name.

Then the Managers for the Commons requested the House to observe, that the Protection and Allowances to the Women and Children in the Zenana, and in the Khour Mahal, were included in this Negotiation and Guarantee.

Then the Witnesses produced Book 102, intituled, " Publick Persian Correspondence, received for the Year 1778."

Read, the following Letter from Bahoo Begum to Mr. Hastings, beginning at Page 368 of the same Book.

" From Bahoo Bhegum : Received 15th November 1778.

216. " The Receipt of your Highness's Letter, containing the agreeable News of your Welfare, afforded me inexpressible Pleasure. I formerly sent you, by Shagoon Ally Khan, Copy of an Engagement under the Seal of Mr. John Bristow, which you doubtless inspected.

" As you formerly wrote me that a Ship was ready, and that I might come whenever I pleased, I was Eight Months earnestly desirous of repairing to Kerbella ; but my Son, Asoph ul Dowlah, sent Mr. Middleton to prevent me, who made me a Promise that if, at the End of Twenty Months, I continued desirous of prosecuting the Journey, no one should obstruct me. On the 15th of Shabaun (8th September) Mr. Middleton came to Fyzabad, and spoke of my Departure, and told me to desire the Nabob's Presence here, and that all Matters should be settled.

" Notwithstanding the Displeasure I bore towards my Son, yet, to oblige Mr. Middleton, I wrote him a Letter of Invitation, and he in consequence arrived here on the 1st of Ramzaun (23d September).

" I talked to him in a Style of Affection and Regard. Three Days afterwards my Son discontinued the Consideration of my Affairs, and entered upon other Subjects, proposing to me to give up the Gunges, Mint, Cullahdang Gardens, and the Havelee at Gorukpore, all which are included in the former Engagement, in lieu of some other Places in the Neighbourhood of my Jaghiers. I told him, that in case the Exchange were made, the Engagement would not remain in Force. He then sent me a Message by Mr. Middleton, that if I did not consent to the Exchange, my Refusal would be the Cause of the greatest Disturbances, and many People would lose their Lives. I was left without an Option, and had no Remedy ; and to this Day, which is the 17th of Ramzaun (9th October), the Places to be given in Exchange have not been fixed on ; and on the 10th of Ramzaun (2d October) my Son, and on the 12th Mr. Middleton, set off from hence for Lucknow. My Son gave me another Engagement, under his own and Mr. Middleton's Seal. Consider, my Friend, what Reliance can be placed on any Engagement, if it may be withdrawn, and a new one executed in this Manner ; or what Confidence can an Engagement give ? I request that you will send me a Letter to Mr. Middleton, in express Terms, to make the Exchange, if agreeable to me ; otherwise to desist, and to execute and deliver to me such a Treaty as I shall desire, which may remain as a solemn Voucher, to be employed as Occasion may require ; and further, that he shall afford me his Support whenever I shall require it. Let this Letter also direct, that the Corpse of the late blessed Nabob, which is deposited at Fyzabad, be relinquished to my Disposal, that I may either carry it with me to Kerbella, or send it thither before me ; for it is a Duty, and highly meritorious, to cause the Body to be interred in that holy Ground, which will promote its future Happiness. It is incumbent on your Friendship to give me this Proof of Regard. My Son now declares, both in publick and private, that he is offended with me, his Mother, for having applied to the English for the Settlement of my Affairs ; and that he will take such Measures, that whatever I may desire of them, they shall act in direct Opposition thereto ; and that he will ruin me by their Means—That it is well known to all Ranks of People, the former Coulnama specifies that he is clear ~~from~~ every Claim on the Part of his Mother, and nevertheless that she will not yet leave him at Kist.

(a) Vide Appendix, N° XXII.

“ God is my Witness, that against all these Afflictions and Hardships I have no Support but your Favour, which I hope you will exert so effectually, as to relieve me from them. I shall send Akbar Ally Khan to your Presence, after the End of Ramzaun, who, having been an Eye Witness of every Transaction, will represent them fully to you.

“ The most astonishing Circumstance of all is, that my Son gave me the Coulnama with his own Hand, at Night; and before I could have Time to read it, he set off for Lucknow: When I had read it, I found it mentioned, “ Besides the Places I receive in Exchange, I will take Possession of other Places also.” On perceiving this, I was surprized and confounded, and cried out, “ My God! what Kind of Treaty is this!” I sent the aforesaid Treaty to Mr. Middleton, who took it with him, and getting on Horseback, followed my Son, and overtaking him in the Way, he caused the Engagement to be altered, and brought it back to me. I have written you for your Information this Account of the late Transactions, and shall inform you of what may happen hereafter.

“ I have nothing to expect, except through the Influence of your Favour. I am hopeful that you will recollect your long-established Regard for me, and will take such Measures as may promote my Interest.”

The Managers for the Commons requested the House to observe, that it appeared by the Letter just read, that the Treaty was executed and brought back by Mr. Middleton to the Begum.

Then the Witness produced Book 103, intituled, “ Bengal Publick Persian Correspondence: Letters received pro Anno 1780.”

Read, a Letter from the Bahoo Begum to Mr. Hastings, beginning at Page 78 of the same Book.

“ From the Bahoo Begum, received 29 April 1780.

“ At present the Naibs have begun a Negotiation about the Nabob's Jaghier, of so remarkable a Nature, that it has greatly alarmed us. For first, his Jaghier is by no Means equal to his Dignity; yet, on account of the present State of Affairs, he has contented himself with it, though it approaches not to his Expences. Secondly, About a Year and a Half ago, Mr. Middleton gave a positive Promise to him, that he would take care no Interruption should be given to his Jaghier, or that of the late Istekar ul Dowlah, and entered into a sacred Engagement to this Purport. It is now Matter of great Astonishment to us, that, notwithstanding all this, such a Negotiation should have been thought of, since your Highness can have no Wish that the Nabob's small Income should be stopped, as the Promises of the English Chiefs are as if written on a Stone, and can admit of not the smallest Variation (a).”

The Managers for the Commons requested the House particularly to observe, that through the Whole of these Transactions, in the Years 1775 and 1778, there was not the smallest Insinuation against the general Disposition of the Begums towards the English Government. That it was expressly alledged by the Defendant, that the Begums shewed a constant Disaffection and Hatred to the English: Whereas they should prove, that when this Treaty was communicated to the Board at Calcutta by Mr. Purling, the Board recognised the Treaty, and acted upon it; but, as a Distinction might perhaps be taken between a Treaty executed by the Resident, and a Treaty executed by the Council, or by the Governor General upon the Part of the Council, they should next read a short Extract of a Letter written by Mr. Hastings, to shew his Opinion upon that Subject.

The Witness produced Book 90, intituled, “ Bengal Publick Persian Correspondence, sent 1778. Received per Ganges, 24th February 1781.”

Read, Extract of a Letter from Mr. Hastings to Fize Ulla Khan, dated 15th June 1778, beginning at Page 28 of the same Book.

“ To Fize Ullah Khan.

Written 15th June 1778.

“ It is with the greatest Pleasure I learn from Mr. Middleton, that the Treaty which subsisted between you and the late Nabob Sujah ul Dowlah, has been renewed by the present Vizier with such additional Stipulations in your Favour as to leave you in the quiet and undisturbed Enjoyment of whatever the Country*, which form * your Jaghier, may, by Care and Attention, be made to produce, and that he has affixed his Seal to it on the Part of the Company as Guaranty. The Apprehensions you at first expressed of the Authenticity of the Guaranty, because it did not bear the Seal of the Company, were entirely groundless. The Objection of the Company to Guaranty the Treaty which has been renewed between you and the Vizier is equally binding on them, by having the Seal of the Resident on their Part affixed to it, as if it bore their own Seal." • Sic in Orig.

Then the Managers for the Commons stated, they would presently call Mr. Middleton to give Evidence relative to this Treaty: in the mean Time would read an Extract, to shew what the Opinion of the Nabob was, concerning the Women under the Care of the Elder Begum, it being stated by the Defendant that they were insignificant Persons, scarcely worth Notice or Care.

The Witness produced Book 105, intituled, "Bengal Secret Persian Correspondence, 1782."

Read, Extract of a Letter from the Vizier, received the 23d of August 1782.

"From the Vizier.

"Received 23d August 1782.

"I never found Resource equal to the necessary Expences: Every Year, by taking from the Ministers, and selling the Articles of my Harkhanna, I, with great Distress, transacted the Business; but I could not take care of my Dependants; so that some of my Brothers, from their Difficulties, arose and departed; and the People of the Khord Mahault of the late Nawab, who are all my Mothers, from their Distresses, are reduced to Poverty, and involved in Difficulties.—No Man of Rank is deficient in the Care of his Dependants, in Proportion to his Ability (a)."

The Witness produced Book 104, intituled, "Bengal Publick Persian Correspondence; Letters received pro Anno 1784."

Read, a Letter from the Vizier to Mr. Hastings. N° 79.

"From the Vizier.

"Received 31st July 1784.

"My Brother, dear as Life, Saadut Alli Khan, has requested that I would permit his Mother to go and reside with him. My Friend, all the Mothers of my Brothers, and the Women of the late Nawab, whom I respect as my own Mothers, are here; and it is incumbent upon me to support them. Accordingly I do it, and it is improper that they should be separated, nor do I approve it. By God's Blessing, and your Kindness, I hope that all the Women of the late Nawab may remain here. It is the Wish also of my Grandmother and my Mother, that they should."

Read, Extract of Mr. Hastings's Defence, delivered in at the Bar of the House of Commons, from Page 222 of the Manuscript.

"It is not true that the Begums were left in Charge of the late Nabob's Treasures, or other valuable Effects, for the Purposes set forth in the Charge, of maintaining his Offspring and Dependants. The Old Begum, the Mother of Shujah ul Dowlah, is entirely out of the Question, having had no Presents entrusted to her Care; but she became possessed of them in her Capacity of Trustee and Treasurer of the Deceased; who, for some Time before his Death, "deposited the Surplus of his Revenues with the Bow Begum, to provide against an Emergency." Hence the Whole of his Property, of what Sort soever, was in her Custody at the Time of his Death, but still as a Deposit, though from the Hands of his Mother, for they were the Rights of the State which she had in Charge. But I must repeat, that I disapprove, and still condemn the Interference of our Resident, because we had no Concern in it, and our Credit suffered in the Opinions of Mankind, from the Natural Disgust which would be excited by a Contention between a Son and his Mother, and by our Appearance as Incendiaries instead of Conciliators in it. But no Man could ever assert or believe that it was therefore her own. It was undoubtedly a constituent Part of the hereditary Estate, which devolved to the Nabob Asaph ul Dowlah on his Father's Demise; and as such, ought to have been wholly delivered up to him; but the Begum refused to give up any Thing until coercive Measures were threatened, and then she consented only to the Payment of Thirty out of One hundred and seventy Lacks, which Mr. Bristow declared, that, on the most moderate Computation, she possessed; and making a Merit even of this Condescension, she was suffered to demand, and actually to exact, from the Nabob, an Encrease of Jagheers to Ten

(a) Vide Appendix, N° XXIV.

Times the Amount of the Income which had been settled upon the Old Begum by her deceased Son, Shujah ul Dowla, for the Maintenance of herself and the numerous Family and Dependants of her late Husband, Sufdur Jung. The Agreement thus entered into between the Nabob and his Mother, was ratified by Mr. Bristow, without any Authority; but as the Urgency of the Case rendered it necessary, the Board approved the Ratification. The Board, I have said, approved of it, and I was a Member of the Board, but I was an inefficient Member of it; the Whole of this Transaction having passed under the Order and Guidance of the Majority of the Board, which excluded me from any Share in their Acts, equally in such as I approved and in such as I disapproved. It will appear from the preceding Reasoning, that I approved of the Nabob's Assertion of his own Right, to re-claim the Treasures of his Inheritance.

"It is not true, that the Women and Children of the late Nabob were left, or intended to be left, dependant on the Bow Begum. They were separately provided for; and though, from the Failure of the Fund assigned for their Maintenance, they were too often subjected to great Inconvenience, they never experienced any Acts of Benevolence from the Begum, beyond an occasional Donation of a few Rupees to the Children, when she condescended, which was indeed very seldom, to permit them to wait upon her. Neither is it true, that the Jagheers were left the Begum by the late Nabob. At the Time of his Death, the Districts which afterwards constituted the Jagheer, were held by the Begum on the Footing of a Farm, under the Name and Management of Jowar Ally Cawn, with whom the Accounts of the same were annually adjusted at the Khalla. To the present Nabob therefore she was indebted for the principal Part of her Jagheers (a)."

Read, Extract from the printed Paper, called "The Second Defence of Mr. Hastings," Page 4, Paragraph the last.

"Begums are the Ladies of an Eastern Prince. But these Women are also styled, The Ladies of the late Vizier: Their Sufferings are painted in strong Colours; and the unsuspecting Reader is led to mix the Subjects together, and to suppose that these too were Princesses of Oude, since the Title prefixed to this Article of the Charge proposes that, and no other Subject; and that all their Sufferings proceeded from some Act of mine, or had the Sanction of my Authority or Permission. The Fact is, that the Persons of the Khôrd Mahl (or Little Seraglio) were young Creatures picked up, wherever Youth and Beauty could be found, and mostly purchased from the most necessitous and meanest Ranks of the People, for the Nabob's Pleasures." (b)

Then the Managers for the Commons said, they would next read a Passage from the Answer of the Defendant, delivered in at the Bar of the House of Lords, in which he doubts whether there were any Children at all.

Read, the following Extract from the Copy printed by Order of the House, Page 18.

"But he says, that the said Women, who were mostly Persons of low Condition, and the said Children, if any such there were, lived in the Khourd Mahl, on an Establishment entirely distinct from the said Begums (c)."

Then Nathaniel Middleton Esquire was called in, and sworn.

Then the Managers for the Commons acquainted the House, that, previous to their putting any Question to the Witnesses, they thought it right to state the Claim they had to the particular Indulgence of the House with respect to the Mode of Examination they might find it necessary to pursue, from the Situation in which Mr. Hastings himself considered some of the Witnesses they should call, to stand towards him. For which Purpose, they would read Two or Three Passages from the Defence of Mr. Hastings, delivered at the Bar of the House of Commons.

Read, accordingly, the following Extract from Page 5 of the Manuscript Defence.

"If this Honourable House is desirous of knowing in what Estimation I stood with the Princes and Rulers of India, and with the Subjects of our own Dominion, the Opinions of both may be easily obtained by Enquiry of the Witnesses whom my Prosecutor has called to establish his Charges against me; and I will anticipate their Evidence. It will state, that my political Conduct was invariably regulated by Truth, Justice, and good Faith; that all Persuasions of Men were impressed with a superstitious Belief, that a fortunate Influence directed all my Actions to their destined Ends; and that my Departure was scarcely less regretted by the Inhabitants of the Provinces of my late Dependency, than it was by my own Countrymen. I believe this Honourable House is in Possession of One Testimony of the former, in the Letters which Mahdajee Sindia wrote to his most Gracious Majesty, and to the Company (a)."

Read, also, from the same Paper, Page 210.

" Preface to the Fourth Charge.

" Before I proceed to reply to the Charges respecting my Conduct to the Begums, and on the Affairs of Oude, I must observe that they contain Particulars, of which I was totally ignorant until I read them in the Charges. I am therefore very much indebted to the Assistance of Mr. Middleton, and to the Information of Gentlemen who were in Oude when the Transactions alluded to happened. By these Aids, I have been enabled to reply fully to these Charges, and every Assertion in my Reply is capable of Proof, either by Documents, now before this Honourable House, or by Evidence ready to be produced at its Bar." (b)

Read, also, from the same Paper, Page 460.

" The Testimony of Colonel Hannay cannot now be had; but his Explanation to Mr. Middleton of the Motives of his Conduct to the Begums and their Agents, at that critical Conjunction of his own and the national Affairs, that Gentleman will be ready at any Time to certify on Oath, and the Evidence of Captain Gordon may possibly throw further Light upon the Subject." (c)

Then the Witness was asked,

Q. What Part of Mr. Hastings' Defence did you compose?

A. I do not know that I composed any Part of it. I furnished Major Scott with some Memoranda respecting the Begums of Oude.

Q. Have you been present at any Consultation with the Counsel for Mr. Hastings, or with the Attorneys employed in his Cause?

A. I have been occasionally with Mr. Hastings' Counsel.

Q. Upon Matters relating to this Cause?

A. Not expressly; but Matters relating to this Impeachment have occasionally risen in Conversation.

Q. Be a little more explicit upon that Subject. My Question is, Whether you have not been at Meetings where the chief Object was the Conduct and Management of this Cause, and that the only Object that was discussed?

A. I do not recollect I have.

Q. Were the Counsel Acquaintances of yours; did you know them previous to the Commencement of this Impeachment?

A. I did not.

Q. Where were the Meetings, at which you were present, held?

A. I have been at Drapers Hall, when the Counsel have been assembled there.

Q. At whose House, or Office, at Draper's Hall?

A. At the Office of Mr. Smith.

Q. Who is Mr. Smith?

A. I understand him to be Mr. Hastings' Solicitor.

Q. (Cross examined.) Whether, upon your Application to the Counsel of Mr. Hastings, they did not absolutely refuse to give you their Advice, and acquaint you, that if you wished for Advice, you must go to some other Counsel for it?

A. They did.

Q. Whether you came, in consequence of any Summons, to meet the Counsel of Mr. Hastings at any Consultation, or to meet Mr. Scott, or any other Person?

A. I came accidentally there.

Q. Whether the Counsel for Mr. Hastings did not specially recommend it to you, to apply to some Body else, to some other Counsel, for Advice?

A. They did.

Q. Did you advise with any other Counsel?

A. I did.

(a) Vide supra, Page 18, Line 20.

(b) Vide supra, P. 413.

(c) Vide supra, Page 418, Par. 2d.

Q. (by the Managers.) How many Times have you accidentally called upon Mr. Smith?

A. I cannot say exactly; I was there several Times.

Q. Do you mean to have it understood, that your being there all the Times which you were there was, each Time, accidentally, or that you came there, with a View to give any Information you could?

A. I have gone there, I think, with Major Scott Two or Three Times.

Q. Was that accidentally, or was it for the Purpose of giving Assistance or Information, upon this Matter?

A. I came there for the Purpose of giving any Assistance I might be enabled to give.

Q. (By the Counsel.) Did you go there for the Purpose of being examined, so as to enable the Defendant to know what Evidence you could give, if called upon in this Cause?

A. I apprehend they did wish to know what Evidence I could give; I don't know——(Interrupted).

Q. You said, you apprehended they did wish to know, what Evidence you could give; and you was going on to say, "I don't know——:" What was the Rest of your Answer?

A. I cannot say they expressed that to me.

Q. Whether you have not attended Meetings of the Managers of the House of Commons for the same Purpose of furnishing them with Evidence?

A. Yes.

Q. You were summoned there?

A. I was summoned there.

Q. (by the Managers.) When you was summoned by Order of that Committee, whether you answered the Questions put to you by the Committee?

A. Some I answered, and some I objected to.

Q. By whose Advice did you refuse to answer the Secret Committee, employed to examine you?

A. I conceived the Questions tended to criminate myself; and I took Advice upon that Subject; finding they did so, I conceived myself justified in refusing to answer them.

Q. Did you communicate any of the Questions which you refused to answer, to Mr. Hastings, or Major Scott, or any of his Counsel or Attornies?

A. Very possibly I might; I communicated them to every Body I had any Communication with.

The Managers for the Commons stated, that they did not wish to press this Examination further.

The Counsel for the Defendant stated, that, as the Managers for the Commons had gone into the Manner in which the Witness was examined and treated, upon the Part of the Defendant, they would go into the Manner of his Examination and Treatment, upon the Part of the Prosecutors: They wished therefore to know of the Witness,

Q. Whether he was not threatened by the Managers, if he did not answer the Questions specifically put to him; and if he refused to answer?

A. A Language of a threatening Nature was certainly used.

Q. Relate the Whole of what passed at that Time. In what Manner was you treated?

A. I was examined by different Members of the Honourable Committee, and told that I must answer the Questions: That they had a Right to put those Questions to me, and they insisted I should answer them.

Q. Do you know of any debate taking Place, in which you were turned out of the Room of the Committee, and Mr. Francis and the Clerk staid in the Room, while they were deliberating upon the Subject.

A. I was turned out of the Room repeatedly.

Q. Were Mr. Francis and the Clerk left in?

A. To the best of my Recollection, Mr. Francis was; the Clerks, I believe, were turned out.

Q. In what Manner was you treated: What particular Threats were employed, to induce you to give the Answers proposed. Have you any other Answer to give than you have given before to the Question asked, in what Manner you was treated?

A. I cannot recollect exactly the Language that was used; but I conceived it to be of a threatening Nature. I was ordered not to leave Town till I had been apprised of what their Determination was.

Q. Did you desire to be permitted to take Notes of what passed, or to see the Notes taken in the Committee?

A. I did desire to have a Copy of the Examinations.

Q. Was you permitted to have, or take, a Copy of them?

A. No.

Then the Managers for the Commons acquainted the House, that the Purpose for which they now called the Witness was, to examine him respecting the Treaty of Fyzabad.

Q. Do you recollect going to Fyzabad in the Year 1778?

A. I do; I believe it was about that Time.

Q. Do you remember what Time of the Year it was?

A. I cannot recollect that.

Q. Was it in January?

A. It was in the Beginning of the Year.

Q. Had you any Conversation with the Elder Begum at that Time?

A. I had.

Q. What was the Subject of that Communication?

A. I went for the Purpose of reconciling the Difference between her and the Nabob, which was the Subject of the Negotiation between us.

Q. Do you recollect to have received a Paper of Requests from the Begum, and to have transmitted it with your Remarks to the Council at Calcutta?

A. I have a Recollection of such a Paper, which I believe I transmitted to Calcutta.

Q. Did those Remarks contain Statements relative to Matters which you knew to be true, or which you had sufficient Reason to believe to be true?

A. My Information was drawn from the best Sources I could come at; and I did suppose that they were true.

Q. That is, the Statements in the Paper of Requests, which you afterwards communicated to the Government of Calcutta?

A. Yes.

Q. At what Time did you execute the Guarantee to the Elder Begum, or did you execute any Guarantee to her?

A. I do not recollect that I executed any Guarantee.

Q. Do you or not recollect to have affixed your Seal and Signature to a Paper concluding with these Words: " The English are Guarantees as long as the Begums shall exist?"

The Witness was shewn a Paper.

Then the Witness was asked,

Q. You have looked at that Paper: Was it executed by you; do you remember?

A. I believe it was.

The Managers for the Commons acquainted the House, that upon this Part of the Case they had no further Questions to ask the Witness.

The Counsel for the Defendant stated, that, as they understood the Managers for the Commons meant to call the Witness again, they should follow their Example, and confine themselves, for the Present, to such Questions as related to this Transaction only.

Q. Had you any Authority from the Board, or from Mr. Hastings individually, to execute that Agreement; that is, previous to your executing it?

A. I had none; no Authority: The Object of my Journey to Lucknow was, to reconcile the Difference which had unfortunately arisen between the Nabob and his Grandmother.

Q. Had you any Instructions?

A. No; I had no Instructions for executing such Treaty; but I conceived it to be a Part of my official Duty, to reconcile the Difference between the Begum and the Nabob.

Q. Your Answer has been taken thus — That you had no Instructions for executing any such Treaty; but you conceived it to be a Part of your Duty to reconcile the Difference between the Begum and the Nabob?

A. To satisfy the Begum; to induce her to stay until I could have a Conversation with the Nabob upon the Subject. The Agreement I did execute with her I considered as conditional: It was an Obligation upon me to use every Means in my Power to obtain a Treaty; and so far I engaged with her.

Q. Whether in the Treaty you guaranteed with Fyzoola Cawn, you did not in that Instance receive the previous Authority of the Board? How do you describe that Treaty; was it a Guarantee of a Treaty in 1778?

A. Yes.

Q. With Fyzoola Cawn?

A. Yes.

Q. Had you any previous Authority for executing the Treaty in 1778 with Fyzoola Cawn?

A. I do not recollect there was any Treaty executed. It was a Guarantee upon the Part of the Company; for which I had a previous Authority from the Company.

Q. Whether you succeeded in obtaining that Treaty from the Nabob, which you promised the Nabob's Grandmother, the Elder Begum, you would procure from the Nabob for her Benefit?

A. To the best of my Recollection, I did not: The Nabob refused to sanctify the Agreement I had made; to the best of my Recollection.

Q. The Treaty we are now speaking of, is that which has just been read from the Minutes: (a) That Treaty, according to the Description of it, purports to be executed by the Nabob and by you, Mr. Middleton; and I understand you to say, that you executed that Treaty: Is it so?

A. An Agreement for a Treaty.

Then a Paper was shewn to the Witness, and he was asked;

Q. Did you ever transmit this Paper to the Board; which purports to be a Treaty, or an Agreement, or whatever Name it is to bear?

A. I do not recollect that I did: If I did, it will appear.

Q. Did you ever transmit it individually to Mr. Hastings, if you did not transmit it to the Board?

A. I believe I did not.

The Managers for the Commons acquainted the House, That, to save Time, they were ready to admit, the Witness did not transmit the Treaty; and they did not ask him the Question, as it might tend to criminate himself. That he had said, "he thought it was his Duty to do what he did, and that he had executed it." The Fact was, that he executed this Treaty by Mr. Hastings's private Orders, but withheld it from the Board: Of which there would be abundant Proof, when they came to shew, that in the Year 1780, Mr. Purling transmitted Copies of this Paper, which he found at Lucknow.

The Counsel for the Defendant stated, that it having been insinuated by the Managers for the Commons, that the Agreement was executed by the express previous Authority of Mr. Hastings, they desired the Question to be put to the Witness,

Q. Whether he had, or had not, any previous Authority, either from the Board, or Mr. Hastings, from entering into that Agreement or Treaty?

A. None.

Q. The Witness has stated, it was an Agreement for a Treaty he was afterwards to procure from the Nabob and the Board; I wish him to refresh his Memory, and to say, whether that is what it purports to be, or whether it begins, "I agree upon my Return to procure, &c."

(A Paper was then produced and shewn to the Witness) and he was asked;

Q. Is that the Paper you have been speaking of?

A. No: This is not the Paper.

The Managers for the Commons were asked, where the Paper was they had shewn the Witness before.

The Managers for the Commons answered, that the Paper they shewed him before was in a printed Book; but they had now found the Company's Record, from which it would appear that it was guaranteed by the Witness, and executed by the Nabob.

Then another Paper was produced, and shewn to the Witness, who said;

This is the Treaty.

Then the Witness read the Titles as follow:

"Copy of an Agreement under the Seal and Signature of Mr. Middleton, to all the Particulars of which he engages to procure a Treaty from the Nabob Assuph ul Dowlah and after his Arrival, that he will also sign it."

“ Copy of an Engagement under the Seal of the Nabob Asoph ul Dowlah, and under the Seal and Signature in English of Mr. Middleton.

Q. Those are the Two Papers you were speaking of: What are the Dates?

A. There are no Dates.—I have an Observation to make, if your Lordships will permit me. This Second Paper, the Translation, appears to be only a Form; whether he executed it or not is very doubtful: It seems to be a Draft of a Treaty; I believe he did not.

Q. If I understand you, you say, it seems to be a Form intended for Execution; but you don't know that it was executed?

A. I do not know that it was; I rather believe it was not.

Q. If it had been executed, should you not in Course have transmitted it to Calcutta?

A. Undoubtedly: It would have been my Duty so to have done.

Q. (by the Managers.) Whether you always did transmit all Papers to the Council which it was your Duty to transmit?

A. I hope your Lordships will excuse my answering that Question, as it may tend to criminate myself.

The Managers for the Commons stated, They understood the Witness, at first, to say, That he did sign the Agreement or Treaty himself; and now he says, the Treaty was not signed. They wished, therefore, that he might be asked, whether he did not now refer to the Treaty supposed to have been executed by the Nabob?

The Witness was asked;

Q. Whether you do not recollect signing your own Part of the Treaty?

A. That conditional Treaty I undoubtedly did sign, as far as I can recollect; it would not otherwise have been satisfactory to the Begum.

Q. The second Part of the Treaty, which was to go with the Treaty when executed by the Nabob; do you mean to say, you did not execute that? — The last you looked at in the Book; stated to be under your Signature and Seal?

A. It seems to me the same Paper; a Continuation of the same Paper.

Q. Did you sign that Paper, or any Part of it?

A. I did.

Q. (from the Managers.) We want to identify, that this second Paper is the Part the Nabob was to sign: If the Evidence is correct, he (the Witness) signed it, and not the Nabob?

The House directed the Whole of the Paper to be read.

The Witness produced Book 26, already delivered in.

Read, the following Extract, beginning at Page 254 of the same Book.

Then the Witness was asked ;

Q. What is the Manner of the Nabob executing a Treaty, or any other Instrument ?

A. His Seal is affixed to it.

Q. Then, do you mean to say, there was no Seal affixed to this Treaty by the Nabob ?

A. I do not know there was.

Q. Was your Name ever put to that Instrument ?

A. This is a Translate ; no Doubt my Name was put to the original Persian Paper.

Q. Was it put to the First or Second Paper?

A. I don't recollect.

The House observed, there was One Part which Part purported to be a Treaty executed; and the Witness had been asked, whether he enough recollected it, to say, whether his Name was put to the Bottom of that Paper.

The Managers for the Commons stated, that the Witness had said he put his Name to the First Paper, which was a Proposal to obtain a Treaty; and they wished to know, whether he put it to the Second Paper.

Before the Answer to this Question was taken down, the Witness was directed to recollect himself:

Then the Witness was asked,

Q. What did you say concerning the Second Paper?

A. All I recollect is, that the first was a Conditional Paper, in which I was engaged to procure a Treaty in that Form: And I have no Recollection of the Second Paper.

Q. What was the Paper which you said you have no Recollection of?

A. The Second Paper, which purports to be a Treaty executed by the Nabob and myself, I have no Recollection of.

The last Question and Answer were read by the Clerk:—And then the Whole of the Evidence given by the Witness this Day was read by the Clerk.

Then the following Question was put to the Witness:

Q. Whether, upon your Recollection, you mean to say, that the Second Paper was a Draught of the Treaty; or, whether it was a Part of the same Paper which you admit to have signed and executed?

Q. (from a Lord.) Before the Answer to that Question is taken down, I wish the Witness to be asked, whether he is apprised that there are Variations between the one Paper and the other?

A. No; I have not observed them.

Q. Let him consider it a Moment, and look at it; as it struck me that less is granted by the Second than is stipulated by the First. Have you compared the Treaties?

A. I have.

Q. Do you still continue to say, according to your Memory, that the last Treaty was not actually executed, but was intended to be a Form to be executed?

A. That was the Impression upon my Mind;—it is a great many Years ago;—but I cannot be positive whether I am right or not.

Q. In what Sense do you use the Words, that the Second Paper was a Part of the First, as there are Variations between them?

A. It seems to me to be the Form of the Treaty which the Nabob was to execute; which Treaty I engaged with the Begum to procure from the Nabob.

Q. Have you, or have you not, any Recollection how that Treaty, prepared by you, or somebody else, for the Nabob's Execution, came to be different from that which you engaged to prevail upon the Nabob to execute?

A. I have no Recollection whatever of that.

Q. (from a Lord.) Do I understand you to say this; That what you call the First Part of the Paper, was an Engagement for a Treaty; and that the Second Part of the Paper was added to that First Part, as it were a Form of that Treaty to be executed: If that is what you mean to say, I then wish to know, whether, if it shall appear by the Book that there is a Variation in the Substance and Sense of the Two, you mean to say, the First was added to the Second with that View? Was it added upon the same Paper, or in what manner?

A. Upon the same Paper, as far as I recollect.

Q. If there were substantial Variations, do you suppose that they were added?

A. I suppose it to have been the Form of the Treaty at the Foot of the Agreement; I cannot account for the Variations.

Q. Do you think now, it could be a Draft of the Agreement which you had undertaken to procure from the Nabob, considering there is so capital a Variation, as a flat Refusal to that which you agree to obtain: Do you know any Reason for that Variation?

A. No; I do not.

Q. Explain how a Treaty, with such a Variation as that, could be deemed the Treaty you had engaged to procure the Nabob to execute?

A. The First Part I recollect perfectly well, the Conditional Part: I have no Recollection whatever of the Second Part; and I take it for granted, it was the Form of the Treaty that was to be executed by the Nabob.

Q. Have you any Recollection of the Distance of Time between your executing the First, and your drawing out the Second; between the subsequent Paper being added to the former Paper?

A. I cannot speak to that: I suppose it was upon that Paper at the Time the Conditional Agreement was delivered to the Begum; at the Time I delivered that Conditional Agreement to her.

Q. To the Begum?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you suppose the Treaty was upon the Conditional Agreement you delivered to the Begum?

A. Yes; I should suppose it was.

Q. Tell me if I understand you right. The Question was; Whether there was any Distance of Time, which you can recollect, between the subsequent Paper, the Treaty with the Nabob, being added to the former Paper, and the Execution of that former Paper. I understand you to say, you suppose it was upon the Paper at the Time the Conditional Agreement was delivered to the Begum?

A. Yes.

Q. (from a Lord.) I understand you to have said, that the express Purpose, or a considerable Part of the Motive, for which you was sent to Fyzabad, was to settle the Difference between the Nabob and the Begum?

A. Yes.

Q. From whom had you Instructions?

A. I had no Instructions.

Q. By whom was you sent?

A. I went of my own Accord; and my Reason for doing so was, that the Begum had announced her Intention of setting out from Delhi, to quit the Nabob's Dominions altogether. I went to Lucknow myself; the Nabob was absent upon a Hunting Party at a considerable Distance from the Capital, and I did conceive there was Time enough to apply to him so as to prevent the Begum from setting out.

Q. Did you state to the Begum that that was the Object of your Journey to Fyzabad?

A. No doubt I did; for it was the only Object of my Journey to Fyzabad.

Q. Did you state to the Begum that this was a Journey undertaken of your own Accord, without any particular Instructions from the Government at Calcutta?

A. I cannot venture to say that I did; but it is most probable that I did.

Q. I understand you to say, that the Begum would not have been satisfied unless your Signature had been put to this Treaty; to the Promise to her?

A. I conceive she would not.

Q. Do you suppose her Satisfaction would have been compleat, if she had thought you went up merely as an Individual, or if she had not thought you were invested with the Powers of the English Government?

A. I conceive it would at least have satisfied her for a Time. My Agreement with her was only, that I would use my Influence to obtain Terms with the Nabob; if it was ineffectual, she still was at Liberty to have left the Nabob's Country, as she intended before.

Q. You have not answered my Question. My Question was not, whether she would have been satisfied with you as Mr. Middleton; but whether she would have been satisfied if she had not thought you acted under the Authority, and as Agent of the English Government?

A. I do not apprehend she could have considered me as acting by the Authority of the Government.

Q. Whether you considered the Paper as one Paper or two Papers. Were they transmitted to Calcutta. Was there any Guarantee returned from you to the Governor and Council at Calcutta?

A. No, there was not.

Then the Managers for the Commons desired a Letter of the 18th of March 1778, from Mr. Hastings to the Bhow Begum, might be read.

The same was read from Book 90, intituled, " Bengal Public Persian Correspondence," already delivered in; beginning at Page 16 of the same Book.

" To

" To the Bhow Begum."
